Isaiah 49:12. Truly wonderful is the work being done here in China by God and also through His own: Chinese, missionaries and others. Just last night a Mr. Jackson of the China Inland Mission came from Hankow and reported the marvelous opening up of God's work. High officials are getting deeply interested in God's word. The Religious Tract Society and other such organizations are unable to supply the general, ever increasing demands for Bibles. Marshal Feng Yu Hsiang is coming back to his former spirituality and is donating Bibles to officials. One Chinese gentleman has given $3000 dollars for the purchase and printing of Bibles. Generalissimo Chiang and Madame Chiang spend an hour each day in Bible study. They have read the Bible through and have requested Bishop Roots for a suggestion of a Bible Study Book, which would lead them deeper into their spiritual life. One former communist responsible for the killing of missionaries would not eat a meal in the home of a missionary until he had made confession and received forgiveness for the great wrong he had done the church. And he said, I am changing my idea about Christianity.

Missionaries laboring among the soldiers near the front are reporting that thousands of soldiers, standing in open fields, eagerly listen to the message of Scripture and call for Bibles. Churches are crowded to capacity and many are received into the church. Wounded soldiers, formerly so hostile and rude and unruly, gratefully receive the care and listen appreciatively to the Gospel Message. I have before me a write-up of a radio-message given by Dr. Chester Mieo. When I read it, I was deeply touched and greatly encouraged and thrilled to join again the ranks of those in hard places.

Madame Chiang Kai Shek speaking to the Wuhan Missionary Prayer Meeting on April 6, both for herself and for the Generalissimo, said: "You know how missionaries have succoured the wounded, helped our refugees, faced the bayonets, cannons and bombs, and have stood their ground. The Generalissimo and I feel that no word which we could speak could sufficiently express our debt of gratitude to the missionary body all over China who have been a help to the distressed and the best of friends to the hundreds of thousands of refugees." At the end of the address Madame Chiang announced that, because of the changed attitude of many people who had been suspicious of the Christian faith, the law wound be amended so that the Bible might be taught in registered Christian schools.

The typhoon which raged along the coast has abated. Hongkong was at the edge of it and the ships in the wharves had to go out into the harbor for safety, and so could not load and unload. They came into docks again and we will leave at midnight. We were supposed to leave this morning at daybreak, but on account of the typhoon were delayed.

Kindly announce in the church papers that my address after this will be in care of American Consul, Tientsin until further notice.—With Christian Greetings, Aganetha Fast.

Christian Education

IV. OUR WANDERING SHEEP!

J. D. Unruh

Two valuable reports recently published bring to light very interesting facts. In Christian Education (Oct. 1937) is a report on the religious preferences of students in American Colleges and Universities for the 1936-37 school year. According to the report there were 1,335 Mennonite students. According to the Mennonite Quarterly Review (Jan. 1938) our various Mennonite institutions of collegiate rank had 822 Mennonite students for the same year. Apparently then, there were 513 Mennonite students who attended other than Mennonite schools last year. Or, to put it in another way, our Mennonite Colleges enrolled only about 61 percent of the Mennonite students who were in college last year—39 percent were attending other than Mennonite schools.

Granting that some of these students attended other schools because of proximity and economic reasons, granting too that some were interested primarily in special courses (technical) and for that reason went elsewhere, it does appear that our colleges should have had better than 61 percent of the students.

Upon inquiry the writer learned that during the 1937-1938 school year the following Bible schools reported Mennonite students in attendance: (number in each case follows)

Los Angeles Bible Institute	45
Northwestern Bible Institute	43
Moody Bible Institute	42
St. Paul Bible Institute	7
Total	137

These two sets of figures strikingly testify to the need of greater denominational loyalty in our circles. After all is said and done only on a Mennonite campus can the rich heritage and splendid ideals of our people permeate the atmosphere.

TRUE RELIGION MUST PERMEATE EDUCATION

D. H. Richert

"We may question whether any individual can be rated as truly educated who has not received instruction in the history and literature of religion."

"Modern scientists have discovered that there exists a small quantity of ozone in the air, and in this ozone regulates the ultra-violet light, which in a mysterious way is necessary to the sustenance of our bones. Without this all children would have rickets and human skeletons would crumble. Religion has supplied, and continues to supply a mysterious moral element in human life without which men and women lose their ability to distinguish between right and wrong and to make wise moral choices, thereby becoming morally invertebrate.

It is of paramount importance that there should permeate our whole educational process reverence for and knowledge of religion."

"If not the major consideration, at least one of the prime considerations is the personnel and spirit of the faculty. Are our faculties such as to give assurance to our constituency? Knowledge can only be united to vital piety in personality. No set of by-laws, nor formula of objectives printed in the catalogue, can atone for a teacher whose attitude toward the Church or religion is one of scorn or unconcern, or whose philosophy of life is not in harmony with Christian ethics or the Christian faith. Neither the zeal of the head of a department for a certain type of teacher from a certain institution, nor the fear of associations or agencies should move us to consent either to employ or retain a teacher whose deficiency at this point is known to the campus and the outside world. Without trace of narrowness and bigotry, we should strive to secure men and women on our faculties who will minister to an intelligent Christian faith. The personality and view-point of the teacher is set forth in the words of President Coffman: 'One may teach the multiplication table so that his students be saints or sinners.' "—Christian Education.

—Cloudy days often times cause people to get gloomy, but sunny days bring cheerfulness and joy. Cloudy Christians, or those who never let the joy of salvation radiate to the outside, will never cause the unbeliever to turn to Christ and praise God. We should therefore not keep God's sunshine to ourselves or for our select group, but spread it for tne benefit of men and to the glory of God.—Olin Krehbiel in "Church Messenger."

5. JESUS AND MONEY

It is a great surprise to many people to learn that Jesus had much to say on the subject of money or property.

Ministers today are often criticized for mentioning money in the pulpit. Yet this was the theme, or in some way entered into the majority of the sermons and addresses of Jesus.

It is asserted that one verse of every six in Matthew, Mark, and Luke is on this subject. Sixteen of Jesus' thirty-eight parables deal with the right or wrong use of money.

If you should take your Bible and place a silver star beside every passage that deals with this theme, you would have a "Milky Way" from Genesis to Revelation, with the galaxy most multitudinous about the "Star of Bethlehem."—John G. Alber.

6. SPIRITUALITY AND MONEY

Someone has well said, "The money that belongs by every right to God but is kept back from Him by His people, is probably the greatest hindrance to vital spirituality that there is in the world today."

To cheat a man out of a dollar is to rob him of more than a dollar. It robs him of your friendship. The same principle holds true in our relation with God.

A restaurant man put up a sign, "Meals Cash. We trusted a friend. He failed to pay. We lost both the price of the meal and the friend." God frequently loses not only the amount that is due Him, but the man.

We hear much these days about when the church gets right with God spiritually there will be no trouble about the money. The Scriptures teach that the reverse is true. You cannot get right with God spiritually unless you are right with Him financially. If you don't believe this, try it on your next-door neighbor.—John G. Alber.

"My meat is to do the will of Him that sent me." John 4:34.—What a depth of meaning, what a wealth of suggestions in this statement! It was love that prompted God to send his Son to save the world. It was love for fallen humanity and obedience to the divine will that induced Jesus to offer himself as a sacrifice. Here in a nutshell is expressed the secret of a victorious Christian life. Jesus conquered death, grave, hell, Satan, because He obeyed the Father. Only as we follow in His steps, seek His will, His glory, will our life be a success. If we seek our own will and way, we will likely experience disappointment, sorrow, distress. What a beautiful figure, my meat, my food, my nurture, my thought—daily, hourly, every minute, every heart beat—is to do the will of God. Would not that make a follower of Christ supremely happy?

Rev. Abraham H. Unruh, Doctor of Divinity. Has devoted his life to the service of the church and God, principally through Christian education. Was for a number of years a prominent leader in the Mennonite schools of southern Russia. In America, since 1925, he is doing a most valuable piece of work as principal and teacher of Pniel Bible School, at Winkler, Manitoba, at great sacrifice. He is editor of the M. B. Sunday school quarterly and president of their conference. "I am very happy to present the Reverend Abraham H. Unruh for the honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity . . . a brilliant scholar, a beloved teacher, and a devoted minister of the Gospel of Jesus Christ."—Dr. John E. Linscheid.

Rev. David Toews, Doctor of Divinity. Has spent his active life unselfishly serving his fellow-men, as a teacher for some years, as principal and member of the Board of Directors of the German-English Mennonite Academy at Rosthern, Saskatchewan, as pastor of the large Rosenort Mennonite Church since 1902; as secretary and chairman of the Canadian Mennonite General Conference. As chairman of the Canadian Mennonite Board of Colonization, he was the directing head in the huge task of bringing 21,000 persecuted Mennonites from Russia to Canada and in getting them settled there. Since 1924 he is a member of the Home Mission Board. "All the services of this educator, religious leader, organizer and colonizer were motivated by the cardinal virtues of faith, hope and charity. I herewith present the Reverend David Toews for the honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity."
—Dr. A. P. Friesen.

Governor Walter A. Huxman, Doctor of Laws.—The son of God-fearing, industrious Mennonite parents, immigrants from Russia. Taught school for five years, worked his way through the University of Kansas, became a lawyer, and as such has maintained successful practice in Hutchinson, Kansas, since 1914. Has served his fellow citizens as city and county attorney, and member of the State legislature. In the fall of 1936 he was elected governor of the State, the first man of Mennonite heritage to be thus honored. "As a member of the faculty of a Mennonite college, it is a peculiar honor for me to present . . . a man who has won the esteem of his fellow-citizens as an educator, legal advisor, statesman, citizen, friend—the Honorable Walter A. Huxman, Governor of the State of Kansas, for the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws."
—Dr. E. L. Harshbarger.

Reverend Peter H. Richert, Doctor of Divinity. Has devoted his life unsparingly to the Christian ministry and the cause of Christian welfare and education. Was ordained as evangelist in 1886, and since 1898 has been the beloved and successful pastor of the Tabor Church, R.F.D., Newton, Kansas. He has been a rural teacher and for fifteen years instructor in the Bethel Academy; is much in demand as speaker on festive occasions; served as president of the Western District Conference and for many years on the Bethel College Board of Directors, part-time as its chairman. Since 1911 he has been the efficient secretary of the Board of Foreign Missions. Untiring, unselfish devotion to the Lord's work has characterized his whole career. "It is with pleasure that I present the Reverend Peter H. Richert, teacher, pastor, missionary, leader, friend of Christian education for the honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity."
—Prof. A. E. Kreider.

The Strong Man

Heb. 11:34

A strong man is never so dangerous as he is the day after defeat, and a weak man is never so vulnerable as he is the day after success.

A strong man is usually more dangerous after his death than he was when alive. A strong man never allows defeat to mean defeat. Defeat for a strong man is but an inspiration, an invitation, to undertake again. In fact, the strong man never knows defeat; he knows only PURPOSE, and in one way or another, in life or in death, that purpose will mature.

St. Paul was a stronger man dead than he was alive. The great prophets have all been stronger men since their death than before. John Huss proved more dangerous to the Roman Church in ashes, 500 years ago, and since, than he did in the lecture room in the University of Prague.

Certainly Jesus on the cross was more dangerous to Caesar and the Roman Empire than He could have been preaching in the little synagogue in Nazareth. Jesus outlived Caesar because He first outdied him. St. Paul outlived Nero because he first outdied Nero.

A weak man may succeed, he may make a "hit" today, but his success today means only his downfall tomorrow. But a strong man, meeting defeat today, goes on to victory tomorrow. Men of olden times "out of weakness", through defeat, have been made strong. It is always dangerous to defeat a strong man of God.—J. E. Hartzler, Hartford Seminary.

JOSHUA: A CHOICE OF LOYALTIES

Joshua 1:2-6; 24:14-21

Introduction

Our lessons for this quarter will bring us a series of messages from Israel's early leaders. The aim will be, through a study of the success and failure in the lives of some of these, to find guidance and enrichment for our present-day living and inspiration for a closer walk with God.

God's Promise and Charge vs. 2-6

God is speaking to Joshua, the son of Nun, who was born in Egypt, of the tribe of Ephraim. He had been Moses' right hand man through the wilderness journey and now has been called by God to be his successor. God now commissions him (v2) to lead Israel over the Jordan into the promised land. The death of a great leader is no reason for giving up a great work. God calls another to take his place. The people must now go forward across the Jordan, at the time of our lesson—spring time—overflowing its banks and running along with uncontrolled force. Jordan's waters appeared angry and impossible and only a miracle could enable the people to cross. God spoke, the people must venture. This call to go forward was the best cure for despondent worry.

God's promise (vs3,4) is an almost exact repetition of that given to Abraham and "his seed forever." From the river Euphrates on the far east, to the Mediterranean on the west the land was promised to them. However, because of their sins, shortcomings and lack of faith, the "soles of their feet" never possessed most of it. God makes many promises which we fail to take and possess. This venture demanded courageous faith and God gave His definite promise of constant help.

Joshua's Plea for Loyalty vs. 14, 15

Joshua led the people across the Jordan and drove out the enemies before them. Now before they go to their allotted sections, he calls the tribes to Shechem (24:1,2) and asks them to renew their solemn covenant of loyalty, devotion and faithful service to God. The people must choose between serving God and false gods. Every person has some god and the responsibility of choice rests on each one. Israel must choose for themselves. Joshua chose definitely for himself and his family (v15).

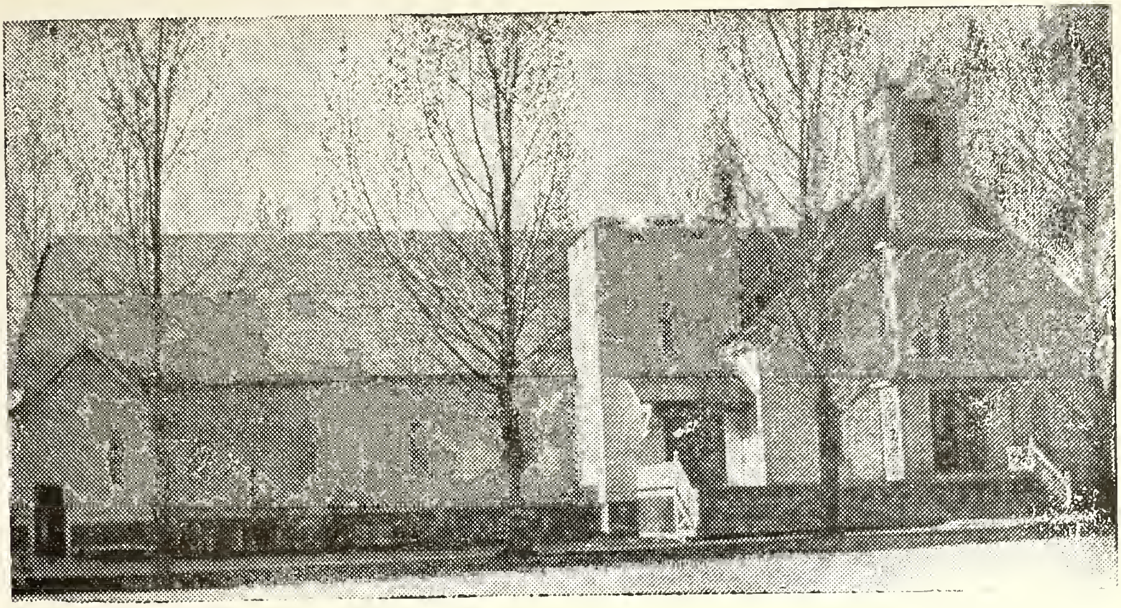
People Declare Loyalty vs. 16-21

Doubtless they were sincere at the time, and they served God, but the next generation began to wander. They acknowledge God's goodness to them (v17, 18) they saw the logic of Joshua's attitude toward God and declared that they "also" would serve Him. The force of Joshua's position is rejected by the many today.

Joshua warns them (vs19,20) for he knew how lightly such an earnest resolve can be made. He demands earnest consideration. Surrounded by outnumbering enemies, they would be severely tested and tempted to sin. God would not protect them if they yielded and then their enemies would destroy them. The holy God will not pass over the unrepented sins of His people. We need to heed the warning of Joshua today, lest we falter in our loyalty to God. Israel, after the deliverance from the bondage in Egypt, lost some of her spiritual loyalty to God. We are in danger of losing much of our faith in God in the over-enjoyment of our freedom. We need a Joshua to keep us from reacting into bondage through unchristian choices.

—Prof. E. J. Hirschler of Bluffton College has been very ill in the Memorial Hospital at Lima, Ohio, while the Middle District Conference where he was to preside as chairman, was in session at Trenton, Ohio. We understand that the good brother's condition is somewhat improved. We hope that the many intercessory prayers by friends may help to restore him to better health.

Dedication of the First Mennonite Church of Aberdeen, Idaho



In the presence of some 600 people this church was dedicated Sunday afternoon, June 5. The rich and very fitting program of addresses was interspersed with splendid music rendered by mixed and ladies' choruses and the church's male quartette. Rev. Edgar Toevs brought the first message, basing his thoughts on "Reasons for Gratitude." Those stressed were: The rich heritage of our forefathers, many of whom have passed to the Great Beyond. This building stands as a memorial to them. The freedom of worship without disturbance and the splendid spirit of unity that prevailed throughout the building of this sanctuary. Rev. P. A. Wedel, pastor of the church, gave the dedicatory sermon on I Kings 9:3-6. The Lord has heard our prayers and supplications. Man can dedicate the house of worship, but God alone can hallow it. To make it a house of God, we must hallow our thoughts and dwell in unity. It must also be a house of prayer, not only to prepare us for eternal life, but for greater service to humanity. There have gone forth from this church: missionaries, pastors, nurses, and superintendents of hospitals. We must come to the altar in faith, where Jesus can be glorified and His cross presented. We must not only dedicate the outer house, but build for a stronger inner church.

The history of the church was read by G. A. Bartel. Some of the main points brought out were as follows: In 1906 the first Sunday School was organized, which met in the different homes, and in 1907 the first church was organized in a school house, with 36 charter members. Rev. Jacob Hege was the first pastor and J. P. Wedel the first deacon, who is still serving in that capacity. In 1910 the First Mennonite Church was built, with Rev. J. B. Baer as pastor, who also dedicated it. The church has now grown to a membership of 320. Then followed three minute talks by John L. Toevs, Supt. H. C. Wiebe and John D. Becker. A fitting climax was the Hallelujah Chorus which was beautifully rendered. After the program the ladies of the church served light refreshments to about five hundred members and guests, in the spacious new basement.

Much of the success and spiritual growth of the church must be attributed to the ever-active and faithful pastor, Rev. P. A. Wedel, who has just completed his second year of service here. May God grant him many more years of useful and joyous service in this large and beautiful house of worship.

VISION

If we could see beyond a present sorrow,
Beyond a present grief, as God can see,
We would be braver, knowing some tomorrow
Will still hold happiness for you and me.

If our blurred eyes could see beyond their weeping,
The sunlit hills that someday we shall climb,
We would be stronger, and we would be keeping
A tryst with Hope through every darkened time.

If we could see beyond a fresh disaster,
The road smoothed out again before our eyes,
We would be calmer, and we would learn faster
The lessons life unfolds to make us wise.

We are so blinded by a moment's grieving,
So hurt by any sorrow, any pain,
That we forget the joys, beyond believing,
The peace that some day will be ours again.

A New German Song Book for the Brethren In Canada

During the past few weeks some of us have received printed lists of "Auswahl und Angabe der Lieder und Strophen fuer das neue, einheitliche Gesangbuch" (Selected List of Songs for the new, unified Songbook). This is the nucleus of a hymnbook which the Mennonite leaders in Canada wish to have published for use in their religious worship. The list comprises the opening lines of 706 hymns and songs. Of these 420 are contained in the "Gesangbuch mit Noten", 369 in the "Russland Gesangbuch," 159 in "dem alten Gesangbuch", 178 in other songbooks.

The desire for such a book was first brought to the attention of the Board of Publication at the conference session in Upland, Calif. through its Canadian member. The Board immediately suggested the use of our "Gesangbuch mit Noten," which has served our churches so well for nearly fifty years, and is still a general favorite with old and young, where worship in German continues.

But the Brother from Canada said, it was not what they wanted. Often the tune was not the accustomed one, or the words and tune not in good harmony, or the choice of stanzas unsatisfactory. Asked what the Canadian brethren really wanted, he replied he hardly knew, for they were not united in their views. Some wanted a book with the poetry only, some preferred one with "Ziffern" (numbers 1 to 8), and still others one with notes. After considerable discussion he was told they should work out a plan for a suitable book and present this to the Board, which would then see what could be done in the matter.

Their Songbook Commission, composed of J. H. Janzen, Benj. Ewert, John P. Classen and David D. Klassen, has now taken the first step. They have made a selection of songs and the list is before the churches for approval, suggestions, or general criticism. Since many of the congregations in Canada do not have a satisfactory book to sing from, they are anxious that action looking toward the publication of the proposed songbook should be pushed.

The book is to have notes. Such a book necessitates much work and considerable expense. The Commission has taken two steps toward the consummation of the project. (1) It has made the selection. (2) It has classified the songs under 37 headings. It will (3) have to proceed with the preparation of a "dummy", i.e. the songs with notes will have to be cut from the books in which they are found, page for page, and arranged in the desired order. When all leaves are placed together, the resulting book is called a "dummy." (4) Next the songs will have to be photographed one by one. And, in order to make size of text and notes uniform, some will first have to be photographically enlarged or diminished. (5) From the photographs, then, the plates will have to be made, and (6) the book printed, bound, etc.

Making musical plates requires painstaking workmanship and is costly, $5.00 or more a plate. With 706 songs—we think this is too many, 500, well chosen, would answer all purpose—the plates for the proposed book would cost in the neighborhood of $3500 to $4000, most of which the Board of Publication would have to borrow. And with such a risk ahead the price of the book would have to be placed pretty close to $2.00. Would the brethren north of the Divide, many of whom are struggling hard to make a living and pay their debts, be able to buy the book at such a price in paying quantities. The brethren on this side would very probably choose to continue using our favorite "Gesangbuch." The sale of the new book would therefore have to be made practically exclusively on the Canadian side.

As ours is the General Conference of the Mennonite Church of North America, we owe it to the brethren in the northland to help them acquire the means for fostering their worship. The Conference Board of Publication is keenly conscious of that fact. But it hesitates somewhat to make an investment of, say, $4000.00 just for plates and then a couple thousand more for getting the books printed, bound and ready for the market, with no very definite assurance of a timely return of the funds.

Since the "Gesangbuch mit Noten" contains 420 or 70 percent of the songs selected for the new book, perhaps the Canadian churches could be induced to use it, until their situation improves. In that case the Publication Board has even thought of making them a donation of the plates of the Gesangbuch, with the possibility of getting a book just for the price of printing and binding. Of course, since some twenty reprints have been made from these plates, they are somewhat worn. But the last run was still pretty good.

Another possibility would be that they guarantee the purchase of, say, 3000 or more copies of the new book within a reasonable period of time.

The Board of Publication intends to work on this songbook problem seriously, when it meets before and during the coming conference. May God guide its efforts to act wisely and do what it can to assist the brethren in the north in their desire to advance the upbuilding of the Kingdom through song.—T.

—The Mennonite Weekly Review last week brought pictures of its new home and store building, as well as of all of its employees and members of its Board of Directors. It is a good looking, interesting group. The firm employs nineteen workers. Mr. Gerhart Willms is business manager. The new building affords ample and healthy space for all departments of the enterprise, and the book store is particularly well arranged and inviting.

Finals of Oratory Contest

Newton, Kansas, June 6.—The final contest of the Western District Christian Endeavor Oratory was held in the Bethel College Chapel yesterday, June 5, and resulted in expense-paid retreats going to Paul Goering, Harley Stucky, and Edwin Stucky all of Moundridge.

Paul Goering won first place in the Missions section of the contest with an oration entitled "The Decisive Hour of Christian Missions." Harley Stucky won the Peace division with "United for Christ." Edwin Stucky won in Retreat with "The Retreat Spirit in Action."

This was the first year of the "contest" among the Mennonite young people. Anyone was eligible to enter who was a member of any Christian Endeavor organization of the Western District Conference which includes Nebraska, Oklahoma and Kansas. There are over fifty-five such young people's groups. There were twenty registered entrants coming from these groups. These represented the pick of each society that participated.

Held Regional Eliminations

Two regional eliminations were held, one at Bethel College and the other at Meno, Oklahoma. The winners of these two elminations met on June 5, the day of the Mennonite Song Festival. The Oklahoma entrants in the final contest were Rachel Unruh and Frances Becker. The judges of the contest were Paul Kliewer, Wichita, Mrs. Selma Platt and Dr. J. E. Linscheid, Newton.

Had Varied Program

The young people's choir of the First Mennonite Church sang a double number at the beginning of the program. Mrs. Ferd Voth directed. After the orations were given, Reverend Dyck called on Missionary August Ewert and Rev. Arnold Funk to make brief remarks. Ewert is the missions chairman of the W. D. C. E. convention. Funk is in charge of the Mennonite Young People's Retreat which is again being held at Elmdale, Kansas. It is to this retreat that the winners receive their expenses paid.

Much credit for the success of the first oratory goes to Rev. Walter H. Dyck, president of the Christian endeavor convention, who presided at the final contest, and to William Juhnke who as peace secretary of the convention was in charge of the contest.

Plans are being made to make this oratory an annual event.

A Happy Family Routine

by A Mennonite Mother

Often when entering a home we are impressed with the spirit in that home. But perhaps we do not realize how much routine it takes to build up a spirit like that. Let us not make the mistake and think that the home is the training ground for children only. For it is not. It is also the training ground for parents. If we see a home where the children have safely been guided through the adolescent years we can be sure that it is not only the parents that have done all the training, but the children have helped to train each other, and they have had a good share in training the parents. We can also be sure that in such a home there have been certain habits that have been thoroughly established. Our topic speaks of a Family Routine. We can not have a routine without established habits. We cannot merely say we will have a routine and then have it. It is rather a regular course of action adhered to through force of habit.

There are a number of these family habits, it seems to me, that are essential to a smooth running home. Some would prefer to have rules. But we have never liked rules in our home. We think they spoil the spirit of the home. We think rules belong to other institutions than homes. So we have stressed the idea of habit formnig rather than obeying of rules. There is perhaps no difference in the end, but there is a great difference in the mind of the child while forming a habit or obeying a rule. If disobeying a rule, usually some form of punishment follows. But we have never liked the word punishment either. If a family routine is worked out by hard and fast rules we know that the children will often do or not do certain things in order to avoid punishment, but if it can be worked out through a regular course of action adhered to through force of habit, without making the child feel that he is obeying rules, I think we have a happier situation.

For instance we could say, "Now every time you are not at the breakfast table at ten minutes after seven, you will have to do the dishes alone." But breakfast tastes so much better if we say, "If we can always be at the table at ten minutes after seven, we can all do the dishes together before you have to go to school." Or, if one or the other finds it hard to be on time we could make the rule and say, "Now for every minute that you are late for breakfast you will have to go to bed that many minutes earlier." But we accomplish just as much and keep a happier spirit within the group if I say, "I believe I woke you too late this morning. How many minutes earlier do you want me to wake you so you do not feel rushed in order to get ready for the family breakfast?" It is remarkable how much easier it is for a child to get up when he sets his own time than when a time is dictated to him.

Not everything in a home can be done by routine, and we would not want to have it that way if it could. But a certain amount of it we must have and it has always been our aim to get that certain amount with the least amount of friction possible. It seems to me that ought to be the problem of every parent to work out what will best work out in his family.

Take, for instance, the matter of eating together. How much energy and work is saved for the mother if the family eat together morning, noon and night! To get a family to thoroughly establish that habit is no easy thing. It takes a great deal of patience and time and energy to get to that point. But how much more, endlessly more, patience and time and energy it takes if that part of training is neglected in the habit forming years and then forever after have the meals on the table for an hour or two at a time, never knowing when one or the other will get up, never knowing if this one will want breakfast or that one will not want breakfast, and so try to keep the meal hot, or reheat it or even make fresh for each one.

But that is not the only reason for eating together at regular times—to save time and energy. It seems to me in this busy age we almost have to depend upon meal time for the family to get together. What a splendid opportunity it is to gather around the family table and share our experiences, encourage those who have had discouraging experiences, and rejoice with those of the group who have achievements to relate. How lovely to talk over family secrets and plans.

It is not only regular eating habits that we need, but also regular work habits; we need regular periods of play, regular periods of rest for each individual and periods of quiet for the group. It is not an easy thing to work such plans out and while working at them to keep a happy spirit in the group. A marriage course like you are having where you discuss so many home- and family problems ought to be very helpful indeed. But that will not do at all. That will not be enough. It takes a great deal of studying, a great deal of applied physchology, a great deal of ingenuity. Even that is not enough. It takes a great deal of praying. (To be concluded next week)

Messages from Great Hymns

Psalm 98

Young People's Topic for July 10, 1938

Meditations:

M., July 4. "Faith of our fathers." Rev. 7:9-17.
T., July 5. Reverence, humility: "Holy, holy, holy." Isa. 6:1-8.
W., July 6. A message to the nations. Matt. 28: 19, 20.
T., July 7. Faith: "In heavenly love abiding." Ps. 91:1-10.
F., July 8. Devotion: "O Sacred head now wounded." Matt. 27:29.
S., July 9. Eventide: "Abide with me." Luke 24:29-33.

Christianity constantly draws forth the best that is within mankind. Missionaries have for centuries gone forth to seek and to save. Jane Addams and Muriel Lester have worked with people of the slums to express their devotion to God. Martin Luther dared to defy tenacious religious traditions. Paul spoke persuasively to Jews and to Gentiles. Christ "steadfastly set His face toward Jerusalem."

One of the ways in which Martin Luther demonstrated his theory of personal access to God was in his creation of the church hymn as we know it. Historically he is credited with being the Father of the Evangelical Church-Song. Luther himself is the author of thirty-seven hymns. In addition to writing his own, he translated some from the Latin, and rewrote some of the German songs then in existence. "A Mighty Fortress is Our God" is one of Luther's best-known hymns. The original, of course, is in the German language.

Program Suggestions:

Five persons can be responsible for short talks on each of these five hymns and their author and composer:

"Faith of Our Fathers"—Frederick W. Faber—W. F. Hemy.

"Holy, Holy, Holy"—Reginald Heber—Rev. John B. Dykes.

"In Heavenly Love Abiding"—Anna L. Waring—Felix Mendelssohn.

"O Sacred Head now Wounded" — Bernard of Clairvaux—Hans Leo Hassler; Harm. by J. S. Bach.

"Abide With Me"—H. Y. Lyte—W. H. Monk.

A Suggested outline for these talks:

A. The words of the hymn.

What is the message of the words: Comfort, meditation, praise, consecration, faith, or love?

B. The author of the stanzas.

1. Who was the writer?
2. What had been his Christian experience?
3. What circumstances caused him to write this particular verse?
4. For what purpose did he write the hymn?

C. The tune to which the hymn is usually sung.
  1. Who was the composer?
  2. What is the history of this hymn tune?

D. Unusual situations in which the hymn has been used.

If you find it impossible to find in your library the required information for these hymns, other hymns may be substituted.

After each report on a hymn, a quartet or other musical group may sing the hymn. If desired, the whole congregation can sing part of the verses, the quartet alone singing the others. Conclude the program with a brief discussion of the contributions which hymns have made to the cause of Christianity.

INTERMEDIATE DEPARTMENT

Beauties in Nature

Intermediate C. E. Topic, July 10, 1938

For Daily Study

July 4. The beauty of flowers. Matt. 6:28, 29.
July 5. The beauty of land and sea. Ps. 33:6; 65:9-13.
July 6. The starry sky. Ps. 19:1-6.
July 7. The beauty of light. Ps. 74:16, 17.
July 8. The majesty of God's wisdom. Prov. 8:22-36.
July 9. The beauty of nature's processes. Acts 17:24-29.
July 10. Topic — Discovering beauty in nature. Ps. 8.

First Hand Observation

This is a meeting in which there should be as much first hand contact with nature as possible. The first suggestion is to hold an outdoor meeting in the loveliest spot you know that is within reach. The second is to bring as much of nature into the meeting for observation as possible, rather than merely talking about it. Third, arrange for a meeting to follow this one on a week night at a convenient place, where someone who is a specialist in stars, rocks, flowers or birds will give an illustrated talk on "Appreciating God's Handiwork," or a nature study hike under competent leadership.

Worship Service

After a praise service of appropriate songs and the society announcements the following worship service can be carried out:

Prelude (instrumental) "Holy, Holy, Holy"
Leader:

"I marvel in the year's swift round
  How new delights are ever found.
But dearer far than aught I see,
  God's loving presence is to me;
This makes the world divinely fair
  That he is in it everywhere."

Sing: "This is My Father's World"
Scripture reading: Ps. 8
Special Music: "Consider the Lilies"
Sentence prayers (Giving thanks for the beauties in the world about us)
Talks on the topics for daily reading
Duet: "His Eye Is on the Sparrow"

For the Leader

Someone has said that "all nature is beautiful." It would seem this is true when we look over a field that is gay with wild flowers in the spring. There is no arrangement or color scheme. The lack of it seems to add to the beauty and all colors seem to blend in the natural setting. The same can be said of rocks and boulders, piled up in great disorder. We marvel at the beauty of the sight.

Not all people have the same appreciation of the beauties in nature. Some can look at the overwhelming grandeur of the Grand Canyon and say, "Is that all there is to see?" While another will thrill over a bit of dew on a leaf glistening in the morning sunlight.

Why is it that some people have such a great appreciation for the beauties in nature, while others seem to be entirely lacking in it? How can we train ourselves to see the beauty about us? What does it add to our life?

What must we take to nature that it may mean most to us? How does our knowledge of God and the Bible enrich our surroundings? What did Jesus mean when He said, "Consider the lilies?" Matt. 6:28.

Closing Moments

Let the closing be a meditation service, when all join hands and silently look into the sky, while several poems that speak of the beauty of Our Father's World are read.

Song: "Fairest Lord Jesus." Benediction.

A Poem of Consecration

My God, Thou art a God of strength and beauty;
  Thou art the mighty keeper of the seas;
Thou givest me my life, my faith, my seeing;
  And I, so small—what can I give for these?

Thou givest me the sun, the hills, the rainfall,
  Clear eyes to see the daybreak and the night,
A mind to fathom truth and follow straightly;
  And I, so small—what can I give of might?

And then, as though Thou countest not these blessings,
  Thou sendest Thine own Son to die for me;
And I, so small—O, humbly and with gladness
  I give my all—I give my life to Thee.

—Peter Pan.

GRADUATION OBSERVED

In a joint meeting the Reedley C. E. Societies observed promotion on Sunday evening, June 5 at 5 p. m. After an opening worship service based on the theme, "The Forward Look," the superintendent of the Junior-Intermediate society, Mrs. J. H. Langenwalter presented the graduates from that society. They were welcomed into the Intermediate society by the president, Maxine Mohn, and presented with a copy of the pledge. The graduates of the Intermediate society were then presented and welcomed on behalf of the Young People's Society by Daniel Ewy, the president. They were each given a corsage of spring flowers. The pastor, Rev. Langenwalter, gave a brief closing message. At the conclusion of the graduation service a fellowship supper was enjoyed, after which the High School graduates proceeded to the Baccalaureate service.

JUNIOR CORNER

The Mennonite Junior's Past

Program Suggestions for July 10, 1938

Quiet Music

Call to Service: Group rise and sing "The Lord is in His holy temple." Then let a junior speak:

"God is in His holy temple;
Earthly thoughts be silent now,
While with reverence we assemble
And before His presence bow. Amen."

Opening Service

1. Five minute song service in charge of chairman asking for favorites
2. Scripture reading: a junior reading Heb. 11: 8-10; Heb. 11:13-16; Heb. 13:14
3. Special music: "I am a Pilgrim Here within a Foreign Land"
4. Leader's prayer of thanksgiving that God wants us to become citizens of His heavenly kingdom

Study Period: Aim, to introduce the child to the past history of its people and to instill within its heart a love and loyalty to the same.

1. The Mennonite Junior's Past: a guest speaker could be asked in for this evening picturing our past
    a. its wanderings
    b. its persecutions
    c. its belief
    d. its status
    e. its institutions
2. Prayer by guest speaker thanking for God's nearness in our past and asking for His nearness now to make us into loyal witnesses for Him
3. Sing in unison the hymn of the month, "The Church's One Foundation"
4. Repeat in unison verse of the month, "Let us run with patience the race that is set before us, looking unto Jesus the author and finisher of our faith." Heb. 12:1,2
5. Mission minutes: This can be linked to above study in "How we are trying to serve God"
6. Announcements in regard to the conference projects
7. Sing in unison: "Faith of Our Fathers"
8. Closing prayer

ANOTHER PENNY PROJECT

For our conference "surprise fund." It can't be much that our groups send to help in the expense, but in the ages past there was a widow's mite upon which Christ spoke his benediction. May these pennies that we send merit the same favor in the eyes of the Lord and become an inspiration to the leaders of our conference. Can we make each penny a representative of much prayer? What a blessing they can then be!

Last time it was a peck of potatoes. Perhaps you have had orders to repeat it, because other mothers wanted a peck also. Could we try the DOING-WITHOUT-PLAN this week? Each one bringing a penny to the meeting, because there was a stick of gum less or a drumstick or a sucker. Perhaps one or the other would forfeit a swim and there would be five or ten pennies more.

I would suggest that you leave all pennies in penny form. They could be gathered in a little sack from week to week and, when the time comes to leave for the conference, you could put the little sack of pennies in the care of someone that is going and ask them to deliver the same to our conference treasurer.

THE COOKIE JAR

CORRESPONDENCE

SECOND CHURCH, BEATRICE, NEBRASKA

Last Sunday we had very dear guests. They were here for the promotion of the Bethel College program. In the forenoon Brother Willis Rich spoke to the young folks and also to the old. In the afternoon we had our Sunday school picnic in Chautauqua Park. The weather was fine and everybody could enjoy himself in a social way, also in God's glorious nature. The prospects for a good wheat crop are good. We will leave it all to our heavenly Father. He does all things well, according to our needs.

In love and friendship, John Wiebe.

Wichita Mission Church Invites You

The Lorraine Ave. Mennonite Church of Wichita invites you to become more acquainted with your mission. Many have expressed the desire to visit the church, others wish to see the relief work we are doing, while still others have enjoyed the homecoming last November and have asked that we again have a similar event. The church is located 30 blocks east of Broadway and 7 blocks south of Douglas.

The date for this event is Sunday the 26th of June. The committee wishes to announce the following program for the day:

9:45 Sunday School
11:00 Morning Worship with messages from the pastor and a guest minister
12:30 Basket dinner in the church basement
1:30 Tour through the needy area
3:00 Early vesper service with Mr. J. N. Smucker, pastor of the Bethel College Church, bringing the message
5:30 Basket supper in the church basement
7:30 Musical program by the Men's Gospel Chorus of the Alexanderwohl Church

You are cordially invited to become acquainted with your mission station in Wichita and the work it is doing.

In behalf of the Committee,
Edward D. Schmidt, Pastor

PORTLAND MISSION ACQUIRES CHURCH BUILDING

For ten years the congregation of the Alberta Community Church has been worshipping in a rented building. Not only has it needed major repairs, but also remodeling, as the Sunday School has outgrown its quarters, making more room a necessity. Yet nothing could be done towards improvement while it remained the property of another church group. (Norwegian Congregational)

So it is with great rejoicing in answered prayer that we announce the Home Mission Board's purchase of the building for $650, the amount of a mortgage on it, making it the property of the General Conference.

Now our members wish to make the needed improvements, and at a special meeting for making plans as to procedure, each one pledged his whole-hearted support to the project. It will take willing hearts, willing hands, and willing pocket books, but we believe that if we do our part, the Lord will undertake for us.

To make the necessary repairs and improvements, about $600 is required. Since we have a contractor, carpenters, painters, cement workers and electricians included in our membership, most of the labor will be donated. The cost of $600 is small, but to our little group it seems quite a bit. Yet in faith we venture out, knowing that the Lord has been blessing in a wonderful way and believing He will continue to do so, supplying all our needs according to his promise.

We request the prayers of all who are mission-minded. Many can help in this way though unable to contribute materially. For additional information, or contributions, write to the church treasurer, Rev. S. S. Baumgartner, 3425 S. E. Grant St. or to the pastor, Rev. Edmund Miller, 5520 N. E. 22nd Ave., Portland, Oregon.—Christine Miller, Corr.

SERMON SKETCH

Mother's Day Sermon preached by Rev. P. K. Regier

Text—Proverbs 22:28

1. A landmark is a starting point, from which all other measurements are taken.

a) Remove a landmark, and you tend to destroy the basis of the age old standards and values which have proven their worth throughout the experiences of men.

b) Removing landmarks causes confusion: the world is in a state of confusion today, and no one seems to know the way out.

2. Some of the landmarks essential to human welfare are:

a) Parental authority
b) The Bible as the bulwark of the Christian home
c) The family altar

A perfumer bought a common earthen jar and filled it with the attar of roses. Soon every particle of the substance of the jar was filled with the rich perfume, and long afterwards, even when broken, the pieces retained the fragrance.

So it is that the human life becomes saturated with the Word of God, if daily a few moments are given to its meditation.

The thoughts, the feelings, the affections, indeed, the whole character is affected by the influence of the Bible, and the spirit of the Scriptures.

And today, especially in the light of the meaning of Mother's Day, we say, "A mother's memory filled with God's promises; a mother's life ordered according to God's Word; a mother's lips telling the story of the Savior's love: could anything be more beautiful?"

Mother's Day is at once an opportunity to pay our loving tribute to our mothers and what they mean to us. But it is also a challenge to preserve the old landmarks which have stood for centuries as the bulwark and security of those values which are essential to human welfare.

—The Kansas Institute of International Relations which held forth at Bethel College from June 7 to 17 was well attended and the general opinion seems to be that it was better than its two forerunners.

In Memoriam

MRS. D. B. NEUFELDT, NEE SARA H. BALZER, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Balzer, was born Feb. 26, 1887, at the home of her parents near Inman, Kansas. She was baptized August 28, 1904, upon her confession of faith in Christ and was taken in as a member of the Hebron Church by Elder Bernhard Buhler.

Almost a year later, Aug. 9, 1905, she was married to Dietrich B. Neufeldt and they made their home on the farm six miles east of Inman. There they spent the 33 happy years of their married life. To this union were born two children, Hilda Gertrude, now Mrs. Louis Janzen of Elbing, Kansas, and Marvin Jacob of the home.

Mrs. Neufeldt had been suffering more or less the past 28 years. During this time she underwent four operations and doctored much, but with little success. In spite of her suffering she enjoyed caring for flowers, visiting the sick and the needy as much as her strength permitted. Many times these friends called and often left with some useful gift from Mrs. Neufeldt.

The past weeks she had not been well, and at 9:30 p.m., May 26, she became seriously sick. A doctor and nurse were summoned to help; but Mrs. Neufeldt passed from this life into her eternal home Friday evening at 4:00, May 27, 1938. She reached the age of 51 years, 2 months, and 29 days. The deceased leaves to mourn her departure: her bereaved husband, her mother, two brothers and one sister, a son, a daughter and two grandchildren, as well as many friends and relatives.

Funeral services were conducted at the Hebron Mennonite Church by Rev. T. A. van der Smissen, the pastor, and Rev. H. J. Dyck of the Zion Mennonite Church at Elbing.

JOYCE MAE DIETZ, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilmer Dietz, passed away in a Philadelphia hospital on May 14, 1938, after a short illness. She was born Jan. 19, 1938. Short services were held at the home of her parents, with further services at the Great Swamp Reformed Church, Spinnertown. Rev. Rupp, the pastor, officiated.

CLARISSA PATTERSON, of Quakertown, R. D. 2, died in the Quakertown Community Hospital early Thursday morning. She had been admitted as a medical patient April 7. She was aged 79 years.

Born in Ontario, Canada, she was a daughter of William and Sarah (Arnold) Patterson. For many years she was a school teacher and was pensioned some time ago. She is survived by a brother, Fred Patterson, with whom she was living.

Funeral services were held Monday at 2 p. m. from the East Swamp Mennonite Church. The Rev. Peter J. Boehr, of Richlandtown officiated. Burial was in the cemetery at Black Water Junction, Canada, according to her wish.

MRS. ELIZABETH JOHNSON, Perkasie, Pa. died March 30, 1938, aged 40 years. Member of the Lutheran church. Funeral services on April 2nd. Rev. Ritter, her pastor, spoke in English; Rev. A. M. Fretz in German on Phil. 1:21, 23.

MRS. MARY LEATHERMAN NEE GEHMAN, Quakertown, Pa., widow of Jonas G. Leatherman, died May 13th, 1938, aged 76 years, 1 month, 9 days, at Springfield, where she was a member. Her pastor A. M. Fretz spoke on the words in Phil. 1:6; Isa. 2:30; Matt. 24:44.

« « JOTTINGS » »

—The Committee on the Revision of the Mennonite Hymn Book has brought its work to a close temporarily. For six days they worked hard, forenoon, afternoon and evening; first to determine what songs should be eliminated from the book and, secondly, to select substitutes for these and make other needed changes and additions. They now have listed and properly classified about 550 songs. This list is to be mimeographed, checked up to the Board of Publication, and then presented to the coming conference, with the Committee's and Board's suggestions and recommendations. That done, there is still time for suggestions, criticisms, etc. by leaders and others. Then, in the fall, the Committee plans to meet again for giving the book its final attention. About 140 songs have been eliminated from the Hymn Book. The plates of those left can be used again. So only about 125 new plates would be necessary, making the cost of the revision bearable.

—Saskatoon, a city of about 42,000 population, in the Province of Saskatchewan, Canada, where the coming Conference will be held, is located about 540 miles north west of Winnipeg, the metropolis of Western Canada. Saskatoon has placed its spacious buildings on the Exhibition Grounds, with their accommodations, at the disposal of the Conference. Never, during the seventy-eight years of its existence, has the conference been held among our brethern in Canada. Since this visit among them should serve to strengthen the tie of brotherhood and since the occasion is so rare and holds so much that is worthwhile in store, many from the states should make a strenuous effort to attend, even though the round trip from such distances as Philadelphia, Pa., will cost $141.85, sleeper included. It will be a life-time experience.

—VOICES PERTAINING TO THE REVISION OF THE SONG BOOK:—"How can we understand the foreign titles or tunes of the book, if we don't have the learning. Why not have the English titles, with enough old time hymns to arouse our emotions once in a while. And if some songs are too fast for some people, I would say they must be weak Christians if they cannot control their feet."—A young Mennonite mother, Columbus Grove, Ohio. . . . "Here is my vote of endorsement of Bro. E. W. Baumgartner's article regarding our hymn book."—D. D. Eitzen. . . . "I was much interested in the two articles in a recent MENNONITE, by the brethren Baumgartner and Hostetler. I urged our people to read them carefully. There is much food for thought in both of them. I think B. says some exceptionally fine things about the type of hymns we should use in our churches. I believe that it is still true that deep streams flow rather quietly and that roaring streams are usually quite shallow. I rather suspect that applies quite well to evangelistic and revival preachers and singers. I believe more articles on the order of these two would be helpful on the problem of the Mennonite Hymnal. I do not know if there be any hymn bok anywhere that is not open to some criticism. I doubt if any of our churches are using one that is entirely satisfactory. I wonder at times, if our people are not possibly a bit too critical of that which is the product of our Mennonite communities."—A. S. Bechtel. . . . "The postman has brought THE MENNONITE of June 7. Be sure and read what it says about our new Hymn Book."—Olin Krehbiel.

—Systematic Giving.—Systematic giving is giving according to method instead of from impulse. Our circumstances will determine whether this is to be done weekly, monthly or quarterly. In any event let us have an account or fund, separated for God's use. If your bookkeeper should put money in your cash drawer only when he felt like it, your treasury would get very low. So does God's treasury. If your cook made no provision for your meals and served them only when she happened to think of it, you would soon starve. That is what the people do who depend on careless givers for the bread of life.—J. E. Kaufman in "The Church Visitor."

—Grace Mennonite Church, Lansdale, Pa.—On Pentecost twelve young people were baptized and received into the church.—One of the reasons why the Eastern District Conference proved to be such a blessing was because of the prayers that ascended up. Why should not the people at home pray for the coming General Conference, even if it is held far off in Canada.—The Ladies' Aid Society contributed $60 toward the church building debt and the Married People's Class $50.

—Bluffton College had its graduation exercises last week. C. L. Anspach, president of Ashland College, delivered the commencement address, upon the subject, Privileges and Responsibilities, and President A. S. Rosenberger preached the baccalaureate sermon on the theme, The Mind of Christ. On "Bluffton Day," June 13, there were class reunions, Senior Class Day exercises, and the coronation of Bluffton's queen, Miss Emma Detweiler; a concert by the College orchestra, and the rendition of the Thespian play, "Garden of the Moons."

—Rev. A. R. Keiser of the Salem Church, Dalton, Ohio, honored.—A newspaper clipping brings the information that a largely attended farewell service for the departing minister Rev. A. R. Keiser and family was held Sunday evening, June 12, at the church. A sumptuous picnic supper was served at 6:30 p.m., followed by a rich program. It opened with a congregational "hymn sing" which the church indulges in and greatly enjoys on some Sunday evenings. Following this was devotion led by Hiram Sommer, then the main address of the evening by Bro. D. W. Bixler of Bluffton, a former resident of the community, and another address by Rev. William Stauffer, pastor of the neighbor church at Sugar Creek, Ohio. As a token of good will and appreciation of their services, Ivan Badertscher then presented to the Keisers, on behalf of the church, a floor lamp and a study lamp. Rev. Keiser expressed his gratitude for this and the loyalty with which the members had supported his work.—Following are some of the results of Rev. Keiser's endeavors during the nearly 15 years of service in the church as stated in the paper: Seventy children were consecrated; 48 couples married, none of whose bonds were dissolved by courts; 65 funeral sermons preached; 100 admitted to the church through baptism and many others by letter; hundreds of sermons delivered; midweek inspirational services conducted; special study and training classes successfully carried out; the church building remodeled, etc.

—Lately too Dry now too Wet.—In Kansas and Oklahoma, the homes of many Mennonites, the dry weather of the past few years has now given place to much rainy weather. Rains measuring two to three inches are rather frequent, and the ground is so soft that the farmers cannot get into the fields to harvest their over-ripe wheat. It is a bit like some one has said, Kansas (Oklahoma) is like a good milk cow that gives a bucket full of milk and then kicks it over. It is comforting, however, to remember that God is behind nature and he knows what is best for us.

CHRISTIANS HAVE CAUSE TO SING.—Singing and making melody in your hearts to the Lord."—Eph. 5:19. If anybody has reason or an urge to sing, it is the Christian. His life should be a song-filled life. God's word all through its pages invites, encourages, exhorts people to sing. The children of Israel sang much. They were a musical people, their music reaching its golden age in the time of King David. We are told that the angels and the saints surrounding the throne of God continually sing praises and hallelujahs to Him who has redeemed us. Christianity has produced the greatest, most genuine oratorios, which will continue to grip the hearts of men in all times to come, and which give us a foretaste of the music of heaven. A songless Christian is almost an impossibility. A real child of God is happy and feels impelled, one way or another, to give expression to his feelings. Unconsciously he practices to take his place in the great oratorios in heaven, some day. His heart finds its echo in sentiments like these, "O sing unto the Lord a new song; for he has done marvelous things," Psalm 98.1.—"O come let us sing unto the Lord: let us make a joyful noise to the rock of our salvation. Let us come before his presence with thanksgiving and make a joyful noise unto him with psalms." In the following we have a picture of the part that music played in the "sanctuary" in the time of David: "Praise God in his sanctuary—in the firmament of his power—for his mighty acts—according to his excellent greatness. Praise him with trumpets—with psaltry and harp—with timbrel and dance—with stringed instruments and organs. Praise him upon the loud cymbals, upon the high sounding cymbals. Let everything that has breath praise the Lord."—Psalm 150:1-6.—T.

God's Dreams

Dreams are they—but they are God's dreams!
Shall we decry them and scorn them?
That men shall love one another,
That white shall call black men brother,
That greed shall pass from the market-place,
That lust shall yield to love for the race,
That man shall meet with God face to face—
Dreams are they all,
But shall we despise them—
God's dreams!

Dreams are they—to become man's dreams!
Can we say nay as they claim us?
That men shall cease from their hating,
That war shall soon be abating,
That the glory of kings and lords shall pale,
That the pride of dominion and power shall fail,
That the love of humanity shall prevail—
Dreams are they all,
But shall we despise them—
God's dreams!

Fourth of July Prayer

God of the Nations! God of Love!
In this grave hour of need
We ask Thy need from Heaven above.
While other countries bleed

Give us a love of Peace and Man;
Engrave it on our hearts.
Let not the battle's ugly van
That sweeps and gores and parts

Lay low our youth: we need them all
To make our nation great,
To build our cities large and tall.
Let not the spite of Hate

Again engage us in a war—
Thou art the Prince of Peace.
Let men be friends forevermore.
Let rumbling cannons cease.

Lord of the Nations! Lord of Love!
Help us to choose aright
—Not the Vulture, but the Dove—
In Peace alone is Light!

THE BEST WORLD CURE

During the sessions of the recent Institute of International Relations many useful and apparently workable suggestions were advanced, showing how the world might be brought out of its turmoil and its evils overcome, as for instance: Through creating better trade conditions and wiser distribution of the necessities of life; by developing everywhere an internationally sympathetic mind, through education, adult and young; by gradually stopping hurtful propaganda and the War on Truth; by establishing a more efficient League of Nations; by gradually working out a system of equalization between the haves and have-nots among nations and individuals, by bringing about disarmament, etc. Surely many of these plans deserve serious application and, no doubt, would go far to make a better world. But, after all else has been tried, it will be found that the cure inaugurated by Jesus, the Savior, in going about giving manifestation of greatest love, binding the wounds of the injured, clothing the naked, feeding the hungry, rescuing the perishing, visiting the sick, etc. is the most direct and most effective way to cure this sin-sick world, coupled, of course, with the preaching of the Good News, the eternal gift of God through Jesus Christ. If Uncle Sam, instead of paying the farmers millions to reduce their wheat acreage, would tell them to raise all the wheat they could, and would then load the surplus on his battleships and merchantships, take it to war-torn China and Spain for free distribution, he would be money ahead, and would be setting an example of practical Christianity that would go far to bring about improved international relations.

THE LORD'S WARS

When sin began, God had to be a God of war. For God hates sin, and his righteousness demands that he war against it until it is finally and forever put away, along with its wages—when "the last enemy that shall be destroyed is death" (1 Cor. 15:26). God's enemies are the enemies also of those who trust and love and serve him; therefore, in behalf of his loved ones, he wages war against their enemies. Israel moved toward the Promised Land, out of the bondage of Egypt, through hosts of enemies—but God fought for Israel. A little sentence tucked away in the historical record which tells of Israel's triumphant march is interesting and significant. We read: "Wherefore it is said in the book of the wars of the Lord" (Num. 21:14). There follows a brief statement of some of the miracles of victory that God accomplished for Israel. Is it not true that "the book of the wars of the Lord" is still being written—his wars in YOUR behalf? Today "we wrestle not against flesh and blood, but against principalities, against powers, against the rulers of the darkness of this world, against spiritual wickedness in high places" (Eph .6:12). They are too much for us, and only God can battle them successfully. But we are in the midst of the battle; "wherefore take unto you the whole armour of God," and watch him write new chapters of victory in "the book of the wars of the Lord."— Sunday School Times.

WORDS THAT SHOULD ECHO AND RE-ECHO IN OUR EARS

When Maude Royden of England was in this country a year or so ago speaking under the auspices of the Emergency Peace Campaign, she dinned these words into American ears: "America, I beg of you, stay out of the next war. There are those of my countrymen who will urge you to come in—already they are starting their program. But I beg of you, pay no heed to them; stay out of the next war."

How well she knew of what she spoke! Shortly before his recent death, her distinguished fellow countryman, G. K. Chesterton, said bluntly: "Getting the United States lined up to fight for British interests in the Orient is the most immediate practical question in English politics today . . . Can we rope them in to fight or threaten the Japanese? . . . American opinion is inflammable, and just as we got up the cry, 'to h— with the Hohenzollerns and Hapsburgs,' so we might get up a slogan for the Pacific." This is pretty rough and crude, to be sure, but is too true an indication of British foreign policy as it relates to the United States.

Unhappily, there is abundant evidence to point to the fact that our State Department is inclined to chart a policy that is right down the British alley. For a graphic and impressive statement of the dangerous trend of that policy, we commend to our readers the article, "Where Are You Going, Mr. President?" by Hubert Herring, which appeared in Harpers Magazine for May.

Let's do some sloganizing of our own: keep America out of war! Some would have us "remember the—Panay!" It were far better if we can get the American people to remember the earnest words of Maude Royden.—The American Friend.

My Purpose

John 9:4

Just how big should a man's purpose in life be anyway? Is a man wise or unwise who undertakes things greater than time and his abilities warrant? Should a man undertake less than he can do and do it, or should he undertake more than he can do and not do it? Is it better to aim low and hit than it is to aim high and miss? Have I any moral right to purpose only what I can accomplish in life, or shall I purpose what I well know can not be fully accomplished?

Did St. Paul purpose more than he could accomplish? Did not Jesus purpose more than time and oupportunity could accomplish? Indeed. He finished the work of redemption, but men are still unsaved. "O, Jerusalem, Jerusalem, how often . . . ", are not the words of a man who has fully accomplished his purpose.

Did not the purpose of Jesus carry over beyond the boundary lines of time into eternity? Is there perhaps continuity between life in time and life in eternity? Must life's purpose end at death and a new purpose begin for eternity?

Perhaps the one thing that makes life worth while is a purpose too big for this world. The night sweeps down upon us and we work no more; our purpose is not fully realized. Perhaps this is just as it should be. Perhaps death is but a divine interlude after which we shall go again to our purpose of building a life in the likeness of God. Certainly the man who fully accomplishes his purpose in this brief life can not have had a very great purpose. Certainly the night comes when no man can work.

FOREIGN MISSIONS

P. H. Richert, Sec.

Busby, Montana

Dear Friends:

Sixty-eight years ago, when the Cheyennes were still roving bands of dangerous warriors, Vanhayo the wife of Chief Dullknife, gave birth to her ninth and last child, a daughter. This war chief also had another wife, a Pawnee Indian woman whom he had captured, as a young woman. The Pawnee maiden and her Pawnee husband were out looking for Beavers when overtaken by the Cheyennes, the husband was slain and the woman taken captive, and became the co-wife of Vanhayo. Of the nine children of the Cheyenne woman only the youngest survives today, and her name is Bessie Dullknife. The Pawnee raised 5 girls for her captor and husband, and 4 of those are still living, with a host of grandchildren.

Bessie was baptized, Dec. 26, 1937, and was welcomed into the fellowship of the believers in the Lord Jesus Christ, here at Busby. As a young woman she was married to an Indian who left her after about 3 months. Subsequently a daughter was born to her, whom she raised. This daughter has seven children living, being married to Ben Limpy.

Bessie Dullknife has lived with her daughter most of the time, and helped to raise the grand-children. She also brings the grand-children along to church. Bessie and her daughter have had no schooling, therefore know no English, but the grandchildren have had the opportunity of learning English.

When one considers the experiences of this woman, from the time she was born, till she became a Christian, many interesting episodes could be related. Among them, was the historic flight from Indian Territory in 1878, when her father the Chief Dullknife and Chief Littlewolf by night left with their warriors, wives and children, numbering 335 souls, of which 89 were men. Bessie was in this flight, during which the desperate band of fugitives swept through Oklahoma, Kansas, and Nebraska to the border of South Dakota, where they were finally captured. But, refusing to go south, they broke out of their barracks, and scattered during a snow storm. Many were killed including one of Bessie's half-sisters, most of them were recaptured, and a few escaped. But as a result of the determination of these Indians to live in the north, the Northern Cheyenne Indian Reservation was finally established for them and for all who wished to live in the north rather than in the south.

During the early days of the Mission here, Bessie came under the influence of the Gospel through the work of Rev. and Mrs. G. A. Linscheid. She used to attend services and sewing classes, and has done so more or less regularly during our stay. Now that she has taken a stand for Christ, may she be true to her Savior and Lord, and help lead others to Him. Having pledged to live true to Him, may she grow more like the Master from day to day. She has been very happy in her new allegiance, and we pray that others may find the same joy.—Sincerely yours, Alfred Habegger.

Christian Education

"No man or women should be permitted to instruct young men and women in Christian institutions who has not experienced deeply religious values. By this we do not mean that teachers should be preachers—probably most of them should not be. Nor should they be theologians necessarily. Certainly they must not be (and seldom are) sanctimoniously superpious brethern. But they should have a knowledge of the Christian faith and its meaning, and a profound, personal experience of religion. The teacher must reveal these values in his disposition, in his thinking, his teaching, in the whole scope of his life. Effective education in college, as well as in every other sphere, is exposure to the best."—The Effective Christian College.

Joseph Lewis of New York has asked the State's Court of Appeals to hold unconstitutional sections of the State Education Law permitting the reading of the Bible and the assembly of religious groups in the public schools. It costs $200 a year. Mr. Lewis is indignant at such "waste."

President William Henry McMaster of Mount Airy Union College is alarmed over the future of the independent Christian College. He holds its very existence to be threatened by the great increase in State universities.

This is the debit side on our educational ledger, the pessimistic side. On the credit side, these items:

The Daily Maroon, official University of Chicago newspaper, has sounded a call for a revival of religion on the campus. Harvard students plan an extra-curricular "Outlines of Christianity" course; delegates from eleven New England colleges attended an Inter-Faith Conference at Brown University and unanimously adopted a resolution pledging their support in combating anti-religious and anti-democratic propaganda on the college campus. Dr. Gould Wickey, General Secretary of the Council of Church Boards of Education, questioned 828,071 college students and found out that 88.3 per cent of them have a definite religious preference.

More credits than debits here. There always will be, so long as there exists that innate human hunger after God and faith and certainty.—Christian Herald.

An Ideal Conference

As we are approaching another General Conference, the editor feels tempted to try his hand at picturing a session with some approach to the ideal. He invites others to correct or help complete the picture in THE MENNONITE.

1. An ideal conference will consciously have for its motto, "The Spirit Shall Have His Way," in all things, in the aim, programs, address, papers, discussions, devotions, resolutions, music, social intercourse, and by all means also the elections. It is to be seriously hoped that nothing that smacks of electioneering will creep into the coming session, as appears to have been the case with one or two previous ones.

2. An ideal conference really begins weeks before the date set for it, with intercessory prayers for its success by many of God's children in the Conference.

3. In an ideal conference there will be a morning worship hour, participated in by all delegates that are physically able and by the majority of the visitors, to be united in spirit and tuned to the leading of the Spirit of God for the work of the day.

4. "In the multitude of counsellors there is safety." Prov. 11:14.—An ideal conference should have as many delegates in attendance as the churches have votes. Then and only then could the minds and opinions of our church members find reasonable expression. We Mennonites are very democratic in matters of faith and creed. In our representation at conferences we are very undemocratic. We have let a few delegates stuffed with votes and proxies control decisions on momentous questions and matters of policy. And although we have placed some limitations on the number of proxies a delegate may control, some of them still have more voting power than they should have. We should amend our bi-laws by limiting any delegate to ten votes. The ideal to have all congregational votes represented will probably never be attained, due to the widely scattered location of our churches. But it is a serious obligation resting upon the membership of each church to find ways to have as large a representation as possible. With modern facilities of travel at greatly reduced rates, this has become easier.

5. In an ideal conference all delegates will be prompt and punctual in attendance. They will be in their places on time at every session and stay through it. They will stay on "the job" until the closing prayer of the last session has been said and the strains of the farewell hymn have died away.

6. In an ideal conference all speakers and participants in discussion will address the audience, instead of the chairman, and will make every effort to be heard and understood.

7. The ideal conference will have a chairman who handles the procedure of the program with needed dispatch, and at the same time treats all participants in deliberations respectfully and considerately so as to avoid any offence. To be sure, in directing the program he must be guided by the essentials of parliamentary practice, but he will do that in a Christian spirit, with tact and fairness to all.

8. To help develop an ideal conference, the churches must see to it, that the delegate certificates are in the hands of the conference secretary some time before the date set for the beginning, to get them properly listed and printed, so that the presentation of the delegates can procede without interruption.

9. A conference to be ideal should feel the presence of the peace of God, to whom it must also look for favorable weather and protection from disturbing influences. May God help us make the conference at Saskatoon as nearly ideal as possible.

Relief Notes

(Compiled by O. O. Miller and A. Warkentin)

January 1938 Notes advised of progress to that time in the matter of the Paraguay land purchase for the Russian Mennonite Colony. Final payment in this transaction was made to the former owners of Corporation Paraguaya in Philadelphia on Friday, May 27—and the whole issue of stock was then transferred to the Secretary-Treasurer of the Mennonite Central Committee as Trustee. This means that the Committee will manage these Paraguay properties for the purposes and according to the policies outlined to its constituent bodies when the purchase was negotiated and approved and will do this through its Secretary-Treasurer. As Trustee of these holdings he is also instructed and empowered to conserve the assets and use all net income from them for liquidating the Special Loan by means of which the transaction was financed. Since August 15, 1938, $4523.02 has been received from Paraguay which was also used for the purchase. The Committee appreciates the confidence in this program and in this way of serving our South American brethren, shown by the brethren here who participated in the Loan needed for the balance.

Bro. Benj. Unruh who represents both Brazil and Paraguay Mennonite Colonists in the matter of their debts to the German Government at Berlin has through his efforts succeeded in having a substantial portion of the original debt canceled. The several national Mennonite Relief organizations, including the M.C.C. have assured Bro. Unruh from the beginning of their full cooperation in carrying through the plans for repayment of these debts. It is Bro. Unruh's conviction and same is shared by the Mennonite Central Committee, that the time has arrived when our S. A. brethren can work out and follow through such a debt service plan. To this end, it was decided at the Executive Committee's March 26 meeting to ask Harold S. Bender of Goshen, Indiana, to visit the various Brazil and Paraguay groups this summer. Bro. Bender plans spending from June 20 to about August 10 in South America on this mission.

He will also be used in setting up the Paraguay organization for handling the Committee's new interests there on account of the land purchase and to further plan the Colonists debt repayments to the M.C.C.

Latest reports from the original Chaco colony tell of considerable damage to the past season's cotton crop by grasshoppers. Up to that time crop prospects were even better than they were a year earlier which in turn was the best year of the seven during which this colony has ben in Paraguay. The 280 families still remaining in the Chaco has about as much acreage under cultivation as had the 420 families earlier and were very happy at the thought of making substantial payments on debts. The full extent of grasshopper damage remains to be determined.

Bro. G. F. Giesbrecht leader of the group establishing a Mission to the Lengua Indians writes encouragingly about the work following his first year's actual experience. The need for the Gospel by these ignorant semi-nomad neighbors of the Colony is most heart-rending and touching as pictured by the brother. Anyone interested in helping in the financial support of this effort, can send funds through the Conference Treasurer of his respective Conference to the M.C.C. designating them for the Paraguay Mennonite Mission to the Indians or send through your regular Mission Board Treasurer.

CALEB: LIFE-TIME DEVOTION

Joshua 14:6-15

Introduction

Caleb, a Kenezite by birth (v6), but an Israelite by adoption, and in heart and deed, had been chosen to represent his tribe, the tribe of Judah, as one of the twelve spies sent into Canaan. He and Joshua brought back some very fine fruit, a good report, and urged the immediate possession of the land. They believed God's promises and wanted to launch out upon them. They were the only ones of the adults leaving Egypt whom God permitted to enter Canaan.

Caleb Claims His Inheritance vs. 6-12

Joshua was now the leader and to him Judah came to receive their inheritance now that the conquest of Canaan was completed. Caleb now presents his claim, basing it wholly upon his faith in God's promise (v6). He had been promised a definite portion (see Num. 14:24, 30; Deut. 1:36). The one who claims for self all that God promises will receive a generous portion (Eph. 1:3). Caleb was in manhood's prime (v7) when sent to spy out the land and he reported in all sincerity, telling what he truly felt in his heart, regardless of what the ten reported. He saw both the difficulties and the favorable conditions and above all, the faithfulness of God, whom he "wholly followed." He was a model man to investigate the land. He was enthusiastic, and had faith in God's promise to give them the land if they would make an effort to possess it. He took God at his word. He was a believer and a doer.

Caleb dared to stand alone with Joshua as against the other ten, and God, speaking through Moses (v9), gave a definite promise of a reward for his faithfulness —"surely" the land shall be his. God's promises are very definite to us. The test of our faith comes when, like Caleb, we must stand alone in the midst of dissension and opposition. God rewarded Caleb also in preserving his physical strength through 45 years of toil and hardship (v10). He feels as strong to defend his heritage now as he was 45 years ago to win it. He followed the Lord wholly and took good care of his body. Common sense and following the Lord are closely allied.

Caleb had a young heart and soul and a comparatively young body at eighty-five. He was hopeful and full of cheer, a quality good for all of us. Now he asks (v12), for the part of the land promised to him, the mountain from whose side he had carried the great cluster of grapes and from whose summit he had seen the promised land spread before him.

Caleb Receives His Inheritance vs. 13-15

Joshua had heard God's promise made to Caleb and not only granted the plea but also asked God's blessing upon him (v13). Hebron means "union, fellowship", typical of our inheritance in Christ. Caleb received his inheritance of the land and remarkable physical preservation—his reward for "wholly following the Lord" (v14). God does reward his faithful servants. Caleb did not falter through the long years of waiting. His trust in God was unqualified. He had a promise from God; so have we. His promises to us show us what to go after and furnish us a "foothold for faith". Expectation, a rich experience in itself, is unknown to the one who has no promise he can claim. God has so richly filled His word with them. We owe Him a life-time devotion of "wholly" following Him. This will make our religion practical and victorious.

Let the Sunday school for the children teach Christ first, Christ last, Christ in the middle, Christ all the time. And the school that shall be so single-eyed for the Master, shall have the full beam of His eyes which smile as the sun shining in its strength ever upon them.—Stephen H. Tyng, Jr.

A Letter from China

Kai Chow, Hopei, China, May 18, 1938

Rev. P. H. Unruh, Treasurer Relief Board,
Goessel, Kansas,

Dear Brother Unruh:

Your letter of March first, sent to my wife at Hongkong, was forwarded and has just reached us. Thanks for the check for $100 for relief. Future correspondence can be sent direct to us at Kai Chow. Any funds, however, you may send direct to the Chase Bank, 80 Victoria Road, Tientsin, China, for deposit to the account of my brother, C. L. Pannabecker, treasurer of our Mission. Of course a letter should be sent us, telling about the matter, and the bank will notify us of the deposit. We wish to thank you heartily for this gift and for the other gifts which have been sent.

The conditions this year have combined to make the spring a very difficult season for everyone. With last summer's flood and this winter's war, grain has reached a most exhorbitant price and is difficult to get. The people have suffered much and the large majority have been living on leaves, bran, chaff, weeds, hulls, cotton seed and such things. If possible, a little flour is mixed with the other ingredients. For the last six weeks we have been doing relief work throughout our field. Where possible, we have given work and paid wages, though in some places, because of distance or special circumstances, it was felt financial relief was most satisfactory.

Here at Kai Chow a great deal of work has been done. For some weeks over 100 men were employed. Much repair work and rebuilding was thus accomplished. This was necessary because of the great damages caused by last summer's flood. Relief work is not satisfactory, as you know from experience in America, but it gives relief and we get some return at the same time. More important, it avoids direct giving with its bad effects on character. In about a week the wheat crop will be ready to harvest and we expect conditions will greatly improve. Even now the price of grain has been coming down which is some relief. However, there will likely still be some call for work and help after harvest, though that should not be extensive.

Our situation here has continued peaceful in general, though at times we are very uncertain what the next day may bring. Banditry has been, and still is, very bad. Military occupation has resulted in much disturbance of normal life, so that women and children are afraid to return to their homes. But we are urging the older women to go there. We have a little village in our compound with a population of close to 700. Of these some are our usual workers and their families, others are refugees. The latter make up about 500. It gives us good contact with non-Christians and many of them are interested in the gospel. Continue to remember us. S. F. Pannabecker.

Revised Mennonite Hymn Book

The following is a tentative list of the hymns in the present Mennonite Hymn Book that the special Hymn Book Committee contemplates omitting in the revised edition. It is published here so that anyone who does not agree with any of the omissions, may write the chairman of the Committee, Prof. W. H. Hohmann, Bethel College, Kansas, giving reasons for his objections, and if found reasonable, the Committee could the reconsider its action.

"A hymn is a sacred poem, expressive of devotion, spiritual experience or religious truth, fitted to be sung by an assembly of people."—Harvey B. Marks.

The special Hymn Book Committee spent one week in session at Bethel College, Kansas, June 7 to 14. During this session the "ground-work" for the revision of the Mennonite Hymn Book was laid. The above list represents only a small portion of the work done by the committee, composed of Rev. Lester Hostetler, Upland, California; Rev. C. E. Krehbiel, Newton, Kansas; Mrs. Glen Fuller, Newton, Kansas; Prof. Russell Lantz, Bluffton, Ohio; and Prof. Walter H. Hohmann, Bethel College, Kansas.

Proposed Amendments to the Constitution and By-Laws of the Women's Missionary Association of the General Conference

We recommend that the constitution be amended by striking out Section 6 of Article IV which reads: "No officer or member of a committee shall hold office for more than two consecutive terms."

Mrs. P. E. Frantz
Mrs. S. M. Musselman.

Since the work of the mission societies has changed and as it now seems advisable to have the societies of each district elect their own district advisor (formerly called sewing supervisor) it is proposed that Article II Section 3 of the By-Laws be changed to read:

Section 3. The Committee of District Advisors shall consist of six members, one to be elected by the societies of each district at their annual meeting and to serve for nine years. The duties of the members of this committee shall be to aid the Executive Committee and to act as advisors to their respective mission societies in promoting home and foreign mission work. In case no advisor is elected by the district, the Executive Committee may appoint one.

Almost

Judge Leon McCord

Almost means nearly. Nearly means almost.

Almost a doctor, almost a lawyer, almost a farmer, almost a business man, almost a mechanic, and almost a stenographer—not quite, but almost.

Almost is the gateway between success and failure. If you tarry at this gate, then you become an "almost." More men and women have stopped, have tarried, and then have parmanently lived at this gateway, than live in any one city or state of this great republic. They have not succeeded, neither have they failed altogether—they have almost arrived.

It has filtered out to the world that the British almost captured the Dardanelles from the Turks; the defense cannon held their last round of ammunition, and were ready to surrender when the British retreated. They almost captured this stronghold. Just in the darkest hour they gave up. Thereafter was written almost a heroic army, almost a victory, and almost an early ending of the World War.

Some one has said that "On the plains of hesitation bleach the bones of countless millions, who just at the dawn of victory sat down to wait, and waiting, died." To pass beyond this gateway of "almost" to success, one must have the courage to work, and with it the will to hold on, to keep on working when everything goes dead wrong, when seeming failure stalks across the way unhindered and unafraid and clangs shut the gate.

Failure walks with those who do their work with half a heart. Many men and women carry their bodies to work each morning, but their minds are elsewhere. They keep the body with the position, but permit the mind and the heart to wander away to other things and other places, and so it is that they become members of the Ancient and Independent Order of Almost.

The Christ chose as his disciples men who worked. He did not pick up a lot of Pharisees, a lot of ne'er-do-wells, loafers, hangers-on, and men-about-town, who sat and argued about how the government should be run. Not at all! The men who put over his program did not belong to the "almost" class; they were workers, acquainted with toil, and willing and ready to go to it. They worked in the temple all day, and then went out at night and slept on the ground. They walked the dusty highways, and although hungry and footsore, they carried on. They were ridiculed, stoned, and persecuted, but still they worked.

King Agrippa listened to a great sermon by Paul. It carried an appeal, a conviction that touched the heart of this monarch, but to subscribe to it would endanger his peace and comfort, and bring his power into peril. He answered it by saying, "Almost thou persuadest me." On that day came to life the Ancient and Independent Order of Almost, and men and women have been joining it ever since.

A Happy Family Routine

By A Mennonite Mother

(Concluded from last week)

My husband and I felt so dissatisfied for a number of years about our devotional life in our home. We always conducted our family devotional period in a manner that it would mean the most to the children according to their ages. While so doing we felt a decided lack in our own lives. We felt a need and a desire to have our own, and not giving up the family altar. So we tried to get together in that way here and there, sometimes at one time of the day, sometimes another, sometimes we could not find any time where both of us were free and so our longings remained as they were. Finally we agreed that we would try to get system into that, as we had into some other things in our home and attempt to solve that problem as we had been able to solve others.

So we agreed to get up a half an hour or three quarters of an hour earlier every morning and set that period aside for our own period of reading together. We have done that for a period of years. We have read a number of books together that way. We read, talk over what we have read or talk over certain things that seem, particularly on our minds in regard to home, church, or school and then close with a season of prayer. To us that has come to be a source of peace and satisfaction and power in time of strain that we did not have before. We cannot give it up. But we have not allowed the practice to interfere with our daily family period of devotions.

This is naturally very short because of the busy program of each one in the group. So it is not conducted in a manner that each one takes an active part in it. For that type of devotions we have for years set Saturday night apart. For many years we have had Saturday night as "family night"; until our family circle was broken two years ago we always played together every Saturday night and then closed with our period of family devotions. We still keep the idea of family night, but in a different manner, and we still close it as we always did. This practice has been a means of tying us together. When the children were in the early high school years we were always impressed by the fact that they gave up many types of entertainment in school and town in preference to our family night, and it always encouraged us to keep up the system.

We also need regular work habits, a regular work program, which begins when the children are very small. It begins with little tasks like tying their own shoes, picking up their toys, hanging up their clothes, etc., being helpful where ever they are. And that reminds me of what I said a little while ago, that the children help to train the parents. I know ours have done a great deal to train us, to change us in our ways of thinking and acting.

I am reminded of a particular instance. It was when our children were small. They had been trained to be helpful by being tidy, but without my noticing it they had fallen into the careless habit of throwing their caps on the table, the mittens on the chairs, the bats on the floor, the balls wherever they would roll or not roll. So I announced one day that from now on if they could not find their belongings on their shelves, or hooks, in the drawers and closets where they belong, they could just go into the basement and look in the laundry basket, for from now on whenever any one found anything carelessly thrown around the house, they were at liberty to throw it down the laundry-chute and the owner could go down and get it. Do you know what the first thing was that was thrown down that shute? It was mother's apron, to catch mother at the very thing of which she accused the children. It might be well to revive that laundry-chute plan now that the children are grown. But the basket would not catch bats and balls like it did at that time but it would catch tennis rackets, tennis string, cameras, films, glasses, fountain pens, etc. The idea should not have been to learn so well at an early age how to be helpful by being tidy and then at a later age learn new ways of service by neglecting the already learned, but rather to add to them, until the sphere of activity gets bigger and bigger, not because there are rules in the home, school, and church, but because they love to serve.

So in a happy family routine we find the family eating together, working together, worshiping together, resting together and playing together. And where we find that spirit of comradship in a home the simplest task has a relationship to the Kingdom of God. Where in this big wide world would we find a bigger task, a more stimulating task, a holier task than that of building such a home?

How To Choose Good Hymns

Ps. 92:1; 19:14; 1 Cor. 14:15

Young People's Topic for July 17, 1938

Meditations:

M., July 11. Select Scriptural hymns. Ps. 100.
T., July 12. Select hymns that fit the topic. Gen. 28:10-22.
W., July 13. Select hymns that lead to worship. Eph. 1:3-12.
T., July 14. Build around great Christian ideas. Eph. 1:15-23.
F., July 15. Sing about God's care for us. 1 Pet. 5:6-11.
S., July 16. Sing of the cross. Gal. 2:20, 21.

Suggested Hymns:

"The Old Rugged Cross," "We Have an Anchor."

Song-service, since Martin Luther's time, has been considered a vital part of the church service, second only to the preaching of the Gospel. Its purpose is in part psychological. Music affects the emotions. Feelings of calm, peace, comfort, praise, and adoration can be created and enhanced by the skillful use of music. But that is only one purpose of a Christian song-service. More important than its value as a pleasing accessory to other forms of service, is the inherent message of the song itself. Firm Christian convictions, true religious experience, and a masterful manipulation of words are required for the writing of a truly great hymn.

Program Suggestions:

Each member, when arriving, is handed two slips of paper. One has written on it one of the following occasions: 1. Thanksgiving; 2. Christmas; 3. Good Friday; 4. Easter; 5. Pentecost; 6. Children's Day; 7. Mother's Day; 8. Fathers' Day; 9. Dedication of a new hymnal; 11. Wedding; 12. Funeral; 13. C. E. Convention; 14. Consecration meeting, and others that may occur to you. The other slip contains the name of one of the following groups of singers: 1. Our own groups of young people; 2. Our whole congregation; 3. A choir of untrained voices; 4. A quartet, and others that may occur to you.

Very likely several duplicate slips in both groups will have to be given out so that there are enough for all the members.

The leader can begin by giving general suggestions in regard to selecting hymns, such as:

A. The hymn tunes.

1. The melody should be simple, artistic, and majestic.

2. The tunes should be within the voice range of the worshippers.

B. The words of the hymn.

1. They should be wholesome, beautiful, and Christian.

2. The stanzas should be in good literary form.

C. The themes of the hymns.

1. The themes should be suited to the interests and needs of the worshippers.

2. They should stimulate lofty ideals and noble purposes.

3. They should center attention upon the great objects of Christian faith or the great tasks of the church rather than upon one's self.

4. They should do justice to the Christian conception of God as Father and man as the self-respecting object of God's love.

5. The hymns should be suited to the particular occasion in which they are to be used.

At this time, the leader explains, five or ten minutes will be allowed for each one to select from the song-book the hymn he would consider appropriate for the occasion and for the group of singers named on his slips of paper. Then each one is allowed about two minutes to name the song he has chosen and to explain briefly the reason for his choice. If your membership is too large to let each one speak for two minutes, you can hand out your slips of paper only to the number you can accomodate on the program.

INTERMEDIATE DEPARTMENT

Reading the Best

Intermediate C. E. Topic, July 17, 1938

For Daily Study

July 11. Read serious books. Eccl. 12:9-11
July 12. Read good stories. Luke 15:11-32
July 13. Read good poetry. Ps. 23:1-6
July 14. Read history. 1 Cor. 10:1-12
July 15. Read biography. Josh. 1:1-9
July 16. Read about Jesus. Luke 1:1-4
July 17. Topic—Reading good books and magazines. 1 Tim. 4:13; Phil. 4:8, 9.

Choosing Wisely

If you would make this meeting interesting and helpful, select as your leader and his helpers those who are fond of reading that their enthusiasm for reading may become contagious.

Praise in Song

1. "Joyful, Joyful We Adore Thee" 2. "Dear Lord and Father of Mankind." Society Announcements. Announce the topic. 3. "Wonderful Words of Life."

Worship Service

(On a small reading table in the front of the room a pair of book ends with several good boks. At the other end of the table place a Bible and a reading lamp at the center. During the worship service have someone sitting by the table panomine the different parts.)

Song: "Open My Eyes" (In Meditation)

Leader: Ps. 119:105 (Opening the Bible) II Tim. 3:16; Phil. 4:8,9; I Tim. 4:13. Pause between the reading of each).

Special Music: "Thy Word Have I Hid" (In meditation)

A Book: (Closing the Bible)

"Softly I closed the Book as in a dream,
And let its echoes linger to redeem
Silence with music, darkness with its gleam.

That day I worked no more; I could not bring
My hands to toil, my thoughts to trafficking.
A new light shone on every common thing.

Celestial glories flamed before my gaze.
That day I worked no more, but to God's praise
I shall work better all my other days."
—W. E. Garrison.

Prayer: "O Christ, thou who art the Way, the Truth and Life, fill our souls with love to thee that Thy life may be manifested in us. Keep our feet from straying that we may not miss thy path. Open our hearts to the truth of Thy word, that our lives may grow more abundant day by day." Amen.

Topic Presentation

1. Leader remarks. The topic calls attention to the fact that not all books are good. No one would think of eating tainted meat because of the injurious effect it would be sure to have on his body. Tainted reading matter is just as certain to affect the soul, yet many people persist in reading it. Again others waste their time on that which is valueless. It is as foolish as if I were in a diamond field and insisted in filling my pockets with useless rocks instead of picking up the priceles gems. A knowledge of what is good and an appreciation for it is necessary to get the most out of your reading.

2. Thinking through
   a. What makes a book or magazine good? How can the Bible be a standard for the judgment ot reading matter?
   b. Why is it necessary to choose ones reading carefully? How do time and quantity enter into the choice of quality?
   c. What should be one's purpose in reading? Can there be more purposes than one? What would they be?
   d. How can we decide what to read? Of what value are book reviews? "Best seller" lists? How dependable is the appearance? the author?

3. Types of reading. Use the daily Bible readings for topics, asking each one to mention at least two good examples outside the Bible and give reasons for the choice.

4. Reports on good magazines. Find out what good magazines are being read. Let several bring copies and tell in two minutes why they read them.

5. Reports on books. Have three members report on the best book they have read in the past year, giving a. The outstanding idea, b. How it affected them, c. Read two of the best paragraphs of the book.

Closing Moments

Five minute talk: "Reading the Book of Books," by one who reads the Bible.

Song: "Prayer Is the Souls Sincere Desire."

Benediction.

JUNIOR CORNER

A Thought for Thought

Concerning Stephen it is said: "They were not able to withstand the wisdom and the Spirit by which he spake. And all that sat in the council, fastening their eyes on him, saw his face as it had been the face of an angel." (Acts 6:10, 15).

We long to be of influence in the circle where God has placed us. There were three ways in which Stephen influenced those about him: 1. Through wisdom, 2. Through the Spirit, 3. Through the expression on his face. All three means were manifestations of the Christ, the living Christ unto whom Stephen was giving himself even unto death. Then it is so true: I that long to influence and long to serve, cannot do so directly out of self. Christ is still God's Servant and He looks for human vessels through whom He can express Himself unto Life Eternal for He is Life. Oh! blessed then is the one who bows in humble submission to the Servant Lord. He shall find deep joy and fullest satisfaction in serving as a vessel of Divine Power. He shall see lives influenced even unto a change of heart.

Because of the ommission of July 4th issue, two program suggestions are brought in brief form:

THE MENNONITE JUNIOR AND HIS CHURCH

Opening service of songs and scripture and prayer. Psalm 119:1-16 to be read in unison.

Mission Minutes and Announcements

Study period. Aim: to acquaint the child with the particular principles of our faith.

1.Special music: "Just When I Need Him Most." Verses 1 and 4.

2. Chairman's introduction to study of the evening and its relation to last study

3. We Want to Obey the Words of God: Talks by juniors.
   a. "Live peaceably with all men." Rom. 12:18.
      1) Jesus said: Blessed are the peacemakers." How can I be a peacemaker in the home? I Thess. 5:13. I Pet. 3:10.
      2) Jesus said: "Blessed are the peacemakers." How can I be a peacemaker in my neighborhood? Mk. 12:31; Heb. 12:14; Matt. 5:38,39.

3) Jesus said: "Blessed are the peacemakers." How can a nation be a peacemaker? Matt. 5:43-45

b. "Thou shalt not kill." Ex. 20:13. Gen. 9:6; Matt. 26:52; Rev. 13:10.

c. "Swear not at all." Matt. 5:33-37

d. "He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved." Mark 16:16. Acts 8:26-38.

4. Sing in unison verses 1 and 3 of "Trust and Obey."

5. Heart-talk: "Keep My Word." Juniors enjoy hero stories. Show to them the true heroism that stands for the right at any cost. Use the verses: Matt. 5:10-12.

6. Sing in unison hymn of the month.

7. Speak in unison verse of the month.

8. Closing prayer

THE MENNONITE JUNIOR AND HIS CONFERENCE

Topic for July 24, 1938

Some of the members of your church will be packing. In the week after this program parents and friends of your juniors will be leaving to attend the conference session in Canada. Your group should be vitally interested in the subject for this evening's study. After your opening session of hymns and Scripture (John 15:1-5) and prayer, introduce the subject of the evening by a large outline map of United States. Let two corners of this map be China and India in the form of a square. This map project has been previously assigned to several juniors who are now ready to trace into this map, the various phases of our conference work. Each junior takes his turn at the map. The following could be traced in and placed:

1. Outlining the various districts. One junior could trace these with colored chalk. The lines could be put in before hand to save time. Another junior could follow up by putting in the names.
2. Our missions among the Indians
3. Our city missions
4. Our schools
5. Our hospitals (though not conference property, they should be mentioned).
6. Our homes for the aged
7. Our publication center
8. Our Book Concern
9. Our foreign mission fields.

Let this be followed by a prayer service. Open the same by singing in unison "What a Friend We Have in Jesus." Perhaps nine juniors will volunteer to remember these nine fields of work at this time and then let each junior choose one field to remember throughout the week. In closing, read the words of Jesus in John 9:4 and after a brief heart talk on the same, sing in unison "Work for the Night Is Coming."

Toward a Better Technique in Calling a Minister

H. A. Fast

That stimulating discussion in the May 3 issue of the Mennonite on "How does the Mennonite Church lose her Trained Ministers?", which raises again a problem of long standing, ought to be followed by a discussion on another closely related subject: "How can we improve our method of calling a minister?" My observations over a number of years have convinced me that there is real room for improvement.

Some methods now used appear to me not very intelligent or ethical or Christian. One such method, I think, is competitive candidating, i.e. the method of calling a series of candidates to appear before the congregation on successive Sundays to compete for the position in the pulpit. (a) It tends to introduce an unwholesome bargaining spirit into the congregation. (b) It almost always results in a divided congregation due to the fact that each candidate almost surely will have his stalwart supporters. As a result the successful candidate is placed in the unenviable position where he must start his ministry under the handicap of a divided church and often with the active opposition of a dissatisfied group that wanted someone else. (c) This method also introduces an unwholesome attitude of competition, an element of strain, between competing candidates and the spontaneous friendliness that ought to exist, and perhaps did exist previously, is liable to be disturbed. (d) In such competitive candidating there comes a subtle temptation to candidates to "play the game" in order to win the coveted positions. (e) The defeated candidate is almost unavoidably put for years into an unfavorable light. This method appears to me so full of possible mischief that it should be discouraged everywhere in our churches.

Again the method of judging a minister's fitness for position so exclusively by his ability to speak on the occasion of a "trial" sermon when he is put into a very unnatural position where he knows that his chance of acceptance depends almost entirely on the impression he will make upon a critically appraising audience also appears to me not very intelligent. I wonder whether it is any more intelligent than if a young man were to propose to select his wife by having her appear at his home to show how well she could cook and then judge her fitness to be his life partner and mother of his children exclusively by her ability to prepare an acceptable meal under his ever-watchful critical eye. We need to remember that the work of an effective minister includes after all a variety of services much larger than merely preaching and he must be able to function in these other relations of his work as effectively and as wisely as in the pulpit.

A church that would proceed in this matter in a thoroughly intelligent and at the same time a thoroughly Christian way would proceed, it appears to me, in a manner somewhat like the following: (The method here presented is in no sense regarded as foolproof or as the only intelligent and Christian method but rather as suggestive of a sane and statesmanlike procedure when a church is confronted with the task of filling a vacancy in the pastorate):

1. The church would create a committee composed of persons known and trusted for the sincerity and integrity of their Christian life and character, for their good judgment, and their active and intelligent interest in the total work of the church. The duty of this committee would be to take necessary steps toward the securing of a suitable pastor.

2. This committee then would seek to discover what type of a leader would best serve the real needs of their church and community. It would draw up a set of qualifications which they think their pastor should have if he is to minister effectively to their needs—qualifications as to his personal experience and character, his training, good judgment and tact, his balance, his experience in Christian service or otherwise, his success in his work, the salary they can pay, etc. In short there should be a clear analysis of the needs of their church and community and of the type of leader that would fit in.

3. In the light of this study they would cast about for a minister with these qualifications. They would not necessarily need to confine themselves only to students in seminaries or men without churches or those looking for a change. The wisest procedure here would be to confer with the Minister's Placement Committee of the General Conference which might have valuable advice to offer.

Here I would like to insert a word about the place and function of the Placement Committee in this whole problem. What I have to say in this regard is in no sense intended as a criticism of the work of this committee. It is intended merely as a suggestion how this committee might be used in a more far-reaching way.

The Placement Committee, to my mind, should be one to which both churches and ministers would write with complete freedom, knowing that their best interests would be safeguarded and their inquiry treated with strictest confidence. Churches would feel free to make inquiry about a prospective minister and ministers could freely make known their desire for work or for a change. The Placement Committee on its part would carry a file with rather complete and accurate information about the qualifications of ministers and prospective ministers. That information too should be confidential but available to responsible church committees. Such a Placement Committee would necessarily have to be selected pretty carefully and I am not sure that the method of election would always secure for us the best committee. Unquestionably it should be composed of men of sincere devotion, wide contacts and wisdom, and broad sympathies and understanding.

4. With this information about possible candidates in hand the church committee would have a sound basis on which to decide who of these candidates met their qualifications for a pastor and they could take final steps before referring the matter for ultimate decision to the church. They might as a committee go to hear the man in his own pulpit unknown to him and then, if their reaction was sufficiently favorable, they might seek a conference with him in regard to a possible call and a personal appearance before the church. Or they might write him to inquire whether he would be interested in serving their church. If so, they probably would invite him to make a personal appearance in their church so that the people might have an opportunity to get acquainted with him and he with them. Within the week after this personal appearance, perhaps on the same day, the congregation would decide whether or not they wished to extend a call to him. If the decision was favorable the call would be extended at once. If unfavorable, the candidate would be so informed courteously and another prospective minister asked to make a similar appearance. But the church would decide on each candidate independently as he came, and any subsequent minister would know when he arrived that he was the only person up for consideration. He was not competing with another. In this method there would appear to be much less danger of dividing the congregation and the decision would rest upon a more sound basis of judgment. The congregation would know in advance that the minister in question could preach effectively but it would also know more—it would know what else he could do successfully.

The calling of a minister must necessarily be the subject of much earnest and sincere prayer. But it must also be the subject of careful investigation and of plan-like, intelligent procedure. May we also in this important part of our church life grow more and more mature, intelligent, and Christ-like.

CORRESPONDENCE

KOBE, JAPAN, MAY 2nd, 1938

Dear Brother Richert:

Greetings from Japan! I arrived here on April 28. The next day, Friday, was the Emperor's 37th birthday and all business was closed. On Saturday I went to the K. Y. K. S. S. Co. To see about proceeding to Tientsin. I found passage with two returning missionary ladies, one also a nurse who are going the same way. So again, as all along the way I have found no difficulty. The trip across was very enjoyable, very little storm, the sea was only rolling, never "tumbling" as I have experienced other voyages. Greeting to all Mission friends and co-workers. I will write again from Tientsin. Yours, happy in Him,

Elisabeth D. Goertz.

MISSION CHURCH, WICHITA, KANSAS.

On Thursday, June 9, the F. F. G. Club (Friendship, Fun, Growth) of the Y. W. U. had its annual spring banquet. For the invocation the girls sang, "We thank Thee, Lord, for daily bread, as by Thy grace our souls are fed. Grant us to grow more like Thee. This day and through eternity. Amen."

The theme for the evening was, "Sailing." Those girls who served on the program and their parts were: Piano solo, Esther Schmidt, her home is at Buhler; vocal solo, Bertha Friesen, accompanied by her sister Martha, their home is near Halstead; another vocal solo, Esther Hiebert, her home is at Hillsboro.

Another part of the program was the installation of officers by Mrs. G. T. Gerhart, club leader. Those installed were: Marna Galle of Moundridge, treasurer, and Esther Schmidt, pianist. The purpose of the club is to build a Christian fellowship of young women.—Mrs. B. Frey, Correspondent.

EMMANUEL CHURCH, NOBLE, IA., JUNE 21

June 1 to 11, Rev. S. P. Preheim of Freeman, S. D., was in our midst in the interest of the Publication work, and with his family visited relatives and friends. —On Sunday evening, June 5, Mrs. Preheim, who was one of our home girls, very ably brought us the evening message.—On this Sunday three new members were taken into the church by letter.

On Sunday June 12, we had our annual get-together meeting of the four General Conference churches of Iowa: Eicher, Emmanuel at Noble, Zion Mennonite at Donnellson, Pulsaki Mennonite, and Wayland Mennonite, at our church near Noble. Over 400 attended. Raymond Rich, superintendent of our Sunday school, had charge of the Sunday school hour, preceding the morning worship hour. Rev. Adolf Friesen of Donnellson delivered the sermon and special music was given by groups from the Wayland, Pulaski, and Donnellson churches. Rev. D. E. Welty, our pastor, presided. Shortly after the noon hour a basket dinner was served on the lawn, and the afternoon was spent socially. This is an annual affair with many out of the community present.

Our young people are now looking forward to their annual retreat which will be be held at Donnellson July 2 and 3. — Our minister Rev. D. E. Welty, and wife, attended the Middle District Conference at Trenton, Ohio, June 16-19.—On Sunday, June 19, the children of the Sunday school gave their annual Children's Day program. — Best wishes and God's blessings to all readers.—Mrs. J. J. Rich, Corr.

TABOR CHURCH, near NEWTON, KANS.

"O give thanks unto the Lord; for he is good; for his mercy endureth forever!" That is, I believe, the sentiment of our congregation. The Lord has wonderfully answered our prayers, and by His grace we have been able to enlarge our church building.

The Tabor church was organized in 1908, with about 132 members. Within fifteen years the membership rose to 330, and has not dropped below 300. In 1933, the 25th anniversary, the membership was 339, the highest on record. The attendance of the Sunday school had increased accordingly and more room was badly needed. On Oct. 10, 1937, when the last Sunday services were held in the old church, the enrollment was 466. During the building period the Sunday school and services were held bi-weekly, alternately in the Walton and Newton High Schools.

Something about the church building: The old church, size 34 x 56 x 16, had a seating capacity of 350. The enlarged building has a seating capacity of 600. The addition consists of two wings, one on each side, 16 x 36 x 16. It seats 400 on the main floor and 200 in the balcony.

The dedication was held March 27. At the enttrance the Pastor, Rev. P. H. Richert, read the 42nd Psalm. Rev. J. J. Voth made the introduction, reading Psalm 84:1-6, and leading in prayer. In brief he said: Abraham built altars. The children of Israel had the Temple, we have the church. The many churches in our country are proof of reverence for God.

Rev. Richert gave the German dedicatory address on I Cor. 3:17, "for the temple of God is holy, which temple ye are." The first temple was the tabernacle. God instructed Moses how to dedicate it. The furniture and utensils were to be annointed. The dedication shall be by prayer and God's Word. The more God's Word and Spirit is present, the holier this house will be. The souls also are a temple. They shall be consecrated too. The priests were annointed. Annointing their ears symbolized annointing their minds; annointing their thumbs, all their work; annointing their toes, the places where they tread. When we are dedicated to God, then all our works will be to the glory of God. Where the spirit of Christ is, there is obedience and gratefulness.

The English dedicatory sermon was by Rev. A. E. Kreider on Ezra 6:16. Dedication is setting aside for a specific use. It is with great joy we can dedicate this house. 1. We dedicate this house unto God, many will meet God here. 2. We dedicate this house unto Jesus Christ. It is unto His honor. Many will find here peace for their souls. 3. We dedicate this house unto the Gospel. Many will hear the Gospel. The perplexed and the sorrowing will find peace and rest. 4. We dedicate this house unto the ministry of Jesus Christ. Laborers in the vineyard must be hired here, Sunday school teachers, C. E. leaders, etc., trained. 5. We dedicate this house unto the children. Suffer the little children to come unto me. 6. We dedicate this house unto youth. Youth need guidance that they may increase in faith. 7. We dedicate this house unto the community; that more missionaries may go forth from this place.—The dedication prayer was offered by Rev. Richert, a dedication song by the Men's chorus.—Then followed a number of three-minute speeches by several brethren that were present.

The evening program was devoted to the young people. Dr. E. G. Kaufman and Rev. P. P. Wedel were the main speakers. The Junior and Intermediate C. E. furnished the music.

On April 10, we observed the Lord's supper.—During Passion Week Rev. Walter Gering served us on three evenings.—On April 24, Missionary August Ewert visited us and told of the China Missions.—On May 1, Rev. J. M. Regier spoke to us in the interest of Bethel College.—On June 5, Pentecost, 37 young people were baptized and received as members into the church.—On Mother's Day we had children's consecration.

Three members are sick: Mrs. J. B. Thiesen has been sick now for almost two years, Deacon H. J. S. Schmidt since last fall, and a young brother, Jacob Schmidt, is suffering mentally. Let's remember them in prayer.—D. S. Thiesen, Corr.

MENNONITE CHURCH, PULASKI, IOWA.

Rev. S. P. Preheim was with us recently, soliciting for a printing press, the responses were quite encouraging. We had a series of meetings the middle of this month, directed by the pastor and the faithful praying members of his church. Good attendance every night, and a fine Christian spirit and interest was manifested throughout. There were six additions to the church, four by baptism and two by the right hand of Christian fellowship. On the 19th of June we had a very specially blessed service through the day. In the morning, there was reception of members, followed by the regular morning preaching service and Sunday school. After which followed a cooperative congregational dinner in the church basement. Somewhat of a "home coming" affair, in honor of William Dieffenbach, and Fred Nusbaum and family. Brother Dieffenbach from Denver, Colo., and Brother Nusbaum from Aust, Colo. Brother Nusbaum had been away from our community and church fellowship 18 years and Brother Dieffenbach thirty-one years. The noonday meal of Christian fellowship was followed by an interesting and well arranged program, including the children, middle aged and adults. Appropriate music and remarks relative to the occasion crowded the moments of the afternoon. A blessed time it was to all present. The glorious tendency was to rivet our very thoughts, minds and souls upon the real and divinely prepared "Home Coming," in the sweet by-and-by.—W. W. M., Corr.

SALEM ,CHURCH, MARION, S.D., JUNE 8.

Since this is the first report from our church this year I will have to go back and begin with the winter season. Last winter was a great improvement over the two preceding it. Though there was almost the normal amount of cold there was not as much snow and only a very little drifting. So the roads were open nearly all of the time and services could be held with little interruption and better attendance.

Spring was somewhat late and weather until now has been cool. But the encouraging part, and one for which we are so thankful, is that we are having a good supply of moisture. Small grain is in the best condition it has been for years and hay and pasture in abundance. Corn is just coming out and a few warm days will give it the needed boost.

Church work is running along in about normal fashion. At the present time vacation Bible school is being held at the church with a goodly number of children taking part.

Our Junior College at Freeman closed another year's work with an attendance of about 150 and the collegiate enrollment the largest in history. Under the direction of Prof. Gerhard Toews the College's A Cappella Chorus made a bus trip into Nebraska and Kansas just before commencement. Our pastor, P. R. Schroeder accompanied the singers to Kansas where he filled speaking negagements.

Our church and community enjoyed among its visitors Dr. H. A. Fast, Conference Secretary, who spoke at the College and various churches.

For Commencement at the College the faculty was fortunate to arrange for the services of Dr. J. E. Hartzler, of Hartford Theological Seminary. Dr. Hartzler spoke at the College gym for a week during which time he gave the commencement address and spoke to the alumni association at a banquet. Following that he spoke at our church from Sunday to Wednesday. Dr. Hartzler's messages are timely, practical, sound, inspiring and he always draws record crowds.

The church has improved its grounds around the buildings recently in applying a coat of gravel and improvements were also made at the cemetery. — John J. Gering.

In Memoriam

ANDREW G. HARMS, son of Gerhard and Anna Nickel Harms, was born in Michalin, in the Krofshen government, on March 19, 1850. He was baptized on May 6, 1866, and was taken into church as a member. In 1874 he, with his parents and relatives, came to America, landing in Peabody, Kans., Dec. 5, 1874. They lived north of Peabody, but later moved and settled in Pleasant township, Harvey county, Kans., where he has lived the rest of his life.

On August 19, 1894, he was married to Anna Nickel. Three children were born to this union. Bertha, the oldest, died some years ago.—The deceased has seen some very hard times during his life, but his last years were quiet, at the home of his children, Dan Harms and wife. He died Tuesday, June 15, 1938, at the age of 88 years, 3 months, and 27 days. He leaves to mourn his passing, one son, one daughter, one son-in-law, one daughter-in-law, and one sister, Mrs. Anna Unruh of Pawnee Rock, Kans.

—AN ANNOUNCEMENT.—Rev. Abr. Albrecht, secretary of the Western District Conference, requests that we make the following general announcement: That the Oklahoma Convention has invited the Western District Conference to hold its fall session this year at Enid, Oklahoma, and that this invitation has been accepted by the officers of the Conference. The date of the Conference will be published later, when the official announcement is made.

—ANNOUNCEMENT.—The Ohio-Indiana Young People's Conference is to be held in the Ebenezer Church near Bluffton, Ohio, July 16-17. The general theme of the program is: Building for Christ. Some of the themes assigned to different societies are, "A Builder's Equipment," "A Builder's Adversaries," "Building Together," "Leadership in Building," "Rewards of the Builder," "Building Christian Character."

—The June Number of "The Vine Press," organ of the Young People of the Middle District is unusually attractive and interesting. The cover page was done by Miss Cora Habegger of Berne, Ind. Two graduates in caps and gowns are facing the world on which is a large question mark, and above it these suggested choices: Church School, Christian Home, Missionary work, Christian Business Man, Leadership Training. The printing, a particularly clean and clear job was done by Mr. Fred von Gunten, acting manager of the Mennonite Book Concern, on a Speed-O-Print machine. Especially noteworthy are also an article, "Along the King's Highway," by Missionary S. T. Moyer, and another "Opportunities for the Christian in Business," by Brother E. W. Baumgartner.

—Marriage. — The wedding of Ann Gering and Ernest Saner was held at the Eden Church near Moundridge, Kansas, Thursday, May 9.

—Ten Bethel Students the guests of Rev. and Mrs. S. J. Goering, at 1818 Cheyenne Bd., Colorado Springs, Colo. These students, delegates to the religious conferences at Estes Park, Colo., spent two days at the Springs with the Goerings, and had such a pleasant time that they can hardly cease talking about it.

—Echoes from the Northern District Conference.—The session of this Conference which convened at Mountain Lake, Minn., June 11 to 14, was a well attended and inspirational gathering, with delegates from Montana, North and South Dakota, Minnesota, and Nebraska. There are 25 churches in the Northern District, the smallest one, the Salem Church at Wisner, Nebr., having 29 members, and the largest one, the Bethesda Church, at Henderson, Nebraska, 712 members. Four other churches have memberships ranging from 340 to over 500 members.—The sessions were held in the First Church, the evening and Sunday meetings in the High School Auditorium. The motto of the Conference seemed to be Evangelization. Rev. Jacob A. Tieszen of the Bethel Church near Marion, S. D., was elected chairman for the ensuing year, and the South or Salem Church near Freeman designated as host of next year's session.—Bethany Messenger.

—A New Missionary Couple to be Ordained.—On Sunday, July 24, just a week before the convening of the General Conference, Brother Beno Toews, son of Rev. David Toews, with Mrs. Toews will be ordained as missionaries, to take the places of Rev. and Mrs. G. A. Linscheid, missionaries among the Indians at Canton, Oklahoma. Rev. P. P. Wedel, chairman of the Board of Foreign Missions will officiate at the ordination at Rosthern, Sask.

—Second Church, Philadelphia.—For many years our church has been referred to by our neighbors as "the little church at the corner." May we add it is the little church with a big welcome."—Bro. Harleigh M. Rosenberger will occupy the pulpit of this church during the month of July.—The Messenger.

—Old Colonist Mennonites in Mexico about to Return to Canada.—In 1921 about 1000 families of Old Colonist Mennonites migrated to the Mexican states of Chihuahua and Duringo. They did this because the Canadian government had made it compulsory to teach the English language in school, and they feared that in due time the German language might disappear and with it the German Bible and faith, which they could not permit to happen. In Mexico matters have recently become unbearable for them. Still Canadian citizens, they cannot own the land which they bought. And although they are good farmers, the Cardenas government has been rather unfriendly to them. Taxes have gone up, bandits have raided them, and even killed some. Besides crop failures have been rather general. In Canada they will go to the Peace river valley in Northern Alberta, where the Canadian government has granted them homestead rights. For the small sum of $10.00 each family will be granted 160 acres of virgin soil. And they have good prospects of obtaining the right to run their own schools. About half of these people, approximately 500 families under the leadership of Peter Loewen are planning to return.

A Call To Prayer

IF THY PRESENCE GO NOT WITH ME . . . . !

The Lord's presence shall go up with us to the Saskatoon Conference, Exodus 33:14, 15. Let me urge all fellow-believers of the Conference to invite Him in earnest prayer. The branches of our work are numerous. Our task is impossible in human strength. Our problems are increasing. Our charge is as clear as a siren call. If we have "found favor in the Lord's sight", Exodus 33:12, 13, we can freely invite His presence to go with us.

Why not purpose to offer prayer in every church in the worship hour on Sunday morning, July 24, the last Sunday before the Saskatoon Conference opens? Intercede for the Conference. Remember the boards. Remember the delegates. Remember the Business Committee, and the local committees, and all others charged with special responsibilities. Let me urgently request all to pray for the officers of the Conference. "If thy presence go not with me, carry us not up hence." The undersigned desires to serve the Lord and the Conference in the strength of your prayers. P. R. Schroeder, Conference President.

Dear Mission Friends:

Friends who have been praying for our Stanley will be glad to know that the Good Father has heard their prayers and ours. For two weeks he was seriously ill with both amoebic and bacilary dysentery. But with joy we can now say that he is recovering. After four weeks he is, and will be for some time, confined to his bed. He is very thin and pale but can eat more now and is beginning to gain weight again. For three weeks he was on liquid diet entirely.

As I look back over this past month (Mr. Voth sailed for Tientsin March 25th), four things stand out: 1. My own rediscovery of the reality of prayer to God when all human help is unavailing; 2. Stanley's acceptance of Christ as his Saviour and Healer; 3. The assurance granted my husband after hours of fervent, concentrated prayer that Stanley would get well. This after receiving my telegram that Stanley was seriously ill. 4. The very precious treasure of having sympathetic friends who enter into prayer fellowship with one at a time like this.

When suddenly one's life partner is entirely out of reach, out on the ocean, sailing away, and there comes a crisis, it does give one's soul a pretty bad shaking. But then to realize that underneath are still the everlasting arms holding one up is joy unequalled. Looking at the face of my boy on the pillow, pale and distorted with pain or in a fitful sleep, my heart would fill with fear. But, grasping my testament, I would run out to the hillside and there find comfort in the Psalms. "Out of the depths have I cried unto thee, O Lord . . . (Read Ps. 130:1-5). Or at night when sleep refused to come and I struggled and "waited for the Lord more than they that watch for the morning" then He revived me according to His promise (Ps. 138:7) and "stretched forth his hand".

For Stanley, though a time of great suffering, this will always remain a time to look back to with joy and gratitude. He had of course known and loved the Lord from infancy and had sought to follow and obey him. We have talked to him personally about his soul and his father especially has had many precious hours with him discussing spiritual things. But it remained for this time that he received the joyous assurance that Christ had come into his heart. It was my blessed privilege to explain John 1:12, I John 1:7, 9 and many other Scriptures, which I had so often used with Chinese women and girls, to my own dear son and see the "Wonderful Words of Life" impart life, both spiritual and physical, to him. For it was from that moment that he began to recover. That very morning his father also received this in his devotions, "After that ye believed ye were sealed with that Holy Spirit of promise" Eph. 1:3.

About my husband I can do no better than quote what he writes from Tientsin: "Bless the Lord, O my soul: and all that is within me bless his holy name. Bless the Lord, O my soul, and forget not all his benefits: Who forgiveth all thine iniquities; who healeth all thy diseases; who redeemeth thy life from destruction; who crowneth thee with loving kindness and tender mercies; who satisfieth thy mouth with good things; so that thy youth is renewed like the eagle's." Ps. 103:1-5. "What a thrill to receive your telegram this evening saying Stanley was improving. Mrs. Moe had just asked me whether I had any word from Stanley. I said, 'No, but I believe Stanley is getting along all right, the Lord has given me repeated assurance that it will be all right with Stanley.' . . . When the boy handed me the first message, just after I was off the steamer, I was anxious and fearful. I just felt there was bad news in that envelope and my hands trembled, as I opened it. Now I felt confident, calm and almost joyful because it seemed to me I knew what it would say. The next instant, though, another "voice" tried to creep in, 'how do you know, it might be bad news.' . . . But praise the Lord, there it was, black on white, what the Lord had so plainly told me 5 days before. This was double joy, one about Stanley and the other that reached to the very recesses of the heart. Here came tangible proof of the positive spiritual answer to prayer and faith which I had received after concentrated prayer and Bible reading on the afternoon of April 5th."

The hospital is a boon to war refugees. It gives free service to missionaries and other "necessitous" people. The "Matilda Hospital" was built "to the Glory of God and the good of man, in memory of Matilda Sharp, a resident of the Colony from 1857 to 1893, who died in the latter year full of love to everyone."

Your Coworker, Matilda K. Voth.

DEBORAH: EMERGENCY LEADERSHIP

Judges 4:1-9, 12-14

Introduction

When the land of Canaan was divided among the several tribes of Israel, they were commanded to drive out the natives and not to serve their heathen gods. They failed to do this (Judges 1:28). They disobeyed the commands given Judges 2:2) and inter-married with the natives and even served their gods, Baal and Ashtaroth, and God permitted the Canaanites to put them under tribute.

Deborah Summons Barak to Action vs. 1-9

While Ehud lived, his influence kept the people from idolatry. Now after his death, we come to the severest oppression and the most remarkable triumph in the times of the Judges. Israel again forsook God (v1) and He forsook, punished them (v2) and they became an easy prey to their enemies. "The Lord sold them", a forceful expression implying God's extreme displeasure with them. This was the third oppression visited upon them because of their sins and idolatry. It was especially grievous (v3) and after twenty years they cried out in repentance, remembered the Lord their God. He was ready as in other days, to hear their cry and deliver them (Rom. 10:13). He spake to them through Deborah, a prophetess, who judged Israel (v4). Judgment of sin must always precede His manifestation of grace and deliverance. Deborah was a prophetess and judge in Israel by divine appointment, one of the most remarkable women of the Old Testament, an oracle to whom the people came for counsel (v5). Israel at the time of the Judges, was in some respects a backward, a primitive people but their knowledge of God gave them an outlook on life far advanced beyond that of the native tribes. Deborah was one who stood as an illumined peak in the religious and moral life of Israel. She served God with all her heart and looked after the religious interests of her household and her people.

She sends a summons to Barak (v6), and reminds him of God's command. She speaks as a prophetess, not voicing her own opinions, but declaring God's promises (v7) not merely her own hopes and wishes. God is passing His words to Israel through her, his chosen individual. He used such who listened to His voice, as leaders in delivering Israel from her enemies. Barak was summoned to a large task. Canaan's army was exceedingly strong and Israel's weak. He believed that God spoke through Deborah and felt sure of victory if God's messenger were with him. God definitely promises His help to all who will valiantly proceed against His enemies. Deborah yielded to Barak's plea (v9). It would have been a greater honor to him, had he gone alone. We have the far greater promise that Jesus himself will go with us when we go the way He desires (Matt. 28:19, 20).

Barak's Obedience, Israel's Deliverance vs. 12-14

Barak did what God commanded him to do. It was reported to Sisera and God was true to His promise (vs7,13). Sisera came confident of easy victory, but he left God out of his calculations, a fatal error made by so many. Deborah, because of her deep faith in God's promise, had no fear of Sisera's army, feeling certain of victory (v14). Deborah became the real leader now. Her faith inspired the people. Such leaders are needed in times of testing. God went out before His people and the host of Sisera was completely destroyed (vs15,16,23,24). Deborah was a leader, prepared of God for the time when most needed (Golden Text). When an emergency arises, God usually has a man or woman of the hour. Circumstances do bring a special weight of obligation on us and we should be ready to meet any demands of Providence thrust upon us.

Spiritual Values

Matt. 6:19

The world today is greatly in need of a new sense of "value". A minority of the people know that the great spiritual values are somewhere in the area of Truth, Goodness, and Beauty. A few people have learned that value is conditioned on usefulness. Truth, Goodness and Beauty are useful. Gold has no value as such; its value is conditioned on the relationship of usefulness. Gold is not an end in itself; it is a means to an end. It is not scarcity of an article that gives it value. Scarcity makes things "expensive", but not "valuable".

Truth, Goodness and Beauty are not ends in themselves; they are means to useful ends; they are valuable because they are useful. Did not Jesus say that He was the way, the truth and the life, and that no man comes to God except by Him? Is Jesus, is the Truth, a means to an end? Certainly we attain to our redemption in no other way.

Truth is useful in giving direction in the quest for creative personality. Goodness is essential in the building of character. Beauty is useful in the development of appreciation. Direction, character and appreciation are useful in the building of a creative personality in the likeness of the Christ. Perhaps Christlikeness is the end and purpose of life. Is this the "treasure", Christlikeness, creative personality, that we are to lay up in heaven? Is there any greater value on earth than spiritual, Christlike, creative personality?

Short Report of the 46th Northern District Conference

Held at Mountain Lake, Minn., June 11-17

The weather was most inviting, after a good rain, and the Conference was well attended. Some delegates had to travel nearly 1000 miles. Of the 25 churches 24 were represented by 95 delegates, who were joined by a large number of friends from a distance. The business sessions were held at the First Mennonite Church, the evening meetings at the High School Auditorium which was often overcrowded. All passed off quietly and peacefully.

The Minister's Conference, led by Elder A. P. Waltner, was held Saturday afternoon and evening. In the afternoon interesting questions were presented and discussed. The following are a few: 1. If a person was unconverted at baptism, then after conversion requests baptism (Acts 19:1-9), how should a congregation proceed. Answer: Water baptism cannot save a soul. The question is, has the soul peace with God and is it baptized with the Holy Spirit. Leave the question with the person and the minister. 2. How many of the members of our churches are born again? How do we know? Not all that say, Lord, Lord shall enter the Kingdom. If a person confesses Christ ws must take him at his word. 3. What attitude should the church take in regard to the married divorced? Applicable scripture passages given were: Matt. 5; 1 Cor. 7; and Mar. 10:11-12.

In the evening Dr. Schultz, M. D. gave an address on, "The task of the church in the face of the breakdown of sexmorality in our day." By means of statistics he proved that the situation is very grave, that thousands die every year of sexual disease. Churches and parents have grave duties to provide the young people with sex education. Information of the proper kind is easily available. Rev. J. B. Epp spoke on the theme, "The reception of members of other denominations into our Mennonite churches." Many of the churches of the General Conference are very liberal in this. Some would merely ask: Do you promise in love to live and labor according to God's word, then you can join with us. In the main points unity, in secondary points liberty, in all others love.

Sunday morning at the High School Auditorium, after a song service led by D. S. Schroeder, Rev. A. D. Schultz preached on home mission, based on Acts 15:36. Not only the scattered groups of our brethren should be objects of our deep concern, but also the churchless and our unconverted neighbors. To lay our lives on the altar brings eternal blessings. I am interceding for the brethren at Madrid, that they may soon reach a decision and unitedly call a laborer, to reap the fullest blessings.—Missionary H. J. Brown from China preached on Foreign Missions, on Jona 1:1-3 and 6. The way of the transgressor is hard. Examples Sodom and Gomorrah. Jona paid the fare in the belly of the whale. Friends are paying their fare in the poolroom, ballroom, at the whisky bottle. Let us follow Jona the second time. If you and I had done our duty and brought Japan the Word, she would not be bombing China today. Who is ready to go? The collection amounted to $228.00.

Sunday afternoon Rev. J. F. Epp, Henderson, Nebr. delivered the Conference sermon, based on 2 Tim. 4:5, "Be thou sober in all things, etc." To be sober means to think clearly, speak wisely, look sharply, and act prudently. The dirt you see is often in your own spectacles. Renew yourself in spirit that you may be able to deal honestly and walk justly.—Message by Dr. J. E. Hartzler. The human mind needs information, the heart inspiration. For both, each Bible student should spend a year in Palestine. Why is Christianity the supreme religion? Judaism has no Christ; communism gives a man food, clothing and shelter; it has no anchor; communism has no goal, it offers merely promises. Three questions confront us: What shall I be? Christlike. What shall I do? Serve. What shall I hope for? Eternal life. The Christian's interpretation of life: Find, you lose; get, you must lose; lose, you win; die, you may live. In Christ Jesus we can be supremely happy and rise victoriously above all difficulties of life.

Sunday evening, song service led by Prof. Gerhard Toews of Freeman College. Paper by Verna Janzen, Montana, "Are the secular and spiritual education of our children balanced?" 2 Tim. 3:15. "And that from a child thou hast known the holy scriptures which are able to make thee wise unto salvation through faith in Christ Jesus." The home training of a child will be reflected through his whole life. Secular education through public school, religious education through the home, Sunday school and daily vacation Bible school. But there is no balance: Direct Bible instruction in a year amounts to only about 100 hours, secular instruction in common schools to 500 or more hours. We need more of the former.—Paper by Orlando Waltner, Freeman, on the subject, "What are the ties that bind Mennonite youth and parents together?" Of all the different families, the Mennonite family is the most democratic. The Mennonite parents say, we will go to church, instead of, children, go to church. There cannot be unity in the family unless there is a strong tie between father and mother. Thank God that our families still maintain the family altar. All honor to families were children follow the parents' example and counsel.

A short evangelistic message by the young minister Victor Sawatzky, based on John 8:24, the theme being "Man's greatest sin." Sin is the transgression of God's commandments. The greatest sin of the human race is unbelief. The jailor said, "What must I do to be saved?" Answer: "Believe in the Lord Jesus Christ and thou shalt be saved."

Monday evening, Young People's meeting. General singing in charge of D. S. Schroeder. The roll call, in answer to the question, "What is the main objective of your C. E.?" brought forth some very good answers.—Rev. Harold Gross of Freeman, S. D. gave a very worth-while sermon on the subject, "Thy Kingdom come." Mary Eitzen of Munich, N. D. read an interesting paper on, "How much of Christ do our Christian Endeavors show to the world?" Again a short evangelistic sermon by young Rev. H. S. Quiring. This program was well interspersed with music by various groups and by readings.

Tuesday evening. General singing lead by Leonard Nickel. A good part of the program consisted of responses or testimonies by young people who are preparing for Christian work. Among them were: From Montana: Rosella Toews, Wolf Point; Harvey Schoenwald and Harry Sawatzky, Richey; Margie Friesen, Frazer; From N. Dakota: Lydia Schmidt, Alsen; Mary Eitzen, Munich; From Minnesota: Esther Quiring and C. B. Friesen, Mt. Lake; From South Dakota: Jessie Brown. Again much good music was furnished by quartets, duets, and choirs, and after an evangelistic sermon by Rev. Albert Schultz, the program closed with a mass chorus led by Gerhard Toews.

RESOLUTIONS

1. Resolved that $15.00 be paid Bro. and Sister Habegger to compensate them for expenses in attending the Northern District Conference at Bloomfield, Mont.

2. Resolved, that the Conference officers be instructed that the Conference speakers, who are not delegates and who were invited by the Business Committee, be imbursed out of the conference treasury according to needs.

3. Resolved, that the "Articles of Faith," placed before the General Conference a few years ago for adoption, as a practical foundation for its work, be recommended to the attention of the Examining Committee until the next Conference.

4. Resolved to accept the report of the Examining Committee, with recommendations which are as follows: (1) That a special questionnaire be prepared for the purpose of examining applicants for the ministry. (2) That each applicant for the ministry be required to acquaint himself with the "Mennonite Articles of Faith" by Cornelius Ris. (3) That the applicants notify the Examining Committee in ample time, so that proper procedures can be made toward ordination.

5. Resolved to approve and accept the report of the Education Committee.

6. The Auditing Committee having reported that the reports of the Conference Treasurer and the report of the Evangelization Committee were correct, it was resolved to accept those two reports.

7. Resolved to accept the report of the Evangelization Committee, together with its recommendations based on the reports of the workers.

8. The Conference was invited by the Salem Church, Marion, S. D. and also by the Bethel Church, Wolf Point, Mont. to hold its 1939 session there. It was resolved to accept the invitation of the Salem Church.

9. Resolved, that a short report, with the resolutions passed by the Conference, be published in the church papers, and the resolutions in pamphlet form.

The Voice of the Eastern District Conference

Allentown, Pa., June 22, 1938.

Dear Editor:

The First Quarterly Conference was held in Richfield Mennonite Church, B. S. Graybill, pastor.

Afternoon Meeting.—Following the Introduction, Rev. Freeman H. Swartz, Chairman of the Chorus Committee, stated that Mr. Lantz would begin rehearsing during the coming week, and that he would use anthems and selections this year instead of an oratorio.

The first paper of the session was presented by President Plenert, on "Our Conference." He said in part, "We have 25 churches in our Conference with a membership of 3425, having gained 74 during the past year. These churches gave for all causes $60,474.14 or $17.65 per member. On the basis of the tenth that would mean that the average income of our membership per member amounted to $176.50.

"Concerning our Ministers, I want to say that I have thoroughly enjoyed their fellowship and the spiritual life which they manifest.

"I have observed certain things since in your midst that I would like to mention. 1. We need to train our youth to become Conference minded. 2. While the fellowship at Conference sessions is very good, we often spend too much time on details not so important. 3. Our church paper THE MENNONITE is not in enough homes."

"We should stress Conference loyalty to our lay members so that they will heartily support the project of the District and General Conference. We need to teach Stewardship."

Rev. Olin Krehbiel of Lansdale led in the discussion and drew some comparisons between the Eastern and Western Conference. He said, "I have noted a wonderful quality in your Preparatory Service which was new to me. After all, we are told to examine ourselves. There is a great deal of value to this service and I commend it. Then I must point out that I have been most favorably impressed with the fellowship I have enjoyed amongst the ministers of our Conference."

"I also observed that most churches here baptize on Easter, we on the Day of Pentecost. You have catechetical instruction during the week, we have it on Sunday. We had different officers for our Minister's Conferences. Here, the Conference Executive Committee makes up all the programs. You have a number of churches that go together and have one minister serve them, we have one minister to every church. Then I noted that Communion Sunday is a great occasion here, if members are absent all year, and then come on Communion Sunday they seem to think that everything is alright. Lastly, I observe the division of families. So many members are intermarried in other churches. That is very seldom seen in the west."

Rev. A. M. Fretz, our 85 year veteran, having preached 55 years, spoke on the many changes in Conference since his boyhood days.

The local congregation furnished the evening meal. Their hospitality was genuine and greatly appreciated.

Evening Meeting.—A brief business meeting was held. After a short song service and devotion, a Ministers' Quartet composed of Nyce, Plenert, Neuenschwander and Krehbiel sang "I will be true to Thee."

Rev. S. T. Moyer, Missionary on furlough, presented the first paper of the evening on "The Spiritual Application of the Book of Philemon." In part he said, "A rapid reading of the Epistle to Philemon may not deeply impress, but a more thorough meditation and study convinces that we have in it a gem of rare worth. Story of Onesimus, a runaway slave. Whatever motive may have drawn him to the Apostle, whether the pangs of hunger, or the gnawings of conscience, or some seed of Gospel, when once within the range of attraction he could not escape. He listened—was impressed—was convicted—was baptized.

Three spiritual values merit our attention as follows: 1. Restitution as an integral part of repentance. Concern for the full restoration of the one gone astray. 2. Vicarious suffering, as an essential part of the process of transforming lives. 3. Applying and stressing deep principles of love, rather than commanding conformity to technical laws and commands."

Rev. D. D. Eitzen presented the second paper of the evening on "The Practical Application of the Book of Philemon." He said, "This is a short letter but is full of many profound spiritual and practical applications. Some of them are 1. Christian courtesy and tact. 2. Christian brotherhood. 3. The law of love. 4. Redemptive interest in the poor as well as those better endowed. 5. Our responsibility as American citizens to the negro. 6. The value of letter writing. 7. Not taking friendship for granted but deliberately cultivating it. 8. That the beseeching of love is far more powerful than that of authority. 9. Stripe washing, making restitution at every point. The essence of the Christian message is expressed in verses 17-19a. It is God's grace incarnate. It is the partial realization of God's original purpose for and to man. Some aspects of God's grace are (1) His purpose for man. —Eph. 1:4. (2) The gift of free will. (3) Redemption via the cross. Isa. 53:6. In the last part of this verse we see that God assumed full responsibility for our sin because He had made it possible for us to sin."

"The message of Philemon to me is 'Be ye merciful, as your Father is merciful.' Spiritually, it is awe-inspiring and humbling. Practically, it is challenging."

Rev. A. J. Neuenschwander followed Bro. Eitzen, speaking on "Impressions." He pointed out that Richfield made an impression on us and that their hospitality made a great contribution to the spiritual welfare of the meeting. He pointed out that Bro. Moyer and Bro. Eitzen coming from various parts of the country made a great impression on our spiritual lives.

After the singing of "O love that will not let me go" the meeting came to a close with a prayer and benediction by the Conference Secretary.

The members of the Richfield congregation entertained the members of the Conference that came from a distance.—Howard G. Nyce, Sec.

Music Institute

The Mennonite Song Festival Society is attempting a new venture this summer in the form of a Church Music Institute. This is to be held at Bethel College from July 17 to 23.

The Committee in charge feels very fortunate in securing the services of Dr. H. Augustine Smith. Dr. Smith is a master in the field of church music. He received his training at North Central College, Naperville; Oberlin College, Ohio; and the American Conservatory of Music, Chicago. Previous to his present position he has had sixteen years of Seminary and University teaching experience. He is now head of Fine Arts in Religion, Boston University, which position he has held for the last twenty years. In addition to his teaching Dr. Smith has traveled over 500,000 miles in the U. S., Canada, South America, Japan, and Europe in the interest of church music. He is an expert in leading congregational singing and massed choirs. He has made a study of the place of pageantry in church music and will present a pageant as a closing event of the Music Institute. He carries with him all the costumes and other properties necessary for this colorful pageant.

The program for the week is planned primarily for those interested in church music: Pastors, choir directors, choir members, Sunday school and public school teachers and supervisors, and in fact anyone who is interested in music as a form of worship, regardless of denominational affiliation.

Arrangement can be made for one hour of college credit for this course.

The tuition is one dollar for the week if enrollment is made in advance. For those who wish to stay on the campus for the week arrangement can be made for room and board at the rate of one dollar per day, providing you bring your own sheets and blanket. Otherwise the rate will be a little higher.

The "Music Institute" idea has been carried on very successfully to encourage good music in the public schools. Those vitally interested in sacred music feel that the same method might be used to develop enthusiasm for better church music. It is hoped that many will take advantage of the able leadership that is available for this Church Music Institute.

To The Mennonite:

At the Lebanon (Ill.) High School Commencement Program last May 25 I had the privilege of giving one of the three student addresses to an audience of over 700 people, and keeping true to Mennonite traditions, I spoke on peace.

Several other young people from Summerfield were also in the graduating class, and consequently a large number of families from the Mennonite Church of that place were in attendance. Since then I have received many requests from these Mennonites to send a copy of my oration to "The Mennonite" for publication. So here is a duplicate, and you have my heartiest consent to publish it if you care to do so.

Very respectfully yours, Carlus Basinger

Education as a Solution for Peace

"And they shall beat their swords into plowshares, and their spears into pruning hooks; neither shall they learn war anymore." That is the America we want; the America that is training her youth for peace.

Today we are presented with the amazing spectacle of the greatest civilization yet known to man, walking toward the precipice of another general war; knowing full well that it is going to reach its own self destruction, but as yet, showing neither the vigor, nor the capacity to avoid it. Is it inevitable that we hurl ourselves over this precipice? Can we not yet reach today that of which the prophet spoke?

Of one thing I am quite certain. If we are to have a peace loving country, we must first have peace loving citizens. To educate and inform our people then, seems to be the problem. If we believe, as most of us do, that education can bring about changed attitudes; and if we believe in peace as the way of life, we must produce a definite program for doing something about it. We know that very little can be done to change the views of our adult population, because often their thoughts and habits are too fixed, and too inflexible. It is rather from the field of youth, with its interests, its enthusiasm, and its courage to face facts and realities, that a really constructive program of peace should come.

So this evening, friends, it is my earnest endeavor, as a representative of this great field of youth, to propose a constructive program of peace education.

It seems to me that the first step in this educational process must be to give a new interpretation to the word patriotism. This is necessary because now, to most of us, it simply means loyalty to our country, by fighting some other country. Certain tests have been given to students to write words most closely associated with other words. For instance with the word ice—they wrote cold. Or, in the case of fire—they wrote hot. Now with the word patriotism, the students invariably wrote—WAR. Think of it! Devotion to their country suggested—WAR! And yet, is this not the natural thing to do, since we have been taught for years and years through our Memorial Day programs and our Fourth of July celebrations, and especially through some of our history texts of the partnership between patriotism and war.

But to dis-associate war and patriotism will not be enough. The school must give it a new meaning, just as strong, just as idealistic, and just as inspiring as was the old meaning. Let our young people unite then, and as one body have for their common enemies disease, waste, crime, poverty, selfishness and greed. Do you honestly believe that there is any finer patriotism than that displayed by Jefferson, who struggled to establish democracy; or Carnegie, who gave huge sums for the cause of peace and science; or Edison, who used his inventive genius for the ease and comfort of others; or of Jane Adams, who unselfishly sacrificed her life for the depressed slum areas of Chicago! or of Sherwood Eddy, who has been fighting the cause of the poor share-cropper in the far south? Is there any finer patriotism than that? In each of these cases there were terrific battles to be fought, splendid victories to be won; but they were battles and victories to save and preserve human life—not to destroy it.

As a second objective in our constructive educational program, I believe we must develop in youth, the sense of national humility. Now by national humility I mean the opposite to an over-worked pride in our nation's abilities, including a boastfulness of our achievements, and the coddled belief that we are superior to other nations, and to other races. Just because one has national humility is no reason why he should be ashamed that he is a citizen of the United States. Rather, it means a consciousness that our country is not perfect it does have its faults and does make mistakes. For instance, I believe any truthful history will frankly admit that we entered the Mexican struggle for the purpose of imperialistic expansion. It will admit that we quarreled with Spain in an effort to satisfy our industrial interests in Cuba, and it will admit that our over zealous ambitions have caused fear and unrest in Latin America for many, many years. But at the same time we can be justly proud of the inventive ability of our people and of our advancement in industry.

Youth must learn to feel the same way about other nations. They must recognize the services given to civilization by other countries as well as our own. Through education we must inform them of the contribution of music, from Germany; art, from Italy; literature, from England; co-operation, from Scandanavia; and science, from France. These favorable points must be stressed time and again so as to obtain a reaction of good will. By the way, last May the 18th, was World Good Will Day. It seems to me that we should have this feeling of mutual brotherhood in our hearts every day in the year, instead of just once annually. The willingness to co-operate internationally is the only genuine foundation for world peace.

And as a final objective, I believe educators should emphasize the real causes and results of war. The difference between the "moral" reasons given for a war, and the real reasons back of it should be especially stressed. Giving moral excuses for a war is simply screening the issues behind an attractive, sweet-smelling background. Perhaps ancient wars were of idealistic origin, I am not here this evening to dispute that; but certainly the modern war should not be justified by any such nonsense. Our youth should know that modern wars are caused by deep rooted economic factors. They should realize that three fourths of the world's resources are now either owned or controlled by less than one seventh of the world's population, and that certainly these so-called "have not" nations have some legitimate demand for a more uniform distribution of natural wealth. We must show that these economic barriers must also be overcome before we can even hope for peace.

(To be concluded next week)

A TEMPORARY CHANGE IN BERNE PULPIT

During July and August, while Rev. C. H. Suckau and daughter are sojourning in Europe, Missionary P. J. Boehr is to fill the pulpit of the First Mennonite Church of Berne, Indiana. Bro. Boehr has been substituting for his father-in-law, Rev. W. H. Gottshall in the East Swamp Church during his recent serious illness. Bro. Gottshall is reported to be steadily, though slowly, improving, so that by now is able to move about some.

Equal Opportunities for All

Ps. 72:1-14

Young People's Topic for July 31, 1938

Meditations:

M., July 25. Born in slavery. Exod. 2:1-10.
T., July 26. God has a place for all. Rom. 10:12.
W., July 27. Equal before the law. Rom. 13:1-8.
T., July 28. Original equality. Gen. 1:26.
F., July 29. Equal in death. Eccles. 12:7.
S., July 30. Use what opportunities we have. Matt. 25:14-30.

Since no issue of the Mennonite was printed last week, it might be well to review very briefly last week's lesson before beginning this week's. The topic was "The Contributions of City and Country to Our National Life." Each region makes characteristic contributions to our national life. The country offers grain, vegetables, and fruit for food; lumber for shelter; trees, flowers, grasses, mountains, gorges, for appreciation of God's creative powers. The city offers the industries that convert our raw materials into usable products; greater density of population submits a challenge to man's co-operative powers. Economically, culturally, and spiritually both sections have contributed. Both have produced outstanding leaders in all lines of human endeavor—industry, statesmanship, religion, education, science, and the like.

This week's topic is a logical sequence to the above. Continuing the city versus country discussion, we are concerned with the problem of opportunities. Do urban and rural people have access to equally helpful facilities? The Christian citizen recognizes the need for such an equality of advantages.

Program Suggestions:

Either a formal or an informal debate would be an excellent way of discussing this question. If it is informal you can choose a pro and a con speaker for each of the main items of the outline. The audience may be invited to participate after each topic is discussed, or only after all the speakers have presented their arguments.

A. Education.

1. In general, elementary schools in the country are not the equal of those in the city.

2. It is usually more difficult for rural youth to secure the advantages of highes education than it is for urban youth.

3. What educational advantages does the country have to offer to offset the above disadvantages?

B. Recreation.

1. The city is ahead of the country in making systematic provision for recreation.

2. What rural recreational opportunities are not easily attained by urbanites?

C. Religious Training.

1. Church activities are usually more numerous in city churches.

2. How does church consciousness or faithfulness to the church compare in the two types of communities?

D. Social Security.

1. Try to find statistics on the comparative financial standing of the average urbanite and the average ruralite.

2. Try to find statistics comparing the standard of living of the city and the country.

INTERMEDIATE DEPARTMENT

Our Bodies--Temples

Intermediate C. E. Topic, July 31, 1938

For Daily Study

July 25. Sensible exercise. 1 Tim. 4:8.
July 26. Trained runners. 2 Sam. 15:1-6.
July 27. Training the body. 1 Cor. 9:24-27.
July 28. Moderation in all things. Phil. 4:5.
July 29. Avoid excesses. Rom. 13:11-14.
July 30. An exquisite body. 2 Sam. 14:25.
July 31. Topic—Keeping our bodies fit. 1 Cor. 3:16, 17; 6:19, 20.

I. Suggested Songs: "Who is on the Lord's Side," "My Soul Be On Thy Guard," "Yield Not to Temptation"

Society announcements

II. Worship Service

"Holy Ghost, With Light Divine" (Instrumental)

Scripture reading: 1 Cor. 6:19, 20

Poem:

"My body is a temple
That needs the greatest care;
It must be clean and wholesome
For God is living there.
And if I keep the temple,
My body, strong and clean,
My mind must be as wholesome,
Although it can't be seen.

My thoughts must be unselfish;
My words must comfort give;
My deeds must all be worthy
Of him with whom I live.
The bracing air I breathe in,
The ocean where I swim,
The sports that build my muscle
I'll use for love of him.

—Esther H. Doolittle

Song: "Take My Life and Let It Be"

Prayer suggestions:

1. Thank God for the gift of the body, young and strong
2. Pray that we may keep our bodies healthy, clean and wholesome
3. Pray that we may present our bodies "a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God" for His service and glory

III. Topic Presentation. 1. Leader's Talk

It is strange to think that people will abuse their bodies. If you have an automobile and abuse it you can sell it to the junk man and buy a new one. The same is true of a piano, and of most things that we possess. But not so with our bodies. If we abuse them they are damaged for life.

Another and higher reason why we should carefully maintain a clean healthy body is because it is the temple of God. 1 Cor. 3:16, 17. One can hardly imagine a person who would be so mean that he would deliberately break the windows of a beautiful church or deface the building because it is God's house. But it is a most common thing to abuse His temple, the body without a thought. The defilement of the temple of the soul is worse than the defilement of any made with human hands.

2. Abuses of the body
   a. Eating and drinking. Rom. 14:17. Some people act as though that were the most important thing in life. What is the only purpose of food?
   b. "Total abstinence from the use of things harmful, and moderation in everything else." Is this Christian? Phil. 4:5. If an athlete can follow this rule for physical gain, how much more we for a spiritual one.
   c. "Freedom to smoke cigarettes" was the slogan of the girls at a certain college. They got it, but it wasn't long until many of them were slaves to them. Real freedom is not in being controlled by the appetites, but through the power of His Spirit dwelling in us to control them.
3. Keeping the body fit
   a. The health of the soul comes before the health of the body. Jesus always healed the soul first. 1 Tim. 4:8 gives the explanation. When a soul is made right with God, the health of the body may follow. If it doesn't the soul can still be happy. Phil 4:11. We have reversed the order in modern education, and that is why we have a race breaking down physically.
   b. We need to think of those who come after us. A young man in a hospital recovering from illness remarked that his people were all religious, but he didn't take much stock in it. "But you have inherited stock in it," the physician remarked. "I wouldn't sneer at it. You are recovering so quickly because you inherited your sound body from people who have kept God's laws."

IV. Closing Moments

(Sing from blackboard)

"O Holy Spirit, keep us pure,
Grant us thy strength when sins allure,
Our bodies are thy temple, Lord.
Be thou in thought and act adored."

(Tune—Doxology)

Benediction

JUNIOR CORNER

The Mennonite Junior and his Future

A Life Motto

Trust in Jehovah with all thy heart,
And lean not upon thine own understanding:
In all thy ways acknowledge him
And he will direct thy paths.—Prov. 3, 5, 6.

You could make these mottoes very simple by typing them on art paper and then letting a junior committee paste each little typed sheet on a bright colored background; two holes could be punched in and a ribbon tied through. Or, you could approach your Older-Sister-Society (Intermediate C. E. or Senior C. E.) for a sign of love to their Little-Sister. There would be volunteers that would make five beautiful mottoes each. You would not only have the mottoes but also a closer bond of affection between the endeavors because the one has served and the other has been served.

Other suggestions for July 31, 1938

Quiet music

Call to worship by chairman: "Enter into his gates with thanksgiving, and into his courts with praise; be thankful unto him and bless his name, for the Lord is good."

Response to call by a junior:

"O Lord of all the universe,
Who keepest all things in Thy care
While all our heads in reverence bow,
We lift our hearts to Thee in prayer.

From Thee receive we all our good,
E'en life itself is Thine to give;
Alone we are not brave and strong;
Apart from Thee we dare not live."

Worship period:

1. Group rise and sing: "Praise God from Whom All Blessings Flow"
2. A voice out of the group speaks the prayer:
   "Eternal are Thy mercies, Lord;
   Eternal truth attends Thy word.
   Thy praise shall sound from shore to shore,
   Till suns shall rise and set no more." Amen.
   (Group is seated)
3. Sing in unison: "Jesus Loves Even Me"
4. Scripture: Repeat in unison, Psalm 23
5. Sing the prayer-song in unison: "Saviour, Like a Shepherd Lead Us"

Mission Minutes: Link up to worship period with the thought:

"The Good Shepherd of Our Mission Fields." There have been wonderful reports from the mission fields that have been a tribute to the tender care of the Shepherd. A few could be reviewed by juniors. A moment of silent prayer for the ones mentioned in these reviews could close the three-minute period.

Announcements

Study period

Aim: to impress the child with the truth that present actions reap future fruits and to point him to the Good Shepherd who can lead us to act aright.

1. Chairman introduces subject: "This God is our God for ever and ever: He will be our guide even unto death." Ps. 48:14.
2. Special music: "Lead me, Saviour, lest I stray", verses 1 and 3
3. How I can prepare for the future now: minute talks by juniors
   - a. I must seek and believe on the Saviour now that I may have eternal life. John 3:36; Prov. 8:17
   - b. I must be humble now if I want to become great in the future. I Peter 5:6; Jas. 4:10
   - c. I must be obedient now if I want to be successful in the future: Joshua 1:7; Jer. 7:23
   - d. I must study God's word now that I may be obedient and prosperous in the future: Jos. 1:8
   - e. I must watch and pray now that I may be stronger to resist temptation in the future: Mark 14:38
   - f. I must trust Him now that my life may be blessed. Ps. 2:12
   - g. I must be pure now if I want to see God in the future: Matt. 5:8
   - h. I must tell others about Jesus now if I want Jesus to tell the angels about me. Luke 12:8
4. Sing in unison: "Trusting Jesus that is all"
5. Heart talk: "Thou art the Potter, I am the clay." Put it on the child's heart that we must come to the Saviour, the Shepherd, that we must give ourselves to Him, that He wants us now in order to prepare us for the work He wants us to do. Use as an object lesson, some soft clay. Stress these three points:
   - a. The soft clay lets itself be molded
   - b. The soft clay is molded into a vessel
   - c. The vessel is filled and used

   Close with the thought that we must become vessels for Jesus to fill.
6. Heart prayer in unison: "Have Thine own way, Lord." Sing verses 1 and 4
7. Closing prayer of gratefulness for the gift of a Shepherd who will make us and use us to serve our wonderful God.

ANNOUNCING

The Junior-Leader's Convention to meet on the day of the C. E. Convention, August 14, 2:30-4:30 p. m. at the Tabor Mennonite Church near Goessel, Kansas. May we meet you there?

CORRESPONDENCE

LOS ANGELES, CALIF., July 1, 1938

Dear Readers: The Lord has again blessed the work at the Immanuel Mennonite Church of Los Angeles beyond expectations. Last year, when Rev. D. D. Eitzen resigned, our church felt somewhat orphaned and to some members the situation seemed quite dark. But before we fully realized our situation the Lord brought to us the Rev. Albert Jantzens, newly appointed missionaries to China. The door to China was closed to them, just when they were ready to sail. During the period of waiting it was their desire to audit classes at the L. A. Bible Institute, so our congregation invited them to serve us until a permanent pastor would be called, and Rev. Jantzen has served faithfully during the whole school year. We feel very grateful for this opportunity of getting better acquainted with Rev. and Mrs. Jantzen, and little Grace Joan, and of learning to love them dearly. While here they lived in the Mission House at the rear of the church. Both Mr. and Mrs. Jantzen were always ready to step in and help wherever help was needed, so that all church services and activities continued uninterrupted.

This arrangement was only temporary as no one knew when the way would open for the Jantzens to leave for the mission field. Efforts were made to find the man whom the Lord meant to be our pastor. Several times we felt that He was directing us, yet the results proved negative. We became quite discouraged and hardly knew which way to turn next. Then our eyes were opened. Right in our own city was a young man, Mr. Wilbert A. Regier, finishing the theological course. Upon invitation to serve us one Sunday the sentiment of the members was to extend a call immediately.

On Sunday, June 19, Brother Regier was ordained to the Gospel ministry and installed as our pastor. That was a wonderful and blessed day. We had the unique experience of welcoming the new pastor at services that also concluded the ministry of the outgoing one. In fact, Rev. Jantzen formally turned over the pastoral responsibilities and the pulpit to Rev. Regier at the closing service of the day. A wonderful spirit prevailed, and it is an occasion that will long be remembered by all who attended. Truly the Lord has answered our prayers and our faith has been strengthened. We are going forward with new courage.—Mrs. A. J. Richert, Corr.

MEDFORD, OKLA., June 4, 1938

The Medford, Oklahoma, Mennonite Church gave Rev. A. G. Schmidt, Cordell, Okla., a call recently to serve as pastor and leader of our congregation. He is willing to accept, if the Lord is willing. And as soon as a suitable location is found, they will come in our midst. We extend them a hearty welcome and may our community be blessed in their coming. In the name of the Committee. Pete Neufeld, Secretary.

SALEM ZION CHURCH, FREEMAN, S. D.

The four-week Vacation Bible School closed on Friday, June 24, with an interesting program in the evening. 59 pupils were enrolled with the following teachers doing the instructing: Mrs. Clarence Deckert, Miss Linda H. Graber, Miss Selma Tieszen and Miss Jessie Brown.

On Sunday morning, June 26, Dr. Warkentin of Bethel College gave us a splendid sermon on the Book of Jude, the shortest in the Bible. On the same Sunday at five p. m., the wedding of Dr. Warkentin's son John, with Miss Linda Brown, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. H. J. Brown, missionaries in China, took place. The bride's father officiated in the presence of a full house. Close relatives and intimate friends came from North Dakota, Minnesota, Nebraska and Colorado Springs to attend the wedding. Also approximately seventy local relatives and friends from nearby gathered to partake of the bountiful wedding supper and to share the happiness of a beautiful wedding day.

On June 16, a similar occasion took place when Miss Hilda Waltner and Henry Becker were united in marriage. A reception in a big tent at Rev. A. Waltner's, the bride's parents, followed the ceremony.

May these lives be united to the glory of God, is our prayer.—B. P. Miller, Corr.

FIRST MENN. CHURCH, SHAFTER, CALIF.

On Sunday, June 26, we had our Sunday School Picnic in the Kern River Park. It was enjoyed very much to be out in God's glorious nature. We had a short program in the forenoon, presented by the different classes, and also enjoyed a good sermon by our Rev. Gustav Frey.

On June 12, six young people were baptized and received into the Church.

We had distinguished guests the past week. First we had Rev. E. J. Neuenschwander, representing the necessity of a printing plant for our General Conference. He also gave us a good message from the Word of God. Our church has decided to give our quota for the printing plant, which has been made very lenient. The other guests were Rev. and Mrs. J. B. Frey and their two daughters. Bro. Frey presented the Bible Academy at Meno, Okla. and gave us some wonderful experiences of his mission work in Arizona and thereby strengthened our faith.

Shafter at this time is a very busy place. We are in the height of our potato harvest. The shipments have been very heavy, up to 275 carloads a day. But the price has dropped from $1.25 at the beginning to 55 cents at present, which is unfortunate, though the average is not so bad.

FIRST CHURCH, BLUFFTON, OHIO

An extensive decorating program at the First Mennonite Church is being planned for the summer months. For eseveral years the need of painting the interior of the edifice has been keenly felt, but because of insufficient funds no action was taken. A few weeks ago a campaign for money was inaugurated, and the project is now under way. Though services will be disrupted for the summer months, the members are highly enthusiastic about the work.

Bluffton people are happy that they may entertain the Middle District Conference in June 1939. E. J. Hirschler and Gerhrad Buhler, members of the First Mennonite Church, are president and secretary respectively of the organization.

On July 10th the four Mennonite churches of the community will send representatives to the local high school auditorium for an all Mennonite "Song Fest". The group under the supervision and direction of Prof. Holtkamp of the College faculty plans to make the event a yearly affair. The first gathering of this kind was held last year in connection with the Swiss Mennonite Church Centennial Celebration.

Since Brother H. T. Unruh has assumed the pastorate, almost fifty new members have united with the church. This is truly an enviable record and speaks well for his work as a Christian leader and minister.

During the summer months the church always misses the presence of the college students who so willingly lend their talents for the work of the church during the school year. We are eagerly awaiting their return and hope that all new students enrolling will make this their house of worship.

The Church and Sunday School feel very keenly the absence of Prof. E. J. Hirschler from the worship services. Prof. Hirschler, who was superintendent of the Church School for about twenty years and has served as deacon for over a decade, has been confined to the Lima Memorial Hospital for the past few months. We wish him a speedy recovery.

Some highlights of our past year have been the presence of Christian leaders like the Rev. and Mrs. S. T. Moyer, Rev. Henry Fast, and Rev. Martin from Brazil; the presentation of a children's cantata at the annual Children's Day exercises; the all church picnic on the campus; and the Rochester Divinity School dramatization of "The Elijah."—Evelyn Gratz Stauffer, Corr.

EBENEZER CHURCH, NEAR BLUFFTON, OHIO

A group of the Gospel Team went to Clyde, Ohio, to visit the church of which Bro. Allen Amstutz is pastor. All report having had a joyous fellowship with the Christian friends at that place.—Bro. Victor Augsburger preached for us on Sunday, June 12; the ordination service for him has been postponed.—Our Bible School closed with an interesting program on June the 15th. The enrollment was 104.—In the absence of our pastor Rev. P. A. Kliewer, June 19, Rev. Kenneth Niswander from Butler, Indiana, preached for us from Ps. 33, "Rejoice in the Lord," etc. He put the weight much on "singing unto the Lord a new song." A catechism instruction class was started June 5. • Among our beloved sick are: Mrs. C. Hofstetter, Mrs. John Bixler, Mrs. Ben Amstutz, Mrs. Howard Basinger, Mr. Jacob Amstutz and Mr. Noah Badertscher. James 5:15, "And the prayer of faith shall save the sick." Rev. Paul Whitmer and his group of C. E. Workers from the Grace Church at Pandora, Ohio, went through the Bible in an interesting way. Bro. Whitmer closed the service with a powerful description of the strength and weakness of Sampson. We welcome such visitors.—Several auto loads of our members attended the Middle District Conference at Trenton, Ohio, recently.—Pulpit exchange July 10: Rev. D. J. Unruh of the St. John Church with our pastor.—Rev. and Mrs. P. A. Kliewer have been chosen delegates to the General Conference at Saskatoon, Sask.—On the evening of July 24, the Swiss Chorus, directed by Bro. Allen Burkholder will sing at our church. Come and hear them. —Mrs. Gideon Lehman, Corr.

MENNONITE CHURCH, DEER CREEK, OBLA.

Dear Editor: June 5th we had baptismal services. Twelve young people were baptised and received into the church. Since the beginning of the year we have had an increase of twenty members.

During the months of July and August we shall join in having union evening services with the Christian Church and the Methodist Church.

Miss Clara Kuehny spoke to us Sunday morning, June 19, of the missionary work in India, particularly of the location of the stations and the missionaries stationed there. Sincerely, Correspondent.

— "Watch Your Controls" is the title of a 75 page book by Dr. J. H. Langenwalter, pastor of the First Menn. Church at Reedley, California. It is a splendid treatise on the task and problems of trying to understand our boys and girls and young people, and leading them in the right direction. It is full of interesting information and suggestions to parents and leaders of young people and young people themselves. In the next issue of this paper we shall try to give a Review of the Book.

— Rev. H. J. Krehbiel of Reedley, Calif., past president of the General Conference and for a generation one of its leaders, is reported to be in better health again than he was for a while, so that he can attend one church service each Sunday and drive his own car occasionally. May our heavenly Father soon grant him full recovery.

—Bluffton College endorsed by the Middle District Conference, with the following resolution passed at its recent session: "Be is resolved that Bluffton College, in order to continue the adequate support of its program of Christian Education in its various departments, be permitted to organize groups in the conference churches to promote systematic giving in support of the college, preferably a plan that would encourage daily prayer and contributions; and that every church be encouraged to cooperate in organizing such groups for carrying out this program."

—South Church, near Freeman, S. D.—MARRIED: Otto Preheim of the S. Church and Sieglinda Waltner of the N. Church, June 1, in the latter church. Rev. A. Claassen received the vows, while Dr. J. E. Hartzler and Dr. P. R. Schroeder preached short sermons.—Fred Graber of the N. Church and Linda Miller of the S. Church, June 8, in the latter church. The pastor of the S. Church performed the ceremony and the pastor of the N. Church addressed timely admonitions to them.—"When you visit much after preaching service, you keep little of the worship. When you get much out of the preaching service, you will want to visit a little less."—Monthly News Letter.

—First Mennonite Church, Lima, Ohio.—Its correspondent, Mrs. R. E. Bixel, 434 Marian Ave., writes: "Our Summer Bible School closed June 23, with a program in the afternoon and a picnic in the evening. Three girls from the Bluffton settlement assisted in the teaching. 103 children were enrolled. Rev. John Esau preached his farewell sermon Sunday morning, June 26, followed by communion services. Rev. Esau has been with us four years and 10 months. Rev. George Dick from Henderson, Nebraska, will assume the work early in July."

—Rev. L. H. Glass, for a number of years the faithful superintendent of our mission at Altoona, Pa., passed away June 16 and was buried, June 19. He is survived by his sorrowing widow, Mrs. Edith Stofler Glass.

—Rev. J. J. Thiessen who has been serving a church in Saskatoon, Sask., until now a branch of the large Rosenort Church, was on May 22 ordained as elder of the Saskatoon branch, by Rev. David Toews, and the congregation is hereafter to be known as the First Mennonite Church of Saskatoon.

Bethesda Church, Henderson, Nebr.—Harvest time is here. Weather ideal for cutting. Some red rust is causing grain to lodge. Last week our community was saddened by the death of Marie Boehr, sister of Missionary Boehr. Her father is 92 years old. She also leaves an invalid sister. Last Sunday occurred the wedding of Harold F. Friesen, our son, to Elda Pankratz. Harold will again attend the medical school in Omaha next winter. So far we know of two auto-loads that will leave for the Conference in Canada. A. W. Friesen.

—Our good friend, Reverend A. S. Fretz of Perkasie, Pa., who has been a minister for 55 years and is still proclaiming the "Good News" with conviction, had the kindness to send us a copy of "Home and Church," their church annual, which shows aggressive activity in the Lord's business. Bro. Fretz serves three churches: Deep Run, with 181 members; Perkasie, with 23 and Springfield with 35 members. How remarkable that a man of 85 has the vitality and energy to do this work. Surely the Lord has been his sustainer.

—Miss Helene Wiens who has been the children's worker at the Lima (Ohio) Mission for some months was married to Mr. George Dick, formerly of Henderson, Nebr., and the couple will soon assume the superintendency of the Mission. Let us remember this work in our prayers.—Decoration Day, 5:30 a. m., 11 autos, 57 young people ready for a day's outing. —From a Folder of the First Menn. Church at Bluffton, O.—"The College school year has come to a close. The students will soon leave. You have been an inspiration to us. . . . Our best wishes go with you. Go out into the world, but remember that the world expects something of you, because you have been at Bluffton College. Meet your fellowmen with GOODWILL, LOVE and KINDNESS. Go forth to succeed, but more bound to be true to the best there is in you. . . . Live for eternal values and imperishable ideals. This is my last word. . . . God bless you.—H. T. Unruh, pastor.

—Rev. A. R. Keiser, for nearly 15 years the efficient pastor of the Salem Church, Dalton, Ohio, but now in the service of the Bath Community Church, O., writes: "It may be of interest to you to know why I accepted a call from the Community Church. As I told my church in resigning, I wanted to leave while I still had many friends. . . . There did not seem to be any vacancies in our conference. So when the secretary of the Ohio Council of Churches asked me to be an applicant for this church, it seemed to come as a message from God. In a way it is a home mission project. . . . Practically an entire township will be my parish. There is a good group of religious minded people who are the nucleus of the church, with good prospects of rapid growth, and the need of a building soon.—It is not my wish to leave the Mennonite Church and conference fellowship. I am attending the M. D. Conference at Trenton. If they will permit me to continue being a member of the Conference while I am temporarily ministering to another church, and then will give me a chance at one of our Mennonite churches, I will be glad to do so. But it is quite evident to me that we need some kind of a board with more powers than our Placement Committee in helping pastors and churches finding each other. . . . Christian regards."—A. R. Keiser.

VOLUME LIII BETHEL COLLEGE, KANSAS, JULY 19, 1938 NO. 28

Entered at the post-office at Bethel College, Kansas, as second-class mail matter. Acceptance for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in Section 1103, Act of October 3, 1917. Authorized January 22, 1919

Pertaining to the Conference Session at Saskatoon, Sask., July 31 to Aug. 7

I am now able to report that we have procured ample accommodations for the entertainment of our dear Conference visitors.

The Church in Saskatoon is small and there will not be many opportunities for conference visitors to obtain free entertainment. But we have found many lodging places at 65 cents a day or $3.00 a week, in many cases with breakfast included. These accommodations are in private homes.

Then there are lodging facilities at the Y. W. C. A. and Y. M. C. A. at comparatively low prices.

In addition we have listed several hotels, and I believe I can honestly say that only those are listed that have a good reputation. In the hotels rates are as low as 75 cents, if several persons occupy the same room, up to $3.00 a day at the Bessbourough Hotel, which is a first class hotel in every respect.

Now may we heartily and urgently request all those that are planning to attend the Conference in Saskatoon, to let us know who is coming, so that we can make all necessary arrangements.

On Saturday evening there will be persons at the depots of the Canadian Pacific Railway and the Canadian National Railway, when the trains arrive. The members of our Reception Committee will bear a mark, so that they may be recognized by all.

Then follows the registration in the basement of the church, Fourth Avenue, near Fire Hall. Following that the members of the Reception Committee will direct the different parties to the places assigned them.

On Saturday evening at 7:30, there will be held, at the Mennonite Church, a reception for the visitors.

Please, send in your applications, and be so kind and write where you would prefer to be housed. And let me repeat, in all cases address your applications to: Rev. J. J. Thiessen, 337 Fifth Avenue N., Saskatoon, Sask.

Feeding and Forbidding

Forbidding is as necessary as feeding. There are child psychologists and educators today who would tell us that we must never use "negatives" with a child; tell the children what to do, but never tell them, "Don't do" this or that; if we feed the child positive truth, this is all that is necessary. God does not seem to agree with such wisdom of men, for his Word tells us of many things we are not to do, as well as many that we are to do. Common sense, also, has a way of agreeing with God's Word. If a parent sees a little child reaching for a sharp knife, or for fire, or for poison, the parent says "Don't" and says it very quickly and positively, even enforcing the "Don't" with physical interference if necessary. No parent finds it sufficient merely to give the children nourishing food; along with the necessary feeding there is the constant necessity of forbidding. In one and the same interview with the Devil, the Lord Jesus Christ brought out the importance of both feeding and forbidding. Man must live, he said, "by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God,"—there is food. "Thou shalt not tempt the Lord thy God,"—there is something forbidden. Not only children, but all of us throughout life's journey, need to be told what to take and what to leave alone.

HOME MISSIONS

CHURCH IN PELLA, SASKATCHEWAN

Built in 1908 at as cost of $700, with room for 80 persons. It is a part of the Swift Current District. For 29 years this was the only church in that large territory.

HOME MISSION WORK

Swift Current-Wymark, Saskatchewan, District

Places of worship	Families with members	Fam. that attend worship	No. that attend worship	Number Services monthly
Swift Current	15	—	50 to 200	Each Sun.
Wymark	12	20	25 to 100	Each Sun.
Blumenhof	6	10	15 to 50	Every other Sun.
Pella	7	9	15 to 40	Every other Sun.
Schoenfeld	6	20-25	30 to 150	Every other Sun.
Gull Lake		20	30 to 50	Monthly
Total	46	79-84	165 to 590

At Swift Current, there are 4 Sunday School classes with 45 pupils. Christian Endeavor meetings once per month. Women's Missionary Society has 20 members.

At Wymark, there are 3 Sunday School classes with 55 pupils. Christian Endeavor meets once per month. Women's Missionary Society has 13 members.

At Blumenhof there is 1 Sunday School class with 25 pupils.

At Pella, Sunday School is held only during the summer.

At Schoenfeld, there is 1 Sunday School class with 20 pupils.

At Gull Lake, there is only 1 Sunday School class with 15 pupils.

Totals: 10 Sunday School classes with 170 pupils; 2 Mission Societies with 33 members.

Brother V. E. Nickel, Swift Current, leader in this District submitted the above report. He comments further that he is leading the Sunday School in Wymark. In other places others lead the Sunday School.

From the fact that many more families attend the worship services than are members is an indication of the growth that is possible in this field. Every gift and every prayer helps. Are you helping?

Yours for the Master's Cause,

A. J. Neuenschwander, Treas.

FOREIGN MISSIONS

From Our Youngest Missionary in India

Dear Friends in the Homeland:

Seven months have passed since I left my home, friends and the homeland. Many and various have been my experiences in this new country. My heart is filled with praise and thanksgiving for the daily blessings the Lord is bestowing upon me. But above all am I thankful to the Lord for His great love, who gave His life on Calvary for my sins and the sins of these people. Our hearts are burdened when we see the hundreds of men and women still living in sin and darkness, who have no hope and are without Christ in the world.

During the Easter week we gathered for special meetings every evening from 5-6 p.m. The meetings were quite well attended and the Lord blessed us. Good Friday, Brother P. A. Penner gave us a message on, "It is Finished." Easter morning before dawn we gathered at the cemetery for a short Easter Sunrise Service. At 8 a.m., we gathered in the church for our Easter services. Jesus Christ is risen indeed.

"I serve a risen Savior. He is in the world today;
I know that He is living, whatever men may say;
I see His hand of mercy, I hear His voice of cheer,
And just the time I need Him, He's always near."

April 18 we left for the Language School in the hills. We had a safe journey even though the trains were rather crowded. Now I am enjoying the cool mountain breeze and am busy learning the language. There are about 75-100 language school students.

This morning we had Communion services. We heard a wonderful message and the Lord blessed us in this sacred service.

LETTER BY WILHELMINA KUYF, CHINA, TO THE FIRST CHURCH, PHILADELPHIA

Dear Friends:

Two years today (April 18) since I left the shores of America, and just three days ago was it possible for me to come down to where my work will be. That is, it has not seemed possible before.

The main purpose of this letter to you is to thank you for the many, many lovely birthday greetings which started coming in on March 30th, and every mail since then has brought more of them. It honestly seems to me that no missionary ever had such a thoughtful church group back of her before. The cards were so pretty and the notes and scripture references were so much to the point. For those of you who wrote birthday letters a double measure of thanks.

We have an instruction class of 80 people in the south suburb here. At present they meet every day from 10 o'clock to 2 o'clock with a five minute recess. Here's something for you all to pray for, that these folks may be rightly instructed and that they may go on, experiencing more of the height and depth of the love of God.

The many times you have written that you were praying has come to mean ever so much. We find that we lean on these prayers when tight spots close around us. We here are not in such a bad position, but some missionaries have had to live with danger very close.

Haven't unpacked my trunk yet to settle down, but will get at it soon. When I settle, I will write to you all soon again, telling you what your representatives here are doing.

In closing, let me send my most heartfelt wishes for your personal wellbeing, and for the work of my favorite church.

Yours in Christian service, Wilhelmina.

THE NATURE OF THE CHURCH-RELATED COLLEGE

(From an address by E. A. Fitzpatrick, as reported in Christian Education, February, 1938)

In summary form, the author has the following to say about the nature of the church-related college:

It directs its activities and its influence always to the character of the student.

It aims at the moral and spiritual formation of the student as its ultimate objective of education.

It is concerned in the development of a free human personality as against merely racial or national or vocational objectives.

It regards as its ideal of man, not a perfected biological organism or a chemical compound, or an economic acquisitive machine, but a spiritually natural being, destined for an eternal life, capable of service to his brother for the love of God and his brother in the upbuilding of what has been called the Great Society.

It feels that whatever other services it may render, it should produce an elite who will serve both God and the country.

It accepts as its civic function the making of a good citizen who is not victimized by the prevailing idolatry of the state and who sees government or civil society merely as a means to the common welfare, and government officials as public servants, and who judges government in its social and individual services by its effects on the moral, intellectual and spiritual formation of the individual.

It manifests an attitude of reverent yet loving open-mindedness—the search for and love of truth—toward all truth and all values.

It rejects vocationalism except as an incidental objective and accepts instead the great tradition of liberal education.

It uses as its principal method the processes of intellectual training—not mere fact accumulation—and the cultivation of the intellectual virtues so that with increasing knowledge there goes increasing love.

It makes the study of religion as theology and as a practical guide central in the organization of the curriculum both in its position and in its quantitative scope in rationally ordering the whole, and not as a dissociated appendage.

12. It believes—and acts on its faith—that its quality depends on the quality of the persons who teach in it and administer it.

13. It keeps close to the center of the curriculum the great traditional humanistic studies, particularly the classic languages and literature, philosophy and history.

The Neglected Teaching

7. PERSONALITY AND MONEY

With some money is "cold cash" or "filthy lucre." Money is more than this. It is energy of the body and brain transformed into currency. It is, in a sense, "liquid personality." It represents a part of life.

If I go to a farm, a store, a school, or a shop and sell my labor and get a five-dollar bill for a day's work, what is this piece of currency? It represents the work of a day of my life. If I give it to the advancement of the Kingdom of God I have given a day of my life to the Kingdom of God. To be still more concrete, if I give that five-dollar bill for the preaching of the Gospel in the heart of Africa, I have given a day of my life to bring light to the "Dark Continent," in just as real a sense and possibly more effectively than had I stood for a day on the banks of the Congo and tried to preach to those children of the forest.

Although the love of wealth is a monstrous evil, money, when viewed in a Christian light, has true spiritual value.

When the sun rises, I go to work,
When the sun goes down, I take my rest;
I dig the well from which I drink;
I farm the soil that yields my food,
I share creation; kings do no more.

Minutes of the Fiftieth Session of the Middle District Conference

Held at the Apostolic Mennonite Church, Trenton, O.
June 16-19, 1938

(Editor's note: We are directed to publish the following portion of the Report in the paper now. The whole report is later to be published in pamphlet form).

The conference opened on Thursday night with the conference sermon by Rev. E. S. Mullet.

FRIDAY FORENOON

The business sesion opened at 9:00, with devotions by Dr. J. S. Schultz, who also led all other opening devotions of the conference.

It was moved that the Resolutions Committee draft a telegram and that the secretary of the conference send same to Prof. E. J. Hirschler, President of the Conference, who was in the Lima Memorial Hospital, Lima, Ohio. The following telegram was sent:

"We appreciate your kind letter. Regret you cannot be with us. Our wish for you at this time of affliction is voiced in Third John, Two."

The following letter to the conference by Prof. Hirschler at the Lima Hospital had previously been read:

Lima Memorial Hospital, Lima, Ohio

To the Fiftieth Session of the Middle District Conference assembled at Trenton, Ohio!

Greetings in the name of our Christ and Savior and Lord.

It is with sincere regret that, because of failing health, I am unable to serve you at this session in the capacity to which you have called me. However, I shall still be with you in the fellowship of prayer.

Let us diligently strive to maintain the unity of the Spirit in all things. Let every word be spoken in humility and forbearance born of the Love of Christ.

May this session witness a rebirth of enthusiasm for all our conference institutions, including our beloved college. May God's blessing rest on every action of the conference .

Your humble servant,
E. J. Hirshler

Moved last minutes of conference be accepted. Carried.

Moved and carried order of the day be accepted.

Vice President Rev. E. S. Mullet named following committees:

Conplimentary Votes: E. W. Baumgartner, Adolph Friesen, P. A. Kliewer.

Resolutions Committee: H. T. Unruh, C. H. Suckau, Wm. Stauffer.

Nominating Committee: P. E. Whitmer, Elmer Basinger, A. R. Keiser.

Auditing Committee: N. A. Lehman, J. S. Schultz.

Teller's Committee No. 1: Elva Schrock, Grace Jayberg.

Teller's Committee No. 2: Orlo Sprunger, Howard Raid.

Complimentary votes were granted to Mrs. S. T. Moyer, Rev. Carl Landis, Fred Van Gunten, Rev. John Esau, Miss Inda Sprunger, Dr. I. W. Bowman, George Dick, Helen Wiens, Dr. A. S. Rosenberger, Rev. G. T. Soldner, Theodore Voth, and Rev. H. M. Brittain, pastor of the Trenton Presbyterian Church. Recommendations of Committee on Conplimentary Votes accepted.

Report of Conference Trustees was given by Eli Luginbill and accepted.

Rev. P. E. Whitmer presented the revised constitution which had been held in abeyance the past year.

It was moved and carried that the last sentence in Article V, Section 2 be changed to "The members of the Young People's Committee and the Women's Work Committee shall consist of two of their officers designated by each of their respective groups and one elected by the Conference."

It was moved and carried that a fourth paragraph be added to Article V, Section "C" under "Representation of Congregations" as follows:

4. Any minister or missionary who has served the Mennonite Church in such capacity for ten years or more, has not become a member of another denomination, and lives within the territory of this conference may be granted privileges of voting and holding of office.

As it was time for Rev. Bloomquist's sermon the motion carried that the conference follow the order of the day.

11:00-11:30 "The Gospel for Today," by Rev. E. W. Bloomquist, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Lima, Ohio.

FRIDAY AFTERNOON

1:30-1:45 Devotions.

Report of Home Mission Board by Rev. Delbert E. Welty. The report was accepted and it was recommended that the work of Lima, Ohio, be continued.

Pastor's Report—Jan. 1, 1938 to July 1, 1938

Held 56 services. There were 35 personal preaching services and 24 prayer meetings. Conducted Bible Conference February 20-27—Dr. Arnold Schultz four messages and Dr. Max Wertheimer four messages. Other pastors and speakers visited us at various occasions.

Ebenezer Chorus rendered the Easter Cantata. Held two Communion services. Granted one Church letter. Received two accessions by letter. Present membership 25. Consecrated two infants publicly. Were able to do more visitation.

77 enrolled in Summer Bible School.

120 enrolled in Sunday School.

The Treasurer's Report of the Home Mission Committee for the year 1937-38 made by E. W. Baumgartner was accepted.

The Peace Report by Rev. Carl Landis was adopted.

SATURDAY FORENOON

The following Report of the Educational Committee was given and accepted:

The Annual Sunday School Statistical Report blanks and standards were sent out to all the churches of the Middle District. Fifteen churches filed their reports with the Committee.

The churches reporting were: Noble, Nappanee, Pulaski, St. Johns-Pandora, Wadsworth, Trenton, Summerfield, Fortuna, Lima, Wayland, First Mennonite—Bluffton, Grace Mennonite—Pandora, Donnellson, and Dalton. Sugar Creek, being a Union Sunday School gave no figures in their blank sent back.

These fourteen churches reported an enrollment of (2660) during the year with an average percentage of 66½. The highest average being 77 perceot and the lowest being 46 percent.

There were 47 persons in these fourteen churches that took Teacher Training either in their home churches or in Community Teacher Training classes.

Nine of the fourteen churches use the Mennonite Sunday School Quarterly in their adult department.

Four of these churches have their own Week Day Vacation Bible Schools and four have cooperated with Community Week Day Bible School programs. Six of these fourteen churches have no Week Day Bible Schools.

Twelve of these churches give regular Missionary and Temperance instruction throughout the year.

Eight churches had Catechetical Instruction this year. Three of these churches not having Catechetical Instruction had a definite program in their Sunday Schools to get decisions for Christ among their classes which we commend highly. Sunday Schools should put forth some special effort into Evangelism during the coming year.

Eleven of these churches had representatives at the Middle District Sunday School Convention.

Eight of these churches contributed $60.35 to the General Conference Sunday School work and $52 to the Middle District Sunday School work. These fourteen churches gave $3039.92 for Missions and Benevolences during the year.

There were 51 members baptized and joined the church during the year through the Sunday schools of the eight churches. Six churches made no gain through their Sunday School efforts.

We as a committee suggest that all churches of the district seek a very close cooperation with their Sunday School organizations in seeking to win scholars, especially the youth for Christ and the Church.

If our churches fail to promote Evangelism among our youth and definitely put them to work in the School and Church, eventually they will give themselves to lesser projects and be lost to the church completely.

We commend all the churches for their faithful efforts and pray God's richest blessings for them in the coming year.

Signed: Clarence Schneck, A. Keiser, John M. Tosh

Recommendations of the Educational Committee

1. The Educational Committee recommends that the churches of the Middle District Conference invite Miss Inda Sprunger and utilize her services. The Educational Committee will be glad to serve as a mediary in this work.

2. We urge our Sunday Schools and churches to actively sponsor the work of peace in accordance with our historic faith as based on the life and teachings of Jesus Christ, beginning in the heart of the believer.

3. Being mindful of the need of Christian sobriety and abstinence from alcoholic beverages, we urge all of our churches to labor earnestly for creating dry sentiment and wherever possible bringing about the prohibition of the sale and use of all alcoholic liquors. Free dry literature will be found on the book table.

4. In accordance with the motion of the 1937 conference, after due consideration, the Educational Committee recommends week-end Retreats or Conferences in the several centers of our Conference to build up the spiritual life of our Young People.

5. Inasmuch as inquiries are made from time to time as to opportunity for men to give active expression in Christian service, we suggest that thought be given as to the possibility of organizing Men's Fellowship groups in our Middle District Conference, and that action be taken at our next annual Conference.

Signed: Clarence Schneck, Austin Keiser, John M. Tosh.

The Report of the Treasurer of the Educational Committee was adopted.

Report of Bluffton College by Pres. A. S. Rosenberger.

President Rosenberger read 1 Peter 4:11. He said that the task today of the Christian College is to give God's message in education. Christian training is not only for individual benefit. It was pointed out that one of the objectives of Christian Education was that God may be glorified.

Some of the encouraging things about Bluffton College were that many express their appreciation for the spirit and influence of the College, and that the last year has been one of the finest of all. It was said that new faculty members have strengthened the school.

Some of the needs of Bluffton College are:

1. A balanced budget.

2. More current contributions. It was outlined that the Eastern Conference has renewed its fidelity and systematic support by a group of 1000 pepole in offering a prayer and 1 cent a day for the college.

3. To enlarge the work program for students, whereby they may be enabled to work their way through school. At present 30 more students can be accommodated by additional work recently arranged for.

Dean Schultz of the College also gave a brief report of Bluffton College. He stated that it is their aim to give students just out of high school an opportunity to gain sturdiness and Christian stability. All organizations have been set up with this high objective in mind.

Dr. Mosiman, president emeritus, stated that one of the objects in organizing the C.M.C. fifty years ago was to educate our young people in Christian living. He expressed his thanks to the Mennonite people and others for what they have done for the College and plead for continued early support of the institution.

E. W. Baumgartner, one of the trustees, praised Mr. Bixler and Dr. Mosiman for their financial guidance. Being a new trustee, Mr. Baumgartner expressed the desire that trustees be mandated. He, too, expressed his appreciation to the college for its influence as well as the Christian influence of Bluffton homes, where students stay during the school year.

Reports of all accepted.

Moved and carried that the business session be dismissed until 1 o'clock p. m.

11:00-11:30 Sermon "Except A Man Be Born Again," Rev. Bloomquist.

Moved and carried that the Resolutions Committee provide a resolution for the moral and financial support by our conference and that our two trustees present a detailed plan of support at the next conference session.

An amendment by Rev. A. R. Keiser was worded as follows:

"That the Trustees of Bluffton College, elected by the Middle District Conference, be asked to bring in to the afternoon session of Conference a plan whereby the Conference can give immediate financial assistance to the College."

The amendment carried.

This Report of Witmarsum Theological Seminary was read by Rev. A. S. Shelley: (Part of report deferred for later publication).

Proposed plan for Reorganization of Witmarsum Theological Seminary

1. That every branch of the Mennonite Church participating shall be entitled to three representatives elected by the respective branch. (a) That the General Conference be given six representatives.

2. That th Executive Committee of the Seminary Board shall invite other Mennonite branches, aside from the General and Central Conferences, to participate in the Seminary work.

3. That the Alumni Association shall have two representatives on this Board, elected by the Alumni.

4. That the Board of any Senior or Junior Mennonite College shall have the privilege of one representative on this Seminary Board.

5. That the Seminary shall offer courses in both Bible training and graduate Seminary work.

6. That all plans for the location and opening of the Seminary be deferred until the General and Central Conferences have acted on the above recommendations.

7. In th meantime the Seminary Board encourages Bethel, Bluffton and Freeman Colleges to strengthen their Bible Departments and that Bethel and Bluffton Colleges add an extra year to their Bible Departments.

The report was accepted.

SATURDAY AFTERNOON

1:30-1:45 Devotions.

Report of Women's Work was given by Mrs. D. E. Welty and was accepted.

The work of adopting the Constitution was resumed:

An amendment to Article V, Section C, paragraph 4 was made by Rev. Suckau as follows: "To grant the right of voice but not of vote nor holding of office unless sent as a delegate of one of our conference churches."

Main motion and amendment were adopted.

In choosing the place of the next conference it was moved, seconded and carried that a vote be taken on both the invitations—the one from the First Mennonite Church at Bluffton, Ohio, and the other from the First Mennonite Church in Chicago.

A majority of the votes were cast to hold the M. D. C. for 1939 at Bluffton, Ohio.

It was moved and carried that the letter "a" in Article III, third line of the Constitution be changed to the word "the".

Moved and carried that the Conference extend the courtesy as outlined in Paragraph 4, to Rev. A. R. Keiser.

Moved and carried that the resignation from the Educational Committee by Rev. A. R. Keiser be accepted. A vote of thanks was extended to Rev. Keiser for his splendid work on the Educational Committee.

Moved that the words "guidance" and "help" be inserted in Article II page one of the Constitution.

Moved and carried that the Constitution be accepted as a whole.

The following Report of the Young People's Division was given by Miss Inda Sprunger:

Report of Young Peoples' Division

The following brief report will indicate some of the work accomplished in the Young People's Division of the Middle District Conference. You realize that reports can only summarize some activities without expression of the spirit of the local groups and manifestations of interest of the various agencies at work.

There are fifteen active Senior societies in the Middle District Conference; three Intermediate societies and two Junior societies.

According to the resolutions adopted last year, the paper the Vine-Press, was again issued. Six numbers were issued since the last conference in August; in the months of October, February, April, May and June; making it a bi-monthly issue, with the exception of an extra issue for Mother's Day.

Literature was sent out in January in the form of questions and answers; to help the societies in the observance of the birthday of Christian Endeavor.

Another questionnaire with answers, relative to our denominational work, putting special emphasis on missionary information was sent later.

Some of the churches were visited and addressed; also attended two Young Peoples' Conferences.

Realizing that quite a number of our missionaries were either directly or indirectly connected with the Middle District Conference, we tried to launch the Dollar a Day project—each one selecting a day on which they would contribute a dollar toward the support of the missionaries. However, this project did not seem to be definite enough. It did not meet with as enthusiastic a response as the one of the previous year, namely contributing toward the return and the sending out of new missionaries. The amount exceeded $400.00.

We want to thank first of all the conference, in behalf of the young people, for making it possible to carry on this work.

We feel grateful, too, to the many who show an interest in this work; for the contributions; for help on the Vine-Press; to the ones especially who have made the covers.

The Young People's work is very promising and we anticipate an increased interest on the part of young people and leaders.

Our desire is, first of all, that we may serve God in a more definite and better way throughout this avenue; that we may help young people to find Christ; and having found Him to serve Him, and give of their best for Him. To this end we pray that we may unitedly work together in the coming year.

Respectfully submitted, Inda Sprunger, Field Sec.

The Report was accepted.

The following M. D. C. officers were then elected: President: Prof. E. J. Hirschler, Bluffton, Ohio; Vice President: Rev. E. S. Mullet, Nappanee, Ind.; Secretary: Prof. G. G. Buhler, Bluffton, Ohio; Program Committee: Wm. Stauffer; Home Missions: D. W. Bixler; Education: H. T. Unruh; Trustee: A. C. Diller; College Trustee: W. S. Shelly.

Report of Auditing Committee—Gerhard Buhler and N. A. Lehman accepted.

Report of Resolutions Committee adopted as follows:

1. We are grateful to God our Heavenly Father for favorable weather, inspiration and blessings of these Conference days.

2. We thank the local church for the fine hospitality extended to the delegates during these Conference days.

3. That this Conference expresses its appreciation to Dr. Bloomquist for his fine spirit and inspirational discourses during the Conference days.

4. That this Conference expressed its appreciation to Rev. and Mrs. John J. Esau for their sacrificial and faithful service in the Lima Church work and that a love gift of $25.00 be presented to them by this Conference.

5. That this Conference welcomes Bro. Geo. Dyck and Sister Helena Wiens to the Lima work and into our Conference and wish them God's blessings (for the contemplated event of the near future.)

6. That this Middle District Conference request the General Conference to meet at Saskatoon to draft and publish a tentative standard for the ministry in the Mennonite Church.

7. That this Conference strongly urge its churches to call Ministers of College and Seminary training; a part of which was received in our own school.

8. That we heartily endorse the efforts of the Peace Society; and that we cooperate with the Historic Peace Churches in presenting a united Christian peace front to the world.

9. This conference in its closing session expresses its regret to Bro. E. J. Hirschler for being unable to be present and assure him of our prayers for his recovery.

10. That this Conference ask all Conference Churches to remember our Conference work for the coming year in prayer and otherwise.

Moved and carried that the Witmarsum article be taken out of the above resolutions and be replaced with a substitute article namely:

Resolved that the Middle District Conference encourage the General Conference, at its sessions at Saskatoon, to provide for the organization of a Board of Trustees in cooperations with other Mennonite bodies, for a Bible Training School and a Graduate Seminary.

Moved and carried that Rev. Elmer Basinger be elected to the Educational Committee to replace Rev. A. R. Keiser, resigned.

The following recommendations of the Trustees of Bluffton College were heartily adopted:

Be it resolved that Bluffton College in order to continue the adequate support of its program of Christian education in its various departments, be permitted to organize groups in the Conference Churches to encourage systematic giving in support of the Colleges, preferably a plan that would encourage daily prayer and contributions and that every church be encouraged to cooperate in organizing such groups for carrying out such a program.

Moved and carried that the Home Mission Board finance a gift of $25 to Rev. Esau.

Moved and carried that the president of the M. D. C. name two men on the Young People's Shipshewana Retreat.

GIDEON: FOLLOWING GOD'S PLAN

Judges 7:4-7, 15-23

Introduction

Read Judges chapters 6 and 7 for a proper understanding of our lesson setting. Israel, because of unfaithfulness to God, was sorely oppressed by the wandering, marauding Midianites for seven years (6:1-6) who robbed them of their crops, sheep and cattle. An angel of the Lord came to Gideon, of the tribe of Manasseh, who for fear of the enemies, was threshing wheat in a winepress (6:11-24) and called him to lead Israel against the Midianites. In those gloomy days, God found in him the man needed, a man of good common sense, industrious, energetic. His faith in God was real and he was willing to undertake the difficult task when assured of God's help (6:37-40).

God Chooses Gideon's Army vs. 4-7

Gideon was eager to meet the enemy (v1) with the army that responded to his call. God directed him to reduce the number (vs.2,3), lest the people ascribe the victory to their own strength. All the fearful ones must be eliminated. Israel's danger seemed to lie in the smallness of their army, but God saw it lay in the largeness of it. The ten thousand who remained were still too many (v4), so God purposed a further test in their manner of drinking (v5). This would show whether they thought mostly of themselves or not. The test was seemingly a small matter, but very significant. Those who kept their eyes on the enemy and one hand on their weapons while drinking, were chosen. The test showed that three hundred (v6) could be depended upon to give their whole thought and effort to the one thing of overcoming their enemy. God is testing us today and His work is done very largely by those who give the first thought to it.

God declared (v7) that by these chosen few, the Midianites would be overcome. He can achieve His purposes by seemingly slender means when His instruments are of the right quality—the power is God's. God was working in behalf of Israel, yet the three hundred showed marvelous heroism and strength of purpose.

Gideon's Strategy and Victory vs. 15-23

Gideon with his servant made a secret visit to the camp of the enemy and heard one of them relate a dream he had and give the interpretation of it. This encouraged him. He worshipped God and gave Him the credit for the victory as if it were already won. He did not fold his hands and wait idly. He shrewdly devised a strategy designed to throw the enemy into a blind panic of fear (vs16-20). It demanded much faith and courage to carry it out. The trumpets were a call to God, an appeal of Gideon and his men to Jehovah (Numb. 10:9). The pitchers prevented the Midianites from seeing the torches until they suddenly flared in the darkness on three sides of their camp. The effect was startling and bewildering and wild panic seized them (v21). God used the small number of His chosen ones and they used only the weapons of peace. The sword of the enemy brought about their own destruction (v22).

Gideon carried out God's plan. He was a realistic and honest man who loved his people and God. God could and did use him and for years his strong hand under God's direction, held sway among his people. He had the opportunity to become a dictator over his people (8:22), but he flatly declined the honor. Egotism was NOT a fault of his. Leaders in Church and state can learn a needed lesson, not to feature themselves too much. Too many in our day yield to this temptation. Gideon worked with God.

To General Conference Visitors

from Oklahoma and Kansas

Relative to transportation to the Conference, a meeting was held in Newton, July 12, with the representatives of different railroads to receive information about rates and schedules to Saskatoon. Approximately 30 interested persons were present. It was agreed that if a sufficient number, some twenty, would sign up to leave Newton for the Conference Wednesday evening, July 27, the railroads will furnish an air-conditioned car all the way to Saskatoon.

Any one interested in this should get in touch with Karl A. Richert, 110 East 6th St., Newton, Kans.

—First Menn. Church, Allentown, Pa.—"Brother Mohr, our S. S. Superintendent reports that our enrollment was increased 44 per cent since October and the average attendance 38½ per cent. Summer is here, but last Sunday we had 74 more present than a year ago."

Education as a Solution for Peace

Carlus Basinger

I believe our youth should know that even Woodrow Wilson was sharply and pointedly pressed by financial and industrial leaders to enter the World War on the side of the Allies to prevent a major economic depression from engulfing our country. They must be made to understand that we actually did sew the dollar sign on the American flag. "But," you say, "We didn't know about things like that then." True enough, we didn't. But through deceitful propaganda we were duped. Slowly and painstakingly our youth must learn that everything read in the newspapers, or heard over the radio, or seen in the movies, is not necessarily reliable. A discrimination between fact and propaganda must be dedeveloped. News reels coming from the wars in Spain and China, and excited accounts of guards being slapped in their faces smack all too well of the German atrocity stories back in 1914. Our youth must learn to separate logical and genuine truth, from downright deceit!

And the results of war must be taught in such a manner as to make a lasting impression. I believe the United States budget would make good material for such realistic teaching. Over a billion and a half dollars will be spent by our country next year for war. That figure, by the way, is the largest peace time expenditure for armaments in the history of the world! I wonder what would have happened if some Congressman would have asked for just one million added on—for peace? If we should spend just a little less for war, and just a little more for peace, could we not expect better results?

But cost isn't the only result of war. Look at the moral degeneration that has come about. Look at the political degeneration that is spreading. And look at the religious upheavals that are shaking the earth.

Thus, my constructive peace program suggests for education on the following points:

1. Re-teach the meaning of patriotism.
2. Develop international good will through humility.
3. Impress youth firmly with the real causes and results of war.

I realize this will take leadership. Bold, courageous leadership. Leadership that is willing to even sacrifice a personal ambition in response to this higher ideal. And it is from the youth of today that we must develop and choose the leadership of tomorrow.

And when we have reached our final goal, that prophet's dream will no longer be just an idle fantasie, but a living, triumphant reality!

Wanted! Young Delegates

At the Bluffton General Conference it was voted to urge upon churches the need of electing at least one delegate from each church who was under thirty years of age. It becomes increasingly clear in the work of the Church as in the work of the world's business, that it is a young man's world. If the work of the Church is to continue to become increasingly effective, it must be clearly sensed that the rolls of leadership must be replenished constantly.

Young people are peculiarly effective in transmitting their enthusiasms and their visions. One way to make sure that the enthusiasms generated at the Conference will take hold in the church upon its close is to send youthful delegates.

A last minute check-up on this matter may be worth while. Find out who the delegates are, and determine for yourself to what extent your church is to take this matter to heart.

Treasury Call

Has your C. E. sent in its share to cover the financial program for the Young People's Committee? It would be fine if we could report that all bills and obligations for the current year are paid up, and that the Young People's Committee "crossed the line with a bang"!

If your C. E. has profited by the visits of the Field Secretary,

If your C. E. has profited by the use of program materials appearing weekly in The Mennonite,

If your C. E. has profited by the interchange of ideas between district officers,

If your C. E. has profited by the enthusiasms generated by district projects,—

Wouldn't it be only natural—sort of token of gratitude—to share your blessings? The address of the treasurer is Helen Lichti, 1805 Fifth Street, Sanger, California. Thank you.

Pressing to the Mark

Pressing to the mark, we strive
As near like Christ to be:
Dauntless youth, with Christ our goal,
FIRST MENNONITE C. E.

Pressing to the mark, we live
That the world may see,
All our youth for Christ we give
FIRST MENNONITE C. E.

Pressing to the mark, we'll serve
Tirelessly, that we May ever keep with pride, the name—
FIRST MENNONITE C. E.

Consecration Meeting

Young People's Topic for Aug. 7, 1938

Meditations:

M., Aug. 1. Is my body healthy? Matt. 15:21-28.
T., Aug. 2. Is my mind clean? Phil. 4:6-9.
W., Aug. 3. Am I reverent in spirit? Col. 3:1-10.
T., Aug. 4. Am I sympathetic toward others? Acts 9:36-43.
F., Aug. 5. Am I proud? How? Mark 12:38, 30
S., Aug. 6. Am I really honest? Deut. 16:20.

Often we are warned against centering our thoughts inward upon our own actions and feelings. We are told that our interests should be concerned with our fellow-men; that it is dangerous to day-dream and build air castles about our fondest wishes. It is certainly true that the self-centered individual is far from popular; that the habitual dreamer knows little of his immediate surroundings because he's engrossed in his own imaginary happenings. Such a person finds it difficult to adjust himself to changing environments. He is easily insulted, very apt to feel people are slighting him. Deep down inside himself he feels himself superior to the average run of humanity; but he is very much afraid that the rest of the world doesn't recognize his value. Unless he receives honors and favorable mention, he fears being forgotten or being belittled.

This week's observations, although they concern ourselves, should not make us self-centered. Someone making a garden must first take an inventory of the available resources. A housekeeper planning a meal makes a mental survey of the food she has at her disposal. As Luke puts it: "For which of you, desiring to build a tower, doth not first sit down and count the cost, whether he have wherewith to complete it?" (Luke 14:28).

Just so we, as we build our lives, must pause at times to ask: "What qualities, what talents, do I possess? Am I putting those that I have to work in God's Kingdom? What qualities or abilities do I lack? Am I making constructive efforts to acquire those abilities that would be of help to me? What faulty habits have become a part of me? Am I trying to rid myself of them?" Then, as we consecrate ourselves anew to the service of the Master, we will endeavor constantly to become more efficient in that service.

Program Suggestions:

Have a capable leader conduct an open discussion. Following are a few suggested questions.

A. The Body.

1. Of what importance are the laws of good health? Is it ever justifiable to disregard them?

2. What part do cleanliness and temperance have in the physical powers, studying late until one's health suffers, etc.?

Paul gives an excellent bit of advice in Romans 12:1. "I beseech you therefore, brethren, by the mercies of God, to present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable to God, which is your spiritual service."

B. The Mind.

1. What are some aids to mental alertness?
   a. Reading habits
   b. Hobbies
   c. Special interests
   d. Keeping abreast of the times. — Name others and discuss them.
2. Which is better and why?
   a. Try to obtain an extensive knowledge concerning a great many fields of human endeavor.
   b. Study one field intensively.

C. The Spirit.

1. What are the marks of Christian character?
   a. Dignified humility
   b. Unrelenting honesty.
   c. Wholesouled devotion to Jesus Christ.
   d. The Christ-like spirit of self-denial.
   e. A readiness to spend his life in the service of his fellow-men.
2. How are they attained?

D. The body, the mind, and the spirit.—How can their attributes be co-ordinated to form an integrated Christian personality?

Teach us, Master, how to give
All we have and are to Thee;
Grant us, Saviour, while we live,
Wholly, only Thine to be.

Myself and Money

Intermediate C. E. Topic, August 7, 1938

For Daily Study

Aug. 1. What money is for. 2 Kings 7:1.
Aug. 2. How one man sought riches. Gen. 13:7-18
Aug. 3. Tainted gold. Jas. 5:1-7
Aug. 4. What I do with my money. Luke 10:30-35
Aug. 5. Wrong uses of money. Amos 6:1-6.
Aug. 6. What money does to me. 1 Tim. 6:9, 10, 19
Aug. 7. Topic—Myself and Money. Matt. 19:16-22

A Picture Interpretation

If possible have a copy of Hofmann's "Christ and the Rich Young Ruler" to hang in the front of the room. If a large one is not available, one can be cut from a Scripture calendar. An interpretation can be given something as follows: Christ occupies the center in every life. A look of deep compassion and yearning is on his face as he puts the final test to the rich young ruler. His yearning is the same for anyone wrapped in sin and selfishness. His hands are open and point the direction he must take, away from self. The young ruler's attention is not on Jesus, but on the treasure which is his god. The faces of the disciples in the background express great astonishment and almost fear at Jesus' words. What chance was there for them if he made such demands of this fine young man.

I. "Open My Eyes," "Jesus, More Than Life to Me." Society announcements in charge of president.

II. Worship service (focus a light on the picture at this time)
  Quiet music
  Scripture reading: Matt. 19:16-22
  Picture interpretation
  Duet: (unannounced) "He is All in All to Me"
  Silent prayer, (pray that each one might put Jesus first in his life)
  Let the superintendent close.

III. Presenting the topic.

1. Leader's remarks. There is only one first place in anything in life. So also there is but one first place in the heart of man. Jesus again and again points out the necessity of giving God first place in the heart. If anything else is substituted it becomes our God. The sin of the rich young ruler was not that he possessed money but that he wanted it more than he wanted eternal life. That is why he lost. Do we understood the place money should hold in our lives.
2. Select some of the daily Scripture reading for topics.
3. Questions
   a. How can we make sure that we are not putting money first? Ask several Christian people what they consider a good plan of giving. Report on these.
   b. "Whatever we have, the more we have, the more we must share." How does this law of giving hold in other things besides money? What happens if we do not share our talents, our time, our service, for the good of others?
4. Object talk

A pebble, a lump of sugar, and a glass of water. "When I drop this pebble in a glass of water, the water is not changed. I take a sip of the water, but the pebble hasn't in any way altered its taste or flavor. (Illustrate). But when I drop in a lump of sugar, see what happens. The sugar gradually dissolves until it disappears entirely. Though the sugar seems to have lost itself, it is still present in another form. When I sake a sip of water now, I find that the sugar has sweetened the entire glass. (Illustrate).

The pebble, in this instance, may be used as a symbol of selfishness. It refuses to give away the slightest bit. The sugar, on the other hand, may be taken as a symbol of sharing. It may give itself entirely away, but it continues to exist in a larger and more widespread form as it sweetens the water. So the rich young ruler refused to share his wealth with others. His heart was like the pebble, hard and unchanged. His possessions, like the sugar in the glass of water, might have become a part of the life of his community, making it sweeter and richer for others as well as himself.—New Century Leader.

JUNIOR CORNER

General Outline for August

August 7: Every Junior a Tither
August 14: Every Junior a Bible Reader
August 21: Every Junior a Prayer Partner
August 28: Every Junior a Christian

Verse for the month: "Lord, I will follow thee withersoever thou goest." Luke 9:57.

Song for the month: "Onward Christian Soldiers"

Every Junior a Tither

Program suggestions for August 7, 1938

Call to service: Quiet music
Opening service: (Rise)

1. Sing in unison: "The Lord Is In His Holy Temple"
2. Speak in unison: Ps. 19:14 (Be seated)
3. Sing in unison: "I Gave My Life for Tee."
4. Responsive reading: Psalm 36:5-10
5. Sing in unison: "Oh, How I Love Jesus"
6. Leader's prayer

Announcements

Mission-minutes: Presenting the needs on our fields. Juniors can do this by reviewing mission letters found in our publications. You can link mission minutes to study period by introducing the topic with: "How we can answer these needs."

Study period. Aim: to build the foundation for a future tither of our church. (The child does not only live for the present. Its young heart takes leaps into the future to "when I am big." How worth while if we can instill a longing "to put aside into God's treasury" when the earning period of life comes).

1. God's commandment and promise. Previous to the meeting put Mal. 3:10 on the board. Let the chairman introduce the topic by referring to the board and asking the group to read the commandment and promise.

2. What does tithing mean?: By a junior who has the numbers 1 to 10 strung on a brightly colored ribbon or colored on to a poster sheet. The number 10 should be in "gold." Let this junior show that a tithe means the 10th part. Let him use Haggai 2:8 show how loving God is to ask only a tenth when all is His.

3. Does God mean only money? Let a junior answer with Lev. 27:30 and tell how we can sell a tenth of our products and then put the money into God's treasury.

4. Sing in unison: "Take My Life, and Let It Be"

5. How does God want me to give? Answered by three juniors with (a) Matt. 10:8 (b) Luke 6:38 (c) 2 Cor. 9:7.

6. How Jesus looks upon my giving. Let a junior tell the story of "The widow's mite." Mark 12:42-44.

8. Special music: Voices singing (from the rear) the chorus "Jesus Paid It All."

9. Repeat in unison verse for the month: Luke 9:57.

10. Sing in unison song for the month: "Onward Christian Soldiers."

11. Leader's closing prayer.

REPORT ON THE YOUNG PEOPLE'S RALLY AT SMITH CORNER MENNONITE CHURCH

Theme of meeting: "Making Religion More Real."

The meeting was attended with much enthusiasm by all in spite of a heavy downpour of rain. There were about 100 young people from all four churches in the vicinity and 16 from the eastern part of the state.

After a short devotion led by Rev. Rough from Smith Corner, a discussion on the above theme was held by the members of the four churches of the vicinity as follows: Making Religion More Real:—In Our Worship, paper from Smith Corner; In Our Thinking, paper from Napier; In Our Fellowship, Paper from Roaring Spring; In Working at a Task, paper from Altoona. This was concluded with a summary on the theme by John Unruh from Lansdale.—Necessary business was then transacted and the meeting closed by Rev. E. Slotterback from Altoona.

Supper was served in the basement of the church. After this every one enjoyed visiting and getting acquainted until the evening meeting at which time Rev. J. J. Plenert of First Church of Philadelphia gave a stirring message. Every one went away richly blessed in the Lord.—Submitted by John Unruh.

Conference Objectives for Young People

Proposed Objectives for Consideration by the Young People at the General Conference in Saskatoon

We as Young People of the General Conference have many opportunities for service. These are educational, missionary, and philanthropic. May we scrutinize some new ventures and possibilities.

I. The first project that one may mention is "The Student Loan Fund." It is necessary that our people be made to understand the need of a fund of this kind. There are many young people who would like to go to college and cannot because of lack of finances. These young people having the advantages of Christian higher education would make more useful members of their church and community. It is also evident that the church needs some young people to be trained as missionaries, others as ministers, and unless the church has a certain number of these who go, her work is going to suffer.

In our day there is a very limited number of students who are going through college with the help of some interested party. On the other hand there are many who would like to prepare for Christian service but they have no way to go. Hence a good deal of potential leadership is lost. Another factor to remember is that when you help deserving students you also help deserving colleges. The more students a college has the more income it receives. With some of the above objectives in view, the Board of Education of the General Conference has established a loan fund for deserving students. This has been started with the sole purpose of helping needy students get the necessary training. The Board has gotten this fund under way by setting aside 10 per cent of its receipts for this purpose. However this method of growth of the fund is very slow. Hence there remains a challenge for the Young People of our Conference to participate in a loan fund to those of their kind. Some of the rules to govern the administration of the loan fund are: 1. Preference be given to students planning to enter Christian service. 2. The student must have a guarantor. 3. No one shall receive over $100 per year. 4. The college must give approval to the student. 5. The applicant should be of Junior-Senior College level; etc. 6. Applicants are limited to our Mennonite Colleges. A student loan fund primed by more funds would help many more young people to follow the call of Christian service.

II. A second project to be entertained by the Young People of the General Conference is the beginning of a new City Mission in some needy field of the United States or Canada, preferably in some large city. Even though this work is under the jurisdiction of the Home Mission Board, yet we as young people should definitely set out to finance a city mission all alone, under the Board jurisdiction. Our Conference needs more Mission stations in our own America. Funds are needed. We have the workers. Could we unitedly support a Mission church as Young People of the General Conference? The larger denominations have a ehurch of their kind in almost every larger city of this country. This was accomplished by establishing small Mission Churches, in the first place, and they have grown to be self-sustaining. Why should we not go in a more rapid rate in working such a project to expand the faith of our fathers. I am positive the Lord will bless us.

III. A further project that merits our thoughtful consideration is our attitude towards peace in times of peace as well as in times of war.

To the Mennonite Youth the problem of war and peace is extremely vital especially today, when bombs are raining death on soldiers and civilians alike in Spain and China; when all nations are engaged in a huge armament race. We know that the taking of human life is sin; a sin which we must abhor. To formulate an effective peace program it behooves us to recognize: 1. That we must work for peace in times of peace. 2. That we must be prepared and trained how to approach war in times of war. Shall we be conscientious objectors? Will the government recognize such a position? We must be prepared to face either the recognition or non-recognition of such a C. O. position. Many in the last war were ineffective in their position, because they had not prepared themselves in advance. They very often could not give valid reasons for their rufusal to take part in war, and when reasons were given they differed radically from one another. This made their position very weak. It is therefore necessary that the Mennonite Youth of the General Conference have a resolute and well defined program as regards our principles of peace. They are valuable enough to be incorporated as peace ideals for our General Conference Young People. Such peace ideals adopted by the General Conference, and by the Regional Conferences as well as by the Churches, would greatly fortify our young people and make them feel that they are a compact group of Pacifists. It is high time that we as young people ally ourselves with national Peace Organizations and make known our established ideals of peace to others. May the Lord give us grace to think over this project in the oncoming General Conference.

IV. Smaller projects for young people may be mentioned, such as purchasing of some of the comforts that we enjoy in America. The Missionary is in need of refrigerators, duplicators, typewriters, motorcycles, etc. New equipment is essential for efficient work. This is true in the heathen land as well as in America. May we consider these things also in behalf of our missionaries.

(The above paper is compiled by the Chairman of the appointed Committee on Young Peoples' Projects. The other embers of the Committee have contributed to its contents.

Chairman, Phil. A. Wedel, Aberdeen, Idaho. Other members, Rev. Olin Krehbiel, Lansdale, Penn., Karl Baehr, Newton, Kansas; Pres. Arthur Rosenberger, Bluffton, Ohio.

Report of Peace Meeting Held June 17

Minutes of a public meeting for the discussion of the Missionary Implication of the Mennonite position on Christian peace and the Kansas Institute of International Relations.

Held in the Bethel College Chapel, Friday, 2 p. m

1. The meeting was called to order by Ed. G. Kaufman, who had issued the call for the same.

2. The Scripture lesson was taken from the Sermon on the Mount in St. Matthew's Gospel, chapter 5, verses 38-48, and chapter 28, verses 19 and 20, after which Dr. P. H. Richert led in the opening prayer.

3. The statement of the purpose of the meeting as presented in the call for the same was again gone over, after which officers for the day were elected by those present, totaling around 75 persons. Dr. Ed. G. Kaufman was chosen as chairman and Reverend Walter H. Dyck was chosen as secretary.

4. The discussions of the day centered around three major questions:

a. What is the Mennonite Peace position?—After some discussion on this question, the group seemed to agree pretty well that the statement adopted by the three Historic Peace churches (Friends, Brethren and Mennonites) at a meeting about two years ago held in Newton and which was also later adopted by the Western District Conference on recommendation of the Peace Committee of that Conference is in general quite acceptable.

b. What missionary implications does this position on Peace have, if any? — Historically Mennonites were restricted to living their Peace testimony and were forbidden by various governments to propagate the same. Somehow we have come to accept this position as the normal one and consciously still hold to it, although our situation in America is quite different since this is a democracy and every citizen has a right to vote and is responsible not only to, but also for, the government. Our Peace heritage also carries a missionary obligation with it. How can we fulfill that mission? Bethel College is teaching a course on Christian Peace. Our Peace attitude should be a fruit of the Christian life. Conversion comes first, but unless there is fruit, conversion is of little avail. Fruit will cost. Are we willing to let our Peace attitude cost us what its implications would indicate, namely, (1) to live it, (2) to preach it, (3) to write about it, (4) to suffer for it, (5) to give money for it, (6) to educate for it, (7) to set up Peace committees in our conferences and otherwise organize our churches to do this work like we are organized to do mission work so as to bring other Christians to accept it also.

The Friends present were: Ray Newton of Philadelphia and Guy Solt of Grinnell. At this point Mr. Newton was called upon to give a brief statement as to how the Friends carried out the misssionary implications of their Peace testimony. In part he said: The Friends have considered it as their special mission to lead people who are already Christians to a deeper understanding of the Gospel of Jesus Christ as it issues forth in the Peace testimony. Peace to the Friends is a way of life; Peace with God first of all, Peace with ourselves, Peace with neighbors and Peace in the world. The Christian gospel of salvation, love and peace go together. There is no salvation without Peace. There is no Peace without salvation. The Peace testimony of any group dries up unless they work at it. Friends work at it by means of Peace Caravans, Emergency Peace Campaigns and the International Relations Institute. It is one thing to stand for Peace and work for Peace during war time, but somehow as Christians we must find a way of working for Peace also when our nation is not at war.

c. The International Relations Institute.—The Institute is looked upon as a method of getting in contact with people who have not grown up with the peace idea of the Friends or Mennonites. The Institute is to be distinctly a missionary endeavor. To get others to take our missionary message along this line, the Institute puts on experts not only of Christian Peace such as Lyton Richards and Muriel Lester, but also such experts of government, economics, etc. The world seems to be heading for another world war. If America gets into war, it will mean the abolition of freedom. Pacifists were not numerous enough in the last war to cause the government much trouble. Since pacifists are increasing, the government may be much more ruthless with them in the next war than in the last. We therefore need not only to emphasize the missionary implication of our Peace testimony to the outside but also the deepening of the Peace conviction in our own groups, especially among our own young people.

The Kansas Institute was discussed in some detail and the strong and weak points were brought out. Objections to certain features of the past were discussed. There seemed to be agreement that on the whole the Institute in the last three years had gradually improved. More representation on the part of Mennonites in the making of the program was wished for.

The following figures were put on the board indicating attendance and contributions by Mennonites in the last three years, showing a steady decline:

In 1936, 85 Mennonites, $1100 contributed
In 1937, 63 Mennonites, $367 contributed
In 1938, 36 Mennonites, $100 contributed

For this year there is an $800 deficit in the Institute budget. Individuals expressed themselves as willing to do what they could to help cover this deficit. If we really consider this a missionary endeavor, it should not be hard for the Mennonites to raise money for it. The total budget of the Institute is about $4000 each year.

At the Institute this year there were 17 different denominations represented. People came from fifty different localities, 45 in Kansas and 5 out of Kansas. Out of a total attendance of 130, only 36 were Mennonites. All of this points to tremendous missionary opportunities in the Institute. During war we would do more than merely raise money. Why not do what we can for this cause during time of Peace?

Everyone present was asked to state in a few words his reactions to the past and the future of the Institute. A few expressed some doubt. A number of constructive suggestions for the future were offered, and in general the hope was expressed that the Institute might be improved still more and continue. Many present pledged their support.

5. Adjournment.

Respectfully submitted,
Ed. G. Kaufman, Chairman
Walter H. Dyck, Secretary

In Memoriam

PETER F. TOEVS, the son of Frank and Elizabeth Toevs, was born April 25, 1865, in Pordnau, South Russia, and parted this life on June 15th. He reached the age of 73 years, one month and 20 days.

As a young man he came to America and made his home near Mountain Lake, Minnesota, where in the year 1884 he accepted the Christian faith and was baptized by Elder Aaron Wall and received into the membership of the Bergfelter Church. When he moved to Oregon with his family, they settled at Salem and soon united with the Emmanuel Mennonite Church of Pratum. Here he remained a faithful member until his departure.

On November 12, 1893, he was united in marriage to Katharina Enns. They shared joys and sorrows for forty five years. This union was blessed with nine children. He was a loving husband and father, sincerely interested in the welfare of others.

At the time of his birth his own father wrote the following statement in the family record book, when he recorded his name, "The Lord lead him through the sufferings of this time to Him at the place of eternal peace." This was verified in the life of the departed. For several years he has been subject to physical suffering, especially since March of this year, when he has suffered very greatly, but with patience and in full surrender to God.

He leaves to mourn his departure his wife; three sons, Henry and Paul of Salem and Solomon of Dallas; five daughters, Elizabeth of Salem, Mrs. Frank F. Siemens, Mrs. Harvy Ratzlaff, and Mrs. Henry Kliever of Dallas; and Mrs. John Ratzlaff of Vancouver, B. C.; eight grandchildren; one brother, George Toevs of Dallas; one sister, Mrs. Anna Hiebert of Mountain Lake, Minn.; and many other relatives.

Funeral service was held June 20 with Rev. J. M. Franz in charge, assisted by Rev. A. P. Voth of the Salem Mennonite Church.

JOSEPH GERIG, the son of Peter and Mary Gerig was born Nov. 30, 1869, in Switzerland and parted this life on June 25. He reached the age of 68 years, 6 months and 25 days.

He came to Oregon in 1890 and settled in the community west of Pratum, where he has lived till his departure. As a young man he accepted the Christian faith and was baptized by Rev. John Ramseyer. He was a faithful member of the Emmanuel Mennonite Church at Pratum.

On Oct. 5, 1904 he was united in marriage to Emilie Koerner. This union was blessed with 6 children.

Nine weeks ago he met with a serious accident, when he fell from the hay barn and injured himself to an extent that he was confined to the hospital and has suffered greatly but very patiently till his end came.

He leaves to mourn his departure his wife, two sons, Albert and Henry, and four daughters, Mrs. Carl Fisher, Mrs. Jay Bailey, Lydia and Laura. Nine grandchildren.

Six brothers, Nickolas, Jacob, Valentine and Fred, all of the Fruitland community, Sam of Cornelious, Oregon, and Daniel of Los Angeles, California. Four sisters, Mrs. Jacob Stauffer, Mrs. Fred de Vries, and Mrs. Clyde May of Salem, Oregon, Mrs. Anna Geroid of Fruitland, and many other relatives and friends.

Funeral service was held June 29 in the Emmanuel Mennonite Church at Pratum. Rev. J. M. Franz was in charge.

—Portland, Oregon, July 6, 1938. — Work on the Alberta Community Church is progressing nicely. The basement has been dug and cemented and the auditorium is in the process of being enlarged and remodeled. Most of the work is being done by members of the church who are showing a splendid spirit of cooperation. We especially appreciate the efforts of the eight men who gave up holiday plans for the 4th of July that they might contribute to the work on the church. We are still holding Sunday services in the building and do not mind the inconvenience when we think of the advantages of an improved and beautified place of worship. We will appreciate the prayers and contributions of Mission-minded Mennonites.—C. O. Miller.

—Prof. E. J. Hirschler has been operated now and is a very sick man. However, he is improving, but will not be able to attend Conference.—Our church services will be held in the Bluffton College Chapel during the time when the interior of our church is being redecorated. — H. T. Unruh.

—Marriage Notice. — Charles Carey, member of Methodist Church of Aberdeen, Idaho, and Paula Horsch, member of the First Mennonite Church, Aberdeen, were married by Rev. P. A. Wedel, June 13, 1938.

—Summer Union Services at Inman, Kansas. —The St. Peter Evangelical, the Zoar Mennonite, the Bethel Mennonite and the Inman Mennonite churches are holding union evening services with fine success. Services are held in the open air.—"Church Visitor."

—Rev. Olin Krehbiel and family, Lansdale, Pa., are planning to make their trip to the Conference at Saskatoon in their auto. From Saskatoonn they will wend their way west and down along the Pacific coast to California to visit Mrs. Krehbiel's parents and other relatives and friends.

—Mennonite Church, Hanston, Kans.—Prof. and Mrs. Kreider and Paul Baumgartner's were out over Sunday. Brother Kreider gave us a much appreciated message on Peace. Our visitors expressed themselves as much pleased with this country. We have a special feature for our Sunday evening services. A Bethel student has rigged up a loudspeaking outfit and uses this for a fifteen minute vesper service in song, which he and our daughter Mabel arrange for. It is widely heard and interests people.—Folks out here have at last again a harvest. Wheat yield seems to run from 7 to 20 bushels. But the test is light.

—Jake Neufeld, Shafter, Calif.—Am enclosing check for renewal of subscription to The Mennonite. (Thank you.—Editor). I think it is a great paper for us younger Mennonites, and older ones too, I am sure, and they will not fail you, and we will all be blessed.

— On July 10, the four General Conference churches of the Bluffton and Pandora, Ohio, neighborhood, exchanged ministers. Paul E. Whitmer of Grace, Pandora, preached at Bluffton; H. T. Unruh of Bluffton at Grace; P. A. Kliewer of Ebenezer at St. John, and D. J. Unruh of St. John at Ebenezer. In the evening they enjoyed a union musical program.

— New Editor for "Christian Evangel."—Rev. Wm Weaver for fourteen years editor of the Christian Evangel, church paper of the Central Conference, is retiring as its editor, and Rev. Mr. R. L. Hartzler of Carlock, Ill. has been appointed as new editor and manager of the publication. The "Evangel" is now twenty-eight years old.

— Rev. C. H. Suckau and daughter Edna left for Europe on the S. S. Bremen, July 2. He intends to visit churches in Europe. They will spend a week in London, going to Holland, July 17, then to Germany, Rev. Suckau's native land, July 17, for visits with relatives, starting their return voyage August 23.

— Berne Indiana, that thriving little city peopled with Mennonites of Swiss extraction, is coming to be noted more for its industries that keep everybody busy. To two overall, three furniture, and a cedar chest factory and others, there is now to be added a canning factory by Mr. Rufus Liechty, with a capacity of 2000 cans when the season opens, August 1.

— Denominations are Moving Forward.—The Presbyterian church (Southern) has struck sections referring to Predestination from their creed. The Low Church Epsicopalians have agreed to admit occasionally members of other churches to the Holy Communion. The Lutheran Church is advocating an interesting five-point program, with Sabbath classes in sex instruction as one of them.

— Brother E. W. Baumgartner, Berne, Indiana, and A. J. Richert, Los Angeles, Calif., members of the Board of Publication, will go to the Conference by way of Newton, Kans., to meet with the two Kansas members of the Board, J. M. Suderman and J. R. Thierstein on matters of business. Mr. Richert's round trip fare is the same by way of Kansas City, as any other way, only $70.00.

— Emmaus Church, Whitewater, Kans.—To have an adequate (democratic) representation at the Conference this church has voted to pay for gas, oil, etc. for two cars full of delegates. Other churches are using the auto plan to send delegates at no more expense, perhaps, than if they would pay all the expenses of their ministers.

— The Silas Grubb Library was voluminous. Pastors Plenert and Swartz spent several days at Mrs. Grubb's home appraising its contents. It was finally removed in toto to the Pennsburg Library pending final disposition. A creditable piece of work in landscaping around the church, done by many of our members, is appreciated.—Eden Church, Schwenksville, Pa.

Consolation or Mastery

I John 5:4

The knowledge of God in daily life, the means of grace, and the hope of glory are all very consoling in a distressed world such as this, a world of economic, social, national and international unrighteousness. "Consolation" is a great word in the Christian religion, and it is a great spiritual experience.

However, consolation is not the main line in the Christian Faith. Consolation is a bi-product. The main line is Mastery; mastery of sin and evil; mastery of a wrong economic and social order; mastery of a jealous and suspicious international order; master of our own evil inclinations and misguided passions.

The Priest and the Levite on the Jericho road evidently believed that religion was primarily a matter of consolation. Like the Pharisee who thanked God that he was not like other men, even this Publican. Consolation! But the Samaritan who came to the man in distress, the man who had been exploited, was not concerned so much about consolation; he was interested in mastering a bad situation. The Samaritan went out to conquer, rather than to be consoled.

The Christian religion is one which gives us the technique of mastery rather than the opiate of consolation. This is the victory, says John, that overcomes the world, namely, our Faith. Jesus mastered Caesar, the cross and the grave. St. Paul mastered Nero. It is mastery that we need today. Consolation, like happiness, is a bi-product of mastery.

J. E. Hartzler.

The Young People's New Objectives

Many who have noticed in the last issue of The Mennonite the objectives suggested as projects of attainment for our young people, will rejoice over their ambitious program. What young folks need is problems to solve, things to undertake that challenge their ingenuity. The busier they are the more satisfaction they will get out of life and the happier they will be. While all three proposed projects are worthy, we would like to say a word about the second, that of undertaking the care of another city mission. Our home mission work has been lagging behind that of foreign mission, because we don't hear so much about it. Missionaries on furlough and in our papers constantly keep on telling us about it, and that keeps our interest in the foreign field alive and warm. But when one thinks of the splendid results attained in some of our larger city missions at home, like Chicago, Hutchinson, Wichita, Los Angeles, with Lima and Portland coming along nicely, one cannot help but conclude, this we should do more vigorously but by no means let up on our efforts in foreign fields. The Lord will not fail us in his support, if we carry on the work prayerfully and sacrificially.

SUGGESTION OF ANOTHER PROJECT FOR YOUNG MENNONITES

When we consider the fact how little we Mennonites have really done in spreading the gospel during the four hundred years of our existence, it need not be surprising when some of our ambitious young people get a bit impatient at our apparent lethargy. They feel an urge to show us what we of the passing and previous generations might have done, and some of them are ready to do something big, outstanding. So the writer of this editorial has for some time been wondering, why we do not send some of our young men who are yearning to make their lives count for much out as missionaries of the gospel of peace as demonstrated and lived by Christ. These men could go out in teams of two, as Christ sent his disciples, or as the Mormons usually do, and with what splendid success. We could begin in a small way. Surely with the carnage of innocent human life going on almost daily in Spain and China and the civilized world preparing to commit suicide in a war for which preparations are going on, such young men would have at their disposal a wealth of material so convincing for the need of peace that they ought to get ready hearing most anywhere.

Further Suggestions for an Ideal Conference

14238 Wellesley Ave., Dearborn, Michigan
July 9, 1938

Dear Editor:

Your editorial in the June 28 issue of The Mennonite on "An Ideal Conference," was very timely and really a picture of a smooth running conference. I hope that the coming General Conference will be ideal not only as far as conduct and method are concerned, but ideal in that the important matters to be considered will be given sufficient and intelligent consideration.

Such questions as "Mennonites and Their Contribution to World Peace," "A United Mennonite Church," and "Mennonites and Her Scattered Young People," all seem immensely important problems to consider with all seriousness and at considerable length.

This year $1,262,000 was spent to re-enact the Battle of Gettysburg. England is spending one million pounds or five million dollars a day on rearmament. The United States has the greatest armament budget in peace time history—Mennonites with a pacifist heritage should make this heritage alive within their own church and from within move out to spread this gospel of Peace. The General Conference is the proper place to discuss a program of Peace action.

Likewise "A United Mennonite Church" is a subject fitting for discussion because of its importance. If the large Protestant churches find a dire need for union, how much more so does the small divided Mennonite denomination need to be united in order to preserve its principles, and even its very existence? Not a single conference should convene and recess without having at least wrestled with this problem.

A third problem which seems tremendously important is that of Mennonite Youth who leave Mennonite communities for cities and non-Mennonite areas. What is to come of the future of the Church if the youth, especially those trained in our own colleges, do not find a place in our own churches and communities?

I cite these as examples of problems which I feel an ideal conference would at least struggle with, even though it cannot solve them completely at a single conference session. J. W. Fretz.

—Eighth Street Mennonite Church, Goshen, Ind.—Rev. and Mrs. S. T. Moyer recently spent Mission Sunday with this church, serving it in different ways. —Approximately thirty-five ladies from this church spent some time at the Winona Lake Mission School. —The Annual Sunday School picnic was held July the fourth at Oakwood Park, Lake Wawasee. A good program and a basket lunch were features.

FOREIGN MISSIONS

P. H. Richert, Sec.

CANTON OKLA., JUNE 20, 1938.

Dear Mission friends:

"This is a faithful saying, and worthy of all acceptation, that Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners." 1 Tim. 1:15. Just as true as this statement was in Paul's time, just so true is it today. Among all peoples and nations the Lord has His own, such that find Him and accept Him as their Savior and Lord.

Pentecost Sunday, June 5, was a blessed and important day at the Arapaho Mission, Canton, Okla. Already before 9:30 a.m., the regular time for S. S., worshippers gathered. At this station the old church building had become entirely inadequate, and in order to have a more attractive and adequate meeting place, the lower floor of the dwelling house was converted into a meeting place by removing some partitions, a stairway and a built-in closet. This now also provides a room for the little folks in Sunday school. For the service, if need be, the S. S. room can be opened to enlarge the main auditorium. The old church building has been sold and removed entirely. Thus an old landmark has disappeared.

Ever since we have a more inviting and attractive meeting place, i.e., since Jan. 16, the attendance at the Arapaho station has increased materially and much more interest and co-operation is manifest. So also on this morning, June 5, we could begin promptly with the S. S. with a well filled house. After the S. S. and the preaching service 5 precious souls were received into church membership by baptism, after a course of instruction by the missionary over a period of weeks. Three others who had been baptized earlier in life by other denominations, but who now reside in our territory, also joined with us by letter. The whole congregation was very quiet and attentive during the whole service and the Spirit of God was present. Two weeks later, June 19, one more precious young soul gave his heart and life to Jesus in baptism, and a man 79 years old, also transferred his membership to this place. We praise the Lord for His wonderful love and grace! Again, inspite of a heavy rain in the morning, the house was well filled with attentive listeners, as holy communion was celebrated after the baptism and reception of the new members. One couple who also wished to join with us were hindered and failed to come. May the hindrances, whatever they may be, be overcome so that these too, may soon carry out their desire. These new additions, as well as the other members, need your and our intercessory prayers, for they are weak and they are beset by temptation from all sides. It is entirely different, now, than it was in the earlier days, when the Indians still lived on closed reservations. The present so-called civilization has brought with it many evils and temptations formerly unknown to them. The present policy to let the Indian do as he pleases, to give him a so-called "square deal," is proving to be the undoing of many a one. Therefore, how much more necessary is it for all of us to rcmember those that have made a profession of faith in the Lord Jesus Christ, before the throne of Grace that they may be faithful to Hım to the end.

Among the Cheyennes we have lost, since last December by death, four of our younger members, all but one (21) in the teen age, all victims of tuberculosis. How comforting to know that they were saved and were ready to go, even though it was very hard for their loved ones to give them up. One of these is a widow who had to give up the last two of her children, and is now left all alone in the world. May we include such bereaved ones also in our prayers, that their faith may remain strong and carry them through to the end.

In the Lord's service, Mrs. G. A. Linscheid.

Watch Your Controls

by Dr. J. H. Langenwalter, Reedley, California, an 82-page, paper-bound book, recently come from the press, has been gratefully received.

"This little book is dedicated to all those who really believe that God is interested in the youth of our day and who are willing to learn what to do in order that youth may be encouraged and challenged sufficiently to undertake what He may have in mind for them."

It contains five messages the gist of which is to lead parents, teachers and leaders of youth to a better understanding of the great task of making youthful lives become what God intended them to be. These messages were written at different times, in answr to questions about problems confronting youth.

In the first message, Between the Boy and the Man, the author depicts the delicate situation the boy is in during adolescene. From the physical side he is a puzzle to himself and those in contact with him. Marvelous changes are taking place in the body and its organs. These the parents in particular should understand. But they are so engrossed in making money rather than lives that they have no time to look into the matter. From the psychic side the boy is even more of a problem. In a talk with him one day, he may surprise us with many thoughts and ways, and the next day he is all "kid" again. And, alas, the sad part is that he is mostly treated as only a boy rather than with manly respect.

From the religious and moral side it should be, but is not generally known, that the boy is hungry for religion, and is looking for it. More lives are converted at this age than at any other because of this inner urge. Feeling mysterious forces at work within him, the boy wants to contact with the unseen source of these forces, God. And the boys is fascinated with the heroic idea, that of overcoming difficulties, of struggling to overcome evil, as is the Christian's lot, hence the appeal of Christianity. From the social side it must be remembered that he is a social being, that he wants company. To get it, he must be led to seek it wisely. Giving him a protectorate over another boy, as a big brother, is a splendid help in this direction.

In his second message, On Second Thought, the author tells in letters how, after a stormy expcrience between a son and a father, the former leaves home with the words, "Dad, you are a tryrant." But, oncc separated, they take second thought, peace is restored, and a genuinely sound relationship is established.

The third message, Control Thyself, concerns itself with the task of being self-controled. As Charles Lindberg had so thoroughly studied and watched the controls of his airship until he and the machine worked in remarkable harmony, so young lives must be led, through divers experiences, to gain mastery over themselves. Circumstances, drawbacks, like the controls of a flying machine, are not limitations in the struggles of life but aids.

Finding the Light of the World, the fourth message, relates the story of one, Edward Steele, a student in an English boy school, who in all seriousness is trying to understand, to fathom himself, his destiny, and is groping for light on the subpect. He finds in the headmaster of the school the true friend who, by a series of heart-to-heart talks, succeeds in helping him find Jesus Christ, the Light of the world. Would that the day might come when all that deal with the development of youth, might be like this headmaster.

In the closing message, Two Things to Be Remembered, in the one "Learn to Meet Questions," we are told that when the child has questions or problems, especially serious ones, we should, we must take the time to help him find solutions. In the other, "Young People Are Growing Up," the example is given of children in the French Revolution marching about carrying banners with the inscription, "Tremble,, Tyrants, we are growing up." The world is moving, constantly changing, and the children of today live in a totally new world. This must be everlastingly kept in mind, if we want to understand their growing up.

The little book is written in the author's familiar easy flowing style, and in language easily understood by young and old. And the mcssages are woven into a story so interesting and with such suspense that one wants to read it through at one sitting. The book it is so valuable to all who are interested in our youth that a copy should be in every Mennonite home and many others. At 75 cents a copy the author will mail the book to anyone, postpaid.

A New History of the Mennonite General Conference

by Rev. H. P. Krehbiel

Our General Conference historian, Brother H. P. Krehbiel, has completed Volume II of "History of the Mennonite General Conference." Volume I of this work was completed in 1896. It chronicles the history of the Conference from its beginnings until 1896, the second volume of 700 pages from 1896 to 1935. This consists mostly of the reports of the Conference Boards and Committees to the Conference, including the resolutions, and thus becomes a very handy reference work and valuable source of information for research work. Rev. P. H. Richert in the Preface of the book says, "In view of the fact that the triennial reports of the Conference are not in all homes (or only in part), this book should be in every home and library. C. E. societies are in great need of such material. . . . We would especially urge the growing up generation to study this history to catch the spirit of the fathers, and to understand the better their problems of today, i.e., the peace and non-resistance problem, or the stewardship problem taken up recently by the Conference."

The Book would make an excellent study for Y. P. meetings, or could be taken up in connection with the midweek prayer meetings by taking another hour for this.

It is printed on good quality white paper, the type is easily legible, and the binding is in strong buckram cloth. The price is $3.50 which is reasonable, considering the size of the volume. Copies will be shown at the Conference, but owing to high import duty probably not be sold there. Our Book Concern has the privilege of the sale of the book. So orders will be filled by the Mennonite Book Concern, Berne, Indiana.

Blazing New Trails

Ten young people are working at the 26th Street Mission, Chicago. They will be here for the month of July. They are working in the interests of the children and adults of this crowded city community, under-privileged in many ways. They are not being paid for their work. They are paying $15 toward their room and board. The remainder is being furnished by friends, either by way of cash or food.

Why are they here? "We intend to build a bridge across oceans of hate and misery, but to begin with we are making a path across a marsh where one wets one's feet. But still we have made a beginning," was Pierre Ceresole's reason for going to India in 1934, following the earthquake. These young people know that there are problems which must be solved, if the world is not to be plunged into another war. These young people are here because they feel that the only way to avoid violence and conflict and war is to "bridge the oceans of hate and misery."

The "Work Camp" idea was born when Pierre Ceresole was sitting at a peace conference in Switzerland. He arose, with the words, "I'm tired of all this talk.—Hundreds of people sit about tables talking, but the world takes no notice. I will get twenty men and women to work with a pick and shovel for peace, and perhaps somebody will pay attention." A revolutionary idea—"Work for peace with a pick and shovels." "Bridge oceans of hate and misery," by digging ditches, building houses, making play grounds, or game rooms for children in a city slum.

This philosophy of the work camp is simple, but revolutionary in a society which continually asks, "What do I get out of this?" Not, "How much can I give?" These young people are not asking "How much do I get paid?" But, "How much can I give for the cause of World Peace and Human Brotherhood?"

War and violence are methods of solving world problems, at a terrific cost in life, suffering and money. The spirit of the work camp is another method of solving those same conflicts. It also costs; but the price is gladly assumed by the campers, not forced on an enemy, by trying to take his life. It is the method of "overcoming evil with good."

The philosophy of violence is negative, destructive; usually stirring up more hatred and problems than it solves." The work camp is a positive, constructive philosophy, building up justice and friendships, reconciling those who may be "enemies," and building deeper fellowships for those who may be friends. Instead of using bombs, gas or muskets on their "enemies," campers go into under-priveleged communities, and give their time, brains and money for those who are in the community. It is the method of bringing the Spirit of the Christ to bear on modern problems: the Spirit which says, "It is more blessed to give than to receive," "If ye have done it unto me."

Thus, instead of destroying life, creating hatreds, creating misery, the work camp builds Friendship and Brotherhood by the spirit of "self-giving" instead of "self-getting."

The campers at Chicago are just now engaged in several tasks (1) Painting the Worship Auditorium of the Mission, (2) Making work benches for the workshop for use of children in community, (3) Tables for the recreation room of the Mission, for the children's games, (4) Building simple recreational equipment for the recreation room, (5) Making a survey of the immediate community, for use in ascertaining the needs of the community.

Four and one half hours daily are spent in this "manual labor," where we work for peace, not with "pick and shovel," but with "hammer, paint brush and saw." Several hours each day are spent in serious study and discussion. Leaders, from various denominations, are scheduled several times a week to lead our thinking. Trips are made to problem areas of the city. Then we raise the question, "How can we make Christ's message real in the conflict areas of our nation and the world.

Though this "camp idea" has been well known in Europe, and the Friends have carried on such work since 1934, this seems to be "Blazing New Trails" so for as Mennonites are concerned. What will be the future of such a movement among Mennonite Youth, depends much upon what this group does. Our prayer is that through the lives of these young people, Mennonite Youth may be led to see more clearly the call of The Prince of Peace, to "take up their Cross and follow Him"; so that we may together help "build bridges across oceans of hate and misery."

APPENDIX: The camp will be in session from July 1st to Aug. 1st. Anyone passing through Chicago will be welcome to pay us a visit. The campers come from six states, and two denominations, with three Mennonite conferences represented. Methodist, Claude Neiswander, Pandora, Ohio; Mennonites, (Central Conference) Harold Kaufman, Hudson, Illinois; (General Conference), Frances Eicher, Wayland, Iowa, Elva Schrock, Nappannee, Ind., Martha Moser, Dalton, Ohio, Bert Smucker, Bluffton, Ohio, Carl J. Landes, Bluffton, Ohio, Wilbur Lauer, Philadelphia, Pa., Robert Kreider, Bethel College, Kansas; (Mennonite Brethren) Theodore Voth, Newton, Kans. (Part-time camper, Jean Yoder, Goshen, Ind.)

The Camp is held under the auspices of The Mennonite Peace Society, Bluffton, Ohio; and The Central Conference Mission Board.

Inquiries may be addressed to Carl J. Landes, Bluffton, Ohio.—Carl J. Landes, Camp Director.

Account of Ordination Service of W. A. Regier as Pastor of the Immanuel Church, Los Angeles, Calif.

Before the editor lies an interesting letter by Elfrieda Regier, sister of W. A. Regier, describing the ordination festivities, Sunday, June 19. An extract follows:

After the usual introductory part to the worship service, a welcome was given to Bro. Regier by the acting pastor, Rev. A. Jantzen. Then followed an address by Dr. J. A. Hubbard, based on Acts 20:18-25. Serving the Lord with tears characterizes Paul's work. He proclaimed what is profitable, not always pleasant. As minister you must hold back nothing that is profitable. Give them the whole scope of the Gospel, don't get into a rut. Emulate Paul's untiring service for Christ. He was not serving the cause of Christ for what he could get out of it, but what he could put into it. The weak, anemic churches today are that because the minister fails to feed the flock. The purpose of the minister is to get his congregation to minister, to put them to work for Christ. Never expect perfection among your members. It is the missionary church that is the growing church.—To the Congregation: Do not expect perfection, but pray for growth in that direction. Uphold your pastor. There is no inspiration in empty seats. Uphold him in prayer. Give him a word of encouragement. A true man of God will not get puffed up.

Following this came the ordination by Rev. F. F. Jantzen, who read to the candidate: 1 Tim. 3:1-6; 4:7-16; 2 Tim. 2:15; 2 Tim. 4:1-2 and charged him with the duties of the minister: Preach, baptize, administer the sacraments; be faithful and loving in ministering spiritual things to individual souls, in church and out of church. Next was the laying on of hands by the ministers present, the ordination prayer by Rev. Jantzen, and exchange of the hand of fellowship.

The installation of the new minister as pastor of the Immanuel Church was performed by Rev. H. B. Dirks, who said in substance: This church is for those who prefer to have their membership in the Mennonite Church. It is the church's task to bring back the drifting. It is in a community where many can be reached. It has a missionary vision.

The afternoon was in the nature of a farewell appreciation service to Rev. and Mrs. A. Jantzen and reception to the new pastor. Rev. Hostetler addressed the meeting on, "Our Conference Interests."

The combined C. E. Societies arranged for the evening program, for which the theme was: "The Church of Jesus Christ." After a brief address by Rev. F. F. Jantzen, Rev. A. Jantzen formally introduced Rev. Regier, his successor. Then followed the sermon by Bro. Regier. Theme: "The Church's great Commission." Phil. 3:7-8. We notice that the Lord Jesus says, "Go ye into all the world." There we stop. He longs for us to go forth. Too many are just going. He wants us to go and preach. What are we to preach? 1 Cor. 15:3-4. Preach the Gospel, the good news. Sin left man not only lifeless but also hopeless. Sin has closed the door to heaven. Man is wandering to and fro, seeking peace. Jesus even in the hour of darkness shed a ray of light into our lives. Appropriate Him! Roll your sins on Him. It is not enough that He died, he had to be buried, that the fruit could be brought forth. Only as He lives, can we live. He is our all. Closing prayer by Rev. Regier. All programs were interspersed with worshipful, inspiring music.

Note: Rev. W. A. Regier is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob J. Regier of Whitewater, Kansas. He spent five years in Los Angeles, attending the Bible Institute and working his way through. On his father's side, he is the grandson of Rev. Bernhard Regier, venerable co-pastor in the First Church, Newton, Kansas. On his mother's side, he is the grandson of Rev. Gustav Harder, for almost a generation the trusted treasurer of our Foreign Mission Board and elder of the Emmaus Church near Whitewater, Kans. —Editor.

SAMSON: STRENGTH AND WEAKNESS

Judges 14:5, 6; 15:11-14; 16:15-21

Introduction

Samson, the thirteenth Judge of Israel, judged for twenty years. He could have rendered a far greater permanent service to God and Israel had not his human weaknesses been so strong. The angel of the Lord definitely assured his mother (13:5) that her, as yet unborn, child was to be a "Nazarite unto God". Samson was mighty in physical strength, a real asset when united with strong moral character, which unfortunately he lacked. He stands as a pathetic example in Bible history of physical strength and equal moral weakness.

Samson's God-given Strength vs. 5, 6; 11-14

Samson's liking for a young woman of the Philistines in Timnath, led him into danger. His parents opposed any such alliance with the enemy of Israel. Samson was determined to have his own way (14:3). God wished to use Samson in this union to deliver Israel from the power of the Philistines (v4). The Lord's Spirit gave him dauntless courage and great strength (v6), a secret which he kept to himself.

Samson was greatly angered because he was not given the wife he desired (15:1). He retaliated violently against the Philistines (vs4,5); a most senseless thing to do. Neither individuals nor the government should deliberately destroy foods grains, fruits, meats. He also slew many Philistines (v8). This thoroughly enraged them and they invaded the territory of Judah. The men of Judah were greatly alarmed (v11). They were in the power of the Philistines because of their sins (13:1). Sin always makes us fearful and brings trouble on us. They came to Samson (v12) to bind him and deliver him to their enemies. This indicated how decadent Israel had become, deadened and servile in spirit, under the Philistine rule—very like many slaves of sin.

Samson let himself be bound, for thus he could take the Philistines unawares. He was still under the power of God's Spirit (v14) and the new cords were broken as easily as burned flax. God gave him this great strength to use it as an honor to Him. He seized the jawbone of an ass and under divine power slew a thousand of the enemies of God and His people. From then on he was recognized as the deliverer of Israel.

Samson's Weakness 16:15-21

Samson had married a Philistine woman, Delilah, who at once sought to learn the secret of his great strength to betray him. He deceived her three times but she persisted (v17). Samson made a serious moral mistake when he chose her for his wife. He began to neglect his duty for sinful desires, wasting his hours in pleasure. He was too weak to resist one Philistine woman. He trusted in his strength to his downfall. His weakness was moral. The faults of the inner life will bear fruit in trouble in the outer life. Samson's life was wrecked in an unholy marriage. He gave himself into her power (v19) and soon was in the power of the Philistines (v21), becoming their mockery and miserable slave—blinded, languishing in prison. He paid a fearful price for his moral weakness.

Samson's mission was to teach the Philistines that their god, Dagon, was powerless against Jehovah. His high calling magnified the importance of choosing aright. His wrong choices prevented God from using the largest possibilities that lay in him. How do my choices affect my usefulness?

CORRESPONDENCE

FIRST CHURCH, NEWTON, KANS.

Dear Editor and Readers:

Following are a few of the occurances in our church that may be of some interest to you: On Sunday, April 24, Dr. E. G. Kaufman preached for us on the blessings of Passion- and Easter-time, and in the evening two students from Bethel College who are preparing for religious work gave good messages.

Wednesday evening, same week, Rev. E. J. Neuenschwander presented the necessity of a printing plant for our General Conference. -On Mother's Day Sunday, Dr. A. Warkentin preached a fitting sermon, Sister Frieda spoke of the needs of the Hospital, and in the evening the Senior C. E. presented "Christian Life" in seven chapters, following the life of Paul. This was a great blessing.—On Tuesday, May 10, the Annual Meeting of the Bethel Deaconess Hospital Association was held in our church. The reports were interesting and showed much cause for thanksgiving. In seven years the Hospital did over $43,000 worth of charity work. The great need of more room and for finishing the building of the Training School was appealingly presented. On the Thursday following Hospital Day was observed, with an interesting address by Dr. P. R. Schroeder.—On Sunday, May 15, Rev. C. E. Krehbiel preached for us in German and English, and in the afternoon the Bible Conference opened in our church, with Dr. Max Reich as the chief speaker.—On June 5 we had a very beautiful baptismal service. Seventeen young people were led into the church by the singing choir and the pastor. Following a very earnest sermon by Rev. J. E. Entz, the young people confessed their faith, were baptized and reecived into the church.—On the evening of June 10, Rev. and Mrs. J. E. Entz had our young people out on the lawn of their "Country Manse" for their annual social. Considerable singing, a very appropriate talk by Rev. A. Warkentin, on the subject, "Let us rejoice," composed the program. Just as all were getting ready for games, a thunderstorm came up, refuge had to be taken in the house and, though they had to stand in a compact mass, 185 happy young people enjoyed the refreshments just the same. —Our congregation had three Vacation Bible schools, two in the country for six weeks, and on in the city for four weeks, with a total enrollment of 40.—On Sunday June 19, we celebrated the Lord's supper. Our paster, Rev. Entz, preached a very impressive sermon and very many partook of the emblems. In the afternoon ladies' classes had a meeting, where as a part of the program Mrs. H. J. Andres explained the meaning of the painted windows, the pulpit and communion table.—Sunday, June 12, Bro. Willard Classen, a son of the church and theological student, preached both morning and evening, and on Sunday June 26, Rev. P. H. Unruh preached in both languages.—For Thursday afternoon June 30, the Bethel sisters and the ladies of our congregation had arranged for a birthday celebration for Sister Hillegonda's ninetieth anniversary, and for Sister Frieda and Ida, who had served in the Hospital 30 years. A ladies' choir and the sisters sang, Rev. B. Regier read a passage and prayed, Rev. G. N. Harms gave an address, and Mrs. H. J. Andres recited a beautiful poem composed for the occasion. The three sisters received beautiful bouquets of lilies of the valley.—In the basement, after refreshments, there was another program befitting the occasion.—C. H. van der Smissen, Corr.

ZION MENN. CHURCH, DONNELLSON, IA.

The Iowa Young People's Retreat was held at the Zion Mennonite Church, Donnellson, Iowa, July 9 and 10. The theme for the Retreat was "Christ and Youth." The devotional services on Saturday morning were in charge of the local church, on Saturday afternoon they were conducted by the Noble young people, on Sunday afternoon by the Wayland people, and on Sunday evening, at the sunset service, by the Pulaski society.

There were four discussion groups on Saturday, namely: "How Can Youth Help Christ?" led by Emerson Krabill; "Youth and the Homes of Tomorrow," led by Mahlon Miller; "Youth and the Church of Tomorrow," led by Howard Raid, and "How Can Youth Best Make a New World with Christ?" led by Delight Rinner.

Rev. and Mrs. S. T. Moyer were guest speakers at each session. Rev. Moyer gave a study of Old Testament characters and how they met the problems of youth today. The four big problems which all youth faces are, marriage and home, worship, sin, and stewardship of worldly goods. On Sunday evening, Rev. Myer gave an illustrated lecture on their work in the mission field in India. Mrs. Moyer brought an inspirational message on "Victorious Living" at the banquet Saturday evening. About eighty young people attended the Saturday meetings and many more on Sunday. Everyone attending felt that the Retreat was a great success spiritually. It was a inspiration and, as the young people left the closing union service on Sunday night, they felt that they had had a profitable time and they were better prepared to meet the problems of youth and more eager to take up their responsibility in the work of building Christ's kingdom here on earth.

Next year the Retreat will be held at the Noble Church.—Pauline Krehbiel.

MENNONITE CH., HUTCHINSON, KANS.

Our church is steadily growing and progressing nicely. There is a great field here. The outsiders as well as Mennonites, are being attracted to the services. We have had baptism and reception of members twice already this year, and others have made their request to join soon. We now have seven denominations represented in our church membership and more which attend services quite regularly.

The Union Vacation Bible School of the Irwin Memorial Presbyterian and First Mennonite churches was the best this year in it's history. A fine spirit prevailed throughout. The Enrollment was 124. This was 13 more than last year and 42 more than in 1936. Eleven denominations were represented. The school had 16 teachers. Income $21.48, expeditures, $19.95.

There is Something New in Hutchinson! A Religious Book Room at 215 South Pershing Ave. There you will find Books, Bibles, Pictures, Mottoes and Awards. When you're buying, why not buy something with a message for the soul?

On June 29th the church had a meeting requesting us to continue the work here for another year. Please pray for this work. Wishing you God's best in your work, I remain, Yours for more of Christ,—C. H. Dirks

BRUDERTAL CH., NEAR HILLSBORO, KANS.

Sunday evening, May 1st, the Mary-Martha Circle of our church had a public program. Dr. Harshbarger from Bethel College talked on "Peace."—Mother's Day we observed, as we have for a number of years, by consecration of little children.—The M. B. Men's Chorus and also the First Mennonite Men's chorus from Hillsboro gave sacred inspiring programs in our church this spring.

Our Elder Rev. Arnold Funk baptized four young men Pentecost Sunday. Two Sundays later Communion was held. Many members took part in the blessing.

On Memorial Day a short service was held at the graveyard. A number of friends had come to clean off their lots and decorate the graves of their loved ones.

June 14th our community had a big shock, when one of our best young men, Theodore Rempel, was badly injured in an explosion and died in a few hours. He was just in the prime of life and yet he had to answer the call of the Life-giver. The obituary will be found in this issue.

The harvest, which looked so promising, is almost at an end and has not yielded what was expected. The late frost and too much rain caused many a man to change his plans. The Lord showed us again that He is the ruler of all our crops. May we take it in this spirit and be thankful for what we have, and use it rightly. Greetings,—Mrs. J. E. Rempel, Corr.

The Minister's Business

Harold Gross, Freeman, S. D.

These last few years we have all been very much concerned about a business depression and lately, a relapse of economic life. Not so long ago business men, big and small, made an appeal for aid and attention, because they felt that their businesses were being hampered by certain conditions. They received a hearing.

There is another type of business man who wants a hearing today. His business has also suffered a relapse; though in the intense concern over the material economic depression, very few have noticed the slump in this particular kind of business, since its profit cannot be measured quantitatively. I refer to the business of Religion—this great investment of the Kingdom of God. After all, it is a business, and to say this does not decrease its value, but rather enhances its importance. The business man, at least the chairman of this Great Corporation—and I am speaking not alone foi myself, nor am I feeling sorry for myself, for the minister is in too many cases also to blame—is of course the minister of the Gospel. I dare say, few people realize the plight he is in today. Don't misunderstand! There are many faithful shareholders in this business of Religion, even today. But I am speaking of those who are merely content to have shares in the Church corporation, and yet fail to really tend to business. Perhaps there are back payments to be made on stock invested. And, be reminded, interest will not accumulate until the principle is completly cleared of back payments. The minister today is not asking for money. In most cases he is willing to live on the bare subsistence level. But he is concerned in having his corporation show a definite profit (in terms of spiritual values), which today is absent. The minister can't run the whole business—he doesn't want to. He wants suggestions and cooperation. He wants to see evidence of the stockholder's interest by their presence and participation in meetings of this Great Corporation known as the Church of Christ. The minister can't advertise as the rest of the business world does. He wants to talk business with the man on the street and elsewhere, but in too many cases he receives a cold shoulder, because the man on the street (who in many cases is a stockholder in the Church) is not familiar with the expressions and terms in the business of Religion. Oh, if only the average man and woman were as enthusiastic about the business of the Church as the business man is over his material business. Are we going to have a business revival? The business of Spiritual life must first revive. History says so!

Christianity is, above all other religions ever known, a religion of sacrifice. It is a religion founded on the greatest of sacrifices, the sacrifice of the Incarnation, culminating in the sacrifice of Calvary.—Dean Stanley.

Quotations on Music

(Editor's note: These quotations were collected by Miss Dorothea Franzen, Hillsboro, Kansas, for a C. E. topic. Miss Franzen is now teaching at Fontana, Kansas.)

Music Am I.—Servant and master am I; servant of those dead, and master of those living. Through me spirits immortal speak the message that makes the world weep, and laugh, and wonder, and worship.

I tell the story of love, the story of hate, the story that saves, and the story that condemns. I am the incense upon which prayers float to Heaven. I am the smoke which palls over the field of battle where men lie dying with me on their lips.

I am close to the marriage altar, and when the graves open I stand near by. I call the wanderer home. I rescue the soul from the debts, I open the lips of the lovers; and through me the dead whisper to the living.

One I serve as I serve all; and the king I make my slave as easily as I subject his slaves. I speak through the birds of the air, the insects of the field, the crash of water on rock ribbed shores, the sighing wind in the trees, and I am even heard by the soul that knows me in the clatter of wheels on city streets.

I know no brother, yet all men are my brothers; I am the father of the best that is in them, and they are the father of the best that is in me; I am of them, and they are of me. How I am the instrument of God.

"There is no feeling, perhaps except the extremes of fear and grief, that does not find relief in music—that does not make a man sing or play better."—George Elliot.

The Gambler

And sitting down they watched Him there,
The Soldiers did.
There, while they played with dice,
He made His sacrifice,
And died upon the Cross to rid God's world of sin.

He was a gambler too,
My Christ.
He took His life and threw
It for a world redeemed.
And e'er He agony was done
Before the westering sun went down,
Crowning that day with its crimson crown
He knew
That He had won.

As Others See Me

Jas. 1:22-27; 2:8-17

Young People's Topic for Aug. 14, 1938

Meditations:

M., Aug. 8. My kindness. 1 John 3:14-18.
T., Aug. 9. My selfishness. Prov. 24:11, 12.
W., Aug. 10. My lack of self-control. Jas. 3:13-18.
T., Aug. 11. My humility. Luke 7:6, 7.
F., Aug. 12. My willingness to help. Luke 10: 25-37.
3., Aug. 13. My sincerity. Deut. 10:12.

Continuing the trend of last week's thinking, we consider under this topic those more obvious personality traits that constitute the self that others can see. The positive traits are a natural manifestation of a healthy Christian character. The negative traits point out the weak spots in that character.

Paul writes to the Galatians, "But the fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, longsuffering, kindness, goodness, faithfulness, meekness, self-con,trol." (Gal. 5:22-23a). The everyday courtesies, neighborliness, and the like, are an important contribution to the world's happiness.

We do have people who seem to excel in the obvious qualities only. They exude friendliness and hospitality. They are always ready with thoughtful, courteous acts. Yet when it comes to constructive contributions to human welfare, they have made none. They can "gush" forth flattering phrases, but they cannot think or speak anything that requires concentrated effort. They are adept in the skill of graciousness. Yet their skill does not penetrate beneath the superficialities of social contacts.

There are also people who represent the opposite extreme. They have consecrated their body, mind, and soul to some great cause. They give their time, their energy, their talents, their health, to further that cause. Its value may be far-reaching. But they, in their consuming desire to have their life project be successful, neglect the little joys in life. In their frenzy to attain the goal, they forget to live along the way. They love mankind, a generalization, and sacrifice their life's blood in devotion to an institution that serves mankind. But they forget to love the neighbor next door, to nod to friends on the street, to speak an encouraging work to the newsboy as he delivers the paper. Those who know such a person think of him as an unfriendly, unkind old grouch. They do not know that he may be doing a far-reaching good, for they do not have his vision. But they do see his daily lack of consideration for those around him.

Both of these extreme types lack wholesome Christian balance in their characters. Their positive virtues are excellent. But they fail to balance them with other equally important qualities.

The two descriptions are, of course, exaggerations. We could not very well classify people as belonging to one group or the other. But if we had a rating scale with the ultra-sociable traits on one end, and the ultra-sacrificial traits on the other end, persons could be rated at different points along the scale. Their score would digress from the center of the line toward that end which more nearly describes their type of personality.

What do others see in me? Do they score me near one of the ends, or do they find in me a harmonious blend of the two extremes?

Program Suggestions:

Have different individuals prepare short stories or parables centering around the following traits:

1. Kindness—unkindness
2. Generosity—selfishness
3. Self-control—intemperance
4. Humility—pride
5. Sincerity—hypocrisy
6. Dependability—unreliability

Add others if you wish.

If you know your group well and know they would take it in the proper spirit, you might prepare a rating scale for each member covering the above traits and others you care to add. The score sheets should be handed out at random and each member rates the person whose name he finds on the scale. The sheets should then be gathered and handed to their owners. No one should know who rated him. If your group is small and you have time, you can have every member rate every other member. It would be better to have at least a few ratings for each person. It is easier thus to assure anonymity of rating. And that is really the only way any benefit can be obtained from such a precedure.

Below is a sample scale for one personality trait.

My Home and Money

Intermediate C. E. Topic, Aug. 14, 1938

Aug. 8. Earning selfishly. Luke 12:16-21
Aug. 9. Piling up gold. Eccl. 4:8.
Aug. 10. Wage bargaining. Gen. 29:15
Aug. 11. A wage-earning mother. Ex. 2:1-9.
Aug. 12. Bringing money home. Lev. 19:13.
Aug. 13. Wasted wages. Hag. 1:1-6
Aug. 14. Topic—My Home and Money. Luke 12:13-15; 15:11-24.

I. Preprayer Circle

Phil. 2:3. Read the verse and show how all money problems in the home would be solved if this spirit dominated. Pray that the meeting may show the members their responsibility to live in this spirit.

II. Suggested songs.

"Love Divine, All Love Excelling," "When Love Shines In."

Announcements. (Be interested, enthusiastic in your plans)

III. Instrumental: "I Need Thee Every Hour"

Leader: "Search me, O God, and know my heart:
Try me, and know my thoughts:
And see if there be any wicked way in me,
And lead me in the way everlasting."

Scripture reading: (By two members who come to the front unannounced) Luke 12:13-15; Luke 15:11-24.

Poem: "Love thyself last.

Look near; behold thy duty
To those who walk beside thee down life's road;
Make glad their day by little acts of beauty,
And help them bear the burden of earth's load.

Love thyself.
Look far, and find the stranger
Who staggers 'neath his sin and his despair;
Go lend a hand and lead him out of danger,
To heights where he may see the world is fair.

Love thyself last.
The vastnesses above thee
Are filled with spirit forces, strong and pure.
And fervently these faithful friends shall love thee,
Keep thy watch over others, and endure."

John B. Dykes

Song: "Just For Today"
Sentence Prayers.

IV. Topic Discussion

1. Sugestions for the leader. It takes money to run a home. But some homes that have very little of it are happy, while others which have more than they can use are very unhappy. So it does not depend on the amount that we have but what we do with it that counts. As Christians we should know how to use it for the greatest good. Paul said, "I have learned in whatsoever state I am, therewith to be content."

2. Home problems with money.

a. Love of money. 1 Tim. 6:10—What are some sins to which love of money leads in the home?
b. Hoarding. Luke 12:16-21.—What is the difference between hoarding and saving?
c. Selfishness. 1 John 2:15-17.—How does selfishness lead to money problems in the home? When should parents deprive themselves for the sake of their children? How can it be a detriment? What is a family budget?
d. Disobedience. Eph. 6:13.- Should parents share their financial problems with their children? Should children be expected to contribute toward the family expenses if they earn something?

3. The Christian Way.

a. We are stewards. I Chron. 29:14. What difference would this make in the way a family handles money?
b. Money not our first concern. Matt. 6:33.—What conditions must we fulfill to be free from the worry over money? How can an appreciation for the things that do not cost money help to make a happy home?

V. Closing moments

Blackboard talk.

Christians have riches not of this world. Phil. 4:19. (Draw a large diamond shaped figure. Subdivide into eight parts and label them as the following passages are read and commented on briefly). 1. Forgiveness, 1 John 1:9; 2. Salvation, Rom. 10:9; 3. Righteousness, II Cor. 5:21; 4. Peace, John 14:27; 5. Joy, John 15:10, 11; 6. Rest, Matt. 11:28; 7. Wisdom, James 1:5; 8. Eternal life, John 3:36.

Special song: "I'm the Child of a King"

Benediction.

JUNIOR CORNER

Every Junior a Bible Reader

Quiet music

Worship period:

1. Rise to sing in unison: "The Lord is in His Temple."

2. Voice out of the group speaking:

"We praise Thee, O God;
We acknowledge Thee to be the Lord;
All the earth doth worship Thee,
The Father everlasting."

3. Leader speaking:

"O Lord of all the universe
Who keepest all things in Thy care,
While all our heads in reverence bow,
We lift our hearts to Thee in prayer.

From Thee receive we all our good,
E'en life itself is Thine to give;
Alone we are not brave or strong;
Apart from Thee we dare not live."

4. In unison: The prayer Jesus taught His disciples (Be seated)

5. Sing in unison: "Break Thou the Bread of Life"

Mission minutes will be woven into the study period

Announcements

Study period. Aim: To deepen the love for God's Word which shall lead to a reading of the same.

1. Introduction to study of the evening by chairman using Psalm 119:130

2. "The Opening of Thy Word": Let the group open their Bibles and with open Bibles lying on the palms of their hands which are lifted up in front of them, let them sing verse one and chorus of "Wonderful Words of Life"

3. Three questions answered by juniors in short talks:

a. Why shall I read the Bible? Ps. 19:7. It is God's Word.

b. When shall I read the Bible? Joshua 1:8. Ps. 119:97.

c. How shall I read the Bible? Job 22:22; Ps. 119:9, 11.

4. Poem by a junior:

"Holy Bible, book divine,
Precious treasure, thou art mine;
Mine to tell me whence I came;
Mine to teach me what I am.

Mine to chide me when I rove;
Mine to show a Saviour's love;
Mine thou art to guide and guard;
Mine to punish or reward.

Mine to tell of joys to come,
Mine to lead me safely home.
O thou holy book divine,
Precious treasure, thou art mine!"

5. Speak in unison the prayer found in Psalm 119:10. Give the children time to find it. Let heads be bowed and the prayer read.

6. Sing in unison verse two of "Wonderful Words of Life"

7. Learning to know His Word. A drill. These important passages could be put on the board: Matt. 6:9-13; Ex. 20; Luke 10:30-37; Luke 2:8-20; Matt. 5, 6, 7; I Cor. 13; Ps. 23; I Sam. 3:1-10. As you write each on the board, ask the Juniors what they find in these passages. The first one finding the passage is allowed to state its content. The answer is then put opposite the passage. The drill is repeated by erasing the references but leaving the content as: "The Shepherd Psalm." The drill now consists in seeing how many can find the reference for the subject.

8. Heart-talk: "My Words Shall Not Pass Away." In a five minute sermonette show how all things are transient but God's word shall abide. Leave on the child's mind and heart the importance of choosing that which is eternal.

9. Repeat in unison verse of the month.

10. Leader's prayer of thanksgiving for the Word and for divine leading to understand obey the same.

PROGRAM FOR THE JUNIOR LEADER'S CONVENTION

2:30-4:30, August 14, 1938

Tabor Church near Goessel, Kans.

Opening hymn: "O Master Let Me Walk With Thee"

Devotionals: Sister Helen Ruth Epp (Whitewater Junior C. E.)

Leader's Exchange: Please bring problems, experiences, methods that have worked, materials that have been helpful,—posters, pin-ons, books, and also your best program. If each leader would bring the best program in about twenty copies and there should be twenty leaders there, then we would each return home with twenty good programs. Come to share!

Business: Planning the 1939 Junior Convention
"The Junior Leader's Task"—Guest Speaker
The Junior Leader's Consecration to the Task
Closing song: "I Will Sing of My Redeemer."

In Memoriam

THEODORE B. REMPEL, son of John H. and Aganeta Bartel Rempel, was born June 17, 1913, a few miles north of Hillsboro. He was privileged to attend the local district school, this Hillsboro Bible Academy, and the Hillsboro High School.

At an early age his friendly and sincere nature as well as his serious mindedness and faithfulness became evident to all who knew him. And so it was but natural that at the age of 17 he publicly confessed his allegiance to Jesus Christ as his personal Savior and was baptized and received into the fellowship of the Bruderthal Mennonite Church by the Rev. John Plenert on June 1, 1930. In the few years allotted to him, this allegiance grew more whole hearted and beautiful as he served his God and his church wherever opportunity presented itself.

On August 29, 1937, he entered into the marriage relationship with Selma Jost and for the brief period of nine and one-half months they made their home in Hillsboro, happy in their plans for the future.

But in the inscrutable ways of God it was decreed otherwise. For on June 14, 1938 he, along with Jacob Funk, was severely injured in a terrific explosion at this place of work. And inspite of all efforts to save his life, he answered the final summons of his Master five and one-half hours later, reaching the age of twenty-five years less 3 days.

When during the brief period of consciousness granted him following his injury, he was asked whether he was ready to meet his Savior he answered: "Yes," in a firm, clear voice, thus giving final vocal expression to the testimony of his life.

As evidence of his devoted love to Christ and the Church, he willingly served as organizer of the Y. P. C. E. and as chairman of the County C. E. Rally, and only recently he, along with other young folks, went to Wichita to attend the Jubilee C. E. convention in session there at that time.

He lived among us but a few brief years. To us it appeared that his life was just unfolding. However, we are confident that what God began in him here, He will bring to full fruitation beyond the grave. He leaves to mourn his, for us all, too early passing, his young wife, 1 brother, 4 sisters, 2 grandmothers, his parents-in-law, 10 brothers-in-law, 8 sisters-in-law. and a host of relatives and friends. His parents, 1 brother, and 2 sisters have preceded him in death.

DEAN LAVERE, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Schrag was born on September 18, 1931, and died on Wednesday, June 22, 1938, attaining an age of 6 years, 9 months, and 4 days. On the 13th of June he became sick and after consulting several doctors was taken to the hospital on Wednesday. His case was diagnosed as an infection of the blood stream and it soon became evident that the end was near. He suffered much physical pain yet bore it patiently, but passed on quietly.

He was always an active, energetic boy, of a friendly nature, whose happy voice will be missed by those who knew and loved him. During the last few weeks he seemed especially interested in spiritual things, and during his brief stay at the hospital enjoyed singing of hymns he had learned to know (especially the hymns: "Jesus Loves Me" and "Since I'm Jesus Little Lamb"). A few days before his departure he expressed his confidence that he was one of Jesus' little lambs. He leaves to mourn his early departure his parents, one brother, one sister, his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Helmut Wedel, his grandmother, Mrs. Joe Schrag, and many relatives and friends.

EDWARD P. SCHRAG, son of Peter J. Schrag and Mary Goering Schrag, was born on Sept. 2, 1900, at Moundridge, Kansas, and died at the Bethel hospital, Newton, Kansas, on June 17, 1938. He was taken to the hospital on June 12 and an operation for gall stones and appendix was performed. In spite of all medical attention which was given him, he failed to recover.

He was baptized upon confession of his faith in Jesus Christ on November 25, 1917, by Rev. N. R. Kaufman and became a member of the Hopefield Mennonite Church near Moundridge. He transferred his membership to the Eden Church in 1934 and remained a faithful member until his departure. In the year 1923, Nov. 29, he entered into Holy wedlock with Martha Goering. Four children were given to them, Deloris, Verrilen, Elvin and Shirley, who with their mother, mourn his early departure to the home above where they expect to see him face to face in glory.

He leaves to mourn his departure also his father and mother, father- and mother-in-law, 2 brothers, 4 sisters, 10 brothers-in-law, 8 sisters-in-law, a host of friends and other relatives.

« « JOTTINGS » »

—Program for Music Festival, is the title of a program of songs rendered at the Bluffton, Ohio, H. S. Auditorium July 10. Too bad it did not reach us in time to advertise. But because it looks so good we shall give here even this late. Would that our contributors might send in any worthwhile Mennonite programs about three weeks before they are to be rendered, so that their publication might serve the intended purpose of announcement. Here is the program:

Invocation
Listen to the Lambs—Mixed Chorus
Praise Be to God (Dickson)—Hilda Amstutz
Cherubim Song—Vilas and Vernon Gerber, Earl Dean Steiner, Dwight Sommer

By Grace Church

The King of Love My Shepherd Is (Shelly) — Mrs. A. E. Lichtenwalter, Miss Clara Schumacher
Das ist der Tag des Hern; Die Kapelle (German) John Boehr, Edwin Amstutz, Sam Bixel, C. D. Amstutz
Air on G String (Bach) — Lucille Niswander
Open the Gates of the Temple (Knapp)—Mrs. Ralph Blosser

First Mennonite Church

Low a Voice from Heaven—Mixed Chorus
Selection—Boys' Quartette
Lead Kindly Light—Clayton Bucher, Esther Luginbuhl

Ebenezer

They Shall Hunger No More—Eunice Steiner, Magdalene Amstutz
O Love of God—Ladies Chorus
Ach Mein Herr Jesu—Mixed Quartette
St. John Church
Offering
The Heavens Are Telling—Haydn
Hallelujah Chorus—Handel
Harre, Meine Seele
Combined Choruses—Prof. Otto Holtkamp, Conductor
Benediction

—Rev. Howard G. Nyce of Allentown, Pa. who since his election as secretary of the Eastern Conference, has made some welcome, valuable contributions to the Mennonite writes: The Mennonite has improved very much. I would make one further suggestion, but I suppose the expense involved would be a hindrance. Our church paper should not be solid reading: it would improve it 70%, if we could have pictures occasionally. As an example, the Episcopal Recorder, a paper not nearly as large as ours, has a picture on the outside page and small cuts of writers here and there, as for instance the Young People's Editor or, perhaps, a member of the Board. These same pictures appear frequently. I shall send you a copy of the paper.—Bro. Nyce's suggestion is good, constructive, hence appreciated. We have nurtured similar thoughts, but he has mentioned the chief difficulty in the way. The Mennonite is again in the red, as it has been for four decades. But maybe illustrations would bring more subscribers and more money.

—Rev. D. J. Unruh of the St. John Church, Pandora, O., writes: We have had a pleasant summer thus far, crops look good. Wheat harvest is over and most of the fields threshed. Quite a number of the farmers had their wheat combined, cut and threshed in one operation. Yields were from 20 to 42 bushels. Yesterday in connection with the Ohio-Indiana Y. P. Conference at the Ebenezer church, Brother Harold Burkholder, a member of the Ebenezer congregation, was ordained to the gospel ministry. Rev. P. A. Kliewer was assisted in the act by the ministers of the other three neighboring Mennonite churches. Mr. Burkholder who is a brother of Mrs. Emerson Slotterback of the Altoona, Pa., mission, and his wife had a call from the East Swamp Church of Quakertown, Pa., and they begin their service there on July 24. The couple have recently been graduated from the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.

—Dr. R. M. Blackwood, General Secretary of the Sabbath Ass'n of Western Pennsylvania, who married one of our missionaries to China, Miss Loretta Lehman of Berne, Ind., has sent us two fine articles on the progress his association is making against Sabbath descration, which The Mennonite will bring as early as possible. We are truly grateful to the Blackwoods for this courtesy and help. The offices of the organization are at 1011 Tyndall Street, Pittsburg, Pa.

—Notes for "The Bluffton College Bulletin."—Bluffton College has been the recipient of a bequest amounting to $1,432.00 from the estate of Mrs. Lizzie Hartman of Quakertown, Pa. The Deep Run Congregation, the Mennonite Home for the Aged at Frederick, Pa., and the Quakertown community Hospital are other beneficiaries of the generosity of Mrs. Hartman.—The college has received its final payment in the distribution of the estate of J. C. Augsburger, Trenton, Ohio. The total received was $2,719.31.—Bluffton College is beneficiary to the amount of $1,080.00 in the will of the late Lizzie Noble of Salem County, Nebr. She was the daughter of Rev. Benj. Eicher of the Emmanuel Church, Noble, Iowa.—The Silas Grubb Library, one of the most valuable collections of Mennonite Historical material is to come to Bluffton College in accord with the wish of the late Dr. Grubb of Philadelphia. One of the rooms in the fine Musselman Library is to be set aside to house this collection for study purposes.—Of the 26 graduates of Bluffton's Teacher Training department, eleven have thus far received positions.

—Chester Unruh and Gerald Stucky, linotype operators in the Bethel College printshop have kindly consented to edit The Mennonite while the editor is away at the Conference in Saskatoon. We are sure the young men will do credit to themselves. Mr. Unruh has been making up the form for each succeeding issue and printing it most of the time single-handed.

—Dr. E. J. Hartzler of Goshen, Ind., and of the Hartford Theological Seminary, Hartford, Conn., has sent us a folder of the "Summer School of Missions" at Mt. Lake Park, Md., July 18-24. Bro. Hartzler is the main speaker, with two lectures each day, one on the Bible and the other on "World Trends." The Mennonite is much indebted to Dr. Hartzler for the series of sermonettes that have been running through several numbers of the paper.

—The brethren E. W. Baumgartner, Berne, Ind., and A. J. Richert, Los Angeles, Calif., members of the Board of Publication are going to the Conference by way of Newton, to enable them to hold a much needed pre-session of the Board, with the two Kansas members, the brethren Suderman and Thierstein, also to hear and see what has been done in the way of getting a Conference printing plant and, possibly, a book store for the Mennonites of the Western part of the States.

—The Music Institute, held at Bethel College, July 17-23, is proving to be a much worthwhile undertaking, as is shown by the large attendance and the public interest generally. About 160 are regularly enrolled and large numbers attend part time. Dr. Augustine Smith, head of Fine Arts in Religion school, Boston University, certainly is a master in the field of church music. His work here is a great help and blessing to choir leaders, pastors, church choirs, and all lovers of church music. The climax came Saturday evening in the pageant, "The Wonder of the Glory of Light."

Along the King's Highway

Once upon a time there sat by the King's Highway a poor man. Beside his begging bowl he had a piece of cloth in which were tied some grains of rice. Down the road came the King of that country, seated on a wonderful elephant, bedecked with rich carpets and jewels. Before the elephant went the foot soldiers and servants in fine clothing. Behind in chariots rode the prime minister, and secretaries, and officers.

When the King came near the beggar, he commanded the mahat to halt. Descending from the elephant he stood in front of the beggar with a rich embroidered fat purse in his left hand, and asked, "What do you want?" The beggar replied, "Oh! Maharaja, please give me something." The King thrust out the palm of his right hand and asked, "How much will you give me?" The beggar thought, "I'm poor! What can I give?" Then he took out two small grains of rice and gave them to the King. The King thereupon opened his purse and took out two of the smallest coins of gold that he had, turned about, mounted the elephant, and gave the command to move on.

When the procession had moved down the road, the beggar came to himself, sighed and said, "What a fool I am! If I had given five grains of rice, the King would have given me five coins of gold. If I had given him ten, he would have given me ten. If I had given a fist full, he would have given me a fist full. In remorse he began to weep.

You, the Youth of our Churches, are starting out down the Highway of the King. He asks each one of you, "What do you want? What will you give me, of your talents, your time, your testimony, your life blood? Study Luke 12:41-48, Luke 16:1-13 in the light of your opportunities, life, money.

Wrote that great missionary Alexander Duff to the fathers and mothers of Scotland, "There is not a valley nor dell nor burning waste from one end of India to the other, that is not enriched with the bones, and not a rivulet or stream that has not been dyed with the blood of Scotland's children. And will you, fathers and mothers, send your children out in thousands in quest of this bubble of fame—this bubble of wealth, of honor and perishable renown—and prohibit them from going forth in the army of the great Immanuel, to win crowns of glory and imperishable renown in the realm of everlasting day?"

Faith and Doubt

It seems that there is a place in life for both faith and doubt. A man may honestly and intelligently say: "I have my doubts, but I believe it." One may honestly and sincerely pray: "Lord, I believe; help thou mine unbelief."

Our doubts are always checkered with faith; and our faith is often checkered by doubts. There are men who would like to believe in God, in Christ, but they say they can not. Faith, in this case, may have been slain by reason. This is unfortunate and quite unnecessary. Reason and faith are friends. Sometimes our friends become our most harmful enemies. Reason and faith are two different methods of questing for truth, and neither faith or reason should destroy the other.

An efficient and an intelligent doubter is usually an efficient and an intelligent thinker. Doubt and faith in the man of God move in the same general direction, only faith outruns doubt. Faith often arrives before doubt gets started.

St. Thomas was honest; he wanted to believe, but he had doubts. "Except I shall see in his hands the print of the nails, and put my finger into the print of the nails, and thrust my had into his side, I will not believe."

The cure for doubt is not more argument, but more evidence.—J. E. Hartzler.

"It is a grander thing to win a soul for Christ than it is to launch a new star into space. For when the stars are dim, that soul will shine on, reflecting the glory that comes from the countenance of God." My successor Rev. W. F. Unruh baptised 136 during the first four months of 1938, and is organizing new churches all over the 750 different towns and villages, which constitute his parish. Over that same parish, Dr. H. E. Dester, following the great Physician, with His prayer upon his lips, treated 11,000 patients and had 315 operations during the 12 months of 1937.

Are you building for time or eternity?—S. T. Moyer in "The Vine Press."

The General Conference in Session

By the time this issue of the Mennonite reaches you, the Conference in Saskatoon will be well underway. The task that the delegates you have sent are facing is no little one. Your delegates are your personal representatives who need your support NOW. Pray earnestly for them daily that they may be conscious of the Lord's presence and that His divine will may faithfully be carried out in action. Remember also the boards, committees and all those charged with special responsibilities. The tasks are impossible in human strength, but all things are possible with God.

Counterfeit

By Clara Aiken Speer

There is naught on earth so holy
That it may not be abused,
For the finer, nobler metals
Baser wares are often used.

All the words by which men greatly
Live, or e'en more greatly die,
Have their counterfeits, and beauty
Is invoked to cloak a lie.

But two words above all others,
In themselves ineffably
Sacred, have by knaves been flaunted.
They are: Love and Liberty.

THE PRACTICE OF PRAYER

Missionary H. E. Dester, M. D.

"Sari Bai, where are those keys?"

"I do not know. They were here on the table all the while."

"Could anyone have taken them?"

"No one has been here except those women from the hospital."

"But surely they would not take them. They would have no use for those keys for American locks."

The keys in question were for the locks on the food godam or supply room. Not to be able to get at these as well as at the lanterns and kerosene was quite an inconvenience. The following morning when Sari the housewoman came back to work she said, "I shall go talk with those women who were here yesterday. I could neither eat nor sleep, and I prayed the Lord to direct me to find those keys." Mrs. Dester rather discouraged her because she thought they would be insulted by such an approach. They were patients at the hospital, and of high caste. One was a village owner's wife. They had come to the bungalow to call on Mrs. Dester, and to see the bungalow.

Toward evening the housewoman handed Mrs. Dester the keys. She had talked to the women, had told them that the keys for which she was responsible were lost, that she could neither eat nor sleep because it had caused so much trouble. She also told them that she has prayed the Lord to help her find them. Upon talking with the women one of them arose, went into the ward, and returned with the keys.

The faith and tact of some of our uneducated Christian women is often a challenge to us.

The workmen had made many brick with the small wooden molds. These were piled up, arranged in tiers with wood in between, and plastered with mud on the outside all ready for burning.

As I approached the kiln on the evening of its completion the contractor was just paying off the men and women who had made the brick and arranged the kiln. They said they were just ready to begin burning the brick and suggested that I call all the workers together and ask the Lord's blessing upon the burning of the kiln. The workers were practically all Christians working under a Hindu contractor. I told him it had been suggested that we ask the Lord's blessing upon the burning of the brick. He not only consented but expressed his desire that this be done.

A prayer of thanksgiving was offered for the Lord's protection of the workmen and for the fact that there was no serious loss due to rain. His blessing was asked upon the burning of the kiln as well as upon the workmen.

Let me also mention another incident of prayer. A woman of the jungle was passing the hospital and as often happens she wanted to see the inside working of the place. She soon found herself in the sterilizing room where she was literally overcome by the sight of such grand, shiny, complex "beings" as the sterilizers. In awe she bowed down before them and did obeisance to them, and before leaving, she placed an offering of coconut upon the sterilizer.

Music Pageant Presented

The Mennonite Music Institute which was held recently at Bethel College came to a climatic close in the presentation of the pageant, "The Wonder and Glory of the Light," written and directed by Dr. H. Augustine Smith, who directed the music school. The Institute which was held from July 17-23 was very well attended, approximately 120 people enrolling for the series of meetings. Dr. Smith's masterful method of teaching church music was much appreciated and greatly enjoyed as was indicated by the attendance.

The first form of the pageant he presented was written in Japan in 1920. He has since produced it in over one thousand cities from Halifax to New Orleans and from Minneapolis to Winston Salem.

The Pageant begins with prophecy of the coming of better times, enunciated by a Watchman, Jeremiah, Amos, Joel, Hosea, Haggai and Malachi. Isaiah adds the Messianis prophecy and there enters at this time the Madonna, draped in the colors of every true madonna in art, red for divine love, white for purity and blue for truth. The second scene is the Vision of Isaiah given from an high altar, burning with live coals from off the altar.

The choir sings the Sanctus in response. The third scene brings the Manger of Bethlehem at the center, with the Spirit of Christianity lighting her electric torch. Summoning Church to come forward and seven Ambassadors to consecrate their lives to Christian service, one to the teaching of the Word of God, another to the nurture of child life, another to Evangelism, another to Religious Education, another to Christian principles and living in business, and the last two to the Higher Patriotism and International good will.

The final scenes of the pageant feature the coming forward of seven ambassadorial groups with lighted torches, flowers, palms of victory and flags of America and the world. Just before the finale, the lovely blue and white scene of the angels, the Madonna, and the manger, is featured to the music of "Stille Nacht." All Hail the Power of Jesus name brings 100 participants into action and into singing all at once and with a thrilling elevation scene to the words "Crown Him, Crown Him, Lord of All."

A Crisis of Choice

By Robert M. Blackwood, D. D.

(Editor's note: This article comes from "The Sabbath Association of Western Pennsylvania, 1011 Tyndall St., Pittsburg, Pa., through the courtesy of Dr. D. D. Blackwood, Secretary. He is the husband of our former missionary to India, Miss Loretta Lehman.)

This report of our recent survey of Sabbath situations in the Near East and European countries is condensed from one given to the Board of Directors of The Sabbath Association of Western Pennsylvania, whose cheering loyalty to this cause is surpassed nowhere. The review is limited mainly to the Continental Sunday and British Sabbath. It is prompted as an encouragement to friends who support the Sabbath cause, and with the hope that it may help many others, in these testing days, to see America's necessity of choosing the sacred Sabbath of rest and worship, as against the secular Sunday of greed and pleasure, toward which we are drifting. An aroused church can yet check this drift and save our imperiled American Christian Sabbath which, as an institution, was founded, not by accident, but by Providential design, on Christian convictions and practices, and has been a distinguishing factor in our civilization. Indeed the rescue of our Sabbath to its divine sanctity would be the best way to show our esteem of the Christian characteristics of the British Sabbath, and our gratitude to God.

As an American views the three Sundays observed in Palestine, Friday, the Mohammedan day of fear; Saturday, the Jewish day of legalism, and the Lord's Day of loving service, he experiences a new appreciation of the peaceful unity and uplifting influences of our American Christian Sabbath. In Egypt, as he contrasts conditions resulting from the servile Sunday of the Mohammedans, the joyous liberties of the Christians, this appreciation is deepened.

The Continental Sunday

What is the Continental Sunday, as in Italy and France, especially the latter? It is the first day of the week almost completely secularized and commercialized. The divine authority and sacredness of the day have largely been forgotten, as have its highest humanitarian uses. But in some of these countries the right of labor to Sunday rest has been recognized. It is a day of travel; of social gatherings; of entertainment at the expense of labor; of commercialized cinemas; of sports; of gambling; of civil elections and military training. The wines, songs and revelries of taverns subvert the family life of many homes. It is a day of hilarious entertainments at cabarets, ballrooms, circuses and races.

It is a day of frivolity, supplanting relaxation, meditation and serious views of life. A day of dissipation of body and emptiness of soul, as well as idleness of mind. Worse yet, it blunts the conscience, undermines all restraints, increases crime, and prepares a soil for immoralities, too shocking to mention. As one pictures the grave consequences of such a Sunday his heart sickens. "The scandal of history," said Clemenceau, "is the repeated desecration of spiritual grandeurs." Emerson well says, "What greater calamity can fall upon a nation than the loss of worship? Then all things go to decay. Genius leaves the temple to haunt the senate or the market, literature becomes frivolous, science is cold. The eye of youth is not lighted by the hope of other worlds, and age is without honor."

But while the Sabbath question is nearly a dead issue in these countries yet God has His witnesses in them. They sincerely observe the day, and through their Lord's Day Societies courageously work to restore its sacredness. These, however, are few in Continental Europe and are poorly supported.

The British Sabbath

In the study of the British Sabbath there is encouragement, yet warning. In England crowds rush by cheap excursions to the Downs to see the races on a "Derby" Sunday. Sometimes other large Sunday functions, on an irreligious basis, occur especially in East and South sea-coast towns. London cinemas opened on the Lord's Day in violation of law by evasion, and were rewarded by a change of the law to make legal their commercialization of sacred hours of the Sabbath. But these cinemas are confined to central London and some surrounding districts. The rest of England stands uncompromisingly against them. A hundred cities, each with a population of over 100,000 are free from Sunday cinemas. London is influenced by the Continental Sunday, somewhat as New Jersey cities have been influenced by New York City's Sunday, or Sydney, Australia, by California. Melbourne, which patterns more closely after the Victorian Sabbath, is safer for young people than Sydney with its less strict Sabbath observance. Australia, like the Dominion of Canada, has a good Sabbath.

The English people, as a whole, love the Lord's Day, largely attend the place of worship, and give careful attention to religious education. The Crown is also an influential factor to the sanctity of the Sabbath. They carry their civil Sunday into their protectorates, as Egypt, Palestine, India and South Africa. The Sabbath has distinguished the British people. It has made them conscientious, upright, cultured, staunch for national righteousness, and a blessing for the peace of Europe today.

Not less in Scotland than in England is the Sabbath question a live issue. The Christian stalwarts of Scotland have waged untiring war against Sunday opening of shops. Alarmed by this growing desecration of the Sabbath, they carried their fight against it into Parliament, and secured an Act which more closely restricted Sunday trading to necessities. These churchmen are vigilent against all entering wedges for the secularization of the Lord's Day.

The Christian forces defending the Sabbath in England and Scotland are led by the "Lord's Day Observance Societies" of London and Edinburgh, and by the "Imperial Alliance for the Defense of Sunday," London. These organizations are well supported by the churches. Among their officers and directors are prominent statesmen, as well as churchmen. Secretaries of these societies are alert against the insidious attacks of Sabbath enemies.

In the six counties of Ulster, Ireland, the churches stand four-square on the Christian fundamentals, and stress the divine authority of the Sabbath and the human necessity of obedience to its law of rest and privileges of worship. In Belfast we found that the churches, in co-operation with the Y. M. C. A. and its wide awake secretary, promptly defeat all attempts leading toward a secular Sunday. Their churches have spirituality and power. Their communities have morality, frugality, and prosperity, and are more excellent than the communities of Southern Ireland with their open Sunday, much as the Cantons of Switzerland are blessed above their surrounding neighbors because of their better Sabbath observance.

America's Choice

In this crisis, what will be America's choice? It is clear that a sacred Lord's Day, such as we have inherited from the Christian founders of our Republic, is necessary in order to perpetuate our Christian civilization. Voltaire said, "Whether Englishmen know it or not, it is the English Sunday that has made and keeps England great." But all Englishmen do not know this. Theodore Roosevelt said: "Experience shows that the day of rest is essential to mankind; that it is demanded by civilization, as well as Christianity." Lincoln said: "As we keep or break the Sabbath day we nobly save or we meanly lose the best hope by which man rises." But all Americans do not know this.

Some Churches and Church leaders are indifferent to this great cause; others lack the courage to meet the challenge of Sabbath enemies. Yet on this very issue Christ met the challenge in His day. There can be no evasion of it in our day. It is vital. On its settlement the Church and Nation stand or fall. The law of the Sabbath, like the law of gravity, is unchangeable. It was enacted by the example of God at the close of creation; written by the finger of God into the heart of the Decalogue; honored by the example of Christ, and rescued by His voice out of its Pharisaical legalism; confirmed, in its change of day to the Lord's Day, with new joy because of the victorious fact of the resurrection of Christ; sealed by the outpouring of the Holy Spirit on the first Pentecostal Christian Sabbath; and blessed ever since wherever observed, as the great day of spiritual harvests to the church, and of physical and moral renovation to the State. Upon our obedience, therefore, as a Nation, to this law, depends our blessing or our blight. Pennsylvania, which has been immovable for the Sabbath for nearly a century and a half, until recent foreign invasions for commercialized sports and movies, is still the Keystone State on this issue. The soul of our people is still right on this subject. May all our leaders and Sabbath loving friends wake up, and help our people make the right choice, before it is too late.

SERMON SKETCH

IV. ONE IMPERATIVE

Romans 10:14, "How shall they hear without a preacher?"

Acts 2:37, "Men and brethren, what shall we do?"

The operations of the Gospel upon the world are designed to establish the Kingdom of God in the hearts of men. Man is the subject of the Gospel, and to be and become the citizen of the kingdom. The principal activity, on the human side is the response that man has made to the appeal of the Gospel. But there is a further obligation. God and the Gospel, and the conditions of the world require the support and allegiance of the human factor, if this earth is to become the realm of Jesus Christ. In other words, man must be the co-worker with God in spreading the Gospel for the salvation of man. "I dressed his wounds, God healed him," is the inscription over the gateway of the French College of Surgeons. It suggests the inevitable and indispensable union of the two forces—God and man working together for the ends of redemption. In His wisdom and grace God has for some of His greatest ends conditioned Himself by human labor. If that is withheld His ends can not be accomplished—the Kingdom of God can not be established in the heart of man.

I. God needs an Instrument

There are many activities in which God is absolutely independent of human service. By His own might He has made the heavens and the earth; He fixed the sun in the heights; He gave the planets their course through the sky and the stars their orbit; He shaped the mountains without our aid, and carved the depth to make a home for the sea; He ordered the motions of the tide, and gave the seasons of the year their rotation. All these are parts of a mighty plan that has other departments of activity in which man is an indispensable agent.

There are certain needs which God leaves man to meet and serve. God has stored the earth with production properties which will only yield their increase if man will consent to plow the ground and sow the seed. The quarries of the world are packed with stone which man must cut and chisle and polish to build his cathedrals and erect his homes. The forests offer timber for the comfort and shelter of mankind, but man must come with axe and blade and carve the timber to his uses. The great mineral deposits yield their wealth to man's excavating spade. Man must go to work to make use of all these God-made products for his comforts of life. God will not do for him what he can do for himself. Human activity supplements the Divine and perfects it.

Now listen! The greatest and richest deposit God has placed in the world for man's good is the Gospel of His Son—the good tiding of Salvation. For its effectual increase God has called upon human assistance. There is a challenging record which meets us with startling insistence. It is the burden of Isaiah: "Whom shall I send, and who will go for us?" Cherubim and Seraphim with swift wings are within call, but there are ministries which even they cannot perform.

God asks for men. Jeremiah feels the presence of this divine necessity: "Run ye to and fro through the city and see if ye can find a man." The same quest we meet in Ezekiel: "I sought for a man among them, that should make up the fence, and stand in the gap before me for the land, that I should not destroy it, but I found none."—It was within the power of human agency to avert calamity, but there was no volunteer, and the result was revealed in the fact, that the people were only fit to perish. Had there been an exception to the rule, "One still strong man in a blatant land," that one man might have been the instrument to save his generation, but the absence of even one, indicated the hoplessness of the situation.

The apostle Paul at one time exultes no declaring the free and spacious Gospel when he writes: "Whosoever shall call on the name of the Lord shall be saved." And the next moment catches himself up with a pang, "How then shall they call on Him in whom they have not believed? and how shall they believe in Him of whom they have not heard? and how shall they hear without a preacher?"

The Gospel is adequate to the need of the whole world, but the one imperative, the one prerequisite, is the human instrument for proclaiming it. The message is silent till the messenger arrives. The whole passion and purpose of God is the coming of the volunteer. It is the man that is wanted. It is the men that are in demand.

Diogenes, the Greek philosopher, during a bright and sunny noon hour lit his lantern and walked through the streets of Athens. People called him a fool; some would tap their forehead in amazement. Finally one of his students asked him: "Sir, what are you looking for?" "I am looking for men," came the answer. How about our volunteers? Where are the men in our churches, who are willing and daring to help the cause of Christ our Lord and King to establish His kingdom. "Christ appeals to men, He is looking for men!"

Indeed our God is looking for men. He depends on human instruments all through the history of mankind. Listen!—"God, who in sundry times and in divers manners spake in times past unto the fathers by the prophets," here is a great succession, "Hath in these last days spoken unto us by his son," — here is a great vindication. When God would save man, He did it by way of man."

This world is not making for heaven by its own momentum; it is saved by the Grace of God working by and for human lives. There must be hands upholding the arms of Moses. We have the means of redemption in our hands. We did not earn it; we did not win it by research, by struggle or by sore travail. It came to us as God's free gift for all men on equal terms and for equal good.

The call is not irresistable; you may overhear it by sheer neglect; you may set it aside; God's men are volunteers. There is no conscription, no compulsory enlistment. "Love constraineth us." Love of Christ, that's the supply agency which moved the prophets and apostles, His missionary-hearted men and women. To Isaiah the call was mighty, that his answer came quickly, "Here am I, send me!" To Jeremiah it was "like a fire in his bones," which he could not resist.

When a man rejects and turns back these are words that fall like a sentence of doom upon his spirit. "His bishopric let another take"; "I will remove thy candle stick out of his place"; "If thou holdest thy peace at this time, then shall deliverance come to the Jews from another place; but thou and thy fathers house shall be destroyed; and who knoweth whether thou art come to the Kingdom for such a time as this?" "Oh Jerusalem, Jerusalem, thou that killest the prophets, stoneth them which are sent unto thee, how often would I have gathered thy children together, even as a hen gathereth her chickens under her wings, and ye would not! Behold, your house is left unto you desolate." Matt. 23:37, 38).

RUTH: ADVENTUROUS FAITH

Ruth 1:6-18

Introduction

A famine in Canaan had led Elimilech, his wife Naomi and their two sons to leave the Bethlehem home and go to the land of Moab, east of the Dead Sea, and settle there. The two sons married Moabite women, Orpha and Ruth. The father and later the two sons died leaving the three widows (Ruth 1:1-5). The Moabites were descendants of Lot, thus related to the Israelites, and had become idolaters. Yet Ruth, one of these, was exalted by her beautiful faith, to become the ancestress of our Lord. Her fine character is revealed in her choice in our lesson.

The Afflicted Family vs. 6. 7

Word had come to Naomi that there was plenty again in her homeland and in her devout heart she acknowledged this as God visiting His people (v6). Strong ties still bound her to the homeland and she decided to go back. She and her two daughters-in-law, who, after the custom of that day in Israel, remained with the husband's people, set forth on the journey toward Bethlehem.

Loyalty Tested vs. 8-14.

Naomi knew it would be difficult for Orpah and Ruth if they came to Judah with her, so she urged them to return to their mothers (v8), the Moabite custom. She gave them her parting blessing and prayer that God would give them their well-deserved reward (vs8,9). Three times she urged them to return to their homes because she believed it was best for them to do so (vs8,11,12). Naomi, in her unselfish love for them, urged them to do that which tore her own heart strings. The roadside scene touches our hearts. The three were strongly drawn to each other. The parting of the way had come. Each of the two daughters had to choose, either go on or return to all that was home to them. Orpah returned and nothing more is known about her. She went back reluctantly, but she went. In leaving Naomi, she also left Jehovah (v15).

Ruth's Adventurous Choice of Faith vs. 15-18

Ruth could not know what the future had in store for her. She loved Naomi so greatly that all else did not matter. Her love for her is like the love of the true Christian for Christ. Ruth felt ready to go anywhere that Naomi would go. Her reply to Naomi (vs16,17) is one of the most beautiful that ever fell from human lips. It reveals a depth of pure love and dedication that is akin to the divine. She meant it and lived up to it. Her choice was really a choice of Jehovah. She put herself on the side of God and his people. She showed real heroism of faith. Her choice of Naomi's people and their God is typical of our choice in becoming Christians. Her's was a momentous choice, changing the course of her life. She made the choice as the result of her character and wisdom previously attained. In the nobility of her character she recognized the virtues of the true religion as seen in the lives of Naomi and her family. Her character helped shape the results of her later life. We need to so order our lives that in the crisis times we make the right kind of momentous choice.

Ruth was whole-souled in her choice (16b). She made a complete consecration, an entire separation from her idolatrous people, made it as her own good judgment. Her decision is a model for true Christian consecration—a separation from the world and worldly—an alliance with the godly, with God's children. Ruth held to her choice without wavering and Naomi was satisfied (v18) and assuredly very glad for her decision. Ruth was well repaid for her great faith in God. To her came a new and happier home, rich companionship and immortal honor. She had faith to go on, one step at a time, leaving the outcome in the hands of God. How much we need a faith like hers.

God's Commendation

Working among the Indians who live on a reservation situated in the northern part of Wisconsin is a consecrated missionary who has spent many years bringing the Gospel message and material aid to the Indians scattered throughout this area.

The Northern Bible Society has been in contact with this man of God for many years and has supplied him with some Scriptures for his people—but it was only a few months ago that the "SOWER" had the privilege of meeting him personally and visiting this faithful worker on his own mission field. What a privilege to sit and listen to his wonderful testimony.

This missionary had labored for a long time in an effort to have two schools established for the neglected Indian children and, after being directed from the County Board to the State Board of Education, he finally achieved his goal.

The morning for his last visit to the State Capitol arrived and, as this is a long way from his mission field, he and his sister (both in their sixties) started out early, dressed in their best clothes. Their best clothes—oh how shabby—but our Heavenly Father who marks even the sparrow's fall had something good in store for His servant. If their clothes were old—their car was older, one of those old Fords with no top but a fairly reliable motor. Let us continue the story as our missionary told it—"we were driving along in our car and suddenly it started to rain hard just as we came to a town. As our car has no top I said to my sister, 'Let us drive up in front of that store and wait inside until it stops raining a bit.' As I entered the store the first thing that caught my eye was a suit of clothes and I knew instantly that it would fit me (this was unusual as the missionary is a large man). I approached the storekeeper who said 'a long time ago a man came into my store, picked out the material and was measured for that suit, paid me almost the full cost of the garment and has never returned, now if it fits you, you may buy it for $10.00.'" The missionary tried on the suit and it was a perfect fit, he paid the ten dollars and then he noticed that it had stopped raining. Happy for the Lord's goodness they resumed their journey, our missionary feeling that he was properly clothed to present his cause to the State Board.

Now the SOWER began to think, "Is the Lord interested in the clothes of His missionaries? Does He want them to appear presentable? Who was this man, who, so long ago, had himself measured for a suit of clothes, selected the material and paid most of the cost and then went out never to return? Was he a good man or was he a selfish man—we may never know anything more about him except that God used him to provide one of His servants with a much needed suit of clothes. Again, why did it rain just as our friends approached this little town—did the Lord use this method to make His missionaries stop and enter the small shop and purchase for such a small amount the suit that He had prepared for him? Is it not wonderful how the Lord provides for His children—does He not tell us in the Scriptures, 'Therefore take no thought, saying, wherewithal shall we be clothed, for your Heavenly Father knoweth that ye have need of these things.'"

As our two friends resumed their journey to the State Capitol, it seemed to them that even the old Ford was rejoicing over the new suit of clothes—the purr of the engine was softer and the rattles less noticeable; their going was good because the Lord was with them.

Finally, they reached their destination. What a dignified figure our missionary presented as he stepped out of his old car in his new suit—the Lord's man. In confidence and faith he appeared before the school authorities of the State, made his plea for two Indian schools about thirty miles apart on his mission field and his request was granted.

Happiness over accomplishing his goal and the long drive in the open air had given our two friends a good appetite, after paying for their lunch, our missionary discovered that he had insufficient money to pay for the needed gas and oil for the return trip. Stepping out onto the sidewalk he began to wonder just how he could manage for the return trip, he knew the Lord would provide, but how could he know the Lord's way? He thought "I am a stranger here, no one knows me, all I can do is pray and wait." As he stood on the street corner lifting his heart to God, a woman walked rapidly toward him, she seemed a bit excited, stopping beside our friend she asked "Are you a missionary—are you a missionary?" "Yes," he replied, "I am a missionary among the Indians in the northern part of this State." "Then, you're the man," she exclaimed as she put five dollars into his hand, and walked away rapidly without saying another word.

The Sower marvelled again at God's way of taking care of His children; how the Lord spoke to this good woman and told her that one of His servants was standing on a downtown corner in need of five dollars and she obeyed the voice of her Master.

Our God is ever the God who doeth wonders—the same Lord who spoke to Cornelius and told him where to find Simon, whose surname was Peter, and who told Peter to go to Cornelius with these words, "Behold three men seek thee, arise therefore and go with them, doubting nothing; for I have sent them." Again, we read in the Scriptures, "Jesus Christ the same, yesterday and today and forever."

"And seek not ye what ye shall eat, or what ye shall drink, neither be ye of doubtful mind—your Father knoweth that ye have need of these things. But rather seek ye the kingdom of God; and all these things shall be added unto you. Fear not, little flock; for it is your Father's good pleasure to give you the kingdom."

Worthwhile Ways of Reading the Bible

The Bible is all in all mankind's greatest treasure. A few men may have crowns, and a few may have fortunes; fewer still can enjoy either. But, everyone may have the Bible, and everyone who will may enjoy it with a great happiness.

But, of course, no one can enjoy it if it stands dusty on the shelf or dusted on the living room table! It must be read.

To be sure, men have read it idly, and suddenly their spirits have been "stabbed broad awake," as they have found it speaking right straight to them. But that is no reason for reading it idly. Read it with attention.

Nevertheless, you need not make hard work of reading it. If you come to it as a task, it will likely be a task. Come to it with the spirit of Mary, who sat at Jesus' feet and drank in his words; not in the spirit of Martha, who felt that a piece of work just had to be done. Read as if you were listening to the deep melodies of a great organ, and after a bit you will find your own heart singing a nobler tune. Read it as if you were looking at a great landscape of hills and valleys and plains, of mountains and snow-capped summits, with the great luminous sky over all. Soon you will begin to see the landscape of human life and destiny in truer perspective, and know what hills you must climb, and into what valleys you must descend, before reaching the heights.

Reading for the First Time

If the Bible is new to you, or if you have read it only casually, there are many places at which to start. Probably the best is the Gospel of St. Luke and the Book of the Acts. Here are the events and the Person that mark the turning point of history. Throughout all generations since then they have set countless men and women and youth free from fear and shame and sin, and brought them to a radiant and abundant life. To the light from these chapters the rest of the Bible contributes, and in their light it and all life are illumined. Whatever ground you traverse, this will be the peak from which you will get your bearings.

Follow with the other Gospels and some of the shorter letters of St. Paul. Then extend your acquaintance—search out the riches of the Psalms, read the early chapters of Genesis, the story of David, the pithy wisdom of Proverbs, some of the ringing messages of the Prophets, and more of the New Testament. By this time you can find your way about in this library of sixty-six books. But do not try too soon to master the whole of it; in reading the Bible, your are not cramming for an examination, but living with a friend.

The Best Open to All

As you read, imagine as well as you can the scene or the setting. Re-reading will often bring this out. The Bible is a book of life; we best understand it when we enter into the living experiences it records.

Do not be disturbed if there are passages that you do not understand. You live on God's glorious earth, but He doesn't expect you to know every valley of the Himalayas or every port in the seven seas. There is nothing in the Bible essential to life's deepest joys and greatest growth, that is not open to a true and earnest heart. Come to your reading with an open mind and give the Bible its chance to speak to you. It is not simply a record; it is a message.

A Search for God

I took a day to search for God,
And found Him not. But as I trod
By rocky ledge, through woods untamed,
Just where one scarlet lily flamed,
I saw His footprint in the sod.

Then suddenly, all unaware,
Far off in the deep shadows, where
A solitary hermit thrush
Sang through the holy twilight hush—
I heard His voice upon the air.

And even as I marveled how
God gives us Heaven here and now,
In a stir of wing that hardly shook
The poplar leaves beside the brook—
His hand was light upon my brow.

At last with evening as I turned Homeward, and thought what I had learned
And all that there was still to probe—
I caught the glory of His robe
Where the last fires of sunset burned.

Back to the world with quickening start
I looked and longed for any part
In making saving Beauty be . . .
And from that kindling ecstasy
I knew God dwelt within my heart.

THE JUNIOR LEADER'S PROGRAM

NOTICE: The Junior Leader's Convention to be held during the afternoon program is "for Junior leaders only." Juniors will have their Convention next year.

Opening hymn: "O Master Let Me Walk With Thee"
Devotionals - - - Sister Helen Ruth Epp, Whitewater Junior C. E.

Leader's Exchange: Please bring problems, experiences, methods that have worked, materials that have been helpful,—posters, pin-ons, books, and also your best program. If each leader would bring the best program in about twenty copies and there should be twenty leaders there, then we would each return home with twenty good programs. Come to share!

Business: Planning the 1939 Junior Convention
"The Junior Leader's Task" Mrs. J. M. Suderman
Closing song: "I Will Sing of My Redeemer"

Proposed Resolutions for C. E. Convention of the Western District Conference to be held at the Tabor Church, August 14, 1938

Peace Resolutions

1. We pledge our joint efforts to strive for—first and foremost—the Peace of Christ in the heart and soul of Mennonite Youth.

2. Believing that Peace is Mission Work we will help to bring such a Peace to a world at war.

3. Inasmuch as the Kansas Institute of International Relations of 1938 has had Christian leaders such as Koo, Lester, and Bowman, we resolve to give it our sacrificial support.

4. We will cooperate with the Peace Committees of the General Conference and the Western District Conference especially by using their recommended lists of peace speakers.

5. The Convention is authorized to again sponsor a peace oratory.

Missions Resolution

Being aware of the great need of Christian Missions in this decisive hour we pledge our continued support to Christian Missions and pledge to renew our Mission Work in accordance with a plan to be given by Missionary August Ewert, our C. E. chairman of missions. (These suggestions to be given at the convention.)

Retreat Resolution

We congratulate Brother Funk and the retreat leaders for the fine work in availing the well-attended Elmdale retreat of last year. We endorse such a retreat this year and urge our young people to attend.

Junior Work

We give every Christian encouragement to our own C. E. leaders for the part that is being done with those who shall soon be in our own ranks.

We endorse plans for a Junior Convention in connection with the 1939 C. E. Convention.

Final Resolution

We thank Almighty God through Jesus Christ for the way He preserved our own being, for the way He led our own country in time of world crisis, for the freedom of public meeting which our Mennonite groups have enjoyed, for new members in our own ranks, the the inspiration of those taken out of our midst. For all this and more we "lift up our praise unto the Lord." (Psalm 100).

My Attitude Towards God

Acts 17:22-30

Young People's Topic for August 21, 1938

Meditations:

M., Aug. 15. My belief in God. 2 Tim. 1:12.
T., Aug. 16. My worship of God. Ps. 103:1-11.
W., Aug. 17. My confidence in God. Dan. 3:14-18.
T., Aug. 18. My obedience. Phil. 3:12-14.
F., Aug. 19. My fellowship with God. I John 1:1-10.
S., Aug. 20. My conception of God. John 14:1-12.

Suggested Hymns:

"Holy, Holy, Holy," "Oh Worship the King"

Why attitude toward God matters:

It is timely to ask: Do I have a vivid sense of the reality of God. Many people are confused at this point. To them God is vague and far away. It should not be so. Real Christian faith begins with and rests upon a strong belief in the reality of God.

There is great danger that a carefree attitude toward God makes one ungodly. Of such the Psalmist says: He is "like the chaff which the wind driveth away," and his way shall "perish." Psalm 1:4-6.

Suggested Topics:

I. I have a vivid sense of the Reality of God because:
  A. God revealed himself to the Patriarchs
    1. Abraham's call was direct from God. Gen. 12:1.
    2. God Blessed Isaac. Gen. 26:3-5.
    3. God "wrestled" with Jacob. Gen. 32:24-30.
  B. God revealed Himself to the prophets
    1. Daniel has a protecting God. Dan. 6:22.
    2. Job saw God in his afflictions. Job 42:5.
  C. God's works reveal Himself today
    1. The growth of the Church of Jesus Christ shows this
    2. God is revealed in the lives of thousands of saintly fathers and mothers
    3. Nature reveals a living, moving Father
II. I can think of God as a personal being for:
  A. God Knows. Find suitable passages
  B. God Feels
  C. God Loves
III. Jesus Christ is the highest revelation of the heart of God
  A. My attitude toward Christ ought to be reverent
  B. I ought to show a decent respect to Christ's Church and its servants
IV. Does my life reflect such an attitude toward God?

Special Projects:

Make a list of leading Bible characters such as Micah, Jeremiah, Daniel, Paul, Peter, etc. and select choice statements showing their attitude toward God.

Using the synoptic Gospels and John, compare the attitudes toward Christ which are given by the writers.

INTERMEDIATE DEPARTMENT

My Church and Money

Intermediate C. E. Topic, August 21, 1938

For Daily Reading

Aug. 15. Great giving. Acts 4:33-37.
Aug. 16. Cheerful giving. 2 Cor. 9:5-15.
Aug. 17. Money for the poor. Acts 6:1-6.
Aug. 18. Money for missions. Acts 13:1-3; 1 Cor. 9:1-7.
Aug. 19. Money for ministers. Gal. 6:6-10.
Aug. 20. Principle of stewardship. 1 Pet. 4:10.
Aug. 21. Topic—My church and money. Mark 12:41-44; 1 Cor. 16:1, 2.

I. Prepraver Circle

Read 2 Cor. 8:3-5. Bring out the thought that the most acceptable gift we can give to God is ourselves. That must come first if our giving is to be "as to the Lord, and not unto men." Pray that the meeting may help those who come to have a new vision of the privilege of GIVING.

II. Suggest songs: "The Church's One Foundation," (standing); "Give of Your Best"; "Trust and Obey"

III. Suggested Worship Service

Instrumental prelude: "Jesus Calls Us"

Sing: "I Love Thy Kingdom, Lord"

Leader: "Honor the Lord with thy substance, And with the first fruits of all thine increase."

Response:

"And must I keep giving again and again?"
My peevish and pitiless answer ran.
"O no," said the angel, piercing me through,
"Just give till the Master stops giving to you."

Leader: "Bring ye all the tithes into the storehouse, that there may be meat in mine house, and prove me now herewith, saith the Lord of hosts, if I will not open you the windows of heaven, and pour you out a blessing, that there shall not be room enough to receive it."

Sing: "Take My Life and Let It Be"

Scripture reading: Mark 12:41-44

Prayer (silent directed): Let each one offer thanks for God's many gifts and his greatest Gift. Enumerate some of them and pause between each one. Pray that God may bless this meeting so that we may think of giving as a privilege not a duty. Pause. Ask God to show you what He would have you give to Him. Pause. Leader closes prayer time.

Special number: "I Would Give Thee, Lord, the Fairest"

IV. Discussing the Topic

1. Leader's talk. Speak of the many standards or ways people have of giving and the motives for giving. Speak of the need of knowing what the Bible says about giving. Refer to the story in Mark 12:41-44. Why did the woman give? How much did she give? Can we use her standard?
2. What the Bible teaches? (topics for talks)
   - a. What do we mean by "tithing?" What vow did Abraham make? Gen. 28:22. What was Mosaic law about tithing? Lev. 27:30.
   - b. What promise did God make to those who tithe? Mal. 3:10. What should be our motive in giving?
   - c. What did Jesus say about tithing? Luke 11:42. How can we decide how much to give? Why should our giving be systematic?
3. A Little Rhyme and a Little Reason

"When you join associations, you must pay up all your dues;
And you pay for all you purchase, from your hat down to your shoes.
There are social clubs for women, and the same for men and boys,
But the members all expect to pay for what each one enjoys.

Then how is it that the members of a church can sit in pews,
And expect some few to run it without others paying dues?
The cost of operation must be met in church the same
As in home or corporation or in work of any name.

Let us honestly consider why this difference we find,
Between our church relations and every other kind.
Our business obligations must be met, the laws provide;
But the church is not insistent, so we let the matter slide.

May we undertake our duties for our church and for our Lord
With such a measure of devotion as accords with His own Word."

—Rev. Henry Anstadt
(Duplex Envelope Co.)

V. Questions to answer:

a. One of the larger denominations has adopted a "Youth Budget Plan" whereby the young people of the Church share in giving to all the work of the church. Get a copy of your church budget, which includes everything to which your church gives. Why should young people share in every part of this giving?

b. What would happen if all church members tithed? Take an average income for your members and try to estimate what it would mean? Do we have a right to keep this money for ourselves?

c. A young woman received a gift of money from her mother, who said to her, "This is yours after you have taken out the tithe." Why did the mother make this resquest? Why is it easier to begin to give when we have little?

d. What should be our motive in giving to Christ and the church? What do you think of the plan of giving all you can spare?

VI. Closing Moments

The story of Fritz Kreisler, the great violinist:

"I never look upon the money I earn as my own. It is public money. It is only a fund entrusted to my care for proper disbursement. I am constantly endeavoring to reduce my needs to a minimum. I feel morally guilty in ordering a costly meal, for it deprives someone else of a slice of bread; some child, perhaps, of a bottle of milk. My beloved wife feels exactly the same way about these things as I do. In all these years of my so-called success in music, we have not built a home for ourselves. Between it and us stand all the homeless in the world."

Prayer:

Not the least that I can give,
But the most that I can spare,
Make, dear Lord, the measure of my giving,
Thou, who gavest all to me
In Thy Son on Calvary.

Benediction. Ps. 19:14.

JUNIOR CORNER

Every Junior a Prayer-Partner

Program Suggestion for August 21, 1938

FOR A CHANGE

You could plan an out-door service in the back yard (of one of the members) where the bushes have grown high enough to shut out all disturbances. Each child could be asked to bring a fairly large stone; the leader could bring the mortar. As each one arrives, the new stone is built into the altar. When the group has assembled, they could be seated before the altar in row fashion as in the church house. Let the juniors then march down the "aisles" to distribute the hymn books.

Opening service: "Seeking God"

1. The meaning of the altar: by leader explaining its place in the Old Testament. Show how other hearts have sought God and how they found Him so near. Gen. 8:20-22; Gen. 13:14-18; Judges 6:22-24.
2. Leader's prayer that God might let each heart feel His nearness
3. Sing in unison: "Draw Me Nearer" Verses 1, 3, 4
4. Scripture reading: Matt. 6:5-8. Let this junior after the reading of these verses, ask the group to speak in unison the model prayer: Matt. 5:9-13.
5. Sing in unison: "Sweet Hour of Prayer"
6. God's Golden Promises: Let a portion of your group be prepared to quote a prayer-promise and to speak a thought about it. Ps. 145:18; Isa. 55:6; Matt. 7:7; Matt. 7:8; Jas. 5:16; Ex. 22:27; Job 33:26; Ps. 37:5; Ps. 50:15; Isa. 65:24; Jer. 29:12; Jer. 29:13; Matt. 18:19; Matt. 18:20; Matt. 21:22.
8. Sing in unison verse one of "What a Friend"
9. God Hears: Bible incidents of answered prayer retold by juniors. You could use the book of Judges for this source material. Its pages are full of answered prayers.

Learning to be Prayer-Partners: in charge of leader

1. Discuss with the children some of the present needs
2. Period of prayer for these needs
3. Decide with the group on one definite need which they wish to remember in their evening prayer throughout the week
4. Conquering through prayer. Sing in unison the song of the month
5. Speak in unison the verse of the month

Closing song: "For You I am Praying," verses 1, 2, 3

Closing prayer by leader

CORRESPONDENCE

HOPEFIELD CH., MOUNDRIDGE, KANS.

Dear Readers of the Mennonite:—Since it is some time since I wrote for the Mennonite, I will have to go back some months. In the month of February we did not have as regular services as we would have liked on account of blocked roads and sickness. Later in spring, roads were blocked again and sickness continued. During late spring and the summer months thus far we have had all our church activities regularly. During the months of February and March, our pastor and his wife were called to the state of Washington for some special services. While there our pastor ordained Bro. P. D. Unruh as elder of the Newport church. While our pastor was gone different ministers in the community were so kind and preached for us. Our pastor and his wife were also at Medford, Okla., for a series of meetings and later at Meno, Okla., for the convention. In the month of January our pastor held a series of meetings at Tampa, Kansas. In the month of June we commorated the Lord's Supper. Since my last report, we were permitted to take in a few members. As to the members, our church shows a healthy growth. May God grant that the church may be a blessing to those who have joined us, and may they be willing workers for the Lord's cause.—The crops did not turn out as plentiful as the indication were earlier in the season. But we must say to the glory of God that we were bountifully blest by our heavenly Father. Even though there was much sickness around, the good Lord spared us so that we had no death in our church. One of our members, Jacob F. Goering was critically injured by a tractor but God heard our prayers and raised him up. In the month of May we had the privilege to have Rev. D. J. Unruh of Pandora, Ohio, with us for several services. We enjoyed his messages very much and would like to see him come again. With greetings, Mrs. J. C. Kaufman, Corr.

EBENEZER CHURCH, NEAR BLUFFTON, OHIO

Adjoining the Ebenezer church yard, in Menno Burkholder's grove, the Fourth of July was celebrated in pleasant Christian fellowship. There was special music, a picnic lunch, and addresses by Rev. D. J. Unruh and C. M. Harsh (?), while Rev. Wm. H. Lee Spratt of Chicago held a sunset service at 8:00 p.m., a lecture one Palestine. Fire works were omitted.—The horse and buggy shed near our church, approximately 300 feet long, counting some choice timber, may now become useful as we consider the building of a parsonage.—Our singers are busy rehearsing "The Elijah." — The C. E. Conference of this section, July 16-17, was well attended, Miss Inda Sprunger taught the group at S. S. The message Sunday morning by Bro. Harold Burkholder was on, "Here I am, send me." He was ordained at the afternoon service. He is soon to take charge of the Quakertown, Pa., church.—Sunday evening June 10, the four Mennonite churches in this neighborhood had their song festival at Bluffton.

There are three things in speech that ought to be considered before some things are spoken—the manner, the place and the time.—Southey.

In Memoriam

ROSA (BALSIGER) WIEDMAN was born Feb. 19, 1885, in the Canton, Bern, Switzerland. She departed from this life on June 6, 1938, at the age of 83 years, 3 months and 18 days.

At the age of 4 years she came to this country with her parents, settling near St. Joseph, Missouri. Here on March 1, 1874, she married John Wiedman. Two daughters were born to this union, Lydia and Viola. In the fall of 1893, they moved to Oklahoma, settling on a farm north of El Reno. They joined the Monroville Mennonite Church at this place. Here Lydia died in 1900. On Sept. 21, 1920, father Wiedman was called to the beyond, bringing to an end their married life of over 46 years. Since then her days have been rather lonely.

She leaves to mourn her departure, one daughter, Viola, and son-in-law, Mr. Otto Wehmuller; two grandchildren, Oscar Wehmuller and Wilma (Wehmuller) Stine; two great-grandchildren, Alta and Elma Stine. She is also survived by two older sisters, Mrs. Elisabeth Herold of Seattle, Washington, and Mrs. Mattie Herold of Hollywood, California. Services were held at the funeral home at El Reno and at the Monroville Mennonite church where interment was made.

ROSALIN BRADFORD GRABER, daughter of Virnus and Verne Tomlinson Bradford, was born November 29, 1915 at Washington, Iowa.

Heeding the admonition "Remember now thy Creator in the days of thy youth," she made her confession of faith early in life, whereupon she was baptized by the Reverend Mutchler on Easter Sunday in the year 1924 and was received into the membership of the Grant Park Church of Christ in Des Moines, Iowa. In the spring of 1935 she transferred her membership to the Church of Christ in Washington, Iowa and in May, 1937, to the Eicher Emmanuel Mennonite Church of near Noble, Iowa, of which she remained a member to the time of her departure. We shall gratefully remember her for her willing work as a teacher in our Church School. She was a member of the Ladies Mission Society.

On January 20, 1937 she entered into the marriage relationship with Albert Graber and moved to the farm with him near Havre. In the spring of this year they moved into the Noble community on the Mary Schaad farm. She passed away to her rest on Thursday morning, June 30, 1938 at 11:05 o'clock, at the age of 22 years, 7 months and 1 day.

She leaves to mourn her departure, Albert; an infant daughter, Carol Verne; her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Virnus Bradford of Washington, Iowa; two brothers, Allen of Des Moines and Jimmie of Washington; and her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Bradford and Mrs. A. T. Tomlinson.

REVEREND PETER UNZICKER, 79, a resident of Dunlap, Ind., since 1918, died suddenly at the home of a daughter, Mrs. L. C. Miller, Manitou Springs, Colorado, where he had been visiting for the last few weeks. Rev. Unzicker was ordained to the Gospel ministry in the Mennonite Church in 1898. Since he moved to Dunlap he had no regular charge. He was a faithful member of the Eighth Street Mennonite Church, Goshen, Indiana, for a number of years.

On Thursday prior to his death, his daughter Ruth, left for Colorado to bring him home to Dunlap and made reservations on a train leaving Manitou Springs Sunday. Brother Unzicker, who always looked beyond the hills to God for his help, was fond of mountain driving. Saturday afternoon, not many hours before his death, he had a pleasant drive through the mountains. The next morning he went not to his earthly home, but to his eternal home to meet the God of the hills he loved, the God who had sustained him through nearly fourscore years of his fruitful life.

Mr. Unzicker was born at Collinsville, Ohio, January 23, 1859. When a young man he moved to Cullem, Ill., where in 1888 he married Malinda Grabill. She died in 1909 at Tuleta, Texas. In 1910, he married Christina Beachy, of Grantsville, Maryland. She died last February 27 at their home in Dunlap.

Surviving are seven children, Glenn of Elkhart, Frank, of Freeport, Ill., John, of Elkhart, Samuel, of New York City, Vernon, of Dunlap, Mrs. L. C. Miller, at whose home he died, and Mrs. Ruth Himebaugh, of Elkhart; twenty-six grandchildren; and twenty-two great grandchildren.

The body was taken to Elkhart where funeral services were conducted by the Rev. E. Troyer and the pastor, G. S. Stoneback at the Eighth Street Mennonite Church, Wednesday at 2:00. Burial at the Prairie Street Cemetery, Elkhart.

DAVID G. GEIGER, son of John and Mary Geiger, was born Nov. 7, 1852 and died on July 6, 1938, aged 85 years, 7 months, and 29 days. He was married to Mary Hilty on Dec. 3, 1875. To this union were born six children; Mrs. David Bucher, who preceded her father in death; Mrs. Amos Hilty, Pandora; Gideon, Lima; Mrs. Ezra Steiner, India; Llewellyn, Pandora; Tillman, Pandora.

This union was severed by the death of Mrs. Geiger, who died on April 22, 1886.

On October 27, 1887, Mr. Geiger was married a second time to Rosina Gilliam. This union too was blessed with six children: Mrs. H. U. Gottshall, Toledo; Mrs. Oswin Garber, Toledo; Hiram, Pandora; John, Mt. Vernon, Ohio; Mrs. Elmer Kanagy, Eden Valley, Pa.; William, Hawaiian Islands. Mrs. Geiger preceded her husband's death by 11 years, having died on June 14, 1927.

On March 19, 1872, he was baptized on his confession of faith in the Lord Jesus Christ, and became a member of the Swiss Mennonite Church. Later when the St. John Mennonite church was organized he became a member there and remained a faithful member to the end.

Mr. Geiger was unusually active for his age, regular in church and Sunday school attendance counting it a Christian duty and privilege to be with the Lord's people on the Lord's day.

Funeral services were held from the St. John Mennonite Church with pastor Rev. Daniel J. Unruh in charge. Interment was made in the cemetery adjoining the church.

ULYSSES REICHENBACH, son of John and Margaret Reichenbach, was born April 15, 1845 at Canton Neuenburg, Switzerland, and died June 9, 1938, at the home of his son Amos, 3 miles north west of Bluffton. He reached the age of 93 years, 1 month and 25 days. He had been failing in strength for the past three years but was able to be up and about most of the time. On the first of June, while walking about in the yard, he fell and broke his right hip thus contributing to his death.

Mr. Reichenbach had seven brothers and three sisters, all of which preceded him in death. A native of Switzerland he came to America in 1866 and lived in Wayne county for a year, after which he came to Bluffton, Ohio to live on what is now the Amos W. Reichenbach farm where he resided up to the time of his death.

At an early age Mr. Reichenbach joined the Reformed Church of Switzerland. After coming to Bluffton, he affiliated with the St. John Mennonite Church where he remained a faithful member up to the time of his death.

On November 30, 1869 he was united in marriage with Fanny Basinger, who preceded him in death on July 4, 1907. This union was blessed with eight children. Four daughters have already preceded their father in death. Those surviving are John L., and Henry L., of Pandora, Amos W. and Lena, Mrs. Fred Biederman, of Bluffton, Ohio. He was always a faithful husband and a loving father.

Besides his four children, he is survived by 28 grandchildren and 17 great grandchildren.

Funeral services were held on Sunday June 12 from his late home at 2:00 p.m. and from the St. John Mennonite Church at 2:30 p.m. The services were in charge of the pastor the Rev. Daniel J. Unruh who used for his text, Genesis 15:15.

MARIA SCHMIDT the daughter of John and Sarah Schraeder Schmidt, was born in Poland on August 26, 1864, and parted this life July the 2nd, at the age of 73 years, 10 months, and 6 days.

At the age of 9 years, she came to America with her parents and settled in the state of South Dakota. Here she grew up, accepted the Christian faith and was baptized by Rev. Kaufman. She united with the Mennonite Church where she has always been a faithful member until her departure.

She was married to Heinrich Schmidt in the year 1881, and in this union they were privileged to live 56 years. About 22 years ago they came to make their home at Dallas, Oregon, living first on a farm and then retired to live in town.

Four weeks ago she was taken sick and during this time has suffered much, but very patiently and fully resigned to the will of the Lord until it pleased Him to call her home. She was a very kind and loving mother with the characteristics of a real Christian.

She leaves to mourn her departure, her husband, Henry Schmidt, six sons, John and Henry of Amity, Oregon; Gustave of Mammoth, Oregon; Leonard of Valley Junction, Oregon; Herman of Oak Grove, Oregon; Tobias of Dallas, Oregon. Three daughters, Mrs. George Peters of Mennon, Sask.; Mrs. Jacob Schultz, of Waldheim, Sask., and Mrs. Nick Neufieldt of Dallas, Oregon. Forty-two grand children, eight great grand children, two brothers, William and Leonard Schroeder both of Dalton, South Dakota, and many friends.

Funeral services were held July 6th and were in charge of Rev. J. M. Franz assisted by Rev. H. E. Widmer.

A Good Lesson

In Pennsylvania there was a place where the railroad makes connection with a canal boat to convey the travelers on their onward journey. The captain of the boat, a strong, stalwart, but kindly-looking man stood on the deck of his craft, directing the work of the crew when the train arrived. As the passengers were alighting a small group of well-dressed men headed toward the captain and addressed him as follows, "We purpose to take your boat west upon one condition: In the coach we left behind there is a sick man whose presence has greatly annoyed us. Our fellow passengers have delegated us to request of you to refuse this man passage on your boat. If he goes along, we will stay. What have you to say?" "Gentlemen," replied the captain, "I understand the request of the passengers, conveyed to me through you. But does the sick man have no one to speak in his behalf?" And since there was no answer to this question, the captain went immediately to the train and there in a corner of the coach, he found a poor, wretched man in the last stages of tuberculosis (consumption). With his head resting in his hand he was weeping. The captain addressed him with a gentle remark. "O dear sir," faltered the sick man amidst sobs, "Are you the captain? Won't you take me along, please? O God, the passengers shun me as one infected with a plague. They treat me very unkindly. You can readily see that I am near death, but I would so much like to live long enough to see my dear mother once more. Then I will gladly die. She lives in Burlington, and I have the largest part of my journey behind me. I am a poor printer and the only child of my dear mother in whose arms I would like to die." "I will take you along," replied the captain, "even if by doing so I should lose all the rest of the passengers." Meanwhile the passengers had all gathered on the shore, deposited their baggage and were waiting to hear the decision of the captain before paying their fare. They were soon to see the answer demonstrated, for they saw the captain coming from the train carrying the sick man in his arms. While he was passing through the crowd he gave orders to select the best place on the ship and to fetch beds for his comfort. With paternal care he laid him down and proceeded to effect the departure. That made a deep impression on the travelers. By now they were beginning to feel thoroughly ashamed of their hard-heartedness and all started to go on board the boat, to make the trip with the sick man, in spite of their previous opposition. And they did more. A few hours later they had appointed a few men of their number to go to the captain with the petition that he should come to the stateroom. Among the assembled there was a man with flowing white hair who now arose and with tears in his eyes addressed the captain, telling him that all the travelers had learned a valuable lesson that had touched them deeply, induced them to confess their wrong and to beg his forgiveness. It was a touching scene. A decided feeling of sympathy sprang up and tears appeared in the eyes of many. Soon a collection was taken for the patient. And when the trip on the canal was ended, the travelers with one accord wished the poor sick printer a hearty, "God be with you." And he went on his way home rejoicing, to die in the arms of his mother.

A. J. Anderson, Canada

I am standing here by the wayside,
At a place where four roads meet;
In silent and stately kindness
I every traveller greet.

My walls do not boast of grandeur,
Of painter or sculptor's art;
But in silence I give my message
To every thinking heart.

I seek in my humble station,
To witness for Him who died;
Who is calling to poor lost sinners,
With His arms extended wide.

On Sunday the people gather,
Beneath my friendly tree;
It is then that I am happy,
And my heart throbs wild in glee.

There by the lowly pulpit
The earnest preacher stands;
And he opens the well-worn Bible
With reverent, kindly hands.

Then he reads in tones so earnest
Of God and His faithful Word;
And tells of the name of Jesus,
The sweetest that e'er was heard.

Then a hymn of praise is chosen,
And they make my rafters ring
In pealing notes together,
By sacred songs they sing.

Then they teach the little children,
In love and in sympathy,
Of Jesus whose holy lips have said,
"Let the little ones come to Me."

But sometimes a sorrow steals o'er me
For some at my door come in,
Who scoff at the name of Jesus;
For their hearts are bound in sin.

But I'll still give forth the message
The Master has given to tell;
And I'll do it in earnest pleading,
For there'll be no church in hell.

That's why I stand by the roadside,
All faithful throughout my day;
I'm preaching a silent sermon,
Of Jesus the Living Way.

—A. L. Jantzen, who has been temporarily serving the church at Los Angeles, will go to Upland, Calif., to serve the congregation in that city in the absence of Rev. Hostetler. Rev. Jantzen writes, "we may be there only a few weeks, for we have just received word from the Mission Board that the way to China will very likely open up this fall. May we ask all readers to pray with us that the Lord's will be done."

—Dr. R. M. Blackwood, husband of Loretta Lehman Blackwood former missionary to India, spoke at the Mennonite Church at Berne, Indiana, July 24. Rev. —The Salem Mennonite Church, Freeman, S. D., was recently favored with a visit by Mr. R. G. LeTourneau. Mr. LeTourneau's consecration of great wealth to the cause of Christ is an outstanding instance of the obedience of faith. His inventive genius has gradually brought him into possession of some forty patents on which his heavy earth moving machinery is manufactured. He has legally transferred all but one or two per cent of his holdings to a benevolent Foundation, whose income ministers to the Gospel through faithful witnesses. May the Lord be given more business men who are willing to be true Stewarts for Christ.

—Mennonites of Mexico Treking back to Canada.—The few thousand Mennonites who moved from Canada about 15 years ago now find their conditions in their new homes unbearable and are moving back to Canada, where they can get homestead land in the province of Alberta. For $10.00 registration fee they may have a quarter section, 160 acres. In small groups they are now passing through the United States northward, on national highway 81 which extends from Old Mexico clear up to Winnipeg, Canada. Their reasons for leaving Mexico are: Since they are not Mexican citizens they have no right to own land. Crops have not been sufficiently satisfactory. They have been harrassed by bandits who have made raids on their live-stock and other property, and in defending this and their families, some have actually been killed. The government does not seem to care for them, and they find it difficult to maintain their religion. Those that have been met on going through are practically destitute. They have nothing but the clothing on their bodies and some blankets to sleep on. But they are an intelligent looking group showing forth the old desirable Mennonite traits. The children are surprisingly well behaved. Their lot is pitiable.

—Can you beat it?—North Reformed Sunday school of Watervliet, New York, writes of a teacher who has been in the school for eighty-six years! And of a secretary who has served for thirty-seven years, a Treasurer thirty-one years, a pianist twenty-five years, a Home Superintendent twenty-one years, a Cradle Roll Supt., twenty-one years and a pastor thirty-one years. Is there some one who can cite a better record?

The Bridge Builder

An old man traveling a lone highway
Came at evening cold and gray
To a chasm with banks so wide and deep
That many a traveler feared to leap.
The old man crossed in the twilight dim,
The sullen stream held no fears for him.
But he turned on reaching the other side
And builded a bridge to span the tide.

"Old man"—cried a fellow pilgrim near,
"You are wasting strength in building here.
You never again will pass this way,
Your journey will end with the ending day.
This bridge you have spent such labor on
Will serve not you, when the task is done.
You have crossed the chasm deep and wide,
Why build this bridge at even-tide?"

But the builder raised his gray old head,
"Good friend, in the path I came"—he said,
"There followeth after me today
A youth whose feet must pass this way.
This chasm, which was naught to me
To the fair-haired youth may a pit-fall be.
He, too, must cross in the twilight dim.
My friend, I'm building this bridge for him."

"When" or "What"?

There is something more important than escaping from trials. When they close in on us our first impulse is likely to be one of pushing the trial away, or hoping for a speedy deliverance. But escape from this trial, or quick release from it, might not be the best thing for us but the worst. Dr. Robert McQuilkin told of a godly minister who was sorely pressed by multiplied trials and who fell on his knees in despair to cry out to God, "When am I going to get out of all these trials?" By a slip of the tongue (and plainly by the direction of the Holy Spirit) he prayed, "What am I going to get out of all these trials? The change of that one word "When" to "What" was just what the Lord wanted and the hard-pressed child of God realized it. Then the blessing came, not by deliverance from the trials, but by the glorious joy and victory that followed this unintentional prayer; and he was reminded of all God's purpose in making trials produce precious fruit in the life, as God himself tells us in such Scriptures as John 16:33; Romans 5:3-5; 8.17, 18; 2 Corinthians 4:16-18. "For our light affliction, which is but for a moment, worketh for us a far more exceeding and eternal weight of glory." Let us not try to escape the affliction and miss the glory!—Sunday School Times.

Weakened or Strengthened

We all have enemies who would weaken us if they could. And they can, if we do not meet their attacks in the right way. Some of our enemies are much stronger than we are; what, then, can we do? Nehemiah undertook a tremendous job when he began to rebuild the broken-down walls of Jerusalem. False accusations were brought against him, and his followers were frightened. Sanballat was the enemy leader, and Nehemiah says of his attacks: "For they all made us afraid, saying, Their hands shall be weakened from the work, and it be not done" (Neh. 6:9). But Nehemiah knew of a counter-attack that never fails. The same verse ends with these words: "Now therefore, O God, strengthen my hands." Sanballat did the weakening. God did the strengthening. And God was greater than Sanballat! He is greater, even, than any of our enemies today! A few verses later we read, "The wall was finished"; and then: "and it came to pass, that when all our enemies heard thereof, and all the heathen that were about us saw these things, they were much cast down in their own eyes: for they perceived that this work was wrought of our God." Have we, today, been called of God to do his work, and our enemies doing their best to weaken our hands? Let us follow Nehemiah's plan—it has never failed.—Sunday School Times.

News from the General Conference

by Dr. J. R. Thierstein

After several meetings of part of the Board of Publication in Newton, in which the brethren E. W. Baumgartner, Berne, Ind., and A. J. Richert, Los Angeles, Calif., joined the Kansas members, J. M. Suderman, Buhler, Kans., and the writer, this quartet made the trip from Newton, Kansas, to Saskatoon, Sask., together, leaving Newton on the evening of July 26 in order to be able to hold a two-day meeting of the whole Board, including M. J. Galle, Odessa, Wash., and J. H. Janzen, Waterloo, Ont. The trip was delightful, the weather pleasant, nature had a cheerful aspect after a refreshing rain. In northern Iowa and Minnesota the farmers were just finishing their harvest of good crops of small grain. In southern Manitoba they were just in the midst of it. The grain, while rather short, had mostly a fair to a good stand. In southern Saskatchewan, the harvest has not yet begun. Here the grain has a fair stand, but farther north we are told the lack of rain will again cause a crop failure.

At St. Paul our party was again joined by Rev. and Mrs. C. E. Krehbiel, Rev. and Mrs. H. P. Krehbiel, and Mrs. R. A. Goertz. Crossing the boundary was easy. There was no inspection of baggage. We were asked where we came from, where we were going and the purpose of the trip. That was all.

Arriving at Saskatoon on schedule time, Thursday evening at 9:25, our party was met by Rev. J. J. Thiessen, recently ordained full pastor of the First Mennonite Church of Saskatoon, and taken to their church where we were assigned to temporary quarters, for due to the fact that the provincial State Fair was still in progress in the city, some of the hosts of conference visitors were not yet ready for them.

The Mennonite Church is a new, respectable looking building, stuccoed without, with a well kept lawn and flower beds surrounding it. Its auditorium easily seats 300 people. It has a full basement where meeting of smaller groups and Sunday school classes can be accommodated.

On Saturday evening the delegates, members of the local church and visitors met in this church for a welcome gathering. Rev. Thiessen led in the devotions and Rev. David Toews gave a brief address of welcome. Then followed short responses by representatives from the different conference districts: Rev. P. P. Wedel for the Western district, Rev. Howard G. Nyce for the first, Rev. E. S. Mullett for the second, Rev. John Bartel for the northern, and Dr. J. H. Langenwalter from the Pacific district, also by Rev. A. Habegger and an Indian friend, Bro. Whiteman.

Sunday, July 31, was principally Mission day. In the forenoon the program centered around Foreign Missions. It is estimated that 3500 people were present at this meeting, held in the spacious stadium. Rev. P. P. Wedel made the introduction and presided. Rev. P. J. Wiens spoke of the work, the difficulties, the successes and hopes of the work in India and Rev. Alfred Habegger of the efforts made among the American Indians. Both showed that the Gospel is doing wonderful things in regenerating human hearts. All through the exercises of the day a mass chorus of about 200 voices, made up of young people from the surrounding churches, sang a number of beautiful anthems surprisingly well, thus adding materially to the worthwhileness of the programs.

In the afternoon the work of Home Missions was presented, with Rev. J. M. Regier as leader. Rev. J. H. Enns of the Girls' Home at Winnipeg showed what a blessed work the Homes there as well as at Saskatoon and Vancouver are doing. Rev. J. G. Rempel of Rosthern gave an interesting account of the work of the Academy at Rosthern, Sask., the Collegiate Institute at Gretna, and several Bible schools in the provinces are doing. Rev. Ben Ewert for many years traveling minister among the isolated Mennonite groups in Canada gave an account of the pathetic struggles that the newcomers from Russia are experiencing and with what faith and determination they try to be true followers of Christ that every one present must have felt we should do much more to help these brethren. Rev. John Plenert, now pastor of the First Church in Philadelphia, but for 13 years shepherd of the Mission Church at Hutchinson, Kansas, plainly showed the need and opportunities of city mission work.

On Sunday evening the Young People rendered a program, with Rev. H. N. Harder presiding. The general theme of the talks was, "Christian Youth Faces the Future." The speakers were all young men from Canada. Oscar Haum of Drake had for his theme, "Jesus and a Program for Youth"; Franz Nickel of Langham, "Appropriating Christ's Program for Youth"; John C. Schmidt, Waldheim, "Youth's Challenge to Youth." The Christian Endeavorers of Saskatoon and of Drake (Nordstine) interspersed the program with good music.

After the close of the Young People's Program, Dr. Abr. Warkentin of Bethel College gave a worthwhile address on the subject, "Jesus and the Youth of his Day." He showed that Jesus was interested and had much concern for the youth of his time. He lived for them, loved them, called them, and instructed them. If parents, teachers and adults generally will do that today, our youth will be comparatively safe.

Monday morning the business sessions of the Conference opened. There was a brief worship service conducted by the vice president of the Conference, C. C. Wedel. This was followed by an excellent Conference sermon by the president, Dr. P. R. Schroeder upon the theme, "Foundation and Program of the General Conference." These are embodied in the statement of St. Paul, "Other foundation can no man lay that that which is laid which is Jesus Christ." The General Conference is a nursery of the anabaptism in America. The cradle of Mennonitism was not in Switzerland, it was on Golgatha. In Christ we have the foundation of our faith and Christian conduct. Our doctrine is rooted in: The Bible, Savior, Church. With the Bible and Christ at our foundation the life of the individual Christian as well as the church must result in righteousness of conduct, the peacefulness, and fruitfulness. Mennonitism is New Testament Christianity.

Then followed the appointment of assistant secretaries and temporary committees, the reading of the resolutions of the 1935 conference, and of the delegate certificates. As far as the figures were then obtainable. These showed that there were approximately 300 delegates. This number was later considerably augmented by the addition of twelve new Canadian churches, making the total number of congregations now making up the General Conference to 168.

The churches taken in were: United Mennonite Church, Sardis, B. C., 300 members, N. W. Bahnmann, leader; Eigenheim Menn. Church, Rosthern, Sask., 225 members, G. G. Epp, leader; Westheimer Menn. Church, Rosemary, Alberta, 285 members, C. D. Harder, leader; Niagara Menn. Ch., Niagara-on-the Lake, Ontario, 90 members, D. H. Koop, leader; Vineland Menn. Church, Vineland, Ont., 194 members, D. H. Koop, leader; Hoffnungsfeld Menn. Church, Rabbit Lake, Sask., 125 members, D. J. Loewen, leader; Lichtenau Menn. Church, St. Elizabeth, Manitoba, 155 members, P. H. Enns, leader; Bergtal Menn. Church, Didsbury, Alberta, 98 members, J. J. Sawatzky, leader; Schoenwerder, Alberta, 75 members, D. Heidebrecht, leader; First Menn. Church, Lima, Ohio, 25 members, George Dyck, leader; Blumental Menn. Church, Spring Ridge, Alberta, 43 members, David B. Jantzen, leader; First Menn. Church, Saskatoon, Sask., 105 members, J. J. Thiessen, leader.

Monday afternoon and Tuesday forenoon were given over largely to the Executive Committee, allied committees, the Field Secretary, and their discussions, and a worthwhile paper by Rev. P. P. Wedel on the subject, "Integration of General Conference boards and Districts."

The elections of conference officers resulted as follows: C. E. Krehbiel, Newton, Kansas, President, with 687 votes; A. J. Dyck, Inman, Kansas, Vice President, with 663 votes; Phil. A. Wedel, Aberdeen, Idaho, Secretary with, 435 votes.

A LEPER PRAYER MEETING

P. A. Penner, India

Occasionally I have written to the various church papers about the mid-week prayer meetings in the Bethesda Leper Home. If some of these are interesting and instructive to me, I have a faint idea that some of my readers may wish that I share my blessings with them. Some time ago I was present at this mid-week prayer meeting. (I may mention that I am always present, but I am mentioning this outstanding one today.)

The leader was Ramsai, a badly deformed leper. His fingers are almost gone because of leprosy. His feet are deformed, so that he is compelled to use crutches, kindly made for him by Dr. Isaac. The wounds are healed, but he never-the-less must use his crutches. He cannot stand without them so we have made a three-legged stool for him which he uses whenever he leads a meeting.

After a song heartily sung by those present, he led in the opening prayer. His Scripture passage was Col. 3:1-9, a passage that strangely enough I had looked at just before going to this particular meeting. I pondered over the first words: "Seek those things that are above" and in my Bible I have written: "What things?"

The first thing that impresses a visitor to a leper prayer meeting is the simplicity of the service. No pomp, no show, no attempt at rhetoric on the part of the leader, no deep exposition of the selected portion of Scripture, nothing but just a simple gospel message. Its simplicity is appealing, its contents for the heart, its object to magnify the Lord. Of course, I will say right here that all leaders are not like the leader to whom I refer. Ramsai is long-winded. He is a converted man and hence I believe that what he says, he also lives. He interpreted "seek those things that are above" as meaning all those things that would help us to make this life beautiful, fruitful and helpful. When he came to the fourth verse, he said that when Christ comes for his own, as he said he would, he would take us to heaven where there would be no pain, no sorrow, no sickness, etc. He did not, strangely, enough, mention no leprosy. But he did say something that provoked a smile from me. He said: "In heaven there will not even be itch." Some of our Indians suffer greatly from this rather harmless, though annoying, malady. Well, in heaven there will be no itch. I have an idea that Ramsai is right.

After an altogether too long address, he called for four prayers because of the brevity of time. Who prayed? First a young man rose to his feet. There was nothing outstanding in his prayer, except that he praised God for His love. Then a sister, whose daughter is in the hospital for the mentally defective, prayed. She, too, prayed for the usual blessings upon herself, the lepers in the Home and also asked the Lord to restore her daughter to health if this could be to His glory. Then another sister, Rebecca, one of our "mothers in Israel," rose to her feet. This good woman, whose language is faulty, whose enunciation is defective and whose whole body is marred by leprosy, prayed among other matters for her supporter, then especially for the Leper Home staff, such as the doctor, the compounders, the caretaker and the mental staff. This she will never or seldom forget to do. The fourth man that rose to pray is one that has a history. When he asked to be baptized he was, together with others, put on the list of candidates for baptism. He was not an apt pupil in the class having difficulty to commit to memory the little that we require, but he was sincere and I am convinced genuinely converted. On the eve of his baptism, his father came to see him and plead with him to reconsider his decision to become a Christian. He called attention to the fact that he was dishonoring the family by leaving the caste and becoming a Christian. For I do not know how long, he plead with his grown-up son, but without the least effect. Teejram remained firm in his desire to become a Christian. He took the step and has been a model Christian ever since. Well this Teejram prayed and it did my heart good to hear what he said: "Lord, I thank Thee that Thou hast shed Thy blood for all the world, and also for me. I know that I am Thine." I thought to myself, would that ALL baptized Christians could and WOULD say this.

After a hearty song, "Cleansed by the blood," and the pronouncement of the benediction by me, the meeting was over. Oh no, it's not all difficulties when working with and among lepers. And one of the happy anticipations for Mrs. Penner and me will be when "up yonder we will find many whom it was a joy to have, even in a small way, served here below."

What is our Attitude?

Any call or request from God involves an alternative on our part. Either we will refuse or accept, we will ignore it or obey, we will plead our inability, we rely upon His power, we will turn to our own understanding or follow the wisdom of God. Each will bring its results. Slowness of heart, coolness of love, defeat through the consciousness of our own limitations, and the loss of spiritual joy if we refuse. If we obey we will find it delightful to do God's will, we may enjoy the satisfaction that alone comes to the obedient, taste of the glories of His power and experience the joy and peace that come through believing. What makes the difference? The attitude we take toward God's call or will for us.—H. of H.

Rev. Musselman Passes Away

The General Conference was deeply saddened at the sudden death of one of its faithful leaders and pastors, Rev. S. M. Musselman, who passed away Saturday, July 30, at Hillsboro, Kansas.

Rev. Musselman had just completed a successful year as pastor of the Johannestal Church, and in this rather short time had won the friendship and love of the entire community. By them he will indeed be missed, and his faithfulness and example of Christian living will long be cherished. He was a staunch supporter of missions, serving as a member of the Foreign Missions Board of the General Conference and the Home Missions Board of the Western District Conference.

There are those who have known him better, and there are those who have known him longer, but they will all agree that Rev. Musselmann was one of those who loved to serve the Lord. His deep-rooted Christianity pervaded his personality. His kindliness, his geniality with friends, his considerateness as husband and father, his good common sense in church work and his genuine love for it, his deep interest in missions, all spoke of his sincere loyalty to Christ and His cause.

He was one of those whose life-work was dedicated to the ministry. He found joy and satisfaction in the long years he worked in the various churches. He tried to truly shepherd the flock entrusted to him, and to interpret the Word of God so it might become a power in their life. He worked faithfully for the upbuilding of Christ's kingdom in the churches he served, as well as on the Board of Foreign Missions. He took a personal interest in the missionaries and in the work they were doing. His life has been a blessing, and his influence will continue to live in the lives of many.

JUST FOR YOU AND ME

"If thou knewest the gift of God, thou wouldest have asked and He would have given thee . . . everlasting life."—John 4:10.

The Victorious Life is a life of victory over sin. Do you have it?

The Victorious Life is a life of fruit-bearing. Do you have it?

The Victorious Life is a life of constant fellowship with God. Do you have this fellowship?

If this picture, as given in God's Word, does not describe the experience you are having, then you do not have the Victorious Life. There is something that the Lord Jesus offers that you do not have. The Victorious Life is a free gift from God. It must be received as a gift. Like salvation, it is to be received and enjoyed by faith.—Sunday Bulletin, St. John Church, Pandora, O.

Professors or Possessors?

by M. D. Metcalfe

Reader, do you call yourself a child of God? If so, what authority have you to make such a claim? This may seem a strange question but in these careless, indifferent days, one does well to probe down to the depths of one's profession, in order to make sure that one is building on the true foundation, and not, perhaps in ignorance, merely building airy castles that exist only in imagination. Our Lord Himself warns us of this danger, for He foresaw the day when there would be far more PROFESSORS in Christendom than actual POSSESSORS. Let us see what He says. Turn to Matthew 7:24-27:

"Therefore whosoever heareth these sayings of mine, and doeth them, I will liken him unto a wise man, which built his house upon a rock. And the rain descended, and the floods came, and the winds blew, and beat upon that house; and it fell not; for it was founded upon a rock.

And everyone that heareth these sayings of mine, and doeth them not, shall be likened unto a foolish man, which built his house upon the sand: and the rain descended, and the floods came, and the winds blew, and beat upon that house; and it fell: and great was the fall of it."

Here He shows us two types of person. You will notice that they start off with equal advantages. They both hear the sayings of the Lord Jesus Christ, and because of what they hear, they both begin to build. The point of difference between their buildings is the foundation. A very vital point, is it not?

The wise man begins to build upon a rock. In other words, he is rooted and grounded in Jesus Christ, who in Scripture is so often spoken of as the "Rock" or "Corner Stone." We read in I Cor. 3:11: "And other foundation can no man lay than that is laid, which is JESUS CHRIST." This is the reason why, when the floods came, and the winds blew, and the rain descended upon that house, it stood firm and unshaken.

Upon what did the foolish man build? Upon sand! What a contrast to the Rock! Therefore its fall when the storms came was inevitable. In other words, there are many so-called Christians who are trying to build their eternal salvation upon their own flimsy, unreliable ideas about the Lord Jesus, instead of reading and trusting in the revealed Word of God concerning Him, and His power to save.

Now let us compare the outwordings in the lives of these two types so vividly portrayed by our Lord.

To begin with, the wise man takes the Word of God as his only guide for this life and the next. Not only does he hear it, he Loves it, and through the indwelling of the Holy Spirit he obeys it, and Lives in the light of it.

The foolish man also hears it, but makes every possible excuse for not obeying it. When God's commands run counter to your ideas and outlook, do you argue that that part of Scripture cannot be taken literally, and that God does not mean actually what He says concerning His children? For instance, if you are trying to live in the world and be a Christian at the same time, do you try to persuade yourself, and others, that God gave us worldly pleasures and pursuits for our enjoyment, and that it would merely be narrow-minded to cut yourself off from such things? If this is so, then, like the foolish man, your foundations are very insecure. What are God's instructions on this point to one who would follow Him? In John 15:19 we read:

"If ye were of the world, the world would love his own; but ye are not of the world, but I have chosen you out of the world, therefore the world hateth you."

Again in James 4:4, we read: "Know ye not that the friendship of the world is enmity with God? Whosoever therefore will be a friend of the world is the enemy of God." Also our Lord says of His disciples (John 17:14): "I have given them Thy word; and the world hath hated them, because they are not of the world, even as I am not of the world." And lastly, in 1 John 2:15-16, we are told: "Love not the world, neither the things that are in the world. If any man love the world, the love of the Father is not in him. For all that is in the world, the lust of the flesh, and the lust of the eyes, and the pride of life, is not of the Father, but is of the world."

There are many, many more such clearly worded passages in Scripture, and you would never dare to argue against such statements if you really knew your Bible.

Why is the world, and all that is in it, at enmity with God? Because the devil is the god of this world (see John 12:31 and 14:30; Eph. 6:12). Therefore, to followers of Jesus Christ, the command is: "Wherefore come out from among them, and be ye separate, saith the Lord, and touch not the unclean thing; and I will receive you." (2 Cor. 6:17).

Where do you stand in the light of this? Does Christ mean so much to you that the pleasures of this world have lost their attraction? Can you say with Paul, "I count all things but loss for the excellency of the knowledge of Christ Jesus my Lord; for whom I have suffered the loss of all things, and do count them but dung, that I may win Christ and be found in Him." (Phil. 3:8, 9.) Oh, when once we have tasted even in a small measure a life of sweet communion with Him, then indeed the empty pleasures of this world literally become as refuse to us, and if the Spirit of Christ really indwells us, then we shall henceforth live no longer for ourselves, but for Him, and strive if by any means we may be used to bring others to His feet. "We love Him, because He first loved us." (1 John 4:19.)

Do you love Him? Perhaps you think you do, because you go to Church regularly, and maybe even take a Sunday school class, or have family prayers occasionally. That is no proof whatever that you love Him. The Pharisees were full of observances—they were the religious leaders of the day; but, in spite of all the outward show, their hearts were not right towards God. If you will read Matthew 23, you will see the awful condemnation passed on them by our Lord. He is so gentle and merciful to self-acknowledged sinners who come to Him for healing and salvation; He meets them with outstretched arms, and gives them pardon, peace, and joy; but to the religious professor He speaks words of terrible judgment. In Matthew 7:21, He says:

"Not everyone that saith unto me Lord, Lord, shall enter into the Kingdom of Heaven; but He that doeth the will of my Father which is in Heaven."

If you really love Him, your greatest joy in life will be to obey Him. "It is love's prerogative to give, AND GIVE, AND GIVE." If your heart and life do not respond to this then your love is no love at all. You are merely a formalist, and are most certainly building on sand. Jesus says: "If a man love me, he will keep my words." (John 14:23.) He is the "altogether lovely," the "chiefest among ten thousand." Do turn your back on your mock Christianity, and start to learn at the feet of Jesus! He will show you that if you are His then you have been delivered from the power of darkness, and translated into His kingdom, and your life in future will be "hid with Christ in God." (Col. 3:3.)

"He brought me up also out of a horrible pit, out of the miry clay, and set my feet upon a Rock." (Psalm 40:2.)

RELATION OF TEMPERANCE TO CHARACTER

(A Personal Aspect of Temperance)

Prov. 4:10-23; 1 Thess. 5:6-8

Our lesson for today from Proverbs, sets before us two ways of life; the way of wickedness with its temptations leading to darkness and the way of righteousness which is as a shining light, shining unto the perfect day.

God's Plea to His Son vs. 10-17

God is the real author of these wonderful words of advice—words of wisdom for all who will hear. God's love is expressed in the yearning plea (v10). The promise for obedience to the Word is life. Habits of life either lengthen or shorten our lives. Clean habits are essential to length of life. The second promise is assurance of guidance (vs11, 12). The "way of wisdom" will be followed. Wisdom is not an ordinary word; it is more than mere knowledge. Wisdom is turning the heart fully to God. It is permitting Him to lead us in the right way. Then we shall not stumble nor go astray. We should therefore make an earnest effort to obtain divine instruction (v13) and also to learn from the wisdom acquired by others. It has been proved beyond all doubt that alcohol is narmful to the body, mind and soul and weakens character.

The influence of evil and wicked companions has long been well-known. All need to take this warning (v14) seriously as there is much danger. Only the strongest can to a considerable degree escape the evil influence of the wicked. There is but one attitude to take toward such temptations (v15), avoid it as one would a plague, as though life itself depended on it.

Beauty of Christian Character vs. 18-23

The path of the just is as a highway of light, like the rising sun, glorious in its beginning, increasing in glory and beauty unto the zenith of brilliance (v18; Ps. 1:2, 3). This is the believer's assurance. The manner of life of the just reveals the Christian character back of it. A godly person who has lived long and usefully is a great inspiration. The path of the just is a plain road and does not leave us to guess and wonder if we did not somewhere take the wrong way. It has a bright light on it.

In contrast the way of wicked is as darkness (v19). They love darkness and not having accepted the Savior, they cannot stand in the judgment. God's words need to be cherished in the innermost recesses of the heart with a fervent affection (v21). They are life in its best sense and spiritual health (v22). The heart is the very center of our being and needs to be well guarded (v23) for out of it comes all that characterizes each one of us. Only as we trust in God can He keep and guard our heart. He is our security. The secret of a pure heart lies in keeping it well filled with that which is good. The success of our outer life depends on the condition of the heart. The forces of evil are after us always and we need to guard well lest we fall under temptation.

Admonitions to Christians vs. 6-8

There is no doubt at all as to where God wants his people to take their stand. It is with those who are wide awake, watchful and sober. Sinful practices, intemperance, drunkenness are practices of the night and the Christian should have nothing to do with them. Christians are to be day people and their conduct such as will bear the light of day. True Christian wisdom will keep one from being deceived by wine and strong drink (Golden text). Wine mocks the drinker and biteth like a serpent in the end. Yielding to its temptation indicates a lack of wisdom. Man is the ONLY ONE of God's creatures who develops an appetite for that which intoxicates and harms his body. His capacity for evil means a like capacity for good when the good replaces the evil.

SERMON SKETCH

TRUTH NEEDS AN ADVOCATE

No qualified substitute can be found for the living human instrument. Literature has been of great value, to the saving ministry of gospels and tracts in the language of the people among whom they were circulated. We cannot limit the work of the Holy Spirit, but it is generally found that where the printed message has been most productive God used some human instrument for teaching and instructing.

When the Ethiopian treasurer was approached by Philip's pointed question, "Understandest thou what thou readest?" "How can I, except some man teach me," came the answer. He would welcome light from any quarter, and this reply to Philip was an invitation for any help that he could render. And the result was final: He received not only light for his mind but life eternal for his soul, he became a disciple and "went on his way rejoicing."

Athens was far in advance of Ethiopia in culture and refinement and art. It was the centre of the new learning, the city of schools and shrines and temples. But Athens was as dark as Ethiopia in its knowledge of the living God. Athens had an altar with the strange device, "To the Unknown God." This was as far as human skill and learning had conducted men. Human inquiry stopped short at this impenetrable mystery. Athen's confession was that God was unknown to them, but they expressed the instinctive desire for worship; and when Paul approached them saying: "Men of Athens, I observe at every turn that you are a very religious people. Why as I passed along and saw your objects of worship, I actually came upon an altar with the inscription, "To the Unknown God." Well I proclaim to you what you worship in ignorance." That day Christ made new disciples in Athens.

What God everywhere wants is the man who knows. The Gospel calls for laborers, for men who are constrained by love; men who listen to the Macedonian cry, "Come over to Macedonia and help us!" Men He wants who have a vision of the conditions and needs of a crying world, men who also have a vision of the purpose and ends of God to which He wants this poor world to come. "We speak that we do know and testify that we have seen." The living voice is God's best misionary. When they heard this they were pricked to their heart. I do hope to God that some of you, dear readers, may feel this godly prick against which it is hard to kick.

Do you know that personality is the most powerful thing in the world? The Gospel is from first to last a mighty concern of persons. "How shall they hear without a preacher?" There is no adequate instrument until the preacher arrives. "Except some man teach me!"—it is not a question of method by a man. God wants men. You come to church to listen and I challenge you to go home to work like men, men of God in whose heart and bones the Gospel word is burning like a fire.

"Except some man teach me," that is the startling everlasting cry. Personality is the truth personified. Do you hear God's challenge today. "Go ye also and work in my vineyard?"

Man needs a helpmate

No man can lift himself from the ground by pulling at his boots. Some one else must raise him. Society is held together by the laws of mutual helpfulness. If these laws break down insufferable wrongs are inflicted.

At the Bethesda pool Jesus discovered a number of the world's derelicts. Every man was seeking a way to escape from disease and disability. Jesus approached one of the most helpless victims with the question, designed to create faith and hope, "Wilt thou be made whole?" The pathetic reply came back, "Sir I have no man when the water is troubled, to bring me to the pool." He missed the kingdom he was seeking through the lack of human helpfulness.

It always stirs my soul when I read that passage about Christ's loneliness in the darkest hour of His life, "He trod the vinepress alone and of the people there was none with Him." Peter denied Him, Judas betrayed Him, they all fled. Oh, how many of our great and good men are unsupported. Brethren and sisters, young and old, the world is waiting for us.

God asks for men, anyone that has faith and hope for a lost world, who has the courage of self denial, of cross bearing and a vision of the purpose of God with fallen man.

"In wars," said Napoleon, "it is not men that count, but a man, the one man has the value." That is how empires are built, and how the world is won. The man, Jesus Christ, laid the foundation for a temple of living stones whose tower would pierce the skies and whose walls would embrace the ends of the earth, the foundation of a kingdom in which righteousness and peace shall kiss each other, and where no man shall say to another, "Know the Lord," for they shall all know Him from the smallest to the greatest.

It is the great "Imperative" to our young generation as this age is calling upon them, to be a man and shoulder the work of salvation of a lost world. Amen!

After all, the most natural beauty in the world is honesty and moral truth; for all beauty is truth. True features makes the beauty of the face, and true proportions the beauty of the architecture, as true measures that of harmony and music. In poety, which is all fable, trust still is the perfection. So a life filled with truth and honest ideals stands out among men.

The Parable of the Power Line

Hugh S. Clark

The kingdom of heaven is like unto a certain power company that entered into a new territory with their lines and advertised their power for sale. And behold two householders thereby agreed to use power thereof.

One householder connected his house and straightway went into the store and purchased unto himself four small lamps like unto lightning bugs, and when he had turned them on, lo, he could almost see his way about his house, in the light therefrom. And when he beheld the marvel of it, he went forth into the crossroads store and to the blacksmith shop and boasted, "I now have power, I am connected with the power house." And his neighbors were impressed (some).

Then the other householder, likewise had his house connected with the great power company, and wired with good BX cable. And he likewise fared forth into the marketplace and bought a stove to cook his food, a refrigerator to cool it, a toaster to toast his bread; moreover he bought a pump to draw water into his house, and a heater to heat it withal, and a washing machine, a sweeper, an iron, and a mangle, and he did exceedingly abound in his purchases, insomuch as to buy a milker wherewith he could milk his cows without any assistance whatsoever from the calves, which thing caused a great bawling in the barnlot. He moreover hooked the power to his fence that he might keep out undesirables and keep in his own so that not a hoof should be lost. Then when this householder had connected all these devices to the wiring of his house which was connected to the great power house, and all these marvels began to work for this happy family, the fame and wonder of it went out abroad so that all men in the region round about wondered greatly. Moreover these citizens were convinced of the value of this wonderful power and they likewise connected their homes with it.

But, alas, when the first householder beheld the wonders of his neighbors' works he became disgruntled and said within himself, "Lo, I am connected with the same power house as is this, my neighbor, yet this power hath wrought no such miracles as these for me." So when he went home and beheld the dimness of his little lightning bug lamps he became yet more disconsolate and began even to neglect turning on his little lamps, and when the collector waited upon him for his share of the expense of the great company, he said unto him, "The benefits I am receiving from this company are so small I do not feel it is worth while for me to contribute to its support any longer." Therefore the wires were severed and his house was left in darkness, while his happy neighbor went from glory to glory in the use of this wonderful power so that all the region round about was edified by his example.

Moral: "Now unto him that is able to do exceeding abundantly . . . according to the power that worketh in us" (Ephesians 3:20).—Herald of Holiness.

Aim at Peace

"Let us therefore follow after the things that make for peace, and things wherewith one may edify another." Rom. 14:19.

In the verses previous, Paul had been writing concerning those who caused trouble and put stumbling blocks in the way of their fellow men. Then in this verse he sums up the principle which should govern our actions toward others.

Weymouth translates this passage, "Therefore let us aim at whatever makes for peace and the spiritual upbuilding of one another." Here we have the positive side of our Mennonite doctrine of Non-resistance. Disregard for others selfishness, jealousy, hatred and strife do not make for amity or build men up spiritually but rather lead to violence. Anti-Christian forces foster those things which tear down, injure, destroy and kill men. The Christian should promote those things which are helpful to mankind. The giving out of the gospel that transforms lives, the spreading of love, sunshine, goodwill and understanding.

There are some today who say that because we shall not have peace on earth until Christ comes therefore we should not aim at it, but that is like saying we will not have a converted world, we should not preach salvation to the sinner. Do automobile manufacturers give up because perfection will not be reached? No, they are even now bringing out new and better cars. So, then we ought to also seek to propagate more love in the world, even if efforts seem fruitless.

If we do not aim at peace and amity we are endorsing strife, murder and war. And what Christian can say the Bible teaches me to kill? Is not war the result of sin and failure? God has used war as a means of punishment, but that does not justify it. Even David, who was a man after God's own heart, was not permitted to build the temple because he was a man of war. Our Lord told Peter to put up his sword for they that use it shall perish by it. Just now when this old world is torn with wars in the east and wars in the west and others threatening, is it not time that we had more people who would live in the light of this scripture passage? We need positive preaching, teaching and living that will bring men to Christ, change hearts, instill love, goodwill and peace.

"Therefore let us aim at whatever makes for peace and the spiritual upbuilding of one another."

—Sunday school membership in England has declined since 1902 by 1,340,684. This means a drop from 3,342,554 to 2,001,870. This report from the National Sunday School Union, is most deplorable and greatly emphasizes the need of a world-wide awakening to Christ.

Becoming Acquainted with the Cultural Background of Students

Curt Siemens

Education is the process of training boys and girls as living persons. Most people would regard that as quite obvious, but the meaning of this statement is seldom realized in the fullest possible sense in practice. We shall regard living persons and the term "personality" as synonymous and containing two characteristics: unity, and the power to create his own value by achievement of his interests. The first characteristic of a personality, then, is its unity. Students are conscious of themselves as living agents, relatively distinct from other people around them. They have a definite point of view, peculiar to themselves, from which they look out upon the world and a particular set of interests which are not the same for other people as they are for them. The student's experience, thoughts, values, emotions and desires are significant, only as elements of a whole personality. The individual has organized these elements into a whole. The student's personality is either a product of his early cultural influences or the lack of them.

This concept, that each student is a unit in himself and different from others has important implications for the teacher. It follows that in teaching we must recognize the individual point of view and interests and moral and spiritual values of each boy and girl. All education must be based upon sympathetic insight into the minds of those taught. Should a teacher attempt to improve a certain train in an individual, it must be done in relation to the whole personality. This then illustrates to us the importance of knowing what is the cultural background of the students whom we teach.

A recognition of the elements which comprise the student's total personality has an important bearing on the professional training of the teacher. The teaching career is seldom a planned career. Students go to college and when they graduate, find there is nothing else to do, so they teach. Consequently in their training no effort has been made to become familiar with the diversity of influences which mold human personality. Even they have not subjected themselves to variety of factors which would make their approach to their students more accessible and which would make their adjustment in different situations possible. Many of those who belong to the teaching profession are raised in a small community where thought is stereotyped by the doctrines of the typical small town church and where the minister prides himself in the preaching of the old-time religion. They have attended their denominational college where narrow views of life sometimes are further ingrained and crystallized. These teachers may locate in a community to teach where they are strange and where their efforts meet with little response because they do not know the factors which have shaped the minds of the children with whom they have to deal.

It has been stated by many school administrators that the best teachers are the ones who have broken away from the narrow influences which is affecting their students, because they can enter most sympathetically into the experience of their students. They know also what it means to be spiritually in bondage as well as free.

All teachers should keenly realize the limitations of their early environment and should, therefore, definitely embark upon a course that will offset these limitations in their individual make-up. It is true that much discomforture will be involved in such a course. It means for the individual teacher that she will embark upon a sea of foreign culture and the pain of giving up old ideas and acquiring the new. She will discover that old friends once warm are turning cold and strange as she climbs the intellectual ladder. But lonesomeness is the price one pays for being intellectually superior in a small community. Travel, new books, the cosmopolitan influence of a great university, diverse thought, and manifold social influences will develop the understanding and approach to the students who are reared in a variety of social and cultural influences. The main problem of the teacher is nothing less than the opening of the soul to all the influences, spiritual, social, aesthetic and cosmic that call to it from the unseen, and thus fit it for the larger, truer life. To make great personalities out of students a teacher must first be the living embodiment of a free spirit. All teachers should be able to say with the Great Teacher, "No one taketh my life from me," which is another way of saying, "I drink freely of all the influences, spiritual and otherwise, which the universe has to offer; no one can keep these from me."

Every army has its spies and its scouts who make a preliminary survey of the field of conquest. Every engineering project is preceded by a corps of surveyors, who take stock of nature's factors to be dealt with in the proposed undertaking. Every constructive law is preceded by the studies of a fact-finding commission. So every teacher who sets out upon a new field must take stock of all the forces that must be dealt with in her endeavor to promote the mental, physical and spiritual growth of students. To come to the new community only a day or two before school opens is too short a time in which to get one's bearings as a teacher. Several visits during the summer time and a thorough discussion with her new superintendent about the peculiarities of the community, its religious, political, social and moral life and even a visit with her landlady will provide her with many hours of reflection as to how she will begin her work in school and what kind of a role she intends to play in the life of the community during the school term.

As the school year proceeds, she will in all probability be invited to the homes of average means. Here the evening may be spent in partaking of a copious meal and in the playing of games. The behavior of the guest will have more to do with making the evening a pleasant one than the elaborate preparations made by the home for her visit. Her dress, manner of conversation, and the ease of participation in the activities of the evening will make her presence a pleasure in the home. Indirectly she can discover here the attitude of the parents toward school, the musical influences of the child, the literary influences, the economic and social interests. An intense interest on the part of the teacher will cause the family to reveal all these things for the average parent knows little about school and would, therefore, prefer to talk about their home, income, and occupation than to listen to the problems of the teacher.

Should the home, however, be of the aristocratic and highly cultured type, the teacher should be equally adaptable. The meal will be served in the best of style and the conversation will turn to music, art and literature. Needless to say, the teacher should be able to equal and even excel this family in their good taste, in dress, manners and in the ability to converse intelligently on intellectual subjects. An evening with the student's family can be highly enlightening and where the mutual confidence of the parent and student in the teacher can be firmly established.

What Will I Be Like?

Phil. 4:8, 9, 31, 19

Young People's Topic for Aug. 28, 1938

Meditations:

M., Aug. 22. I will be like those I admire. 1 Cor. 15:33.
T., Aug. 23. I want to be like Christ. Phil. 2:4, 5.
W., Aug. 24. I want to be gracious and kind. Eph. 5:1, 2.
T., Aug. 25. I will be like Christ in heaven. 1 John 3:1-3.
F., Aug. 26. Who most deeply influenced Paul? How? Phil. 3:1-14.
S., Aug. 27. I will follow Jesus. Heb. 12:1-4.

Suggested Hymns:

"I Would Be Like Jesus," "Follow On"

Why it matters: (What will I be like?)

The average Christian Endeavorer has two-thirds of his life left. Life insurance experts tell us the average life span of a man and woman is about fifty-nine to sixty years. Thus with two-thirds of my life on this earth left, it does matter what I will be like.

We read in Proverbs that if a child is trained in the way it should go, when it is old it will not depart from that way.

As followers of Jesus we must be true to His light so that we can inherit and receive those mansions which He is now preparing. I John 3:1-3: John 14:1-4.

Suggested Topics:

I. What Must I do to improve myself?
  A. Select an aim or goal
  B. Keep eyes on the goal. "Forgetting the things which are behind" we—
  C. Work toward the mark. "We must press toward the mark of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus"
  D. Self-analysis tests can be taken. For one interested in music, the Seashore Music test will be revealing. Dr. Schellenberg at Bethel College has over two hundred various tests for self-examination.

II. How must I Continue if I am to succeed?
  A. Watch my associations. A young person should choose his friends with care and should know how to resist the degrading influences of friends who do not adhere to Christian ideals of behavior
  B. Develop a program of personal religious living. This includes the acquiring of habits of courtesy, respect for elders, personal cleanliness, private prayer and meditation, diligent reading of the Bible, and the practice of Christian fellowship with the members of the community.
  C. Use spare time wisely

Special Projects:

A. Hobbies: Talk to ten people whom you think are successful to see if they have or have had creative hobbies. Make a list of hobbies that might help in spreading the gospel, e.g. sewing.

B. Conduct a panel discussion. Use an able adult to guide the discussion. Have four or five C. E.

members present a group discussion using such topics as:

1. We are the masters, not the victims, of fate.
2. Is a man who makes a million dollars successful?
3. What is the true measure of success?
4. Is competition necessary to success?
5. How can one overcome physical defects?
6. What can we do to be more Christ-like?

Preprayer Circle

Bring out the value of intercessory prayer. Read James 5:16. Give example of answered prayer. Mrs. William Blackstone, a missionary in China, tells of how the women in her home church in America were led to meet and pray at the time when Communists were passing within a short distance of their house in China. The missionaries were miraculously spared.

Song Service

Select songs of service: "More Like the Master," "Help Somebody Today"
Society announcements

Suggested Worship Service

Instrumental prelude: "Jesus Calls Us"
Leader:

"Love thyself last.
Look near, behold thy duty
To those who walk beside thee down life's road;
Make glad their days by little acts of beauty,
And help them bear the burden of earth's load."

First response: Luke 10:27
Second response: Matt. 7:12
Scripture reading: Rom. 12:14-21 (pause after each verse for comments)
Sentence prayers, closing with "Spirit of the Loving God"
Special: "Somebody Did A Golden Deed"

Topic Presentation

1. Leader's introductory remarks. Speak of the difficulty and yet the great need of putting ourselves in the other person's place. The same mountain from two points of view looks entirely different. An experience related by two witnesses is never the same. How can we get the other person's point of view? How can we treat him as we would like to be treated? Mat. 7:12
2. Jesus' Example
Jesus forgot himself when he saw others in need, no matter how great his own suffering was at the time or how important his task. He always had time to help others. How did he show consideration for others:
   a. Mark 10:46-52, Healing a blind beggar
   b. Mark 10:13-16, Blessing little children
   c. John 13:12-17, Doing the lowly task for others
   d. Mark 16:7; 1 Cor. 15:5, Remembering Peter
   e. Luke 23:39-43; John 19:25-27, On the cross
3. Discussing the Topic
   a. What hinders us from showing consideration for others when they are in trouble? Eph. 6:1, 2
   b. Why must I consider others in deciding what I can do as a Christian? 1 Cor. 8:13
   c. How can we grow in our consideration for others? 1 Cor. 12:12

Closing Moments

OTHERS

"Lord, let me live from day to day
In such a self-forgetful way
That even when I kneel to pray
My prayer shall be for others.

Others, Lord, yes others,
Let this my motto be:
Help me to live for others
That I may live for Thee.

Help me in all the work I do,
To ever be sincere and true
And know that all I'd do for you
Must needs be done for others.

Let "self" be crucified and slain
And buried deep, nor rise again,
And may all efforts be in vain
Unless they be for others.

Others, Lord, yes, others,
Let this my motto be:
Help me to live for others
That I may be like Thee."

Scripture Comments

Romans 12:14-21

v.14. To curse who mistreat us is human; to bless them is divine. Only Christ in the heart can give a man grace to bless his enemies.

v.15. We need the sympathy of others in joy as well as in sorrow. An old German proverb says: Shared joy is double; shared grief is halved.

v.16. To live in harmony with others there must be harmonious thinking. High ambitions that arise from self-conceit lead to jealousy and strife. Doing lowly tasks does not arouse the envy of others.

v.17. If someone gives you a "dirty deal" do not pay back in the same coin. Keep busy with the noble and you will not be tempted to stoop to such acts.

v.18. The saying goes, "It takes two to make a quarrel." Make sure that you are not one of the two.

v.19. "I'll get even with him," is a very common expression, but is not Christian. God's spiritual laws work just as surely as His physical laws. Those who transgress will suffer without my interference.

v.20, 21. Evil rewarded with evil, justifies it in the sight of the evil doer; love condemns it, and is the greater punishment. Love is the only certain way of overcoming evil.

JUNIOR CORNER

Every Junior a Christian

Program Suggestion for August 28, 1938

Call to service: quiet music

Opening service:

1. Verse one of the Ninety and Nine sung by four juniors
2. Verse 2, 3, 4 spoken by one of these four juniors
3. Verse 5 sung by the quartet
4. Responsive reading: Luke 19:1-10
5. Sing in unison the prayer: "Saviour, like a shepherd lead us," verses 1, 3, 4

Study period. Aim: to lead the young heart near to its Saviour

1. The meaning of the word "Christian"

2. When and How may I become a Christian: talk by pastor or another guest speaker. We cannot "push" the Junior child into the Kingdom nor should we try. You cannot force your garden flowers to bloom before the stem and leaves have developed and before the bud has formed,—there is a natural development. So we should not hurry the child but gently lead it to its Saviour. We may take its hand and show it to the love of Calvary, we may teach it the need of this wondrous Saviour who can make the black heart white and fill it with good things and who will lead like a Shepherd all the days of our life and then return us Home. We may do this but the Master of life, the Creator alone can make ears to hear, eyes to see and move hearts to accept into its lowly manger, the Life from above,—the NEW BIRTH.

3. Sing in unison: "Just As I Am," verses 1, 2, 4, 5
4. Closing prayer by pastor
5. Benediction: Heb. 13:20, 21

WHY SOME PEOPLE FAIL TO ATTEND CHURCH

Based on an extensive survey made by the Advertising Club of the Lutheran Church of the North Shore of the Queens, New York area, the Lutheran News Bulletin finds the following reasons for people's failure to attend Church:

1. Twenty-three per cent wanted Sunday for themselves and their families.
2. Twenty-one per cent did not go to church because of the unfriendly or insincere people they found.
3. Nineteen per cent stayed away because the church was always asking for money.
4. Fifteen per cent stayed away because the sermons were uninteresting.
5. Nine per cent had individual reasons, no two of which were alike.
6. Five per cent did not go because they never experienced any spiritual help.
7. Four per cent stayed away because no one had ever invited them.
8. Four per cent remained away because the minister was always telling people to be good.

These reasons present an interesting study. There is perhaps no way for the church to remedy at least four of these excuses; they are purely of a personal preference, and perhaps they all fall into that class. But those designated under two, three, four and six may be based on actual faults of the church.

If twenty-one per cent of these unchurched people did not attend because the people of the church were unfriendly, surely the church could remedy this fault by being friendly. Too many members of our church are at fault here. We are frequently more interested in meeting Brother or Sister So and So, members of our particular clan, or inner circle, than we are in greeting visitors, to whom we often refer by the unfriendly term of "outsiders."

If nineteen per cent stay away because the church is always asking for money, perhaps we could remedy this somewhat by making a more attractive appeal for financial support. Too often it is not what we do, but the way we do it that makes a matter offensive.

If fifteen per cent stay away because the sermons are uninteresting, and five per cent because they experience no spiritual help, this is an appeal to the preacher to give more attention not only to the content of his message but to the manner in which it is delivered, and also to look closer to the work of supplying the spiritual needs of the people. Very few preachers there are who have not found the greatest trial of their lives is to meet members of their congregations at the door after service, when they know they have been "in the brush" or their messages were below par. If people honor a preacher by coming to hear him speak, he should be conscientious enough and true to God and his calling sufficiently to do his very best in preparation and presentation of the gospel message. He should be as much concerned in meeting their spiritual needs as a physician may be in meeting their health needs.

Let us do our best to remedy as far as possible some of these faults which the unchurched masses find as excuses for remaining away from church services.

Is the Bible Read?

Sixteen years ago on a small farm in the sparsely settled section of northern Minnesota lived a family who for long had felt a deep need in their heart and home for the comfort of the Word of God. The children were growing up and there was no Sunday school to send them to and never any Gospel service anywhere within their reach. To this family came the good news that the Northern Bible Society exists for the sole purpose of supplying the Bible free to any family who desire a copy of God's Word and is too poor to pay for one, if they would but write and tell of their need. The father sat down and wrote us a letter telling of their longing for a copy of the Bible and to their great joy one was received.

A few months ago to the Bible House came the father to give us the wonderful story of the great blessings, comfort and help this Bible has brought to his family in their daily struggle for existence to tell us of the sustaining strength which came into their hearts as they read in God's own Word the comforting words: "I will never leave thee nor forsake thee."

Through sixteen years this Bible has been their guide and is worn from daily use. Hundreds of its pages had been reverently patched and reinforced with thin tape to prevent further tearing. Now it rests in the Bible House as a testimony to the fact that the Bibles we sent out are read and cherished, with many hundreds of written testimonies.—H. E. Ramseyer, Secretary, 715 West Superior St., Duluth, Minn.

I cannot look around me without being struck with the analogy observable in the works of God. I find the Bible written in the style of His other books of Creation and Providence. The pen seems in the same hand. I see it, indeed, written at times mysteriously in each of these books; thus I know that mystery in the works of God is only another name for my ignorance. The moment, therefore, that I become humble, all becomes right.—Richard Cecil.

A Silver Lining in Clouds over Germany

There are signs that Hitler does not have things all his own way in Germany. Evidence has come to light showing that the Roman Catholic Church has even approached Communism, in the hope of enlisting its aid against the Nazi Government. In 1933 three Catholic priests were arrested in Munich, among them Dr. Muehler, leader of Catholic Action in Bavaria. Quantities of Communist literature and the membership books of a Red organization were found. In 1935 leaflets were confiscated in Munich which called for common action between Communism and the Roman Catholic youth unions. One Communist organ said: "Closest relations must be effected with the Catholic youth organizations."

This approach of Rome to Communism, its enemy, for the sake of alliance against the still more hated and feared Nationalism of Germany, has become painful and discerning and patriotic German Catholics, and has given place to developments of an unexpected sort. It has brought to the fore again an organization formed about 1870, and which is now called the German National Catholic Church, and often referred to as the Old Catholic Church.

Recent events have strengthened this organization. The so-called currency trials exhibited the Roman clergy as systematically breaking the law of the land as regards exchange restrictions. Then followed like a thunderbolt the revelations of immorality in Catholic monasteries in Germany. Catholic Germany sees what is supposed were its spiritual leaders and moral examples to be of a piece with the corrupt populations of Sodom and Gomorrah.

The first national congress of the National Catholic Church of Germany took place in Mannheim in May of last year. At the close of the opening service the entire assembly recited the Nicene Creed, "I believe in the one, holy, catholic, and apostolic Church." "A Catholicism which rests on Christ alone," said the first speaker, "is the real primitive Catholicism. It cannot be exclusive, but embraces the whole breadth of evangelical freedom and so creates the presuppositions for the union of divided Christendom. In opposition to the papal world church we set the Christian people's church."

The center of life is now in Upper Silesia, in the new parish of Gleiwitz. Services are extraordinarily well attended. Parishes which have only 300 members have 600 at their services. One powerful speaker, a former Carmelite monk has described the National Catholic movement as "a return to Christ. The more the Church holds to Christ and to Christ only, the more will its inner power develop."

CORRESPONDENCE

BUTTERFIELD, MINN., JULY 31

It has been quite sometime since any of the activities of our church have been recorded in our church paper. This does not mean that we have been idle all the time, for we have not. With the psalmist, we are again led to confess that "The Lord is good and His mercy endureth forever."

We have enjoyed an ideal summer. The gardens, crops, and weather conditions have been wonderful.

Due to ill health, our minister, Rev. L. H. Linscheid resigned from our church, Nov. 29, 1937. For six months we have had ministers from various churches serving us. C. B. Friesen of Mt. Lake served regularly and very faithfully toward the end of that period. During the first part of June, Rev. Albert Schultz of Wolf Point, Montana, came to us as regular pastor. We are very happy to have him and his family with us. Rev. Schultz is a hard worker and puts his heart and soul into his work. His messages are inspiring and edifying, and we trust that his ministry here will be greatly blessed.

Our church again sponsored a Daily Vacation Bible School this summer. Rev. Schultz, Miss Rosella Toews, Wolf Point, Montana, and Miss Doris Emmert were the teachers. A very appropriate program was rendered at the end of the term.

The Junior Choir and Men's Chorus alternate in furnishing music for our services which the whole congregation appreciates very much.—Mrs. R. E. Casey, Corr.

EAST SWAMP CHURCH, QUAKERTOWN, PA.

Since our last letter Rev. Harold Burkholder and wife arrived in Quakertown, to be our pastor. They arrived on July 21 at about 7 p. m. from Ohio. The following evening a welcome party was held in the church basement at which time a large group of the members and friends came. Mrs. Burkholder had a list prepared to go to the store to buy food, but instead they were asked to church, and there the folks had brought things that she had on her list. Greetings were brought by various officers of the church and its auxilliaries and a short program was held. A social hour furnished by the Ladies' Aid was held to conclude the evening. We pray God's richest blessing on the pastor and his wife as they enter into their new work of saving souls and ministering to the sick of the community.

At present three young men sponsored by the "Society of Friends" are holding peace discussion groups in our community.

We are looking forward to a busy time during the next several months. A C. E. picnic is being planned by our societies for the latter part of the month, a district picnic next month, infant consecration, Harvest Home services, and other events to make us more thankful to our Heavenly Father for His goodness to us, for which we too often do not deserve.

Rev. W. S. Gottshall is steadily improving, and it is hoped that in the near future, both he and his wife may again come to church, of which he was pastor and is now Elder.—Correspondent.

SECOND MENN. CHURCH, BEATRICE, NEBR.

It is necessary to bring to our church papers news which is interesting to the readers and who are entitled to same. During the summer months we have enjoyed church services on every Sunday evening from the pastors of the different churches in our beautiful Chautauqua Park. Last Sunday night we heard the sermon about the nature of sin. Satan comes as a thief in the night to steal and to rob, and if we knew him, he would not receive admittance to our homes. So for us comes the call to watch and pray. Our blessed country suffers every year a loss of 15 billion dollars for crime. We must have more revivals, like there were in England in John Wesley's time. This nation is not treating God right. They are worshipping gods of pleasure and money. They violate the Lord's day and God must punish our sins.

We had very nice weather this year, so much moisture and nature looks so wonderful. Our wheat was not as good as we expected, but still was a fair crop, if the price were not so low. We forget to thank the Lord for all we receive. Our corn looks very good now and if the Lord would give us sufficient moisture we will fill our corn cribs which have been empty for the last 5 years.

Missionary Mrs. S. T. Moyer talked Sunday forenoon to the children of the Sunday school. She was bringing greetings from the Sunday school of Basna and then she talked to the congregation. We are glad that so many Hindus have accepted Jesus for their Saviour and many more getting ready for baptism in the church of God. She asked to pray for Dr. Ambadkar, to make him a follower of Jesus Christ, to try to lead many Hindus to receive salvation through our Lord and Master.

Wishing all who attend a blessed conference meeting in Saskatoon. I am with greetings, John Wiebe, Corr.

In Memoriam

SAMUEL MOYER MUSSELMAN, son of Christian and Barbara Moyer Musselman, was born October 16, 1875, at Steinsburg, Pennsylvania, and died at Hillsboro, Kansas, July 29, 1938. He had reached the age of sixty-two years, nine months and thirteen days.

He was ordained to the Mennonite ministry at the First Mennonite Church, Philadelphia, December 21, 1902, and assumed the pastorate of the Wayland, Iowa and Eicher churches in January, 1903. In June, 1903 he was married to Minerva Landis of the Philadelphia church. Their four children, Dwight, of Arlington, Ohio; Vivienne, of Wichita, Kansas; Frances (Mrs. Erwin Schrag) of Pretty Prairie, Kansas; and George, at home, were all born in Wayland.

Preceding his ordination he served the Germantown church. In the thirty-five years of his ordained ministry he served in Iowa churches mentioned above, the First Mennonite Church of Bluffton, Ohio, the church at Pretty Prairie, Kansas, the church at Wichita, and the Johannestal Church at Hillsboro. He had just completed a most happy year as pastor of this church. He has also served on the Board of Trustees of Bluffton College, the Foreign Mission Board of the General Conference, and the Home Missions Board of the Western District Conference.

Besides his wife and children he is survived by three sisters; Emma, of Milford Square, Pa.; Mrs. Anna Hallman, also of Milford Square, Pa.; and Mrs. Ellen Meyer of Quakertown, Pa. These with his many friends both here in Hillsboro and elsewhere live to rejoice in his life and work.

Funeral services were conducted Tuesday afternoon in the home and the Johannestal Church and interment made at the church cemetery.

MRS. SUSANNAH HUBIN-LINSCHEID was born in Neuhof, Galacia, Poland, Austria, on July 15, 1861, where she spent her childhood days.

She was one of a family of eleven of which only one, Rev. Daniel Hubin of Butterfield, remains. At the age of 14 she received baptism and was loyal in her faith throughout her life in serving her Lord by so generously helping others in time of need. In the year 1881, in company with three of her sisters, she came to America, arriving at Mountain Lake, Minnesota.

On Nov. 19, 1882, she was joined in holy matrimony to Jacob Linscheid and this union was blessed with ten children of which one daughter died in infancy. The following children mourn the death of a loving and devoted mother: Elizabeth (Mrs. Rudolf Kramer) of Hugo, Minn.; Marie (Mrs. Carl Stark) and Rudolf of Vida, Mont.; Ernest of San Haven, N. D.; Herbert, Robert, Bertha (Mrs. Ted Linscheid) and Alma (Mrs. Erwin Ewy), all of Butterfield. She is also survived by 27 grandchildren and three great granddaughters besides a host of other relatives and friends. Her husband passed away fourteen years ago.

Nine years ago she became afflicted with arthritis, the last seven years being almost helpless. But she impressed many with her sunny disposition and courageous spirit and always remarked that it could be worse.

Her last wishes were fulfilled when she could partake of the Lord's Supper offered her by Rev. Schultz two hours previous to her death.

On July 17, 1938, at 5 o'clock p. m., at the age of 77 years and 2 days, she peacefully entered that eternal rest for which she had longed and prayed. We mourn her passing but also rejoice with her that she is relieved of her great suffering. Funeral service was held at the Butterfield Mennonite Church and interment made at the local cemetery.

HAROLD SCHMIDT, was born October 27, 1920, the son of Mr. and Mrs. P. B. Schmidt, Canton, Kansas. He began to attend school at the age of five and enjoyed his school work very much. Later his health began to fail. He suffered from rheumatism in the joints. When he had finished his work in the grades, his tonsils were removed with the hope that this would cure him. When this failed and other complications set in, the help of different doctors was tried. His health somewhat restored but he never was really strong. He enjoyed his high school work very much. He had to miss part of the second year of work, but as he was an ambitious student he was able to finish his work this year, which was his great aim. The good Lord kept him just long enough for it. Soon after the New Year we noticed that he was getting poorer and that he was failing fast. Often he was very tired yet he suffered no pain. At such times we tried to be easy on him. The Doctor tried to make him as comfortable as possible so he could better enjoy his last days of school. He was always patient and willing to serve others. His courteous and pleasant disposition won him many friends. At home he helped where he could. If not able to do out-door work he helped in the house. To be missed as Herald is missed, one must live as he lived, making a place in the lives of others. When the doctors were unable to fully diagnose the disease in any other way they operated on him. To our deepest distress they found that he suffered of cancer of the liver in an advanced stage. For 22 days he was detained in the Axtel Christian Hospital at Newton, Kansas. During this time many of his friends visited him, while others remembered him with cards and flowers, which he appreciated very much. He suffered extremely the last eight days. In 1937 on the 16th day of May he was baptized upon the confession of his faith in Christ Jesus His Lord and Saviour and joined the Alexanderwohl Mennonite Church of which he was a member in good standing at the time of his death. He passed on to his eternal reward on July 15, 1938 at the age of 17 years, 8 months and 18 days.

He leaves to mourn his departure, his parents, two sisters and three brothers, the grandparents, uncles, aunts, cousins and a host of friends.

—Second Mennonite Church, Philadelphia, Pa.—Rev. George H. Bacon is serving as guest in the pulpit during the month of August. We are exceedingly thankful to Brother Harleigh Rosenberger for his splendid messages during the month of July, and also for the presence of Miss Dorothy Swartley who assisted in our Sunday school. We wish them God-speed in their work and hope to have them with us again.—The "Messenger."

—Rev. W. A. Regier.—The engagement announcement of Rev. W. A. Regier, recently ordained minister of the Immanuel church of Los Angeles, Calif., and Miss Ruth Welty of Pratum, Oregon, has been received by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Regier. Miss Welty is a member of the Mennonite Church at Pratum, and a graduate of the Bible Institute of Los Angeles. May the Lord bless this union with a long and joyous life in his service.

—Mr. Orlando Waltner, of Freeman, South Dakota, supplied the pulpit at the Bethany church of Freeman on Sunday, August 7th in the absence of the regular pastor, the Rev. Harold Gross. Mr. Waltner is a 1938 graduate of Bethel College and is a Foreign Mission candidate.

—According to Arthur Burd McCormick in the Presbyterian, Jews in Germany are to be put out of business. All firms with more than twenty-five per cent of Jewish capital are to be boycotted. Business has been warned to get rid of all Jews. At the same time a system of wholesale arrests has sent terror into the hearts of the Semitic element of the population. Foreign embasies and legations are being besieged by frantic Jews seeking vias permitting escape abroad. The spread of this new anti-Semitic crusade is seen in the fact that teachers in the public schools had to deliver lectures warning the children against associating with Jews.

—In next week's issue of The Mennonite we expect to bring to our readers a complete resume of the activities of the General Conference now in session in Saskatoon. News of Conference activities at press time for this issue could only cover the first few days, but more shall be forthcoming.

There Is No Real Reason why the moving picture should be the agent for evil that it is. It is quite apparent that American parents are not awake to its dangers; for we cannot believe that they would long remain indifferent if they once fully realized the report of the Committee of Child Welfare of the League of Nations who analyzed 250 American films and found in them: "97 murders, 51 cases of adultery, 19 seductions, 22 abductions, 45 suicides. Of the characters in these 250 films there were: 176 thieves, 25 prostitutes, 35 drunkards."

Work, Wait and Listen

He heard the call ring forth so clear,
And sought to go, for he could hear
The lost one's cry so sad and drear,
But Christ said,

"Work at the small things here you find,
Do that to which thy friends are blind,
Do all thou canst, to all be kind,
But work.

"Put all thy trust and hope in Me,
And I will lead and thou shalt see
The way that I have planned for thee—
And wait.

"I will not speak from a thunder cloud,
I will not speak in a clamoring crowd,
I will speak in tones so low—not loud.
Then listen."

He heard the words of his Lord that day,
"I cannot," he said, "my trust betray.
The things I'll do along my way
Are work, and wait and listen."

—Letha Evers

—Mr. Verdi Reusser, a son of the First Mennonite Church of Berne, Indiana, and a graduate of Westmister choir school and Hartford Seminary, will take the position as minister of music in the late and former President Calvin Coolidge church at Northampton, Mass. This church is known nation wide as the Jonathon Edwards Congregational Church. The Rev. Albert J. Penner is pastor of the church. He is a former Mennonite and conducted the Calvin Coolidge funeral in January, 1933. Rev. Penner is a son of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Penner of Mountain Lake, Minnesota. Mr. Reusser is a very talented musician and was very active in music circles in Berne, having directed the Berne Community Choir some years ago. His many friends rejoice with him in this new opportunity for service.

Notes from the General Conference

The busiest people at a conference are members of boards and committees, because this gives them one and perhaps the only good chance to get together in three years, also those local persons who are charged with the duty of looking after the entertainment and comforts of delegates and visitors, and naturally, above all, the presiding officer and secretary. The editor, being chairman of one of the boards that continually held sessions during intermissions, found practically no time to write for the Mennonite, hence these notes are rather hap-hazard.

The long and important report of the Executive Committee whose work is constantly increasing, required nearly a day for its disposition, instead of the half day allotted to it on the program. The time thus lost had to be made up later by extending the time of the half day sessions. Some of the matters that had to be disposed of by the conference secretary and the Executive Committee, during the past triennium were: Four tracts of land were offered for Mennonite settlers, in Texas, in Costa Rica, in the Peace river valley of Alberta, Canada, and in North Dakota.—The U. S. Census Bureau wanted and was given a list of all our pastors for its ten-year religious census. Since many of the preacher brethren failed to reply which is rather a habit with them, a government officer was sent from Washington to explain that intentional neglect of this sort was punishable by law. This brought results.—The Bureau of Commerce made inquiry as to the value of money and gifts annually sent abroad for missions. $110,000 was reported.—A field secretary, whose office had been created by conference action, had to be found, appointed, and a budget for this work provided. Bro. H. A. Fast was the man chosen, the budget placed at $2000.00 and shared by the different conference boards and Young People's Union proportionately. By a recent action of the Executive Committee this work is now to be paid out of the Conference treasury.—In reply to an invitation of brethren in Europe that our Conference send representatives to the World Mennonite Conference in Holland in 1936, the Executive Committee appointed Rev. P. R. Schroeder, conference president, and provided $500.00 or as much as needed for his expenses. Bro. David Toews was sent by the brethren in Canada, at their own expense, although $200.00 had been made available for him, too.—The suggestion came also from Europe that the next Mennonite World Conference be held in the U. S. in 1940 or later.—At the urgent request of the officers of our Peace Committee that Rev. Abr. Warkentin, who had been denied citizenship, be given financial aid to appeal the case to the U. S. Supreme Court and thus also make it a test case, the Executive Committee provided $300.00 toward the necessary expenses to do this. Unfortunately on April 25, 1938, the Supreme Court declined to review the case.—An offer of a store building in Newton, Kansas by Rev. H. P. Krehbiel, to the Conference on an annuity plan, the building to be used for a conference printshop, book store and offices for conference officers, occupied the attention of the Executive Committee for some time, and was once tentatively accepted, but later the affair was left undecided.—Another matter that had some attention was the Seminary problem. This now came up before the Conference, as will be seen later in these notes.

The report of the Field Secretary, Dr. H. A. Fast, which was next given, was interesting. Being appointed to visit the churches to acquaint them more definitely with the aims and activities of the Conference and its boards, he had by now visited nearly 150 groups in the States and just recently in Canada, and was well received, with many expressions of appreciation of his services. As stated in his report, the underlying purposes in all his various activities among the churches and other groups was, "to build the fellowship and to quicken and arouse a vital, vivid, and intelligent interest in the total program of our large Conference enterprise," and this he seems to have quite successfully done. In his recommendation he calls attention to a number of services that the Secretary might render if time were at his disposal: 1. Assistance in building up and improving the organization of the educational work in Sunday schools, young people's work, etc. 2. To cooperate with and supplement the work of Conference officers, boards and committees: (a) in areas untouched by them; (b) in discovering needs, problems and opportunities for their service; (c) in stimulating and directing into more useful channels the educational work of some churches and groups; (d) in acting as counsellor-at-large in preventing or smoothing out distressing conditions in some quarters; (e) in keeping in touch with young people working or studying in non-Mennonite communities, to keep them informed and interested in our activities; (f) in our Conference fellowship; (g) in helping release large unused resources in our Conference and in rendering them serviceable.

The next work that held the attention of the Conference was that of Foreign Missions, as presented by the secretary of the Board, Bro. P. H. Richert. It was full of proof of great things that the Lord has done through the efforts of our missionaries and the gifts and prayers of the many mission friends. As the space here is too limited to do justice to this, we shall give a fuller account separately later on.—The election of members on this Board resulted in the choice of the two brethren whose term had expired, Rev. P. H. Richert, Newton, Kans. and Rev. Howard G. Nyce, Allentown, Pa., Rev. Richert receiving what is probably the highest number of votes ever cast for any Conference servant, namely 908.

The addition of 17 new churches to the Conference during this 28th session adds, by actual count, 1776 new members to our Conference, bringing the grand total to approximately 34,000 members.

"SUCH A DEATH I'VE NEVER SEEN BEFORE"

Three men were to be baptized in Perain but only two of them appeared for the service. Upon inquiry we found that the third man, an old widower by the name of Kheru, had gone out to herd cattle. We felt that he was not fit for baptism if he could not leave his cattle for an hour to come for the baptismal service. The following Friday there was baptism in the neighboring village Nawagow. Kheru appeared there bright and early lest he again miss his opportunity to receive baptism. We were glad for him. But during the baptismal service I again found it difficult to administer the sacrament of baptism to him because he seemed not to appreciate the sacredness of the occasion. If I remember correctly it was he that yawned heartily during that baptismal rite. I did not feel altogether happy.

Some four weeks have passed. The other day we were told that after a brief illness Kheru has gone to be with His Lord, and they say that his death has been a great testimony to the saving power of Christ. When his condition became critical, his children and friends began to cry but he told them not to cry for him. He told them he had done well as he had taken baptism. At about midnight when the relatives stood about his bed, he suddenly told them to stand back and not touch his bed for His Lord was coming for him. Then he folded his hands and said, "O, Lord," and fell asleep happy and in peace. The old man of that para who had witnessed all this, says that in all his life he has never seen a death like this. It has helped to establish the faith of those who were baptized just a few weeks ago.

"I SPOKE TO YOU FORM MY THROAT UP"

At Nawagow there is an old man who was out of church fellowship for many years. He had been excommunicated because he married his son to a Hindu girl according to Hindu customs. The church had decided that he must make a public confession of his wrong and pay a fine of Rs.1-0-0 (about 35c) before he can again be received into fellowship. He was willing to pay the fine but too proud to come before the church with a confession. His sons had grown up and he was anxious for them to trust in Christ and be baptized. His children were instructed and ready to be baptized. Yet we could not eat with their father because he was out of church fellowship. We went to the church records and found the above mentioned punishment the only requirement for readmission into Christian fellowship. So I went to him to tell him that the hinderance could easily be removed. He said, "I am willing to pay the fine but I will never go before that church and beg pardon. All these years they have not shown me love like you workers have." When I told him that Jesus says that God cannot forgive us if we do not forgive our fellowmen and that he could not expect mercy from God unless he forgave, he said, "I'll go to hell if need be but I will never go before that church." We tried to make it clear that it was just too bad that he took that attitude. That evening the workers did not go out to teach. Instead they stayed in their tents and prayed for this man's soul.

Next morning news was brought to our camp that this man had gone to the church to make a confession of sin committed. Towards evening that day I cycled to his village to encourage him over his victory. He was very happy when we met and said, "Yesterday I spoke to you from my throat up and not from my heart. Now I have made it right."

Giving Attention to Little Things

F. W. Koehler

. . . the little foxes, that spoil the vines (Song of Solomon 2:15).

Many good people do not consider it important to give attention to the little things of life, they think it is only the big things that count; however great destinies have been decided by small things, and success or failure for us usually hinges on our careful attention to the little things.

A fanatic's pistol fired in one of the world's smallest nations threw the whole world into war.

An ordinary carpet tack getting between the cogwheels of a machine caused a spark that resulted in blowing up the works of a well known company. Two men were killed and the wreckage of the building scattered over the whole community.

A few years ago there was a very serious accident on the Lachine Canal at Montreal, Canada. The wire communication between the captain and the engineer of a certain steamer had become slack. The officer in charge wishing to stop the steamer as she was entering one of the locks signaled to the engineer. The wire being out of order the bell did not ring. The steamer continued at full speed, the lock gates were smashed by the collision, the waters were suddenly let out, and many vessels were greatly damaged. There was also an obstruction to business for several days at a crowded season of the year, and a great fleet of upward and downward craft was detained. The whole loss was estimated roughly at scarcely less than a half million dollars, and it was all caused by one little slack wire. Just as the officers of that great ship made a sad mistake when they were careless about the little medium of communication on which so much depended, so does that person make even a greater mistake who suffers the delicate line of communication between himself and God to get out of order. If you should find that you have slipped a little somewhere, you had better stop for repairs before the disaster overtakes you.

If we would succeed in true holy living we must pay strict attention to the little things, and we will not need to worry about the big things, as they will take care of themselves. If we will look carefully after the pennies the dollars will not need to be worried about. I overheard a conversation between the man who runs the filling station next door and one of his customers. "Never mind the odd pennies, just knock them off," said the customer. The filling station man replied, "When we first started in business here, many of our friends would say when purchases amounted to odd pennies in our favor 'Oh, forget the pennies,' but we kept strict account for a week on such transactions and found it would have meant a loss of over three dollars." The Woolworth millions were built up on nickel and dime sales. He that will be faithful in that which is least will also be faithful in much, and he that is unjust in the least is also unjust in much.

Not only need we give careful attention to the little foxes to keep them from spoiling our spiritual vines, but we need to learn that it is the little deeds of service and kindness that make for our success in our work for the Lord. A very small deed or attention given has often meant a great deal with the proper motive in back of it. In a little town out in Ohio near Toledo lived an eighteen year old boy who had been an invalid for several years. His parents' house was near the New York Central Railroad and one of the lad's diversions was watching the big limited passenger trains speed by. One day an engineer saw the boy's cot on the sun porch and inquired about him when he reached the town's station. Learning that the boy was kept in his bed by illness, the engineer decided he would do a little something to cheer him up. So, thereafter, every night when his train passed the boy's house, the engineer would sound his whistle four times. The boy quickly discovered that the signal was a greeting to him and he responded by blinking the light in his bedroom four times. This had been kept up for a year at the time I read about it in the great Evening Journal of one of our large cities, concerning which the editor wrote a very touching editorial. Every night that engineer speeded by he sounded the signal and the boy responded by flashing his light. If the boy felt worse than usual, and had to drop off to sleep earlier in the evening, he would set his alarm clock so that he would awaken in time to hear and respond to the greeting. On Christmas the engineer sent the boy a little present, and a few days later, on his off day, he went to the little town and called on the boy, promising to have all the engineers on that section of the line to toot their whistles for the sick lad when they passed his house.

The editor moralized on this incident as follows, "Now all this, while interesting and a little touching, may not seem especialy important to some, but it is just the same. There is a good deal of misery of one kind or another in the world. Sickness, poverty, failure, disappointment touch everyone of us at one time or another. They are pretty hard to live through, sometimes; but the worst thing of all is the feeling of loneliness that so often accompanies them. We are so constituted that we can stand almost anything except the feeling that the rest of the world is shut off from us by barriers of indifference and misunderstanding. There are times when the most important thing on earth is an unmistakable hint that kindness and thoughtfulness still exist in a world of strangers. That is why the simple kind act of the locomotive engineer is worth giving attention to. What he did was not much, perhaps, but it meant a great deal to that bedridden youngster, lonely and depressed, and although the rest of us never heard of either of these people before, it can mean a good deal to us, too.

D. L. Moody won a whole family for God and the church through a smile. He passed a house daily where a little child usually looked through the window at which Moody would smile and it was not long until other members of the family rushed to the window to see the man who always smiled every time he passed. Eventually the mother also appeared and out of curiosity she investigated and turned up at Moody's church to see and hear the preacher who smiled at her children every time he passed her house. The whole family was converted and joined his church and they were attracted by a mere smile.

A woman dropped a tract or a little book in the way of Richard Baxter, he picked it up and read it, and it led him to Christ. He became a holy man of God and wrote a book entitled, "A Call to tne Unconverted," which brought many persons to the Savior. Among them was Philip Doddridge who in turn wrote "The Rise and Progress of Religion," which also led many into the kingdom of God, among them the great Wilberforce who wrote "A Practical View of Christianity," which was the means of saving a multitude, among them Leigh Richmond. Richmond wrote the book entitled, "The Dairyman's Daughter," which has been instrumental in the conversion of thousands. The dropping of that little tract may have seemed like a trifling thing, but what a wonderful, many-branched tree has sprung from it.

Someone has said, "In one's life there is nothing insignificant; there are no trifles; in the activities of a master worker for eternity no task is small." Michelangelo said, "Trifles make perfection, but perfection is no trifle." "Every action in the spotlight of the populace or in the dark, hidden tasks is the golden hinge upon which hangs a destiny. Each moment, filled with great thoughts or idled away, is decisive in a person's career. There is no small deed into which we can afford to put anything but the best. Every trifle carries a lesson, is filled with momentous actualities for the alert. Even the small, unseen deed is glorious in possibilities for the wide awake."

"Success is achieved only by conquering the small details, the little enemies. Every deed drives you closer to the coveted garland of renown. Every book read, each experiment made, all tints added, the mass of lines written, every poem composed, each blow with the mallet of determination and undaunted courage, by the power of God will lead you closer and closer to the rugged heights of victor. We become conquerors by triumphing in and over the little things."
—Herald of Holiness.

Opportunities for Christians in Business

E. W. Baumgartner

Today the business man finds himself in a selfish, cold, hard and sometimes cruel world. Within ten years we have found ourselves engulfed in two business depressions. Men, formerly known as giants of courage, endurance and faith, are tottering in a fog of fear and uncertainty. Without an eternal faith in things of the spirit the future just now indeed looks anything but promising. Therefore, to the Christian business man come legions of opportunities to help his customers. Saint and sinner today is looking for someone in business whom he can trust and from whom he might expect and actually receive comfort and guidance. A Christian business man's duty and opportunity goes far beyond selling his customer good and endurable goods.

There are two great opportunities that come to the Christian business man today. First, let me mention the opportunity "To think of the other man." I as a Christian business man can afford to lose in a transaction, but I cannot afford to have my customer lose. I may be the victim of misrepresentation, but I must never allow him to suffer from false statements or from any concealed defects in the goods I sell him. The Christian business man considers it an opportunity to help his customer and friends. The self is too much in evidence. That is the evil in business.

A second opportunity for the Christian business man today, is to comfort and encourage others. In the winter of 1864, an old Quaker lady visited Lincoln at the White House, and took the long-suffering giant's down-stretched hand. She had to rise on tip-toe, and as she did it her sweet voice uttered these words, "Yes, friend Abraham, thee need not think thee stands alone. We are all praying for thee. The hearts of all the people are behind thee, and thee cannot fail. The Lord has appointed thee, and the Lord will sustain thee, and the people will love thee. Take comfort, friend Abraham, God is with thee." The effect of the words was easy to see. As when the lights suddenly blaze behind a cathedral window, so the radiance illumined those rugged features and poured from the wonderful eyes. The guant form straightened. The mouth became beautiful in its sweetness as it said to her, "You have given a cup of cold water to a very thirsty and grateful man. You have done me a great kindness."

Yes today people are thirsty and a cup of cold water from a Christian business man is appreciated and even if it is given unto one of these least of men it is done unto Him who cried out upon the cross, "I thirst."

"O Lord, that I could waste my life for others,
With no ends of my own;
That I could pour myself into my brothers,
And live for them alone." —The Vine-Press.

Serving in Newness of Spirit

Paul tells of certain folks who through all their lives are bound to the letter of the law, but he speaks of others who are dead to the law and who serve in the newness of the spirit. He uses the figure of a wife being bound to her husband as long as he lives as an illustration of the manner in which a legalist is bound always to the letter of the law. If the husband dies, the wife is free, free to marry again if she desires. In Christ we may die to the bondage of the law and we may be free from its yoke, as free from it as the living wife is free from the dead husband, and we may serve God in this freedom—not in the oldness of the letter of the law, but in the newness of the Spirit.

Carrying this figure into an illustration we may think of a woman who becomes the wife of a legalist. He outlines her duties, states the time for rising in the morning, the requirements for meals and the mealtime, her obligations as a wife in the upkeep of the home, care of the clothing and prescribes the limits of her financial budget. She serves faithfully as his wife, but always in the consciousness of the requirements and obligations the husband has placed upon her. The husband dies, and the wife is free. Later on she marries another man. She asks what his requirements are and what he expects of her as his wife. He quickly replies that all he wants is for her to love him as a true and devoted wife, that she is to do only what her love for him and her loyalty to the home would suggest. She serves in love—in the newness of the Spirit. One day she realizes she is doing absolutely the same things and following the same standards as were prescribed by her first or legalistic husband. But how different is her attitude toward these requirements. How much more satisfying is her life—the life of love! The law is kept, but not in the oldness of the letter; she serves in the newness of the spirit.

"There are many Christians," says Alexander Maclaren, "who have only religion enough to make them uncomfortable, only enough to make religion to them a system of regulations, negative and positive, the reasonableness and sweetness of which they but partially apprehend. They must not do this because it is forbidden; they ought to do that because it is commanded . . . and so they live in the twilight; and when they come beside a man who really has been walking in the light of Christ's face, the language of his experience, though it be a transcript of facts, sounds to them all unreal and fanatical." They cannot understand the language of one who serves in the newness of the Spirit. We serve, but how? In the oldness of the letter, or in the newness of the Spirit? H. of H.

Stimulate the heart to love and the mind to be early accurate, and all other virtues will rise of their own accord, and all vices will be thrown out. — Coleridge.

ORDINATION

God willing our children, Aron and Kathryn Jantzen, are to be ordained for the mission work in India on August 21, 1938, in our church west of Paso Robles, Calif. Rev. P. H. Richert, secretary of the Board is to be here and officiate.

We herewith ask all our conference churches to intercede for us and for the mission work as a whole, especially for the new workers, on that day and hereafter. Pray, that the Lord may endow them with power from above, that they be enabled to serve Him where He wants them.

The Lord bless them and make them a blessing—and all that serve Him.

With hearty greetings, F. F. Jantzen.

HANNAH: GODLY MOTHERHOOD

1 Sam. 1:9-18, 2:1-5

Introduction

Elkanah, a godly man of the tribe of Levi, lived at Ramah and had two wives, as was a frequent custom in those days. The one, Peninnah, had children and often reproached the other, Hannah (v6), who was childless. Elkanah loved Hannah the more and showed her special favors which had increased the ill-feeling toward her.

Hannah's Sincere Prayer vs. 9-18

Once each year Elkanah and his family went to worship and sacrifice in the sanctuary at Shiloh, where the Ark of the Covenant was kept for three hundred years. Here the great Passover feast was celebrated and it was the duty of each one present to eat of it. Hannah tried to eat but her heart was heavy because she was childless. She lingered in the tabernacle alone, as she thought, but Eli, the priest, sitting by the temple entrance, saw her enter and observed her while praying. In bitterness of soul she poured out her heart in prayer (vs10,11). She prayed for a son that she might dedicate him to the tabernacle service for life. She repeated her entreaty three times and made a two-fold vow. The child was to serve the Lord for life and also be a Nazarite. Her prayer was very definite, without reserve and persevering. The Nazarite vow of self-denial and devotion was attractive to mothers in Israel who desired the best for their children. Today also parents dedicate their children, but so often to an attractive career or a fortune, to success from a human standpoint. Children in Christian homes should be dedicated to a life of godliness and service.

Hannah prayed from the inner depths of her heart, pouring out her very soul (vs13-15). She lost herself in her earnestness, not realizing that any one saw her. Lips moved but the voice was silent. There is great value in soul-moving silent prayer when controlled by the Spirit. Jesus knew the value of such prayer. The deepest heartlongings often can not be expressed in words. God understood her prayer and knew that a little babe could well be entrusted to the care of praying Hannah. He heard her cry and answered her prayer.

Eli added his work of comfort and petition to hers (v17), an assurance that her prayer would be answered. She believed God would answer her and was glad (v18). Every generation needs such mothers. She showed herself willing to make a great sacrifice in dedicating the child to God's service in the sanctuary. Without faith it is impossible to please God.

Hannah's Song of Thankfulness vs. 1-5

This song (1 Sam. 2:1-11) is a wonderful prayer of thanksgiving. The birth of her son was an occasion of great rejoicing and she gave God the honor for he was given of God. Happy, fortunate is the child that is welcomed into the home as God's gift. Her heart which had been so sorrowful, was now full of rejoicing (v1). God knew how she had been reproached and would, she believed, bring judgment on the guilty ones (v3). Faith in God will be well rewarded (v5).

Hannah is the kind of mother described in the Golden Text. This description reveals the honorable position of the mother in Israel. Motherhood has always been held in high esteem among the Jews and "goes far to account for the importance and preservation of the Jewish race."

Samuel had a good start in life. His mother prayed earnestly before his birth. He was a welcome child in a godly home and given to God in a mother's consecration. Can there be any vocation richer in its fruitage than that of a Christian mother?

SERMON SKETCH

IDEAL WORKMEN

Read Nehemiah 4:13-23 for a picture of what might be termed ideal workmen. In this lesson two thoughts are prominent—work and warfare. There was work to be done, but there was great opposition to that work. Enemies encompassed Jerusalem on every side and if those walls were ever to rise from their ruins men must be secured who would work and fight. When the forces were rallied to rebuild the walls every man was expected to use both hands—a trowel in one hand and a sword in the other. The cause of God has not changed even in our day. He who would be successful even in our day must be prepared for work or warfare, or for both. He must be a servant or a soldier.

Note the Apostle Paul exhorted and urged Timothy, "Give all diligence to show thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed." Then in the same chapter he exhorts him to "suffer hardships as a good soldier of Jesus Christ" (2 Tim. 2:4 and 15). "Fight the good fight of faith; lay hold of eternal life." "I have fought a good fight," together with many other passages asure us that the Christian life is a warfare against unseen powers.

He who would undertake work for God finds immediately and constantly the opposition of the great adversary, so that he must be equipped with tools. "The Sword of the Spirit, which is the Word of God."

From this we learn that each man took his own place. There was no picking and choosing. Some one had to take the lowest and the most exposed place, and they took their position without a murmur. What a delight it would be for a Presiding Elder if all his ministers were really unconditional, not stand up and sing "Anywhere with Jesus I can safely go," and then baby and whine because the report was against the carnal nature.

Then after they had taken their place they went to work. God was with them and they toiled faithfully. "God shall fight for us." This was the secret of their success.

Then note also the unity. They were scattered in the work but they all rallied to the one trumpet call and were submissive to their leader. Division within church walls are worse than foes without.

They were diligent. From daylight to dark they worked, and even denounced their own rights of going to their own homes, they slept as guards, still on duty even in sleep. "In the night they may be a guard to us and may labor in the day."

The Christian is an emergency—a minute man—ready for anything day or night. He is never off duty, but in the present war with evil, is watching and praying, and always abounding in the work of the Lord. He continues "with all prayer and supplication, pray at all seasons in the Spirit."

How blessed to have a leader who is one with them, "Neither I, nor my brethren." Jesus Christ, the Christian's leader has passed through every hardship of work and warfare before us.—Gospel Banner.

A Home Without a Bible

What is home without a Bible?
'Tis a home where day is night,
Starless night, for o'er life's pathway
Heaven can shed no kindly light.

What is home without a Bible?
'Tis a family out at sea,
Compass lost and rudder broken,
Drifting, drifting, thoughtlessly.

Marks of the Christian Church

John A. McAfee

Text: Matthew 16:18—"And I say unto thee, That thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build my church; and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it."

Four distinguishing characteristics of the Christian Church are suggested by these familiar words of Jesus.

The first is humility. Jesus said, "Upon this rock I will build my church." We cannot do it; only the Christ can build His Church. Upon His spirit all is utterly dependent. Here, as in so many other spheres, it must be: "Not by might, nor by power, but by my spirit, saith the Lord of hosts." "Except the Lord build the house, they labour in vain that build it." Except the Christ build the Church, we labour in vain. We who constitute the membership of the Church should be very humble. We should realize that in and of ourselves we can do nothing. Through us Christ is building the Church. Without us He cannot do it; but, in the final analysis, He it is who is doing the building and not we.

Perhaps it was just a little more true in times past, yet the delusion still persists that money will build the Church. Those who administer its affairs are wont to dream of the great possibilities, if only there was available a sufficient supply of cash. Many have been the sincere though misguided efforts to bring in the kingdom of God by the liberal use of gold. All such efforts have proven abortive. Now no church can be builded without money, and those who obtain that money and those who give it, if they do their work in the right way, are about spiritual matters. Yet money can never build a church. It has been historically true that when the Church has grown wealthy it has grown spiritually impotent. In spite of all the lessons of the past we still fool ourselves into thinking that if we could just get hold of enough money we could make the Church grow. Even while our ministers inveigh against it we put our trust in money. We do not trust in God but in the coin upon which we put the legend.

There is an old story of a flute which for centuries rested in the temple at Jerusalem. It was a very plain instrument, fashioned out of reeds, but its tones were beautiful, clear and cool. When the musicians played upon this flute the souls of the worshipers were touched. Then one day the priests in the sanctuary decided they would beautify this humble instrument. To the best of the workmen they took it and very carefully he plated it with gold. Now it was a thing of beauty and outwardly rejoiced the eye; but the lovely tones were gone forever. The notes which came forth were harsh, metallic. No souls were ever stirred again by its music. It had been coarsened by gold. Just so is true religion many times well nigh ruined by gold.

Money will do many things, many fine and noble things; but money alone will never build the Church of Christ.

At times we have thought that organization would build the Church. We have been admonished that after all that Church, like other organizations in the world, is a selling institution, that it has something to sell to people, namely, the Gospel of Christ. Always my face flames in righteous anger when I hear men talk of selling Christ or His gospel to the world! To me such a thought seems sacrilege. The minister, so we are told, should be a supersalesman or sales manager. Big business says to the Church: "After all your task and mine are essentially the same. Emulate me, and I will show you how to organize your affairs effectively. I will show you how to increase the number of your customers."

There is no blinking the fact that we need better organization. We must learn every good lesson from the children of darkness as well as from the children of light. We doubtless need efficiency experts in the work of the Church. But once more I hear the words of Jesus, "I will build my church." Organization can never do it.

Again we have thought that activity would build the Church. If only there was enough going on around the institution we were satisfied. If the wheels were turning furiously enough we thought all was well. We thought there was some direct connection between the coming of the Kingdom and the humming of our chapel. Whether or not these activities were to any good purpose we have not taken the trouble to ask ourselves.

Truly we rely on ourselves too much. We do only lip service to Jesus. When it comes to laying out the program for the Church we depend on our own wisdom, and when it comes to carrying out that program we rely on our own strength. These other things we must not despise. Money, organization, activity — these have their places; but only Christ can build the Church. In the true humility, not of despair but of hope, we must put our trust in him. Jesus said, "I will build my church."

The second characteristic of the Christian Church is patience. We must be humble; we must be patient. "I will build my church." Jesus has been building his Church through the centuries; he is building it today. It did not spring into being full blown. It was not finished once and for all. It is not yet complete. Thank God, Christ is building his church today and is calling upon you and me to help.

Great structures do not come into being over night. The superb cathedrals of the world were centuries in the building. The real builder must be patient. We do grow so impatient. If for a few short months the work in an individual church does not go the way the members feel it should they lose their patience—that is, if they ever had any—and insist on getting a new minister, one who can make things hum. We are always in a hurry and we cannot realize that at times God isn't. Patience is one of the hardest lessons for youth to learn, and one which some never learn. After all we are very young in a very old world. Slowly but surely the Church is being builded. Christ is keeping his promise. Let us be patient.

The third characteristic of the Christian Church is confidence. "The gates of hell shall not prevail against it." Our humility, our patience, and our confidence spring from the same source, our utter dependence upon Christ.

The Church today should be calm. All around us people are in panic. In the midst of it all the Christian and the Christian Church should stand serene. This serenity should spring from no shallow source. It should not be because we have failed to estimate correctly the gravity of the situation, because we have stuck our heads in the sand and refused to recognize the forces arrayed against us. Our confidence rests in the power which is ours, in the resources which are at our disposal. The gates of hell shall not prevail against the church of Christ. They never have; they never will.

Men at times discuss the future of the church as if its very continuance were in question. Individual churches may come and may go; perhaps at times they should go. Denominations may come and may go; perhaps at times they should go. But the Church of Christ continues. When we falter in fear the gentle rebuke of Jesus should come to us, "O ye of little faith!"

The church of Christ should face the future unafraid. What the future will hold we do not know. It is doubtless well that we do not know. We need not put forth our puny hands to steady the ark of God. We do not well to shake our heads in grave concern. Jesus said, "I will build my church, and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it." I, for one, have the faith to believe those words.

The fourth characteristic of the Christian Church is the spirit of cooperation. Primarily of course, that cooperation is between the Church and the great Head of the Church, but we are not, I am sure, straining a point when we say that we must cooperate with each other, that thus we can work with him. Shame, thrice shame upon us, that so often as individuals and as churches we work together only when the exigencies of the situation require it, and not because we are all actuated by the spirit of the same Christ!

It is through our cooperation with him, and his cooperation with us that Christ is building the church. Many are the ways in which we can cooperate with him. It should be our delight, not to work in our own might, but to work with him and for him.

Humility, patience, confidence, the spirit of cooperation—these should be distinguishing characteristics of the Christian Church. "And I say unto thee, That thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build my church; and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it."—Christian Herald.

Peacemakers

This seems to be one of the overlooked beatitudes. There are many people who are really strife-makers rather than peacemakers. They do not seek to heal estrangements between others, to prevent quarrels and contentions, and to bring together those who have began to drift apart. Their whole influence goes towards widening breaches, intensifying bitterness, and exciting anger and hatred. When they find in any one a germ of suspicion or dislike of another, they stimulate the evil growth.

It is time this beatitude should be brought down from the skies and put to work in our lives. It is time for Christians to become peacemakers in a world whose beauty is marred by so much strife.

To be peacemakers we must try to live peaceably with all men.

Then we must strive to make and promote peace between others.

We are not always called on to settle great quarrels, but we may find more fruitful work in the healing of petty contentions which we discover all around us.

Above all, do not encourage unkind thoughts of others which we find in people's minds. We should always seek to change them into kindly thoughts.

Tried and True

Religion you say is old-fashioned?
How true; so is food; so is drink;
So are mothers, and fathers, and neighbors,
And all things of value, I think.

A new-fangled creed has no power
Until it is tried by the years;
If good, it endures through misfortunes,
And abides in the valley of tears.

True faith, understanding, and kindness,
Well—these are all old virtues too;
Thank God for old-fashioned religion,
In a world where too much is new.

Becoming Acquainted with the Cultural Background of Students

Curt Siemens

(Concluded)

The religion of a person can be either the enslavement or the emancipation of his intellect. The influence of the church can be either destructive or constructive, according to the attitude taken by the person's church toward education. In some communities the churches are openly at warfare with educational institutions, which is, to say the least, unfortunate. The religious influences of the student will, therefore, bear the closest scrutiny and study. Frankly, the teacher who packs up her suitcase and leaves town when the week-end comes, is running out on the greatest opportunity she has to study one of the most powerful influences of her students. If man is incurably religious, then education should be hooked up with the student's religion. Should this be done, education will be vitalized and spiritualized. As a teacher sits in the Sunday school class and hears the comments made on current problems, she can learn more about what kind of thinking is going on in the community and what kind of thinking is influencing the lives of the students with whom she works than she can any other way. Knowing this, the teacher can make sure that she does not offend and alienate her students by teachings which are destructive to the thought revered in the community. Teachers will do well to be well versed in the popular religious books of the day, such as Link's Return to Religion and Bruce Barton's books, The Man Nobody Knows, The Book Nobody Knows, and Beliefs That Matter. Popular religious periodicals, like The Christian Century will give modern problems a spiritual aspect, thus making their study more challenging than ever. The teaching of a Sunday school class may be asking a lot of a teacher, but it is an opportunity for the shaping of right attitudes highly significant in the teaching process, and which leads students very often in line with the intentions and ideals of the teacher. Such a teacher can win the confidence of a religious-minded community if she is wise enough to know how far she can go in the matter and tactfully enough to present it properly.

In the uncertainty of these times there is no other way by which the faith of youth can be sustained than by the spiritual approach to modern problems. Some pedagogical thought is against the meddling with students' religion which is dangerous to the position of the teacher in the community. Such can hardly be the case in the average Protestant community. No radical skeptic would even dare to attempt to undermine the spiritual creed of students, but a teacher who has built up a sound philosophy of religion will find the community making a beaten path to her door. Her advice and council will be sought and such teachers are popular speakers at religious gatherings of young and old alike.

The literary influences of the high school also bear careful study. The thinking of many of our youth is shaped by the material found on news stands. Movie magazines, detective magazines, and sexy stories are often nearly the only type of literature read by high school students. It is the teacher's business to acquaint herself with the material in these magazines in order to know the mind of youth. Should she consider such reading beneath her dignity, she may remain so far aloof from her students that she is unable to do anything for them.

To raise the standard of literature which students read, the teacher must begin where the student is, and lead him on from there. If a student shows a special interest in sex, it is not impossible to lead him on to high type of literature dealing with the same subject. The final result may be that he may develop a sane viewpoint on the subject. Whatever we may think about this matter, one thing is certain: we can hardly do anything in the way of leading a student towards loftier ideals unless we begin with his interests.

Opportunity should be constantly provided where students may give vent to their ideas concerning current issues, especially in politics, religion, and in problems of youth. The teacher should encourage free speech in the classroom. In such an atmosphere the student's attitude and his thinking, regardless of how defective it may be, will come to the surface much to the enlightenment of the teacher, who can then offer such material for study as the intellectual level of the class may demand, and such points of information as may be necessary to improve the thinking of the student.

The Right to Work

John 4:34; 9:4; Matt. 20:1-14

Young People's Topic for September 4, 1938

Meditations:

M., Aug. 29. Work in the divine plan. Gen. 2:8-17.
T., Aug. 30. God's "Six days shalt thou labor." Exod. 20:9.
W., Aug. 31. The privilege of work. Ruth 2:1-7.
T., Sept. 1. Work not, eat not. 2 Thess. 3:6-16.
F., Sept. 2. Work at self-chosen tasks. Gen. 4:20-24.
S., Sept. 3. How are both Capital and labor unions unfair to Workers? Prov. 27:18; Jas. 4:1-4.

Suggested Hymns:

"To the Work," "We'll Work Till Jesus Comes"

Background for Topic:

Work is even older than man. God worked for five days and on the sixth He created man in his own image, as we have it in the Genesis account. Because man sinned he was to earn his bread by the sweat of his brow. Slavery and labor problems, too, are very ancient. The children of Israel worked as slaves for the Egyptians. Moses became a labor leader, as it were, and led his people to (not into) the promised land.

Today every major country has a labor problem. Even in America we are shocked at the numbers of men out of work, at strikes and lockouts. In the Fascist countries of Europe strikes are forbidden.

We would do well to examine what the Bible tells us on so great an issue.

Suggested Topics:

I. God requires work of man.
  A. Work in the divine plan. Gen. 2:8-17.
  B. "Six days shalt thou labor." Exod. 20:9.

II. Who is to blame for unemployment?
  A. Capital?
  B. Labor?
  C. Satan?
  D. Past Wars?
  E. Scientific Advance of Industry?
  F. Shifting of Industries?

III. Work is necessary for self-preservation.
  A. Man must toil to get food, clothing, and shelter
  B. Only a very small percent of the population inherits great wealth. Even these vast fortunes were created by someone

IV. Labor leaders of America and their programs.
  A. John L. Lewis leads the industrial union group
  B. Wiliam Green heads the American Federation of Labor, a craft union body
  C. Other labor leaders

V. What attitude should the Mennonite Church take in the labor struggle?
  A. Should it steer clear of all labor controversy?
  B. Should Mennonites accept relief, allotments, etc.?
  C. Should the Church take care of its own needs?

Aug. 31. Avoid profanity. Matt. 5:33-37.
Sept. 1. Act kindly. Gen. 45:1-8.
Sept. 2. Be friendly to all. Job. 29:7-16.
Sept. 3. Be a good example. 1 Tim. 4:12-16.
Sept. 4. Topic—Improving the standards of my crowd. 1 Cor. 4:14-21.

JUNIOR CORNER

Another Beginning

For many of us it is so. Vacation months are over We are making plans for a new beginning. We long to do better than we have in the past. We want to have more of the Juniors enroll. We want to give them more. We want to show to them the wonderful words of life. We want to be more earnest in our preparation. We want to be used of the Spirit in a more powerful way. We want to see light break through darkness; faces light up with the glory of the Wondrous One, and hearts nearing the Saviour.

> "O Master, let me walk with Thee
> In lowly paths of service free;
> Tell me Thy secret; help me bear
> The strain of toil, the fret of care.
> Help me the slow of heart to move
> By some clear, winning word of love;
> Teach me the wayward feet to stay,
> And guide them in the homeward way."

Registration for 1938-1939 Term

Shall we take time for it on the first Sunday night meeting? Can it be done some other time? Why not have a social in your church basement? By card or a little note passed out through the Sunday school, addressed to each one personally, invite every Junior and allow them to bring their friends. The general outline of this social could be:

1. Words of welcome
2. A series of games
3. Refreshments
4. Quiet hour. For this you could seat the Juniors in a circle in the middle of which you could put down large, bright cut out letters spelling the word JUNIOR. Behind each letter there could be a candle, the light of which would keep the youngsters eyes at attention on the thought "JUNIOR." Other lights could be put out. Singing of a few songs could follow, then prayer. Now could come the announcement of the "beginning again." Tell them the aim of the Junior Endeavor, make them want to enroll. Slips of paper could now be passed out plus pencils. Ask the group to put down their name, address, standing in school, and telephone. Pause until each one has done this. Then approach them by saying there are always choices to make, we lose or we gain by the choice we make. Tell them we shall choose again tonight. Bring two baskets, set one into the light near the word JUNIOR; the other away from the light. Now those that want to enroll for the Endeavor work to drop their slip into the JUNIOR basket, the others to put theirs into the second basket. This would be the registration. Sing a closing song holding hands and dismiss the group with prayer.

Thoughts on the Program Material

The plan is: to walk with God through His Word. How that walk shall be, let us ask God to reveal step by step. There shall also be woven into the year's work that which shall interest the Junior in our conference enterprises: missions, institutions, publications. Our Mennonite history and faith shall also have a place in the year's study plan. (Please be free to send your suggestions for the year's work.)

> "Walking with God! O fellowship sweet;
> Walking with Him, in Him be complete.
> Walking with Him, whom the world cannot know,
> O it is sweet through life thus to go."

Program Suggestions for September 1938

General outline: (Lessons out of Genesis)

Sept. 4: "God blessed the seventh day." Gen. 2:3.
Sept. 11: "Where art thou?" Gen. 3:9.
Sept. 18: "Noah walked with God." Gen. 6:9.
Sept. 25: "If thou wilt take the left hand, then I will go to the right." Gen. 13:9.

Verse for the month: Psalm 51:10

Song for the month: "Whiter than Snow," vs. 1, 2, 4

Suggestions for September 4, 1938

On this beginning night, let there be a heart song service in which songs suggested by the group are sung. Then could follow:

1. Prayer by leader
2. Scripture reading: Psalm 1 read responsively
3. Song in unison: "Safely through Another Week," verses 1, 3
4. Study period. Aim: to teach the holiness of the Sabbath
   a. Introductory remarks by leader
   b. God's Gift of the Sabbath: Let a junior tell the story of Gen. 1:1 to 2:3
   c. God's command concerning the Sabbath: read by a junior. Ex. 20:8-11
   d. What may we do on the Sabbath? Discussion by leader. After the group's contribution to the discussion let them turn to Isa. 58:13 and 14. Study these verses through with them
   e. Special music supplementing the theme
   f. What can the Sabbath do for us? Let the chairman ask this question of the group allowing a few minutes for answers
   g. How others felt about the Sabbath: You could use your miniature church. (They can be ordered from David C. Cook Publ. House or made from card board and covered with brick effect paper.) Write verses pertaining to the love of the Sanctuary or the Sabbath on narrow stripes of paper. Paste these one to the other and roll. Place roll into the "church" and let the first strip appear in the door. The chairman choses whomever he wishes. This one steps up and begins to pull on the roll. When he has the beginning of his verse, he tears it from the roll, reads the verse, and then chooses the next puller and reader from the group. This is continued until the roll is finished.
   h. My prayer of repentance: by leader, leading the group to feel the need of asking forgiveness and the longing to keep a holier Sabbath. After this prayer, let all in unison pray Psalm 51:10
   i. Sing in unison: "Lord Jesus I long to be perfectly Whole"

THE BRIDGE OF SALVATION

Its span is unmeasurable—reaching from earth to glory, from miry clay to the solid rick.

Its width is wide enough for All—whosoever will may come.

Its two mighty towers are the death and resurrection of our Lord Jesus Christ.

Its cost was tremendous. It cannot be estimated. It cost the life of God's only begotten Son. John 3:16.

Entered at the cross through faith. The way of the cross leads home.

It links the sinner with the Saviour.

It will take you safely over the waters of judgment and is a real service to life's highway travelers. Other so-called bridges such as morality, good works, etc. are too short to span the gulf.

Should not we as Christians be proud of the Matchless Bridge of Salvation and point others to it.

If Jesus Were Here Today!

We see Jesus, explain His teachings and interpret His attitudes through our own eyes and minds colored by prejudices and preconceived notions. In fact much of our Bible reading and study are on this basis, we come to the Bible to find there some statement to confirm our ideas instead of coming with an open mind to discover the true message of God through His Word. A consideration of what Jesus would do if He were here today may reflect what we would desire Him to do, or it may be an honest and sincere endeavor to discover the attitudes of Jesus toward modern life.

If He were here today what would He think of me—of you? If He were our bosom companion for the entire day, all of our waking hours, what would be His appraisal of us? Would He excuse us for certain acts which we pass by lightly as our peculiarities, but which hinder our usefulness and influence with others? Is there not a probability that He would check us in the matters of our diversions, the books or articles we might read, the conversation in which we might engage, the easy manner in which we speak of others frequently to their hurt, the lightness and superficiality of our thinking, and the carelessness of our devotional practices?

Were Jesus to visit our homes would He be comfortable in the atmosphere He found there? Would His presence change the trend of the family conversation? Would it make some difference in the attitude of the parents toward each other, in the attitudes of parents toward their children and of the children toward each other? Were He to look over the books and magazines found in the home, the music on the piano or in the cabinet, would we blush and hasten to make excuses for the type of literature and music found there? Of course He would listen to the radio programs if He were to visit most homes—how could He keep from it for all visitors are at times compelled to talk loudly while some member of the family listens to his favorite radio programs—but would we be at ease in His presence while listening to the type of programs sometimes heard on our radios? Would He be impressed with the furnishings of our homes, the clothes found in the wardrobe, the pictures on the wall and the automobile in the garage, knowing as He does the pressure and worry existing to keep up the monthly payment contracts under which many of these are purchased? In short, would He be at home in our homes?

Jesus would visit our cities were He here today. Undoubtedly He would weep over them much as He wept over the city of Jerusalem. He would not pass by the filth and the squalor of the slums, the crime and corruption of the underworld with its tentacles reaching into the political and social uppercrust of the city. He would no doubt, visit our parks and play grounds. He might stop by the shores of some small stream or lake and speak to the multitudes gathered there as they seek recreation and rest from the grind of daily life. He would see our places of amusement but surely He would not join the many nominal church members who frequent them, rather would He not condemn their lewdness and gross sensuality, their foolishness and emptiness, and would He not deplore the waste of time and money represented by those attending? He would note the educational buildings of the city, no doubt, but would He not be much more interested in the subject matter taught there than in the architecture of the buildings? Surely He would not be pleased with the low moral standards advocated in some quarters of the educational world; with the infidelity and skepticism taught by a group, perhaps in the minority but yet having great influence upon the youth, and with the absence of definite and positive instruction in matters of the spirit and morals of man—things that matter more than intellectual training. He would see our hospitals, our philanthropic institutions, our efforts to relieve the poor and oppressed, the sick and suffering. No doubt He would commend these efforts and approve our charitable institutions.

He would not overlook the many places of business and the manufacturing plants of the city. He might stand beside the clerk in the store, the stenographer or bookkeeper at the office desk, the workman in the industrial plant, and note the endeavors, or lack of them, of these individuals—many of whom call themselves Christian—to give an honest day's toil for the wages contracted for. He would watch the leaders of business and industry as they battle with competition often unscrupulous, and note their reactions to these conditions, He would look over their pay rolls and note in too many cases where so-called Christian business men pay sweatshop or ridiculously low wages to employees just because they can, or because the wage scale meets the standards set by greedy and godless competitors. He would note the discrepancy in the salaries paid executives and dividends paid stockholders and the wages paid employees whose skill and labor produced the articles sold to bring the profits for the business. He would not overlook the struggle of the girl, perhaps some widow with a child or two to support, to make ends meet on the meager wages received, nor would He be indifferent to the temptations he sees these unfortunate women meet—temptations intensified by the greed and heartlessness of their so-called Christian employers. No one would assume that Jesus would add His blessing to our economic and social inequalities and the hatred and strife that exists between labor and capital of our modern industrial world.

Yes, He would visit our churches. But where would

He attend church were He to visit one of our large cities on Sunday, the day of worship? We may be quick to reply, He would come to our church. But would He be pleased with our worship, with the reverence we have for Him and His house, with the spirit of our service, the songs we sing and the spirit in which we sing them? Would He be as generous in His approval of the preacher's message as are some of his faithful admirers? Perhaps He would, but then again He might see underneath all acts of worship an insincerity and superficiality that would be disgusting to Him and which He would condemn. He might study the statistics of our churches, note the money paid by members of the congregation but not overlook the inequality in the amounts used for local purpose and those sent to help evangelize the world. He surely would not pass by the discrepancy existing in the support paid equally faithful laborers in His vineyard, some of which are barely able to keep their heads above the financial waves while others are paid liberal salaries. We believe He would say, "These ye should pay as much, but not to underpay these other faithful servants of mine." He might even detect some traces of political scheming or selfish ambition, some carnal envy and jealousy existing in certain quarters. Well, He would note everything about the church, some things He would commend and others condemn.

There is no limit to what we might imagine as we think along these lines. But the stern fact faces us, Jesus is here! He does not walk among us in visible form, but He is with us in His divine presence just as consciously as if we could see Him. He sees all we may imagine He would see, in our personal lives and conduct, in our city life, our industrial and social life, in the church world. Would the personal, visible presence of Jesus make any difference in the way we act and live each day? If so, are we truly Christian? Are we actually His followers?—Herald of Holiness.

How It Feels To Be A Jew

*By Al Segal

Sometimes I wish I were a Gentile. To be sure, you have your troubles, too. You are worried about your children, and wonder fearfully at tomorrow, and suffer unemployment and tread timorously on an insecure world. All this is the pain of Jews as well.

Yet you have only your own pain as individuals to suffer. Tomorrow morning you will not be searching the newspapers anxiously (as Jews do): "What are they saying about us today? What new reproaches are being heaped on us this morning? What new outrages?

I dislike even hypothetically to put any people in the unhappy place of Jews! But, in order that you may understand Jews, let us imagine that some hideous fate has done to Gentiles as Jews have been done by for a long time.

This has made you almost psychopathic about yourself—an inward—looking, brooding man to whom even the well-disposed neighbor may look suspect. You should like to be friendly with Neighbor Smith but yesterday, as he passed by, there was something in his eye that suggested he might be anti-Gentile.

You say to yourself, "I've become a frightened little man afraid of everything and everybody. I ought to snap out of it." But, then only day before yesterday, your boy who is just out of college, applied for a job in a big industry and was turned away because he was a Gentile.

The boy had graduated cum laude in chemistry. When he applied for the job he was given a blank in which, among other things, he was required to state his religion. On the prescribed line he had written the title of one of the religions of the Gentiles to which you belong.

The employment manager, a kindly man, indeed, said, "I may as well tell you that we don't employ Gentiles here."

"But," the boy protested, "what has that to do with it? Isn't it sufficient that I am a chemist? Do the chemical elements know the difference? Do they react differently in the hands of non-Gentiles?"

"I'm sorry, sir," the employment manager answered. "But our policy is against employing Gentiles."

"But I was graduated cum laude . . . I made Phi Beta Kappa in my junior year . . . I . . . "

"Well, it's not my rule, it's the company's."

Yesterday your eyes chanced upon a "For Rent" advertisement; it said plainly that Gentiles weren't wanted. You shrugged your shoulders at this. It didn't really matter that some people didn't care for your company; you yourself make social discriminations and don't take everybody into your house. What mattered much more was that a door of opportunity was slammed in your boy's face because he was a Gentile.

Yet you say to yourself, this "For Rent" advertisement doesn't discriminate against you on your own account. You could understand it if you yourself were an undesirable fellow, an unmannerly person; you yourself wouldn't care to live with any individual like that. You and your family are cultured people, contributors to everything that is fine in the city; your generosities know no bounds of faith or race.

They don't want you in the apartment house only because you are of the Gentiles. You ask yourself,

*Al Segal, the author of this article, is the well-known columnist of the Cincinnati Enquirer and a writer in the English-Jewish press.

"What's the matter with us Gentiles?" You are always asking yourself that, always looking inwardly in self-inquisition.

You recall that there are, indeed, some terrible Gentiles, the penitentiaries are full of them and Dillinger was one of us, to say nothing of Baby Face Floyd and all the rest of them. But why do they count against me and all the other Gentiles who live God-fearing and law-abiding lives?

I know, too, (you say) there are many vulgar Gentiles among us . . . people I wouldn't let into my house even by the back door. But why should they count against my rights as a human being and against the welfare of my children?

Yet from this pain you have derived a certain pride and a poignant awareness of responsibility. Oh, you tell yourself, since every Gentile is judged by the conduct of other Gentiles I owe it to my people so to guard my behavior that no act of mine shall reflect upon them. You watch your every step, lest your least misstep be charged against your people; you suffer pain to read of a Gentile gone wrong because you know it will be said of him, Yes, that's the Gentiles for you.

This morning, as every morning, you ran down to the porch in your pajamas for your favorite newspaper. Almost every morning lately something hideous against Gentiles has been printed; somebody in high authority in Germany has been saying something against Gentiles.

One day it's "Gentiles are a scourge" and another day, "Gentiles are our sorrow," or "Gentiles must be exterminated." This morning it was "Gentiles are in league to undermine the social order" . . . "The mere presence of Gentiles provokes us" . . .

You feel horribly troubled. Not that you are any the less sure of the merits of your people but you wonder fearfully what these falsehoods will do with the minds of the ignorant.

You know how most worthy your people have been in the world, what contributions they have given. Your philosophers and teachers and preachers; your poets and singers and painters; your scientists and actors and scholars; your prophets and philanthropists; your Carrols and Comptons, your Edisons and Santayanas, your Cadmans, Holmses and Eliots, your Whitmans, Darrows and St. Gaudens, your Lincolns, Walter Reeds and Garrisons.

You are aware, too, of the millions of fine but less distinguished spirits among you. Their single aspiration is to lead their children in the ways they should go; they count it success enough that their children grow up to be righteous; they say, Yes, good children are everything and nothing else matters much.

Because you know all this, the slanders in this morning's newspaper hurt you the more. You boarded the street car to your work. Everybody in the car had a newspaper and you were sure everybody was reading the piece about your people . . . "Gentiles In League to Undermine Social Order. . . . "

What were they thinking as they read this? What poison was infecting the mind of this youth who sat beside you. He was certainly reading it, as you could see when you followed his eyes to the last column on the right. You should like to speak to him . . . . "Young man, you really don't believe that, do you? Will you let me tell you the truth about the Gentiles? Most of them are people like you and your parents. . . . "

Your diffidence restrained you. You raised your head proudly above the accusing headlines. If some of these eyes were lifted from the newspapers to turn with reproach against you they must see that you are not a scourged culprit but a righteous man who takes with dignity the lash that falls upon him unjustly.

I have written this in response to a letter from E. I. S. of Brooklyn who writes in part: "It seems to me that the case of the Jews has not been presented properly to the non-Jews. Why don't you try?"

Well, I've tried.

Sentenced to Sermons

A Sunday motorist drove his car at fifty miles an hour across Gandy Bridge, the six-mile span between St. Petersburg and Tampa. That was bad, for St. Petersburg (The City of Churches) is quiet on Sunday, and there are police who remember the Sabbath and keep it quiet. A policeman pulled our speeder to the curb; the judge next morning sentenced him to go to church the next thirteen Sunday mornings, to tell the judge what the sermon was about the next thirteen Monday mornings.

There's nothing novel about the sentence; it has been used before by judges loath to send a petty offender to jail. If that is all the sentence is for in this case, we're for it; any church is better than jail. But somehow we doubt the legality of it; with our whole heart we doubt the wisdom of it. The poor "criminal," crouching in his pew under the stares of a congregation that knows why he's there, isn't in any position to get much out of the sermon. No man condemned to church ever got much out of it. Religion isn't something to be choked down your throat; it is something that enters by way of the open door of the heart.

Some of us took Latin in High School because we had to; we hated it. No attempt was made to make it likable; it was "required," and that was that. We took some other courses and loved them, for they were taught by teachers in love with what they taught. So it was with our early religion. Some of us were forced into Sunday school under teachers who read their lesson as they hurried to the church; we played hookey and spent our collection money for chewing gum. But when we got into the hands of teachers who spent hours on the lesson Saturday night, and who played ball with us on Friday night—ah, then we loved it!

So it is and so it must be with this Speeding Generation. We'll never get them into church by saying, "You've got to go." We'll never make them like a sermon by saying, "You've got to listen." We may have to lead children through their early years, before they are old enough to know what it's all about. But after that, we have to preach and teach so well that men will want to come. It is noticeable to some of us that preachers today who have something to say and who know how to say it are saying it to packed pews.

Policemen's clubs will never change men's hearts, or remold the face of the world. Christ is enough for that, without compulsion; enough, provided He is presented intelligently, and backed with an example.—Christian Herald.

The cure for all the ills and wrongs, the cares, the sorrows, and the crimes of humanity, all lie in that one word "love." It is the divine vitality that everywhere produces and restores life. To each and every one of us, it gives the power of working miracles if we will.—Mrs. L. M. Child.

Wouldn't this world be better
If the folks we meet would say,
I know something good about you,
And then treat us just that way.

Wouldn't it be fine and dandy,
If each hand clasp warm and true,
Carried with it this assurance,
I know something good about you.

Wouldn't life be lots more happy,
If the good that's in us all
Were the only thing about us
The folks bothered to recall.

Wouldn't life be lots more happy,
If we praised the good we see,
For there's such a lot of goodness
In the worst of you and me.

Wouldn't it be nice to practice
That way of thinking too,
I know something good about you
You know something good about me.

In Memoriam

BABETTE SCHMUTZ was born on July 20, 1849 in Rappanau, Baden, Germany, the youngest of nine children of Abraham and Christina Moser Schmutz.

Her early years were spent in her native country and she received her education in the Interdenominational Parochial school of the village. Being of a Mennonite family she was baptised and became a member of that faith at the age of 15 years. Later she was employed in the home of the village druggist.

At the age of 20 years with her brother she emigrated to the United States and went to live with a sister in Bluffton, Ohio. Here she worked for some 3 or 4 years but not in the best health. Thinking she might regain it she returned to her home in Germany where she remained for about 13 years or until she was about 37 years of age.

Feeling sufficiently recovered now and conditions being such that she could again leave home she returned to America and found immediate employment in New York City. Here she remained for about six months and then proceeded to her destination which was to be with relatives among the Mennonite colony located in and around Halstead, Harvey County, Kansas.

Here she found ample opportunity for her services being especially fond of taking care of children and later in life of aged people, always willing and ready to serve others.

In the fall of 1891 she came to work in the David von Riesen family in Halstead and except for intervals of a few years each she has had her home here.

In 1899 she went to Marysville, to live with them, to which city the family had moved a year or so previous. At intervals she was with others in California, Oklahoma, Nebraska and Kansas, but since 1922 had been to the time of her death almost constantly at home in Marysville.

She was a kindly, affectionate and devoted servant and friend, and was always considered as one of the family. Her life she lived for others and in her passing she leaves besides the immediate von Riesen family, friends here and wherever she has been, who will ever cherish fond memories of her loving care and concern about their welfare and the experiences they had together.

She was active almost up to the time of her death, seldom missing a Sunday morning service at the Evangelical church, but her final illness which began about Thanksgiving time last year she seemed to realize was her last and her hope was that it might be shortened. Recently she remarked that she hoped her 89 birthday, if she reached it, would be the day of her earthly departure which wish her Lord granted unto her.

—ANNOUNCEMENT — The Garden Township church near Moundridge, Kansas, expects to observe its Golden Jubilee (fiftieth Anniversary) on the first Sunday in September.

—The funeral services for Rev. S. M. Musselman who passed away suddenly on Friday evening July 29th were held in his late home in Hillsboro, Kansas, and in the Johannesthal Church of which he was the beloved pastor, on Tuesday afternoon, August 2nd. The services were in charge of Rev. A. S. Bechtel of Hanston, Kansas, who was an almost life-long acquaintance and friend and also a relative of Brother Musselman. Those assisting in the services in the home, the Church and the burial were Rev. J. A. Ewert, Rev. A. E. Kreider, Rev. Vogt, pastor of the M. B. Church and Rev. Miller, pastor of the Evangelical Church with both of whom Brother Musselman had been in intimate fellowship. The Choir and Male Quartet of the Church rendered very fitting musical numbers in the Church and at the grave. Many beautiful floral pieces spoke eloquently of the high esteem in which the departed is held. The Wayland, Iowa, Pretty Prairie and Wichita congregations were well represented in the large attendance.

—St. John Mennonite Church.—Miss Minnie Hilty, who with her sister has labored many years in China, was given a very hearty welcome by the congregation. She asks for our earnest prayers which are greatly needed at the present time.—Miss Judith Lehman, a worker among the Jews in Chicago, was the guest speaker at the young people's meeting.

—Through an unintentional oversight, the name of Rev. J. J. Balzer was omitted as being the author of the splendid sermon sketches that have been published in the last two issues of the Mennonite. We are very grateful to Bro. Balzer for his excellent contributions and are sorry the omission was made.

—Among the preachers of the New York area there is a movement to forgo the enjoyment of a vacation in 1939 in order to more properly minister to the great throngs who will visit that state during the World's Fair. The Lutheran Companion points to a special reason for evangelizing work about New York during the season of the Fair: "Indications are that Christianity will not be adequately, nor altogether fairly, presented at the 1939 World's Fair. There will be a religious building in the form of a modernized Gothic tower which Fair officials speak of as a "temple of religious freedom." An official news release of New York World's Fair, Inc., says concerning it: 'Neither the plan, structure, nor the ground it occupies is to be consecrated nor are formal religious services of any denomination to be held in the temple.' No religious exhibits will be permitted on the Fair grounds."

—Grace Mennonite Church, Lansdale, Pa.—Rev. Olin Krehbiel and Mrs. Krehbiel and Mr. and Mrs. Russell A. Lantz enjoyed a trip to New York City and while there visited the Queen Mary and Radio City.

—Chinese Appeal for a Day of Prayer.—Christians in the homeland and in China are feeling in an increasing sense an urgency to pray for China. Ernest R. Yin, Minister of Finance for Hunan Province, and a prominent Chinese Christian, has issued an appeal for Christians in China and foreign lands to unite in definite prayer that God will soon bring to a close this terrible warfare. That prominent Christians in China are feeling this burden of prayer is a great cause for encouragement. In part Mr. Yin's letter reads: "I realize that we in China whether engaged in Government service or in any other pursuits, have grievously sinned against God. But I believe that if we humble ourselves and call upon the Lord, He will hear us and save us. Therefore I believe it will be pleasing to Him if we set apart a Day of Prayer. I suggest September 4, or even an earlier date for this purpose." We are sure Christian friends in North America will be glad to join in prayer with fellow-believers in China, on Sunday, September 4; and we trust that churches in many places will remember China especially in united prayer on that day.

—Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe, possible at present the most famous physician in the world, who from their birth has cared for the famous "quintuplets" of Canada, has complied to a request in the Bible Banner asking him to "talk on the Bible in the home." Here is a striking passage from his response: "Here in the northwoods I have lived for a full thirty years among a very religious people. They are truly religious. Their religion is not a coat they put on Sunday morning and take off Sunday night. It is a garment made out of the very threads of their daily lives. There are hundreds of homes here where the Bible is the only book in the house. Evn if I had somewhat outgrown and even forgotten my own home training, I could not have lived without gaining and keeping a vast respect for this great Book. If we who are now adults have lost some of our early love and regard for the Bible, it is our fault and not the fault of the Bible."

THINGS THAT CANNOT BE SHAKEN

Even the Alps, the American Rockies, the Himalayas will crumble and fall, when the final great cataclysm strikes the earth. "I will shake the heavens, and the earth, and the sea . . . and all nations; and the precious things of all nations shall come out" (Hag. 2:6). The day comes, when the earth shall pass away with great noise, but the Rock of Ages, Christ, shall never fall, never vanish. And, connected with it, are other unshakable, indestructible things. They are the hopes, the faiths, and the lives built on this Rock. Blessed the man, woman and child who builds on this Rock! "For other foundation can no man lay than that which is laid, which is Jesus Christ."

FORGET HIM?

Can any one who ever came into vital contact with Christ forget him? Never was there One so true, so loyal, so faithful! Never One loved as He loved, served as He served, and went about doing good as He did. He gave His life a ransom for the vilest, the most repulsive of sinners. He died for those who hated Him, despised Him, rejected and crucified Him. Can a redeemed soul ever forget His plaintive cry, as He suffered the agonies of the cross, "Father forgive them for they know not what they do." He lovingly died for the men who nailed Him to the tree and for him who thrust a sword into His side. He shed his blood for those who struck him in the face and pressed the crown of thorns upon His head. No one ever trod this earth for the good of others as he did. No one ever lived for others, died for others, rose for others, as he lived, and died, and rose. Best of all, He still lives in behalf and in the hearts of all who trust Him. What a wonderful Savior!

Jesus, the very thought of Thee,
With sweetness fills my breast
But sweeter far Thy face to see
And in Thy presence rest.

Nor voice can sing, nor heart can frame,
Nor can memory find
A sweeter sound than Thy blest name,
A Savior of mankind.

CITY MISSIONS GOOD ASSETS

All observing friends and supporters of missions must be rejoicing over the splendid showing made by our city mission work. It is to be seriously regretted that we as a General Conference and also as district conferences embarked in this type of home mission work rather late and, once started, we did not push it as we might have done. Many Mennonites, like other folks, develop an urge cityward, feeling that life there has more attractions, offers larger opportunities for advancement and greater educational facilities than the country. Teachers, clerks and office workers of various types, mechanics, household maids and others are drawn cityward, and to the city they move. Quite generally they go to centers where there is no Mennonite church and experience shows that the home church, as a rule, does not concern itself much about them. And, with a loyalty for the Mennonite faith which our people usually retain, numbers of these new city dwellers hesitate to join another denomination, and are apt to drift along without a church home for years, considerably to their spiritual hurt. This is probably more true of single people than of families which are apt to contact rather more easily with another church through their children as Sunday school pupils. Where they join other churches their sound religious background is likely to recommend and qualify them as leaders in the church of their adoption. It has been observed that in the city of McPherson, Kansas, Mennonites that have made it their home have become leaders or pillars in the churches of their adoption. Similar instances could be found elsewhere.

One almost swells with a sense of pride as one looks at several of our live, growing city missions. There is Altoona, Pa. with 95 church members, 115 enrolled in Sunday school, and 45 in the C. E. Societies; Mechanics Grove, Pa., 67 members, 75 in S. S. and 32 in C. E. Society; Smith Corner, Pa., 63 members, 74 in S. S. and 20 in C. E.; Chicago, 150 members, 134 in S. S.; Hutchinson, Kans., 112 members, 165 in S. S. and 47 plus 20 in C. E.; Wichita, Kans., 65 members and 70 in S. S.; Portland, Ore., 32 members, 90 in S. S. and 20 in C. E.; Los Angeles, Calif., 197 members, 441 in S. S. and 103 in C. E.; Lima, Ohio, 25 members and 62 in S. S.; Saskatoon, Sask., 105 members and (?) in S. S. (Figures in each case as nearly accurate as possible.

From the above data the conclusion is easily reached that city mission work pays in the number of souls brought together in the organization, the spiritual life fostered and nurtured, and the larger results known only to God. Our home mission boards will do well to have eyes single to the increase of such missions.

AMERICANS ADEPT FAULTFINDERS

We American people are adepts or, shall we say, experts in finding faults. While we have more murders, more kidnapping, more lynching, more racketeering, more divorces, more juvenile criminals, more nervous wrecks, and more such evil tendencies than any other nation, we are loudly criticizing Germany, for instance, and President Hitler for almost anything that they do. Our criticism of them has been so relentless, so constant and widespread, through the press, from the pulpit, the platform and in the classroom, until we as a people have apparently come to hate all that is going on in that country, together with the actors upon its stage. While, if we would honestly, conscientiously simmer things down to their quintessence and take a sincere, unprejudiced look at ourselves, we would find that we have in some respects been pulling the splinter out of our German neighbor's eye and have failed to detect the beam in our own eye. We have blamed Germany for allowing a dictator to rule it single handed, to be told by him how to vote. Now, if we have been reading our papers, we must have noticed how our own president is going around, telling the citizens of the states, how to vote: to mention only his most recent dictates against Senator George of Georgia, Senator Tydings of Maryland, and Representative O'Conner of New York. We were sure that Germany was wrong in suppressing communism. Now we find that our own country is honey-combed with communistic organizations and other un-American forces, and that we, too, are facing a housecleaning directed against such sinister forces and their influences. We have been pronouncing our anathema upon Germany for getting rid of the Jews, though her attempts were directed mostly against Jews who were reds. Now that the Christian nations of the world are seeking an asylum for persecuted Jews, and our country has a chance to show its colors by offering some of its still unoccupied lands for the purpose, we are steeped in silence. We have been shocked at the spread of paganism in the Fatherland, and fail to notice the increasing flood of atheism let lose by atheistic societies and some of our godless institutions of learning. Germany and its leaders have their faults. All real Christians wish that, in matters of religion, she might return to the status quo before the revolution. But our own America would do well to set right her many ills, before casting any more stones at Germany.

What College Shall I Attend?

This question has been revolving in the minds of thousands of young people during the spring and summer months. And it is a vital question, for on its decision may depend not only the temporal but also the eternal weal and woe of many a life. Two types of institutions are bidding for prospective students, those that may be said to have pagan leanings, that care little for the nurture and development of the inner man, and those holding that true education must definitely touch the spiritual as well as the intellectual, social and physical nature of man. The former type or class of schools include several hundred adequately if not lavishly endowed and superbly equipped, mostly large institutions of our land which, because of these advantages, exert a strong pull on students who are craving for material values. The latter type or class comprises some seven hundred struggling, generally inadequately endowed Christian colleges which are vitally concerned with the shaping of young lives after the pattern of Him who came to earth to bring new life and to make men truly happy.

In Freeman Junior College, Bluffton College, Bethel College, Goshen and Hesston College and Tabor College our Mennonite Young people have schools of the second type, and since they come from Mennonite homes and Christian surroundings the question, What Colleges they should attend, should hardly arise. There should be a hearty choice of one of our schools. Why?

1. Because they have been founded and maintained with great financial sacrifices and innumerable prayers, principally for Mennonite youth. This being true, our Colleges have a right to claim our young people as coming into their own.

2. Our Mennonite Colleges propagate our Mennonite traditions, doctrines and faith, hence they are the proper places to educate the young people the Mennonite Christian way. If we want loyal Mennonite leaders, teachers and even layman for our churches, our colleges are the training schools for them.

3. Our Colleges are Christian, their work is Christ centered, the atmosphere permeating their life is Christian; their teachers are Christian men and women, teaching Christian living by example, and taking a personal interest in each student. Thus they are the safest schools for our children. It is risky if for the sake of prestige, geographical convenience or financial inducements we let our young people attend some secular college or university, where they are apt to drift into worldliness and skepticism, with ultimate loss of their faith.

4. College young people are at a marriagable age, and we have any number of examples to prove that friendships formed in our schools between members of the different sexes or, to be more plain, matches made there result in happy marriages, because of the unanimity of minds upon the true values of life.

5. Mennonite parents who permit their children to attend other than Mennonite Colleges do not realize what troubles the church may be put to, nor the young people, what risks they are facing. They are depriving the church school of their contributions, prayers, interest, friendship and love of the young people, for four precious years, and perhaps for ever. And it should not be forgotten that a student's influence usually extends to another one who might have been won to attend our own college, and thus brought under its Christian influence and won for service in Christ.

We have people in our Mennonite constituency who find fault with our colleges, who are not willing to array the good found in them alongside the bad, to discover that the good characteristics outweigh the weak. Such people seem to feel that their children are too good to attend one of our Mennonite colleges and that harm might come to them when exposed to its influence. Would it not be the fair and proper thing for such parents, at least to try our own schools, to ascertain if their opposition and their fears are actually justified? And perhaps by so doing their children could work as a leaven among the students and thus become the means of helping to improve our schools.

Our colleges are not perfect, neither are our churches nor even the best of our families. Constructive criticism is always welcomed by its leaders. But every true Mennonite has the duty to support them and to help make them what we think they ought to be. Our colleges have many needs, but above every other need is the morale that comes from knowing that they are backed by a constituency that believes in them and their work, and that fervently prays for their success as the builders of Christian lives in our youth.

Reserving a report of the work on Foreign Missions for a special article later on, because of its size, we shall here say a few words about the doings of two committees whose reports had been given in connection with that of the Ex. Committee, and then procede with Home Missions.

The Church Unity Committee reported that they had released feelers to the Central Mennonite Conference looking toward a possible union, both through correspondence and through personal contact of the Committee's secretary, Rev. L. Hostetler, with representatives of the Central Conference. These expressed interest in closer cooperation with our Conference and believed an ultimate unity possible. But later, through a formal letter to our Unity Committee, they reported that "the general feeling was that with some conditions that now exist in some of our church communities, the time is not propitious for a definite procedure toward a union . . . as we could hardly move as a unit." However, they now also have a Unity Committee for the purpose of keeping the matter before them. The foregoing was the extent of work done by our committee. The brethren elected on this committee are: Benj. Ewert, Arnold Funk, S. K. Mosiman, J. J. Dick, John Regier (Canada), J. E. Kaufman.

In its report the Placement Committee pointed out the difficulties encountered by it in its attempt to really do any work, "due to the unlimited variation of demands on the part of congregations and of the preparation on the part of candidates," also on the matter of finances and salary. The committee tried to do some constructive work by correspondence, discussing the following problems: (1) Should our Conference work toward a standard of formal training for our ministers? (2) Should we work toward having young candidates pass an examination on doctrine and faith. (3) Should a call be for one year, 3 years, indefinite, or life? (4) Should the Placement Committee or the Conference attempt to suggest seminaries to attend? (5) Should our committee simply serve "on call" and never offer its services? (6) Should there be a retiring age for ministers? (7) Who should be ordained? In answer to this last question the committee favored ordaining a man only upon the recommendation of a Mennonite Church, and only after the man has rendered service within the denomination for a sufficient length of time to prove himself worthy.

The Committees recommendations: (1) "To advise congregations and ministers contemplating making a change, to give each other at least three months' prior notice," and (2) "To advise ministers who accept a call to a church of which they are not a member, to join such church," were accepted, as far as we can recall. On the question: "Would it be wise to advise district conferences to offer certificates to ministers of their churches in good standing, etc." the conference decided to place this matter in the hands of the Ex. Committee.

The brethren chosen on this committee are: P. E. Whitmer, P. K. Regier, N. W. Bahnman and J. H. Enns (Canada), Freeman Swartz and J. M. Frantz.

The report of the Board of Home Missions was presented by A. J. Neuenschwander in the place of its secretary, W. H. Gottshall, who has recently gone through a serious siege of sickness, after 42 years of valuable service on the Board, mostly as chairman. The activities in the Home Mission field showed encouraging progress, particularly in the growth of city missions. (Read article on this subject elsewhere in this paper.) At Altoona, Pa., Rev. L. H. Glass, former superintendent passed away and Mrs. Edith Stiffler resigned. Since Sept. 1, 1937, Rev. and Mrs. Emerson F. Slotterback are in charge of the work, with very satisfactory results.—Miss Catherine Niswander, for a number of years our worker in Portland, Oregon, has been transferred to Philadelphia to assist our churches there by conducting children's meetings, Vacation Bible schools, and much visitation work.—The First Church at Chicago, under the leadership of Rev. A. H. Leaman for the last three years, (a brother who came to us from the Old Mennonite branch) has become almost a self-supporting church.—The First Church at Hutchinson, Kansas, on March 1, 1936 was granted its independence and continues in a healthy growth, with Clyde Dirks as its pastor. During the past year, however, the Home Mission Board found occasion to give some help to this church. At Portland, Oregon, the so-called Alberta Community (Mission) Church has been greatly helped by the appointment of Rev. and Mrs. Edmund Miller as new workers, in Sept. 1937. In June last, the Board was able to buy the church building, rented until then, for $650.00. With some remodeling and the addition of a basement, the group will be well equipped to do good work.

The home mission work in Canada is very extensive among the widely scattered groups of our people. The Board does what it can, but could do much more if it had the funds. On the average twenty ministers are engaged in itinerant work there, supported in part by the Board. At Swift Current and Wymark it was possible to buy churches, abandoned by the Old Colony people, at very acceptable prices. These were moved to more centrally located places and now serve growing congregations. At Saskatoon, Sask. where a congregation had worshipped in a school house for years, the Board was authorized to erect a suitable church building. This was recently done. The church is favorably located in the down-town section of the city, near the police and fire department buildings. It is an imposing edifice, stuccoed without, with seating capacity of 300 or more, and a large, commodious basement. Here the conference met for a reception and for pre-enrollment. Rev. J. J. Thiessen, the pastor, is a mighty man of God, and we may expect some good results from this church. Work was started in Vancouver, British Columbia in 1935, with Rev. J. H. Janzen in charge. To bring the widely scattered Mennonites together was very difficult, however the results of the worker's efforts were encouraging. Unfortunately he with his family had to leave and return to Ontario. As a result of fervent prayers for an enlarged mission there, an offer came from the United Church of Canada, of an equipped church with parsonage for $3000.00. The property was acquired. The parsonage finds splendid use as a Girl's Home, and under the leadership of Rev. and Mrs. Jacob B. Wiens the work is progressing nicely. The location of the property is 6460 S. George Street. Besides the Girl's Homes at Vancouver and Saskatoon, there is the first and largest in Winnipeg, Manitoba, in charge of Lena Epp as matron, with Rev. J. H. Enns as spiritual helper. Location 412 Bannatyne Ave.

With his ever active and fertile pen, Rev. J. H. Janzen is publishing, "Briefe an meine Volk," short sermons intended principally for those of our brethren in Canada who are rather isolated. Realizing the importance of such help, the Home Mission Board is supporting this work, too, in a small way.

Rev. David Toews was reelected on this Board, and Rev. J. J. Plenert, Philadelphia chosen as a new member, in the place of Rev. Gotshall who had resigned. A nice letter of appreciation of his long and faithful service on the Home Mission Board was sent to the good brother by the Conference.

FOREIGN MISSIONS

P. H. Richert, Sec.

THROUGH FIRE

After the clash of arms at Taming the city was occupied by Japanese soldiers. The third day folks began to readjust themselves, for homes had been broken up and families scattered. Thousands from the city had fled. Now some tried to get back to their homes and business. In the south suburb were many Mohammedans whose relatives and business or homes were in the city. They knew not if their own were dead or alive, so they were anxious and dismayed.

In a village over a mile from Taming there lives one of our church members, a carpenter, Mr. Chang. He is a live-wire Christian, full of faith and confidence in the power of the Lord. On the second day after the fall of Taming he came over to the south suburb compound and spoke to the gate-man Mr. Li Kan Ting, suggesting that if Mr. Li wanted to go along they would go into the city and see how the rest of the Christians there were faring, and if the Mission property had been damaged. Mr. Li agreed to go along. They went through the alley of the southsuburb and ran right into a group of Japanese soldiers who surrounded them with bayonets. Our two men pointed out the arm bands they were wearing and that they belonged to Christ and were churchmembers, thereupon they were let pass on. They met three outposts in similar manner. They came to the bridge near the city. There were then standing several Mohammadens who had been refused entrance to the city. These said to our two Christian men, "No use for you to try to enter the citygates." Then one of them sneered, "Our god could not help us and your god certainly cannot help you." Another one said, "Let us wait and see if their god can help them."

On reaching the city gates, our men were again examined and, when it was found that they were Christians, the soldiers bid them pass on into the city. They found that none of our Christians had been injured in the least nor any serious damage done to the property.

When they returned from the city they again met these Mohammedans who were astounded and then some of them proclaimed, "It has now become clear to us that our god is of little use to us. Truly Christ is the greater and your God is a living God of power." The reports of how the Christians have been protected in so many ways has amazed the Mohammedans tremendously. The result is that an increasing number of former opponents or open enemies to the gospel and the mission are willing to listen to the gospel. For the last six months over 60 have been in regular church attendance. About fifty attended our one-month instruction class this spring. Praise God for these new open doors!

In the old Taming County seat a serious problem arose because of some difficulty, when four soldiers came to that village. The village folk would not give in to the demands of the soldiers and in the resulting tussel three of the soldiers were killed and a fourth one was left for dead. After gaining consciousness, though his face was badly slashed up, he ran off into the city to report to his superiors. Revenge came swiftly within an hour. Every person fled the village, for to remain was to invite death. They squeezed through gates and scrambled over walls. In the pellmell rush hardly any clothing or other valuables were taken along—life was at stake. Thus the raging soldiers on entering the village found no one at home. In vengence they destroyed much property and then set fire to all houses and whatsoever would burn.

In this village there lived one of our Christian families named P'eng. These naturally also feared for their safety and escaped with the rest. Then from over the city-wall the neighbors saw how fire was set to the P'eng home. An arm full of burning straw was thrown into the main house and the roof which was of kaffircorn stalk construction was set on fire, as also a pile of fuel in the yard was ablaze. But, strange enough, all of these fires went out without human interference. Where the roof had been set on fire only a small hole burnt out and then the fire died. Not another building in the vicinity remained, every one burnt down, including the one adjoining the P'eng home on the north and the one on the west with only a few feet of space between these houses. My! how every one was surprised to find the P'eng home standing intact with every thing inside just as it had been left by them. All the neighbors conceded here a miracle had been wrought by God. This caused a flood of comments and praise by hundreds of non-Christian neighbors.

A few weeks ago Lung Wang Miao was again shelled early in the morning. Several shells hit the adjoining neighbor building which crashed down in ruins. That was a two story building. The buildings on the west all were ruined and those on the south were shattered and again those on the fourth side were badly ruined, with several people killed and wounded all around, but none of the Christians, though the yard of the Mission place was full of flying debri.

Incident after incident of like nature can be related and as one hears them it begins to grow on one, how miraculously the Lord has shown himself in these things; in saving the lives, and in many cases even property, of Christians. Is it all co-incidence? Christian and non-Christian Chinese alike do not believe so. They believe it is God's protecting hand over His own.

We praise the Lord and know God still keeps watch over His own!—W. C. Voth, Taming Hopei, July 4, 1938.

The Acid Test

G. A. Linscheid

Once there was a boy walking along the seashore. He had a holiday and was dressed in his best clothes. Looking down a steep cliff, to where the waves were dashing against the rocks on the shore, he saw, what appeared to him, large clumps of gold. He at once began to climb down to get the gold. In doing so he ruined his good clothes, for it was a hard place to get to. But he did not care for his clothes, because he felt that he would soon have much gold and then he could buy other good clothes. After he had gotten as much of this gold as he could carry up the cliffs with him, he went to a man who tested gold to see how pure it was. Some gold is finer than other gold and the way they test gold, to know whether it is pure or not, is to put it into an acid. This acid looks like water but it is very sharp and will eat up anything that is put into it, only pure gold it does not eat. There are different things to know whether they are pure or not. That is called the acid test, and it means a test that is absolutely true and faithful.

Well, this boy took a small piece of the gold he had found to a man who could make such a test, for he wanted to know how pure this gold was which he had found. When he showed the small piece of gold to this man, he looked at it and then laughed and said to the boy: "Do you know, this is what they call fool's gold." He took the small piece, of what the boy thought was gold, and put it into the acid with which they test gold, and the boy watched his piece of gold disappear in the acid—it had looked like gold but there was no gold in it at all, the acid test had proven that. Now the boy was very much disappointed, for not only had his gold proven to be fool's gold, he had even ruined his good clothes in getting what he thought was very valuable, and what he thought would make him very happy. There is much such "fool's gold" in this world and very many are deceived by it. Wealth, honor, power and pleasure are some of the things which look very desirable to us and we think they will make us happy, but when we try them by the acid test of the Word of God we find that they, too, disappear like that piece of "fool's gold" did in the acid test. The Word of God is such an acid test. By it we can test our own selves, and by it we must test any teachings which may be brought to us, and about which we are not sure, as to whether they are from God or not.

One time there was a great festival in Jerusalem, many people had gathered there and they were looking for Jesus to come to that festival, too, and while they were waiting for Him to come there was much murmuring among them, for some said that Jesus was a good man, and what He taught was from God, while others said that He was deceiving the people and that God had not sent Him. In fact those who said Jesus was a deceiver had decided to put Jesus to death as soon as they could get hold of Him. Because feeling was so strong about Jesus no one dared to speak openly about Him, they just murmured among themselves about Him for fear the rulers would hear what they said and would punish them for it. Then all at once Jesus came and He went right into the temple and spoke before all the people, and among other things which He said He gave them an acid test by which they could tell whether His doctrine (teaching) was from God or not. He said to them: "If any man will (wants to) do (practice) his will, he shall know of the doctrine (teaching), whether it be of God, or whether I speak of myself." John 7:17. So the real test is whether we are really anxious to do God's will or not, and if we want to do God's will we must know His will, and He had revealed His will to us in His Word. Jesus says: "Search the Scriptures; for in them ye think ye have eternal life: and they are they which testify of me." John 5:39.—The Messenger.

ELI: RESPONSIBILITY FOR OTHERS

1 Samuel 3:11-14; 4:12-18

Eli had served as high priest for many years in the tabernacle at Shiloh. He was old now and Samuel had become his assistant. Things were not going well in Israel. "There was no frequent vision" (3:1). Sin was in high places and it lay at Eli's door. He had two sons who dishonored his good name by their evil ways and "he restrained them not." He had been too indulgent and let them do as they pleased. They were wicked, drunken and licentious. God had warned him but he seemed unable to govern his own house.

Jehovah Announces Judgment against Eli's House vs. 11-14

Jehovah evidently spoke to Samuel in actual words (v12) and the event referred to was the capture of the Ark of the Covenant by the Philistines (4:1-11). Judgment will also be passed upon Eli and his house (v12). He had been warned and God's word stands fast no matter how severe. It was literally fulfilled. God's judgments are as sure as His promises. He finishes what He begins. Eternal punishment is as certain as eternal life.

It was Samuel's duty to give God's message to Eli (v13). His sons could not take the father's place as high priest. Eli had failed as a father in doing little to restrain his evil-minded sons. God laid their sins at the father's door. He had seemingly neglected their training in early youth and later was powerless to change their erring ways. The parent's chief work must be done in the early years of childhood. The sons of Eli were priests, serving in the tabernacle and their sins were endangering the whole divine worship. They used the holy, priestly office for unholy purposes. God states clearly (v14) that this gross sinfulness can not be purged out with sin offerings and sacrifice. The penalty was severe for both Eli and his sons who had forfeited all right to succeed him. God must use drastic means at times to bring people back to faith in Him and loyalty to the Gospel.

Jehovah Executes His Judgment vs. 12-18

The Philistines attacked Israel with a large army near Ebenezer and 4,000 of the host of Israel were slain. The leaders of Israel sent to Shiloh for the Ark of the Covenant of the Lord, hoping it would save them from their enemies. The two sons of Eli had charge of it as it was brought into the camp of the Israelites. They now confidently resumed the battle with a great shout and Israel was defeated (vs10,11) with great slaughter, the two sons of Eli were slain and the Ark was taken by the Philistines.

Eli, deeply concerned, heart trembling for the Ark, sat watching and waiting for news (v13) as the runner came into the city. The loss of the Ark was the greatest that could have befallen Israel. As Eli's, so our hearts may well tremble for ourselves when we are disloyal to God and compromise with sin.

Eli inquired as to the outcome of the battle (v16) but was not prepared for the shock of the loss of the Ark (v18). His life came to a sad end—his sons dead, Israel defeated—but the news of the capture of the Ark caused his spirit to fail, it broke his heart, he fell over and broke his neck. We must respect his intense and reverent love for the symbol of God's presence with His people.

Golden Text Prov. 22:6, Clark's translation: "Initiate the child at the opening of his path." Most parents neglect the training of their children until it is too late to begin effectively. Too many parents obey their children, rather than teach the children to obey the parents.

Neglect Not the Gift

Paper given at the Western District Minister's Conference by J. E. Kaufman

We have heard a discussion on the call, the preparation and the message of the Minister. "Neglect not the Gift," is the topic assigned me by the program committee. Someone has said that, from the day we decide to enter the ministry, there are at least three tests hat confront us. If we pass all three, we are a useful man. If we pass but two we are just ordinary pastors, a little less than a success, a little more than a failure. If we pass but one, we are one of the most pitiable things in life, a man in the pulpit who means nothing to the ministry.

The first test that we face is, can we secure a pastorate. This simply involves the ability to get someone to give us a chance to labor on the theory that we can pastor a flock. The second test is a little more difficult, namely, can we make a church grow? Those who can pass it are looked upon as men who are making good. They are usually in line for promotion to a larger field, where greater opportunities present themselves. The third test is, can we grow as fast as the church? It is this that keeps gray haired men toiling at their work. A church is like a child, once it starts growing it may easily outstrip in size and weight those who nurtured it. When a church begins to grow he who ministers must grow himself, and also see to it that those about him grow as rapidly as their work grows.

A minister who has heard the call and made thorough preparation for the task must continue to grow in his preparation for the greater responsibility of the church program. To pour into the minds of men a steady stream of the truth which reveals the Kingdom of God; to keep the realities of the moral order always in their thought—this is the ministers great business. Men are saved from being conformed to this world only when they are transformed by the renewing of their minds and heart; and it is the minister's chief business to keep their hearts well supplied with the truth by which this transformation is brought about. For a minister to be able always to supply the needs of his people he must drink continuely of the living stream of God, growing in mind, heart and soul.

In order to heed this important admonition of Paul, "Neglect not the gift," it is in my estimation necessary to emphasize the following: Bodily health, mental development and spiritual growth—or as some one has called it "heel power," "head power," and "heart power."

If the minister would not be hampered in his work a matter of prime importance is the maintenance of his bodily health, because mental and spiritual states depend largely on physical conditions. In itself work is not injurious to health, but care must be exercised as to hours and habits of work. It must be relieved by definite intervals of rest. A minister should not hesitate to take an annual vacation for relaxation. As to the best way of utilizing such time, tastes and opinions will differ, but a vacation should result in a physical and mental preparation as well as in soul growth for more efficient work. Then, a proper amount of physical exercise is another condition of health. This may be taken in many forms, and each individual must decide what benefits him most. The matter of eating, clothing and cleanliness play a great part. Cheerfulness is conducive to physical health. Bacon makes this statement, "To be free-minded and cheerfully disposed at hours of meat and sleep and of exercise, is one of best precepts of long lasting." Hope, calmness of mind, kindliness of feeling, the cultivation of humor, all tend to preserve health. A great English pastor declared these to be the three best physicians in the world, "Doctor Diet, Doctor Quiet, and Doctor Merryman." All these things and a confident trust in God, with a prayerful endeavor to know his will, should be of help in maintaining in health the body, which Christ has taught us to regard as the temple of the Holy Spirit. Not to neglect the gift implies not to neglect the physical body.

In addition to the intellectual attainments required of candidates for the ministry, the life of the pastor must be one of continued mental growth. It is true that God does make use of men who, judged by some standards, are unlearned, yet as a rule he accomplishes His greatest work through those who have been most carefully disciplined and trained. Therefore, one who has entered the ministry should seek earnestly to develop all his facilities to the very highest degree. He should seek to strengthen his memory, to train his logical facilities, to stimulate his imagination, and constantly to assimilate new ideas.

The pastor must never cease to be a student. If he neglects his "closed door" he will sooner or later find himself unable to feed his flock. This requires a library of the best books. The pastor's reading must be comprehensive and thoughtfully planned. The Book of supreme importance is the Bible. Its message can never be exhausted. The more we study it, the more we will feel the need to feed upon it again.

Besides the Bible, a minister will find it necessary to read expositions of the Bible, books on Christian doctrines, books of sermons as well as biographies of great Christian leaders. The pastor should increase his knowledge of science, of philosophy and fiction, of commerce and industry, of the problems of labor and capital and international relations. In short he must be intelligent in every field of thought and that demands that he be an alert student.

Effective preaching is made possible by the diligence of the preacher in his worship with God. The great sermon must first be created in the soul of the preacher, it must take on shape and size and weight in the study before it begins its conquering way in the pulpit. The fullest measure of inspiration is given to him who knows the worth and the necessity of perspiration. The growing minister must lay hold of truth, make the deep things of God his very own, let them filter his heart and mind, tarry until he has a message, then fare forth when the hour strikes for him to speak for God and truth, praying that God may use him in speaking the unsearchable riches of Christ's truth, but he must not fail to plod in quest of that truth.

The third and most important element in "not neglecting the gift" is spiritual growth. It may be a disputed question as to just how much emphasis should be placed on bodily health and mental development but we are all agreed that a minister certainly needs "heart power" or spiritual power in order to achieve real success. The Gospel truth needs to be moulded and vivified by the soul of the man who preaches it. A message makes an impression not simply by its words, but by its soul.

Like the Master, the minister works that men may have life and have it more abundantly. A minister impoverished in his spirit is not able to enrich much the spirit of his flock. He must be sensitive and life creating. If he cannot feel a thrill of joy, no one will be thrilled by any glad thing he says. If he cannot suffer an agony, no heart will be pierced by any tone which his voice can utter. A pastor must be intensely human. He must be rich in laughter and in tears. He must be able to rejoice and weep, to entertain those mighty hopes which make men feel that they are immortal, and to burn with those flaming enthusiasms which the children of God in every age have known. To be more and more what we feel deep in our heart we ought to be, and through the grace of Christ may become, takes much prayer and comunion with God, much effort and growth. No man can keep himself alive by saying true and lovely things. He must live, love and suffer.

It is, therefore, very essential that the pastor preserves with determination stated periods of private devotion. He must constantly draw from the source of the eternal power of God. He must make much of the Word. He must spend much time with it, preach it, but above all live with it. Feed upon it until its great message and truth is embodied in his flesh and blood. The Bible must be to every minister the book of religion. All the central facts and principles with which he deals are there, and some of the most central of them are found nowhere else. He who is himself the Word is there revealed and if he would know Him He must live with Him.

Much prayer is also an absolute essential for the minister. A builder of the church is of necessity a man of prayer, for himself and his people. The church brings him again and again to his knees. The heights and depths of prayer are never known until one carries on his heart the sins and sorrows of his flock.

"The pure in heart shall see God." A high standard of personal ethics is required of the ministry. "Take heed to thyself and unto the doctrine." "There is no use to walk anywhere to preach, unless we preach as we walk."

Then, again, we must grow in the love for souls. We must increasingly be willing to burn ourselves out for the lost. Christ's face was wet with tears because of a hardened people. Paul's preaching and prayers were steeped in tears. "We cease to bless if we cease to bleed."

To preach Christ we must have something of the heart of Christ. We must yearn to become like Him. To have more of His love and suffering, more of His mind and spirit. Daily putting off the "earthly" and putting on the "heavenly."

The Christian minister is ordained for the proclamation of the Gospel of Christ. Brotherhood and service, love and forgiveness, hope and mercy, who can made these verbal bones life. Only a living soul can do it. A man half dead can not do it. A man with a shriveled heart can not do it. Only a man in whom Christ dwells richly can give sparkle to the worn out and immortal freshness to things that have lost their bloom. The old world needs the old gospel. The old world tragedy goes on as from the beginning, and there is no remedy but the one that is old—"Jesus Christ the Son of God." It is essential then that we are living men through the transforming power of Jesus Christ, giving heed not to neglect the gift but rather to grow in grace and power and in the knowledge of our Lord Jesus Christ.

—From a letter by Linda Brown Warkentin (She is the daughter of Missionaries H. J. Brown who was recently married to Dr. John Warkentin, son of Dr. Abr. Warkentin, Bethel College): "For the summer we are at Rochester, N. Y. John is clinical biologist, doing psychiatric case work for the Child Study Dept. of the S.P.C.C. here. In September we will move to Chicago where John will attend Northwestern Medical School." The couple is slated for our mission field in China, when through with their studies.

—Bro. D. S. Weldy, for 17 years president of the Aid Plan, a Mennonite insurance organization with members in several states, recently died at his home in Elkhart, Ind. at the age of 64. He was a very active man, started as a helper in the Menn. Publ. Company, Elkhart, at 18; later was in the employ of the American Express Co., the Gulf Refining Co., etc. After coming to Elkhart in 1891, he became sponsor and director of several music organizations. Young People's Doings at the General Conference

From the following it will be seen that the young people of the General Conference had a vital and constructive part in the recent meeting of the Conference held at Saskatoon, Sask. Some of the program material has already reached the editor's desk and will be reprinted in these columns. The first of these is a general report of the business sessions of August 4.

The business session of the young people was held in the large open-air stadium of the fair grounds in Saskatoon. The out-door meeting was made necessary because the old people's program was running behind schedule. There were about two hundred young people present representing every district of the Conference, the Canadian district having the largest number.

After the opening singing of "All For Jesus" and prayer by Dr. Kaufman, the minutes were read and accepted. The treasurer's report showed that the several districts contributed liberally to the cause of the Y. P. work. The total receipts of the general fund were $419.94. An itemized statement of receipts and expenses will be printed elsewhere. There was a balance on hand of $2.31. In addition the various districts sponsored other individual projects.

Fast Lists Needs

Dr. H. A. Fast, our field secretary, next made a report in which he told of his work and of the needs of the young people in the Conference. He stressed the need of a "clearer understanding of our purpose," of "financial cooperation," of "a larger personal correspondence between our young people," of "specific projects," and of wider use of the traveling secretary.

A paper on "How can retreats serve to better unify our scattered Young People's groups?" by Rev. J. E. Fretz was read by Walter Dyck. He stated that the young people's committee should be a clearing house for retreat information, that a part of the retreat program should be a study of the organization and work of the General Conference, that retreat leaders should use the Y. P. section of The Mennonite more widely, that missionaries be retreat speakers, and that, above all, our motive in uniting our forces be to "go forth to do His will!"

Rev. P. A. Wedel was next scheduled to give a survey of possible projects for the young people. Rev. Wedel was chairman of a committee on young people's projects. His full report was printed in The Mennonite of July 19, p. 12. Due to a conflict on the program, the meeting was adjourned by the chairman, D. D. Eitzen. After a recess of several hours the session continued in a room adjoining the main hall in the conference building. Reverend Wedel now gave his paper, and in the discussion that followed there was general agreement that specific missions and peace projects be undertaken, that the student loan fund be actively endorsed, and that smaller projects such as purchasing refrigerators, duplicators, typewriters, etc. for our missionaries be begun immediately by our young people.

Miss Emma Ruth, of Reedley, California, gave a paper on practical and effective methods of publication. She stated in part that for the present we should continue with the four pages that we are using in The Mennonite, and that wider use of the "Our Youth Says" section could be accompanied by more reading of it and by sending in more inspirational exchanges.

Constitution Proposed

The presentation of a proposed constitution for the Young People's organization of the General Conference followed. After some discussion it was moved and passed that we accept the name, purpose, and organization as outlined in the constitution for three years and that the proposed constitution be considered by the various societies.

The Resolutions Committee's report was read and adopted with a few minor changes.

In the election which followed Rev. Olin Krehbiel was made president and William Juhnke secretary-treasurer. They replace D. D. Eitzen and Helen Lichti, respectively.

The meeting was closed with the C. E. benediction.

I love the acquaintance of young people, because, in the first place, I do not like to think myself growing old. In the next place, young acquaintances must last longest, if they do last; and then, sir, young men have more virtue than old men; they have more generous sentiments in every respect.—Dr. Johnson.

Young People's Topic for Sept. 11, 1938

Meditations:

M., Sept. 5. Age-old exploitation. Jas. 2:5-9.
T., Sept. 6. Justice for all in courts. Lev. 19:15.
W., Sept. 7. Bring good will into labor disputes. Col. 3:12; Pet. 1:5-7.
T., Sept. 8. Envy creates trouble. Gen. 27:44.
F., Sept. 9. A boy who claimed his share. Luke 15:11-19.
S., Sept. 10. The one solution. Matt. 7:12.

Suggested Hymns:

"Higher Ground," "Rescue the Perishing"

Broadly taken there are three types of economic problems, namely, personal, national and international. Economic problems are the problems of making a living, individually, as a nation and as a world of nations.

We struggle for a living from birth unto the end of our days. God has given us hands and feet and minds which we are to use in order to provide for ourselves. God, Himself, ordained the right to work as we saw in last week's topic. It is most unfortunate that so many people cannot find work to do. According to a recently published five-year study, "How Fare American Youth," by H. P. Rainey, 40 out of every 100 young people between the ages of 16 and 24 who were in search of jobs were unable to find them. How many of these were Mennonites? What are we doing to help our young people find gainful employment?

This struggle of making a living has become' a major national issue, and as a result we see labor and industry in a far-reaching struggle for power. Labor, made up of the workers and jobless, in on one side; industry, representing the owners of factories and stores, is on the other side. Our government is trying to bring the two groups into agreement. The fact that labor continues to organize and industry prepares its defence seems to show that all is not well on both sides.

There is a similar unrest in the world at large. Japan has a vast population problem and says she needs China's friendly business in order to thrive. England says she must keep her large navy to protect her many, widely distributed colonies which in turn keep up her national economy. Germany and Italy desire markets and power; nations are forced to leave democracy for fascism, nazism, communism and dictatorship.

What is the Christian way?

Program Suggestions:

Select points for discussion from the following outline:

I. Personal economic difficulties
  A. How can a young man and woman find a job?
    1. Fields that are wide open (missions, work re-relief, radio, television, nursing, etc.)
    2. What does an employed look for?
    3. How does one apply for a job?
    4. What agencies can be used? (parents, friends, teacher's placement, minister's placement committee, etc.)
  B. How can one be faithful in a task? Would a Christian join a labor union? A company union? Are there labor racketeers?

II. National economic problems

An investigation of the Brookings Institute revealed that in 1932, 36,000 people had the same aggregate income as 11,600,000 citizens of our country. Compare the standards of living of the two groups. Why is there such a vast difference in income? Would a general leveling of income help now? In the long run?

III. International economic strife. How can the nations turn from economic warfare to economic cooperation?
  A. How can a world economic policy be formed which will help to prevent war and raise the standards of living of all peoples?
    1. By encouraging the exchange of goods between nations?
    2. By providing more nearly equal access to the resources of the world?
    3. By improving the standards of living through international action?
    4. By stabilizing currencies and providing closer financial coordination?
    5. By reducing the economic burden of armaments?
    6. By establishing additional international economic machinery, such as the International Labor Organization, to deal with raw materials, distribution, etc.

INTERMEDIATE DEPARTMENT

Follow the Rules

Intermediate C. E. Topic, Sept. 11, 1938

For Daily Study

Sept. 5. The main rule. Matt. 7:12
Sept. 6. Cooperate with others. Rom. 12:3-8
Sept. 7. Play fair. 1 Cor. 6:1-11
Sept. 8. Do not grumble. Acts 6:1-4
Sept. 9. Be unselfish. Rom. 9:1-5
Sept. 10. Be prudent. Ps. 39:1, 2; 40:1
Sept. 11. Following the rules of the game. 2 Tim. 2:1-6

Praise in Song

1. "Living for Jesus" (standing)
2. Choruses (Let the song leader and pianist select a number of familiar songs and choruses to be sung from memory, going from one to the other without announcement)

3. Society announcements made by president

Suggested Worship Service

Song, "Jesus Calls Us" (Let the group hum it through softly first and then join in singing the first stanza)

Leader: read 1 Tim. 4:12

Song, "I Would Be True"

Scripture reading: 2 Tim. 2:1-6

Sentence prayers, closed with chorus,

"Let the beauty of Jesus be seen in me,
All his wondrous compassion and purity,
O, thou spirit divine, all my nature refine,
Till the beauty of Jesus be seen in me."

Special music

Presenting the Topic

1. Leader's remarks. Show how "Playing the game," is an expression that we have taken from play and applied to many activities besides games. What does it mean when you say, "He doesn't play the game in the laboratory." How does Jesus express the same thought in Matt. 7:12? Paul referred to the Christian life a number of times in the terms of a game or contest. We need to learn the importance of following the rules of our play, but it is of even greater importance to follow the rules of the Christian life.

"I believe in the fellow that lives on the square,
That plays the game straight and tries to be fair,
That keeps himself clean in body and mind,
That does a good turn and seeks to be kind;
I strive to be like that as near as I can,
For Jesus, I think, was that kind of a man."

2. Rules of successful play (topics for talks)
   a. Cooperate with others. Rom. 12:3-8

   Show how impossible it is to have any kind of a game without cooperation, and how one person can ruin a game by not cooperating. Jesus compared the Pharisees and scribes to children who refuse to cooperate in play. Luke 7:31, 32. Carry this thought over into the Christian life and show the importance of cooperation in work and play.

   b. Fair play. Col. 2:10

   Show how honesty is the basis of all successful play. Why do some people think they can be the exception in observing the rules? What effect does it have on others when Christians do not practice what they profess?

   c. Unselfishness, 1 Cor. 8:13

   When does play demand unselfishness? How far must we go in unselfishness in Christian living? Matt. 5:38-42. How does that apply to present day living at school?

   d. Self-control, 1 Cor. 9:24, 25

   How must we practice self-control in play? in the game of life?

Closing Moments

Five minute closing talk, "Achieving the Goal" by a Christian athlete

Song, "I'm Pressing On"

Benediction

I. C. E. Rules

A typed copy of rules as follows might be given to each one as they come to the meeting:

1. Take your seat reverently. Offer a prayer for the meeting.
2. Join heartily into the singing. Think of the meaning of the words.
3. If you take part in the meeting, speak so that all can hear.
4. While a topic is being discussed, try to think how you would answer the same question. Take part in the open discussion.
5. Speak to the one next to you after the meeting.
6. Help this society to honor Christ in all that is said and done at the meeting.

JUNIOR CORNER

We are sorry that the Junior Corner has to drop out this time, for up to the time of printing we have received no material from the substitute editor.

A Parable

A foolish man lived near a little swamp infested with mosquitoes. He spent much money buying netting and diverse contrivances to protect the members of his family against multitudes of mosquitoes. Finally, all of his money was spent, the netting needed repair, and ever-increasing numbers of mosquitoes troubled the man and his family.

The man cursed God and left the place.

Another man, a wise man of moderate means, moved into the same place. He at once spent a little money to repair the screens on his home. He invested a little in waste oil with which he covered the little swamp. He also started the difficult task of digging a ditch which when completed was used to drain the stagnant water into a nearby creek of running water.

This man blessed God and dwelt in peace and prosperity among his neighbors whom he had learned to love.

The lesson of the parable is this:

The swamp is this confused and embittered world. Foolish men want to spend much money for many battleships to protect investments six-hundred miles up the Yangtze river. They advise the writing of many threatening notes. They discover to their amazement that hate breeds hate and not respect. They build more battleships. One is sunk. An ambassador is slapped. War is declared to avenge such insults. There is a call for volunteers and a drive for funds. The people fail to respond whole-heartedly. Subversive propaganda must be put to work. A military dictatorship is set up. Men and supplies are drafted into service. Everything we have is not too great a sacrifice to force an impudent people in a foreign land to fear us if not respect us. The finest young men die nobly for their country's honor!

The war is over. Weaklings are left to propagate the next generation. A crime wave sweeps across the country. For some strange cause human life is not held in high respect. Men seem bent on vice, drunkenness, gambling, and misery. They curse God and hate their fellowmen.

OR

We can deal with this troubled world as the wise man dealt with the swamp. To calm those citizens who fear an invasion we may increase our police force along the borders. (God forbid that we should insult our friendly neighbors to the north and south in such a way.) Our next act—a master stroke of goodwill—would be a law to rescind the Japanese exclusion act. These orientals should be on a par with our neighbors in Italy, allies with whom we fought to make a world safe for democracy. This ounce of diplomacy might be worth tons of force.

In harmony with the Paris Peace pact our War department could be transformed into a Peace department. Protection against invasion would become the task of the Federal Bureau of Investigation. Members of the ROTC trained for police duty might prove useful in a nation-wide war on crime.

We could send agricultural experts to seek land on which friends in Italy, Japan, and other densely populated areas could pursue life under less crowded conditions. We might buy four or five hundred million acres of virgin soil with money the foolish men would spend on battleships. With the money these ships would need for maintenance, we could send unemployed workmen to virgin lands to dig canals, construct homes, churches, schools, hospitals, and highways. Here our neighbors could work and live abundantly. There is no finer way to "Lift up Jesus that He may draw all men unto Him" than to reflect His love in our domestic, national, and international relations.

Is all this an idle dream based on an imaginary Shangrila? Let us see:

During the past six years such work has been carried out by American and Canadian Christians for several thousand Russian refugees now happily settled in the Gran Chaco in South America.

After the World War twenty-thousand refugees left Russia, were welcomed to settle in Canada, and were extended credit of over two-million dollars for the cost of their transportation. Despite frequent droughts, more than one-half of this debt has been paid.

Let this light so shine before men that they may see these good works and glorify our Father who is in Heaven.

A little hope and charity and faith added to hard work can move mountains of difficulty. Indeed, wiser than the cynic, who scoffs at the transforming power of love while he lives in fear and misery, is the poet who sings:

Plant lilies and lilies will grow;
  Plant roses and roses will bloom;
Plant hate and hate to life will spring;
  Plant love and love to you will bring
The flowers of the seeds you sow.

—A Voice in the Wilderness

THE CHURCH ENTERTAINMENT IS WRONG

Because it does not avoid the appearance of evil.

Because it is never prayed for by name in the sanctuary.

Because it never points any one to the cross of Jesus Christ.

Because it creates two parties in every church where it is engaged in; one for and the other against it.

Because it is not done mainly and only for the glory of God, as everything engaged in by Christian people should be.

Because it steels the hearts of the people and turns them away from the Lord, as Absalom did the hearts of the people of Israel.

Because it robs the Church of unity and harmony.

Because it teaches the people to think lightly of the promises of God in regard to the blessedness of giving.

Because it robs people of the joy of giving by teaching them to be stingy.

Because it weakens the influence for spiritual good of those who engage in it.

Because it kills the revival spirit in every church that upholds it.

Because it leads an army of young people into captivity to the world and its follies.

Because it robs religion of its good name, and makes the church a beggar.

Because it brings in strife and discord and drives out Christian fellowship.

Because it perverts the truth, by teaching that there is a better way of raising money than God's way.

Because it is robbing God of the great power of influence that the church might have for Him.

Because it is offering to God that which has upon it the image and superscription of Caesar.

Because it steals into the church service, and kills the spirit of worship with its announcements and begging appeals for patronage.

Because it violates the entire spirit of worship by offering to God that which has in it no life or sacrifice, and sets at naught all the teachings of the Bible in regard to giving.

Because it disregards the admonition of Christ to take no step where the entire influence shall not be continually, unmistakably and altogether upon the side of God. "Let your light so shine before men, that they may see your good works and glorify your Father which is in heaven." No man is ever led to glorify God by anything he sees at a church entertainment gotten up expressly and only for making money.

Because it makes the church take lower ground than God ever intended that it should do. This is the mountain-top of unselfishness upon which God expects every Christian on earth to plant his feet: "If meat maketh my brother to offend, I will eat no meat while the world stands."—The Ram's Horn, submitted by C. H. Friesen.

In Memoriam

CATHARINE DUECK, nee Claassen, was born on June 15, 1842 in Elbing, West Prussia, Germany. Her parents were Peter and Anna Claassen, nee Dyck. Inasmuch as her parents during this time lived in strained financial circumstances, they yielded to the urgent request of a lonesome, well-to-do uncle, Jacob Penner, and placed the infant child into his care and keeping. She had a very happy childhood and received her education largely under private tutorship. Displaying exceptional gifts along musical lines, she also received special training in this direction.

On June 1, 1857, she was baptized by the then Elder Johann Andreas and received into the fellowship of the Elbing-Ellerwald Mennonite Church. On May 25, 1868, she was married to Gerhard Dueck. To this union were born 6 children, 2 sons and 4 daughters, of whom the second son died in infancy. In the year 1888 the family, with others of her religious faith, came to America and established a new home at Newton, Kansas. Here her husband died on Jan. 30, 1891. Shortly afterwards she located with her children in St. Louis, and in the summer of 1904 she came to Beatrice to make her home with a daughter and her family.

On August 6, 1938, at 7 p. m. her coveted wish to go to her heavenly home was fulfilled. She had attained the ripe age of 96 years, 1 month and 21 days, leaving behind 1 son, 4 daughters, 5 grandchildren and other relatives and friends.

Funeral service was held on August 9 in the Second Mennonite Church at Beatrice, Nebr., conducted by Rev. Henry Reimer and Rev. Jacob Wiebe. Rev. Reimer had as his text 1 Cor. 15:55.

G. ERNEST AUGSPURGER, son of the late Joseph and Amelia Iutzi Augspurger, was born on the old Augspurger homestead farm near Trenton, Ohio, Feb. 6, 1871, and passed away at his home, 308 Shafor St., Middletown, Ohio, August 11, 1938, after an illness of seven weeks, during which time he was in the care of his devoted sister, Miss Florence E. Augspurger.

He was reared in the Mennonite Church, and remained active in the congregation until his death.

He is survived by his sister, Florence, and three brothers, Otto and Victor of Monroe, and Warren of Los Angeles, Calif.

Funeral services were held from the home of his brother Otto I, Augspurger, Monday, August 15, at 3 p. m. Rev. J. E. Amstutz officiated. Burial was made at Mound Cemetery, Monroe, Ohio.

EMMA B. KINSINGER, daughter of the late Peter and Mary Jotter, was born at Monroe, Ohio, June 6, 1856, and passed away at her home near Collinsville, Ohio, August 1, 1938. She had been bedfast since March 16.

In youth she united with the Trenton Mennonite Church, remaining a loyal and faithful member through life.

She united in marriage with Samuel Kinsinger of Collinsville, Ohio, March 26, 1885. To this union were born two children, Hugo J. and Edna M. Her husband preceded her in death, Nov. 8, 1925, and her son, Nov. 25, 1933. Her devoted daughter, Edna Kinsinger, survives her.

Funeral services were held from the home Aug. 4 1938. In the absence of her pastor, Rev. Amstutz, Dr. Elliott Porter of Oxford, Ohio, officiated. Burial in Collinsville Cemetery, Collinsville, Ohio.

JOHN WESLEY'S SINGING RULES

John Wesley, the Savior of Church Music. The singing of the Methodists burst upon the sleeping churches like the herald of new life that it was. In 1738 the first of a remarkable series of Wesleyan hymn books was published. In 1742 the following singing rules were published.

1. Learn these Tunes before you learn any others; afterwards learn as many as you please.

2. Sing them exactly as they are printed here, without altering or mending them at all, and if you have learned to sing them otherwise, unlearn it as soon as you can.

3. Sing all. See that you join with the congregation as frequently as you can. Let not a slight degree of weakness or weariness hinder you. If it is a cross to you, take it up, and you will find it a blessing.

4. Sing lustily and with good courage. Beware of singing as if you were half dead, or half asleep; but lift up your voice with strength. Be no more afraid of your voice nor more ashamed of its being heard, than when you sang the songs of Satan.

5. Sing modestly. Do not bawl so as to be heard above and distinct from the rest of the congregation, that you may not destroy the harmony; but strive to unite your voices together so as to make one clear melodious sound.

6. Sing in time. Whatever time is sung, be sure to keep with it. Do not run before nor stay behind it; but attend close to the leading voices, and move therewith as exactly as you can; and take care not to sing too slow. This drawling way naturally steals on all who are lazy; and it is high time to drive it out from among us, and sing all our tunes just as quick as we did at first.

7. Above all sing spiritually. Have an eye to God in every word you sing. Aim at pleasing Him more than yourself, or any other creature. In order to do this attend strictly to the sense of what you sing, and see that your heart is not carried away with the sound, but offered to God continually; so shall your singing be such as the Lord will approve of here, and reward you when he cometh in the clouds of heaven.

ANNOUNCEMENT

The Anniversary Service for the Home of the Aged of the Eastern District Conference will be held on Saturday afternoon, Sept. 10, at 2 o'clock. Mr. John A. McSparran, a former State Secretary of Agriculture, will be the speaker. Luncheon and supper may be purchased as usual.

— One of the outstanding events at the recent Conference in Saskatoon is the admission of 17 new churches. Though a good sized, partial list was given previously, we shall here catalog it completely, with related items: (1) First Mennonite, Saskatoon, Sask., 105 members, Rev. J. J. Thiessen; (2) First Mennonite (Mission), Lima, Ohio, 25 members, Rev. George Dyck; (3) Eigenheim Mennonite, near Rosthern, Sask., 225 members, Rev. G. G. Epp; (4) Westheim Mennonite, Rosemary, Alta., 285, Rev. C. D. Harder; (5) Niagara Mennonite, Miagara-on-the-Lake, Ont., 90 members, Rev. D. H. Koop; (6) Mennonite Church, Vineland, Ont., 194 members, Rev. D. H. Koop; (7) Hoffnungsfeld Mennonite, Rabbit Lake, Sask., 125 members, Rev. D. J. Loewen; (8) Lichtenau Mennonite, St. Elizabeth, Man., 155 members, Rev. P. H. Enns; (9) Bergtal Mennonite, Didsbury, Alta., 98 members, Rev. J. J. Sawatzky; (10) Schoensee Mennonite, Tofield, Alta., 75 members, D. Heidebrecht; (11) Blumental Mennonite, Springridge, Alta., 43 members, Rev. D. B. Jantzen; (12) Mennonite Church, Coghlen, Brit. Col., 42 members; (13) Mennonite Church, Black Creek, Brit. Col., 36 members; (14) Mennonite Church, Sardis, Brit. Col., 140 members; (15 Mennonite Church, Yarrow, Brit. Col., 38 members; (16) Mennonite Church, Abbotsford, Brit. Col., 52 members; Rev. N. W. Bahnmann is the elder of the churches numbered 12 to 16, (17) United Mennonite, Vancouver, B. C., 48 members, Rev. Jacob B. Wiens.

—A sincere "Thank You" to all faithful intercessors for their part in promoting the Saskatoon Conference by faith. The Lord has wonderfully sustained us and blessed the Conference.—P. R. Schroeder.

—We again wish to express our appreciation to Rev. J. J. Balzer of Mountain Lake, Minn. for the series of four articles which he has furnished us for the Mennonite during the past few months, on the unifying teachings of the Bible. To give readers a chance to review them, they will find the first article, "One World" in the issue of Jan. 11, 1938; the second, "One Kingdom," in issue of March 8, 1938; the third, "The Bible, its Teachers and its Teachings," in issue of May 24, 1938; the fourth, "One Imperative," in issue of Aug. 2, under Sermon Sketch.

—The First Mennonite Church of Berne, Indiana, is making extensive preparations for the celebration of the 100th Anniversary of the coming of Swiss Mennonites to Indiana and the founding of the town of Berne. The celebration will last from September 18-25, including two Sundays. There will be Bible study conferences and addresses every day, with Dr. Abr. Warkentin of Bethel College and Dr. P. R. Schroeder, pastor of the church for 16 years, as the main speakers. Miss Elva Sprunger, missionary on furlough from China and daughter of the late Rev. S. F. Sprunger, an outstanding local and Conference leader, has written a 300 page book on the history of the Berne Mennonite community.

—Rev. M. Horsch, Beatrice, Nebr. writes: Next week, Tuesday, we expect to move. Our new address is 319 South Eighth St., Beatrice, Nebraska. Your first installment of Conference report is fine. Keep it up.

—At Aberdeen, Idaho, Henry D. Becker, a young Mennonite, graduate of Bethel College and teacher, was seriously injured by a kick from a colt, causing him to lose one eye. Mr. Becker's many acquaintances in Kansas feel sorry for him.

—Mrs. Kunkel, correspondent at Alsen, N. Dak.: On Aug. 8 (?) H. J. Brown and family, Bro. Mueller and Rev. Duerksen came back from the Conference, and Bro. Duerksen has told us many interesting things from there, which were of value to us. While our pastor was absent, the ministers of the Rosehill Church served us. Many thanks for the service.

—"The Bethany Messenger," Freeman, S. D.:—Many friends have either passed through or stopped for short visits in Freeman, during the past few days, enroute to Saskatoon, Canada, for the session of the Gen. Conference. Among them was a former pastor of our church, Rev. Elmer Basinger of Summerfield, Ill. He is his same jovial self.

—The nations of the world are trying to find a place to which the Jews, 400,000 from Germany and 600,000 from Austria, may migrate. 50,000 are to be evacuated each year. But where will they go? Most of the nations have no space for them.

—Bro. A. J. Richert, Los Angeles, Calif. writes among other things: Arrived home safely. I appreciate the fine hospitality shown us in Canada, the opportunity of meeting old and making new friends, and especially the deeper insight the Conference gives us in the great work our denomination is carrying on. If we who were delegates could only bring home to our churches the magnitude of this united work for Christ, we should see greater things in 1941.

—Mission Stations, Oklahoma (The Messenger): Paul Littleman was received into church membership at the Longdale Church by the rite of baptism. On the same day Mrs. Arthur Sutton was received at the Arapahoe Church by the right hand of fellowship.

—John Wiebe, Beatrice, Nebr.: We have had a beautiful rain here, three inches, and it is still cloudy. The Lord has heard the prayers. To Him belongs honor and praise. Rev. Horsch is happily back home again and has shared with us what he heard and saw at the Conference. There are troublous times everywhere.

—First Church, Philadelphia, Sunday, August 7:—Spend an "Afternoon with God and Nature," with the Senior C. E. along the beautiful Wissahickon.—This year our vacation Bible school has been one of the very best, average attendance 51. Much of the credit goes to Miss Catherine Niswander.

—The Mountain Lake, Minn. Mennonites are still maintaining their Bible school, in which the veteran minister J. J. Balzer taught so many years and with great blessings to all.

—A damaging hail storm, coupled with swirling winds and torrential rains cut a path of destruction through Mt. Lake, Minn., Aug. 11, about 10 miles wide. While crops and some buildings suffered badly, no injury to persons and livestock is reported.

—Grace Church, Lansdale, Pa.—Miss Etta Davis is expected to leave for China during the month of September.

—Douglas Corrigan, the daring transatlantic flyer, who has the world agog over his recent stunt, does not use tobacco nor liquor and takes part in "family prayers."

GOOD THINGS ABOUT THE RECENT CONFERENCE

Generally speaking the opinion prevails that the Conference at Saskatoon was an enjoyable experience and proved to be a blessing. May we attempt to chronicle some of the things that helped to make it that. The most important factor in any religious gathering is the presence and guidance of the Divine Spirit. And God surely made true His promise, "Where there are two or three gathered together in my name, there I am in the midst of them." For had not the delegates and many other brethren and sisters been praying in the spirit of the conference motto, "Lead Thou!"? Who was there that did not feel God's leading? And who would dispute the fact that where about 300 delegates meet to discuss and take action on weighty problems, with various aspects and room for differences of opinion, of pros and cons, and yet in the end settle matters in brotherly fashion and kindly feelings: there God was surely present. Yes, praise be to God for the unanimity of spirit.

The next important factor is the directing person, the chairman, and if he has a good standby in the secretary, as in this instance, so much the better. A good, penetrating voice, good enunciation and deliberate speaking, ability to penetrate problems, to sift the chaff from the grain, to "make plain," kindness and patience, grace to be diplomatic and offend no one, these and others are some of the characteristics needed by a chairman, and our chairman had them. It was the general feeling that he and the secretary gave us almost ideal service. The fact that they are both masters of English and German was of immeasurable value to all in this bilingual meeting. How skilfully did the chairman, after a report, recommendation or resolution had been presented, perhaps in both languages, summarize the thought and restate the gist in a simple statement, in order to make it all plain, so that everybody could vote intelligently! And how sympathetically he gave everybody a chance to speak his mind and yet succeeded in advancing the program. May God reward him and the secretary, and continue to make them a blessing with their talents!

The appointees of the chairman, also the Business and Resolutions Committees functioned satisfactorily. The printed reports were a great help in enlightening delegates and in expediting the business. The choruses that sang so well for us and gave relief from the humdrum of long business sessions did us all good. Particularly good was the service of the local business and arrangement committees, under the guidance of the brethren D. Toews, J. J. Thiessen, and others. By their hearty reception they made us feel at home. And how well they cared for our entertainment and our needs! We enjoyed the wholesome, tasty meals and the splendid service of so many willing hands at the dining hall, and of the young people at the refreshment stand. And we shall not forget the commodious quarters at the Exhibition Grounds, the large Stadium, the Administration Building and the kindnesses of Brother Loewen and his girl helpers, the Mission exhibit, and last but not least, the loud speaker that put things across.

Canada will not have much difficulty in getting the Conference to meet there again.

DO WITHOUT MANY THINGS EXCEPT ONE

Fifty years ago people managed to get along without a lot of things that we count among our necessities today and that we would find it difficult to get along without: the auto, radio, telephone, telegraph, frigidaire, electric washer-stove-curler, self binder, combine, tractor, and what not. And yet, compelled to do without such things, we could get along minus them. Our brethren in Russia could testify to this. Sadly enough, there are hosts of people who are doing without the "one thing needful" which, really, they cannot afford to miss. Moses at the court of Egypt had everything he could wish for, but he got to the point where he chose rather to share ill treatment with the people of God . . . and accounted the reproach of Christ greater riches than the treasures of Egypt, for he looked to the reward." Paul had prestige, social standing, education, riches, and stood at the threshold of a "glorious" career, "but," says he, "what things were gain to me I counted but loss for Christ." The idea here to be conveyed is: A Man May Go to Heaven Without health, Without wealth, Without fame, Without learning, Without friends, But he can never get to Heaven Without Christ.

NEEDED CHANGE IN FIELD OF MEDICINE

For some time the American public has felt that a readjustment in our system of medical service is needed; that too many people die because of the lack of a doctor's care, statistics putting the number of needless deaths at 600 a day. Many people hesitate to use the doctor, submit to an operation or go to an hospital because of the high fees. Others make use of these helps but are unable to pay for the service. To make up for this it is but natural that fees be generally raised in an attempt to provide adequate renumeration for our doctors. If all that need medical service would or could be made to pay their bills, fees would no doubt be scaled down. This injust and unsatisfactory condition could no doubt be remedied by some plan or system whereby the well could be made to help bear the burdens of the sick, or the burden of medical care properly distributed. At the Concordia Hospital in Winnipeg, which some of us visited recently, a whole family can get doctor's or surgeon's service, hospitalization, etc. for $27.00 a year. In New York they have what they call "the 3-cents-a-day plan" whereby a single person can, for $10.00 a year, get full hospital service, man and wife for $18.00, and a family with unmarried children for $24.00. They get bed, board, nursing, operating room service, laboratory analysis, X-ray service, drugs and dressing, tests, etc. In Little Rock, Ark., seven physicians started a hospital group which gives full medical, surgical and hospital service at $2.00 a month for singles, and $5.00 for a family. This type of medical service on a co-operative basis seems to be developing in spite of the opposition of some doctors, as was indicated in the controversies that recently were pretty well aired in the papers. The principle where all or a group help the individual bear his burden is sound, it is Christian. "Bear ye one another's burden." May it gradually find general application to restore many to health, prevent sickness and needless deaths.

FOREIGN MISSIONS

P. H. Richert, Sec.

Oraibi, Arizona, July 1, 1938

Last Wednesday we had two funeral services. One was that of a young man, Waldo Mootzka, the other that of a middle-aged mother, Mrs. Virginia Macket.

Seven years ago, Mr. Suderman was visiting in Tom and Alice Mootzka's home. Waldo was in the home alone. He had then just returned from the government school at Albuquerque, New Mexico. While he had been in school he had made a confession of Jesus Christ as his personal Savior and was baptized. He was a little afraid to tell Mr. Suderman this, because his parents were strong heathen and were opposed to the gospel. Waldo soon left home to find some work. He has been at home only once since, and that only for a little while. A few years ago his parents and three of his sisters became Christians. But Waldo, not being at home, never has learned to know the joys of a Christian home. Near Christmas he was badly injured in a car accident at Phoenix, Arizona. This lowered his bodily resistence and vitality and T. B. of the lungs and another form of T. B. of the right hip caused his death Monday morning of last week. In the Monday evening mail his parents had just received a letter from him in his own handwriting, stating how he desired to come home, if only he could become a little stronger. He asked them to have a bed ready for him. Then his doctor added to the letter that he was too weak to be sent home. So the family was just trying to find some one who would be willing to take them to Phoenix to see him, when a telegram came to the trading post that he had passed away that morning. Tom then came here to have Mr. Suderman request the government to ship his body to Oraibi for burial. The request was granted and the body arrived in Winslow on Tuesday evening by Santa Fe and on Wednesday at Oraibi by truck. The funeral was held in our little chapel soon after the body arrived. The casket was covered with nice gray flannel. The first bell was wrung to call the people to the service. A Hopi and Mr. Suderman took the outer box to the mission cemetery while I stayed at the church and played some hymns. Soon the family entered the church. You may well imagine how they felt and were overcome to see the body of their son and brother lifeless in a coffin. I asked them whether they would like to see him. Tom said, "Yes." So I opened the box. Tom seemed stunned. The mother and sisters wept. Then the village people began to come. I closed the box; the family was seated and I continued playing.

Soon after the Hopi and Mr. Suderman returned from the cemetery the services began. The little chapel was almost filled. Daniel Schirmer read the scripture passage from John 11. Mr. Suderman used as text, James 4:14, "What is thy life?" A few duets were sung. During the congregational singing it was an inspiration to see the family join in the singing amidst the sobs. A goodly number came to the cemetery, where the body was committed to the ground until that great resurrection day. The family now finds its greatest comfort in Waldo's testimony to Mr. Suderman of years ago. They have bitter regrets of their little contact with their son after they became Christians. There are now in their hearts unspoken griefs because of not having been a help to Waldo in the Christian faith, for Waldo's life was one of great struggles with many failures.

This experience leaves us, your representatives, here in the desert of our native land, with a mixed feeling. It reveals to us that our labors though not always welcome are not in vain. On the other hand, our hearts ache for these fine young people, who, while away at school, accept Christ and are baptized, and after school days are finished, they come home and their heathen parents drag them down into heathen ceremonies and dances. Who knows but what Waldo possibly sought work away from home because he realized that his parents would force him into the old worship? And when he was established as an artist, he stayed on, even after his parents became Christians.

We came home from the funeral services a little after 2 o'clock. After lunch the second grave was dug.

(The story of Mrs. Virginia's funeral will follow next week.)

ANNOUNCEMENT

of the meeting of the Western District Conference

To the churches of the Western District Conference:

The fall session of the Western District Conference will be held, the Lord willing, in Enid, Okla., Oct. 19-21. The Oklahoma churches will have charge of all the local arrangements for the conference sessions and will without doubt publish these in the near future in our church papers.

The conference officers would again kindly urge the conference churches to remember the conference before the throne of God in order that His kingdom may prosper through the work of this conference. They would also like to remind the churches of the fact that the greater the representation through delegates to the conference the greater the blessing the home churches will receive through the conference.

Praying that God may richly bless this conference in its various activities.

The Conference officers,
P. P. Wedel, Pres., Abraham Albrecht, Secr.

"I Came That They Might Have Life"

Life abundant
Thou hast promised,—
Yes, I feel it in my breast:
There is joy,
And I shall praise Thee,
There is love
And there is rest.

There is joy,
For Thou art with me,
Leading me through life's short day.
I but step
Into Thy footprints,
I but follow
In the way.

There is love
So deep, so yearning,
Love for hearts of sinful men.
Send me out
Into the byways,
Send me out
To rescue them.

There is rest
What if the waves
Beat high upon life's troubled shore?
Still there's rest,—
I shall walk on them.
Faith shall conquer
As of yore.

I shall praise
Thee, my Creator,
Giving life through Calvary.
Those that follow
In death's offering,
Rise with life
Abundant, free.

Yes, I praise
Thee, my Redeemer!
All I want I have in Thee.
All I need
Is now provided,—
I have Thee
Eternally. —Joanna S. Andres

—Rev. Freeman Swartz, pastor of the Eden Church, Schwenksville, Pa. who attended the General Conference, accompanied by sisters Landis and Smoyer, took in Banff, that beauty spot in the Canadian Rockies, then visited Newton on his return trip and preached at the First Mennonite Church. Bro. Swartz is still a bachelor and an interesting character that makes his presence felt wherever he goes.

Bethel College Trying to Serve

ANNOUNCEMENTS FOR COLLEGE JUNIORS AND SENIORS

To Whom It May Concern:

Bethel College now fully accredited by the North Central Association makes a special appeal to Mennonite students to graduate from a college of their own denomination. Realizing that times are hard, Bethel has increased the opportunities for student employment so that $200 can be earned ($100 per year) by upper classmen who qualify as to character, scholarship, need, ability to pay other bills including room and board with the school, and state in writing their bona fide intention to complete the last two years for a degree at Bethel College. Those interested kindly fill out the attached request for application blanks and return at once to the Office of the President, Bethel College, Kansas.

Sincerely yours,
BETHEL COLLEGE
Ed. G. Kaufman, President

Gentlemen:

In accordance with your attached announcement I would appreciate the opportunity to earn part of my way while attending Bethel College for the last two years of my college course. Please send me application blanks.

BETHEL COLLEGE OFFERINGS IN BIBLE AND OPPORTUNITIES FOR CHRISTIAN WORK

Bethel College endeavors to enlarge its usefulness to the Church of Christ and its young people by offering a more extensive opportunity for Bible training. Three different plans are set forth. The one is the Ministerial Course, a year's work beyond the A. B. or Th. B. degree and equivalent to the first year in a Theological or Biblical Seminary. The second is the regular four year course leading to the Th. B. degree and equivalent to the well known A. B. degree except that special emphasis is on the Bible and related courses. The third is the Bible Training Course covering two years of work beyond the High School and leading to a diploma. A special bulletin describing these courses is available upon request.

I MINISTERIAL COURSE

This course seeks to furnish an opportunity to men who wish to continue further study in Bible and the field of religion while they are at the same time engaged in practical work as pastors, assistant pastors, and directors of religious education in neighboring churches.

II COLLEGE BIBLE COURSE

A course intended for students preparing for Christian work in the Church as ministers and leaders in Christian education in Sunday schools, Bible academies, and week-day schools of Christian education, as well as religious leadership training organizations. Safisfactory completion of the course will lead to the Bachelor of Theology degree.

III BIBLE TRAINING COURSE

The aim of the Training Course is to supply the longfelt need of a better prepared lay leadership in our churches. By it we hope to give to the young people a thorough and sound knowledge of the Bible, and to help them meet the problems of life by virtue of additional training beyond the high school. Satisfactory completion of the two-year course will lead to a diploma.

PRACTICAL CHRISTIAN WORK

In conjunction with the Bible study for which a trained and consecrated Bible teaching staff is ready, provision has also been made for practical work. This will consist of a varied program including certain phases of city mission work, Sunday school teaching, conduct Bible classes, lead in congregational singing, help in religious surveys, visit prisons, and give comfort and cheer to down-trodden men, women, and children.

Dr. A. Warkentin will supervise this practical work. Contacts have been made in Wichita, Newton, and other industrial areas within reach of Bethel College where such work can be carried on. Students on all levels of academic standing will, according to needs and qualifications, find an opportunity to give expression to their desire for service.

1. Grants-in-Aid

Grants-in-Aid for Ministerial Students: A Grant-in-aid is available to all students qualifying and enrolling for the "Ministerial" or "Fifth Year" course so as to reduce the regular tuition by fifty percent.

2. Service Scholarships

Service Scholarships for Bible Training Students: A maximum of ten service scholarships are available to students who expressly elect the Bible Training Curriculum provided qualifications for such a scholarship are being met.

3. Herman Suderman Scholarship Fund

The Herman Suderman Scholarship Fund was established by Mr. and Mrs. Herman Suderman for the purpose of aiding students who plan to enter religious work. The annual income from this fund amounts to about $400 and is available to seniors and students enrolling for the "Ministerial Course." Such students must be approved by Bethel College and other proper authorities of a congregation or conference.

Notes from the General Conference

THE WORK OF PUBLICATION

After the work of Home Missions had been disposed of, the Conference proceded to hear the report of the Board of Publication. This showed that thirteen different editors are editing the seven periodicals we publish, the Mennonite having four, one for the main body of the paper, and three for the Young People's Section, and the Christian S. S. Quarterly five. While there are good reasons for this duplication, it looks as though these numbers could be reduced. As to circulation, the Mennonite has gained over 500 subscribers, the Kinderbote-Junior Messenger 400, while the remaining older publications temporarily show slight losses. The Christian S. S. Quarterly, now published the second year, with over 13,000 takers, has all the other publications outstripped. As to books, two small publications were put out recently, "A Guide to Christian Teaching," a junior catechism, and a revised edition of the Senior Catechism. Besides Rev. H. P. Krehbiel of Newton, Kansas, has graceously made our Book Concern the distributing agency for his two new books, "War, Peace, Amity" and "History of the Mennonite General Conference," volume II.

As our Mennonite Hymn Book, due to certain weaknesses, such as (1) tune titles of the hymns instead of initial phrases of the English poem; (2) lack of variety of hymns; (3) absence of favorite hymns that had actually been chosen by the Hymn Book Committee, (4) insufficiency of gospel songs, has not found the ready sale that might have been looked for, it is being subjected to a careful revision, in which form it is hoped that the book may find open doors. The old plates will be used as much as possible. But even figuring this saving, it is estimated that, including the printing of the first 2000 copies, $3000.00 will be needed to finance the revision project. To this end the Conference very kindly granted the request of the Board of Publication, that it authorize the Board of Trustees to loan the Publication Board the amount out of the Jubilee Fund in their keeping. The German singing brethren in the north, also feeling the need of a songbook suited to their diversified situations, "ein vereintes Gesangbuch," asked the assistance of the Board of Publication to realize their project. This the Board, backed by the Conference, agreed to do. Some one may interpolate here, why could not the "Gesangbuch mit Noten" have been used by them. In answer to this it may be said, that this collection of hymns does not seem to be extensive nor varied enough for existing needs and then, too, the plates from which the Gesangbuch was printed are pretty well worn, making reprints difficult.

Inasmuch as Dr. Abr. Warkentin has, with almost heroic effort and sacrifice of time and energy, as well as devotion to a worthy cause, succeeded in building a very creditable Mennonite Historic Library, housed in a fire-proof vault at Bethel College, it has for some time been felt that a Historical Research Society should be organized, to assist Brother Warkentin in his work and help make it available for use, and that this might be accomplished in cooperation with the Board of Publication. This matter was presented to the session by Dr. Warkentin, and the Board of Publication expressed its readiness to help, provided the Conference would finance the project through its treasury. The Conference reacted favorably in the matter and voted to place the project in the care of the Ex. Committee.

The big problem that the Board of Publication had to present to the Conference was that of the acquisition of a printing plant, for which the Board was given authority at the sessions in Hutchinson and Bluffton, 1929 and 1935 respectively. To save money on its printing, the Board some years ago began to let its printing out on bids, which brought the work to Kansas. Newton, Kansas, because of its central location was considered to be a suitable place for a conference printing plant, and also a bookstore. Mennonite churches with memberships totaling 15,000 are found within a radius of 150-200 miles of Newton. There are Mennonites 1500 miles to the north, east, south and west of Newton. Providentially there happen to be located in this city two printing establishments, both under Mennonite control, the Herald Publishing Company and the Bethel College printshop. The Herald Company also runs a bookstore. So the question naturally arose, would it be wise for the Conference to establish a third Mennonite printery and a second Mennonite bookstore (the third one in the city) or still wiser to join with one or both of the already existing establishments. The local situation and popular sentiment seemed to be against the former plan and rather divided as to the latter. The Board of Publication, represented locally by a committee composed of its Kansas members, J. M. Suderman and J. R. Thierstein, together with the brethren C. E. Krehbiel, Abr. Warkentin and A. J. Richert, all three of Newton, felt that possibly a merger with advantages accruing to all participants could be effected, but with the reservation that ultimately the Conference might come in control of the business. With this thought as a basis the Publication committee sought to effect a merger with one and then the other of the local plants, and, finally, with both, only to discover that such a combination seemed practically impossible of accomplishment, for printing institutions doing a profitable business would have some hesitancy to join with one merely in the making, but insistent on a preferencial basis, even if it be a would-be conference plant.

After several serious and prayerful sessions of the three parties concerned, it became evident to the representatives of the Conference that the best they could do was to merge on terms of equality, trusting to God's leading and mutual, brotherly good will for a future turn in the direction of a conference owned printing plant, and possibly also a store in Newton. And as it began to appear more feasible, for the time being, for the Conference and The Herald Co. to join in a dual merger, representatives of the two parties in a series of meetings worked out a charter and set of by-laws under which it was felt that the publication interests of the Conference and Herald Publ. Co. could be unitedly carried on, with the Herald bookstore included in the merger.

The Herald Board of Directors accepted the charter and by-laws for presentation to their corporation, and the Board of Publication for presentation to the Conference at Saskatoon. This was done. Printed copies of the tentative draft were handed out to the conference delegates a day before the Board of Publication was scheduled on the program. In the discussion of the proposed merger and its involvements, some of the brethren felt that the plan was rather complicated and might tend to entangle the Conference, although the majority of them admitted they had hardly given the document enough attention to form an adequate opinion. The discussion ended with a resolution to the effect that the matter be left in the hands of the Board of Publication for further study and work, in cooperation with the Executive Committee, with power to act.

Since the churches of the Eastern, Middle and Pacific conferences do not use the Kinderbote-Junior Messenger, because of its bilingual nature and since the S. S. of the other conferences would just as soon have the paper all in English, too, the Board of Publication recommended that for these the paper be published in English as Junior Messenger, provided the delegates from the churches and conferences concerned agree to do all they can to "boost" the subscriptions to the paper.—At a meeting with brethren from German speaking churches satisfactory arrangements were to be made to publish for them a German paper like the Kinderbote.

The Board of Publication also recommended that the Conference endorse the sale of the remaining copies of the book, "Twenty-five Years with God in India," through the churches, at the price of $1.00 (regular price $2.25), with the proviso that one-fourth of the proceeds of the sale is to be turned over to the Board of Foreign Missions. This is a valuable missionary book, copies of which ought to be in every Church or Sunday school library, and in a good many homes.

In the election the two brethren of the Board whose term had expired, J. M. Suderman and J. H. Janzen, were reelected. In the place of Brother M. J. Galle, resigned, Brother A. A. Penner of Mountain Lake, Minn. was chosen to fill out his term.

THE WORK OF EDUCATION

The report of the Board of Education was prefaced by those from our different institutions of learning. The MENNONITE COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE, located at Gretna, a little town in Southern Manitoba, just across the border from Minnesota, was started in 1890, and for 45 years was ably presided over by Prof. H. H. Ewert, a master pedagog and administrator. The chief aims of the school are: (1) to train teachers for the public schools, with much stress on religion; (2) to help prepare S. S. teachers and church workers; (3) to teach and cherish the German language. Serious efforts are made to permeate all instruction with a Christian Mennonite spirit, and a definite stand is taken "against the degrading influence of worldly amusements, like the dance, all wild parties, movies, the theater, and over-stressed sports." Instruction is offered in grades 9 to 12, which is equivalent to four years of high school work plus one year in college. All candidates for teacher's licenses must take the government examinations, and in these the school is rated high.

THE GERMAN-ENGLISH ACADEMY AT ROSTHERN, SASK. reports that the schools of that province, including the Academy, have gone through some very strenuous times financially. Practically no taxes came in. Public schools had to be run on government grants of $300.00, for one-room schools, out of which were paid the teacher's salary and other needful expenses, so that in certain sections of the province teachers received, on the average, only about $10.00 a month. If that was the fate of state supported schools, how could the Academy, dependent solely on small tuition fees and voluntary contributions from friends of the school manage to get through? Answering this question, the report says, "Most of the school year has passed and thus far the current expenses, teachers' salaries, and a coal bill of $500.00 have been paid. The reason for this is that the mercy and kindness of the Lord gave us kind friends in the person of the late J. R. Funk of Drake and others." The school had an enrollment of 59, inclusive of the twelve students of the Bible School, conducted during the winter months by Rev. J. H. Rempel. Under the caption of English the courses offered are similar to those in high schools; under the caption of German-Religion, Bible, Mennonite and Church History, Catechism, Missions, Christian Hymnology, German Language and Literature are given. An old debt lies heavily on the school which it has been unable to clean up on account of the drought years.

FREEMAN JUNIOR COLLEGE has finished the 35th year of its existence, and the future seems much brighter than a few years back. Enrollment in 1937-38 was: High school 87, Junior College 61, total 148. College students have come from a wider area. The Normal Department is sending out successful teachers. Most of its 34 graduates of the past year have been placed. The radio broadcasts from Yankton station are favorably received and prove beneficial. The A Capella Choir made a well-worth trip through Nebraska and Kansas. The Junior College has been fully accredited by the State University. More than $5000.00 has been received in donations. The debt has been reduced from $63,200.00 to $48,300.00. The Alumni Association is coming to be quite a help. A fine Christian spirit is prevailing in the school.

BLUFFTON COLLEGE feels deeply grateful to God, the Heavenly Father, for His guiding spirit, for abundant blessings and the many evidences of growth and improvement. Three years ago Bluffton College was struggling with a heavy burden of debt. After much thought and prayer, in June 1936 a refinancing program was adopted by the Board of Trustees, under the general provision of which uncollected pledges due the College were to be set aside to pay the obligations and the bonded indebtedness extended for ten years, at a low rate of interest. Mr. D. W. Bixler, a banker, and Dr. S. K. Mosiman, president emeritus of the school, assumed charge of the program and very satisfactorily finished the program in a little less than a year. Under the provisions of the plan the College as such was freed from its direct obligations to its creditors, while payments are being made to them as agreed.

The conferences in Bluffton's territory are rallying loyally to a renewed and increased support of the school. The Eastern conference at its session in May passed a resolution which, in part, reads as follows: "We praise God for Bluffton College, our own educational institution, and for the service she has rendered to Christ and the Church, in giving inspiration and training to a large number of our young people. We rejoice in the success of the refinancing program, whereby our financial obligations are satisfied in an honest and honorable manner . . . and we pledge a new range of prayer intercession and also an equally wide range of regular and systematic support for Bluffton College. . . ." The slogan that the Conference has adopted for immediate help is, "A penny a day and a prayer for Bluffton College." The Middle district has adopted a similar plan of systematic giving to Bluffton College. A thorough-going endowment campaign is soon to be inaugurated.

The spirit of the institution is good, a good wholesome Christian atmosphere pervades the campus. A Class of 35 was graduated in June. The faculty has been strengthened by the addition of Prof. J. H. Loganbill and A. C. Schultz, so the report continues. "Mr. Loganbill has proved himself to be exactly the dean of men that we need," and with his experience in that line looks encouraging as a business manager which office he also is to fill. In Revenend A. C. Schultz the report says, "the College has a well-trained, constructive, thorough Bible teacher." Rev. G. T. Soldner and Ralph Blosser are doing good service as field men. With its Gospel Team, A Capella Choir, and individual service on the part of faculty members the college is endeavoring to serve its constituency in an enlarged way.

BETHEL COLLEGE. "With sincere gratitude it can be said that during the fifty years the Lord has blessed and prospered Bethel College . . . . With the assistance of willing and helpful friends the school has been able gradually to move forward." During the last three years, the student body has increased 50 in regular enrollment and 90 in the total enrollment, excluding repetitions. The total for the past school year was 469. The increase has largely been from the Mennonite constituency. Five years ago there were 150 Mennonite students or nearly 55 per cent of the enrollment. Last year there were 236 Mennonite students or nearly 81 per cent of the enrollment. Demand for student work to earn part of their expenses continues. Last year 60 per cent did work at the College or in Newton.

The curriculum had to be reshaped to give more attention to personnel work, in such phases as orientation of new students, mental testing, vocational-academic- health- religious- and social guidance, and in the development of a wholesome, well-balanced Christian personality. In line with this Bethel has increased Bible offerings; so as to give a diploma after the first two years of Bible work.

Five years ago Bethel adopted a five-year program to be achieved, if possible, by the 50th anniversary of the cornerstone laying, Oct. 12, 1938. This program had ten divisions. Not all that was aimed for will be reached, but much has been done by the help of God and loyal auxiliaries, such as the Alumni Association, Advisory Board, B. C. Women's Association, On-to-Bethel Club, B. C. Tithing Band, Booster Banquet, and especially the Bethel Fellowships.

The finances of the school have been considerably improved during the last three years, the endowment by $10,000, making a total of $320,000; the plant and current value by $65,000, making a total of $444,000. The debt decreased by $36,000, leaving $85,000. That means that the value of Bethel College has been increased by a total of $111,000 and now stands at about $675,000. The school is greatly in need of a big hall for numerous purposes. The so-called Memorial Hall which is to supply this need is in the making.

Last spring Bethel College was accepted for membership in the North Central Association. The ratings under which the school was judged were: Points of Weakness — Salaries too low, not enough grants for equipment and research, needs of reference works in library, student rooming houses not fireproof, educational expenditures per student too low, debt too large, students too backward in paying bills, physical plant in need of more improvement, budget needs more efficient management. Points of strength: A definite Mennonite constituency west of the Mississippi, a very highly ranking faculty, curriculum substantial and progressive, instruction good, library adequate, admission program effective and orientative, student records satisfactory, counseling program effective, student organization program adequate, health service greatly improved, science building would be a credit to any college or university campus, administration working diligently to improve school and evaluating entire program.

To knit closer the relation of our church schools and the General Conference, the Conference Board of Education recommended to the General Conference that arrangements be made to have direct General Conference representation on our college boards.

A rather lengthy but interesting report pertaining to Witmarsum Seminary was given. We feel tempted to skip it in this connection and take it up by itself later on.

In its resolutions and recommendations the Board of Education (1) Expressed its appreciation of the work of the Field Secretary and wish for its continuance. (2) Suggested that plans should be worked out for definite integration of the General Conference Board of Education and the District Conferences educational committees. (3) . . . that the proposed Young People's Union be invited to choose at least two representatives from their group to meet with the Board of Education at its discretion to cooperate in the young people's work . . . "and that we encourage the Y. P. Committee to publish a paper in cooperation with the Boards of Education and Publication." (4) Relative to Sunday school work the Board of Education expressed its sincere appreciation of the splendid reception of the Adult S. S. Quarterly by the Sunday schools and asked the Conference for authority to work out a program of instruction covering the various units of S. S. Work. This request was granted. (5) In the fifth item the Board of Education calls attention to the need of conference representatives on the college boards and asks the Conference for authority to work out a plan to this effect. If we are not mistaken this request also was granted. (6) In regard to a Bible School and Seminary which problem had been placed in the hands of the Board of Education for study, at Upland, the Board recommended "that their Board, together with the Ex. Committee of the Conference be authorized to work with the Witmarsum Board toward the organization and the opening of a Bible School and Seminary, with such modifications of the proposed Witmarsum plan as may seem desirable in the light of continued, careful study of Evangelical Bible School and Seminary needs of our people, and that in the mean time our colleges be encouraged to do what they can to meet our needs along this line."

The election to this Board resulted in the choice of the brethren J. H. Langenwalter and P. R. Schroeder.

An Appeal

"Suffer little children to come unto me, and forbid them not: for of such is the kingdom of God."

It is the Master, who gave this command. It is He who loved so much that He gave His life. He is the one, who still loves all of us. He loves little children and it is His wish that they come unto Him through the Christian home, the Sunday school, the public school, the high school. We need teachers, who know Him and who are able to impart some of their knowledge of Christ to the children. It is this need that the German-English Academy has helped to supply for many years, and is still doing so under very difficult circumstances. Despite the fact that most of our school friends have for a number of years suffered a severe depression, we have been able not only to pay current expenses, but to somewhat reduce a large debt.

It is this debt that lies as a heavy burden on those responsible.

The depression has been given as one of the reasons for our debt. Another has been negligence by many of God's people in regularly heeding the Master's command: "Love, as I have loved you." Love the little children and give them Christian teachers, love the young people and offer them a Christian High School.

Dear Christian Friend, you who are the recipient of so much of the Master's love, will you not please donate part of that which the Lord has entrusted to you, to the Christian High School, the German-English Academy at Rosthern?

If everyone who reads this, and feels he has a debt of love to pay, contributes his share, we feel confident that the debt can be wiped out! Yes, even this year.

Already several kind people have either promised, or have given us a good start in a debt extinction campaign. Will the reader not please do likewise?

For application on our debt, and for current expenses, large or small donations will be received with thanks. The yearly membership fee is five dollars.

Please send all donations to Mr. D. P. Enns, Secretary-Treasurer, German-English Academy, Rosthern, Sask.

Sincerely yours, Benno Toews

Sunday School Lesson

SAMUEL: SPIRITUAL REVIVAL

1 Samuel 7:3-13

In our last lesson the Ark was taken by the Philistines when they defeated Israel. The Israelites had so largely forsaken God. The religious life of Israel was frequently greatly affected by the pagan worship of the people around them. For twenty years the Ark was kept in Kirjathjearim while Israel "lamented after the Lord" (v2).

Repentant Israel Returns to Jehovah vs. 3-6

Samuel, the most influential man in Israel at this time—one of the greatest in all of her history—the religious leader of Israel, saw a very hopeful sign in the longing for Jehovah. They were ready to give him a hearing. The words of verse 3 were spoken when the Philistines returned the Ark to Israel (6:10-21). Deliverance from the Philisitines depends upon Israel's return unto Jehovah and this return is possible only if they put away their strange gods, "prepare their hearts unto the Lord and serve Him daily." We can not serve God so long as we have some strange god, something we put before God in our hearts. Putting away all sin and idols, is the first step in repentance. Then the heart can truly be prepared for daily service for the Lord. God is gracious and loving and will forgive all sins to repentant ones.

The people responded promptly (v4) to the call to repentance and Samuel called upon them to gather for united prayer (v5). Samuel saw that a spiritual revival of hearts was needed above all else. There must be an outward evidence of the unity of the people. When people pray, God can work through them. The pouring of the water before the Lord (v6) expressed their sorrow for their sins and was a symbol of their complete helplessness. They fasted, a sign of humiliation, and made confession of their sin "against the Lord." Samuel had been encouraging the spirit of repentance and prayer and now at Mizpeh they openly repented. Israel's affliction in losing the Ark was followed by a very definite spiritual revival.

Israel's enemies heard of this national prayer-meeting (v7) and acted promptly. The enemies of God will always fight His people when they unitedly come to Him. Israel was alarmed (v8) and appealed to Samuel for unceasing prayer. They stood their ground and waited. The offering of the lamb wholly unto the Lord, symbolized their giving their hearts wholly to God. If our nation would give herself wholly to God, most of our troubles and problems would be ended. God saw, heard and answered (vs10,11). He caused a panic of fear to seize the Philistines, they fled and Israel pursued them and smote them. Samuel set up a stone of memorial (v12) and God's protecting hand was with Israel until the Philistines were completely vanquished under David.

Samuel was the man of God raised up for this time of spiritual revival. The dis-united and weakened tribes trusted in him who was wholly loyal to God and saw that the foremost need was a spiritual revival. Many nations need a true spiritual revival today and ours very much so. Israel was on the brink of disaster and they saw it. They confessed and repented individually and as a people. Our national spiritual revival must be in the hearts of the individuals. As persons, as a nation we need to rebuild the altars of the worship of God and remove all other altars at which hearts are now bowing in worship. Our greatest needs, individually, nationally are spiritual.

Rain and Joy

One evening at the close of an evening meeting in the court yard of Parma who was to be baptized the next day, the old grandfather of the household rose to speak. He had been baptized years ago by Rev. Wiens in the village Dhabakhar and had later been called to the village Perain by the village owner to weave cloth. He had for fourteen years called himself a Christian but had not enjoyed Christian fellowship. The Baptist Christians had not recognized him and since his village was on the Baptist side of the boundary, mission comity demanded that we refrain from going there until recently when the Baptists have turned this part of the territory over to us to evangelize. This old man said he had thought of a story which he desired to tell us. He said there was a man who had some fruit. As he ate the fruit he threw away the seed and some of this seed was lost and laid dormant for a long while. Then one day rain came and the seed began to grow. First a small sprout came up. This grew and grew. Soon there was fruit and then there was great joy. This seed that was lost am I. For a long while I lay in this village dormant as it were. Then you came and rained the Word of God on us which you preached to us. We began to grow and now there is fruit and great joy among us.

Next morning two men could be baptized in this village and five members of the old man's family received into full fellowship. The joy was great. The old man actually danced for joy when the young men sang a bhajan of praise after the baptismal service. After the service the people prepared a love meal for the entire group of evangelistic workers and we all enjoyed a happy fellowship as we ate together.

Report of the Resolutions Committee of the Young People's Committee of the General Conference

1. Resolved that we express our appreciation to those who have assisted in making the young people's sessions a success by taking part in the program.

2. Whereas we believe that the work of the young people's committee has advanced during the past three years and that the ground work has been laid for more constructive work in the future, and realizing the trying conditions under which the committee has worked, therefore, be it resolved that we publicly express our appreciation to the officers and members of the committee for their untiring efforts in our behalf.

3. Resolved that we accept the standards as approved by the Y. P. committee and recommend that a committee be appointed, with a representative from each district conference, who will urge its adoption by the societies and who will score the societies. The expense of printing to be paid out of the treasury.

4. Resolved that we recommend that the incoming committee in cooperation with the Board of Education shall make the question of Young People's Retreats a matter of thorough study with a view of increasing their usefulness.

5. Resolved that the Young People's Department of The Mennonite be continued and the editors be requested to take into consideration the suggestions mentioned in Miss Ruth's paper and if the way opens up to publish a young people's paper in cooperation with the Board of Publication and the Board of Education, they are authorized to proceed.

6. Resolved, that the district representative work out ways that will stimulate the interest of young people in all the affairs of the General Conference and that an effort be made to comply with the General Conference resolution passed at Bluffton, Ohio, in 1933 urging each church to elect one delegate under 30 years of age.

7. Resolved, that we recommend that the incoming executive committee suggest methods of systematic prayer for missions and the other activities of the General Conference and prepare the necessary literature to advance the recommendation.

8. Resolved, that we recommend that the incoming executive committee be instructed to devise a system whereby young people leaving their home for school or work be placed in contact with Mennonites in their new locality.

9. Resolved, that the incoming committee shall sponsor projects throughout the next three years, selecting those which in their minds are worthy.

10. Whereas our war-torn world is threatening the stability of our peace heritage, be it resolved that our young people's groups be encouraged in the establishment of definite and discussion courses emphasizing the principle of non-resistance and be it resolved further that the executive committee suggest ways by which the Y. P. union can express positively and practically their peace convention.

We recommend that these resolutions be distributed to the Young People's organizations of the district conferences and published in the Mennonite and Bundesbote.

Respectfully submitted,

Building a Christian Economic Order

1 Tim. 6:10; Matt. 6:19-34

Young People's Topic for Sept. 18, 1938

Meditations:

M., Sept. 12. Develop a generation that really knows Christ. Phil. 2:1-11.
T., Sept. 13. Develop fair play. Matt. 7:12.
W., Sept. 14. Abolish cheating. Lev. 6:1-7.
T., Sept. 15. Develop respect for workers. Jas. 2:1-9.
F., Sept. 16. Develop human rights. Isa. 11:1-5.
S., Sept. 17. Develop property rights. Prov. 27:18.

Suggested Hymns

"More Like the Master," "Rise up O Men of God"

From a careful reading of the above Scripture references one may understand what the foundations of a Christian ecenomic order are. Under last week's topic we pointed out that the present economic system is far from Christian in all respects. When desiring people are out of work, when labor strikes and industry retaliates, when the struggle for markets and raw materials leads to war, that system cannot accurately be labeled "Christian'"

Since Fascism and Communism also offer solutions to our economic ills, we would do well to temper our zeal for change with Christian care. Fascist leaders boast that in their countries it is illegal to strike. Well-informed people tell us, however, that under Fascism the individual is made entirely a tool of the State and that there is a distinct tendency to make the Church subservient to the State. Stalin boasts that Russia is an "economic democracy" and that the effort of communist democracy is to take "from each according to his ability" and give to "each according to his need." But we must remember that in spite of this economic idealism, communism as developed in Russia is definitely un-Christian. Sherwood Eddy has said that dogmatic atheism is required of all communists. Chamberlain, another noted authority, in Russia's Iron Age, p. 18, says that communism is the "faith without God."

We need not apologize for a negative treatment of building a Christian economic order, for there is all too much building that is upon a sandy foundation. Now let us turn to the foundation which is the slogan appearing on the title page of The Mennonite.

We can divide the building of a Christian economic order into its personal, national and international applications. As an individual one must first definitely accept Christ and permit His Will in daily life, that is, to practice fair play, abolish cheating, deal justly, and to give due respect to human rights and property rights. The national and international goals of a Christian order can be reached through the work of a mass of consecrated individuals.

Suggested topics:

I. Positive factors which Christ commands of us as individuals
  A. We must accept Christ
    1. "Come unto me all ye that labor . . ." Matt. 11:28
    2. We must be "born again." John 3:3
      a. We must be reborn into His spirit
      b. We must be reborn into His service
  B. We must follow Christ
    1. "Follow me and I will make you fishers of men." Matt. 4:19
    2. "Go ye teach, . . . preach, baptize. . ." Matt. 28:19-20
  C. We must be doers of the Word
    1. "What do ye more than others?" Matt. 5:17
    2. "Father forgive them, for they know not what they do." Luke 23:4

II. Positive Factors which Christ demands of His community
  A. Unselfish devotion to the cause of the Kingdom
    1. "Thy will be done." Matt. 6:10
    2. Practice the Golden Rule. Matt. 7:12
    3. "Love your enemies." Matt. 5:44
    4. Practice the law of love and international justice
    5. Restore right relations between labor, the employer and government. "Give unto Caesar the things which are Caesar's." Matt. 22:21
    6. Learn to cooperate with other members of the community

Leader: "Let this mind be in you which was also in Christ Jesus"

Poem:

He Walked the Highways

He walked the highways—up small streets and down,
Or on the shore-roads by the glittering sea,
But whether in the country or the town
They sought him ceaselessly.
Men closed their shops—they left their plows to seek
The many roads he took beneath the sun;
The women, eager to see him—hear him speak—
Left every task undone,
Their little children stumbling at their side,
That all might see this Healer, Teacher, Guide.

That all might see him! Oh, I wish today
That he were here along some city street
Or country lane, and we could find the way
On eager, stumbling feet:
Our men to leave their shops and plows to go—
Our women every household task to find
The One who had compassion long ago
Upon the deaf and blind.
We are so deaf and blind—Dear God, I pray
That somewhere we shall find him on the way.

—Author Unknown

Scripture reading: 1 Pet. 3:8-12
Sing chorus of "I Would Be Like Jesus" followed by sentence prayers. Ask the superintendent to close the prayers

Presenting the Topic

For the Leader. Find the pictures of at least three popular modern men, such as Will Rogers, Charles Lindbergh, Kagawa. Put them up in the front of the room. Begin the discussion by defining popularity. What is it? How do people come to be popular? Take each of the three men in turn and list the qualities that have made them popular. Let the society suggest them.

There is also a cheap popularity. Give an example. What effect does it have on character? Jesus refused to accept it. Our aim in this discussion is to discover what the qualities of a lasting popularity are and how we may strive for them.

Discussing the Topic

I. Popularity in the Bible (Give these illustrations in your own words)
  1. Why was Solomon one of the most popular kings? What did he want more than anything else? 2 Chron. 1:7-12
  2. How did Absalom seek to gain popularity? Why did he fail? 2 Sam. 15:1-6
  3. How was Jesus tempted with cheap popularity? Matt. 4:8-10
  4. What made Jesus popular with the common people? Why did Jesus try to escape this kind of popularity? John 6:11-15, 22-27; Matt. 9:35-38
  5. Why did Jesus' popularity fail in the hour of trial? Matt. 21:8-11; John 18:38-40. Is one who does the will of God always popular with the people? Why not?

II. Questions to answer
  1. Is the ambition to be popular ever right? Why do those who aim to be popular usually fail? Upon what does the right kind of popularity depend?
  2. Why is an honor student not always popular with the student body? What qualities besides scholarship are considered in selecting the most outstanding students in our schools?
  3. For what qualities should a Christian strive to be popular? 1 Tim. 4:12. A C. E. Society? A church?

Closing Moments

Leader: Phil. 3:13, 14
Song: "Close to Thee"
Benediction

There is what is called the highway to posts and honors, and there is a cross and by way, which is much the shortest.—Bruyere.

JUNIOR CORNER

Junior Leader's Convention

at the Tabor Church, Aug. 14, 1938

There was a good representation at this meeting. There were fourteen societies represented and 16 leaders present. One leader, Anna Margaret Reimer, came from Beatrice, Nebraska.

This group met in a small room in the church. The meeting was called for the purpose of creating a more unified spirit between societies and helping one another by suggestions and hints of past experiences with the Juniors.

The following is the program that was followed.

1. Registration of Leaders
2. Opening Prayer—Chairman
3. Letter of Greeting—Mrs. Joanna S. Andres
4. Hymn "Oh Master Let Me Walk With Thee"
5. Devotionals—Sister Helen Ruth Epp, Whitewater
6. Leader's Exchange—Discussions of problems, projects, programs, time of meetings, etc.—By group
7. Talk, "The Junior Leader's Task"—Mrs. J. M. Suderman
8. Call to Consecration—Chairman
9. Closing Song "Blest Be the Tie That Binds"
10. Closing Prayer—Mrs. J. M. Suderman

The discussion or Leader's exchange part of the program was both very interesting and beneficial for through it, as leaders, we learned how to bring the Savior to our Juniors in a more practical and efficient way. I am sure that all received some benefit from the discussion.

The climax of the meeting was the talk given by Mrs. J. M. Suderman. In a simple yet earnest way she presented the task of the Junior Leader to us so that it seemed to grip every heart in that meeting. To you leaders who were not there it would be well worth while to ask Mrs. Suderman for the main thoughts of her talk.

Following are some of the points she stressed.

I. Importance of Task
  A. Leaders deal with Immortal Souls
  B. Juniors of today are church workers of tomorrow
  C. Junior age of importance (age just preceding important decision age)

II. Task (Illustrated)
  A. Junior—Field
    1. Type of field
      a. Pliable
      b. Confidential
      c. Receptive
      d. Willingness to Work

B. Word—Seed
  1. Necessity of new Birth
  2. Christ Living Word
  3. Rewards of faithful

C. Leader—Sower
  1. Connecting link between Christ and the children
  2. Qualifications
    a. Personal experience with Christ as Savior
    b. Daily fellowship with Him
    c. Be an example
    d. Patience
  3. Aims in Sowing
    a. Church workers
    b. Mission Interest
    c. Conference Interest
    d. Encourage reading of publications
    e. Present heroes of faith of our day as well as those of Bible History
    f. Lead children to the knowledge of the saving power of Christ
  4. How to Sow
    a. Diligently
    b. Whole heartedly
    c. Not sparingly

At the close of the meeting the following motions were passed:

1. A committee be elected that shall provide for a half hour program in connection with the next Western District C. E. Convention.

2. Junior Leader's business meeting be held during the time the Seniors hold theirs.

The committee elected: Mrs. Joanna Andres (chairman), Miss Doris Mueller, Mrs. Nickel.

During the moments that we spent together we realized that the Lord has done great things through the work with the children; but we also became conscious of the fact that much remains to be done. Therefore, let us with the coming year strive to do greater things in and through Him who said, "Suffer the little children to come unto me and forbid them not, for of such is the Kingdom of Heaven."

List of Leaders Present

Hilda Schmidt, Tabor Church, Goessel
Mrs. Louis Claassen, Swiss Church, Whitewater

Just an Added Word:

I regretted deeply that the change of the convention date made it impossible for me to attend. And yet I was with you. I must witness to the joy that comes when we, who so often hurry our prayers, "dwell" at His feet. May your two hours at the convention have been as blessed as mine because He came near to the heart.

Sincerely, Mrs. J. S. Andres

PROGRAM SUGGESTIONS

Because of lack of space, we can only mention the program suggestions for September 11. If you have not read "Another Beginning" (Junior Corner, August 16 issue) please do so first. The topic for September 11 is: "Where art thou?" taken from Genesis 3:9. The aim which this study is to carry out is: to teach the child that nothing is hidden from God. Other incidents of the Seeing God can be woven into this lesson. The lesson text for the evening is Genesis 3.

Young People's Retreats

—The Young People's Retreat of Kansas, Nebraska and Oklahoma, held at Camp Wood Y.M.C.A. camp at Elmdale, Kansas, was attended by close to 200 young people of high school age and above. The retreat lasted from Thursday, Aug. 18 to Tuesday, Aug. 23. The leaders were: Rev. and Mrs. S. T. Moyer of Basna, India; Professors A. E. Kreider, Abr. Warkentin, Bernhard Bargen and Rev. J. N. Smucker of Bethel College, and Mr. Erwin Goering, Moundridge.

—The California Young People's Retreat had its tenth session, again at Lake Sequoia, last week. The general theme was, "First Things First." The leaders were: Dr. J. H. Langenwalter, Rev. H. B. Hiebert, Rev. D. D. Eitzen, and Dr. H. A. Fast; the committee, Reuben Bergthold, Maryanna Ratzlaff, Wallace Hiebert, and Aaron Jantzen.

Charting Your Course

Edna Reeck Brown

Perhaps even now you are planning an extensive trip. You have decided what method of travel you will use and doubtless you are considering what your equipment is going to be. Maps have been collected and you probably are trying to figure out a course whereby you can reach the points of greatest interest and importance to you. And the more thoroughly you plan your trip, the more worthwhile it is sure to be.

All of us are not privileged to enjoy the pleasures of the traveler, but every righteous person has the far greater privilege of enjoying the unexcelled pleasures of the few who travel "the highway of the upright" (Prov. 16:17).

Here again it is well worthwhile to give as much attention and consideration as is possible to the preparation for our journey.

The very first question that any prospective traveler may well ask himself is: Am I in a fit condition to travel? That one little question immediately summons a host of other questions to our attention. Am I a real Christian—a "born again" one, free from guilt? Am I willing to acknowledge my utter inability to travel alone? Am I willing that God shall be my constant guide? Am I willing to leave the details of the pilgrimage to Him, and be satisfied to learn His plans for me when He chooses to reveal them? Am I willing to let Him map out my course for me?

So my knowledge of this all-important journey is to be limited! Just what may I know? To begin with, you may know that your journey is a "one-way" one; that is, that you are going from a temporary home to a permanent one. Your final destination is Heaven. You may know, too, that the highway you are to travel is not a wide, smooth, even speedway. Many stretches of your narrow path will be rough and steep. You may know, however, that the Lord will be your constant guide so long as you remain a willing and obedient traveler.

Much can be learned from those who have been happy and successful travelers before us. We find that all were teachable. They yearned for guidance. David expressed this plainly in the Psalms: "Show me thy ways, O Lord; teach me thy paths" (Ps. 25:6). Again with the utmost confidence he says, "Thou shalt guide me with thy counsel, and afterward receive me to glory" (Ps. 73:24). David carried with him the assurance that "he leadeth me in the paths of righteousness" (Ps. 23:3). His constant plea to God was: "Lead me in the way everlasting" (Ps. 139:24). He learned that it pays to "commit thy way unto the Lord", for he knew that "the steps of a good man are ordered by the Lord" (Ps. 37:23).

At the very outset you must learn that your thoughts and your ways are not His. You must be able to say: "O Lord, I know that the way of man is not in himself: it is not in man that walketh to direct his steps" (Jer. 10:23).

You must learn, too, that you will travel the "straight and narrow way" and that as you progress you must often inquire of your guide. You must want and "ask for the old paths, where is the good way, and walk therein," and then you "shall find rest for your soul" (Jer. 6:16).

Yes, but how is one always to know? When your ears are attuned to His voice, you "shall hear a word . . . saying, This is the way, walk ye in it" (Isa. 30:21). And you must never forget the promises: "I will instruct thee and teach thee in the way which thou shalt go: I will guide thee with mine eye"; "For this God is our God for ever and ever; he will be our guide even unto death."

When things look dark and discouraging, and you are tempted to turn aside, remember the admonition: "Let thine eyes look right on, and let thine eyelids look straight before thee" (Prov. 4:25). Recall, too, that blessed passage: "The path of the just is as the shining light, that shineth more and more unto the perfect day" (Prov. 4:18). Truly God is able to "make darkness light" and "crooked things straight," and He will never fail you if you, like David, cry out, "O send out thy light and thy truth: let them lead me" (Ps. 43:3).

Surely with the direct guidance of God through the Holy Spirit, the Bible, and prayer, you have ample and practical provision for a safe and happy, though trying, journey.

What if the way sometimes is difficult? Won't you, like Paul, be resolved that "none of these things (numberless afflictions) move me, neither count I my life dear unto myself, so that I might finish my course with joy?" Later he could say, "I have finished my course, I have kept the faith" (2 Tim. 4:7).

I am sure that we who have traveled only a little while and a little way agree with those who have long ago reached their destination that it pays to let God map out our course for us. It is up to us to desire, accept, and acknowledge His guidance, and He will do the rest. "In all thy ways acknowledge him, and he shall direct thy paths" (Prov. 3:6).—Edna Reeck Brown of 3111 E. 35th Ave., Spokane, Wash., is a live home, church and community worker, who, besides her many duties finds time and delight to write articles for religious papers. The Gospel in Russia

We human beings often see only what we look for. An illustration: A tourist and hunter in India for many years, when asked about mission work in that land, answered, that he had not seen one missionary, nor anything of mission work in India, in all his time. But had found the jungles full of tigers, leopards, etc. —game enough for many years.

A missionary of fifty years service in India, when asked about the danger from wild animals in that land, answered, that he had not seen one live tiger, nor any other dangerous animal in all his years in India.

A tourist through Russia, lately, who had heard of the persecution of believers in that country, and of the determination (!) of that country to "absolutely uproot all religious faith in the land, even the very conception of a god," reported, that he had not seen or met even one believer there, on his more than 16,000 miles of travel through that land.

And now we again read in a Christian periodical (similar reports have been given before), that according to the last census in Russia a careful estimate puts the number of believers in God at about 100,000,000. After the new constitution was issued, which promised religious freedom, the people felt more free to record themselves as "believers in a God." This part of the census was not generally published, so as not to admit the failure in the attempt of exterminating all religion (Christian, Mohammedan, Jewish, Heathen—all).

Recent missionary travelers in Russia estimate that there are at least 25,000,000 Evangelical believers (Baptist, Evangelical Christians, a.o.), and 50,000,000 or more Orthodox Catholic Christians in the country. Many of the latter have come to a clearer understanding of saving faith through terrible hardships through which they are going, and through much contact with the Evangelicals. Other missionary authorities have repeatedly said this, in substance: If full freedom should be established in Russia, that land today would doubtless prove to be the most Evangelical land on the globe. It would put all other so-called Protestant lands into the shade.

Most believers in Russia are, for the present, very quiet (for good reasons), working individually (see Acts 8:4), "from heart to heart." Material help can be sent to that land to many faithful servants of the Lord; but no direct missionary assistance. Most of the church leaders today are "not at home" (very many are "at home with the Lord"). The policy of the church is: Every believer is a missionary!

Keep on praying and sending material help. I am acquainted with several reliable agencies, and we have our own agency in our Relief Committee. God is doing a marvelous work there. If not time, then eternity will reveal this. It is really a nopen secret now; but not very much spoken of, for good reasons. Praise the Lord!—J. B. Epp.

In Memoriam

Tuba City, Arizona, Aug. 8.

Dear Brother Richert:

We buried our daughter, Rachel Johnson, Saturday, August 5. She passed away at 3:30 a. m. at our Hospital here at Tuba City, being sick only six days. Rachel is the oldest girl in our family, she was fifteen years and two months old when she died. She was the first of our children to accept Jesus as her Savior, three years ago, and was baptized here in our Moencopi Church by our missionary, Rev. John P. Suderman. Ever since then she has been very happy, always willing to take part in our church services. And it was her desire to be at our Southwest Bible and Missionary Conference at Flagstaff this summer. We arrived in Flagstaff on July 30 for the opening of our Conference, and toward evening she complained of headache. We called the doctor who advised that we take her to some Hospital, as she was developing typhoid fever. We at once returned to Tuba City and placed her in the Hospital, under the doctors care, where she passed away within six days. We are sorry to see her gone, we will miss her in our family, but God's will has been carried out. It must be for our good or else God could not have permitted this to happen. We ask you to announce this in your papers that our friends may pray for us. We are already greatly comforted in knowing that she is resting in the hands of God, awaiting for the time when Jesus shall call for His redeemed. We had a funeral service for her where many of our friends and relatives gathered for the last time to pay their tribute to her. We mourn but not like those who have no hope. Rachel Johnson's place in the home and in the church is now empty. But she has four other sisters and brother who can fill the place, and many friends in our village. Please pray with us that God will save our children. Yours in His service, Fred A. Johnson

RODNEY JAMES CLAASSEN was born Nov. 29, 1936. He enjoyed good health until about a week ago when small sores appeared on his forehead. These developed into what appeared to be a boil which did not drain as it should. Monday his temperature was alarmingly high, and we took him to the hospital. where his condition rapidly grew more serious. We still hoped and prayed that he might be spared, but never in our incessant prayer for him did we forget to pray, "not our will but thy will be done." Finally the infection from this boil spread to the rest of his body, causing his death, Aug. 19, 1938, at the age of 1 year and 9 months. He leaves to mourn his departure his parents, one sister, one brother, and other relatives.

We as a family say with Job, "The Lord gave, and the Lord hath taken away; blest be the name of the Lord."

—Rev. John F. Schmidt, a graduate of Bethel College, who recently finished the course leading to a B. D. at Hartford Seminary is now serving a Congregational Church at Council Grove, Kansas. He writes, "We feel we are very fortunate in working with such fine people as we have in the church here."

—President J. D. Unruh of Freeman College writes: "Just a word to let you know that I am planning to continue my work toward the doctorate this fall at the University of Texas. Our address will be 710 West 19th Street, Austin, Texas. We plan to be here about September 1."

—Rev Johann Gerbrandt of Drake, Sask. passed away soon after the Conference at Saskatoon, which he attended, apparently in good health. One of the leaders among our brethren in Canada, he was also favorably known to many in the States.

—The Ordination of Brother Erland Waltner, who has accepted the call to become the successor of Bro. S. M. Grubb as pastor of the Second Mennonite Church of Philadelphia, as minister of the Gospel, took place on Sunday afternoon, Aug. 28, in his home church, the Salem Mennonite Church near Freeman, S. Dak. His pastor, Dr. P. R. Schroeder, aided by the pastors of the sister churches, performed the act. (Sorry we did not get this announcement until too late for last issue.—Editor.)

—Dr. Theodore Suckau, son of Rev. and Mrs. Suckau of Berne, Ind. and professor at Ohio State University is about to change his name for plausible reasons. His betrothed, Miss Marguerite D. Strong, on her mothers side comes from a distinguished Youngs family. As there has been a dirth of male descendents in this family and there is at present no one to perpetuate this name, Dr. Suckau by family agreement and court order assumes the name Youngs.

—Rev. C. H. Dirks of the First Menn. Church, Hutchinson, Kansas, will have charge of the morning devotional period over KWBG (Hutchinson) each week day morning, at 10:45, from Aug. 29 to Sept. 3. The main theme is "The Cross of Christ."

On Sunday morning, Aug. 14, sermons on Christian Education were given in the churches surrounding Freeman College in preparation for an ingathering of cash gifts for the school. College Welfare Committees have been appointed in the churches. Their work is to visit all the families in behalf of this matter on the day set for the purpose.

—Last year Bethel College had three students from Canada. Dr. David Toews of Rosthern, Sask. writes: "I hope that more and more students from Canada will find their way to Bethel College, because the institution has been a blessing in the past, and I am sure will continue to be a blessing in the future."

—Miss Louise Susan Schroeder, daughter of Dr. P. R. Schroeder, Freeman, S. Dak. has made application for entrance to Bethel College this fall. We are sure that Miss Schroeder will get a very glad welcome and that her being with us will be profitable to her and to the school.

—A young Mennonite, Bro. J. A. Harder, whose home is in the Gran Chaco, Paraguay, S. A. has made known his desire to enter Bethel College with the purpose of preparing for definite work in the Lord's vineyard. To do this he needs financial help. No doubt, through the help of loyal friends of Bethel and Christian education, ways can be found to bring the young brother here.

—Two scientists, Stephen P. Gould and Earl W. Whitter have succeeded in producing synthetic fibre much like wool from cow skim milk. They figure that the process will make it possible to produce a suit with the wearing qualities and appearance of wool from about five gallons of milk, at a cost much lower than one made from wool.

—Perhaps the following warning may serve as a preventive of some life going astray. White slavery still exists and evil men and women are still fishing for innocent girls, in order to ply their devilish trade. In New York they are going to have a big world's fair next year. Agents from the east are now in the middle west looking for girls for immoral purposes. One of their methods is to solicit girls as sales ladies of magazines. They try to find girls who want work but are unable to secure it at home. So some of them accept such a job, with the hope of earning money honorably. Then after a few days the girls disappear, perhaps forever. The following took place in a Mennonite community not long ago: A young girl attended a movie alone, sitting next to a stranger man and woman. The girl felt that something like a pin was thrust into her. She rose to leave the room but soon fell. The strangers jumped up and claimed her, but fortunately a friend of the girl insisted on her privilege of taking the poor victim of this foul deed to her home.

—The following stopped at Freeman, S. Dak. on their trip to and from the Conference, at Saskatoon: Rev. and Mrs. John Lichti of Medford, Okla., Rev. and Mrs. Ed. Schmidt of Wichita, Kansas. Rev. J. C. Kaufman stopped off there on his return and then proceeded on a trip to Berne, Indiana, with wife and daughter.

—Professor F. L. Engledown of the Cambridge Plant Breeding Institute, Cambridge, England, has just developed a new type of wheat capable of yielding 10 per cent more than any other British variety. A hybrid grain, it resists rust and can withstand heavy storms because it grows short.

Sin is the insurrection and rebellion of the heart against God; it turns from Him and turns against Him; it takes up arms against God.—Richard Alleine.

GOD'S PROFIT IN US

In Job 22:2 Eliphaz, a supposedly wise man and friend of Job, asks: "Can a man be profitable unto God?" and then foolishly answers: "Surely he that is wise is profitable unto himself." This is an interesting passage. The greatest business in the world is not governing America, making automobiles with innumerable improvements, bargaining in stocks, the building of railroads, or the like, but it is the revamping of lives, the remaking of human souls, and this is the business of us Christians and the Christian Church. It involves all other business enterprises, because when a soul in won for Christ and His church, its activities and its belongings also are won for the great cause. It is the most inclusive turnover for profits. Does God need profit, such profit as a soul won to Him can give? Does God need profit, such profit as a redeemed soul, consecrated to His service, can give Him? Most assuredly! Doesn't the whole Old Testament show how God has been wooing His chosen people to Him? Has He not sent His only Son to win the world of sinners to Him? He seeks souls as men seek gold, with a passion, an eagerness, a persistency far surpassing any and all human efforts. The search for souls is the divine enterprise. And any real Christian that lives the renewed life in Christ and serves Him wholeheartedly is profitable unto God and helps build His Kingdom.

MORE THINGS ABOUT THE RECENT CONFERENCE

Last week we told of the "Good Things" about the Conference. This week we shall tell of a few things not so good or commendable. But, before we forget again, we must mention the very pleasant weather that prevailed throughout the session. This did so much to keep the folks in good spirit and in adding to their comfort. The temperature was such that men did not think of shedding their coats, as would have been the case in Kansas, in August. In the evening even overcoats were worn by some. No wonder they have such an abundance of beautiful flowers there. It is because the sun smiles gently upon them and does not scorch them during the midday hours. — One thing the conference delegates need to be checked up on, that is in exercising a keener sense of obligation to stay until the conference program is actually concluded. There were really again several who left even before the close of the businss session, and after that there was quite an exodus, so that for the Sunday forenoon, afternoon and evening programs there did not seem to be half of them left. One of two things should be done: Either the delegates should be asked to sign a pledge to stay until the last Amen is spoken, or the Program Committee should arrange such attractions for the closing programs that nobody will want to miss them unless he is compelled to do so for unavoidable reasons. — Then there was considerable disturbance caused by people leaving the hall during sessions. This tendency was more noticeable to the people from the States where we don't seem to be similarly disturbed. The chairman reminded such persons to be more thoughtful but not with the desired effect. Disturbance caused by the influx of late-comers could be checked by ushers at the entrances.—In a large, high vaulted hall where the sound of the speakers scatters far and wide, there are not many who can be plainly heard, unless they stand behind the "mike". They should exercise enough foresight to get behind it as quickly as they have the floor. On the whole, though, there was probably less complaint of not being able to hear than has often been the case. — An occasional verse in song being very helpful to an audience not very comfortably seated, both for physical comfort, as well as for the sake of variety and inspiration, each conference should have one or, better, two song leaders and pianists, so that when the chairman gives out a song, he need not have the embarassment of scanning the hall for such persons. — A conference picture is such a fine thing to remember the event by and to enjoy a look at the faces of old friends and for trying to see how many of the new acquaintances one can recognize, that there ought to be unanimity of effort on the part of everybody to be at the place at the time announced for the picture to be taken. In this case there was sufficient announcement that the very large majority could have been there, where in fact only about half the number were present. And perhaps the very persons that brother A or sister B wanted on that picture are conspicuous by their absence. Too bad! — The language caused less difficulty than many thought it would. It was largely overcome by the printed reports in both languages and by the fact that the majority of the brethren from the States are almost equally conversant in both English and German. It would have been well if there had been enough printed reports to supply more of the interested visitors as well as the delegates.

In conclusion we still hold that the Conference was very good.

A MATTER TO THINK ABOUT

With the independent democratic spirit that prevails among us Mennonites, where each congregation is its own arbiter in the management of its affairs, the choice of a minister and the kind and amount of preparation he should have, is left entirely to the discretion of each individual church. A church may choose a man with no more than a common school education, with practically no theological preparation, or one who has a full college education, with courses leading to graduation from a theological seminary on top of it, with all sorts of gradation in between. It has happened repeatedly, especially of late, that some of our churches have called men to their ministry who have secured all their educational preparation in non-Mennonite schools. In case of a dirth of ministers of our own making that would be pardonable. But as long as we have godly young men, trained at least partly in our own schools, looking for a place of service in one of our churches, should not our churches feel the obligation to use these? Do not those now ministering to a rather large number of our churches prove that they have been well taught, that they are sound in the faith and loyal to our principles?.— We Mennonites have certain principles of faith and doctrine, to which our forebears have tenaceously adhered for over four hundred years, have suffered persecution and death for upholding them. Are ministers prepared solely in non-Mennonite schools attuned to these things so precious to us? Will their teaching be in line with them. Will they stand up for them when tests arise? When war should come to America could they be relied on for counseling our boys aright? Some of us older people still have a pretty vivid memory on what a warlike spirit the leading Bible Institute of this country worked itself into, when we entered the World War. We have no flaw to pick with Bible institutes. They serve their purpose well, and have wrought great blessings. But we do feel that any young men desiring to serve a Mennonite church as its minister should at some time in his preparation spend a year or two in one of our schools. Those who have done so, we are sure will agree with us, have found it to be a valuable asset to themselves and the churches whom they serve.

ANNOUNCEMENT

On Sunday, Sept. 11, beginning at 2:30 p.m., will occur the ordination service of Mr. George Dick to the gospel ministry and the installation of Bro. and Sister Dick as pastor and worker of the First Mennonite Church at Lima, Ohio. The service will be conducted by Rev. D. J. Unruh, chairman of the Home Mission Committee of the Middle District. The churches are asked to remember these workers in prayer and cordially invited to share in the service as far as possible.

Work Project Underway

By W. D. Snow

Bluffton College Bulletin, August 1938

A church college which relates work to spiritual objectives has an unique obligation in this respect. The Christian doctrine has always been that work is not merely a means to material consumption, not merely a social responsibility but that the lot of the worker is a holy one.

The federal government—whether to help the colleges keep their students and keep their doors open, or to help students stay in college, I don't know—has made money available for certain categories of student employment. That helps.

But in three respects, more is needed. First, maintaining college enrollment is not enough; money is needed for new students. Second, raking leaves and cleaning up after other students is not enough; the substance and satisfaction of meaningful employment is needed. Third, the jobs should have an eventful relationship to the curriculum and cultural needs.

Bluffton College is seeking to meet these three needs with a student work program along the lines of the artisan student movement of Switzerland, England, and the Scandinavian countries. This program, initiated July 1st, seeks the establishment at Bluffton College of student projects devoted to the production and distribution of useful commodities. These projects must not compete with local business; they must not collide with trade unions.

An enterprise of such a character has already been obtained. On July 20th a contract was signed with one of the largest book wholesalers in the Middle West, calling for the establishment at Bluffton of a unit which will employ fourteen students about eighteen hours a week each. The work week will be subordinated to the academic work.

A similar contract, not less advantageous in its terms, will, I believe, be signed shortly with a distributor of art products.

Because this vocational program must be subordinated to the general cultural and spiritual principles which guide our college, because it must be set up no faster than it can be assimilated, we are proceeding slowly.

Your support is ncessary. If you have suggestions for suitable enterprises, I urge you to communicate with me.

W. D. Snow, Edison Bldg., Toledo, Ohio.

Mr. W. D. Snow, a Toledo attorney, was first contacted in the interest of Bluffton College by Roland Bixler, president of the Alumni Association.

As Mr. Snow indicates, the present arrangement is only a beginning, and other industries will be added as rapidly as they can be assimilated. The ultimate goal is for the work program to be integrated with the curriculum in such a way that each department of the college will contribute and gain practical experience.

FOREIGN MISSIONS

P. H. Richert, Sec.

Marion, S. Dak., Aug. 29, 1938

To our dear Friends:

Since the Lord is calling us back to the mission fied in China, and the work there is very pressing, so that our coworkers call for help, we are going back to China, leaving here on Sept. 8, and sailing on the Empress of Canada from Vancouver on Sept 17. Any letters reaching there before the given date will be received with joy. We have the assurance that you are praying for us, and that the Lord will hear and give us not only a safe journey but also much grace for the work there under difficult conditions. We herewith thank you for your hearty interest and fervent prayers. God bless you all!

Very faithfully yours, H. J. and Maria Brown.

VIRGINIA MACKEE

At 4:15 Virginia's body arrived from California, accompanied by her son Roland, 17 years old. Two weeks ago the message of her critical illness reached the father. The government wanted to know whether to send her body home when she died. The father, an old heathen, said, "Yes." She died on Sunday morning. The message came that her body would arrive in Winslow Wednesday at 2 p.m. So Mr. Suderman made two trips up the mesa to tell the father of his daughter's funeral Wednesday afternoon, but he was not at home. Wednesday morning he drove down to his field beyond the mesa. No. He was not coming to the funeral, he was "too busy." The fact of it was, he was too much afraid to come near a corpse.

When the truck with the casket arrived at 4:15, the bell was rung again to call the people to the service. The casket was made of cedar wood. It was factory made but uncovered. Virginia had been baptized here at Oraibi about 20 years ago upon her confession of faith in Christ as her personal Savior. She then attended Sherman Indian School at Riverside, California. There she got married and lived on. Her husband left her with two children. She then looked for work and found some in a Catholic home. They also persuaded her to join the Catholic church, which she did. It helped her to earn a livelihood. When she was at home in Oraibi two years ago she attended services a few times. She also said then, though she had joined the Catholic church, she wanted to be buried here, for she believed in Christ as her personal Savior.

The service of the second funeral was similar to the service of the first one. The text was Psalm 23:4. The audience was about the same. The son and a few cousins were the only near relatives present. We came home from the second funeral about 8 o'clock. What a day it was. There was not much waiting for suggestions as to what to do. The men were busy in their fields from 2 to 10 miles away from the village. The heathen men were afraid of digging graves. So Mr. Suderman's help was needed in the digging of each grave, also as pall bearer, funeral director, preacher, and also in closing the grave.

It has been quite stormy this year. We have had only a few showers this summer, but are in need of more rain. Our drinking water supply is very low again. We had to haul one tank full on the trailer from Toreva, 14 miles from here on the other side of the mountain. For household purposes we haul it from 5 miles south of here, that is, if there is any. We have had quite a bit of trouble with our well. Last fall an iron bar fell into the well. We fished it out a few weeks ago. A few heathen boys working for the government irrigation service were here to do the work. At the dinner table Mr. Suderman prayed that we might be able to get the bar out. When at 2 o'clock the bar came out, one of the boys said, "well, Mr. Suderman, your prayer is answered." We have had to pull pipes and rods several times because the sand in the well clogged up the cylinder. We had not the necessary equipment at this time to clean the sand out of the well, however, we got it to pumping a little more water. Later in the season with a little more help we hope to be able to clean the well and finish the work on it.

The village, too, has had little water this spring because the gvernment well or pump was out of order. The old springs were used again, but they too were getting dry. One girl said to her mother, "It looks as though it is going to be as in Elijah's day." This must seem strange to you for we hear that you have much rain in Kansas and plenty in other places.

Sewing classes are closed now. A few women were near the kingdom, yet they were so far because they did not accept. In our church work the devil has cast a few ugly rocks. We sometimes wonder why the Lord permits it, but it must be for some purpose. May we close with the following verses: Isa. 30:15; 2 Chron. 20:15; and 1 Sam. 12:23. We constantly stand in need of your daily prayers.—Mrs. J. P. Suderman.

Notes from the General Conference

WORK OF THE RELIEF BOARD

This Board reported that they had tried to fulfill their duty along two lines: (1) By aid and assistance directly to relieve suffering, (2) by cooperating with other Mennonite relief groups through the Mennonite Central Committee (M.C.C.). To Canada help has been extended as follows: (a) Monthly remittances to help those families who are in great distress due to sickness, death, etc., (b) Small allowances to be applied on the transportation debt of such families where the breadwinner has passed away or is bereft of his earning power. In this connection the Board expressed the hope that the Conference might take steps to take care of the debt of such incapacitated families. (c) Much clothing is still being sent there, mostly through women's missionary societies.—Some help, though rather inconsiderable, has been gievn to relieve flood suffering in China and India. The distress in China, due to the war, is great. Some assistance has been given through our missionaries, much more should be done.

In Germany the Mennonite Home is paid for and also our quota to the German government for its maintenance. As the brethren in Paraguay and Brazil, South America, owe the German government large sums of money for transportation, and are not yet in condition to pay off, the brethren B. H. Unruh and Orie Miller have succeeded in inducing the Reich authorities to scale down the amount of debt considerably and to accede to a grace period up to 1942, from which time on it is believed they ought to be ready to make regular payments.—As for Russia the condition of our brethren is steadily growing more serious. They are being deported, sometimes by the hundreds, and in this way exposed to all kinds of diseases, or starved to death. Their voices are becoming more and more silent.—The Board has been repeatedly requested by non-Mennonite organizations to join in relieving suffering in Spain. Small donations for such aid have come in. A good many of our brethren feel that more concentrated effort should be made by us to help succor the plights of the many suffering children there.

In Mexico our people have not fared satisfactorily, because of changes and unrest. Some have left the country and others would like to go. Here help could be given only to a few individuals in great need. In the United States some aid was given to flood sufferers, more was probably done by donations to the Red Cross for which our Conference did not get credit.—The brethren who have settled in Brazil are helped in part by the brethren in Germany. To assist the new Mennonite settlers in Paraguay, the M.C.C. has succeeded in purchasing Corporation Paraguaya, a tract of land upon part of which Colony Fernheim is established. This gives the settlers larger advantages. Formerly a family allotment was 100 acres, now it is 250 acres, "and the price to them was reduced so drastically that no industrious family would be unable to make its annual payments on the purchase price." People there have had fairly good crops in 1936 and 1937. The brethren Orie Miller, P. C. Hiebert and H. S. Bender have made visits there for counseling and for giving spiritual uplift. Bibles have been distributed. The most pressing need there now is a doctor.

Resolutions were passed that the Conference take part in the feeding of children in war-torn Spain, as far as means permit, in the name of the Mennonites. Also that the churches in the States put forth efforts to collect, during the next three years, $27,000 to help pay the indebtedness of the hopeless cases of immigrants in Canada.

Following are the amounts (in round figures) passed out by the Relief Board in 1935-38: Canada, $5,196; United States, $3,321; Russia, $3,221; Germany, $2,473; Menn. Central Committee, $2,130; India, $1,975; China, $1,047; South America, $337; Mexico, $269; Gen. Conference treasury, $151; other treasuries, $139; refunds, $223. Total paid out, $21,953; total received, $24,990; expenses, $1,471; balance left, $3,037, the amount given for Spain included.

The members of this Board whose term had expired, P. H. Unruh and Waxwell Kratz, were both reelected with large majorities.

COMMITTEE ON DOCTRINE AND CONDUCT

This Committee held two meetings after their organization at Upland. At the one Bro. E. G. Kaufman was asked to publish his articles on various topics pertaining to Doctrine and Conduct. It was also agreed that other publications intended to clarify different views on faith and church ordinances should be sent to the churches. At the last meeting, held at Bethel College, it was decided to distribute the pamphlets prepared by E. G. Kaufman, P. H. Richert and Abr. Warkentin, and other on topics such as: The Church, The Bible, God, Christ, Immortality, Peace, Faith, Security, Diverse Baptisms. The members also agreed that each should write an assigned article for the Bundesbote. In a June number of 1937 the following articles appeared: Mennonite Characteristics; the Christian Attitude toward the Dance; Security and the Believers, Sunday Observance, and others. The Committee expresses the conviction that more stress should be placed in our churches upon true, consecrated Christian living, which can be greatly helped by stressing the Mennonite Heritages left us by our fathers, also by persistent warning against the evil influences of our age, Romans 12:2.—Dr. J. H. Langenwalter was made a member of the Committee.

THE PEACE COMMITTEE

This Committee felt handicaped by being widely scattered over the country, which necessitated doing its work mostly by correspondence. The Committee has sponsored the following phases of work: (a) Institute of International Relations, Newton, Kansas, held 10 days each year, the last three years. Men and women of world renown deliver lectures. These are later discussed by interested groups. Our Peace Committee has helped sponsor these gatherings, and its chairman, E. L. Harshbarger, has acted as dean. (b) Peace Conferences. The Committee through some of its members has succeeded in arranging for student Peace Conferences, A. J. Neuenschwander in the East, E. L. Harshbarger and A. S. Rosenberger farther west, and L. J. Horsch in California. (c) Visit to Government. Early in 1937 a plan was evolved by the Historic Peace Denominations to present their principles and convictions to the President of the United States. Through the American Friends' Service Committee a Conference for this purpose was arranged. On Feb. 12, 1937 the three delegations met and proceded to present to President Roosevelt and the government statements of the position of our constituencies on war and peace, as taught and lived by Christ. (d) Peace Literature. The Committee has made a beginning in the production of such literature and plans to continue to do so. So far the following are available at the Mennonite Book Concern, Berne, Indiana, at 20 cents a copy: CHRISTIAN PEACE, according to the New Testament Teaching outside the Gospels, by Rev. Ernest J. Bohn; also CHRISTIAN PEACE, Teachings and Practices as held by the Mennonites for the Past Four Centuries, by Dr. C. Henry Smith. The M.S. for a third treatise is ready. These books splendidly lend themselves to study groups of our Y. P. Societies. Leaders should take note of this. (c) Auxiliary Peace Committees. The Committee has been endeavoring to organize such committees in the different conference districts, and are grateful for the cooperation received and rsults obtained. (f) Naturalization Work. In cooperation with the Friends and Brethren efforts have been made to help our foreign born members in their attempt to become citizens, without surrendering their conviction of the wrongness of war, but progress is none too promising.

The brethren elected on this Committee are: Eastern District, Ernest J. Bohn; Middle District, H. T. Unruh; Northern District, J. J. Goering.

All things that speak of heaven, speak peace.—Bailey.

How different the peace of God from that of the world! It calms the passions, preserves the purity of conscience, is inseparable from righteousness, unites us to God and strengthens us against temptations. The peace of the soul consists in an absolute resignation to the will of God.—Fenelon.

The Value of Pleasing Manners

A person's manners generally indicate his character. They are an index of his tastes, his feelings, his temper, and to some extent of his religion. There is a kind of conventional manner, a superficial veneer, a "society cloak" used by some people on special occasions which is as transparent as it is worthless. Artificial politeness is an attempt to deceive, an effort to make others believe that we are what we are not, while true politeness is the outward expression of the internal being.

There is a vast difference between "society customs" and genuine good manners. The former is a bold but fruitless attempt to counterfeit a noble virtue, while the latter is the natural expression of a heart filled with honest endeavor.

Good manners are developed through a spirit imbued with unselfishness, kindness, justness, and generosity. They are like the hands of a watch in that they indicate that the machinery within is perfect and true.

Among the qualities which contribute to worldly success true politeness stands high. History is replete with examples of men whose sincerity and charm of manners helped them to places of power and influence. In the business world it is the bravery of a man towards his fellow-men that often, more than any other circumstance, promotes or obstructs his advancement and success in life. In literature it is the delicate, indefinable charm of style, the gentle touch of feeling, even more than thought that immortalize the work. The friendship of a man of genial character is courted and sought, while the one who is cold and gruff is shunned or his presence is endured no longer than is absolutely necessary. In this day and age, under brisk competition for patronage in every department of human activity, the expression of the nobler qualities of mind and heart counts much for capital in trade. Some one has said, "Pleasing manners constitute one of the golden keys which turn the bolts of the door leading to success and happiness."

The great motive power of our conduct is the heart; it is the fountain head of all our actions. But it is only a truly regenerated heart that will give its owner that balance of his capacities—intellectual, emotional, and volitional—that will enable a man to be a real gentle man and the woman, a genuine gentle woman under all conditions of life and in all their contacts with their fellow-men. There is no better example of what a truly regenerated, Christ-centered heart can do for a man and his life than that of the Apostle Paul. What power of heart! What charm of character! What balance of mind and emotions! What a grip on all classes of society, Jew and Gentile, high and low, ignorant and learned, so that their hearts literally melted in his presence and under his influence! Yes, it is the heart filled with Christ's love that gives men and women their true charm.—Exchange.

PRAYER

Class Theme by Marie Dyck, Bethel Junior

To the Christian the most encouraging promises are those which assure him of an answer to believing prayer. In every situation, in every time of life there is need of prayer. In time of prosperity we need to pray, "Lord suffer me not to forget Thee." In time of adversity we need to pray, "Lord let me not be forgotten of Thee." In time of health we need to pray, "Lord, help me to use it for Thy honor and glory." In time of illness we need to pray, "Lord make me patient and submissive to Thy will." In times when we feel the burdens of our sins, when we have difficult problems to solve, when we are in anxiety and fear, we feel the need of prayer. Prof. Deissman has said, "Religion, wherever it is vital in human life is primarily prayer."

To learn what prayer really means, we must look to Jesus. Jesus lived a prayer-life as nobody else has. Jesus came from a praying people. The Old Testament is filled with heroes who were in very close relationship with God. There was Jacob, Moses, David, Hannah, Esther, Daniel, and especially the prophets. Many of the Psalms are prayers.

Yet, the prayer-life came to Jesus not by social inheritance; it was a purely personal experience. Jesus did not have a psychology of prayer; to Him it was a great need. Jesus had no prayer system, as was the custom of the Pharisees; His prayers were outpourings of the heart.

Jesus retreated for prayer when he felt a special need of it; at the time of great spiritual experiences, as His baptism or transfiguration, before great decisions, as before choosing His twelve disciples, after busy days to rest and regain strength, as after the day of teaching, and feeding the 5000, also at times of severe struggle to submit His will to God's will, as in the Garden of Gethsemane. Jesus prayed when He felt a need and He returned strengthened and ready to follow God's will.

The solitary hours of the night or of early morning were preferred by Jesus, but He made no law of time and place of prayer. He liked to go apart for prayer to a mountain or to some lonely place, where He could be alone with God. He made much of the secrecy of prayer. It is not in public prayer that we will gain strength, peace, and tranquility but in prayer in our own chamber. However, we may send short prayers to God while at work, on the street, in the classroom, or wherever we may be. It is necessary to have times of rest and prayer before and again after the toils of the day. Jesus said to His disciples when they had returned from their mission, "Come ye yourselves apart into a desert place, and rest a while," Mark 6:31.

We can see what the characteristics of true prayer are from the prayers which we have that Jesus prayed. First of all, they are brief. The longest, the Lord's Prayer is composed only of a half dozen simple sentences. The others are simple sentence prayers. Long prayers lose their spontaneity. They demand too much reflection and thought. Jesus' prayers were very simple. They were to God alone, in no name and for no sake. He did not use big words and pray long prayers to appear great before men. Even a child can understand Jesus' prayers. His prayers were prayed prayers. They came from a deep, inner urge and were of an elemental character. He gave no catalog of needs, no promises or pledges in His prayers. In the Sermon on the Mount, He has taught us, "Your Father knoweth what ye have need of before ye ask," Mt. 6:8. Prof. Vernle has said, "Jesus was the most powerful prayer of history, because He did not rely on His own power."

The prayers of Jesus, especially the Lord's Prayer, show us for what we may pray. "Thy Kingdom come, Thy will be done, on earth as in Heaven." There we have first of all the object of chief concern. Then His petition for the necessities of life, "Give us this day our daily bread." That means just the bare daily needs, no wealth, nor unnecessary luxuries. The word daily shows that Jesus wanted His people to trust God to supply their needs day by day. Lastly there is the entreaty for moral deliverance, "Lead us not into temptation."

Prayer is often thought to be only a petition, but Jesus did not teach us only to ask in prayer. In Matt. 11:25-26, we have Jesus' prayer of Thanksgiving, "I thank Thee, O Father, . . ." Praise and thanksgiving should be the purpose of many of our prayers, for God has given us blessings so bountifully. Further there is the request for release from our sins. "Forgive us our debts, as we forgive our debtors." This means action on our part. Do we really want God to forgive us as we forgive others?

Jesus used intercessory prayer. We have one recorded in Luke 22:31-32, "Simon, Simon, . . . I made supplication . . ." Jesus surely often prayed for His disciples, for the sick and needy, for the sinners who would not accept Him, and also for His friends.

Meditation, fellowship with God, and dedication anew to His purpose are necessary in the prayer-life of every Christian. Jesus certainly did these things, when He was on a mountain alone during the solitude of night and early morning.

God will do His part, provided we do our part, to have our prayers answered. Our heart must be attuned to God's leading. Essentials for answered prayer are, to have an absolute, childlike trust and a spirit of forgiveness. We will then be ready to let God speak to us.

We can learn most from the prayers and prayer-life of Jesus, but we can also learn from His teachings on prayer which came from His own experience. He teaches that prayer should be private and purely personal, brief and to the point, not using vain repetitions, as heathens do. Prayer must be a persistent pursuit as shown by the parable of the widow and judge (Luke 18:2-5) and of the man who went to his neighbor's house, during the night, to ask for bread (Luke 11:58). We must not become discouraged, if we can not see the answer immediately but keep on praying, yet never in a stubborn way but always submissive to God's will. Prayer should also be offered in a spirit of humility as taught so plainly by the parable of the Publican and the Pharisee (Luke 18:10-14a).

Then, above all, prayer must be offered in faith. Jesus says, "Ask, and it shall be given you; seek, and ye shall find; knock, and it shall be opened unto you." (Luke 11:9-11). Also in Mark 11:24, we find, "Therefore I say unto you, What things soever ye desire, when ye pray, believe that ye receive them and ye shall have them."

Jesus stresses again and again that we must be willing to forgive, to come into right relationship with God. Without forgiveness, we can not have love. Andrews in his book "Christ in the Silence" writes, "Love in the heart is the true measure of prayer in the soul. If we are growing in love, the prayer-life is certain to become more and more real to us. Love itself is the highest form of communion between person and person, spirit and spirit. Love unites the soul to God and also to our fellow-men. Therefore all life must be one devoted act of love expressed in prayer."

The Bible assures us that prayer is answered, but we also have many testimonies of answered prayer by true Christians. What would such men as Moody, Booth, Wesley, Livingston, and many others have been if they could not have had communion with God, and could not have come to Him at all times, knowing their prayer would be answered. Prayer, penitence, and faith are the three great factors in a Christian life; these great men have had them as their watchwords and so should we.

A few simple suggestions as to some system of prayer might be:

Take time for silent communion with God every morning and every evening.

Have silent prayer within the heart through the day.

Have a great central thought to remember throughout the day.

Sunday should be used as a day of rest and refreshment. It is well to remember that solitude is a vital factor in "seeking and finding."

If prayer thus envelops our whole life, it will become a creative and energizing power, as given in James 5:16, "The effectual, fervent prayer of a righteous man availeth much." What prayer may mean to a life is given beautifully in this poem:

"My God! is any hour so sweet,
From blush of morn to evening star,
As that which calls me to Thy feet,—
The hour of prayer?

"Bless'd is the tranquil hour of morn,
And bless'd that hour of solemn eve,
When on the wings of prayer upborne,
The world I leave.

"Then is my strength by Thee renew'd,
Then are my sins by Thee forgiven;
Then dost Thou cheer my solitude
With hope of heaven.

"No words can tell what sweet relief
There for my every want I find;
What strength for warfare, balm or grief,—
What peace of mind.

"Hush'd is each doubt, gone every fear,
My spirit seems in heaven to stay;
And e'en the penitential tear
Is wiped away.

"Lord! till I reach that blissful shore,
No privilege so dear shall be
As thus my inmost soul to pour
In prayer to Thee."

SAUL: MORAL FAILURE

1 Sam. 10:21-25; 15:20-23; 31:3-6

Introduction

Saul was a "choice young man" and when Samuel anointed him to be king "God gave him another heart." He was a really converted young man, having God's favor and favor with the people. He was full of promise, mighty in stature and handsome in appearance. He was modest and considerate of his father (read chap. 9). What a king Saul MIGHT HAVE BEEN. Be began well but we see all too soon, a religious decline which ended in failure. Never had a life a fairer opening and a darker close. He lost in the battle of character. His was a moral defeat.

Saul Chosen as the First King 10:21-25

Israel demanded a king like the other nations had. Samuel reminded them that God had continually helped them, when they were faithful to Him. Israel desired a national safety dependent upon the military leadership of a king. The choice, at God's direction, (9:16) came to Saul, son of Kish. The high office sought him. Saul, in his modesty, hid himself (v22) among the wagons and provisions brought by the people when they gathered at Mizpeh. He was brought before the people and his personality and appearance (v23) greatly impressed them. A personality that commands attention is a most desirable God-given asset. Saul had this to a marked degree, yet seemingly unconscious of it.

Samuel presented him to the people as God's choice for them (v24), a man such as the people desired as their king. Saul was chosen at a critical time that he might unite the people and they looked to him to deliver them from the power of their enemies. The nations today seem to be depnding upon the power of leaders and of force more so than upon the power and wisdom of God for peace and security.

King Saul's Sin of Disobedience 15:20-23

Samuel, the messenger of the Lord, directed King Saul to wage a campaign of destruction against the king of Amalek (15:1-3). He was victorious but disobeyed the express command of God (15:3), and spared the king's life and permitted the people to bring back of the spoil. King Saul made a weak excuse when Samuel took him to task for his disobedience. "I have obeyed the voice of the Lord," but he had not fully done so. He tried to lie himself out of his difficulty but was forced to confess his sin (v24). He admits that the sheep and oxen and things should have been entirely destroyed, but the people, not he, took them for sacrifice (v21), for a religious purpose, surely pleasing to God. Saul forgot that he was the servant of God and needed to obey Him fully.

Samuel said plainly (v22) that God desires, demands obedience first of all and that sacrifice can not be a substitute for it. God is asking us to obey, to hearken to Him, not to invent pretexts and excuses. Saul's failure was rooted in his self-will which rejected the word of the Lord and God withdrew His blessing from him, rejected him. Our destiny turns upon what we do with God's Word. Obedience is our highest duty.

King Saul's Tragic Death 31:3-6

On Mount Gilboa Saul, his sons and a small army of Israel met the Philistines in his last battle. His men were defeated, his sons slain and Saul badly wounded. He was a defeated man before beginning the battle. Despair, the result of rejecting God's word, seized him and he took his own life (v4). This ended in deep gloom, a career so promising in its beginning. His early humility changed into great pride, arrogance and self-Will. In the beginning, he enjoyed God's presence and help and later became an apostate. Saul's disobedience lost for him the kingdom, lost for him peace and happiness in this life, and all that might have been his in the world to come. Disobedience is disastrous.

That was a judicious mother who said, "I obey my children the first year of their lives ,but ever after I expect them to obey me." Beecher.

AN APPEAL

Bethel College has received repeated requests for financial assistance from children of Russian immigrants. Today in our mail came two appeals—one from Canada and another from Paraguay—for a highly recommended boy of 16 who wants to attend Bethel College to prepare himself for the Christian ministry. He is willing to work, but must earn all of his expenses, including room, board, tuition, books, etc. No funds have been given to the mission boards, to the board of education, nor to Bethel College which will meet these needs. Increasing numbers of these cases are arising. A thousand dollar gift or loan, together with his own efforts, should educate the boy in Paraguay for four years at Bethel. Perhaps a number of friends of the Mennonite Church and her young people would be willing to invest in this worthy effort to prepare Christian workers. "The harvest truly is plenteous, but th elaborers are few." Matthew 9:37. Response to this call may be sent to the Treasurer of Bethel College, Bethel College, Kansas.

PROGRAM

for the Celebration of the Fiftieth Anniversary of the Cornerstone Laying of Bethel College

From October 9 to October 12, 1938

(All meetings in the College Chapel except as indicated. Loud speakers will be provided in the Library and the Dramatics Room for the overflow crowds.)

I. October 9—Sunday, 3:00 p. m.: "European Forerunners and Roots of Mennonite Higher Education"

II. October 9—Sunday Evening, 7:30 p. m.: "Contributions of American Mennonite Colleges"

III. October 10—Monday Evening, 7:30 p. m.: "Problems Facing Mennonite Higher Education"

IV. October 11—Tuesday Evening, 7:30 p. m.: Bethel College Past Presidents' Meeting

V. October 12—Wednesday Program

1. 9:00 a. m.—Founders Program
2. 11:00 a. m.—Cornerstone Laying of Memorial Hall
3. 3:00 p. m.—"Higher Education for Today"
4. 7:30 p. m.—Historical Pageant (City Auditorium)

UP OR DOWN? Do you talk your church up or down? Do you emphasize the weakness of the church or do you dwell upon its points of strength? Do you criticise it, find fault with its minister and deacons and business officers, castigate the membership for their wrong doings; or do you dwell upon the good side of the picture, deal charitably with others when they make mistakes, attribute good motives to those who differ from you? Do you boost or do you knock? —Lester Hostetler.

All-Mennonite Retreat

Youth building for Christ—what greater thing can happen in modern times? Certainly every effort put forth in organizing and sponsoring the All-Mennonite Young People's Retreat held at Shipshewana Lake, Shipshewana, Indiana, has been set in the direction of our Retreat theme—"Youth Building for Christ." Every faculty member and leader had this very theme at heart. Not only was there cooperation among faculty and leaders to make the Retreat worth while, but the young people were very generous in lending their assistance to this end. The teachers naturally gave the gerater part of their contribution in their class work, but also through personal contact with the retreaters. The instruction was arranged to cover a variety of fields to guide and direct youth in building for Christ. The courses and leaders were:

"What our Church Stands For," W. B. Weaver, Danvers, Illinois.

"How To Study the New Testament," A. C. Schultz, Bluffton, Ohio.

"The Christian Life in the World Today," Vernon S. Culp, Akron, Ohio.

"Appreciation of Music," R. A. Lantz, Bluffton, Ohio.

Sunset services and morning quiet hour, H. W. Berky, Bluffton, Ohio.

Toward the close of the week the young people themselves printed a retreat paper which gives the various impressions of retreaters and leaders. The following excerpts from their paper will give you some of the thoughts and values of such a conference where youth meet.

"The Brethren Retreat Grounds on beautiful Shipshewana Lake in Northern Indiana, were again the scene of the annual All-Mennonite Retreat. Young people from the various midwestern states gathered on August 1st to this scheduled place to worship, and to learn more about God. Although this retreat is of only a weeks duration, it is felt that this brief period of a balanced life of religious teachings and discussions, associations with young people of other localities, and enjoyable recreational facilities, not only is an immediate blessing to each retreater but alo will prove to be a cherished memory in the years to come."

"Jesus said to his disciples, 'Come ye apart and rest a while'. He invited his disciples to a quiet retreat for rest, prayer, instruction and fellowship. The Shipshewana Retreat is a summons to young people for the same purpose. The busy and confused world in which we live makes such a retreat a necessity.

It is the purpose of the Retreat through its worship programs, its courses, its recreation and its fellowship, to help youth to clarify its vision, deepen its convictions, broaden its sympathies and to dedicate life to Christian service.

The real value of the Retreat, however, depends on the attitude of the retreater. This week has been an inspiration and encouragement in the fact that so many of the young people were willing to apply themselves properly in order to gain the highest and best results."

"We are proud of our Retreaters. They have cooperated to build a fellowship which has as its head, Jesus Christ, and which will bring many happy memories in the days to come. It is a week spent with a fine group of young people led by a most capable faculty in surroundings of natural beauty which gives hope and encouragement in building our lives for Christ."

"A tremendous amount of labor and no small amount of money has been spent by the Mennonite Church to make this Retreat a success. However, the greatest contribution to our Retreat has been made by our faculty."

It is interesting to note the distribution of the 97 retreaters who registered this year: Grace Church, Pandora, Ohio, 16; Topeka, Topeka, Ind., 16; First Mennonite, Bluffton, Ohio, 14; 8th Street, Goshen, Ind., 12; First Mennonite, Nappanee, Ind., 10; First Mennonite, Trenton, Ohio, 8; Silver Street, Goshen, Ind., 6; North Danvers, Danvers, Ill., 4; St. Johns, Pandora, Ohio, 3; Warren St., Middlebury, Ind., 3; Salem, Dalton, Ohio, 1; Ebenezer, Bluffton, Ohio, 1; Bethel, Bethel, Kansas, 1; Kitchener, Ontario, Canada, 1; Howe, Howe, Ind., 1.

We would like to commend the attitude of one of the above churches where it is understood that every young person who goes through their Sunday school shall attend the Retreat at least one year because they feel it is a necessary part of their religious education program.

Learning to Cooperate

Amos 8:4-8; Isa. 3:12-15

Young People's Topic for Sept. 25, 1938

Meditations:

M., Sept. 19. Principle of cooperation. Luke 10:1,2
T., Sept. 20. Cooperation in nature. Prov. 30:24-27
W., Sept. 21. Sharing labors. Exod. 18:13-24
T., Sept. 22. Cooperative toil. Neh. 4:6, 13, 14
F., Sept. 23. A cooperative mission. Acts 12:1-3
S., Sept. 24. Cooperation organized. 1 Chron. 9:23-34

Suggested Hymns:

"Work For the Night Is Coming," "In the Service of the King," "Will Jesus Find Us Watching"

Introduction of Topic:

After carefully considering the above scripture passages, we discover the necessity of cooperation in Christian living. In the previous edition it was pointed out that the solutions offered to our present chaotic economic conditions are of rather un-Christian nature. We might then ask ourselves, "Is it not possible to establish a Christian economic order?"

Again looking at the scriptures, we find, in Old Testament references, that in early Bible history, economic conditions were improved by cooperation of the people. We have only to review the lives of Nehemiah and Solomon to convince ourselves that cooperation is necessary to sound economics. Many cases in Biblical History show how devoted cooperation with God and fellowmen becomes a peoples' salvation.

We might then ask ourselves, "Could not, we too, follow the example of cooperation as some nations such as Denmark and England have done?" Perhaps we could build an economic kingdom in accordance with the Kingdom of God.

What shall our decision be? Shall we slacken our pace and allow these, so-called, faithless movements conquer the earth? Or, shall we, as Christian young men and women, rise up, and with the help of God, build an economic order that substantiates faith, one that is in accordance with the Kingdom of God.

Suggested Topics:

I. God's Cooperation Necessary
  A. We must cooperate with God
    1. Personal Salvation
      For the grace of God that bringeth salvation hath appeared to all men.—Titus 2:3
  B. We must discover the value of fellowship
    1. With God
      They have become sons of God.—Matt. 12:31
    2. With Man
      Love your neighbor as yourself.—Matt. 26:39
  C. Cooperation should be safeguarded.
    1. Not with "isms" or ideals that lead to destruction. (Discuss the value of cooperation)
II. We must extend our cooperation
  A. Our fellowman should be included
    1. Let thy light so shine before men that they may see your good works and glorify God in Heaven.—Matt. 5:12
  B. Labor for society rather than personal interests
    1. Golden Rule—(Do unto others as you would have them do unto you)

Special Projects:

It would be very educational and helpful to have various movements such as a cooperative movement discussed.

This discussion should ultimately decide how certain movements comply with the principles of our Lord and Master.

INTERMEDIATE DEPARTMENT

The Task of My Church

Intermediate C. E. Topic, Sept. 25, 1938

For Daily Study

Sept. 19. To preach the gospel. 2 Tim. 4:1-5
Sept. 20. To develop character. 1 Tim. 1:15-20
Sept. 21. To develop Christian lives. Tit. 3:1-8
Sept. 22. To reach the home field. Acts 8:1-8
Sept. 23. To reach the non-Christian world. Matt. 28:19, 20
Sept. 24. To make beautiful lives. Tit. 2:9-15
Sept. 25. Topic—What my church seeks to do. Luke 4:16-22

Learn Something About Our Church

This topic offers an opportunity to learn something about what our church is doing. The reports of the General Conference, which was held in Saskatoon, Canada, in August, provide material for such study Watch the MENNONITE, beginning with issue of Aug. 16 for material, secure a copy of the reports given to the Conference from your pastor, or better still have someone who attended the Conference give a talk on the work of our church.

Appropriate Songs

"All Hail the Power," (standing) "Who Is on the Lord's Side," "I Love Thy Church, O God"
Society announcements

Suggested Worship Service

Hymn: "Faith of Our Fathers" (standing)
Prayer, by the leader
Scripture reading: Luke 4:16-22
Hymn: "Christ for the World We Sing"
A Poem

"As o'er each continent and island
The dawn leads on another day,
The voice of prayer is never silent,
Nor dies the strain of praise away.

The sun that bids us rest is waking
Our brethren 'neath the western sky;
And hour by hour fresh lips are making
Thy wondrous doings heard on high.

So be it, Lord! thy throne shall never
Like earth's proud empires pass away,
But stand and rule and grow forever,
Toll all Thy creatures own Thy sway.
—J. Ellerton

The Task of My Church

1. Introductory remarks by leader. Explain what we mean by the church. It is more than a building, more than one church organization and more than one denomination. It includes all believers in Christ. Romans 12:4, 5. The purpose of this meeting is to learn of this larger body and our part in its task. Call for some of the Daily Bible Readings.
2. The General Conference. This is a union of 169 Mennonite churches, located in the United States and Canada, for the purpose of mutual help and united work. The combined membership of these churches is something over 34,000. The new president of the General Conference is Rev. C. E. Krehbiel of Newton, Kans. There are five important Boards that carry on the work of the conference: Publication, Education, Home Missions, Foreign Missions, and Relief. Dr. H. A. Fast serves as field secretary for the General Conference and represents all phases of the work in his travels among the churches.
3. The Work of the Boards of General Conference
Make one member responsible to learn all he can about each of the boards of the Conference and report on it.
   a. Publication. A Conference printing press is to be acquired. Have samples of the MENNONITE and BUNDESBOTE and tell of their purpose. The children's paper Junior Messenger and Kinderbote are to be published separately in the future. Tell about the Y. P. pages in the Mennonite. A Young People's paper is to be published as soon as arrangements can be made. An English Sunday Schol Quarterly is being published for adults. Other grade are to follow.
   b. Education. This board supervises the Sunday School and Christian Endeavor work. One member in cooperation with the Young People's Committee is to promote the Young People's work in the churches of the Conference. Olin Krehbiel of Lansdale, Pa. is the new president of this committee. A constitution for the formation of a Young People's Union is to be sent to all Y. P. societies for their criticism and approval soon. This board also promotes a closer cooperation between our colleges and Bible schools and the Conference. Give their names and location.
   c. Home Mission. The work of this board consists of city missions, organizing new churches and helping small ones, three girls' homes in Canada and evangelistic work. Learn as much as you can about the city mission located nearest to you.
   d. Foreign Mission. Speak of the different fields where our Conference is supporting work: China, India, Montana, Oklahoma, and Arizona. Mention the different kinds of missionary work: teaching, preaching and medical.
   e. Relief. This board seeks to relieve the distress of needy people everywhere. Get a list of places and the types of relief that has been given from reports or from your pastor.
4. Your Share in this Task
Ask your pastor or some member of the church board to speak briefly on, "Our Share in the Larger Tasks of the Church." Ask him to suggest ways in which Intermediates can share in this work.

Your Budget

Include something for as many phases of the work of the church in your budget as possible. At least the following should be of interest to your society: Young People's work, peace, home missions, foreign missions, and publication. You may not be able to give much, but your giving will be a blessing to you and will increase your interest in the task of the church.

JUNIOR CORNER

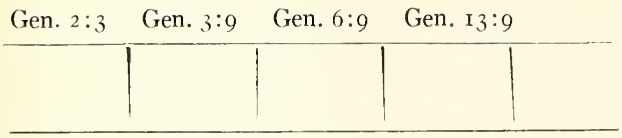
WALKING with God, O fellowship sweet,
Walking with Him, in Him be complete;
Walking with Him, whom the world cannot know,
O it is sweet through life thus to go."

WE ARE planning a walk through the Bible—from Genesis unto the close of Revelation. A year, even the school season seems quite a long stretch to walk but the material the Word offers is so abundant. "We shall not want" even in program material—there is much and it is always new and "different" at the turn of the "road." We cannot hope to see all of it in this walk. We can only take the "high drives."

Every Junior is interested in travel. Many will have followed some high way or other this summer. Perhaps there is someone who has seen the states from coast to coast and if not, everyone looks forward to doing so someday. By means of a road map, show the group the many highways one can follow and the many by-ways—there is no end of roads to follow. Now show the Juniors how we shall go from "coast to coast" through the Bible, how we shall take a road that cuts straight across and how there will be many, many roads left for us to travel some other time—no end of roads.

WHY NOT

map out the road. The Juniors would enjoy it. On this map let them illustrate what they have found on this road from "coast to coast." I would make a large map out of canvass paper. (Your city sign maker can provide this). Across the top of this map you could print: Traveling through the Bible in 1938-39. Your entire map could be in the form of an open Bible. From "coast to coast" you could map out a highway. This could be through the center of the map and take up the middle third. Next, divide this high way into as many sections as you will have meetings from September 5th to the first Sunday in June, 1939. (If your society meets every week, you will have to make a double map, having half of the Bible on each side). Over each of these sections will stand the Bible reference which holds the theme of the evening, as:



The rest let the Juniors supply. Allow them to illustrate the lesson just as they want to: whether in word, in picture; whether in crayon or cut out, or, whether in jetts. These "artists" could be chosen at the beginning of the month. Each one could be held responsible to have the section filled that illustrates the road which is to be traveled on that evening. Place it where the children can view it before and after the meeting.

Noah Walked With God

Genesis 6:9

Program Suggestions for September 18, 1938

Call to service by prelude

Opening service:

1. Song service in charge of chorister
2. Responsive reading: Psalm 1
3. Prayer by leader
4. Song in unison: "He Leadeth Me, O Blessed Thought," verses 1, 3, 4

Study period. Aim: to show the blessedness of a walk with God

1. Introductory words by chairman using "Walking with God, O fellowship sweet." (Printed above)
2. Question Box: The juniors have been asked to bring three questions each (depending on the size of your group) out of the story of Noah. This will necessitate a reading of Genesis 6-9. Ask the children to note down the reference out of which the question was chosen so that the group can search for the answer if unable to give it immediately. An informal questioning and answering now takes place.
3. What it means to walk with God: Answered by a junior from the life of Noah. Gen. 6:9; Gen. 6:22; 7:5. John 14:6.
4. Special music supplementing the thought of the evening
5. What does God do for me when I walk with Him? Answer taken from the story of Noah, Gen. 6-9. Let this be a discussion period, using the board to put down the answers. Guide the group to these answers:
   a. He saves me. He saved Noah. Gen. 6:17, 18;
   b. He protects me. He protected Noah. 6:13; Gen. 7:23
   c. He provides for me. He provided Noah. 6:21
   d. He remembers me. He remembered Noah. 8:1
   e. He guides me step by step. He guided Noah. "And Jehovah said unto Noah," 6:13; 7:1; 8:13, 15
   f. He accepts my offering. He accepted Noah's offering. 8:20, 21
   g. He blesses others because of me. He blessed others because of Noah. 8:22; 9:8, 9
   h. He blesses me. He blessed Noah. 9:1
6. Prayer by leader thanking for the privilege of walking with so a great a God
7. Minute heart talk: Show that we can walk with God only if we have made Jesus our Guide. John 14:6
8. Sing in unison: "Lord Jesus, I long to be perfectly whole"
9. Prayer in unison: Psalm 51:10
10. Sing in unison verse 1 and 4 of "O Master let me walk with Thee"

—Bethel College begins the new school year, the Golden Anniversary year, Sept. 6. The first three days will be devoted to enrollment. In the evenings, the College Quartet will give a program Tuesday, the Fellowship Choir, Wednesday, and on Thursday the Student Christian Movement tenders a reception to the freshmen. On Friday the annual fall mixer, with the Student Council in charge, will take place. The formal opening will occur Sunday, Sept. 11, at 8 p.m. Dr. Leonard C. Kreider of the faculty will give the address.—Sunday, Sept. 18, will occur the annual reception of all students by the faculty, and Sunday, Sept. 25, will be Parent-Student Day.—Judging from the applications received, the enrollment should run about the same as last year. Applications are in from 14 different states and 7 from Canada.

A Day with Farag Abdalla

By Willard Price

Dawn in Egypt. There is a clear call from the minaret. Dogs bark, roosters crow, donkeys bray. Street criers begin to chant. On every hand is heard the salutation, "May your day be happy!"

May your day be happy! It is a wistful wish, in this land where there is so much unhappiness. In the romantic half-light of dawn, Egypt is lovely. But when the sun slants into the streets, the picture disclosed is not so lovely. The beggar and the blind, the lame and the sick, contend against poverty. Daylight reveals darkness, the darkness of ignorance, superstition, disease. When we see these mud hovels and dirty streets, we do not wonder at the medical report that the average Egyptian has three major diseases. His "religious" life is one of dread. He burdens himself with charms and hangs them upon his children, upon donkeys, camels and even the radiators of automobiles, for protection against the Evil Eye. There is good reason for the plaintive morning greeting, "May your day be happy!"

Who will make it happy?

Here is a man who knows. "In this little book," he calls to the passers-by, "is the story of Him who brings joy and peace." The speaker holds in his hand a New Testament printed in Arabic. On the ground before him are spread his wares--Gospels, Testaments, Bibles. This picturesque character, in blue burnoose and white turban, who looks as if he himself had stepped out of a Bible story, is a colporteur of the American Bible Society. His name is Farag Abdalla. His mission is to help bring to the men and women of these poor villages the abundant life.

We found him at sunrise, already at work. "Let us go to the market," he said. He gathered up his books, untethered a little donkey, placed his books in the panniers, climbed to the saddle and set off down the winding street.

He did not go far. At the first group of children he stopped. They were busy with a game, and disposed to pay no attention. He called to them, asking if they would like to hear a story. They immediately gathered about him and listened with rapt attention as he related of the boy Jesus. They were unwilling to let him go, and agreed only when he promised to let them have a little book containing the whole story. He gave them Gospels, since they had no money to pay for them.

On he went down the street. Every ten feet or so the donkey must stop. Donkey-like, he was quite willing to do so, and remained as still as a graven image while his master, using the saddle as a pulpit, discussed the Scriptures with fruit sellers, grocers, hardware merchants, postal clerks, students, peasants, camel drivers. Some scorned the books. Some took, examined, and disdainfully returned them. Some, unable to read, pretended to do so, holding the page upside down. On the whole, a surprising number of books were sold and a most lively interest displayed. The American bystander gained the vivid impression that the Bible is still decidedly a living book that makes itself the center of modern discussion, struggle and progress.

At last, the market. What a crowd! What vocal tumult! The cobblers, the ironmongers, the bakers, the barbers, the tatooers, the sellers of sugarcane, chickens, cheese, skins, eggs, cattle, buffaloes, sheep, flutes, pottery medicines, fortunes, charms for camels' necks--all proclaimed their services at the top of their lungs. How could a gentle colporteur make his message heard?

Into the mass rode Farag holding up a Gospel trusting it to speak for itself. It did. There was a sudden hush. Immediately the Gospel had made itself the center of attention.

Then voices broke out again, but now they concerned the Book.

"It's the 'Jesus book'!"

"Drive him out!"

"We'll teach him to come here!"

"Pull him off his donkey!"

No sooner said than done. Farag was dragged to the ground, mauled and punched. Gospels were taken from the saddle-bags and flung into the air.

Farag did not strike back. The injustice of the situation quickly appealed to the crowd. There were cries of "Let him go--never mind him." A powerful sheikh pushed back the tormentors, saying, "If you would all read that book you would be better off." Three men picked up Farag and planted him on his donkey's back. Many of the scattered Gospels were returned to him--but not before they had been curiously examined.

Farag began to speak. He told of the Savior, and His love for those whom He had come to save. For half an hour he spoke while business stood still in that part of the market. More important business was in hand. When he had finished there was a demand for books. Thirty Gospels, twenty Psalms and a New Testament were sold. Questioners would hardly let Farag go, but he finally departed, taking the good will of the crowd with him.

After a simple luncheon of sunbread and buffalo milk at the home of the Christian pastor, Farag led the way once more, this time going through the residential part of the town, visiting the homes.

At one house a fine-looking Arab gentleman opened the door. When he learned the colporteur's errand he was much interested. "Let us talk about it," he said, and invited Farag and his American friends to enter. Tea and cakes were served. There was a spirited and intelligent discussion. Then, "Permit me to bring my family together so that you may read to us all."

On an upstairs verandah of this spacious home the family assembled—three generations. To a curious Arab melody, Farag sang selections from the 103rd Psalm. The family, although not familiar with the words, joined in the chant. Then Farag read from the Gospel of St. John. Frequently he paused to make vivid comments, applying the story to the life of modern Egypt. Even the smallest children were charmed by his personality and paid close attention. Then all stood and the Bible man led in prayer.

The sheikh was profuse in his thanks. This was not his first contact with Christianity, and he had become persuaded that it was his way of life. He now bought many books. Then he asked how he might establish a proper place of worship in the vicinity. Farag and the Bible Society's agency secretary talked with him long and earnestly.

Farag has started many churches during his thirty-five years of service. We journeyed on to see one of his latest achievements—a church of twenty-five members, about to call a pastor. In the meantime Farag preaches there. We visited another meeting place, not yet organized. There also Farag preaches.

At the little village of Daquf, in the almost horizontal rays of the setting sun, Farag held an open-air service. Then he took us across the brook to a small place of worship, and, laying his hand affectionately upon the worn door, he told us the story of this little church. But that is another story.

Night. We traveled back to Cairo. It seemed as if we had seen a lifetime in a day. Farag had not only sold sixty Psalms, fifty Gospels, two Bibles and a New Testament—but through his ministration and the medium of his rich, Christian personality he had touched thousands of lives. And when we realize that there are around the world more than two hundred devoted colporteurs of the American Bible Society giving their lives to such work, having an important share in the distribution of eight million or more volumes of Scriptures annually, teaching, preaching, and ministering as they go, we catch a vision of what is being accomplished by the men of the Book.

CORRESPONDENCE

GRACE MENN. CHURCH, PANDORA, OHIO

Actively participating in community activities, our church joined the other churches of the village in a Daily Vacation Bible School this summer. A public program was given at the close of the session.—Sunday evening union outdoor meetings were held regularly this summer, each church being responsible for one Sunday's service and music.—Our congregation had charge of the Sunday evening services at the Ebenezer Mennonite Church, near Bluffton, in July, and recently they reciprocated by furnishing the evening services for us in our church.

On Good Friday, the church participated in Union Services, at which time the pastor, Rev. Whitmer, brought the message.—Easter morning the C. E. societies joined with the St. John societies in a Sunrise Prayer service.—A union meeting of all the Mennonite Women's and Girls' Missionary Societies in this community was held in the spring with Mrs. S. T. Moyer of India as guest speaker.—We also participated in a song festival of sacred music conducted by the Mennonite churches of this community in July.

Sixteen new members were received into the congregation in the spring, ten by baptism, and six by letter. A reception for these new members was held later by the church.

Other special services held during the summer were a Children's Day service, a Mother's Day service, including the consecration of little children, and a German Hymn Sing by the members of the congregation.

Visitors in the pulpit through the summer have been, Dr. I. W. Bauman, Dr. S. K. Mosiman and Rev. G. T. Soldner of Bluffton College, Rev. and Mrs. Walter Schutz of Africa, and the Misses Elizabeth and Minnie Hilty of China. Rev. and Mrs. Walter Schutz and son, Roy, left in June to resume work in Nigeria, West Africa, with farewell services by the church and by the C. E. societies.

Seventeen young people of the church attended the retreat at Lake Shipshewana, Indiana. They were accompanied by Mrs. P. E. Whitmer and Mrs. Enos Suter.

Rev. Whitmer conducted a series of special services at the Mennonite Church at Wayland, Iowa, in the spring. He and Mrs. Whitmer attended he Middle District Conference at Trenton, Ohio, after which they took a week's trip to places of interest in Kentucky and Tennessee. Rev. Whitmer also was in Saskatoon, Saskatchewan.

Two members were lost in death—Mrs. John Geiger, 79, and Milo Lehman, aged 22.—Mrs. S. W. Steiner, Corr.

GARDEN TOWNSHIP CH., HESSTON, KANS.

Our pastor gave an interesting report of his trip to Canada and the Conference at Saskatoon. Our annual S. S. meeting was held two weeks ago. The work of the past year was reviewed, and plans were made for another year. The last Sunday of each month is observed as Mission Sunday in our Sunday School offering and special numbers of singing or reading are offered by some class. Wednesday evening, Aug. 24, was the occasion of a real birthday surprise party, when the whole church arrived at the home of the pastor. A very fitting program was rendered, consisting of special singing, music, recitations, and a reading. Bro. Jacob Nachtigal, representing the church, presented Rev. Dirks with a beautiful leather brief case, with valuables (money) inside. Later in the evening refreshments were served, a large birthday cake, and a very liberal amount of ice cream and cookies. Regardless of the blood-thirsty mosquitoes, a good time was enjoyed by all.

The Garden Church had a blessed time last Sunday on the occasion of the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the church with programs at 2:30 in the afternoon and 7:30 in the evening. A tent was used for the occasion.—Corr.

CHURCH CONDITIONS IN GERMANY

(Transl. from "der Christliche Apologete)

The estrangement in the Protestant State Church is unfortunately being much prolonged. Dr. Rosenberg and like-minded people, in whose opinion the Bible is much too Jewish, would like to cull out much of it and replace it with old-Germanic material, but they do not make headway. With few exceptions the pastors and people say with Luther, "Das Wort sie sollen lassen stahn." (The Word they shall let stand as it is). The government, particularly Dr. Keerl, has been severely attacked by pastor Niemoeller and other pastors of the Confessional Synod who have dared make charges of tolerating anti-biblical teachings, for which pastor Niemoeller has been punished. The good pastor seems to have forgotten that anti-biblical teaching, even enmity, can be most effectively countered through positive teaching of the Word. And it is a fact that God's Word may indeed be preached freely in Germany. Even the free churches carry on evangelistic preaching without government restrictions. But politics must not be aired in the pulpit. It does not belong there anyway. And there is where pastor Niemoeller and like-minded divines seem to have erred. The fact that pastor Niemoeller was in command of a submarine during the World War may account for this. An individual named Niemoeller is disposed to fight. And if a pastor is given a charge by the government to serve a church, and it pays him his salary and imposes no restrictions on his preaching of the Word: if then, in spite of such privileges, he gets into trouble with the government, it becomes rather difficult to sympathize with him.

Receipts - -	432,123,939.29
In the hole -	468,743,650.46

The gross Federal debt on that date was $37,275,027,032.56. That means that the per capita share of every man, woman and child in the United States in this debt is $286.73. Is it not about time to stop this random spending? Of course they say spending beyond income and going into debt by a government is good policy, while we know from experience that it is bad practice for an individual or a family. Where does the logic come in?

ORDER OF CHURCH SERVICE

Most of our churches follow the old order in their Sunday morning church services, first Sunday school, then preaching service. Led by the example of some neighboring churches, the Bethel College congregation about four years ago started with worship service first, then Sunday school. This new order has found so much favor with the church members that nobody thinks of going back to the old order. Church services are held from 9:45 to 10:45 a.m., Sunday school from 10:45 to 11:45. As there may be those among our readers that would like to know the advantages, if any of the new order, we shall attempt to give some, as we see them: 1. Is it not a fact that the preaching service is the principal part of the Sunday forenoon service? Here everybody, men, women, and children, assemble in God's holy presence, to worship Him and hear His Word preached. It is perfectly obvious that, in order to do this, everybody should be at his best, fresh in mind and body, senses alert to attend and perceive clearly. After Sunday school, some thought, some argument is apt to linger and to disturb whole-hearted attention to the meditation and preaching. 2. Tardiness is reduced, especially if the minister preaches well, so that the people consider it a real loss to miss any part of the sermon and the part leading to it. Besides, coming late to church service makes it more embarrassing for the late comer with any sense of propriety. 3. Under this plan the worship period is sure to receive its allotted time or more, if necessary, as when the presence of a guest speaker of note or some extraordinary event call for extension of the time. 4. As the parents all want to be present to worship and hear the sermon, they are almost sure to bring their children along, to sit with them through the service, and are thus helping the future membership of the church develop a very valuable habit, regular participation in church service. There is nothing sadder than the sight of groups of children turned loose upon the street of the city, after dismissal from Sunday chool, while their elders are getting ready for their real worship. Parents and children belong together during the preaching period, and holding preaching service first is a definite step in that direction.

ON TO SCHOOL AGAIN

These days something like 28,000,000 boys and girls, youths, young men and women are starting out upon another year of schooling. This includes the pupils and students in all schools, from kindergarten to graduate university and professional schools. What a huge army of learners this is! If they were lined up, four abreast in rows four feet apart, ready to march passed us, they would make a line of approximately 5300 miles extending from New York to Portland, Oregon, and down along the Pacific Coast to San Francisco. These learners will be taught by about two million teachers. Would that all of them might be true-hearted Christians! What a mighty influence would this be in making America a truly Christian nation and an example to the rest of the world. For, after all, it is the teacher that makes the school and leaves the really lasting impression upon the lives of the pupils and students, much more so than what they study. In spite of our boast of the superiority of our schools, a careful observer can easily find many weaknesses in them, in some of the aims, in the prevailing spirit, in the lack of stress on some of the real essentials of life. So that one is lead to the conclusion that our schools are almost as much pagan as Christian, in some respects at least. In the face of such conditions and amidst the temptations surrounding the learners, what can parents do for their studying sons and daughters? As for those who attend school directly from the home, the parents can do much by rendering the home influence genuinely Christian. They can habituate their children to attendance of the Sunday school and church; they can direct their reading and their amusements to a large extent. They can use their influence with the school boards to hire Christian teachers. And, above all, they can daily commit the care and protection of their children, near or far, to the loving Heavenly Father.

IS CHRISTIANITY A MAN'S RELIGION?

There are a great many people who are of the opinion that Christianity apeals especially to women, that it is essentially a women's religion, and that is why more women attend church than men. And it is a fact which history and experience confirm that women worshippers outnumber the men in the Christian lands the world over. In cities that is particularly true, so that in some places all sorts of baits and devices are used to entice men to attend church. One of the common reasons advanced for this condition is, that so many men are too tired to go to church, after six days of strenuous work, that they need all the rest they can get. Other reasons advanced by men for not attending church are: Poor preaching, services either dead or uninteresting, too much ceremony, too much time wasted, too many church people acting un-Christ-like, etc. But, might there not be a deeper reason, namely that the Christ that is preached there is not a manly person, that he is suited more to the fesex. Is that actually true? Was not Christ the most male sex. Is that actually true? Was not Christ the most manly man that has ever trod upon this earth? Was he not a real man among men? Did ever man show more manly qualities of heroism, of endurance beyond human limitations, of self-control, self-negation and will power? Was it not a demonstration of extraordinary fortitude that Christ evinced in the temptation, at His trial, in His agony in Gethsemane, and on the cross, when all through he bore alone the sins of the whole world? Then, where is the trouble? Evidently in the preaching, in the picture presented of Him in the pulpit and literature. Perhaps there has been too much emphasis placed on the meek, lowly Nazarine who was led to the slaughter like a lamb, and not enough on the victorious qualities of a lion which also belong to Him. Christ, to be sure, was great in His humility, in His willingness to serve and to sacrifice His all, qualities which we are wont to associate with women. But he was not effeminate, he was the ideal of all true manliness and all true heroism.

HOME MISSIONS

TO PASTORS OF THE GENERAL CONFERENCE CHURCHES, GREETINGS

Quakertown, Pa., August 31, 1938

Please Announce:

The Home Mission Board wishes to take this opportunity to thank all those who have given support for the Home Mission work in the past.

The work is growing and increasing, for which we praise the Lord.

Rev. W. S. Gottshall, long time member of the Board, did not wish to be re-elected on account of his age and present sickness.

A new member was elected. The Board rorganized. OFFICERS ARE AS FOLLOWS: Rev. J. M. Regier, Bethel College, Kansas, Chairman; Rev. A. J. Neuenschwander, Quakertown, Pa., Secretary; Rev. John J. Plenert, 2442 N. 7th St., Phila., Pa., Treasurer. FROM DATE—please send all gifts to Rev. Plenert, giving Number and Street.

Sincerely, A. J. Neuenschwander, Secretary.

FOREIGN MISSIONS

P. H. Richert, Sec.

TWO OLD AND FIVE NEW WORKERS

are going out to their respective mission fields during the next few weeks. Brother and Sister H. J. Brown go out for the fourth time to China and with them Sister Etta R. Davis and Brother and Sister Albert L. Jantzen. They sail from Vancouver, Sept. 17, on the "Empress of Canada."

Brother and Sister Aaron E. Jantzen leave also from Vancouver, but on Oct. 1, bound for India.

They all do not expect an easy time, especially in China at present. Brother S. F. Pannabecker wrote some time ago that any one who wants to work in China now must have strong faith and strong nerves. Our missionaries know this, but they also know that Jesus expects them to go in spite of difficulties. Yes, he says: "I send you as sheep among the wolves".

In China as well as in India people are pressing into the instruction classes in preparation for baptism, by the hundreds. Missionary Unruh, India, writes, that he has already baptized 174 this year on the Basna field, and will soon baptize some more. It is a small mass movement requiring many teachers of the Word. The new workers are very much needed.

We thank the Lord and all mission friends for making it possible to send these seven workers out this year in spite of hard times, and that we could do it without going into debt. They will reward it.

The gifts and especially the workers are good seed and will bring much fruit. Christ says: "The good seed are the children of the kingdom", while this makes all Christians a good seed, the workers are the number One seed. What a privilege and what a challenge! The grain of wheat, says Jesus, and we all know it—brings no fruit except it die. That need not always be a physical death. The gifts and the workers are proof that there is much of this willingness to deny self in our churches, which is a guarantee for fruit.

P. H. Richert, Secr.

THE STORY OF CHACKRA.

The Apostle John says that there are anti-christs among us. They came out from among us but they are not of us. (I John 2:18-19). This is our experience in Basna. One of the district Christians by the name of Chackra, later christened Yohoshua, has been preaching for years, under the direction and in the employ of the Mission. A little over a year ago the church elected him to become its leader, because he was the spokesman of a dissatisfied group in the church. He was not ordained but was permitted to serve unordained as preacher and leader. After about six months of service he himself felt and saw how unfit he was to preach, and so he asked almost anybody to occupy the pulpit and preach in his stead. Things became so bad that he was given the remaining salary of the year with the promise that he would lay down his work and not have anything more to do with the church. He took the money, signed the promise, but went right on working havoc. Finally it became necessary to excommunicate him for his wickedness. Then he turned Ariya Samijist. The Ariya Samaj is a Hindu sect which is determined to wipe Christianity out of India. He went through the Hindu cleansing ceremony and is now wearing the Hindu cue and also the string around the shoulders. They say that he is employed by the Ariya Samaj society to work as a propagandist. He has already persuaded his relationship of about six families to leave Christianity and become Hindus again. Most of these people were in bad standing and very often out of church fellowship. It did not take much to persuade them, perhaps. He goes to those who are excommunicated and to those who are very weak in faith and tries to get them to go back into Hinduism. He now preaches that Ram is a savior, the Christian religion is a deception, the missionaries are all crooks and bent on ruling and suppressing the Indian people, and bosh like that. He always says he has been a Christian and knows what he is speaking about. The worst he has done so far is to persuade a new and rather weak Christian to deny Christ and to go back into caste. This Christian, Hole Singh, was baptized about nine months ago and was a leader among the Gara caste people. We had hoped that through his testimony and leadership perhaps a hundred Garas would come out for Christ. We are told that the Ariya Samajists have given Hole Singh money and also employed him. How much truth there is in this we do not know. That he is quite cold towards Christ is evident. This all drives us to prayer and heart-searching. We shall faithfully preach the Word of God and admonish the Christians to be true to our dear Savior and leave the matter in God's hands, for He only is able to keep and does keep those who trust and love Him.

SELFISH CHURCHES

A church can be as definitely selfish as an individual—and just as unhappy. A church whose interests go no further than its own congregational affairs usually finds its own local affairs marred with all sorts of untoward features. "The Lord loveth a cheerful giver" might well serve as a church motto. The happiest and most prosperous churches are the ones that are mission-minded and whose congregational horizon takes in the needs and affairs of the Church at large. —American Lutheran.

College Faculty Holds Retreat

Following is a fragmentary review of the retreat by the members of the Bethel College faculty and their wives, held on Sunday afternoon and evening, Sept. 4. These retreats, held at Bethel the last few years, just before the opening of a new school year, imply an effort unitedly to draw near to God for strength and guidance and to be reminded of the serious duties that lie ahead of the group as leaders of young lives.

Prof. A. E. Kreider, Director of Religious Life in the College, led in the opening devotion and acted as chairman, suggesting free participation in the program as the Spirit might lead. Prof. D. H. Richert first gave "A Retrospect over the Past Fifty Years of Bethel," showing how, under the guidance of God, from a small beginning amidst difficulties and trials, but helped on by the prayers and sacrifices of loyal friends, there had gradually grown up an institution of more than four hundred students, with membership in the North Central Association.

He was followed with an address by President E. G. Kaufman, who had for his theme, "Inner Preparation for the Work of the New Year." The meaning of this is not easy to define. Some have it, we want it. It is greatly needed for acquiring mental impulse, which comes from one-ness of the soul with its eternal Source. Inner preparation helps to obtain balance, which all need and comparatively few possess. Constant meditation is needed to develop a spirit of toleration. This does not come from impulse, but from dispassionately weighing the facts in a case. Inner preparation begets calmness of spirit and mind in the presence of danger, of death. Socrates told his executioners, they could kill the body but not the soul. Jesus in the face of death told his fearful disciples, not to fear, "but be of good cheer," and, because of His masterful practice of the inner life, he could add, "I have overcome the world." How go about "preparing"? Through constant discipline and practice. It does not come in a day. The artist Hollman Hunt practiced drawing circles eight hours a day for 40 years. We can gain much by contemplating beauty, in pictures, music, nature. Perfect beauty leaves nothing to suggest, it suggests to us. We must acquire a large perspective, must try to hear what centuries say, not only days and hours. In the tomb of the Medici in Florence is found the greatest sculpture in the world. When Michael Angelo was asked, why not make portrait studies of these petty dukes, he said, in 1000 years, nay in 100 years, nobody will care to know who these dukes were. He was sculpturing for the ages. Caiaphas enjoyed a dinner while Jesus hung on the Cross. Caiaphas has today, but Christ has the future. Inner preparation means dedication to something greater than self, as Moses and Lincoln did. Dean Inge says. "He who lives for self has small troubles but seem great; he who lives for others has great troubles but seem small."—Abiding faith in God is absolutely necessary for inner preparation, for even men who have dedicated themselves have dark hours, when nothing but faith in God will do.

"I will lift up mine eyes unto the hills. From whence cometh my help—my help cometh from the Lord who made heaven and earth."

Dean P. S. Goertz speaking on "Prospects of the Year Ahead," said in part, "The paramount task before us this year is the building of Christian character in the lives of students and faculty members. That statement must be more than a catch phrase or polite gesture." The world's greatest need is men and women who will not compromise Christian principles.

How shall this be done? In part, at least, it may be accomplished by intellectual honesty. if we demonstrate that truth and not our desires determine our attitude and conduct. The author of the most comprehensive and scholarly history of Christian Missions in China, who is at the same time warm and evangelical in his faith, wrote so impartially the story of Protestant and Roman Catholic Missions, that Catholics use his book in their schools, and the Pope in Rome opened to him the whole Vatican Library, as a reward for his intellectual honesty. Such an attitude on the part of instructors, in the long run, has weight and wins respect.

We must have convictions and express them. That can be done and we can still be tolerant with those who see things differently. An attitude of absolute and pure objectivity, in matters of belief, does not belong in a Christian College. One should be willing for the sake of honesty to make known what our basic convictions are.

Finally, we must share our experiences and convictions with students. More opportunity for informal discussions in homes will be welcomed by many. In that way the spiritual life of the school could be much improved and Christian character developed.

Rev. J. N. Smucker, the pastor of the College Church then led in a period of meditation, consecration and prayer. One of the lasting thoughts that he expressed was, that we constantly need God's help and the truth of the matter is, God is more ready to see us through than we often think He is.

At six o'clock the assembly repaired to the college dining hall, to partake of a common meal which was prolonged into a social hour. All felt strengthened and blessed through this retreat.

Rev. D. D. Eitzen and family, who have been at North Center, Mass. a year, for purposes of study, have now returned to California, and are located at 842 E. 77th St., Los Angeles, California.

Notes from the Recent Conference

This time we shall make a few notes on the report of the Board of Trustees, and follow these up with "A Few Impressions of Our Last General Conference," by a brother whose article has been waiting for publication for two weeks. In the next number we purpose to bring a rather full write-up of the work of Foreign Missions, and after that also of Witmarsum Seminary.

The Board of Trustees is a body of six brethren that are authorized to receive bequests and donations, real and personal property, to administer these or to dispose of them according to their best judgment. They reported that they had had six meetings during the triennium. They bonded the treasurer: of Foreign Missions, $5,000, of Home Missions, $5,000, of Emergency Relief, $2,000, of the Board of Education, $1,000, of the Conference treasury, $5,000. The treasurer of the Board of Publication and Manager of the Book Concern are yet to be bonded. The agreement between the Foreign Mission Board and Mr. and Mrs. Neuman of Buhler, Kans., ended with the death of both, and the Board received $1,525.00 for its general fund.—The valuation of the ten-acre vineyard, part of the Alta Loma (California) Sanitarium Endowment Fund has been reduced, by action of the Trustees, from $7,600.00 to $3,600.00. Requests have come in for aid from the income of this same Sanitorium Endowment fund. Upon thorough investigation, the Board has granted some such help and then divided the balance of the accumulated earnings, as per resolution of the conference, passed at the 1935 session, between the Home and Foreign Mission Board, each receiving $4194.03. "Through the death of D. C. Schmidt, Upland, California, the Annuity Contract of $1000.00 . . . and in addition a legacy in the amount of $3207.09 was divided two-thirds to Foreign Missions and one-third to Home Mission." In addition the Board of Trustees has signed a number of Conveyances and Acceptances of Titles for the different Boards. Also a number of legacies were received, but no annuity contracts issued. The brethren J. E. Regier and Karl A. Richert, both of Newton, Kans., were reelected to this Board, and C. H. Goering of Moundridge, Kansas, was chosen to serve until 1944 (if we are not mistaken).

A Few Impressions from Our Last General Conference Session

S. S. Preheim, Freeman, S. Dak.

I have observed that our General Conference has for its size a tremendously large business to transact in the different branches of its work. If the Bible schools, colleges, hospitals, aid societies, and others would also give financial reports, as the other branches do, then they all together would no doubt run into many hundred thousands of dollars. No one of our Mennonite forefathers could have dreamed a hundred years ago that such would actually happen in our day.

I missed the last two sessions of the General Conference and therefore was deeply impressed with the change of personnel in the delegates and visitors at this session. Our old Christian workers, by the dozens are dropping out of the ranks and a goodly number of younger and new workers are coming in. Will they ably and successfully fill the places of their predecessors? In many respects, I believe they will. The young men of today seem to be just as eager to work, and are just as able to work. Their better education equips them with a better facility of language to express themselves. They have also been told in the school-room, how to solve the problems of the church and how to meet the demands of our day. As to faith and character of the older men, they cannot be easily surpassed.

The addition of the Russian Mennonites who have come over in recent years are an asset to our Conference. Their persecution and suffering in Russia has made them a humble God-fearing and God-serving people who, no doubt, will be eager to serve others as they were helped when they were in need.

We often hear and read of Faith Missions which are founded and maintained by missionaries who were not sent out and not supported by Mission Boards. But after all is our Mission work not also a Faith Mission? There the missionaries believe that the Lord will provide for their means of living and the upkeep of their Mission stations without the help of Mission Boards. Here the churches, conferences and boards believe that the Lord will provide for their missionaries and their stations and the Lord does provide. Are they not both Missions of Faith?

Our General Conference has now created a Colonization Committee whose duty it shall be to help Mennonite families find homes in appropriate places or settlements. This is a venture into the field of our economic life. I personally approve of it. I hope that our Conference will in the future have a Committee on Christian Economics which will study more thoroughly the economic problems of the Mennonite people, and will be able to give good advice to those who need it. And which may present necessary recommendations for improvement in our economic life and call the attention of our people to Biblical righteous business principles. Such would promote practical Christianity.

Before we made our decisions and passed our resolutions at the General Conference, we sometimes engaged in lively debates. I was asked during the session of the Conference whether all things were going in accordance with my will. I sternly replied that they were not and should not, for I sometimes have foolish notions like anybody else. I am glad, however, that we belong to a democratic-minded and democratic-organized church and Conference, in which we can express our different opinions on matters and problems which confront us without fear that we might easily insult those who see and understand things differently from what we do, or without evil feelings toward those who differ with us.

We passed another resolution which impressed me very much, and which I believe may be of great consequence as to the woe or welfare of our Conference in the future. It is the recommendation that we as a Conference wish to adopt a standard for acquiring our future ministry. I just wonder what this standard will be composed of? Will it be a standard of education? Of so much school work done? A standard including probation and success? A standard by which the faith of a candidate is measured? Or his interpretation of the Bible is weighed? His attitude toward Mennonite principles considered? It is a mystery to me, how the General Conference can have a standard for its ministry, if the Conference itself has no standard of its own; no creed and no foundation outside of our catechism, Riis Articles of Faith and the Bible. As I see it the greater need of our Conference is the adoption of a common creed. We need a solid Mennonite Christian Foundation upon which our Conference work should be built. As is the case now, we are just banded together for the sake of doing something in the Kingdom of the Lord. But since there is no salvation in good deeds and works alone, we must also emphasize the other conditions of our salvation which are a sound faith in our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ and in a Mennonite, holy, Christian life.

As regarding our faith, we should adopt a short creed which contains the fundamental truths and facts in the life, character and work of our Lord Jesus Christ relative to the salvation of the human race. The Pre-existence, Incarnation, Virgin Birth, Miracles, Atonement, Bodily Resurrection, and Return of Christ should be emphasized; the Inspiration of the Bible, the Trinity of God, the Unity of the saved, the lost condition of all the unsaved and a few other teachings.

Such acts and practices as: The form of church organization; the order of worship; the mode of baptism, the form of communion, the need of washing feet, the practice of wearing a religious garb, the style of hair cuts, the use of musical instruments in church, the use of modern instruments and implements in our fields and on our highway, the methods of winning souls for Christ and some other things should be left to the understanding, conscience and practice of the individual person and individual churches.

Again the indulgence of our brethren in worldly and questionable amusements, such as dance, movies, immoral shows, questionable positions and work, occupying jury seats and judicial state offices, participation in militarism, dishonest business, gambling, use of tobacco, drugs, liquor and indulgence in immorality, the swearing of oaths, the joining of oath-bound secret orders, the carrying of life-insurance policies in purely money making societies and the practice of any and all of the hundred and more sins which are nominated and designated in our holy Bible should be unanimously and solemnly warned against in our creed and other writings, teaching and preaching. The transgressors should not be unduly nor unbrotherly disciplined, ostresized or put under a ban, but should be admonished in love and prayed for.

I truly believe, if our General Conference could agree on such, or a similar creed and stand and work on a specified Biblical foundation, our work for unity among ourselves and with other Mennonite branches would grow by leaps and bounds and the Lord would bless our common work even much more than He has blest it in the past.

Another thing which I wish to mention is this: I have again observed, how some of our Mennonite leaders are identifying a Christian education or Christian knowledge with the New Birth, regeneration or the act by which we become the children of God. Such a false conception or such confusion of how we become children of God is indeed deplorable! Illustration: Does a thorough knowledge about Germany ever take one there or make one a German citizen? I would like to ask such men who confuse or identify a Christian education with the act of becoming a Christian, how much of an education must we really have before we are ushered into, or graduated into the Kingdom of God? Or how much of the Bible must we know before we become, not merely a nominal, but a real new born Christian?

In contrast to the above given view of what the New Birth is, we have passed another worthy resolution which advocates the sending of an evangelist to the smaller churches of our Conference. We hope that the churches will welcome this help and that through the efforts of such an evangelist souls may be brought to repentance, confession and a saving faith. May God give us the right man or men for this work!

And finally, we have noticed how a new interest and a new zeal in our Mennonite Peace Principles has taken a hold of our young and also our older people. In some foreign countries we would not be permitted to make much propaganda with our Peace Doctrine, but thank God for our American liberty. Here we can believe in it, teach it and propagate it. May we not be found shirking our duty or neglecting our opportunity and privilege. And let us rather send forth our own Peace advocates, of which we have many, into all directions than invite professional lectures and outside educators into our midst in order to tell us, what we have known and believed for 400 years.

Taking all things together or summing them up, I do agree with those, whom I heard remarking, that this Conference Session was one of the best, if not the best which we have ever attended.

JONATHAN: COURAGEOUS FRIENDSHIP

1 Samuel 20:4-17

Introduction

Saul was rejected of God and Samuel was directed to anoint David to be king in his stead. This, with other things, made Saul very jealous and he endeavored to kill him. Saul's oldest son, Jonathan, the heir to the throne, became a very close friend of David's. The friendship between these two men is the most famous in all history. It reveals what a friend is, what it is to have a friend, and to be a friend. The friendship between these shines for all ages. "The soul of Jonathan was knit to the soul of David."

Jonathan and David Plan for Safety vs. 4-10

Jonathan reveals the nobility of his heart in his readiness to do whatever the soul of David might desire (v4). He lost all his selfish ambitions in his love for David and was ready, at the peril of his own life, to protect him from Saul's anger and jealousy. David's ability, his fine character and popularity aroused admiration and love in Jonathan. He showed, to a rare degree, the qualities of a true friend.

David realized the seriousness of his danger (v5) and that he would likely have to flee for his life. He needed a friend and found him in the king's son. The plan (vs. 6, 7) would reveal clearly to Jonathan the attitude of his father toward David and he then would tell him the true facts, wether good or evil. Are we so ready to warn those to whom we profess friendship, about impending perils? Jonathan and David solemnly pledged to be faithful to each other. There are always two persons to a friendship. If we would have a friend but it is better to be one. Truth and always loyal to each other. Jonathan was ready to shield David at all costs (v9). This language here expresses intense feeling. The broken sentences reveal this forcibly. No sacrifice is too great for Jonathan. David's welfare was his first concern.

Jonathan's Pledge of Help vs. 10-13

David's question (v10) showed that he saw difficulties and so Jonathan proposed that they go out into the field where they could plan more freely (vs. 18-23). Jonathan promised the Lord (v12) that he would be a true friend to David. He shows his sincerity of heart in praying that God would be with David as He had been with king Saul (v13). Jonathan and David had a deep faith in and love for God. Where persons are linked together in this faith there are rooted deeply those qualities that make for enduring Christian friendships. The key to friendship is character and it has its roots in devtion to God and Christ.

Jonathan's Covenant with David vs. 14-17

Jonathan was helping David to save his life. Now he asks of him that he, when he has become the king, should show the same kindness and love to Jonathan and his family throughout his reign (vs14,15). This covenant (v16) was to bind not only David but also his descendants. David had small opportunity to do anything for Jonathan who gave with all his heart. Jonathan considered this friendship as a covenant to be true to each other. The friendship of David and Jonathan was ideal because they were both true to God. Because of this they could be true to each other. The Friend that "sticketh closer than a brother," is true and righteous all together. It is a good thing to have a friend but it is better o be one. Truth and tenderness are the elements of true friendship. Love to Christ is the "golden thread" which binds persons to their Master and to each other. Christ himself showed us that friendship is to be distinguished by love and He loved sacrificially. Friendship on Christ's terms of Christian love, is the world's great need today.

The Dress of a Christian Woman

(Abbreviated)

By Ruth E. McGinnis, Altoona, Pa.

The dress problem has completely captured the hearts of the women and girls of today, so much so that a proper sense of modesty and even decency seem to have been almost forgotten.

It is not surprising that the women of the world whose life is to please the flesh should be carried away by the shocking styles of today. It is to those who love the Savior and read in the Bible that "whosoever is a friend of the world is an enemy of God;" to these I write with the hope that some one may be helped, not only to see the awful sin of the modern dress but also to try and draw some weaker sister back into the Gospel way.

The so-called Christian world rejoices in the fact that they are freed from long hair and long skirts. The old Mother Hubbard style of dress covered everything and concealed everything. Today the styles are just the opposite.

There were houses known in past years as houses of ill-fame; we still have them today under the white slave rings. The inmates of such places could be recognized by their style of dress, where today our nicest women will dress in far more immodest styles than were heard of at that time We notice that the harlots of Bible times were known by their bright-colored attire.

It is safe to say that there would be fewer homes whose happiness has been blasted by unfaithfulness, fewer divorce cases, and fewer transgressions of the sin against purity, if all these underworld styles could be thrown into the deepest hell, where they were first thought of by Satan.

As I said before, my topic is the Christian Women's Dress; and nothing could be plainer than the teachings of God as found in I Tim. 2:9, where we read: "In like manner also, that women adorn themselves in modest apparel, with shamefacedness and sobriety; not with braided hair, or gold, or costly array."

Our heavenly Father has also revealed His will concerning the way His children, men and women, should wear their hair, as we find in I Cor. 11:14, 15 where He plainly tells us: "Does not even nature itself teach you, that if a man have long hairs, it is a shame unto him? But if a woman have long hair, it is a glory to her: for her hair is given her for a covering."

A brother asked one time, "What is understood by modest apparel as mentioned in I Tim. 2:9, 10?" Modest apparel is that which is comfortable and convenient for the body, not conspicuous in style or color, and free from the useless ornaments that are so frequently displayed by the followers of fashion; an apparel that will not require a strain upon the natural modesty of the wearer when among plain and modest people.

This subject of dress should be taught fully and freely, as the other doctrines of the Word, and without apology. The reason our church has decided on the regulation dress is that if it were left to the individual, then the Church surrenders her power of discipline; and when the restraint is removed she will drift away. Where there is no church regulation there will be a gradual drift worldward until sooner or later there will be world regulation of dress by fashion's queen and the Word of God trampled under foot.

The illustration was given of two workers who were distributing literature in a disrespectful part of a certain city. They knocked unknowingly at the door of a house of ill-fame. The man opened the door accepted the papers and said that if it wasn't for that white cap on their heads they would not be leaving the same way they came there. God gave us our mark of separation for a protection and as a testimony to the world.

There should be a complete separation of Church and State, remembering that we are "strangers and pilgrims in the earth" and that we owe our first allegiance to God.

So if the world ridicules us and tells us that we are "old-fashioned," let us be true to the faith of our fathers who gave their lives for the Gospel's sake. The plain people have suffered much more than other religions, but remember Christ suffered for us. "Blessed are ye, when men shall revile you, and persecute you, and shall say all manner of evil against you falsely, for my sake. Rejoice, and be exceedingly glad: for great is your reward in heaven."—Gospel Herald.

Announcement of Ordination

The Lord willing, the ordination of Brother John F. Schmidt to the Gospel ministry is to take place at the Gnadenberg Mennonite Church, near Whitewater, Kansas, on Sunday, Sept. 18, the service to begin at 2:30 in the afternoon.

Brother Schmidt is a son of this congregation. He is a graduate of Bethel College and has recently also finished a three-year course in the Theological Seminary at Hartford, Conn. He is now serving a Congregational Church at Council Grove, Kansas. May this be only temporarily, for we need men of his type in some of our own Mennonite churches.—Editor.

How Wm. Colgate Gave to God

Many years ago a lad of sixteen years left home to seek his fortune. As he trudged along he met an old man, a captain of a canal-boat, and the following conversation took place: "Well, William, where are you going?" "I don't know," he answered; "I must make a living for myself." "There is no trouble about that," said the captain. "Be sure you start right, and you'll get along finely." William told his old friend that the only trade he know anything about was soap and candle making. "Well," said the old man, "let me pray with you once more, and give you a little advice, and then I will let you go." They kneeled down upon the tow path and prayed, and then the old captain gave him this advice: "Some one will soon be the leading soapmaker in New York. It can be you as well as any one. I hope it may. Be a good man; give your heart to Christ; give the Lord all that belongs to him of every dollar you earn; make an honest soap; give a full pound; and I am certain you will yet be a prosperous and rich man." The boy arrived in the city. Lonesome and far from home he remembered his mother's words and the last words of the canal-boat captain. He was led to "seek first the kingdom of God and his righteousness," and united with the church. The first dollar he earned brought up the question of the Lord's part. In the Bible he found the Jews were commanded to give one-tenth. So he said, "If the Lord will take one-tenth, I will give that." And so he did; ten cents of every dollar were sacred to the Lord. He engaged in the soap business, made an honest soap, gave a full pound, and instructed his bookkeeper to open an account with his Lord, and carry one-tenth of all his income to that account. He prospered, and grew rich faster than he had ever hoped. He then gave the Lord two-tenths, and prospered more than ever. Then he gave three-tenths, then four-tenths, then five-tenths. This is the story of William Colgate, who gave millions of dollars to the Lord's cause, and left a name that will never die.

Great effects come from industry and perseverance; for audacity doth almost bind and mate the weaker sort of minds.—Bacon.

What Methods of Publication Would Be Most Effective and Practical in Bringing Before the Young People Material of Information and Inspiration?

The printed page is without a doubt one of the best means of realizing the motto "A United Mennonite Youth in Christ," available to us today. During the past three years the publication work of the Young People's Committee has consisted of four pages in the MENNONITE under the heading, "OUR YOUTH SAYS." In this section were offered helps on Young Peoples', Intermediates', and Junior Christian Endeavor topics each week. In addition there have been short articles on subjects of interest to young people, reports of society activities, book reviews, and special features, such as the "Cookie Jar."

There have also been three District papers issued in the interest of Young Peoples' work: The "NEWS LETTER" a four page printed sheet in the Eastern District; the "VINE PRESS" of the Middle District and the "WORKERS' EXCHANGE" of the Pacific District, all mimeographed papers. Plans for a fourth one in the Western District are underway.

With the help of interested persons in each District a brief survey has been made to determine to what extent the present efforts are meeting the needs of our young people. Out of this have come a number of criticisms and suggestions for the improvement of the work.

1. More space is needed. The quality of the material is good but we need more of it.
2. "Our Youth Says" is not being read very widely by the young people. It must somehow be gotten into the hands of those for whom it is written.
3. Suggestions of material with a distinct appeal to young people were as follows: Christian views on current affairs; short autobiographies of Christian leaders; stories with a moral, illustrating a truth; selected poems; memory verses and quotations; hymn studies; Bible stories; the challenge of the missionary cause; news items of general interest.
4. Material for special occasions, is such as services of worship, consecration, graduation and reception are in demand, and should be made available.

In view of these needs and suggestions the following recommendations are offered for adoption:

1. That the Young Peoples' Department in the MENNONITE be continued for the present and the editors requested to take into consideration some of the above mentioned suggestions for the improvement of the work.
2. That as the way opens up, a plan be worked out by the Young Peoples' Committee in cooperation with the Board of Publication, whereby an independent Young Peoples' paper can be published to take the place of the space now occupied in the MENNONITE.
3. That the Young Peoples' Committee seek to secure copies of special services of worship, consecration, graduation, reception, etc. that have been successfully used in our C. E. Societies, Retreats and other Y. P. work and make them available in printed or mimeographed form for all groups desiring them.

C. E. Groups Join in New Projects

Adopt Systematic Giving By Voting for Regular Collections

McPherson, Kans., Sept. 2.—The young people of the Western District Christian Endeavor Convention are making some new and long-needed changes in the handling of missions funds for the missions projects that were accepted at the recent convention in the Tabor Church near Goessel.

They are undertaking a large scale program of systematic giving by having regular C. E. collections in the various groups of the district. They number over eighty C. E. groups, including Junior and Intermediates with the usual adult groups.

It is the first time that all C. E.'s are cooperating in a program of regular collections of this kind. Last year the young people's committee of this district disbursed such funds to an extent of $943.24.

They also have authorized the secretary-treasurer to make due receipts to all C. E. groups and individuals who send in contributions, and are using the following form of receipt.

Form A-1

Since duplicates of the form will be retained by the treasurer the above plan will make for a simple, yet business-like handling of all contributions.

Another change that should help is the rule adopted at Tabor to send all contributions direct to the treasurer. In the past the custom, which grew rather haphazardly, was to send contributions to any officer of the convention. This entailed some confusion in giving the money to the treasurer and caused unnecessary delay in putting the funds into action.

Miss Hilda Wiebe, Beatrice, Nebr., continues as convention treasurer for the current year.

- S., Oct. 1. Doing God's work. 1 Cor. 15:58

Suggested Hymns:

"Glory to His Name," "I Stand All Amazed"

Discussion of Topic:

The past few weeks we have been discussing the relationship of Christianity to our economic setup. We might have concluded that Christian life is not merely important but a necessity to decent economic conditions.

We shall now consider the importance of God to our economic system and our private life, as well. As we view the above scripture passages, we soon discover that God has certain obligations to fulfill in order to make this world a better place in which to live. All through history, the world has been filled with evidence of a God of activity. We can only imagine the greatness of God, when we realize that God is the ultimate source of all good and beautiful things—be they physical, mental, or spiritual.

We might classify the work of God under three topics—Physical, Mental, and Spiritual. By Physical we would include nature—all natural processes operate by virtue of laws which God ordained and maintains. The Mental realm would include the world of knowledge. When a scientist discovers or invents something, he is merely using science to reveal the greatness of God to man. Spiritual revelation is evidenced by the Christian activity in the life of man.

God works through and with individuals. As an Individual, one must consecrate himself to the will of God. The Father's work can only reach its fullest meaning when it receives the cooperation of Christian men and women.

Suggested Topics:

I. The Father's work manifested in a material world
  A. God created all material things. Col. 1:16
    1. The heavens declare the Glory of God and the firmament sheweth His handiwork. Ps. 19:1
    2. With God all things are possible. Matt. 19:26
  B. The natural laws ordained by God surpass all human wisdom
    1. God is a God of law and order
    2. He is the Author of every good and perfect gift
    3. God himself is immutable, incomprehensible, and his ways are past finding out. Jas. 1:17; 1 Peter 3:18; 1 John 3:1

II. The necessity of God's work to the spiritual world
  A. The Father is the ultimate source of all good
    1. I am the Vine ye are the branches. Jno. 15:5
    2. God is the source of man's salvation. Acts 16:17; Is. 12:2
  B. God's work in the hearts of men
    1. We must present ourselves a living sacrifice unto God. Romans 12:1
    2. God is with every individual, in Him we live, move and have our being. Ps. 139:7

All is of God. If He but wave His hand,
  The mists collect, the rains fall thick and loud;
Till, with a smile of light on sea and land,
  Lo! He looks back from the departing cloud.
Angels of life and death alike are His;
  Without His leave they pass no threshold o'er;
Who, then, would wish or dare, believing this,
  Against His messengers to shut the door?.

Candle-Light Worship Service

Prelude: (Organist plays while candle-lighters and flag-bearers enter) Candle-lighters illuminate arc of candles to form aura at rear of platform and stand at far ends of altar rail. Flag-bearers place flag in stands and stand at either side of platform.

Choir: "Jesus Shall Reign"

Leader: There's a light upon the mountains, and the day is at the spring,
When our eyes shall see the beauty and the glory of the King:
Weary was our heart with waiting, and the night watch seemed so long,
But his triumph-day is breaking, and we hail it with a song.

In the fading of the starlight we may see the coming morn;
And the lights of men are paling in the splendors of the dawn;
For the eastern skies are glowing as with light of hidden fire;
And the hearts of men are stirring with the throbs of deep desire.

He is breaking down the barriers, he is casting up the way;
He is calling for his angels to build up the gates of day
But his angels here are human, not the shining hosts above;
For the drum-beats of his arm are the heart beats of our love.

"But the angels here are human." How marvelous that God should entrust the building of his world to youth like you and me. Youth are the builders with Christ of a new world. Come ye who usher in the new day. Come with your talents and tithes that a new world may be built.

Come LABOR: (enter Labor—a young man dressed in dark trousers and shirt open at the neck. Carries pick.)

Come TEACHER: (enter Teacher—a young woman in sedate style carrying books.)

Come ARCHITECT: (enter Architect—a young man in business suit carrying blue-prints.)

Come HOME-MAKER: (enter Home-maker — a young woman carrying a tea tray.)

Come FARMER: (enter Farmer—a young man in overalls carrying a rake or shovel.)

Come NURSE: (enter Nurse—a young woman in white uniform.)

Come BUSINESS MAN: (enter Business Man—a young man in business suit carrying portfolio.)

Come STUDENT: (enter young man in sport clothes carrying brief case.)

Leader: You have come, but for what cause? The chorus of voices echo; that the Kingdom of God may come on earth. And that Kingdom is increasingly coming true through the efforts of youth.

Hark! we hear a distant music, and it comes with fuller swell;
'Tis the triumph song of Jesus, of our King, Emmanuel!
Go ye forth with joy to meet him! and, my soul, be swift to bring
All thy sweetest and thy dearest for the triumph of our king!

(As leader reads music is heard in distance)

Processional: "Lead on, O King Eternal" (Choir proceeds down aisle and then takes place in choir stalls.)

Prayer: O King Eternal, lead us into that new day about which we dream. We confess how narrow is our vision, how poor our understanding and marvelous development of ability. We pray not for release from the obligations of life but for a relationship with Thee that will bring zest for life and dynamic for action. Make us sense the role we play in the great drama of life. Help us to play that role worthily. As the dreams of this new world come into reality make our consecration to new causes constantly to animate us toward bringing that kingdom here on earth. For Thou didst command us to work for this day in the prayer taught to Thy disciples: "Our Father, who art in heaven, hallowed be Thy name, Thy kingdom come, Thy will be done, on earth as it is in heaven, give us this day our daily bread. And forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive those who trespass against us. And lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil. For Thine is the kingdom, and the power and the glory forever."

Choir: "Amen"—Dresden

Leader: Builders of this new day, you have heard the call. You have come to consecrate your time, your talents, your all. Nothing short of complete dedication will suffice in accomplishing such a great work. 'Tis true that you need time to dream, to laugh, to play, to worship, to think. But now 'tis time for you to "go." Go ye into all the world for the field is white unto the harvest."

Go Student. Go Business man. Go Nurse. Go Farmer. Go Home-Maker. Go Architect. Go Teacher. Go Labor. (Each character departs from platform) Go forth to bring into fulfillment God's dreams of a Kingdom here on earth, even like that in heaven. For it is a great day in which to live.

> "To be alive in such an age!
> To live in it, to give in it!
> Fling forth thy sorrow to the wind
> And link thy hope with human kind.
> Give thanks with all thy flaming heart,
> Crave but to have in it a part—
> Give thanks and clasp thy heritage
> To be alive in such an age."

Choir:" Unfold Ye Portals"

Leader: The new day dawns. Christian youth everywhere are pledging their dynamic to the cause of Christ which brings us here. (Pause after each question)

Will you share His life in your home and neighborhood?

Will you serve our world with the talents which are yours?

Will you work humbly yet courageously for the establishment of peace?

Will you pray and labor for the reign of Christ throughout the world?

Then carry your banners and good news into the far corners of the earth.

Recessional: The choir, flag-bearers, candle lighters. "O Jesus I have Promised"

Leader: Christian youth move into new areas. They carry the light of the new day into the dark corners of the world. If you would follow in their train let us rise and sing "Follow the Gleam."

JUNIOR CORNER

"If Thou Wilt Take the Left Hand, I Will Go to the Right.,, Gen. 18:9

Program suggestions for September 25, 1938

Call to service by prelude: "Holy, Holy, Holy"

Opening service:

1. Rise to sing verses 2, 3, 4
2. Prayer in unison: Psalm 19:14 (be seated)
3. Scripture reading: I Cor. 13:4-7. (Use the word "love")
4. Leader's prayer
5. Sing in unison the prayer: "Dear Lord and Father of Mankind." Verses 1 and 2

Mission minutes: Don't let the children miss the interesting happenings on our stations. Try this plan. Ask for a volunteer who will find some happening on our fields which he would like to tell about at the next meeting. Tell the others to notify you as soon as they have something interesting to report. A chart could be made with sections representing our fields, as:

Name of Pupil	Okla.	Ariz.	Mont.	India	China

As soon as a report is brought in, put down the junior's name and star the field. This will show up the neglected fields and special effort can be put forth to receive reports from the same. This same chart could serve for letter check-ups. It would interest your group to correspond with juniors on the fields. A gold star could mark a letter written. How wonderful if, at the end of the school term, this chart would show an increasing number of stars telling that mission interest has grown.

(You can order the list of juniors on the fields and on furlough from Miss Minnie Schmidt, Bethel College, Kansas)

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Study period. Aim: to show that selfishness is loss and unselfishness is gain

1. Sing in unison: "I Need Thee Every Hour." Verses 1 and 2
2. Introduction of study by chairman quoting Psalm 51:10 and then asking the group to speak it in unison
3. Abraham acts unselfishly: a junior citing his losses found in Gen. 13:12; 19:1-4, 12, 13, 15-17, 26, 30
5. Special music: "Yield Not to Temptation"
6. What happened to the unselfish Abraham: by a junior using Gen. 13:14-19
7. Discussion: in charge of leader using the board heading it. "Which One Pays?" Then on one side of the board write: The Unselfish Abraham Received: ----------; on the opposite side write: The Selfish Lot Lost: ----------; Let the groups name the gains and losses and put these on the board. Close the discussion with the heart thought: Prov. 15:3 and "The eyes of the Lord run to and fro throughout the whole earth, to show himself strong in behalf of them whose heart is perfect toward him. II Chron. 16:9
8. Sing in unison: "Lord Jesus, I long to be Perfectly Whole"
9. Parting prayer: Rise to speak in unison

> "Lead us, heavenly Father;
> Lead us, Shepherd kind;
> We are only children,
> Weak and young and blind.
> All the way before us
> Thou alone dost know;
> Lead us, heavenly Father,
> Lead us as we go."

Buying a Paper

"Here, boy, let me have a paper."

"Can't."

"Why not?" "I heard you crying out loud enough to be heard at the City Hall."

"Yes, but that was down 'tother block, ye know, where I hollered."

"What does that matter? Come, now, no fooling. I'm in a hurry."

"Couldn't sell you a paper on this block, Mister, cos it b'longs to Limpy. He's just up the furdest end now. You'll meet him."

"And who is Limpy? And why does he have this block?"

"Cos us other boys agreed to let him have it. Ye see it's a good run 'count of the offices all along, and the poor chap is that lame he can't git around lively like the rest of us, so we agreed that the first one caught sellin' on his beat should be thrashed. See?"

"Yes, I see. You have a sort of brotherhood among yourselves?"

"Well, we're going to look out for a little cove what's lame anyhow."

"There comes Limpy now. He's a fortunate boy to have such friends."

The gentleman bought two papers of him, and went on his way down town, wondering how many men in business would refuse to sell their wares in order to give a weak, halting brother a chance in the field.—Ex.

What is a Boy?

What is a boy? He is the person who is going to carry on what you have started. He is to sit right where you are sitting and when you are gone attend to those things you think are so important. You may adopt all the policies you please, but how they will be carried on depends on him. Even if you make leagues and treaties, he will have to manage them. He is going to sit at your desk in the Senate and occupy your place on the supreme Bench. He is going to move in and take over your prisons, churches, universities, counting houses and corporation. When you get done, all your work is going to be judged and praised or condemned by him.

Your reputation and your fortune are in his hands. He will read the books you write and sell them to the second-hand man. He will assume control of your cities. Right now the future president is playing marbles, and the most famous actor of his day is complaining because he does not want to go to bed. Not your contemporaries and fellow citizens, but the boys out there in the school yard are going to say whether after all, you were a grand and noble hero or a blatherskite.

It is the boy who will amend your rules, alter your creeds, laugh at your mistakes. He may think kindly of you, and say you did the best you could, or he may not. Watch your step! All your work is for him and the fate of the nation and of humanity is in his hands. So it might be well to pay him some attention.

Dreaming

I prowled in painter's paradise awhile
And dreamed the dreams of poets, as I drank
Eagerly and deeply the water drawn from Lethe.
The canvas dims, grows dimmer till at last it fades
And yields itself to nature's blending beauty.

At every bend a scene too true for brushes,
Too much itself: where humans fail: — succeeding.
The dark green, sheeny leaves of awkward maples;
Beneath; — the multi-million, light green leaved willow;
The sky a distant blue and clouds snow white.

O'erhead the lazy crow emits his yawning caw;
The busy goldfinch flits with scarce a sound:
The distant birds rehearse their Maker's song
So still:—it seems a choir of angels in a dream.
All this a masterpiece:—God's love.

It lives; in stillness hear the murmuring leaves;
The merry bubbling babble of the stream
And see, the graceful clouds as lighting birds,
The shimmering twinkle of the moving leaves,
All worship the great painter-poet—God.

CORRESPONDENCE

FREEMAN, SOUTH DAKOTA, SEPT. 4, 1938

My dear friend Dr. Thierstein:

Once again I wish to try the pages of our MENNONITE with a tribute, richly deserved, to our pioneering Mennonite parents. I have felt the need for such a recognition in verse for some time, and if you will be good enough to publish it in an early issue, I feel that many an elderly member of that band of pioneers in the Dakotas, as well as in Kansas and other western states, will appreciate reading it.

Wishing you much happiness in your editorial capacity,

Permit me to remain your good friend, Edwin C. Graber.

EBENEZER CHURCH, NEAR BLUFFTON, OHIO

In the absence of our pastor, P. A. Kliewer, who attended the General Conference, and then became ill out west, the following persons have been preaching for us Sunday mornings: On July 31, Rev. J. B. 7:30.—On August 7, Miss Minnie Hilty from China.

She has seen many pass from death unto life. In the evening a lesson on Faith by Bro. Howard Amstutz.—On August 28, Rev. John Neuenschwander of Texas, son of Amos Neuenschwander, gave us the sermon.—On Sunday morning, August 21, the Hilty Bros., Gordon and Marvin, favored us with a sacred song service. Accompanied by Harold Boaz of Pandora, they Sunday morning, August 21, the Hilty Brothers, Gorare touring westward giving concerts.—Our young folks who attended the Retreat at Lake Shipshewana, Ind. were: Betty Neuenschwander, Marcella and Weldon Basinger, Evan Sommers and Merlin Zimmerly. We are informed that Sister Lulu Sommer is progressing nicely in the Belgian Gospel mission work. Friday, Aug. 26, a pleasant meeting was held at the home of Brother Cal. Luginbill, in honor of students leaving for different schools. The main speaker was Miss Catherine Niswander of Philadelphia. Our pastor is reported as being still ill at this writing, Sept. 2. And the prayers of faith shall save the sick; and the Lord shall raise him up. James 5:15. The large shed at the Ebenezer Church was purchased by P. C. Steiner to build a barn on the Sam King farm, in place of the one destroyed by fire. A business meeting was held Sept. 4, to decide whether to buy or build a parsonage in Bluffton.—Corr.

HEREFORD MENN. CHURCH, BALLY, PA.

Greetings to the Editor and Readers of the Mennonite.

The three Christian Endeavor Societies planted a beautiful Douglas Fir Tree on the church property on Saturday afternoon, May 7th, with appropriate exercises. Our annual Spring Communion was observed on Mother's Day, May 8th. In the evening of the same date, the Perkiomen Valley Intermediate C. E. Union held their 9th rally in our church. Miss Ann Cummings brought a challenging message for young people. On May 2nd, Jacob Haas, one of our older church members passed away. Again we sustained a great loss, on June 7th, through the death of Mrs. Sidney Borneman who was a devoted and faithful member of our church for 60 years. Our sympathies go out to the bereaved families.

Children's Sunday was observed in our church on Sunday morning, June 12th. This service took the place of a regular Children's Day Service. The Primary Department attended the church services in a body and took part in recitations, singing and instrumental music. These programs are always greatly enjoyed by both parents and friends.—The Primary Department and the main Department of the Sunday School again held separate outings with great success. The afternoons were spent in playing games and in fellowship with one another.—Quite a number of our people availed themselves of the opportunity of rehearsing under Prof. Russell A. Lantz and helping in the final concert on Sunday afternoon and evening, July 24th. It was a real privilege to be directed by him.

Our pastor, Dr. Elmer E. S. Johnson, attended the annual meeting of the Trustees of the United Society of Christian Endeavor in New York City on June 7th and 8th. He was re-elected to serve another two years.—Mr. and Mrs. Joseph B. Bechtel represented our church and Ladies Aid Society at the General Conference in Canada. We are looking forward to hearing their reports. Mr. Bechtel was a former member of our church.

During the last few weeks three people have become affiliated with our church, two young men who had their membership transferred and one older person, on profession of his faith. We trust they may be richly blessed through their membership in our church.

Our congregation was greatly saddened by the death of Gaylord Harlarcher on Wednesday evening, August 24th in a head-on-collision causing instant death. He was only 29 years old. We truly extend our warm sympathy to his mother and his wife. It means that we must be prepared for we know not what hour our Master has need of us.

These past months have been very hard and trying on our pastor for there seem to be so many homes where some discouragement or death have come; not all among our church members, but people living in the community and folks who had the interests of the Hereford Church at heart. Then, too, we have been having severe thunderstorms and electrical storms, during the summer months. Within a radius of three miles of our church three large barns were burned to ashes. We must share one another's burdens. We thank God for his many blessings and the strength he has given our pastor and individuals to bear the burdens, as they arise from day to day. We trust that we may help one another in the future as we have done in the past.

PAWNEE ROCK, KANSAS, SEPT. 4, 1938

The Bergtal Mennonite Sewing Society held its last meeting Sept. 1. We have a short program each month and thus gave each member a chance to render some part in the programs during each year. We had a very good meeting. The main topic was, "Happiness in the Home." Others were: "Jesus in the Home" and "Team Work in the Home." These topics were all well rendered. First remark, Jesus must be our personal Savior. Second, Home is the greatest institution, and Child training and obedience. Memory verses were given from Matt. 5:2-12.

Roll call was answered by all the members present with a verse from the Bible containing "Love." Songs were, "Love Lifted Me" and "It Pays to Serve Jesus." Lastly a nice long letter from Missionary William and Pauline Unruh was read and enjoyed by all. The rest of the time was spent in quilting. We had two quilts in frames. One we finished.—A member of the Society.

SALEM ZION CHURCH, MARION. S. DAK.

On September fourth this congregation experienced a rare event—the farewell meetings for our missionaries, Rev. and Mrs. Brown. In the forenoon Mrs. Brown spoke to the Sunday School. This was followed with the farewell address by Mr. Brown, relating the experiences of the Apostle Paul who was warned not to go up to Jerusalem. Yet, he had the assurance that it was God's will to go there. He did not look for personal safety, but said, "What mean ye to weep and to break mine heart, for I am ready not to be bound only, but also to die at Jerusalem for the name of the Lord Jesus." So they, too, want to be true to their calling and serve the fourth term in the field that has grown so dear to them, especially during the last term when they saw so many fruits of their labor.

The evening program was given by several speakers, representing the different churches and music by the Salem Zion Men's Club, and the College Sextette. The local pastor, acting as chairman, emphasized the many blessings that God has given us through Brother and Sister Brown's service behind the pulpit, S. S. work, and personal contact. The Salem Church was represented by Rev. P. R. Schroeder whose remarks were based on Ps. 9:4: "God the Almighty one is still on the throne, judging rightly." Rev. Bartel represented the home church of Bro. Brown, the Bethel Church of Mt. Lake, Minn. His inspiring remarks will be a great help to all Christians in facing the difficulties and trials. Bro. Dave Tieszen of the Bethesda Church, who has a daughter on the mission field in Africa, spoke of the joy a Christian has in having a part in the work of our Master. Rev. A. P. Waltner, representing the Foreign Mission Board, spoke words of encouragement. Daughter Linda, who came home to see her folks leave, was also called upon to say a few words. She expressed her hearty thanks for all the kindness shown her during her school days and also that she and Jessie are glad that the Lord has given their parents health and joy to go back to China. She closed by saying that, the Lord willing, it was their desire to be followers in their parents footsteps some day.

A "Love Offering" was taken and given to them as personal donations.

Rev. and Mrs. Brown responded with a few remarks. Rev. M. Kroeker closed the meeting with a prayer.

Mr. and Mrs. Brown and Roland plan to leave on Sept. 8 for Vancouver, B. C., whence they will sail on the S. S. Empress of Canada on Sept. 17. We are wishing them God's speed, his guiding and protecting hand on their way and in the war-torn and troubled mission field.—B. P. Miller, Corr.

If God be infinitely holy, just and good, He must take delight in those creatures that resemble Him most in these perfections.—Atterbury.

—THE SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION OF THE EASTERN DISTRICT will be held at the Zion Mennonite Church, Souderton, Pa., Saturday, Sept. 24. There will be afternoon and evening meetings at 2:30 and 7:30 o'clock respectively.

—Freeman Jr. College, Freeman, S. D.: The Annual Corporation of Freeman Jr. College will convene at the College on Friday evening, Sept. 16, 1938, at 7:30 for the purpose of discussing school problems, to consider reports, to elect members on the Board of Trustees, and to transact any other business . . . that may properly come before the meeting." The question of what is to be done with the old college building will also be discussed, and the revision of the Corporation by-laws taken up.

—Bethel College Campus to become a town (city).—With frequent additions of new buildings, both by the College and by members of the faculty, the Bethel College Campus has attained the size of a considerable village or a little town. Thus problems and needs have arisen that the College alone finds it rather difficult to handle. For this reason there has been for sometime quite a bit of agitation to incorporate the place as a "city." An important step was taken, when a post-office was established and named Bethel College, which has helped to bring the institution to the attention of the public over the country, i.e. it put the school on the map. But as there is a town by the name of Bethel in Kansas, this caused confusion with the mail, express, etc. So articles of incorporation have been drawn and signed by property holders and other regular residents on the campus, with petition to the proper authorities that the campus be declared a city, under the name North Newton, Kansas.

—The Monthly News Letter of the Salem Church, Freeman, S. Dak. reports that 16 teachers and about 60 students from there will be at work in different schools, which without a doubt establishes the fact that Freeman Jr. College has done a very valuable and far reaching peace of work during the forty years of its existence.

—The Eastern Conference Brotherhood does a laudable thing.—Through the efforts of this body of men, John Boehr, son of Missionary P. J. Boehr, will attend Bluffton College this year, preparing to enter the China Mission field.

—Bro. David Toews, Rosthern, Sask. writes that with the $350.00 contributed by the churches in Canada, previous to the session of the conference, and with the profit from meals and refreshments, the committee that had charge of the business and of the entertainment of the Conference will just about break even. The charges for the use of the Exhibition buildings were considerable.

—Watch! for another exquisite poem from our So. Dakota Mennonite poet, Bro. Edwin C. Graber. It will probably appear in the next number of The Mennonite after this. The poem is so good you will want to preserve it. See Mr. Graber's letter under Correspondence.—Hearty Thanks, friend Graber, for this truly worthwhile contribution to this paper.

—Germantown Mennonite Church, Philadelphia, Pa. We are in receipt of a very interesting folder from this church, the oldest Mennonite Church in America, founded in 1686, just 252 years ago. We find in this paper short articles on, "Pastor's Thought," "The Three Ages of Men and the Church," and other worthwhile items. One is: "At the last Sunday School Convention it was resolved to increase the attendance one-third. What have you done about this?"—Rightly, such resolutions place a duty of every youth and grown member of the church. Hence the question is a proper one.

Bethel College, Sept. 8.—At the close of the two days set apart for first semester registration, the enrollment was 296 as against 270 a year ago. The freshmen enrollment is considerably smaller than last year, but this is more than offset by larger numbers in the upper classes. In the past Bethel has been losing too many students after the first and second years. Now, since the school is a member of the North Central Association, upper classmen will feel more like staying.

—We are sorry that as yet we have no news from Bluffton and Freeman Colleges, and other schools in our Conference, telling us how the new school year is coming. We are very glad to bring short news notices, if those in charge of the institution will see to it that they are furnished.

—A new pipe organ for Eden Mennonite Church, Schwenksville, Pa.—On Sunday, Aug. 28, a new pipe organ, built by Paul Fritsche, was dedicated to its use in this church, and in the evening a large gathering at the church listened to a touching organ recital given by a guest artist.

—Marriages at the Eden Mennonite Church.—
July 22: Marie Schrag to Waldo Wedel.
August 12: Elda Mae Goering to Philip Waltner.
August 14: Bertha Waltner to Waldo Voth.
August 25: Delia Krehbiel to Richard Stucky.

—The correspondent of the church also reports: On Sunday, August 27, baptism service was held, at which thirteen young men and three young ladies were received into the church.

—The American public has decreased its gifts for the support of churches since 1932 by 30 per cent; for general benevolences by 29 per cent; for community chests by 24 per cent; for colleges by 18 per cent. At the same time, expenditures for jewelry, automobiles, whiskey, radios, etc., have increased from 25 per cent to 317 per cent.—Atlantic Monthly.

The Pioneers

Dedicated to our Mennonite pioneering parents

By Ervin C. Graber

THE pioneers, a healthy, hardy race,
Have all but passed from out our world and day,
Yet in remembrance what a lustrous place
They occupy! Their task, to blaze the way!

A wilderness transfigured is a mark
Not soon corroded by Time's cruel hand—
They had the courage and the vital spark
Of soul, and to the Law of High Command

They were attuned: a vision had been theirs;
It held them true through bitter days and sweet,
Through trials, hardships, and the countless cares
That every pioneering band has had to meet.

To such a memory we humbly bow;
Our words are weak in adding to their story:
Our lives should carry on RIGHT HERE AND NOW
With that same worthiness that was their glory!

Perspective

Grace Noll Crowell

LOOKING back along the years
I can see the hand of God
Leading me down every road
That my feet have trod.

I can see the long steep hills
That I dreaded so to climb,
Now I know He went with me
Up them every time.

And I find He walked with me
When I thought I walked alone
Through those faroff, shadowed, dark
Valleys I have known.

So today, why should I doubt,
And today, why should I fear?
Sometime I shall look and see
Even now, God near.

True Patriots

We are proud of our citizenship in the greatest country in the world. But we are not so proud of certain conditions within our country. Would to God there were less drunkenness, fewer automobile accidents, fewer divorces, kidnappings, lynchings, immoral movies, less racketeering, and less of the salacious in the books and magazines offered the public. We also wish it were possible for a peace-maker to become a citizen of our great country. The Sermon on the Mount calls the peace makers blessed. Despite that, the Supreme Court has ruled, five to four, that one may not become a citizen unless he is willing to shoulder a gun and kill. Men are asked to sacrifice for their country, even life, if need be. But the business of the soldier is not to sacrifice his life, rather to take others lives; not to die for his country, but to kill, to kill as many as is possible. If he himself dies, it is incidental to his main purpose and not intentional. Crucifixion on the battlefield is in no sense like the Crucifixion on Calvary. The one is destructive, the other was redemptive. The soldier is taught to curse as he sticks and stabs in mortal combat; Christ gave up his life with a prayer upon His lips, "Father, forgive them." The real patriots are not those who are ready to fight and shed their blood to defend the Constitution; rather those who live quiet, peaceable, and useful lives; who conduct their business in an honest manner; who pay fair wages and give honest labor; who refuse bribes, and stand for honesty in public life; who believe in God and the Bible, the home and the church, and who seek to bring the spirit of the Prince of Peace into the community life. We believe there is no higher quality of citizenship than taking literally to heart the words "Thou shalt not kill," "Overcome evil with good," "Love your enemies, and pray for them that persecute you," "Whatsoever ye would that men do unto you, even so do ye also unto them." Our country sorely needs people of that character and we wish the law of the land permitted them to become citizens.—Lester Hostetler in "The Herald."

To be a good patriot, a man must consider his countrymen as God's creatures, and himself as accountable for his acting toward them. Bishop Berkeley

DHARNI'S DECEPTION

Some weeks ago a man came to Basna with the request to be baptized. He said he was a Brahmin from the sacred shrine Narsinghnath. He spoke English well and had a fascinating story to tell of how he had read the Bible through four times and come to the decision to become a Christian. When he had told his Brahmin friends of his decision they had persecuted him and torn up his Bible and chased him away. He was a complete stranger to us and we gave him every advantage of the doubt. He came every morning at 5:30 and the missionaries had a Scripture study with him for thirty minutes. He had an extraordinary knowledge of the Bible for a Hindu and prayed as well as Christians do. We wondered how this could be but kept on believing his words with a doubting heart. One day he asked for a special interview with the missionaries. He wished to be baptized at once and wanted to know what the missionaries would do for him by way of support. We suggested that since he was anxious to testify and preach, as he said, that he follow the example of the Apostle Paul and work part time and preach part time. His answer was that all his life he had led the worship of stone idols and did not know how to work but only how to talk. Shortly after this he vanished from the Basna field and arrived in Janjgir to tell his story there. They were very careful there and suggested that he go back to Basna where his mother tongue Oriya is used quite a bit. When he came back to Basna he again asked what kind of a plan we could suggest for his livelihood. We had the same suggestion.

Recently the leading men from the various village groups of Christians met at the village Sivitripur for a Lay-Leaders Worship Camp. Our friend, Misra Brahmin, came too and one morning presented his request to this group of leading men. They checked him up carefully on his motives and he became angry and loud. Some told him frankly that the attitudes he manifested were rather questionable. He was told that it appeared as though he was more concerned about his stomach than about his soul. Several men from the Baptist field withstood him rather sharply to my surprise. After the meeting one of these men came to me and said, "We know this man. He is from the Baptist field. His name is not Misra Brahmin but Dharni. He is the son of Christian parents in Katak. He used to be employed as a preacher on a good salary. He is a cheat and a bad man. Be careful." He must have felt that he was discovered because he disappeared after that meeting and has not been heard of since. He was a wolf in sheep's clothes. We always doubted him but gave him the advantage of the doubt, until the Lord provided a way out.

HOME MISSIONS

A. J. Neuenschwander, Sec.

Langham, Sask., June, 1938.
Langham, Sask.

Dear Mission Friends:

In response to a request, I shall briefly give some incidents out of my efforts in this District. I feel that I am privileged to do this work only by the grace of God.

After we had settled in our new home, I began the work by making visits in the homes in the Aberdeen church, in cooperation with Brother Koop. In November I visited groups in Kindersley, Glidden, Fiske, Herschel, and Luseland. In Herschel Bible Studies were conducted in addition to doing visitation work. Here Elder Jacob B. Wiens, Abram Klassen, Heinrich Penner and Jacob Wiens Jr., assisted me in turn. The conviction is growing with me that where visitation work is done in homes, and we come direct to the point of prayer and personal relationship to the Lord, the best work is done. An Itinerant Minister needs, therefore, to give ample time and energy to this specific field of endeavor.

During the Advent season and until the end of January, I labored in Langham. From the end of January the Bible Weeks commenced. From that time until the 21st of March, services were held almost every day. Many days I spoke twice and occasionally three times, Saturday, only, was free. Invitations were accepted as fast as possible, but a few could not be accommodated, such as Superb, Sonningdale, and Mayfair. From the end of March until the end of June, I have again labored near and in the home base.

Reported briefly, this is all that I can say about the work. I have performed my tasks gladly, although at times with hesitation, because of my shortcomings. May the Lord bless what was done, according to His will and plan, and may He pardon all errors and mistakes.

With deep gratitude to our Heavenly Father and to all who helped to make it possible to establish this work.

I beg to remain with brotherly greetings,

Jacob J. Nickel.

—A CLERGYMAN'S LIFE.—To a person who regretted to Dr. S. Johnson that he had not been a clergyman, because he considered the life of a clergyman an easy and comfortable one, the Doctor made this memorable reply: "The life of a conscientious clergyman is not easy. I have always considered a clergyman as the father of a larger family than he is able to maintain. No, I do not envy a clergyman's life as an easy life, nor do I envy the clergyman who makes it an easy life."

Important Conference Resolutions

The important resolutions of the Conference are herewith published. They will mean just as much as we make them mean and no more—by uniting to carry them out. May the Lord, the Head of the Church, lead and unite us in their accomplishment!—C. E. Krehbiel, secretary.

5. RESOLVED to adopt recommendation 1 of the Executive Committee. It reads: That the Minutes and Reports of the session at Saskatoon be printed and distributed as in previous years two to a vote, and that the congregations be requested to take one offering for the Conference Treasury to pay for same. —H. H. Bartel, C. F. Sawatzky.

6. RESOLVED, to adopt recommendation 2 of the Executive Committee. It reads: That the Executive Committee be authorized to use its discretion in distributing such bequests or gifts to Conference as have been given without designating specific causes to which they should go.—F. H. Swartz, A. H. Leaman.

7. RESOLVED, To adopt recommendation 3 of the Executive Commitee. It reads: That it is the sentiment of Conference that definite efforts be made to have a Conference Headquarters for offices and archives and other conference interests, and where a Central Treasury may be established to which money for all conference purposes may be sent and be booked and used for causes specified by donors.—Joh. Enns E. G. Kaufman.

9. RESOLVED, To adopt recommendation 5 of the Executive Committee. It reads: That the Executive Committee of Conference be authorized to receive real and personal property as bequests, gifts or annuities, etc., for Conference just as boards and committees have been doing.

10. RESOLVED, To adopt recommendation 6 of the Executive Committee with the amendment that the matter be put into motion as soon as possible with the approval of the Ex. Com. It reads: That this session creates a special committee to study further the question of providing pensions for deserving, needy or superannuated ministers, and that the matter be put into motion as soon as possible with the approval of the Executive Committee, and to report to the next session of Conference.—S. K. Mosiman, Walter H. Temple.

11. RESOLVED, That the President appoint a committee of five to consider a pensioning plan, and add more to the committee as needed.—Walter H. Temple, A. Warkentin.

12. RESOLVED, To adopt recommendation 7 of the Executive Committee. It reads: That a copy of the Report on the Third Mennonite World Congress be sent free of charge to each Sunday School Library of our Conference.—S. K. Mosiman.

13. RESOLVED, That the Executive Committee be authorized to take steps toward inviting the Fourth World Congress of Mennonites to meet in America.

15. RESOLVED, To adopt recommendation 1 of the Placement Committee. It reads: to advise congregations and ministers, if they contemplate making a change, to give each other at least three months prior notice.

16. RESOLVED, To adopt recommendation 2 of the Placement Committee. It reads: To advise ministers, who accept a call to a church of which they are not members, to join such a church.

The Question: Would it be wise to advise district conferences to offer Certificates to the ministers of their churches who are in good standing, stating that they are recognized Mennonite ministers? was answered thus:

17. RESOLVED, That the General Conference, through its Executive Committee, offer Certificates to the ministers of the Conference.—G. T. Soldner, Freeman H. Swartz.

20. RESOLVED, That the Placement Committee and the Church Unity Committee be made Standing committees of six members each.—Ed G. Kaufman, P. H. Richert.

21. RESOLVED, To adopt the recommendation of the Board of Foreign Missions. It reads: That until the Pension Plan fully functions, the retired missionaries who would be on pension, get their support from the (board's) general treasury according to the Pension Plan (for missionaries). (Bracket insertions by the Conf. Sec'y.)—John Lichti.

25. RESOLVED, To adopt recommendation 1 of the Home Mission Board. It reads: Whereas our Mennoninte constituency in Canada had to be settled in places and locations as they could be secured, it naturally followed that settlements had to be made in many and scattered places; and Whereas these scattered settlements find it difficult to establish and maintain self supporting churches, it has been the policy of the Home Mission Board to support and aid these struggling churches by supplying an itinerant ministry at a cost of $500.00 to $600.00 per month. We recommend, that the Board continue its endeavor to nurture these groups and struggling churches, in the hope that they might become independent and self supporting churches in due time.—P. H. Richert, S. P. Preheim.

26. RESOLVED, To adopt recommendation 2 of the Home Mission Board. Daniel J. Unruh, C. C. Epp. It was amended so it now reads: Whereas there is some overlapping in the work of the various Evangelistic Committees of the District Conferences, and the work of the Home Mission Board, when at the same time there are some scattered Mennonite flocks un-shepherded: the Board kindly suggests that these Committees cooperate and communicate with the Board, with the view of coordinating the task of Church Extension and Evangelism, so that all our fields may be adequately covered. Therefore, recommended, that we be given the privilege to engage one (2 had been suggested) Itinerant Minister in the United States if conditions warrant, to cooperate with District Evangelistic Committees, whose duty it shall be to shepherd these smaller groups with the hope of developing them into permanent churches; and also to conduct Bible Study and Evangelistic Services in these churches. The service of this man is also to be offered to smaller churches which are now self-supporting, but feel they cannot afford to engage special speakers and entail additional expenses for such extra services. —C. E. Krehbiel, Elmer Basinger.

27. RESOLVED, To adopt recommendation 3 of the Home Mission Board. It reads: For almost four centuries Mennonites were almost exclusively a rural people, but at present there is a trend and tendency toward the cities because of our industrializd age. The Home Mission Board is convinced that we should continue our City Mission work, as heretofore, and even enlarge the program as needs arise. In the recent past, Girls' Homes have been established in some of our city centers. The results in spiritual help and response amply warrant these ventures. We recommend that the Board be given the privilege to enlarge this phase of the work when conditions warrant it.—M. Horsch, J. C. Kaufman.

29. RESOLVED, To adopt recommendation 4 of the Home Mission Board with the phrase "at the discretion of the Executive Committee." It now reads: Whereas the employment of a Field Secretary has demonstrated its worth in the past three years, we recommend that this office be continued at the discretion of the Executive Committee as heretofore, and the various conference activities be kept before our churches and people constantly.—Ed. G. Kaufman, J. J. Voth.

30. RESOLVED, To adopt recommendation 5 of the Home Mission Board. It reads: Whereas our Heavenly Father has blest many with a goodly portion of this world's goods, and whereas the Home Mission Board has received substantial gifts during the past three years from bequests, recommended, that the Executive Committee of Conference produce literature to show how these material goods can contribute greatly to carry on the Lord's work for years to come, when individuals leave such legacies for the work of the various conference boards.—H. E. Suderman, F. H. Swartz.

32. RESOLVED, To adopt recommendation 1 of the Board of Publication. It reads: In view of the fact that the book "Twenty-five years with God in India" is a valuable book, and should be more generally read, the Publication Board recommends that the Conference endorse the sale of the remaining 1125 copies through the churches, at the reduced price of $1.00 per copy (former price $2.25), and that one-fourth of the proceeds from their sale be turned over to the Board of Foreign Missions.—C. C. Wedel, A. J. Neuenschwander.

39. RESOLVED, To answer the Question "Does this conference session believe that the time has come for the Conference to do its own printing?" with "Yes." (This affirmative vote expressed the conviction of the session. Sec.).

42. RESOLVED, That the Board of Publication and the Executive Committee retain the authority given them by the former conference session in regard to acquiring a printing plant and book store.—Jacob H. Janzen, G. T. Soldner. (This refers to Res. 68b of 1933 which reads: "That Conference gives the Board of Publication permission to purchase and operate a printing plant after the $10,600.00 indebtedness of the Board is met, and if the Board then sees it feasible to make such purchase and engage in printing;" and Res. 63 of 1929 which reads: Resolved, To grant this request—No. 7. for authority to relocate our publication work and book store—with the understanding that the Publication Board do it in cooperation with the Executive Committee. Sec'y C. E. K.).

45. RESOLVED, To adopt recommendation 4 of the Board of Publication. It reads: In contemplating the revision of the Mennonite Hymn Book we find that this work will entail an outlay of approximately $3,000.00, divided as follows: For Committee work, $125.00; for new plates, $1150.00; for securing copyrights, $400.00; for changing titles on plates, $200.00; for printing and binding 2,000 copies, $1200.00. The Board of Publication is willing to undertake this work, but fearful of the large expense involved, it does not feel that it would be wise to proceed, unless the Conference is willing to help find means with which to finance the project. And since there is a surplus from the 1935 Jubilee Fund in the hands of the Board of Trustees which possibly could be loaned to our Board, we recommend, that the Conference authorize its Board of Trustees to loan to our Board at a reasonable rate of interest the sum necessary for this purpose.—A. J. Neuenschwander, J. E. Amstutz.

46. RESOLVED, To approve of the plan of the Board of Publication in the German Hymn Book and to encourage the Board to proceed with its execution as soon as possible. It reads: The Board of Publication is ready to assist the German speaking and German singing churches in the publication of a new unified hymnbook and to do all within its power to expedite the project. To do this, it is necessary that the existing Hymn Book Commission (of Canada. Sec'y) submit the MSS as early as possible, accompanying the same with concrete proposals so that the necessary financial estimates may be made and the contracts for the printing of the book may be executed.—J. H. Langenwalter, A. J. Neuenschwander.

47. RESOLVED, To lay recommendation 6 of the Board of Publication on the table until we hear the recommendation of the Board of Education on the same point.—Ed. G. Kaufman, A. Warkentin. (See Res. 53-54)

48. RESOLVED, That the "Junior Messenger" and the "Kinderbote" in future be published separately. —J. H. Enns, C. C. Wedel. (This was the motion adopted after recommendation 7 of the Board of Publication, which varies somewhat from this, was considered.)

50. RESOLVED, To adopt recommendation 1 of the Board of Education. It reads: That the Board of Education express its appreciation for the work done by the General Conference Field Secretary, and strongly urge that this work be continued at the discretion of the Executive Committee. The experience and insight gained through this type of work, we believe to be of grat value to our churches and should be utilized in the future development and expansion of the work of the Conference as represented by our various boards. —L. Hostetler, C. E. Krehbiel.

51. RESOLVED, To grant the request of the Board of Education as given in part 2 of their recommendations. It reads: Integration of the General Conference Board of Education and the Educational Committees of the District Conferences. — As indicated in the report, the Board of Education has tried to do some work along this line, especially through the Field Secretary. The matter, however, is rather complicated, since there is no organic connection between the General Conference and the Districe Conferences and their respective Boards and Committees. Therefore the Board of Education asks for authority to study the possibilities of better integration between the General Conference and District Conferences so far as it pertains to the work of Christian Education, and to bring, if possible, a recommendation to the next session of the General Conference looking toward this end. —C. C. Epp, G. T. Soldner.

52. RESOLVED, To adopt recommendation 3a. of the Board of Education. It reads: Young People's Work. Whereas young people's work is growing and needs integration, and whereas efforts are being made to develop a Conference-wide Young People's Union, Resolved, that the proposed Young People's Union be invited to choose at least two representatives from their group to meet with this Board, at the discretion of the Board of Education, to cooperate in all phases of Young People's work.—Lester Hostetler, A. J. Neuenschwander.

53. RESOLVED, To take the recommendation of the Board of Publication in re a young people's paper from the table.—C. E. Krehbiel, J. H. Langenwalter.

54. RESOLVED, To adopt part 3b. of the recommendations of the Board of Education. It reads. Resolved, that in view of the needs of the young people of our Conference we encourage the Young People's Committee, in cooperation with the Board of Publication and the Board of Education, to publish a paper primarily for Young people.—Lester Hostetler, W. H. Dyck.

55. RESOLVED, To adopt recommendation 4 of the Board of Education. It reads: Sunday School Work. Resolved, That the Board of Education express its sincere appreciation for the way the churches of the Conference have received the Sunday School Quarterly. In the light of this reception of the Quarterly and insistent demands that we move further and more rapidly in the direction of supplying intermediate and children's Sunday School material, the Board of Education hereby asks the General Conference for authority to proceed in working out or adopting from other sources a complete curriculum for our Sunday Schools, and to publish Sunday School material for various age levels as soon as it can make arrangements for the same.—Lester Hostetler, J. R. Thierstein.

57. RESOLVED, To amend recommendation 5 so that "appointed by the Board" be changed to read "provided by the Conference." It now reads: Work of our Colleges. As indicated in the Board of Education report, an attempt has been made during the last three years on the part of the Board of Education to foster a closer relationship between our Conferences and our colleges. The mission of our colleges is to serve the church, and therefore it is felt that the General Conference should have more of a voice in the affairs of the colleges which should be to the mutual interest of our Conference and our colleges, and, whereas the entire problem is somewhat complicated by various factors, such as the different charters of the colleges, therefore, the Board of Education hereby asks for authority to work out the necessary arrangements, if possible, with each college, whereby at least one person for each Junior College Board and at least two persons for each Senior College Board would be provided by the Conference to serve as General Conference representatives on these college boards. It is understood that duplication of staff and board members shall be avoided.—P. R. Schroeder, Howard G. Nyce.

58. RESOLVED, To adopt recommendation 6 of the Board of Education. It reads: Bible School and Seminary. Whereas the Bible School and Seminary problem was entrusted to our Board at the last session of the General Conference with instruction to bring recommendations to this session of the Conference, therefore in the light of long and careful study and deliberation, and whereas the question is involved and of far reaching importance to our church, we recommend that the Board of Education together with the Executive Committee of the Conference be authorized to work with the Witmarsum Board toward the organization and the opening of a Bible School and Seminary with such modification of the proposed Witmarsum plan as may seem desirable in the light of continued careful study of Evangelical Bible School and Seminary needs of our people, and that in the meantime our colleges be encouraged to do what they can to meet our needs along that line.—Howard G. Nyce, A. Warkentin.

60. RESOLVED, To adopt recommendation 1 of the Relief Board. It reads: That the General Conference take part in the feeding of children in war-torn Spain, as far as means permit, in the name of the Mennonites.—G. T. Soldner, W. H. Dyck.

64. RESOLVED, To amend recommendation 2 of the Relief Board to the effect that the committee to be appointed be given permission to act if they deem it necessary.—D. Toews, E. J. Neuenschwander. (The Secretary asked, before the vote was taken, what was meant by "to act," and the Chair stated he took it to mean "in an advisory capacity only.") As amended it reads: That a Colonization Study Committee of five be appointed by the Executive Committee to study the necessity and possibilities of organized colonization of Mennonites and that it be given permission to act if necessary and to report to the next session of the Conference.

66. RESOLVED, That the Emergency Relief Board be permitted to pay $35.00 per month to support the All-Mennonite office of B. H. Unruh in Germany, beginning July 1, 1938.—C. E. Krehbiel, A. J. Dyck.

67. RESOLVED, To adopt recommendation 4 of the Relief Board. It reads: That the churches in the States put forth efforts to collect during the next three years three quarters of the transportation indebtedness of the hopeless cases of the immigrants in Canada ($27,000.00), with the understanding that the immigrants in Canada collect the fourth quarter.—J. R. Thierstein, W. H. Dyck.

68. RESOLVED, To adopt recommendation 5 of the Relief Board. It reads: That we cooperate with the Mennonite Central Committee as heretofore, and be officially represented in that Committee by two representatives of the Emergency Relief Board.—A. J. Dyck, C. H. Friesen.

70. RESOLVED, That in order to save time at later conference sessions, official delegate reports in printed form be distributed instead of being read. The conference secretary in person or through an authorized representative shall receive certificates at the time of registration of delegates and he shall verify receipt of same to the Conference.—Res. Committee, J. H. Langenwalter. (The delegate list had been printed and distributed in accord with conference resolution. Sec'y.)

71. RESOLUTION: Whereas guests or part-time delegates of the Conference are seriously inconvenienced by a disruption of our scheduled program, and unduly prolonged discussions on any one problem tend to disturb the spirit of the session, Resolved that in later conference sessions the program be followed as proposed by the Business Committee to the extent that each day's program be completed on the day to which it is assigned. Lengthened or additional meetings are to be provided by the Business Committee. Only upon unanimous consent of the Business Committee, the President and the Secretary of the Conference, can business be extended into another day.—Res. Committee, A. Albert Claassen.

72. RESOLUTION: In view of the fact that we as Mennonites of the General Conference emphasize individual responsibility to God in our relations to Him, be it Resolved, that we urge our churches and the Conference to provide a wider distribution than hitherto among women, laymen, and especially young people, of such duties and opportunities of service as representing congregations at conferences, serving as officers and members of boards and committees.—Res. Committee, Adolf Friesen.

73. RESOLVED, That we urge the ministers of our congregations to inaugurate mid-week evening courses on our Mennonite heritage, history, and principles.—Committee on Doctrine and Conduct, J. H. Langenwalter.

76. RESOLUTION: The Board of Publication begs leave at this time to present to the session the following resolution which was inadvertently omitted when we made our report to the session.—At the conference session at Upland, Calif., our Board had intended to call the attention of the Conference to the fact that steps should be taken to bring he "History of the Mennonite General Conference" up to date, when we were agreeably informed that Brother H. P. Krehbiel, who had written the very valuable first volume of this history, was preparing to write the second volume.—Today we are happy to report that Rev. Krehbiel has written this second volume, copies of which may be seen on the Mennonite literature table in this hall; and we herewith express our heartfelt apprecation of this splendid service in behalf of the Conference, and would be pleased if the session by rising vote were to do the same.—We further comment that these books are so valuable that copies should be found in every church or Sunday School library, and in the library of every church and conference leader.—John C. Mueller, C. C. Epp.

79. RESOLVED, To adopt recommendation 1 of the Peace Committee. It reads: That the General Conference approve the plan (See report) and that every congregation be encouraged to start Peace Study Classes for a period of six to ten weeks annually. The Christian Peace Series is ready for immediate use, and there are other fine materials available.—John Lichti, John H. Epp.

80. RESOLVED, To adopt recommendation 2 of the Peace Committee. It reads: Whereas it is a fact, that our National legislators do give heed to the convictions of their constituency, we recommend that individuals, who agree with this proposal, study pending legislation and write to their Representatives and Senators urging them to support legislation favorable to peace and to oppose measures that are unfavorable to peace.—E. D. Schmidt, A. Warkentin.

81. RESOLVED, To adopt recommendation 3 of the Peace Committee. It reads: For a number of years, Peace Conferences have been held in various sections of our country. Greater participation in such gatherings is bound to strengthen our convictions, and also to enhance the movement. Therefore we recommend, that General Conference approve of the holding of Peace Conferences in cooperation with the Friends and Brethren, and encourage a larger attendance at such conferences.—S. K. Mosiman, Howard G. Nyce.

82. RESOLVED, To adopt recommendation 4 of the Peace Committee. It reads: We find that where Peace Conferences have been held in the past, either singly or in coopration with others of similar convictions, sentiment is much stronger for a close adherence to the teachings of Jesus on his subject. We therefore recommend, that in sections where such efforts have not been made, interested individuals in Peace seek the cooperation of others in the arranging of such Peace conferences.—John C. Mueller, Elmer Basinger.

83. RESOLVED, That we adopt the whole report of the Peace Committee.—Ed. G. Kaufman, J. B. Reimer.

(The question being asked, the Committee Secretary stated that by adopting the report of the Peace Committee the session was not endorsing the Institutes of International Relations. Sec'y. C. E. K.).

85. RESOLVED, That all funds of the various conference treasuries which have to be invested shall be invested by an Investment Committee appointed by the chairman of such board and that the treasurer of such board be an ex-officio member of such investment committee.—H. E. Suderman, P. H. Richert.

89. RESOLVED, That this matter be referred to the Executive Committee for study and such action as is necessary to safeguard present material.—Freeman H. Swartz, Adolf Friesen. (Refers to Mennonite Archives, etc.)

92. RESOLUTION: Acknowledging that Christ's prayer "that they all may be one" can only be fully realized as we, God's children, do our part in working for Christian unity, Resolved, that together with other efforts our Committee on Unity supply the Conference Secretary with names and addresses of officers or other Mennonite conferences to whom he shall extend invitations to our General Conference sessions. (Adopted.)

93. RESOLUTION: In order to further promote our principle of peace, Resolved, that we recommend to the Peace Committee to publish in our papers a series of suggestive peace programs. (Adopted.)

Tabled Resolution 4:

94. RESOLVED, To table resolution 4 of the Resolutions Committee until the next session. It reads: Since the work of the ministry is of such great importance, and charged with many responsibilities, and since there is such a variety of opinion as to the requirements of the ministry, Resolved, that we recommend the appointment of a committee by the Executive Committee of the Conference to draft a tentative standard for candidates for the ministry in the Mennonite church, and also a suggested standard to encourage greater efficiency of the ministers now in service.—David Toews, E. J. Neuenschwander.

95. RESOLVED, That each conference make definite provisions toward the end that at least one conference paper (The Mennonite or Bundesbote) be subsribed to by each family in the Conference. (Adopted.)

96. RESOLVED, To recommend to the Business Committee the printing on the Conference Program for future sessions the names of the conference officers, and members of boards and standing committees. —(Adopted.)

97. RESOLVED, That we accept the invitation of the Eastern District to hold the 1941 session in Pennsylvania.—H. P. Krehbiel, Adolph Friesen.

Letter from an Ex-President of the General Conference

Dr. H. J. Krehbiel, Reedley, California

Reedley, Sept. 10th, 1938

I am enjoying the sessions of the General Conference at Saskatoon, second hand, in the reports of our delegates and the reports which I read in the Bundesbote and the Mennonite.

I rejoice to note that all these reports are optimistic and encouraging, and that there are only minor notes of discord, such as the discourtesy of members leaving the hall, while a speaker was delivering his address, and like always, or perhaps more than ever, a great number of the delegates leaving before the close of the Conference. Could this not be avoided by condensing the program and then conducting the sessions according to the schedule of the program?

Others have very ably commented on the work of the session; so I shall refer to only a few things that attracted my attention in a special way. The plan for the General Conference to go into Partnership with the Herald Publishing Co., of Newton, Kansas, does not appeal to me, and I am of the opinion that it would not work out satisfactorily. I think it would be a better plan if the Conference bought out the Herald Publishing Co. or, in case this is not feasible, establish a printing plant of its own.

I have often marveled how the Canadian Brethren could bear up under the heavy burden of the great debt incurred by bringing the Mennonite refugees from Russia to Canada. Therefore I appreciate the fact that the Conference has assumed a certain amount of this debt. The General Relief Committee of All Mennonites should have undertaken this task and assumed this obligation. Since they did not, and are caring only for those who went to Paraguay and Brazil, it seems to me that our contributions for relief in the future ought rather go toward the liquidation of the Canadian debt than as contributions to the Central Committee.—(Amen, Editor).

Brother Jacob H. Janzen writes in the last issue of the Bundesbote, Sept. 6th, "Unfortunately or perhaps fortunately I was not present when Communism as in Russia and National Socialism as in Germany were discussed, for had I been present my indisposition and headache might have been aggravated." I cannot see what brought this matter up for discussion at the Conference. He says, however, that he was more opposed to Communism than to the other. I think that is because he came into contact with Communism in Russia and knows what it means and does. In my estimation National Socialism in Germany is just as anti-Christian and reprehensible as Communism in Russia. We have nothing to do with either. But we as Christians and Mennonites in the United States ought to oppose and denounce the subtle propaganda that is trying to line us up with the British Empire, Imperial France, Totalarian Russia in the next European war to make the world again "safe for Democracy" and to teach, through a bloody war, certain nations of Europe the sanctity of treaties. That this propaganda has made considerable inroad is evidenced by recent speeches of our President while in Canada, Secretary Hull in Washington, and Ambassador Bullit in Paris.

You have all heard by this time that we in California have an Initiative on the ballot to give every person in the State, who is over 50 years of age $30.00 every Thursday. Such things are possible in California. I read a short time ago that a man said to his friend, that he had visited Madagascar, and his friend asked him what was the most remarkable thing he saw there, and he replied: "A sign reading 'Los Angeles City Limits.'" In fact there is such a sign in the desert 40 miles north of Los Angeles. I am certain, there are enough sane people in California to vote down such a fantastic proposition. The only lamentable thing about it is that many poor old people are contributing a cent per day to get the proposition on the ballot and put it over.

We had a delightful summer and an abundant harvest; so there is a surplus of everything and the prices, in consequence, are one-half to two-thirds of what they were last year.

In conclusion I will steal a little of the thunder of the regular correspondent, by telling you that a pipe organ was installed in our church this week, and tomorrow we will have the pleasure of hearing it for the first time.

DAVID: TRIUMPHANT FAITH

Psalm 23; 27:1-6

Introduction

Psalm 23 is loved and cherished by many. It expresses in matchless words, the supreme confidence of one who knows God as the Shepherd of his life. David has passed through many and deep experiences and has known the Lord's abiding presence. This is a psalm of faith and joy without any mixture of fear. David knows that he is NOW enjoying the Shepherd's protecting care and guidance. This psalm is a great, unfathomable ocean of truth. "It is the nightingale of the psalms and has filled many hearts with a melodious joy." It has charmed more griefs to rest than all the philosophy of the world. It has comforted a great host of the poor and needy. It has sung courage to many disappointed ones. "It has poured the balm of consolation into the hearts of the sick, the captives, the widow and the orphans."

Every Want Supplied vs 1-3

The foundation thought of these verses is, "The Lord is my Shepherd." God is to the human soul what the ancient shepherd was to his sheep. Jehovah's sheep will not lack anything that is good for them. Verse 1 states this glorious fact in a general statement and the rest of the Psalm tells of specific wants supplied. Four wants are supplied in verse 2; refreshing rest and food in green pastures—contentment and quiet—drink and leading beside quiet waters. This leading is continuous, ours it is to follow. A fifth want is supplied (v3), that of reviving, reinvigorating, restoring the wearied soul, bringing it back to normal, to what it ought to be. A sixth want supplied is guidance, not only by the refreshing waters, but in a holy walk in paths of righteousness.

Every Fear Banished v 4

The quiet paths of righteousness are in a sharp contrast with the dark "valley of the shadow of death." Here there is no fear for David is confident of God's presence and comforting care. God's children have no fear in the darkest valley. A real trust in Him banishes all fear in the presence of danger.

Every Longing Statisfied vs 5, 6

Jehovah is a bountiful host who prepares a feast (v5) in the very presence of His child's enemies. God will give help, comfort and cheer to His own. He also anoints the head with the "oil of gladness." He gives freely and the cup of gladness, of blessing overflows. God's goodness and mercy follow his child all through life here (v6) and lead him to the eternal "House of the Lord."

"This Psalm is unrivalled for calm serenity and perfect faith. Under God's loving care the Psalmist knows neither want nor fear." "The world could spare many a large book better than this sunny little psalm."

Triumphant Faith Ps. 27:1-6.

In Psalm 27 we find an expression of enthusiastic confidence in God in the first six verses. The Psalmist knows no fear in the midst of dangers. The Lord is his light, salvation and strength of his life (v1). How then can he fear? What power or person is there so strong that the Lord can not protect him? If our life derives its strength from Him who is our strength, it cannot be overcome by any adversary. Even wicked foes need not be feared (v2) for they will stumble and fall. The trusting believer will not fear even the host of the enemy that may threaten him (v3). The time of serious trouble will not cause the heart to fear for his confidence in the Lord remains unshaken. Joyful praise unto the Lord, not fear, will fill the heart of the trustful child of God (v6). Truly this is triumphant faith.

The Psalms of our lesson express the personal religious testimony of David. They relate, very directly, his personal spiritual life and his hope of eternal life. David's triumphant faith may be ours also.

Tenth Anniversary

The Rev. Howard T. Landes, Minister of the Germantown Mennonite Church, Philadelphia, Pa., preached his Tenth Anniversary Sermon on Sunday morning, September 11th. His theme was, "The Christian Minister". The text was found, in I Thess. 2:4 and Col. 1:28. His outline is as follows: "The Christian Minister": His call—His preparation—His message—His Reward. In the conclusion he stated that it was his desire and prayer to be a spiritual minister, one who shall always feel his dependance upon God and crave for Divine Inspiration and unction upon every effort, that it was his earnest prayer that God might give him greater vision of the needs of his Congregation and Community, that the Lord might give him such a Revelation of the divine truth which will bring a richer blessing to every member. And in closing he asked, "Will you as a Congregation aid your Minister with your loyal support with your prayers and gifts so that he will be able to live up to the glorious possiblities of the Christian Ministry?"

ANNOUNCEMENT

Invitation to the Western District Conference by the Mennonite churches of Oklahoma.

All Mennonite churches of the Western District Conference and friends who wish to share in the blessings of the Conference, are herewith heartily invited to attend its sessions to be held at Enid, Okla., Oct. 19-21, 1938, God willing. The Educational Building on corner of Independence and Market, one block west of the Mennonite Mission, is the place of meetings.

Since our Conference is not very strongly represented in Enid, it will not be possible for us to offer delegates and guests free lodging and meals. But Enid has three very large hotels and offers fine and satisfactory accommodations. Those who wish to stay in tourist camps will also find accommodation The reception committee is contacting a number of private homes through the Enid Ministerial Alliance for free or reasonable night lodging.

The rates in the hotels are:

1. Baker Hotel, single room, 50c to $1.50; double, 75c to $2.00.
2. Oxford Hotel, single room, $1 to $2.50; double, $1.50 to $3.50.
3 Youngblood Hotel, single room, $2.00 to $2.50; double, $3 to $3.50.

The Reception Committee has made arrangements with hotels, cabin camps, and private homes to reserve rooms if requests come in before hand. The price of cabins is $1.00 to $2.50 for four people. In order to assist our delegates and guests properly, the committee asks that, if possible, notice of your coming be sent to H. N. Harder, 320 W. York, Enid, Okla.

Upon arrival at the Educational Building, all delegates and visitors will be registered.

Respectfully yours,

The Reception Committee, H. U. Schmidt, Meno, Okla., J. W. Bergen, Goltry, Okla., H. N. Harder, Enid, Okla. (320 W. York).

Our Youth Says

"A UNITED MENNONITE YOUTH IN CHRIST"

Sponsored by the Young People's Committee of the General Conference

Olin Krehbiel, Pres.
Lansdale, Pa.

William Juhnke,
Secretary
McPherson, Kans.

Report - "How Can Our Retreats Serve To Better Unify Our Scattered Young People's Groups"

Purpose: The primary purpose of this study is to help us realize our common goal of "A UNITED MENNONITE YOUTH IN CHRIST" through Retreats.

No. 1. The Young Peoples' Committee of the General Conference should have before them and study, all Retreat programs and official reports, in order to preserve, perpetuate and share the worthwhile parts of the different Retreats.

This would make the committee a clearing house for plans and suggestions, to which the local or district committees could come for help and suggestions, in the selection of suitable leadership, speakers, course outlines or plans and other material. (Programs have been exchanged by the various districts and copies filed with the Y. P. Committee).

No. 2. Study—A definite period of time might profitably be set aside, during the Retreat period, to consider the work, organization and enterprises of our General Conference.

This would serve to emphasize to our young people that they are themselves a part of the conference and it's work. A study of the various Boards and their scope of work and aims should stimulate interest in the activities of the Mission, Education or Publication Board, and encourage their support.

It is suggested that essays or short reports by Retreaters themselves, on the above subjects, might be prepared prior to the meetings for discussion, etc.

No. 3. Publicity—Using our Y. P. Department of "The Mennonite" is without doubt the first and most effective step in uniting our efforts. We have hardly scratched the surface of possibilities along this line; when we note how great a power for directing the thinking and action of individuals and also larger groups, is found in the printed page that reaches into the homes of our youth!

In almost every project or endeavor put forth today, the printed page is one of the major factors counted on to influence persons, and why should we not unite all efforts in the development of this method of keeping every Mennonite youth informed of activities throughout not only our General Conference, but other branches and even about those in other lands, such as Mennonite groups in Europe and South America. Our Y. P. Committee and the Editor must make every effort to have all Retreat programs and material published early in advance of the meetings and crisp, concise reports promptly afterwards, in order to arouse and maintain the interest of our young folks. This of course is only one of the many functions of our Church paper. (A separate report on Publications scheduled for presentation at this Conference, should provide food for thought).

No. 4. The Field Secretary or a Y. P. Committee representative should attend every Retreat. The linking together of one group to another by the personally conveyed greetings of this "key-man" is very important in uniting the ideas, aims, and purposes of our work. We would do well to make special efforts to assist our Field Secretary at all times in opening the way for and preparing our schedules to enable him to attend as many as possible of our Retreats.

No. 5. Missionaries should appear on every Retreat program. Experienced leaders well realize the blessings to be confidently expected as these young folks have these needs presented at a time when hearts are receptive.

When it comes to uniting hearts and minds in a common purpose, the cause of Missions, lifts mind and heart beyond the local border of our selfish interests to the realization of what the great Divine Command means to the Christian. If our eyes are fixed on Jesus then we are united indeed.

No. 6. Type of leaders—Those vitally interested in the cause of Christ and with a vision of the work of the General Conference; a viewpoint not altogether local or limited to the immediate groups.

Exchange of Mennonite Personel as speakers and leaders; a point long recognized as essential and helpful. Distance has handicapped scattered sections, but real progress can be reported.

Contacting outside groups of Mennonites. Small groups may have excellent opportunities along this line, especially when in districts where other branches of Mennonites or independent churches are their neighbors. Young folks are much more receptive toward uniting efforts than their elders.

No. 7. Conclusion. The above points must be recognized as underlying principles only. Local organizations must plan and conduct their individual Retreats to meet particular needs. Care need be taken not to make programs too formal or professional, but spontaneous and with an element of "freshness" so characteristic of young folks.

While Retreats, like any other church organization, must be considered as a means to an end, and that end but to truly do the Will of God, their importance and influence has long been recognized as an opportunity to bring Mennonites closer together. This cannot be accomplished merely by organization; uniting our forces is not the end; but that united in purpose and motive, we might go forth to do His Will! Acts 1:8.

In behalf of the Y. P. Committee, I wish to acknowledge the many suggestions and helpful comments which have been so freely given, and which made this report possible.

—Rev. John E. Fretz.

My constant prayer is for inner peace. I shall count this day incomplete if I have allowed myself to become disturbed, confused or distracted.

INTERMEDIATE DEPARTMENT

Intermediate C. E. Topic, Oct. 9, 1938

For Daily Reading

Oct. 3. Symbols in worship—the cross. Matt. 16: 24-28
Oct. 4. Worship and teaching. Deut. 31:11-13
Oct. 5. Praise in worship. Ps. 65:1-4
Oct. 6. A temple in the heart. I Cor. 6:19, 20
Oct. 7. God's temple everywhere. John 4:23, 24
Oct. 8. Reverence in God's house. Hab. 2:20
Oct. 9. Topic—The house of God: a place for worship. Heb. 10:19-25

Advance Preparation

Appoint several members to observe the following points in the morning church service and report at the C. E. meeting. 1. Do the people enter the church reverently or do they seem to be longing for friends? 2. Does the program have a theme? Is it followed? 3. Does everyone enter into the singing wholeheartedly? Do they seem to be praying during the pastoral prayer? 4. What do you find that distracts people in their worship? 5. Do the people look happy as they leave the church? Do they leave reverently? Make copies of these questions and give to each of those appointed.

Preprayer Circle

Read Eph. 5:18-21 to suggest the topic for the evening. Pray that the right spirit may prevail in the meeting. Pray for those who come with an indifferent attitude, that it may be changed. Pray for the leader and those who have a special part.

A Suggested Plan for Your Meeting

I. Opening

Song: "O Worship the King," or "Praise Him!"
Prayer by leader. Society announcements.
Scripture reading: Heb. 10:19-25.
Introductory talk by leader:

1. Making the House of God a place of worship is the greatest task of the church. If we fail in this, we fail in the most important responsibility, and all other phases of the church work are sure to suffer. What people are willing to sacrifice for Christ and his church depends on what happens to them when they worship. Use the story of Hannah as an example, I Sam. 1.

II. Presenting the Topic (Use for topics)

1. What is worship?

   "Worship is a personal approach to God." "We worship when the heart reaches out to God." Find other definitions then write out your own. Worship is to our advantage. St. Augustine said: "One cannot say he does the fountain good by drinking of it, or light by seeing it." So it is what God does to us that makes worship important. Mention some of the things that God does for us through worship.

2. Is worship a duty or privilege? A girl in college said, "I went to church enough when I was small to do me the rest of my life." What did church going mean to her? Contrast such a statement with the Psalmist who said: "I was glad when they said, 'Let us go into the house of the Lord'." Why do some people find church going a bore and others find pleasure in it? How much depends on the attitude of the worshipper?
3. Have the reports given of those who made observations during the morning worship service.
4. Making it difficult not to worship in the House of God.
   (1) If God is everywhere, why should we have a special building for worship? In what ways does an appropriate building help? Should the building be used for other gatherings?
   (2) What are some things that distract people in worship? Mention such things as, people coming in late, whispering, announcements given at the wrong time. Suggest ways of removing any distractions you may have in your service.
   (3) How do symbols develop the atmosphere of worship? Discuss the value of the use of colored glass windows, candles, the cross, quiet music, flowers, pictures. Could your society in cooperation with the pastor be responsible for providing any one of these?

(4) Why should a worship service follow through on one theme? What is the result of conflicting themes?

(5) Mention the different parts of a worship service and how they make it easy for us worship: Praise in song, prayer, scripture theme, call to worship and response, atmosphere, message.

III. Closing Worship Service (without announcement)

Prelude: (softly) "Take Time to be Holy"
Call to worship: "The Lord is in his holy temple, let all the earth keep silence before him."
Quartet: (at a distance) "Majestic Sweetness"
Response: "The sacrifices of God are a broken spirit: A broken and contrite heart, O God, thou wilt not despise."
Quartet: Dear Lord, Forgive."
Leader: Jesus said, "Ye are my friends if ye do whatsoever I command you"
Quartet: "O Master, Let Me Walk with Thee"
Benediction: "Let the words of my mouth and the meditations of my heart,
Be acceptable in thy sight, O Lord, my strength and my redeemer."

Use an illuminated picture of Christ to add impressiveness to your worship service.

JUNIOR CORNER

Suggestions for October

October 2: "Now the Lord hath made room for us." Genesis 26:22. (Isaac. Peace)
October 9. "The Lord is in this place; and I knew it not." Genesis 28:16. (Jacob. God's nearness)
October 16: "My brother." Genesis 33:9. (Esau. Forgiveness)
October 23: "I fear God." (Joseph. Serving God)
October 30: "Who am I that I should go?" (Moses. Readiness to serve)

Verse for the month: "I love them that love me; and those that seek me early shall find me." Prov. 8:17

Song for the month: "All the Way My Saviour Leads Me."

Mission project for the month: You will have noticed the call for more quilt patches in September News and Notes. Mrs. J. P. Suderman from the mission station in Arizona writes: "I used all the patches cut and uncut. A few have come in since. To me that is an "earnest" from the Lord that He will lead our societies to send in all we may need." Many new school dresses have just been finished and it is a good time to gather scraps. Why not provide Mrs. Suderman with some?

Program suggestions for October 2, 1938

"Now the Lord hath made room for us."

(Isaac the Peace Keeper)

5. Prayer of groups while singing "Nearer Still Nearer."

CORRESPONDENCE

LORAINE AVE. MENN. CH., WICHITA, KANS.

Spring and summer months have quickly come and gone. However we have had much activity in our church circle, hence it has been a very blessed time for us. In May we recognized Mother's Day with a special program; one day was set aside for distribution of clothes in the needy area, and one the 22nd we had Rev. J. M. Regier of Bethel College here, with a reunion for all present and former Bethel students and friends. A basket dinner had been arranged for, and the day certainly was a day of fellowship for all present.

On June 26 we had Home-Coming day with an all-day program: morning services, basket dinner at noon and evening, vesper services with Rev. J. M. Suderman and Rev. J. N. Smucker bringing the message; a trip, conducted by Rev. Schmidt, through the needy area, and a musical program in the evening by the Men's Gospel Chorus of the Alexanderwohl Church, Goessel. The fellowship and the interest manifested were wonderful and the spiritual blessings bountiful. Many thanks to all who contributed.

During the absence of the Pastor and Mrs. Schmidt to the Conference, Rev. D. C. Ewert of Inman, Kansas, brought the message on two different Sundays, which was greatly appreciated.

On Aug. 22 and 23 courtesies were extended for Rev. Albert and Wilma (Lichty) Jantzen and daughter, who are going to China as missionaries. On Aug. 28 Rev. and Mrs. Olin Krehbiel and children were with us. Rev. Krehbiel, who formerly was the Pastor here, brought the morning message.

Sept. 9th, a meeting of the Church Council was called by the members of the Home Mission Board, and plans were discussed for extension of the program of our church, which has grown to the extent that additional help will be needed to carry on the work, and it now appears that this help will be available. We are certainly happy and thankful to the Lord for the wonderful growth of our church under the leadership of Rev. and Mrs. Schmidt, for it won't be long and we will need more room for our church activities.

Mrs. Ben. C. Frey, Corr.

GARDEN CHURCH, HALSTEAD, KANS.

The Golden Jubilee of the Garden Township Mennonite Church has become history, but no doubt, the celebration will long be remembered, as it was associated with some thrilling experience. Rev. S. S. Baumgartner from Portland, Oregon, who had served the church for 20 years was present, and brought the message in the morning.

The reading of letters from former members was of special interest and very encouraging, as was also the gift, three pulpit chairs, presented by the children of the Peter Bachman family. A large tent had been put up, just south of the church, to accommodate the people and all was set for the afternoon and evening services. But a torrent of rain accompanied by storm, breaking the tent and flooding the ground, forced us to abandon the tent service and move into the church, soon after starting.

Special musical numbers were given by the Dettweiler brothers, the Ruth sisters of Halstead, former members of the church, Miss Alida Vogt.

Mr. P. S. Vogt gave a detailed history of the past fifty years. Rev. S. S. Baumgartner spoke of his twenty years of experience as pastor and school teacher. Speakers at the evening services were Rev. C. E. Krehbiel of Newton, and Rev. P. P. Wedel of Moundridge. Rev. C. E. Krehbiel spoke of pioneer life and events leading up to the foundation of the Mennonites in this community, and Rev. P. P. Wedel spoke of the formation and foundation of the three churches, Halstead, First Church of Christian, near Moundridge, and Garden, which was of great interest to all. Then followed an octette of mixed voices by the local church. In consideration of the past and the Christian heritage of our forefathers, and the many mercies of our Heavenly Father, we press forward toward the mark of our high calling, unto the day when Faith shall be sight.—Mrs. A. J. Dirks, Corr.

320 W. YORK ST., ENID, OKLAHOMA

As already pretty well known, the Western District Conference will hold its annual session here at Enid, Okla. Oct. 18-21 next. We are expecting a large attendance. Enid is a beautiful city of about 30,000 people. For three years this Conference has sponsored a home mission project here. It was a small beginning. Our first meeting had an audience of 14. Now it has grown, the largest having been 104. During the past summer the attendance was small. Last Sunday, however, it was 53 again.

At present our group is organizing and hopes to complete the task by the time the Conference meets. At our last session in McPherson, Kansas, the Home Mission Committee was given permission to proceed with the erection of a church building here. Arrangements are now on the way to begin this fall. Let me assure all mission friends that we and our group are rejoicing over this undertaking. When here in Enid, I hope that every Mennonite will visit our present meeting place, our home and also the location of our "new church to be". We are open to suggestions for a name of the new church.

A number of Mennonite people have purchased a home here, since the last Conference. They are: Albert Unruh, J. H. Goertzen, A. T. Mueller, Simon Unruh, Herman Koehn, Mrs. Andrew Koehn, L. L. Janzen.—Henry N. Harder.

—The First and Second Churches, Philadephia, Pa., united last Sunday in the festival of the ordination of Rev. Erland Waltner as Elder of the Second Church, also in a reception given the new pastor. The congregation prays that the Lord may bless him and use him greatly in the church and community, so that many souls may find salvation in Christ.

Going Home

The break of the home ties is hard for both the ones at home and the one leaving. In many cases it means a complete change in the life of the one leaving and shortly some lonesome hours when the first excitement of the change wears off. The thoughts drift back to the home and those around the table, what are they doing, how are they, and who dropped in for a few minutes keep running through the mind. A letter from home helps to answer the questions, but the face of some one interested in the same things and topics as the lonesome one, helps to drive the lonesome feeling away and brings a feeling of friendship that helps make the home ties seem stronger. Only one who has been through it knows what homesickness or loneliness feeling really is.

Right now there are those young people who have left their home communities to secure additional education, maybe their first trip from home and friends. If there is one who has enrolled in a school in New York, New Jersey or Pennsylvania, I would be glad to know of it and I will endeavor to help ease the lonesome feeling by a visit.

Maybe there is someone who has had to leave home in order to secure a living. If he should be in our section, we are anxious to visit him and help him to feel at home in his new location.

Too often we learn that someone is in our neighborhood, after they have left the section. Let's correct this by working together and passing the information to someone in the new locality quickly.

Walter H. Temple,
301 Madison Street, Wilkes Barre, Pa.

FRUITFULNESS

To illusrate the fruit bearing of Christian missionaries a native of a pagan land gave them the following splendid testimony: "A Christian missionary is like a mango tree, which puts forth its blossoms and then weights its branches with fruits. For itself? No, for the hungry who come to it for food. By and by the tree is assailed with clubs and stones. Its leaves are torn and its branches are bruised and broken. It is stripped bare. But does it resent this cruel treatment and refulse to yield fruit again? No. It is more fruitful than ever. So it is with the Jesus man he tells us about."

ANNOUNCEMENT OF CHURCH DEDICATION —The Lord willing, the Portland Mission, known as the Alberta Community (Mennonite) Church, will be dedicated on Sunday, September 25. An all day service has been arranged, with the dedication proper in the afternoon. The prayers of all churches and mission-minded friends are sincerely requested for this important event.—Edmund Miller, pastor.

EXPLANATION: Due to the fact that we are bringing the Conference Resolutions in this issue, some of the contributions that we had intended to publish this time, necessarily had to be deferred. Editor.

—The Y. P. S. and S. S. U. Notes, published monthly by the Eastern District, present a regular bee-hive of activities. We find topics such as: Mission Project, Retreat Fund Project, Attention Superintendents! . . . Teachers! . . . Scholars! Fall Rally, Fellowship Dinner, An Urge to Read the Mennonite, about which Bro. Dr. Witt Temple says, "Up until recently I merely glanced over it once in a while, if I had nothing else to read. In the past few months I have read each copy and assure you there is much of real interest there."

—The Young People's Retreat at Freeman College, Freeman, S. D. had its fifth session, from August 28-31. The general theme was, Christianity and the Home." Rev. John Bartel of Mountain Lake, Minn., Rev. and Mrs. S. T. Moyer of Basna, India, and Miss Lavina Burkhalter of Los Angeles, Calif. were the leaders. A total of 102 individuals, representing ten churches were enrolled.—Violet Miller, Sec.

—Bluffton College.—The faculty met Sunday afternoon in the Musselman Library for an inspirational service, to consider spiritual resources available and to plan more effectively for the tasks at hand. Meetings of this type are held monthly.—Following the devotional period, the general topic, "The Life of the College Student," was discussed from different angles. A supper and fellowship hour in the evening concluded the worthwhile meeting.

—Dr. S. K. Mosiman submitted to a major operation in the Huron Road Hospital. He is still a very sick man. H. T. U.—Will not all friends of this good man unite in prayer that God may spare his life, if it be not contrary to His holy will.—Editor.

—Rev. and Mrs. G. A. Linscheid, missionaries at Clinton, Okla., who are about to retire from active service, are planning to move to Newton, Kans., where they have bought them a home at 1001 East Broadway. Rev. and Mrs. Benno Toews of Rosthern, Sask. will take up the work at Clinton.

—Young People's Rally in Western Pennsylvania.—The Y. P. of the western section of the Eastern District, including the churches in Altoona, Roaring Springs, Smith Corners and Napier, held a rally at Napier on Sept. 10, with sessions at 2:00 and 7:30 P. M. Discussion on the theme, "Looking Unto Jesus," was led by Andrew Shelly and Leonard Metzler, Bluffton College students, also by Thomas Vandrew and Rev. John Raugh.

—Inman Mennonite Church, Kansas.—A fine spirit of cooperation was seen in action, when seven tractors plowed the 80 acres farmed by the church. A vote of thanks is extended to all.—Church visitor.

—Farewell Service for Miss Etta Davis, Missionary to China.—Through the courtesy of the pastor Olin Krehbiel, we have a full newspaper report of this service, held at the Grace Church, Lansdale, Pa.—Rev. S. T. Moyer, missionary from India, and Ernest Bohn, pastor of the Zion Church, Souderton, made the introduction. The farewell address was given by Rev. Howard G. Nyce, pastor of the First Church at Allentown, based on the text, Josh. 1:9. He stated that Miss Annie Funk of the Bally Church, who perished on the ill-fated Titanic, was the first missionary to go out from the Eastern district. Rev. S. T. Moyer of Souderton, Dr. Harvey Bauman of West Swamp, Miss Wilhelmina Kuyf of Philadelphia, and now Miss Davis of Lansdale, are Eastern Conference representatives in the Mission field. The Reverends J. J. Plenert and Olin Krehbiel spoke words of farewell, so did Miss Davis, using Rom. 1 as the basis of her remarks. Rev. Freeman Swartz offered the prayer of consecration, and Rev. G. T. Soldner the benediction.—At Miss Davis' departure from the North Broad Street station, Phila., about 50 people gathered to see her off. The group sang songs and had a blessed time.—On her way to Vancouver, whence she will sail for the East, Sept. 17, Miss Davis stopped at Newton, Kas. and spoke to the Bethel College Congregation, Sunday, Sept. 11. Her direct, straight forward discourse on the importance and challenge of mission work took well with the audience.

—Farewell Service for Miss Anna K. Swarr, who also sails for China, Sept. 17, on the "Empress of Canada," was held Friday evening Sept. 9, at Calvary Mennonite Church of Mechanics Grove, Pa. Miss Swarr will serve her first term under the China Inland Mission. Rev. Eldon C. Whipple, acting secretary of that Mission, gave an inspirational address. Rev. Sylvan Lehman, pastor of the church, was in charge of the service.

—Zion Church, Souderton, Pa.—The Pastor and his family were very pleasantly surprised on their arrival last Thursday evening, to note some unexpected renovations in the parsonage. New light fixtures had been installed and some of the floors had been painted.

—First Church, Bluffton, Ohio.—At considerable cost the interior of the church building has been beautifully redecorated.—All churches should make the interior of the house of God attractive. God likes it that way. We need only to think of the Temple at Jerusalem. Besides, it is condusive to the stimulation of good and holy sentiments.—Editor.

—We thank Bro. Walter H. Temple, Wilkes Barre, Pa. for sending us batches of notes, now and then. Such help is truly appreciated.

—Enrollment at Bethel College on Sept. 15 was as follows: Freshmen, 119; Sophomores, 91; Juniors, 63; Seniors, 40; others, 23; total 336, which is 12 better than a year ago.

—Rev. H. A. Fast, Field Secretary, will visit churches as follows, the remainder of September:

Loraine Ave., Wichita, Ks., Sun. & Mon., Sept 18-19
Swiss, Whitewater, Ks., Wed. to Fri., Sept. 21-23
First, Hutchinson, Ks., Sun. to Tues., Sept. 25-27
Lehigh, Lehigh, Ks., Wed. to Fri., Sept. 28-30

—New Treasurers on General Conference Boards: Home Missions, Rev. J. J. Plenert, 2442, North 7th St., Philadelphia, Pa. in the place of J. E. Amstutz, Trenton, Ohio.—Board of Education, Rev. P. R. Schroeder, Freeman, So. Dak. in the place of Prof. D. H. Richert, Bethel College, Kansas.

—Mrs. S. M. Musselman in a letter to Eastern friends says, "I am lonely, but God knows why he does things we do not understand. We read, 'As thy days, thy strength shall be,' so I am just living a day at a time, and trusting Him to comfort me and supply my needs."

—An Ugly Error.—Through a pied line, p. 2, l. 15, last issue of Mennonite, editorial "Is Christianity a Man's Religion?" the press made us say, "Was not Christ the most male sex?" when it should be "Was not Christ the most manly man?"

Another Plea for Help

We here in Canada seem to be doomed to call for help every year, and our brethren in the United States are continually acting according to Galatians 6:9: Let us not be weary in well-doing.

We shall always remember with thanks the help which we have received in the past for our many poverty-stricken people, but we are also forced to ask for help again and again.

I had really hoped that it would not be necessary this year, but drouth, grasshoppers, rust and in some places hail have damaged our crops to a very great degree. Very many families again have no income from their farms, and may of those who have no farms have no possibility of earning money.

Now we would again ask you, dear Brethren, if it would again be possible for you to help our poverty-stricken people with clothes? In considering this question, I would like to remind you that in large areas in Canada we have not had crops for the last six or seven years, and then I would ask you to further consider that we have had thousands of families of our people who came over to us from Russia stripped of all their belongings.

Hoping that you will again kindly consider this plea for help, I am,

Yours very sincerely,
David Toews

Is There No Difference?

Ever since Germany has been taking a stand against the Communist-Jews, who were in a fair way to become the masters of the land, the same that they had done in Russia, their sinister organization, which works largely behind the scenes, has done everything possible to discredit Germany before the world. Largely through the press, that organization has succeeded in getting the American people, generally speaking, to hate Germany, particularly its new government, which has been trying to rescue its people from the shameful position forced upon them by the abominable treaty of Versailles. So well have the slanders and misrepresentations heaped upon Germany succeeded that even American Christians are boldly placing German Nazism in the same category with Russian Communism. Are we as Christians justified in doing that? Let it be admitted the German government has shown leanings toward Aryan paganism, that it has thrown democracy to the discard, that it has made the state absolute master of the land, including the Church, which may all be reprehensible, culpable or wrong, but how does Nazi Germany fare in a comparison with Communist Russia in other ways? In Germany the people still have their churches and may freely worship in them, while in Russia they have been seized and put to ungodly uses, thus making public worship impossible. In Germany the ministers are at liberty to preach the Word, even the gospel of Jesus Christ, freely as long as they don't attack the government. Let us remember that this was the Christ way. He didn't fight the civil government of his day, though he took a decided stand against the evil influence of the Jewish religious hierarchy. In Germany Christians may freely worship the true God and his son Jesus Christ, while in Russia they are taught to worship the deified Lenin. In Germany Christianity is still treated with reverence and respect, while Russia is making every effort to disgrace it and to stamp it out. In Germany some Jews may have lost their lives during the revolution, in Russia millions of innocent Christians have been tortured, butchered, or starved to death, during the last twenty years, for no other reason than that they were Christians. In Germany regard for the things which are holy and sacred still prevails, in Russia they are defiled. Lastly, let us not forget, that the German government, a few years ago, advanced the means to bring several thousands of our brethren out of the hell in Russia into South America, that it has already donated a large sum of the debt to the refugees and has given them a long period of time to pay off the remainder. Russia, keeps the remnant of our unfortunate brethren, to kill, starve or torture them off slowly. Is there no difference? People who can't see it now, will probably become convinced that there is, by the march of future events.

P. S. Just as we finished writing this article, we had a letter from Rev. P. H. Richert, with a foot note as follows:

"When Germany or Austria persecute the Jews, all the big papers cry out, but when Russia persecutes the Christians for 20 years the big papers and magazines say very little. That is a great injustice. Besides, for the persecution of the Jews there is at least some reason (not as a race,) but for the persecution of the Christians in Russia there is absolutely no reason, because they are the best people Russia has, and they know it."

God Still Directs Human Affairs

In May 1881, a boy was born to a peasant Czech family, over in Bohemia, who seems destined to play a very important part in present world history. It was Eduard Benes (pron. benesh), now president of the troubled Czechoslovakian republic, one of the slickest politicians that the world has had. At Prague University young Benes became the disciple of Thomas G. Mazaryk, later known as "the father of Czechoslovakia." On Mazaryk's advice, Benes continued his studies in Paris and France, finishing them with the dissertation, "The Autrian Problem and the Czech Question." Back in Prague, when the war broke out, he managed to flee to Paris on fake passports. In Paris a Czech National Council was set up, with Mazaryk as its president and Benes as its secretary, and the two proceeded to scheme for the formation of an enlarged Czecho state. Mazaryk worked in Washington and London, to get the support of Woodrow Wilson and Lloyd George and Benes worked in Paris for the aid of Georges Clemenceau, which three men, together with Orlando of Italy and Hymans of Belgium drafted the treaty of Versailles. Benes also recruited a Czechoslovak army for the allies. When the Versailles treaty was in the making, it was largely through Benes' schemings that the new nation was carved out of the old Austro-Hungarian empire, which, Premier Beno Mussolini wittingly says, should have been named: Czecho-Germano-Magyar, Polish - Rutheno - Roumano - Slowakia, instead of merely Czechoslovakia. Motivated by a desire for revenge against their vanquished foes rather than by reason and the sense of future good for the peoples thus ruthlessly thrown together, the allied statesmen didn't realize that the old "arch-fiend," trouble-maker through the ages, was gleefully concocting the Versailes treaty, of which this nation-making deal was a part. They didn't remember that there is a God in heaven who can unmake nations, at his pleasure, and who can and does make right injustices done, whenever he sees fit to do so. And does it not look as though God is using the much-hated Adolf Hitler to undo this and other injustices perpetrated by the Versailles treaty? And does it not seem providential that the man who schemed Czechoslovakia is now compelled to witness its dismemberment, for at this writing it looks as if not only the Sudeten Germans, but also the Poles, Hungarians, etc. in this crazy-quilt-like state may be given the right to return to the lands of their kinsmen .

FOREIGN MISSIONS

P. H. Richert, Sec.

Y. W. C. A., PEKING, HOPEI, CHINA.

Dear Rev. Richert:

I left Peitaiho on the 29th of September, and came to the Y. W. C. A. in Peking, planning to go on with language study. Since I had hoped to be busy with some definite service in Taming, it came as a Godsend that I was asked to work with the Union Church. in their church school here. The pupils in this school are all from the privileged group, and include Chinese, Americans and a few Russians. Except for the missionary children, and some others, there is a great lack of information as to the Scriptures. We are trying to present the Christian way of life in all departments. Mrs. Bickford, a Presbyterian missionary, whose field is at Shuntefu, not so very far from Taming, is 'stuck' up here too, and she is superintending the Junior department. She says almost every week what a privilege it is to serve the Master here, among these high type people.

Another blessing has been a series of conversations, more or less in Chinese on my part, and in English on the part of the Chinese, with a young college graduate who is a civil engineer. He is attracted to the Christian faith, but is having some difficulty, because it seems too simple, and he is sure there must be something hard about the first step. He is very diligent in Bible study and before long we hope he will be definitely led to make his stand as a Christian.

A special joy is a Bible class of eight girls, only one of whom is a Christian. We meet once a week, regularly, but there are many chance contacts (or are they God-directed ones?) at other times. Just to tell you about these things gives me the feeling that another prayer supporter is being added.

Then living here, among these really lovely, up-to-date young Chinese girls, is a joy. There are many opportunities for witnessing, sometimes in ways that we don't suspect. This is one instance, after the bell rings, the girls go to the dining room for their meal, not necessarily together, and leave the room as soon as they have finished. The four foreigners here quite naturally bow their heads to ask a blessing, and I have more than once heard a whisper 'dao gao' (prayer), but the other day one of them asked me, "Do you always pray before you eat?"

They are friendly, and as they see our parent's pictures on our dressers, they ask if we love them, and if so, why did we leave them to come to China. This is a grand opening to talk to them of the love of God, as you can see.

Life, for us here is comparatively quiet, though it is hard not to be able to get dependable news from any sources. I think this city is more fortunate than many others in this respect, in that it has a great many historically valuable and beautiful buildings and locations, and it is hoped that it may be preserved as a tourist center. As to what goes on outside the city walls, that is something else again.

Keep on praying hard for China.

Yours in Christian service,
Wilhelmina Kuyf

PUBLIC SCHOOL TEACHER HELPS IN HOME MISSION FIELD

In a short report from the Mission Station at Great Deer, Sakatchewan, we learn that the teacher in the Public School and his wife are very helpful in assisting in the meetings that are being held in this District. Brother and Sister H. J. Kroeker, assist Rev. C. F. Sawatzky, Laird, Saskatchewan in that they have charge of the Sunday School, the Choir and serve as Superintendents of the Young People's Societies.

The report states further that there are about 40 families in the Great Deer district that attend the services, more or less regularly. This is because some belong elsewhere, but are too far removed to attend their home church and because of their poverty they cannot afford a car, hence attend with our group.

In order to serve the scattered families better worship services are held in the church and in the school house some five miles distant. This makes a heavier demand on the workers, but they are willing to conduct these extra services if in this way more people can be reached. Between 30 and 40 adults attend the worship Services and about the same number attend Sunday School.

Such cooperation is worthy of praise. No doubt the same fine spirit exists in other places. Let us hear from such.

The Enid City Mission

By Rev. J. M. Suderman

One of the missionary projects of the Western District Conference is the Enid City Mission. This work was begun in the Summer of 1935. Attention was directed to this field by the fact that there were a number of families, who had come from various General Conference churches in Kansas, Oklahoma, and several other states, living in Enid. In view of this fact the conference, at its session in 1934, passed the following resolution: "Resolved, that the Home Mission Committee send someone to Enid to investigate concerning the prospects for establishing a Mennonite Mission in that city, and to send or station a worker there if deemed advisable." Following a survey of this field by two members of the committee, the Home Mission Committee decided that the conditions warranted the establishing of a mission, and active work was begun here in the Summer of 1935, with Rev. J. B. Frey in charge. When the committee reported on this work at the conference session in October of that year, the conference voted "to encourage the Home Mission Committee, to make the work in Enid permanent." But since Rev. Frey was engaged in other work, he found it difficult to continue his work at the Enid Mission, and the Home Mission Committee was obliged to find another worker for this field. This resulted in Rev. H. N. Harder being engaged to give his full time to this work. He began his ministry here in August of 1935.

Brother and sister Harder are energetic and faithful workers, and under their able leadership the work has progressed nicely. Most of the families attending the services are day-laborers, and work is hard to find. Consequently many of them are poor. This condition also makes it necessary for many of these families to move frequently in search of work. For this reason the attendance fluctuates considerably. But even then the attendance has been increasing steadily, and the average attendance during the winter months this past year was 56 in the Sunday school, 53 at the morning services and 48 at the evening services. During the summer months the attendance is smaller because many leave the city to find work on the farm. The enrollment in the Vacation Bible School this summer was 19, the choir during the winter months had 20 members, and 18 were taking catechetical instruction. At the C. E. programs the attendance has reached 74. In Januray of 1937, Rev. Harder reported an enrollment in the Sunday school of 69, of whom 35 were under 16 years, 25 from 16 to 30 years, and the rest above that age.

From these figures it will be seen that the possibilities for a good-sized church in Enid are quite promising. But if this interest is to be maintained and the work to prosper, a church building will have to be provided. The present quarters are too small and not at all convenient, and to rent a larger place for the meetings would add much to the expense of carrying on the work here. The question, When will we get our church? is often asked by those who attend the services. And what is our answer? The Foreign Mission Board has just announced that sufficient funds have been received so that seven missionaries can be sent or returned to China and India this Fall. This speaks well for our interest in foreign missions. But should we not manifest a similar interest in home missions? A soul saved in the homeland is just as precious in the eyes of God as the soul of a Chinese or Hindu convert. Not that we should give less for foreign missions, but the home mission work should also be close to our heart. In the words of Jesus, let us "do the one and not leave the other undone." Please read the appeal for funds for a church in Enid, following here.

Appeal for Funds for a Church in Enid

The growth of the work in the Enid City Mission, Enid. Oklahoma, makes the erection of a church in Enid an imperative need. The above article gives information concerning the work, the progress and the needs of the Mission. This informations shows that Enid is a promising field for Home Mission work. And in view of this fact the Western District Conference in 1937 passed the following resolution: "Resolved, that we urge the Home Mission Committee if they see fit, to do what they can to secure a church building in Enid."

In line with this resolution, and because the committee feels that a church building is a pressing necessity if the work there is to develop properly, plans to erect such a building are under way, and will be carried out as soon as the funds for this purpose are available. The proposed building will seat about 225 people on the main floor, and will require an investment of about $6,000, including a full basement. A part of this sum is now on hand in the Church Building Fund of the conference, but the greater part will have to be raised through offerings by the churches.

The Home Mission Committee of the Western District Conference therefore appeals to all conference churches to take special offerings for this purpose as soon as possible. Jesus said: "Lift up your eyes and look on the fields, that they are white already unto harvest." Such a field is Enid. It is ripe for the harvest, and souls should be gathered in for the Lord. The needs of this field present a duty to all conference churches, and to individual Christians whom God has blessed with means. Shall we not give of the means with which God has entrusted us so that a church can be built here? All contributions should be sent to P. W. Bartsch, Newton, Kansas, the treasurer of the Trustees of the conference. Let us not regard this only as a duty, but also as a privilege to share in the joys of the harvest—the ingathering of immortal souls. The committee wishes to thank in advance for all contributions for this purpose. May God richly bless both gifts and givers.

A. J. Dyck, Chairman
J. M. Suderman, Secretary

God's love gives in such a way that it flows from a Father's heart, the well-spring of all good. The heart of the giver makes the gift dear and precious.

An Ordination Service

by D. J. Unruh

The first Mennonite Church of Lima, Ohio, or "Lima Mission," was the scene of an impressive ordination and installation service on Sunday, September 11 at 2:30 in the afternoon.

Mr. George Dick of Henderson, Nebr., who with his bride, the former Miss Helene Wiens of Chicago, had been in charge of the Mission since the 10th of July, was ordained to the minitry of the Gospel. The pastors Rev. H. T. Unruh of Bluffton, Ohio, Rev. C. H. Suckau of Berne, Ind., and Rev. John Neufeld of Chicago, Ill., a brother-in-law of Mr. Dick occupied the platform with the candidate and his wife. A prayerful audience joined in making the event one of solemn worship before God.

The service was opened with a brief invocation by the writer, chairman of the Home Missions Committee of the Middle District Conference, who also was in charge of the service. Rev. John Neufeld read the Scripture Lesson from John 18:28-38 and commented briefly on Pilate's Question, "What is Truth?" He reminded us that the world is asking this question in every realm of life and it is the minister's task to answer that question in the light of he Word of God. He then led in prayer. Rev. H. T. Unruh spoke of the responsibilities of the church members to the pastor. He emphasized the need of prayer for pastor and church, co-operation, forbearance, the privilege and responsibility of calling on the pastor for mutual counselling. This was followed with a charge to the candidate given by Rev. C. H. Suckau. He brought the charge directly from the Word of God, as found in II Timothy 4:1-5, 'I charge thee therefore—Preach the Word." In forceful concise and clear language he emphasized that the charge is clear, Preach the Word. Even though the temptation may come, as it does to almost every minister, to preach on the social, economic and political controversies of the day, Preach the Word, because it is God's Word, is sufficient, infallible and complete. The minister of the gospel must not add to it nor substitute for it. It was a solemn charge based on the Word of God.

Mr. Dick was then called on to tell of his Christian experience, his call to the ministry, and a statement of faith. He did this in a way that left no doubt in our minds that he believed in the inspiration of the Bible as the Word of God, the all-sufficiency of the atoning death of the Lord Jesus Christ, and the only remedy for the salvation of souls, and that He is coming again.

The writer next called on the candidate to take the vows of consecration and fidelity to the gospel, whereupon he was ordained to the gospel ministry by the laying on of hands of the elders present and a prayer of consecration by Daniel J. Unruh.

Rev. John Neufeld read the vows of consecration and received the reply from Mrs. Dick, as the wife of a minister, whereupon he greeted her as a co-laborer in the gospel.

The members of the Lima Church accepted the services of Rev. and Mrs. Dick with one voice and they were then formally installed as pastor and worker of the Lima Church. The service was interspersed with music by an octette from the Lima Church.

The offering of the afternoon was designated for Foreign Missions. Thus a Home Mission service remembered the needs in other parts of the field which is the world.

With the singing of "Tell me the Story of Jesus" by the congregation, closing prayer and benediction by the newly ordained minister, an impressive and blessed service came to a close. May the Lord lead many to know the saving power of the Lord Jesus Christ through the ministry of the young couple, and may the work in Lima grow to the glory of God.

Another Ordination Service

In the afternoon of Sunday, Sept. 18, in his home church, the Gnadenberg congregation near Whitewater, Kans., Brother John F. Schmidt, a graduate of Bethel College and of the Theological Seminary at Hartford, Conn., was ordained to the gospel ministry by Elder G. N. Harms of this church.

Rev. (Prof.) J. J. Voth of Bethel College, who has been preaching for the group on Sundays, nearly two years, made the introduction, reading Eph. 4:7-8, 12-13, and I Tim. 4:8-16, and offering prayer. Dean P. S. Goertz of Bethel College then gave the main address, reading first, Isaiah 61:1-3; 62:1-2, 6-7, 10-12, then taking up his discourse the gist of which was as follows:

The Christian Ministry has a great lineage of minds and hearts. Continually through the centuries the Spirit of God has laid hold upon men who then became Servants of the Spirit. Among them was Isaiah who as a young man "saw the Lord high and lifted up". Before him, in point of time, Amos came from the barren fields of Tekoa to Bethel to declare that righteousness is to "flow down like a mightly stream". In their succession were such as Paul who became the great Apostle after the vision of Christ on the road to Damascus. Also Dwight L. Moody to whom the anonymous statement: "The world is yet to see what God will do for, in, by, with, and through the man who is wholly consecrated to him", became a great challenge. Since it simply stated "a man" Moody decided to be that man. "What more shall I say for the time would fail me" if I should tell of them all. Christian ministers indeed have a great heritage.

But what of the present? Has the day of the "Servant of the Spirit" passed ? No, if we really and fairly look at the situation we are impelled to agree with Silvester Horne when he says, that "the real romance of history is this romance of the preacher; the sublime miracle of the God-intoxicated soul with vision of an eternal Will, and sense of an empire to which all continents, tongues, and races belong." Man acts as if he were sufficient unto himself, but he can not do everything in this day of scientific progress. All governments together cannot put a soul of faith and love into every one's breast. There is something in the living voice of the true prophet that thrills us as nothing else can. The empires of the past did not go to ruin for any lack of wealth; they perished like Hamlet's father, "full of bread". They declined and fell for lack of soul. That principle still obtains and even now we may be certain that "where there is no vision the people perish".

Following this, Rev. G. N. Harms conducted the consecration service, first holding before a group of the members of the church, which Brother Schmidt is serving, their duties and taking their vow, then turning to the candidate, holding before him the duties and high calling of the ministry, and taking his vows. This was followed by the laying on of hands of the seven ministers present and a prayer of consecration.

Bro. Schmidt was then called upon to say something and he briefly but effectively showed that he understands the meaning of preaching the gospel and ministering to the needs of immortal souls.

The service was interspersed with several songs by the male quartette of the Church.—Lunch was served by the ladies of the church after the service.

THE ONE TRUE GOD

October 2, 1938

Ex. 20: 2, 3; Is. 45:22; Mk. 12:28-34; I Cor. 8:4-6

Introduction

The aim in this quarter's lesson will be to help the student interpret the Ten Commandments in the light of Jesus' teachings and to apply them in personal and social relationships.

A belief in God's existence lies at the foundation of the Christian religion and is the only basis of true morality. The Bible always takes it for granted that God is—does not attempt to prove it. "In the beginning God created" etc., states an assumed fact, the existence of God. The name of Jehovah, of the Old Testament means the Self-Existent Being.

The First Commandment Ex. 20:2, 3

Israel had come to Mt. Sinai and God reminds them that He has brought them out of the Egyptian bondage, a much needed reminder for just at this time they had made the golden calf and worshipped it. The Ten Commandments standing apart from the Mosaic Law, are a statement of eternal principles spoken by God directly to all the people and for all people of all ages. The first and foremost, most fundamental commandment is "thou shalt have no other gods before me" or besides me. This is usually the first to be broken. Israel broke it, we all have broken it. Anything that we permit to come between us and God, is for us "another god." What we love most, is our god. We make it such.

God the Savior Is. 42:22

In this chapter God is showing Israel that He is the only God—their Maker, Creator of all, a just God and Savior (v21). God has not left sinful man to his own devices. He has shown the way to salvation and appeals to all people to look unto Him—look in faith (Rom. 4:16), turn the heart wholly unto the Lord in trust. They are lost, are so because they refuse to look to the Lord and live. Salvation is for "all the ends of the earth," for all people, "whosoever believeth on Him shall be saved."

Jesus Upholds the Law, Mk. 12:28-34.

The answers of Jesus to the Pharisees and Herodians (v13) who had reasoned with Him (vs 14-26), won the respect of the scribe (v28) and he asked a question. This may have been asked with a pure motive, though some think it was designed to start an argument such as the Jewish leaders much enjoyed. Jesus answered without hesitation, quoting Deut. 6:4, 5 (vs. 29-30). This is the first, foremost commandment and the second is like it (v 31). Man has two responsibilities, one to God, one to fellowman. The scribe saw the rightness of Jesus' reply (v32) and saw too that so loving the one God meant more than the whole ceremonial worship (v33). Jesus saw that the lawyer was near the entrance to the kingdom of God (v 34). He was however NOT IN the kingdom. Knowledge is not salvation. The head can not take the place of the heart (Rom. 10:8-10).

Spiritual Duty to Others I Cor. 8:4-6

This passage shows how the law of love to one's Christian neighbor would work in Corinth. It was a debated question whether Christians might rightly eat unused portions of the meat of animals that had been offered to idols. Such meat was for sale on the market places. The meat itself, some argued, was not spoiled for an idol is nothing and so could not defile the good meat. Others would not eat of such meat at all. Paul stated principles of Christian conduct and each one must decide personally. For himself he declared he would not eat such meat for his brother's sake who might be misled through his eating it. We should always keep in mind the other person's point of view in our conduct. Love God with the whole man—body, soul and spirit.

Niemoeller and Church Conformity

A quotation from "Der Christliche Apologete" printed recently in The Mennonite raises some questions in my mind about the conformity of the Church to the State. The quotation is this: "If a pastor (Niemoeller) is given a charge by the government to serve a church it pays his salary and imposes no restrictions on his preaching the Word: if then in spite of such privileges, he gets into trouble with the government, it becomes rather difficult to sympathize with him." That, it seems to us, is rather a smug attitude to take toward a person who suffers persecuion because of the courageous expression of his religious convictions. According to the writer of above article, Niemoeller has "dared make charges of tolerating anti-Biblical teaching." Wouldn't that in itself be a worthy cause for which one might suffer persecution? But there is more at stake here than just that. Niemoeller was pleading for the divine right of the church to maintain its spiritual authority within a state which is threatening that right. When the church surrenders its spiritual authority to the state it ceases to be a living church: it then becomes a mere puppet of the state. At present a severe conflict between the church and the state would be fatal to the solid unity of the German Reich. A dictator must have such a unity at all costs. If Hitler's supremacy is to be maintained, any opposition from the church must therefore be suppressed. It is inevitable that even religion must be brought into accord with the policy of the state.

The individual, of course, pays for the glorification of "der Fuehrer" and his state. It is a terrific price that is exacted of him, for it means the suppression of individuality. When the state becomes absolutely supreme, such supremacy can be achieved only through the creation of a mass-mind. The individual loses his identity as he subordinates his will to the will of the state. Hitler, and those in authority dictate what the pattern of the German mind-set is to be. As the masses fall in line, according to this pattern, there is harmony, but it is achieved at the expense of creative originality and religious liberty. It was inevitable under these circumstances that a number of Germany's outstanding intellectuals have been either forced to leave Germany or have left of their own accord. It was inevitable also, that a man like Niemoeller should be confined in a concentration camp where his voice is effectively silenced.

I am not among those who deify Niemoeller. Too easily we become hero-worshipers. But I am vitally concerned about the cause for which this man is kept behind the bars today. Let us thank God that there still are champions of religious liberty such as Niemoeller, who will rather suffer persecution than surrender their religious convictions to the dictates of the state.

National Rededication

by Hermann Hagedorn

(Mr. Hagedorn, poet, author, biographer of Theodore Roosevelt, has recently become director of a movement known as National Re-dedication.)

Twenty years after the war fought to "make the world safe for democracy," democracy throughout the world is fighting for life. The ironic fact has been frequently noted. The reasons for the repudiation of the democratic process by one nation after another do not concern us here, but they reflect no credit on the intelligence or the Christian spirit of the nations which won the war.

In the countries which have maintained their free institutions, democracy is facing a struggle such as it has not known in 150 years. The propaganda both from the Left and the Right is assured, well-financed, and skillfully directed. Americans are being asked to choose not between democracy and fascism, or democracy and communism. The propagandists are too shrewd to present those alternatives, for they know what Americans, faced with either choice, would answer. Their attack is more insidious. They brush democracy wholly aside as unworthy of consideration. The choice which Americans must make, they say, is between fascism and communism. We must take the Black Terror, they declare, if we would not be overwhelmed by the Red.

How can this fact be made clear so that Americans shall not fall victims to the sophistry which has disrupted other great nations? There is only one way and that is to revitalize the faith of Americans in their democratic institutions.

How shall this be done? Fifteen national organizations have recently allied themselves in a movement called National Re-Dedication, to point the way. Among these are the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, the national councils of the Young Men's and the Young Women's Christian Associations, the National Conference of Jews and Christians, the National Council of Women and the National Grange, etc. The movement is wholly nonpartisan and among its sponsors are men and women of varied backgrounds and points of view. The office is at the Hotel Roosevelt, New York.

National Re-Dedication seeks to rekindle the public mind to the splendor of America's free institutions and to offer an opportunity for personal re-dedication to the principles of civil and religious liberty; to popularize the Bill of Rights; to proclaim again the power of the ideal of freedom to unite men of divergent races and creeds; to re-assert the demands which the institutions of a republic make on the integrity and the large-mindedness of the individual; to stimulate that faith which has been the nation's strength: faith in God, faith in man, faith in liberty and faith in America.

At a time of upheaval, National Re-Dedication is seeking to stimulate Americans to stand and be counted for liberty in a fashion that will be noted even across the seas. It is planned on December 15th, the anniversary of the ratification of the Bill of Rights, to arrange a nation-wide demonstration of faith in liberty. On Armistice Day it is hoped that the churches will stress the fact that living to make the world safe for democracy may be more effective than dying for that end. On Thanksgiving Day, it is hoped the clergy may point out the need of especial gratitude for the blessings of free institutions.

It is hoped that at least ten million people will sign the following pledge of National Re-Dedication:

"I believe in the principles of the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution of the United States.

"In accepting the privileges of the Bill of Rights I recognize the obligations they entail, and the self-discipline they exact.

"I recognize that free institutions rest on a basis of faith in God and faith in man.

"I recognize that those institutions can endure only where there is fair dealing between individuals and between the government and the citizen, respect for the rights of others, and a sense of national fellowship, regardless of color, race or creed.

"I recognize that, as a citizen of this great Republic, my first duty is to live according to this understanding; and my second, to help others to see the obligations of free citizenship."

I recognize that we, the Christians of this nation, need to rededicate ourselves to God and faith in Jesus Christ, with constant prayer for a renewal of the inner life. (Added by the editor.)

National Re-Dedication is founded on the thesis that the problems confronting the world today are, at bottom, less political or economic than they are spiritual and moral. Those who are directing the movement are especially eager, therefore, to have the cooperation of the churches. For the triumph of free institutions depends in the last analysis on those spiritual factors which are the particular concern of the Church. Liberty and religion are inextricably intertwined. When one goes, the other goes, or maintains an ignoble existence which is neither life nor death.

For that reason, National Re-Dedication is confident that it can count on the support and cooperation of the Christian ministry throughout the country.

Good Engineering

One August day, 1935, with a party of friends, I crossed San Francisco Bay on a ferry, and we all craned our necks to watch the workmen as they constructed the huge suspension bridge that now connects San Francisco and Oakland. Someone in the party had gotten the general dimensions of the bridge. We commented on the size and evident strength of the pillars which were set in solid granite five hundred feet below the surface and reached two hundred and fifty feet into the air. Surprise was expressed about the steel cables, almost six feet in diameter, that were put in place to hold the bridge. We have learned since that the engineers figured and compiled every possible weight and strain that might be put to the structure, and then built it to stand six times that amount of strain.

The other day President Roosevelt stood almost within the shadow of this giant bridge, when he made the pledge that the United States will help in world disarmament. He said: We fervently hope for the day when other leading nations of the world will realize that their present course must inevitably lead them to disaster. We stand ready to meet them and encourage them in any effort they may make toward definite reduction in world armament." Further on in his address, the President expressed the Nation's regret at its rearmament program, and offered to halt it.

International goodwill and friendly relationship is a bridge that links the nations of the world together. To make this bridge effective and able to stand the strain, it must be made, as the engineers built the San Francisco bridge, six times as strong as the anticipated strain. Competitive rearmament is the biggest strain that is put to this bridge of friendly relationship. Instead of rearming, let the United States be the leader and start the good work of establishing confidence by stopping our program, and reduce our armaments.

By reducing our armaments, we reduce the strain, we create goodwill and mutual trust among nations, and we prove ourselves good engineers in International bridge building.

Write your Sentators and Congressman and urge them to work for a reduction of armaments.

Yours truly,

Quakertown, Pa. A. J. Neuenschwander,

Young People's Committee Reports

The following is the secretary's report for the Trienium ending July 31, 1938:

The Young People's Committee of the General Conference comes to the close of its term feeling that God has blessed us in our work. Not all that we had planned was accomplished, but at least we feel that we have been drawn closer together and that we have grasped an idea of what can be done.

In October of 1935, three members of the Committee met in Kansas and the Committee work was discussed, and organized and each member given a definite task.

A committe was appointed to draw up a Constitution. The committee drew up a constitution and presented it to the executive committee.

We have had a part in paying the salary of the field-secretary, and also a part of the salary of the Editor of the Y. P. page of "The Mennonite." With the splendid response of the societies we were able to turn over $227.37 for the Mission project.

We trust that the work may go forward, and that the next trienium will bring even greater unity of our Young People.

Respectfully submitted,
Helen Lichti, Secretary.

Church Work . . God's Work

Isa. 2:2, 3; Eph. 5:25-27

Young People's Topic for Oct. 9, 1938

Meditations:

M., Oct. 3. A hard task. Hag. 2:1-5.
T., Oct. 4. A child in Church work. I Sam. 2:18.
W., Oct. 5. A Church founded. Acts. 2:36-47.
T., Oct. 6. Preaching is God's work. Heb. 2:1-4.
F., Oct. 7. Working for God's people. I Pet. 5:1-11
S., Oct. 8. Paul as a Church worker. Phil. 4:1-7.

Suggested Hymns:

"The Church's One Foundation" "Love Divine"

Introduction of Topic:

In the Old Testament we find that the Church began as a place to worship God and to have religious fellowship with the members of the community. The first reference to such worship was the altar offerings of Cain and Abel. Gen. 4:3, 4. Noah, too, used an altar after the flood. Gen. 8:20. Moses built the Tabernacle; within it was the Ark of the Covenant. From the Tabernacle we step to the Temple. It is this Temple, though re-built by Haggai and others, that Christ cleanses. He drives out the money changers. Mark 11:15-17. So we, too, must be on constant vigil that we keep the Church what it should be—the House of God.

A recent survey shows that there are 44,380,000 church members in the United States over thirteen years of age, that the value of church edifices (not including pastor's property, church schools and hospitals) is $3,800,000,000. The total value of church property is around $7,000,000,000. The author concludes that "organized religion is a social factor of colossal proportions."*

We must not forget that expensive churches, lofty edifices, cushioned pews, painted windows, etc., do not spell the sum total of the value of the Christian Church. Its real worth lies in devoted souls, in Christ-like lives, the fruits of which "moths can not corrupt, nor thieves break through and steal." Surely such work is God's work!

Theme Suggestions:

I. God used the early leaders to build His Church by speaking His instructions to them.
  A. Moses—"And the Lord speak unto Moses saying . . . " Ex. 4:1.
  B. Solomon — God's warning to Solomn on the building of the Temple was definite. I Kings 6:11-14.
  C. Isaiah—"He will teach us his ways . . . " Isaiah 2:2, 3.
  D. Haggai—"Then spake Haggai the Lord's messenger in the Lord's message unto the people, saying . .. " Hag. 1:13-15.
II. Christ's relation to the Church according to Paul. Eph. 5:25-27.
  A. He loved the Church. Eph. 5:25.
  B. He gave Himself for it. Eph. 5:25.
  C. He wanted to sanctify and cleanse it. Eph. 5:26
  D. He wants it to be holy and without blemish. Eph. 5:27.
III. Analysis of the early Christian Church according to Acts 2:36-47.
  A. Peter recites the requirements for entrance. v. 38, 39.
  B. 3,000 admitted the first day. v. 41.
  C. Three-fold description of worship. v. 42.
  D. Economic set-up for Church community. v. 44.
    1. Common ownership of property? v. 44. Why?
    2. Individuals sold possessions and goods, and parted on basis of need. v. 45. Compare and contrast this with present-day socialism and communism.
IV. If Church work is God's work, what attitude should the layman take toward the activities of the Church?
  A. Should he refuse to attend church services because the minister has "narrow views"? Why?
  B. Should he refuse to go, but permit the children to go because "they are still young and innocent"?
  C. Should he go to Church for business reasons?
  D. Should he participate in Church socials, but not in prayer week, worship services, etc.?
  E. Should he participate in gossip that smacks of discourtesy to the minister, Sunday school teacher, deacon, etc.?
  F. Should he realize that his Church is made up of human beings like himself?
  G. Should he have a heart to heart talk with his pastor?
  H. Should he put his shoulder to the wheel to help make the necessary adjustments.?

INTERMEDIATE DEPARTMENT

PRACTICAL WISDOM

Intermediate C. E. Topic, Oct. 16, 1938

For Daily Study

Oct. 10. Be merciful. Prov. 3:3, 4
Oct. 11. Seek to gain wisdom. Prov. 3:13-18
Oct. 12. Live thoughtfully. Prov. 4:14-27
Oct. 13. Consider your course. Prov. 10:1-8.
Oct. 14. Be kind to animals.
Oct. 15. Work if you wish to win. Prov. 12:11, 27, 28
Oct. 16. Topic — Wise Sayings from an Ancient Book. Prov. 2:1-8.

To Add Interest

To make the study of the ancient book of Proverbs more impressive get the largest and oldest Bible you can find. Place it on a stand in the front of the room in such a position that one could easily read from it. If it should be a German Bible, use an English one inside of it and have as much of the reading as possible done from it during the meeting.

Preprayer Circle

Read Prov. 3:5, 6 as your prayer verse. Why do we pray? There is a promise here of wisdom and guidance that is beyond our own. Let us seek it tonight. What are your problems, your hopes, your aspirations? Pray about them.

For Your Worship Service

Hymn: 'Come, Thou Almighty King"

Society Announcements

Topic announcement and leader's remarks:

If someone told us tonight that there were treasures of gold, silver and precious stones hidden in the lot behind our church we would all be out early tomorrow morning searching with all our might for them. Or perhaps we would not even wait that long, but go out tonight with flashlights and lanterns and begin to hunt for them. In the Bible we find an ancient book that is filled with treasures more valuable than any gems could be.

The book of Proverbs has the wisdom of the ages bound up in it. This meeting is to help us discover some of these treasures. Then we should take them home and study them until they become our own.

Special Music: "Lamp of Our Feet"

Reader: "Thy word is like a garden, Lord,
With flowers bright and fair;
And every one who seeks may pluck
A lovely cluster there.

Leader: (reads from large Bible) Prov. 3:13-18

Reader: "Thy word is like a deep, deep mine;
And jewels rich and rare
Are hidden in the mighty depths
For every searcher there."

Wisdom for a young man: (read from large Bible by one of the boys) Prov. 6:20-23.

Reader: "Thy word is like a starry host;
A thousand rays of light
Are seen to guide the traveller
And make his pathway bright."

Wisdom for a woman: (read from large Bible by one of the girls) Prov. 31:10-31

Reader: "O may I love Thy precious word;
May I explore the mine;
May I its fragrant flowers glean;
May light upon me shine."

Sentence prayers

Hymn: "Guide Me, O Thou Great Jehovah"

For Discussion

1. What is the purpose of the book of Proverbs? Prov. 1:1-6
2. What is wisdom? Prov. 1:7. How do we acquire it? Prov. 2:1-9
3. Why do the proverbs of so ancient a book still hold good today?
4. Give some modern proverbs that have truth in them that will hold for all time.

Closing moments

For the close of the meeting select some choice gems from the book of Proverbs. Hand them out in advance and ask that they be read slowly and thoughtfully, so that all can hear them. Some of these may be included: 3:3, 4; 3:9, 10; 3:11, 12; 3:27, 28; 4:23; 10:1; 10:4, 5; 10:12; 11:1; 11:13, 14; 11:25 15:1; 16:18; 16:32; 17:9; 17:17; 18:24; 21:23; 22:1; 22:6; 25:17; 25:21, 22; 27:1, 2; 28:13.

JUNIOR CORNER

Leaders' Meditation:

SAY NOT YE, there are yet four months, and then cometh the harvest? Behold, I say unto you, lift up your eyes and look on the fields, that they are white already unto harvest."

The Juniors are as a field of young wheat. There is joy in watching it in its fresh green, in the hope that it holds,—the hope of a harvest yielding rich fruitage, perhaps "some a hundred fold, some sixty, some thirty." There were yet four months until harvest in the field that the disciples saw and we, looking at the Juniors, think there is yet time until the harvest, time until the teen age. Who knows! There may be a heart here and there white already unto harvest. May our vision be the vision of Christ. May it lead us to labor more earnestly, more fervently, in the field alotted to us,—co-laborers with Him!

HE that reapeth receiveth wages, and gathereth fruit unto life eternal; that he that soweth and he that reapeth may rejoice together."

Program Suggestions for October 16, 1938

MY BROTHER

Genesis 33:9

(A Study in Forgiveness)

Opening Service

Let it be in candle light with the verse "Forgive and ye shall be forgiven" (Luke 6:37) in plain view. This would be on the blackboard in bright colored chalk or printed in bright colors on poster paper and illumined by candles.

1. Prelude: "Softly and Tenderly Jesus Is Calling." (During the playing let the lights be turned out).
2. Voices (your junior quartet) step to position and sing verses one and four of the same hymn after the melody has been played through twice
3. Scripture: let a junior tell content of Luke 15:11-19, part of the story of the prodigal son. At the close let him add: "When he arrives home, will the father forgive him?"
4. The same voices rise to sing one verse of "Where Is My Wandering Boy Tonight"
5. Scripture: Another junior relating Luke 15:20-23. Let this junior close with the thought: "The father forgave!"
6. In unison sing: "Love Lifted Me"

Mission Minutes

Help the junior, who is to report from our stations, to find reports of sin forgiveness. Let him close with the thought: "Our Heavenly Father always forgives when we come to Him and are sorry for our sin."

Announcements

Study Period. Aim: to teach the truth: "Forgive that your Father also who is in heaven may forgive you," Mark 11:25.

1. Introduction to study by chairman. Let him ask the group to recite verse of the month and close with the thought of how God led Jacob.
2. Sing in unison song for the month: "All the Way My Savior Leads Me"

3. How did Esau feel about Jacob when he left home? Answered by a junior with. Genesis 27:41.

4. Jacob prepares to return home. Genesis 32:3-21 retold.

5. The Surprise. Genesis 33:1-11 retold

6. Sing in unison verse one of "Since Jesus Came into My Heart." Let the juniors sing 'What a wonderful change in my life can be wrought when Jesus comes into my heart." Change the refrain throughout to "When Jesus comes into my heart."

7. Forgiveness: Let this be in the form of a question box. A box could be covered with some bright colored tissue and labeled "Forgiveness." The questions, below, have been put into it. Let the chairman draw first and ask the answer of anyone he chooses, giving the reference for the answer. The one asked, finds the passage, reads the answer and has the privilege of stepping to the box to draw the second question. Repeat until all questions have been answered. Questions:

a. How shall we forgive? Matt. 18:35

b. How often shall we forgive? Matt. 18:21, 22

c. What will God do when I forgive others? Matt. 6:14

d. What will God do when I do not forgive others? Matt. 6:15

e. When will God forgive my sins? I John 1:9

f. How does God want me to act and feel toward others? Eph. 4:32

8. Sing in unison: "More Like the Master I Would Ever Be" Verse 1 and 3.

9. Leader's prayer

10. Prayer in unison: Rise to sing verse two and four of "I Need Thee Every Hour"

"Helpers"

In 1. Cor. 12:28 different "gifts and positions in the church are enumerated: First, Apostles (Missionaries, is the Latin word for this; second, Prophets (students of Prophecy and expositors of the prophetic Word may be included in this); third, Teachers (Bible teachers especially); after that miracle workers; then healers; then "Helpers"; governments (rulers and leaders in the church); tongues (languages, interpreters, translators included), though principally those speaking with unknown tongues are meant here.

After having served in the capacity of several of the above-named positions (Missionary, Bible teacher, etc), the writer has come to the age where he, too, feels that he must begin to make room for younger persons to serve in the higher and more difficult positions; and take a somewhat back seat. But this does not mean, that there is not work for all of us. Some of the above named positions older servants can fill better than young men; for the administration of some requires much experience. Some exceptionally vigorous men are very active up to the age of 80 and over; but such are few. Ordinarily at 60 "old age" begins. And it is necessary at that age at least to begin, to ask oneself, whether we had not better hold back a bit, at least in some positions. But, as said before, let us not think that we must stop working alogether, at least not in the field of teaching and preaching The Word. Here knowledge and experience counts very much. But other leading positions we can afford to let pass into the hands of younger persons.

Regarding the gift of "helpers" in the Lord's work, there is also a place for the young ones first, while learning and acquiring experience. But here is also a place for us who are getting older. And I, for one, am ready and willing to take the place of a "helper". There are so many ways of helping, and so many opportunities. And where I have already been able to "help", especially in lines of work where I have much experience, I have felt perfectly satisfied; not envying in the least those who occupied the leading positions, but to the contrary: rejoicing in the fact that most of the responsibility now fell on stronger shoulders. So let us take notice of the enumerated gift of "helpers". There are great opportunities and many open doors.

"Work till the last beam fadeth, Till our work is done."

—J. B. Epp, Beatrice, Nebr.

A Happy Day

The days, weeks, months and years change constantly. In 1933 the Janjgir church passed through a depressing experience; the period was deplorable. Some persons succeeded to gather a group from among the members who spread shadowing reports regarding the Indian pastor and deacon. The group continued until the two brethren had to be set aside. This experience was most harassing. It reminded one of the Corinthian and Galatian events which caused the Apostle Paul to be deeply grieved; also vividly brought before us what the aged Apostle John must have gone through in his third letter.

In face of that undermining work circumstances have gradually improved. Just very recently quite unexpectedly the council brought a question before the church whether it would not now be a proper time to consider an election for an Indian pastor and a deacon. Without much discussion an almost unanimous affirmative vote was secured. The date for this double election to occur on August 21st.

During the intervening time (weeks) the church lent itself to fervent and searching prayer. To our great encouragement and amazement both of the previous officers were elected with an overwhelming majority vote.

That this incident kindled within our hearts an unspeakable praise toward God, need hardly be mentioned. To behold such a forgiving spirit with concrete evidence aroused no mixed feelings, but has again corroborated amply what the power of the cross can achieve. The erstwhile untiy has been reestablished, another new era awaits the affairs of this church. "Praise God from Whom all blessings flow!"

Yours in the Master's vineyard,
Janjgir, C. P., Aug. 23, 1938 P. W. Penner

CORRESPONDENCE

VANCOUVER, B. C., SEPT. 16, 1938

To all the dear friends in the homeland:

We praise our Heavenly Father that He has opened the way for us to go out to the field of service to which He has called us. This is the evening before our departure, and we are eagerly looking forward to tomorrow and the coming days. Our trip from Paso Robles to Vancouver was pleasant and enjoyable, so was our stay here in Vancouver.

We wish to express our sincere appreciation to all of our dear relatives and friends for all that you have done to make our going possible: for all your gifts, your encouragements, your love, and your prayers. May the Lord reward you for all your kindness and richly bless all of you. Our thoughts are often with you and, as we think of you, we shall pray for you. May we all be faithful in the place where the Lord has put us.

"Pray for us, that the word of the Lord may have free course, and be glorified, even as it is with you." 2 Thess. 3:1.

Yours in Him,
Albert and Wilma Jantzen, and Grace Joan

EBENEZER MENN. CH., NEAR BLUFFTON, O.

Sept. 4, Bro. Victor Augsburger gave us an inspiring discourse on the life of Joseph. Evening service after, C. E. Speaker, Miss Viola Welty of Moody Bible Inst.– Our Brother Jacob Amstutz, who has overcome the fifth operation, is again at his place in church. He has some difficulty to enervate his energy.

Our church Secretary, Daniel Basinger who received a severe kick on the left side of his face by a stubborn colt, is again teaching his S. S. class and is also attending to other of his many activities.

Bro. Noah Luginbill age 60 years, unmarried, who patiently suffered 12 years from injuries received by falling from a load of hay, died Sept. 9th. Relieved of pain, he is now with the Lord: Where the blind shall see and the maimed shall walk, where the deaf shall hear, and the dumb shall talk. Three brothers survive, William J., David of Pandora, Dr. Philip of Lafayette, Ind.—Buried at the Ebenezer church, Sept. 11, where he was a member. Rev. Paul Whitmer and Rev. John Tosh officiated.

Sept. 11, while our Pastor was ill, Prof. A. C. Schultz, Bible teacher at Bluffton College, brought the morning message, text Isa. 28:16. Prof. Schultz gave us about 20 minutes of the Darwin theory, then a serious extortation on the text. We are so glad that after God had created heaven and earth, day and night, the seas, firmament, plants, stars, sun and moon, and all creatures in waters, on land and in the air by divine command, He made men with his hands and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life, whereby man became a living soul (immortal). Sept. 18, we expect our minister, Rev. P. A. Kliewer, to be back with us. On this day Mrs. Kliewer is to give a report on the Conference.– Corresp.

SARON MENN. CHURCH, ORIENTA, OKLA.

On June 6th, Missionary G. A. Linscheid, Canton, Okla., was in our midst and had charge of the baptismal service. Five young people confessed Jesus as their personal Savior, were baptized and became members of this congregation. Instruction in catechism was led by Rev. August Schmidt.

June, the traditional month of brides, brought us two church weddings. Both brides were daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Adam Ratzlaff. On June 5, Miss Elsie Ratzlaff was married to Mr. Ernest Voth, formerly of Inola, Okla., and three weeks later Miss Edna Ratzlaff was married to Mr. Waldo Dirks of Peoria, Ill. Rev. P. E. Frantz of Geary, Okla., an uncle of the brides, read both vows.

Just recently Mr. and Mrs. Otto Richert from Kansas were here and favored us with a musical rendition entitled, "The Holy City."—As fall approaches more church activities are being resumed. The next mission program is to be rendered Oct. 2. These programs are sponsored by the Mission Society and rendered quarterly. Our C. E. meets every third Sunday night.

We had a nice rain last week and since then weather has been cool. Most farmers have begun to sow wheat. -Correspondent.

MENNONITE CHURCH, PULASKI, IOWA

We were privileged, on August 14, to have with us Bro. P. P. Sprunger and wife, charter members of the First Mennonite Church of Chicago. Their presence with us was a revival of pleasant memories spent together in the early building of the church. With them came a young man, by the name of W. B. Miller, also a member of the same church. He has done considerable evangelistic work in preparation for the gospel ministry. He gave us two very helpful messages, morning and evening. He has a good job in the city, but feels that God has called him to be a fisher of men. He is ready for a call to some pastorate. I thank God for men of that type, we need them. I want to express my hearty appreciation for the very timely editorial in the Sept. 13th number of the Mennonite. "Order of Church Service." That has been the order of this church, for more than a half century, and it works. We are all pleased with the constant improvement of our church paper, and only wish that it could be found in every English home in our conference, especially in my own congregation. It would do them good. Thank you, Brother editor, for your untiring efforts.—W. W. Miller

The Glory of a Stainless Life

An Arabian princess was once presented by her teacher with an ivory casket, not to be opened until a year had passed. The time, impatiently waited for, came at last, and with trembling haste she unlocked the treasure; and lo! on the satin linings lay a shroud of rust; the form of something beautiful, but the beauty gone. A slip of parchment contained these words: "Dear pupil, learn a lesson in your life. This trinket, when enclosed, had upon it only a spot of rust; by neglect it has become the useless thing you now behold, only a blot on its pure surroundings. So a little stain on your character will, by inattention and neglect, mar a bright and useful life, and in time leave only the dark shadow of what might have been. Place herein a jewel of gold, and after many years you will find it sparkling as ever. So with yourself: treasure up only the pure, the good, and you will be an ornament to society, and a source of true pleasure to yourself and to your friends."

—Rev. William Penner, graduate of Bethel College and later of Hartford Theological Seminary, who then temporarily served some congregation in the east, is reported to have accepted a call to the pastorate of the Mennonite church at Wayland, Iowa.

DEATHS

CARRIE ELNORA WILLIS SIDEBOTTOM, daughter of John H. and Rachel Willis, was born in Rock Island Co., Illinois, March 30, 1938 and passed to her reward at the Grisell Memorial Hospital, Ransom, Kansas on Sept. 6, 1938, at the age of 80 years 5 months and 6 days.—At the age of 12 years she moved with her parents to Union County, Iowa. On Sept. 4, 1878 she was united in marriage to Robert L. Sidebottom at Afton, Iowa. To this union nine children were born, Blanche, Omer, William, Arthur, Jesse, Lorado, Merle, Tony and Robert. Blanche and Robert preceded her in death. Tony's whereabouts are unknown.—In 1884 the family moved to Nebraska, and in the fall of the same year to Ness County, Kansas, on a homestead located five and one-half miles east of Ransom, Kansas. Having lost her husband in 1895, she tried to teach her children to be upright and honest. In 1909 she moved to Ransom, where in 1929, she united with the Mennonite Church. She leaves to mourn her loss six sons, one daughter, one brother, William L. Willis of Wray, Colorado, twenty-two grandchildren, seven great-grandchildren and many friends.

Funeral services were conducted on Sept. 6, by her pastor Rev. Abr. Albrecht, assisted by Rev. Fish, of the Methodist Church at Ransom. Burial was made in the Brownell cemetery, where her husband was buried.

It was interesting as well as comforting to her children to discover that she had written her own life's history in 1934 concluding it with the following verse:

A Mother's Choice

Heaven is a place of rest;| Thy joys are all divine,| For, grief nor pain| Nor doubts nor fears| Can reach that world above.| Christ Jesus wipes away their tears| And fills their hearts with love.

MRS. ELEANOR SEIPLE, NEE SHELLY, a daughter of Abraham and Eleanor Walp Shelly, was born in Haycock Twp., Pa., Feb. 27, 1860. She was admitted into the Flatland Church April 21st, 1871 and from early childhood remained a faithful member until her end.

On September 23rd, 1880 she was married to Amandus Z. Seiple. Eight children were born into this union. Four are deceased, but the following survive: Mrs. Effie Swartz, Mrs. Arildes Eiesenhart, Mrs. Bessie May Hendricks, and Mrs. Alice Naomi Lewis, all of Quakertown. Nine grandchildren and two great-grandchildren also survive beside the following brothers and sisters: James W. and John of Philadelphia, Mrs. Annie Boorse, Mrs. Agnes Kooker and Abraham S. Shelly live in Quakertown.

She survived her husband by more than 22 years. Showing a fine spirit of faith and determination, she kept her own home until about a year ago. After a sickness of less than two days the end came on the evening of August 30th, aged 78 years, 6 months and 3 days.

The funeral was conducted in the Flatland church by her Pastor, Rev. A. J. Neuenschwander, who used John 16:33 as text, Rev. N. B. Yerger, assisting.

Interment, St. John's Cemetery, Richlandtown.

ERWIN G. SCHLIFFER, son of Jacob and Elizabeth nee Geisinger Schleiffer, was born Feb. 2, 1874. He was the husband of Hannah Trumarcec (?) for 41 years. Together they were members of the Springfield Mennonite Church. He died June 21, 1938, aged 64 years, 4 months, and 19 days. Funeral services and interment on Sept. 25, at Springfield. Pastor A. M. Fretz officiated.

JOHN NEUENSCHWANDER was born Sept. 13, 1864 in Ruenkhofen, Canton Berne, Switzerland. Receiving infant baptism, he became a member of the State church.—At the age of 28 he was baptized upon confession of his faith, joining the Free Evangelical church. Later he was married to Rosetta Aeschleman. Coming to America, they settled on a farm near Elbing, Kan., on which they lived over 40 years. During this time they attended the Swiss Mennonite church, in which they were blessed, helping to build the kingdom of God. The departed enjoyed greatly to serve his Lord and Savior in distributing booklets and tracts.—So the years of their life passed by until about seven years ago, when the couple retired from the farm, moving to Elbing.—As the Zion church still conducted German services, they attended there, receiving rich blessings during this time, rejoicing in the hope of the glory of God. The departed said: "What joy to be redeemed, Bless the Lord O my soul. There is no greater or better possession."

About a year ago, Mr. Neuenschwander's health failed, on account of kidney and heart trouble and August 19, at 1:30 p. m. he passed away, at the age of 73 years, 11 months, and 6 days.—He leaves his wife, a brother Fred, and his family of Madison, Kansas, three brothers, Ernest, Karl, and Alfred, and one sister, Elizabeth, all of Switzerland, and many other relatives and friends.

The funeral services were held at the Zion church at Elbing on Sunday, August 21, in charge of Rev. H. J. Dyck, assisted by Rev. Theo. Roth.

—Error! Rev. Franz Albrecht wishes us to correct a statement in a recent Mennonite, whereby Dr. J. H. Langenwalter was erroneously said to have been chosen a member of the Doctrine and Conduct Committee. Dr. Langenwalter is now again a member of the Board of Education.

« « JOTTINGS » »

—PASTORS, CHURCH BOARDS, YOUNG PEOPLE'S LEADERS! If you would like to see news of doings in your church on the Jottings page, all you have to do is to furnish them in one way or another. It is perhaps natural that the correspondent should do that, if you have one. Some of the pastors in the eastern part of our Conference send us their printed or mimeographed Sunday bulletins, which is a good way, except that announcements are belated. May we not have a more general supply of news items from many other churches?

—MARRIAGES.—On Sept. 3d, 1938, at the bride's home, near Hatfield, Pa. by Pastor A. M. Fretz: Mr. Harold N. Kulp and Miss Sara C. Bolton.

On September 17 th, at Perkasie, Pa. by Pastor A. M. Fretz: Mr. Chester M. Mill of Deep Run and Miss Ella M. Derstine of Blooming (?). Corr.

—Rev. H. N. Harder, Mission Church, Enid, Okla.—I enjoy reading the Mennonite and feel I cannot be without it now. I get much help from the articles, sermons, poems, etc.

—Evolution in God's Way.—Two years ago, Otto Gray, a dairy farmer of Stillwater, Okla., began breeding a small Angus cow and a Hereford bull to develop a new, midget breed. Last week, Gray announced that his midget cows, each standing 30 to 37 inches high and weighing from 450 to 500 pounds, produced more milk than the normal members of his herd, though they ate only half as much. One produced an average of 41 pounds of milk a day, equaling its own weight of 455 pounds in 11 days.—This type of evolution God in his wisdom has foreseen.—Ed.

—Rev. Olin Krehbiel and family of the Grace Church, Lansdale, Pa., made the trip to the General Conference, west and south along the Pacific coast by way of California, in their auto. We wish we had space to bring Bro. Krehbiel's interesting account of the journey, with the heading, "On the Road with God." They covered a distance of 6000 miles and were on the way six weeks.

—Zion Mennonite Church, Sonderton, Pa.,—Rev. and Mrs. Samuel T. Moyer spent Sunday, Sept. 11 with this church. Bro. Moyer gave the morning message and showed slides on the work in India at the evening service.—At noon Mr. Harley Rosenberger and Miss Dorothy Swartley were married by the pastor Ernest Bohn.

—Through the Eastern Conference Churches, Rally Day and Harvest Home Service, especially the latter, seem to be generally observed during the month of September. The gifts donated at the Harvest Home gathering are mostly for the Home of the Aged, at Frederick, Pa.—This is a custom well worthy of emulation.

Marijuana

This drug, which comes from a weed growing easily in all sections of the United States, is particularly dangerous to children and young people. It is the old loco weed that has been the menace of western grazing ranges for a hundred years. It is known in the Far East as "hashish." Marijuana is being circulated through public schools by criminals, by addicts and by a growing group of unscrupulous individuals. It is very easily made into "reefer cigarettes." No person, young or old, should ever accept a cigarette from a stranger. State and nation are uniting in a campaign to exterminate the weed. All social agencies should unite with police authorities to wage war on this growing menace.—Dr. Daniel Poling in Christian Herald.

—A Thought for College Day, from Bulletin of First Menn. Church, Bluffton, O.: Angel A—Who is that being down on that planet? Angel B—That is man. A—He is hard with toil and lined with care. B—and sin. A—But he does not cease to dream and hope of becoming something better than he knows. A—Could he rise higher than we? B—He thinks he can. A—I wish we were man.

—First Church, Allentown, Pa.—The pastor, Rev. Howard G. Nyce, was reelected a member of the Foreign Mission Board at the last General Conference. At the recent District Conference, he was elected secretary, and at the June meeting of the Ministerial League of Allentown and vicinity he was made its vice president.—The following students have left to attend Bluffton College: Josephine Mohr, Florence Geissinger, Richard Backensto and Jean Fretz.

—St. John Church, near Pandora, O.—Mr. Ransom (Lawrence) Waltz died at the Bluffton Hospital Monday, Sept. 5 and was buried Wednesday. Services were held at the Reuel Suter home and at the church. Interment at Pleasant Ridge cemetery. Age of Bro. Waltz, 80 years, 10 months and 12 days.—The following young people from our church are leaving for the school year: Lenora Augsburger, to Moody Bible Institute; Eudora Lehman and Ruth Bixel to teach at Mansfield and Dayton, respectively; Carrol Diller, David Yoder and Nelson Schumacher to Bluffton College; Ruth Amstutz to Heidelberg and Maxine Probst to Bowling Green College, and Lucille Geiger to Fort Wayne Bible Institute.

—First Menn. Church, Sugar Creek, O.—Rev. and Mrs. Stauffer attended the Rural Minister's Camp, at Camp, Ohio, in July. The Women's Missionary Society and the Home Arts Club were entertained by the Salem Mennonite women of Dalton, at Camp Kidron.—Our societies gave the program. There were 35 present from our church.—What a blessing it would be to this country if employer and employee would work and play together like this group does.

—Monthly News Letter, Salem church, near Freeman, S. D.—Referring to the census report which shows a decided decrease of the size of American families, Pastor P. R. Schroeder says, "The blessing of God goes with a sizable family. The Salem church record shows thirty families with eight or more children. 14 of the fathers of these families have died, 16 are still living and are members of this church, and so are most of the children. These 30 families have a total of 302 children, only 43 of whom have died. The congregation is 30 years old.

—Second Church, Philadelphia.—At the ordination service of Rev. Erland Waltner as pastor of this church, Rev. A. J. Neuenschwander gave a sermon on "Responsibilities of the Congregation to the Pastor," and Rev. J. J. Plenert on "Responsibilities of the Pastor to the Congregation." Following these Bro. Walter Landis, Deacon, spoke briefly. Then the ordination and installation of the new pastor took place, followed with remarks by Rev. Waltner.

—Excerpts from Message by President of S. S. U., W. A. Nace, Eastern district: A very hearty Thank You to every one who helped in our S. S. work in the past year. You were such wonderful co-workers. You showed your interest by attending the Rallies and Convention. Financially you supported the work so well that the budget for the Mission project was oversubscribed $40.00. In the near future we expect to call on you for donations toward the cost of erecting the buildings, etc. on our new Retreat Grounds. These grounds and buildings will give many the opportunity to see the Light.

THE FIRST ONE HUNDRED YEARS," a book by Elva F. Sprunger, recounting and depicting the history of the good people of the First Mennonite Church of Berne and Adams County, Indiana, lies before us. Whatever these people do, is done thoroughly. All last week they celeberated their centenary with programs of addresses and Bible studies by Dr. P. R. Schroeder of Freeman, South Dakota, the former pastor of the church, and Dr. Abr. Warkentin of Bethel College, as well as with many choral renditions, all in the spirit of the motto, "Hitherto the Lord has helped us." The excellent 344 page book is a beautiful memorial to this event.

Wednesday evening, 8:00 P. M.: HISTORICAL PAGEANT OF MENNONITES AND BETHEL COLLEGE (Lindley Hall)

Origin of Mennonite S. S.

Rev. John H. Oberholtzer, pastor of the Swamp Mennonite charges in 1847, introduced the first Mennonite Sunday School. He called them "Kinderlehre" Meetings using the catechism as a guide of instruction. This he had printed at his own expense. The meetings were held every alternate Sunday afternoon. The first Mennonite Sunday School organized on the present day principle, was organized in the Swest Swamp church, on May 2, 1858, with 49 pupils and 18 teachers.

This is what was brought about by a young man filled with a passion for helping young people. Mr. Oberholtzer was also a locksmith, thus earning his livelihood, since his ministerial labors were a cause of expense rather than a source of income.

FOREIGN MISSIONS

P. H. Richert, Sec.

A PLEA FOR EARNEST PRAYER

Janjgir, C. P., India, Aug. 23rd, 1938

The annual conference of the missionaries on the India field has been planned to convene from Oct. 16th to 20th, 1938. The first two days shall be completely given to prayer and meditation with Rev. J. Z. Hodge, a saintly Scottish servant of the Lord, as leader. The remaining time shall be devoted for the pressing conference work.

The year has not proved an easy one in a number of ways. There are two families who on account of impaired health most probably will leave the field, it is hoped only temporarily. This will entail serious difficulties stationing the remaining staff best possible not to allow a setback in the work. The Mauhadei station situation on account of the last year's destructive flood awaits the final adjustment. The financial outlook gives not any too hopeful aspects. The political movements of the country foreshadow high over the horizon rather serius indications to alarm the peaceful progress of various activities. These and other trying conditions will have to be taken into consideration, they will occupy our hearts and minds fully.

Now we all need constantly to sustain each other, to heed the leading of God by a dark cloud during the day which often veils the sun for a season, as also the pillar of fire during the night, illuminating the darkness. It is our allotted obligation to follow these leading signs and factors.

Guidance commands unbiased necessity in fulfilling the great commission of our Lord and Master, therefore let us covet your fervent prayers for the preparation and during the session of this conference. It is a vital need. Let us lend each other for the urgent mutual spiritual support, and being burdened before His throne.

Nevertheless let us not forget to praise the Lord jointly for unspeakable blessings and answered prayers during this last year. This shall lift our hearts up above the dark and threatening clouds trying to loom up before us.

Yours for His Service,
P. W. Penner, Secretary-Treasurer.

IMITATORS

This word has both a wholesome and an unwholesome connotation. We are enjoined in the Holy Scriptures to observe the lives of good people. At a certain place Jesus said: "I have given you an example." He then is our chief example as well as our Redeemer. But, after a person has been born into the kingdom of God, it is only natural and prudent that he or she should look about for reflections of the True Example in His Saints.

There is, of course, a sense in which imitators are wrong. In literature, copying is called plagiarism, if not proper credit is given, and it is considered a very serious offense. Archeologists have found tablets upon which ancient heathen nations had copied the laws given to Moses, or such parts which could be used according to their views.

We are told that this sort of a thing is again being practiced. Religions, other than Christian, are copying the Christian methods, Christian hymns, etc. Of course, inserting the name of their particular idol or leader, where the name of our God and our Christ appears.

This is, to say the least, gross dishonor to the living God. But do we fully understand? Should we not read between the lines? To us it looks like a desperate effort on the part of leaders to revamp their tottering systems and faith. By this method, they may succeed in holding their followers, but imitating the methods of others will never save their constituency. Their is only one name given under heaven whereby we must be saved. And that is the name of Jesus.

ANNOUNCEMENT

The Board of Education of the General Conference is to hold its regular meeting at Bethel College from October 11 to 14 inclusive. There are a number of far-reaching problems facing the Board as indicated by the General Conference resolutions adopted at Saskatoon.

We ask to be remembered in your prayers so that God's will may be done regarding these questions and His cause furthered among our people.

Ed. G. Kaufman, Chairman
Lester Hostetler, Secretary,

DEAD, YET SPEAKETH

"By it he being dead yet speaketh." (Heb. 11:4)

Dead, yet ever speaking,
May this be thy lot;
Live, so that thy living
Shall ne'er be fogrot.

Waves of sea once started,
Strike the farther shore;
Deeds of men once spoken,
Live forevermore.

Let us then be watching
What we do and say,
For our words and actions
Live for aye and aye.

What is the Scriptural Attitude Toward the Jews?

P. H. Richert

In Romans 11, Paul practically answers this question by saying, "As concerning the gospel, they are enemies for your sakes: but as touching the election, they are beloved for the father's sakes." What should a Christian's attitude be to enemies? Jesus' teaching is very plain on this: "Love your enemies." In the case of the Jews this should be easy, because they are enemies for our sakes. What does that mean? The context shows very clearly that it is for our benefit. Why should it then be hard to love them?

Without going into the question of how this benefit is possible, let us simply accept this as a fact: The unbelief of the Jews as a nation was the bridge for God's mercy to the gentiles, so to say. Rom. 11:30.

It is therefore absolutely unscriptural and unchristian to hate the Jews as a race, as Hitler does. That he should want to purge his country from bolshevistic Jews, is a different matter. Who would not give him credit for that, even if one cannot approve of the method he uses. But to persecute them as a class or race is unbliblical, and God's judgement must come for this. He who sows wind will reap storm. This is happening in Russia today. What the Russian church did in the persecution of their best Christians under the Czar, is now coming back as a storm. The church in Russia had very little life, i.e., the orthodox church, and even the persecuted true Christians in Russia give the bolshevists credit for exposing this deadness. That does, of course, not excuse them for their develish tortures, especially since the best Christians are tortured most, just because they are Christians, and for no other real reason.

That the "Reader's Digest" (September, page 102) reports about the persecution of the Jews in Germany is right and necessary, but that so little about the persecution of the true Christians in Russia appears in the large papers is very unjust. God's judgment for this neglect must come upon the so-called Christian nations that have not spoken up as they should have done.

As a race, the Scriptures hold the Jews very highly. We gentiles overlook this too much, and are in danger of doing the very thing against which Paul warns us in Rom. 11:18: "Boast not against the branches . . . thou bearest not the root but the root thee." Yes, the Jews as a race are the root, and should be honored accordinly by us. They have suffered their share for this honor. To be a pioneer nation in the worship of the only true and holy God, caused them much suffering, so much, that Israel as God's servant (Is. 49:3) is almost identified with the one great servant in chapters 52 and 53. It takes close reading to notice the distinction, so close that the eunuch found it impossible to see it, and needed help by Philip. Just as the seed of Abraham (Israel) culminates in the "one seed," Christ, as Paul points out, so the suffering servant (Israel) culminates in the one Suffering Servant of Is. 53. Just as the one seed is in a class by itself, so is this Suffering Servant in Isa. 53 in a class by himself, and yet a Jew. Yes Christ was a Jew, besides being the Only Begotten Son of God. Jesus says: "Salvation is of the Jews."—John 4.

A Meditation

by M. Horsch

With great interest we read the various reports and impressions of the Conference at Saskatoon. A note of gladness and gratitude comes into our hearts, when we perceive, that there is an agreement in this fact: "It was good to have been in Saskatoon." The Canadian brethren were wise in choosing Saskatoon as the meeting place for the Conference. They knew what they were doing. Conference as such was one of the best, if not the best, and most profitable ever held. Now, the officers and various standing boards and committees, all have their assignments again. These assignments really are tremendous. We must uphold them with our faithful intercession at the Throne of Grace, that the work during the new interim may be done under the Holy Spirit's guidance, wisdom and power. "Not by might nor by power, but by my Spirit saith the Lord of Hosts." Zech. 4:7.

True and not to be wondered at, Satan attempted a number of times to destroy the unity of the Spirit and the bond of peace. But, thank the Lord, he did not succeed. The Conference was wisely steered away from the breakers. Not to man but to our God be praise and glory!

Considering how the General Conference is constituted, it cannot be otherwise, but that a great variety of elements, convictions and ideas prevail. Two factors, however, firmly cement these various elements together, into a strong organization. First, the one foundation, Christ Jesus, our divine Lord and Savior, with Calvary as our rallying place. The second, common interest in the great Kingdom enterprises, heathen missions probably the foremost. The work is enlarging, the tasks are great. We are kept quite busy and forget our differences. We have no time to lose with non-essentials, we must labor for the time is short and soon the Master may come to require a reckoning.

Another matter sometimes greatly troubles some of us. This with reference to present home and world conditions. Our own, beloved country seems to be drifting more and more into chaotic conditions. There is an uncanny, indefinable, international antichristian power, which seeks to undermine our national safety. This power even creeps into some of our churches. It seeks to line up our country again with the seething caldron of Europe. In a recent letter brother H. J. Krehbiel quite timely calls our attention to our duty as Christians and Mennonites in the United States, toward our country.

We are still enjoying a time of grace and peace and this not as a result of any merit of ours. It is only our dear Lord's love and grace. How long will this time of grace be extended to us? The answer lies with American Christians. Will they, will we, do like Nehemiah of old, lift hearts and hands to the Throne of Grace in behalf of our homes and our nation? Will we in true repentance and humility say: "I and my father's house have sinned." Begin at home in confession and supplication, then intercede for our beloved country. Such persistent, faithful prayer is a power before God and He will stay the subtile influence of that godless, antichristian power. Otherwise, if Christians do not do their duty, judgment sooner or later will come and this demoniac power will break upon us like a tidal wave.

In Europe this antichristian, God-hating wave, coming from the north, was stayed by God's grace. Had Europe been ripe for judgment, especially Central Europe, this tidal wave would have swept all before it and engulfed Europe in terror, thus paving the way for the man of sin. The German people were trembling, they knew they were on the brink of an awful abyss, helpless in the hands of this evil power. God in heaven had prepared men to be instrumental in building a wall against, and staying this fearful power. This wall will hold as long as it is in line with God's dispensational plan and purpose.

At present there is an equalizing justice at work in Europe. Conditions unnatural, untenable and unjust are rectified. Our American people, who have no other source of information but the propaganda-controlled-associated press news, fall victims to this propaganda, which is more vicious and more subtile than the propaganda during the World War. There are, however, those more thoughtful than the rest, who stop and think and feel there must be another side to those happenings in Europe. To these more thoughtful ones we are most grateful, for there is another side.

Our hearts are heavy, sometimes, when we read the exaggerations of that which happens in the old home. Then we receive letters from relatives and note how they feel about conditions today. These put us at ease again and the burden is lightened.

Then comes the "Gemeindeblatt," organ of the South German Mennonites, and reports of their blessed conferences, their youth rallies, "Jugendtage," their Bible courses, etc., and we are thankful that German Christians enjoy the protection of their government and are not hindered in preaching Christ and Him crucified.

Just lately we read a report of the seven-tent-mission organizations doing blessed home mission work all over the country. These organizations have now merged into one, for the purpose of united and more effective work. They send their units with large tents into cities and country. They practically cover the Reich with their evangelistic efforts. Revival meeting are held and many brought to Christ.

Again, we read reports of the Methodist bishop, Dr. Nuelson of Switzerland, and reports of Dr. Melle, Methodist bishop of Germany. These reports are most heartening. Just recently Dr. Melle reported about the Methodist conferences, in a number of the largest cities, about overflow meetings in Berlin. To accommodate the crowd a large public hall was kindly offered to them. Let it be stated that many pastors of the established or state church are in fullest sympathy with these movements and preach Christ without hindrance, unmolested. The so-called "Gemeinschaftsbewegung," a movement in the established church, is very much alive. Yes, there are things in National Socialism which are not good and we do not want in America. But it is time to call attention to that which is right and good, perhaps it will cause some of us to read our papers with caution.

Before we sit in judgment over wrongs of other nations, let us sweep before our own door. There are many thoughtful fellow-citizens who wish for a strong man to stop our fearful lawlessness, our financial and moral standard, destroying pleasure-madness and liquor madness, our destructive propaganda leading to strikes which come dangerously near to Civil war.

Whither away our beloved America? God only knows. This blessed knowledge that God our Father knows and that we are in His hands, gives us that in these districting days so necessary inner stability and peace of heart and mind. He keeps our country as in the hollow of His hand. Yes, the powers of evil must at last praise Him. Brethren, pray for our country, for our President and his advisors. If ever they need the intercession of Christian citizens, they do now.

SPIRITUAL WORSHIP

Ex. 20:4-6; 32:1-8; John 4:19-24

Introduction

True and acceptable worship is simple and sincere, without dependence upon form and object. The purpose of worship is to bring the individual into the fellowship, will and plan of God. If God is not present, there can be no real worship.

The Second Commandment. Ex. 20:4-6

The first commandment asserts the unity of God and forbids polytheism. The second asserts the spirituality of God (read vs 4, 5 together). It forbids expressly, the bowing down to and worshipping any images, forbids the use of such images in worship. It forbids the worship of God Himself under the form of an image. The tripel division (v4) is intended to embrace the whole material universe. God is righteous and jealous of His honor, for idol worship in all its forms is degrading. Its evil effects will affect several generations (5b). The direct outcome of idolatry is immorality and its resultant depravity may readily be passed on to children for some generations. God's mercy and love for the obedient is endless (v6).

The Golden Calf. Ex. 32:1-8

Moses had gone up into Mt. Sinai to receive the tables of the commandments from God's hands. He had been gone probably about a month. Aaron was high priest and authority in his absence. The people supposed he would not return again. Forty days previously the law had been given through Moses (chap. 24:18) and they had said, "all that the Lord hath spoken we will do." Now they ask Aaron to make gods to lead them (v1). Seemingly there had been no real heart turning to God. The people wished to have a visible god to give them confidence and courage. They had been accustomed to the pillar of cloud and the presence of Moses. They forgot God and said it was Moses who brought them out of Egypt.

Aaron had not the courage to deny their request, but asked them to give up their most valued possessions (v2). The response was hearty (v3) and Aaron made a golden calf (v4) in imitation of the worship of Egypt. It seems impossible that they who had, but a few weeks before, seen such wonderful demonstrations of the true God, could suddenly sink so low and think human hands could make a god to lead them. The calf was to be an image of Jehovah. An altar of worship was built, the next step in idolatry a proclamation of a feast to the Lord issued (v5). This indicates that they did not intend to renounce God utterly, but that the golden calf was to be the symbol of His presence. However the worship could not be held on the high plane that God demanded (v6). Revelry followed the sacrifice. God saw it all and regarded it as a renouncing of Himself (vs 7, 8).

True Worship John 4:19-24

The woman recognized in Jesus a prophet and at once opened up the question concerning the place of worship (vs 19, 20). He at once began to tell her that the church He was about to found would not center in any one particular place of worship (v21). True worship centers in the spirit and truth of the worship (v23), not in the place. The HOW of our worship is the essential element. It must be the expression of genuine emotions. God is seeking those who will worship Him in reality and truth. True worship is in our spirits, our hearts. Worship has its source in the heart and is spiritual in essence. All ceremonies but indicate the heart spirit.

Notes from the General Conferenee

As stated in a previous issue, we deferred a report on the work of Foreign Missions and discussion of Witmarsum Seminary until later.

Perhaps the most encouraging report of any Board was that of Foreign Missions. In spit of the turmoil in the world and the laxity of Christians, God is still furthering missionary efforts in many ways. And what was true during the first persecution in Jerusalem, of which it is said, "Therefore they that were scattered abroad went everywhere preaching the word," still pertains. Even with partially closed doors, God finds ways to scatter the seeds of the Word. A Chinese General recently gave $19,000 out of his pocket to buy Bibles for his soldiers. Thus the board opened its report with an assuring note.

The present working staff in Foreign Missions numbers 64, including new recruits ready to go out Sister Loretta Lehman and Clara Kuehny have withdrawn from the work in the India field. In Oklahoma Brother and Sister H. J. Kliewer have retired and Brother and Sister G. A. Linscheid are about to do so. Mr. and Mrs. Beno Toews of Rosthern, Sask., will take their place. Three new workers were sent to India last fall, Brother and Sister E. E. Frank and the nurse, Sister Eva Pauls. Brother and Sister Aaron Jantzen have recently left for the same field. As for China, Sister Elizabeth Goerz was permitted to return there, as a nurse, last spring, and on Sept. 17 Missionaries H. J. Brown and the new workers, Sister Etta Davis and Brother and Sister A. L. Jantzen, started on their journey there. So the list of native missionaries now is:

America: Rev. and Mrs. R. Petter, Rev. and Mrs. A. Hebegger, Mrs. V. Petter, Rev. and Mrs. J. B. Ediger, Rev. and Mrs. J. P. Suderman, Miss Mary Schirmer (part time), Mr and Mrs. Beno Toews.

India: Rev. and Mrs. P. A. Penner, Rev. and Mrs. P. W. Penner, *Rev. and Mrs. P. J. Wiens, Rev. and Mrs. John Thiessen, *Rev. and Mrs. S. T. Moyer, Rev. and Mrs. P. A. Wenger, Rev. and Mrs. F. J. Isaac, Med. Dr. and Mrs. H. R. Bauman, Med. Dr. and Mrs. H. E. Dester, Rev. and Mrs. J. R. Duerksen, Rev. and Mrs. W. J. Unruh, Rev and Mrs. E. E. Frank, the Misses Martha Burkhalter, Augusta Schmidt, Helen Nickel, Eva Pauls, Rev. and Mrs. Aaron Jantzen.

China.—Rev. and Mrs. H. J. Brown, *Rev. and Mrs. S. J. Goering, Rev. and Mrs. W. C. Voth, Rev. and Mrs. S. F. Pannabecker, Med. Dr. and Mrs. C. L. Pannabecker, *Rev. and Mrs. A. Ewert, the Misses Aganetha Fast, Wilhelmina Kuyf, Etta Davis, Rev. and Mrs. A. L. Jantzen.

*On furlough in the homeland.

The following mission candidates are on the waiting list: Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Dirks of Byers, Kans., and Vernelle Schroeder of Freeman, S. D. (engaged in high school work); Dr. and Mrs. John Warkentin, Chicago (preparing for Med. Dr.); Alida Schrag of Moundridge, Kans., and Agnes Harder of Whitewater, Kans., (in training for nurse); Orlando Waltner from Marion, S. D. (in theol. seminary); Elsie Wiebe, Beatrice, Nebr., Mary Becker, Newton, Kans., Lester Wuethrich, Whitewater, Kans., and Catherine Nickel, Mountain Lake, Minn. (attending Bethel College).

CHINA

In China our field is about 100 miles long by 30 miles, covers an area of about 3000 square miles, and has a population of about 2¼ million. Maine in U. S. is about the same size and has a population of 800,000. In our field there are about 500 villages and towns. About one in ten of these has been touched with gospel teaching and about one person in 1500 confesses the Christian religion. There are 1500 baptized Christians and 25 potential churches, of which 15 are definitely organized. This may not appear to be a very good tangible showing, but the Spirit of God is at work, spreading the seed of the Word.

As for the war, "the unfortunate people, fearing bombings and war in the cities and banditry in the country, find themselves between the devil and the deep sea." Strong, healthy people have been turned into cripples and corpses almost instantaneously, while whole buildings have been blown into ruins by a single blast. Though our field has not been spared bombing and fighting, yet the properties have suffered comparatively little. And, though severely tested in their faith, our Christians have also been strengthened by the manifestations of God's protecting hand.

The staff of workers numbers about 130, one third being women. There are: 41 evangelists, 21 Bible women, 6 Bible School teachers, 29 school teachers, 9 nurses, 2 doctors, 4 special language teachers, 18 gatemen and laborers. This does not include the host of laborers, such as carpenters, masons, short time helpers in evangelistic work, etc. Among these workers are many with special training, as Dr. Hu, formerly a mission boy; two school teachers, graduates of Am. colleges, and others that have had college work in China. Outstanding among these native workers is James Liu, principal of the Hua Mei School and active in other responsible positions. Among the Bible School teachers Chang Ching and Wang Wan-chu are graduates of theological seminaries.

Among the limitations which make Christian work difficult in China is poverty, which easily leads to temptations; ignorance, especially among women, inability to read, failure to understand the fundamentals of hygiene and health; disregard for things we hold sacred, as Sabbath and God's House.—To foster independence, each church is allowed to have its own board and to manage its affairs generally. Only one of the 15 organized churches may be said to be independent financially, others vary, some raising as high as seven tenths of the pastor's salary.

The following institutions have been operated in the China field:

(1) Hua Mei Junior Middle School, under a Chinese board and principal, with a mission grant. Enrollments last year, 161 in the Middle School and 86 in the primary department. (2) Kai Chow Bible School, for men and women operated by the Mission, with 45 to 50 students and elementary as well as higher courses. (3) Yu Jen School of Nursing, connected with the hospital, doing work recognized by the government. (4) Kai Chow Hospital, supported by the Mission; but since 1936 operated by a joint Chinese-foreign board which is also in charge of the School of Nursing. This hospital has been able to continue work in spite of difficulties. (5) Nine primary schools, operated jointly by the Mission and local boards.

Of non-institutional work, also important, the Chinese field has, beside the churches: 40 other preaching places, with regular services; two large tents circulating through the field; short-term Bible courses, of one months duration, usually held at county seats; daily vacation Bible schools, usually held by volunteer teachers and reaching many thousands of children; woman's work, consisting of the teaching of reading classes, visiting of homes, organizing and holding auxiliary mission societies, etc.; dozens of evangelistic bands going about witnessing at New Year. Also clean homes campaigns, health campaigns, home study courses.

While the work in China has been crippled and seriously interrupted by the war, as by the closing of schools, moving of hospital, evacuation of missionaries, dispersal of workers, yet the trials have purified and deepened the faith of the Christians, while non-Christians have come to regard the church with greater respect and have learned to recognize the power of the God of the Christians.

HELP IN NEED

During the Revolutionary war, while the British under General Howe were in possession of Philadelphia, they tried to prevent the farmers from bringing their products to market in order to starve the Americans who sympathized with the struggle for American liberty, or else compel them to surrender. Yet the farmers needed the market, and so many watched their opportunity to sneak into the city and supply their customers with the necessities of life. It was done at a great risk and sometimes the farmers were caught and imprisoned.—Vine Press.

Timely Suggestions

We are thankful for and glad to bring the following timely letter by our beloved colleague, Prof. A. E. Kreider, as it may voice the sentiment of other readers of THE MENNONITE. In writing the editorials in question, we tried to show that there is another side to the problems of Germany and other parts of troubled Europe which those of our Mennonite brethren whose reading is confined to the offerings of the American press do not get as those of us do who have opportunity to read German papers and letters.—For saying things that are really amiss we are truly sorry. —J. R. T.

Bethel College, Kansas
September 29, 1938

Dear Brother Thierstein:

Permit me to make a few comments upon two editorials which appeared in the Mennonite, September 27. I noted, first of all, the way in which you spoke of Hitler. After making due allowance for the good which he has done, we cannot overlook the evils of his rule, I seriously question whether it is in place in sermon or editorial to lend the blessing of the church to the system which he has established. Something like that was done by many of our American ministers during the World War with reference to the cause of the Allied Nations. And some of them lived to see the error of their way. Can the blessing of Christ rest upon a nation that trusts in violence and ruthless power? As a church, whether through its periodicals or in sermons, we should refrain from anything that lends our support or endorsement to any of these political systems (Communism or Facism).

We as a people are called to live in the midst of this generation as peacemakers. That is our high calling. We are to love and do good to friends and also to those who have done evil. Especially in times such as these, we as a church must stand forth as a people of goodwill. Our goodwill includes Germans and Czech and Jew. God is no respecter of persons. I cannot conceive that Jesus would have done or have said anything that would have encouraged the hatred of any nation or any people.

Then too, we are anxious to have the government respect our rights as a historic peace church. But if we permit ourselves in these present days of stress to become partisan in our attitudes we will find that in the event of war this will be held against us. I think this is a point of great importance. I wish you would write a strong editorial enlarging on this. A word of warning needs to be sounded. We must keep our record clean.

Our church papers should offer to our people only sound and sane counsel in these troubled days. Let its judgment be well considered and above all permeated by the love and the spirit of Jesus Christ.

Most cordially
A. E. Kreider.

Should Mennonite Youth Have Its Own Paper

At the recent General Conference the question was raised whether Mennonite Youth should put out its own paper. Various suggestions were made. A resolution was passed urging that preliminary investigations be begun to find out what the possibilities are.

The Executive Committee of the Young People's Committee presents this week a questionnaire on the opposite page, which we earnestly urge every reader to consider carefully and mail in. Through this questionnaire we hope more directly to find the opinions of our people on the question of ONE youth paper for all Mennonite youth.

The situation at present is something like this: We have these four pages every week in THE MENNONITE, which is hardly enough space to permit of much variety of treatment from a typographical point of view. We have presented, each week for several years, program material at three levels—Junior, High School and Senior age-groups. We have also the Kinderbote (German) and The Junior Messenger (English), designed primarily for the younger age-groups. These later publications, merged in one paper, and appearing semi-monthly, do not reach anywhere near all Mennonite youth. On the other hand, neither do these four pages in THE MENNONITE reach the group for which it is designed.

How can we effectively reach ALL MENNONITE YOUTH? That is the question. Will you help us solve this problem? Here is your opportunity constructively to criticise and to assist in bringing to Mennonite Youth what you think it needs. — B. B.

"Working With God,,

Josh. 1:5-9; Ps. 90:16, 17; I Cor. 3:9

Young People's Topic for Oct. 16, 1938

Meditations:

M., Oct. 10. Pleasing God. John 8:29.
T., Oct. 11. Chosen to work with God. Isa. 42:1-7
W., Oct. 12. Working with God's spirit. I Cor. 12:1-12.
T., Oct. 13. Starting to work with God. Rom. 5:17-20.
F., Oct. 14. Jesus Working with God. John 5:17-20
S., Oct. 15. God working in us. Eph. 2:10, 19-22.

Suggested Hymns:

"All Hail the Power of Jesus Name," "Break Thou the Bread of Life"

It is only human to face a great task with hesitancy. The Governor of a great state recently said that he was a much better governor before he actually occupied the governor's chair. Doctors will frankly admit that the moments just preceding a major operation are more strenuous than the actual performance of the incisory treatment. Just so it is when great tasks face the Christian.

To be sure, this is only a small part of the story. If we have the assurance that we are working With God and not Without or Against God, there is no reason to fear. Then, too, as workers with God, there comes the same encouragement to us that Joshua of old received when the Word of the Lord came unto him saying, "Be strong and of a good courage!" Josh. 1:5-9. In reading this very interesting passage one notices that three times this assurance is that "The Lord thy God is with thee withersoever thou goest." v. 9.

So let our young people be strong and of good courage; let our various district conventions and retreats go forward; let our Christian Endeavor groups prosper in living works of Conference unity, of Conference missions, of Conference peace, yea! of world pace, "for we are laborers together with God." I Cor. 3:9.

Program Suggestions:

I. As workers with God we must conform to the rules of God's universe.
  A. We must fall in harmony with the laws of life. We must grow in all areas of life: physical, spiritual, social, and mental. What are the dangers of attitudes of despair and hopelessness? Contrast the daily lives of a pessimist and an optimist.
  B. We must avoid the pitfalls that lead to sin, vice, crime, immorality, etc.
  C. We must keep in constant mind that it is the little foxes that spoil the vines. Make a list of some of these little foxes, such as white lies, cheating, gossip, etc. Stress that God requires absolute honesty, that God's laws are dependable, etc.—Continued on page 11.

Questionnaire

1. Should our young people's publication be separate from existing church papers like the Mennonite, Kinderbote, etc.?

2. Would a young people's publication be most effective appearing weekly----, twice a month----, monthly----, or every two months----?

4. Should it be distributed on a subscription plan for individual readers?

5. Should it be a bulk-service plan of distributing a quantity of copies to each church for general distribution there?

6. Should such a paper welcome financial support through paid advertising? If so what limitations do you suggest as to types of advertising admitted?

7. Should editorial staff work under the direction of the General Conference Board of Education ----, Board of Publication----, under Young People's Union----, independently----?

8. What pictures and other pictorial material definitely improve a young people's paper?

9. About how much would a young people's paper be worth to you per year?

10. How large a paper have you in mind? (no. of pages each issue)

11. Would you favor paying the editors and other staff members for their work on the paper?

12. Should this (Question 11) be decided by the managing board?

13. Would you favor merging the Kinderbote and Our Youth Says in one separate publication and one general editorial staff?

14. Do you favor a continuation of the present arrangement of 4 pages in the Mennonite, whether other arrangements are made or not?

15. What criticism or suggestions have you on our present Our Youth Says? (Be frank)

D. We must live our lives within the orbit of the Golden Rule and the Jesus way as given in the Sermon on the Mount. Make a list of the positive things that Christ commands us in that sermon if we would be true workers with God.

III. What is the faith of him who is a true worker with God?
  A. Is it believing what you know isn't so?
  B. Is it something that is against knowledge?
  C. Is it a leap in the dark?
  D. Is it accepting a belief on the words of some-one else?
  E. Is it unthinking submission to authority?
  F. Paul says: "Faith is the assurance of things hoped for, a conviction of things not seen." (This view of faith is presented by H. F. Rall in A Faith For Today, Abington Press, 1936. This book might well be reviewed by an able member of your group.)

INTERMEDIATE DEPARTMENT

The Wisdom of Jesus

Intermediate C. E. Topic, Oct. 23, 1938

For Daily Use

Oct. 17. Jesus' recipe for happiness. Matt. 5:1-12
Oct. 18. Test things by their result. Matt. 7:13-23
Oct. 19. God's care for us. Matt. 6:24-34
Oct. 20. Look to the heart. Matt. 12:35-37
Oct. 21. Count the cost. Luke 14:25-33
Oct. 22. We need humility. John 13:12-17
Oct. 23. Topic—Wise Sayings from the Lips of Jesus. Matt. 7:1-12

Pre-prayer Circle

Matt. 7:7 is a very definite promise of answered prayer. Asking is the first step. That may not always be enough. Sometimes our prayer may also demand action on our part. Let us pray tonight and then be ready to do whatever God may show us needs to be done to realize our prayers.

Praise in Song

(1). "All Hail the Power" (standing) (2). "Tell Me the Story of Jesus" (3). "Majestic Sweetness Sits Enthroned."

Society Announcements

Quiet Worship (without announcement)

1. "Break Thou the Bread of Life"
2. Leader: "Come unto me all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest."
3. Special number: "Consider the Lilies" or "Jesus, I Come."
4. Scripture reading: Matt. 5:1-12
5. Silent prayer. (Ask each one to offer a silent prayer of thanks for what Jesus means to him.) Close with the prayer Jesus taught us.
6. "More Love to Thee"

Topic Study "Wise Sayings from the Lips of Jesus"

1. The leader's introduction. Jesus is admitted by all to be the greatest teacher that has ever lived. Men have thought about his sayings for almost 2000 years and still do not understand them fully. Sometimes it is fear that keeps them from understanding, fear of what Jesus teachings will do to their selfishness. Jesus laid down principles rather than specific laws. These must be applied to our present day life. He talked about such important subjects as happiness, prayer, giving, riches, neighborliness, life after death. State the aim of your meeting.

2. "More About Jesus" (intersperse the stanzas of this song between the various topics).

3. What Jesus said about:

a. Happiness. Matt. 5:1-12. Happiness is something for which everyone is seeking and very few people find. Which one of the beatitudes would you say offers the easiest path to happiness? Which the hardest? Is happiness something for which we should strive or is it the result of living a certain kind of life? Some people are always seeking health. Others obey the laws of nature and health is the result. Does this hold true for the spiritual laws that lead to happiness? Put the beatitudes into your own words.

b. Worry over material things. Matt. 6:24-34. What illustrations does Jesus use from nature to show God's care for us. How many of their waking hours do men spend in providing for their physical needs. Do you think Jesus meant to discourage work? What conditions does Jesus set if we would be free from worry over material things? Matt. 6:33. What does seeking God's Kingdom and His righteousness include?

c. The danger of riches. Matt. 6:19-21; Luke 19:16-24. When do riches become a danger in our lives? What does Jesus consider true riches? How can we lay them up in heaven?

d. Giving. Matt. 6:1-4; Luke 21:1-4. What motive does Jesus condemn in giving? What should be our motive? Should this keep us from making a pledge to our society or church? Why do we make them? What is the reward for the right kind of giving?

e. Neighborliness. Luke 10:25-47. What does it mean to love your neighbor as yourself? How does my love for myself express itself? Does it apply to my neighbor? What are the limits of my neighborliness? How far does it reach? How much should I do?

f. The need for a new birth. What is it to be born again? John 3:3? Why do we have need of it? Jn. 3.

4. Add other topics such as, prayer, peace, eternal life, humility, forgiveness, the Holy Spirit. Give them to the more advanced members and ask them to report on what Jesus says on these subjects.

Closing Moments

Sing: "Open My Eyes That I May See"
Closing prayer, by superintendent
"Bethany Blessing" or some other benediction.

Program Suggestions for October 23, 1938

Worship Service

Quiet Music: "O Master, Let Me Walk with Thee"

Leader: "As the heart panteth after the water brooks, so panteth my soul after Thee, O God."

Song: One verse of "Come Thou Almightly King," M. H. B. p. 26

Verse of the month in unison: "I love them that love me; and those that seek me early shall find me." Prov. 8:17

Psalm 100: Responsive reading

Solo Voice: While Juniors follow words of song in the book with bowed heads. "O Master, Let Me Walk with Thee," verses 1, 3, 4

Leader: Prayer

"God who touchest earth with beauty,
Make me lovely too;
With thy Spirit re-create me.
Make my heart anew.

Like the springs and running waters,
Make me crystal pure;
Like the rocks of towering grandeur,
Make me strong and sure.

Like the dancing waves of sunlight,
Make me glad and free;
Like the straightness of the pine trees
Let me upright be.

Like the arching of the heavens.
Lift my thoughts above;
Turn thy dreams to noble action,
Ministries of love.

God, who touchest earth with beauty,
Make me lovely, too;
Keep me ever, by thy Spirit,
Pure and strong and true."

Announcements

Study Period. Aim: To find out what it means to fear God and how we can serve God best.

I. The story of Joseph by eight Juniors
   1. A favorite son—Gen. 37:3 and a dreamer—Gen. 37:5-11
   2. Serving at home—Gen. 37:12-17
   3. Sold into Egypt—Gen. 37:17-36
   4. Serving as a slave—Gen. 39:1-6
   5. Joseph serving in prison—Gen. 39:20-23
   6. Joseph tells Pharoah's dreams—Gen. 41-1-3
   7. Joseph serving his brothers.—Gen. 42:5-25
   8. Joseph and his brothers—Gen. 45:1-15

II. Heart talk by leader based upon:
Gen. 39:9b—"How can I do this great wickedness and sin against God?" and Gen. 42:18b—"For I fear God."
Help the Juniors to understand that to "fear God" does not mean to be afraid of God, but it means to be afraid to do those things that displease God. If we fear the Lord, we shall be anxious to please Him. And, if we try to please Him, we will serve Him by being faithful as Joseph was in his father's house, as a slave and as a governor of Egypt. We serve Him by being loving and forgiving and by obeying Him in all things. Point to Jesus who was obedient.—Ps. 40:8. Love will obey. John 14 v. 21-24.

III. We learn how to "fear God" from His Word. Bible drill—One who finds the verse first stands. Then calls on another to read it. Ps. 19:9; Ps. 34:11; Heb. 12:28; Prov. 23:17; Gen. 42:18; Ps. 143:10

Regarding Summer Vacation

Lester Hostetler

(Though this article was written more than a year ago, it is just as valuable today.—Editor.

There are some who believe that vacations are a waste of time, that the minister of a church, especially, should without ceasing, stay by his appointed task, preaching the gospel, in season and out of season, leaving no opportunity for the evil one to put in his work while he is off duty. They believe that the devil takes no vacation and that therefore the preacher shouldn't either, forgetting that the preacher is not a follower of the devil. He follows Christ, who after days of toil found it necessary for Himself and his disciples to "come apart into a desert place, and rest a while."

I believe in vacation and am profoundly grateful to the church that I am permitted to have one. The care of a church is a nervous strain and there must be opportunities to relax. The preacher is constantly called upon to give of his intellectual and spiritual stores; he must have opportunity to replenish himself. If he does not he is apt to become stale. His nerves become jaded, he gets in a rut, he loses life and buyancy, he gets narrow; the days wear on and there is not the new vision and insight into his work that he needs.

The bow that is always bent deteriorates in value; the field that raises the same crop from season to season finally becomes barren, the largest reservoir will become empty if there is a constant flow away from it with no replenishing stream to renew the supply. A minister's mind and heart is like that. To preach and teach continually is a severe drain upon his resources, and to do his best work he needs replenishment, relaxation, rest. A vacation is the best of all times to accomplish that.

Vacations, however, are not periods of idleness. They are opportunities for seeing one's work from a distance and making plans for the future. A minister needs constantly to keep clearly before him what his work is all about, what the church is really for, what his primary task is, what messages of encouragement and what words of warning need to be uttered. There are weak places in the church, weak links in the organization, slip-shod methods that need to be eradicated, and supplanted with something better. Vacation time, when the mind is free and relaxed, is a good time to think of all these things. Then there are plans to make. Sermons, mid-week services, study courses, special meetings, evangelistic and pastoral work all need to be planned ahead. More and more I am seeing that I succeed best where I plan carefully and that I fail, miserably sometimes, when no plan was made. Vacation time is also planning time.

And so while driving over a desert waste or camping at the foot of a mountain, I shall have some time, I think, to plan for the coming year. While visiting the Indian Missions or some ancient Indian pueblo in New Mexico we should have a fresh understanding of the needs of the world and the power of the Gospel to meet them. We expect this summer to have contact with a number of our ministers and churches in other sections of the country. This is always helpful. One can learn a great deal from the successes and failures of others.

Though several thousand miles away from you this summer, we shall be here many times in spirit. We shall endeavor constantly to profit by our experience, to treasure things new and old that will serve the highest interests of the First Church of Upland. We say "adieu, and God bless you," and sincerely solicit your prayers to the end that our summer's vacation may indeed be under God's guidance.

In the meantime you will have the experience of having new voices in the pulpit, the Eternal Word brought to you through new personalities. You will be interested in their ways, their methods and messages. They on their part will have their lives and ministry enriched by becoming acquainted with you and enjoying your friendship. And so vacation time should prove a blessing to us all—to the pastor, to the congregation and to the visiting ministers.

"SO MAKING PEACE"

Eph. 2:11-22

P. A. Kliewer

On Christmas we always hear: "Peace on earth, good will toward man," as the Christmas message. When in fact the true message on that night to the shepherds and to all the world was and is: "Fear not: for, behold I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people. For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Savior which is Christ the Lord." The "Peace on earth, good will towards men" is only a result of believing the Christmas message.

In reading Eph. 2:11-22 we find that God "made out of twain one new man, so making peace." Jew and Gentile hating and persecuting one another. At war with one aother. The Jew was "nigh God" and the "Gentile was far off."

In Rom. the first three chapters, we see that both Jew and Gentile are being declared guilty before God—guilty, condemned and separated. Separated from God and from one another. Then coming to Rom. 5:1 we read: "Therefore being justified by faith, we have peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ." Notice that the word "we" here includes both Jew and Gentile. But Gentile was not raised up to the Jew, nor the Jew lowered down to the Gentile. For both Jew and Gentile were dead in sin together. Both Jew and Gentile were raised up together, and made to sit together. This union in Christ resulted in a building fitly framed together, builded together for an habitation of God.

Notice Eph. 2:13: But now "in Christ Jesus" ye who sometimes were far off are made nigh by the blood of Christ. And in verse 14, For He is One (Jew and Gentile) peace, who hath made both (Jew and Gentile) one, and hath broken down the middle wall of partition. In verse 15, Having abolished in his flesh the enmity, even the law of commandments contained in ordinances, for to make in himself of twain One New Man, so making peace. In verse 16, That He might reconcile Both unto God in One Body by The Cross, having slain the enmity thereby.

Thus by the atoning Blood of Jesus Christ is removed that which stood between men and God and men and men, so making peace. The only place you can get Jew and Gentile together is by the atoning blood of Jesus Christ. Also the only place where you ever will get capital and labor together; or nation and nation.

This new man is pictured in Eph. 2:19-22, where they are fellow citizens with the saints and of the household of God; and are built upon the foundation of the apostles and prophets, Jesus Christ the chief corner stone, in whom all the building fitly framed together grows unto a holy temple in the Lord: In whom ye also are builded together for an habitation of God through the Spirit. This new man is the workmanship of God—it is impossible for men to do this.

Notice the way Paul introduces his letters: "Grace to you and peace from God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ,"—Grace first and then peace. We noticed in Matt. 28:19-20 the same order. We are asked: "What are you doing for peace? Just what the Lord has commissioned us to do: "Preach the Word, the incorruptible Word of God, that men and women become wise unto salvation by faith in the Lord Jesus Christ, be born again from above, of God. Then again teach and preach the incorruptible Word of God that God's children may grow up in Christ in all things. Read 2 Cor. 3:18. We so often hear men speaking about: "The Universal Brotherhood of Men." But the Bible teaches us in Gal. 2:26-28, "That we are children of God by faith in Christ Jesus. For as many as have been baptized into Christ have put on Christ, there is neither Jew nor Greek, bond nor free, there is neither male nor female; for ye are all one in Christ Jesus." Read also 1 Cor. 12:13.

Peace is an idle dream as long as the Prince of Peace is being rejected by the majority of the human race. As long as men and women reject God's plan of peace and adopt or substitute a peace made by man's plan, there can be no real peace. For in Rom. 3:17 we read: "The way of peace have they not known, Jew and Gentile who were at war one with another." James says, "From whence come wars and fighting among you, come they not hence, even of your lusts that war in your members?" Paul in 1 Cor. 3:3: "Ye are carnal; for whereas there is among you envying and strife, and division, are ye not carnal and walk as men?"

Listen to what God says to this new man, how he should walk. Born of the incorruptible seed the word of God—growing up in Him—in all things—offering spiritual sacrifice acceptable unto God through Christ Jesus, a chosen generation, a royal priesthood, a holy nation, a peculiar people, shewing forth the praise of Him that called them out of darkness into the marvelous light. To abstain from fleshly lusts that war against the soul, having their conversation honest before the Gentiles.

In 1 Thess. 4:9-12 we notice two things: That those made one out of two are to love one another and to walk honestly towards them that are without. Does the church walk honestly towards them that are without instead of walking in worldliness, the lusts or works of the flesh, such as drinking, dancing, gambling, covetousness, selfishness?

Walking honestly towards them that are without, means that by word and testimony the Christian reaches out to the lost and dying sinner, to bring him to the saving knowledge of Jesus Christ. And that he reach out his helping hand to the poor, oppressed and needy, that he never leave any one in doubt by word or action as to the evils of today, war, crime, etc., and also as to the faith once delivered to the Saints.

Oh that all walls might be removed and that the church of Jesus Christ might be one in the faith, one in the Love to go forth, one in action, busily occupied with the Gospel of Jesus Christ. Stop bending all its efforts towards "a condition of peace." Rather spread the Gospel of God's good news: "Unto you is born a Savior." That men and women might be saved by faith in the shed blood of Jesus Christ, and thus become one in Him and grow up in Him, walking in the Holy Spirit. The mission of the church is to bring men and women back to God by faith in Jesus Christ, thus making out of twain one new man, so making peace.

CORRESPONDENCE

FIRST MENNONITE CHURCH, BERNE, IND.

And now it's history! The Century Celebration of the First Mennonite Church of Berne. Months of looking forward and preparation. One week of celebration. Now what?

Sometimes it is well to stop and take a backward look. This church has had occasion to do this at the anniversary of her hundred years of existence. The First Mennonite Church of Berne has much to be thankful for. She has reasons to be thankful for her forefathers, men, as well as women, of faith and prayer, of character and noble ambitions. She has reasons to be thankful for God's dealings with her, from her small beginning through the one hundred years of varied experiences in her growth and development. Her pathway has not always been rosy; many rough places were encountered, some so rough that she was badly shaken, even to a degree of disruption, but God came to her rescue and established her going again. God has graciously dealt with this church, manifold has been her blessings, and today she truly raises her Ebenezer and says, "Hitherto hath the Lord helped us."

It has been a glorious week of celebration. In this automobile generation it is not easy to realize what it meant to our forefathers (mothers included), when they often walked six and seven miles to church, and often went on wagons and buggies. It took more effort then than now. It seems now we must take out the car to go only for two blocks. It has been an inspiration to review what has been done by the men and women of the church through their sacrifice and devotion to the things of God, as they have lived and given freely of their time and money to further the growth of the church in all her various organizations.

Many could be singled out through the years that have been of special influence in the work of this church, but space does not permit. However, we believe it is proper to call attention to one who was undoubtedly most far-reaching in power and influence, even beyond the boundaries of this community, as leader, teacher, and preacher,—the late Rev. S. F. Sprunger. This church had the distinct honor of having him as her head for almost 35 years. It is given to few men to teach as he taught, preach as he preached, and influence people as he has done. His influence is still felt here in every direction, and truly it seemed during this week of reminiscing that one could see him and hear his voice again in the pulpit admonishing his people to holy living. He was a true shepherd of his flock, a teacher of divine truth, and an example in godly living. For him this church has great reason to be thankful.

During the week it was our privilege to have with us our former pastor, Dr. P. R. Schroeder of Freeman, S. D., and Dr. Warkentin of Bethel College, who brought inspiring messages from time to time, which will never be forgotten. At the closing meeting the choir sang most fittingly the chorus out of "New Jerusalem," "Alleluia, praise the Lord, to Him be glory and honor and dominion and power forever more," for it was indeed to Him that we desired to ascribe all this, and give recognition to Him in whom we live and move and have our being.

Now what? We ask again. We trust we will now have a forward look. We trust as a church we may have had a new vision of Him, even as Isaiah did, "high and lifted up," and that we may now with renewed and enlarged vision give ourselves as never before to the task of lengthening our cords and strengthening our stakes, that the ministry of this church may extend far and wide and be a constant testimony to the goodness of God. If this will be the outcome, then the Centenary Celebration will have been worth while.

EAST SWAMP CHURCH, QUAKERTOWN, PA.

Sept. 18—consecration of children and harvest home services were held in our church. To our joy Rev. W. H. Gottshall, after a long illness, spent the Sunday with us. Rev. Harold Burkholder, assistant pastor, read Psalm 66. Then Bro. Gottshall consecrated eight children: Linford Henry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Hallman; Janice Pearl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Awkland; Patricia Joan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Hanzworth; John Enos, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bradford; Raymond William, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Snavely; Warren Stanly, son of Mr. and Mrs. Burton Awkland; Billie Irvine, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Price; Mary Elizabeth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Price. After this Bro. Gottshall spoke on James 1:11, as his morning theme.—Our local Men's Brotherhood holds its meetings monthly on Tuesday evenings at 7:30 p. m. The officers are: Earl Hallman, Pres.; James Gerhart of Bally, Vice Pres.; William W. Cope, Secr.; Lester Schaffer of Quakertown, Treas.—October 1, the East Swamp Christian Endeavor will hold a social at the home of Rev. and Mrs. Harold Burkholder.—The last Saturday in October the Annual Brotherhood Convention of the Eastern Conference will be held at Lansdale. Eli Fretz is secretary of this organization.

—Dr. Rodolphe Petter of Lame Deer, Montana, twice received a direct personal broadcast message from Geneva, Switzerland, and once the choral society of Berne, the capital city of Switzerland, gave a special broadcasted number to honor Dr. and Mrs. Petter, who had visited Berne, in 1935.

—Dr. A. Warkentin on his return from Berne, Ind., where he served as one of the speakers at the Centennial Anniversary of the First Mennonite Church, stopped off in Chicago, to spend a day with his children, Dr. John Warkentin and wife, the former Linda Brown, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. H. J. Brown, who are now on their way back to our mission field in China.

—Young Folks Doing Well.—To those of us who have been working with young people it always does our hearts good, to see them go out to make their lives and work count. Harold W. Linscheid, son of Missionary and Mrs. Linscheid of Canton, Okla., holds an assistant professorship at the State University of Oklahoma, while he is also doing graduate work. Chester H. Linscheid, the other son, is assistant librarian at the South Dakota State Agricultural College.—Anna Ruth Ediger, daughter of Missionary and Mrs. J. B. Ediger of Clinton, Okla., was married to Karl Baehr, son of Rev. and Mrs. J. B. Baehr, Newton, in August, and the couple are now in Chicago, where Mr. Baehr is attending Chicago Theological Seminary on a scholarship stipend.—Hilda, an older daughter of the Edigers, was recently married to Reinhard D. Voth, and they are now happily located on their farm home, 15 miles north of Newton, Kansas.

—Bethel Hospital, Mountain Lake, Minn., the "Observer" says, was showered with gifts on Annual Gift Day. Canned Goods, vegetables, fruit and other produce came in. "All day long, a stream of cars and trucks drove to the hospital and left a great assortment of gifts to add to the winter stores of the community institution."

—Bethesda Mennonite Church, Henderson, Nebr.—During the last two weeks we had two funerals in our church, Mrs. G. J. Kroeker, the writer's sister, 48 years old, and Mrs. J. W. Friesen, 73 years old.—We are expecting Dr. J. E. Hartzler, September 25-30, for a series of meetings.—Quite a few of our young people have left for college, 15 attend York College not far from here, two Freeman College, one Tabor College and three Bethel College. One young lady is taking nurse's training in the Jennie Edmundson Hospital at Council Bluffs, Iowa, two are in the Bethel Hospital at Newton, Kans.—Our Bible School will start in a few weeks and continue for four months. Theodore Schmidt will teach again.—A. W. Friesen.

—Dr. J. H. Langenwalter, pastor of the First Menn. Church, Reedly, Calif., a former Bethel president, is scheduled to conduct the services of the third annual Religious Emphasis week at Bethel College, Oct. 4-7. An interesting speaker and friend of young people, he is fitted to do this student body much good. For the chapel addresses his talks will be on, "Youth Facing Life's Problems." In his evening lectures he will speak on the general theme, "Things Jesus Took for Granted."

—Parent-Student Day at Bethel College, Sunday, Sept. 25.—After many parents had made open-house visits to the dormitories and other college buildings, all met in chapel at 3 o'clock, crowding the hall to capacity. Dean Goertz was in charge of the program. Following devotion conducted by Rev. A. J. Dyck, Margaret Rich welcomed the parents and guests, then pointedly told what good Bethel had done and been to her. Prof. E. P. Robertson, principal of McKinley School, Newton, responded for the parents, voicing appreciation of Bethel's work and efforts to teach students the higher values of life and the Christian way of living. Then Dr. E. G. Kaufman ably discussed the subject, "What Parents Have a Right to Expect of Bethel and What Bethel Has a Right to Expect of Them." In this he plainly showed the need for cooperation, united effort, and also prayer. At the opening, between talks and at the close, the College Male Quartette sang. The Hilty Brothers of Bluffton, O., who are on a tour west, also sang a couple of songs to the evident delight of the audience. Then the parents and friends were given opportunity to shake hands with the faculty members and wives, following which light refreshments were served.

WE WOULD LIKE NEWS FROM OTHER SCHOOLS TOO.

Second Church, Philadelphia, Pa.—"Pastoral Message: The whole-hearted support of the services last Sunday was greatly appreciated. Now let us not slump back to mediocre enthusiasm, but let us climb constantly to "the Rock that is higher than I."

—The Pannabecker families are going to Tunghsien, near Peking, Hopei, China, for the winter while Rev. S. F. and Dr. C. L. Pannabecker will again return to their stations at Kai Chow. The station is not considered safe territory for the families at the presen time. When, if ever, will wars cease? If the Mennonites had lived peace instead of merely preached it for the last four hundred years, one wonders what difference it might make in the world situation today. Kindly note change of address of the Pannabecker's. Sincerely, D. W. Bixler.—Bro. Bixler is a brother-in-law of S. F. Pannabeckers.

CHANGE OF ADDRESS

Rev. John K. Lichti—from Upland, Calif., to Sanger, Calif. Since five of their children live at Sanger, they have sold out at Upland to be near them.

Rev. J. J. Esau—from Lima, Ohio, to 690 Gaines St., Salem, Oregon. The family have located there for the winter, from which place Rev. Esau is doing evangelistic work among the Pacific Conference churches.

Harold Ratzlaff who is attending Hartford Theological Seminary is now located at 99 Sherman St., Hartford, Conn.

Rev. Benj. Ewert directs that henceforth his address may be shortened to 286 River Ave., Winnipeg. Although they have moved from Suite 17 to Suite 23, they are located in the same building.

—First Church, Philadelphia, Pa.—"We are glad to have word from our representative in China, Wilhelmina Kuyf. She is now on the field and is greatly interested in her work. Wilhelmina puts many of us to shame. Even though she cannot attend our services, she prays for us and sends her regular contributions for the church."

—Bethel Church, Fortuna, Mo.—"Sunday, Sept. 18, we had with us the Hilty Brothers from Bluffton, Ohio, who gave a sacred musical concert in the evening, which was greatly appreciated.—On Sunday Sept. 25, at 3 o'clock, Mildred J. Reverence at Prayer

We know that in prayer which is to be effective our hearts must be attuned to the heart of God. And while God does not prescribe any particular posture or position while at prayer, our sense of propriety should teach us to assume at least the same reverential attitude and demeanor in the presence of God, the maker of the universe, as we would before a person of high rank or standing, or a gentleman when facing or talking to a respectable lady. But in this age of growing irreverence and disregard for things divine, Christians are often seen to deport themselves unbecomingly. Who has not, in his visits of different churches, seen even a preacher in the pulpit cross his arms, put the hands into his pockets, cross them behind his back, pinch his nose, scratch his head or perform other stunts with his hands, during the act of praying. Dare we act irreverently when facing Him who calls Himself, "I AM THAT I AM," and who said to Moses, "Thou canst not see my face; for there shall no man see me, and live." There was a time, still remembered by us older folks, when it was customary to fold the hands in front of the body and keep them in that position while praying. Our mothers taught us that simple act by imitation until it became a habit. Might that not still be good practice? We Mennonites feel that we are drifting away from what we used to practice, the simple life. Did not that life include devout reverence and reverential attitudes in acts of worship? The Bible tells us in a number of places of people at prayer that stretched or spread forth their hands toward heaven. — Deut. 32:40; I Kings 8:22; II Chr. 6:13; Is. 9:33; I Tim. 2:8. Should we not try to be an example to others in this respect?

Fear - Prayer

How our hearts swelled with gladness and praise to God Almighty, when words came over the wires and the air that there would be no war in Europe, that the threatened, horrible catastrophe had been averted. What was it that brought about his happy turn? Was it the action of the heads of four great European powers at Munich? Of course they were involved in bringing about the final, hoped-for result. But we believe, if we had the power of penetrating God's mysteries, we would find that it was prayer, the prayers of millions of Christian believers that moved the mind of God to stop it all. Fear of the horrible spectre about to be let lose upon them drove millions of people into prayer, and God whose time probably had not yet come for Europe to be destroyed, was moved by their implorations. People that are known to be pretty close to the heart of God, have experienced the assurance that there would not, there could not be war. Fear of attack by their enemies, as the result of their sins, often brought the people of Israel to their knees, in sack and ashes, they repented, and God averted the danger. When President Roosevelt wrote to Europe, "the lives of millions of men, women and children in every country involved will most certainly be lost under circumstances of unspeakable horror . . . . " When Premier Neville Chamberlin cried out to the world how "horrible, fantastic, incredible" even the idea of a war was, people began to see the horrors of "mass murder" ahead of them. For years nations had allowed the militarists and war mongers, to get ready for war, and with the aid of scientists to invent death-dealing machines and gases of such incredible nature and effect, that the twentieth century world actually became profoundly afraid of itself. What would be more natural now then to repent, ask God's mercy and forgiveness, resolve to stop our follies, get rid of our false material gods, disarm, do it all over, and with changed hearts begin to live the Jesus way. Could it be done? Yes, if the five hundred millions of Christians the world over would actually do what Christ has taught us, new life, a happy life of good will and neighborly relations would spring up where there is now hatred, distrust, hopelessness, confusion.

REAL PEACE.—The world is crying for PEACE, lasting peace, but does not get it, never had it. History and our Bible teach that plainly; also that no man-made scheme or philosophy will bring us real world peace. There is only one plan, the standard set up by Christ, our Lord, so truly expressed by Paul, Col. 1:20, "HE has made peace through the blood of the Cross." This statement contains three great truths: First, peace is attained through effort. He made peace. Second, it is worked out through painful sacrifice, the shedding of blood. Third, its attainment involves the Cross. Peace requires effort, struggle. It is neither negative nor neutral. Instead of war tension, the world must come to experience peace tension. In place of the quest of power by brute force, the world must learn to bow to the Cross, take it up and learn to bear it one for the other. We have too long crucified Christ again, we must learn to crucify ourselves in bearing one another's burden.

Sermon at the Dedication of Bethel College, Sept. 20, 1893

by Rev. David Goerz

Matth. 8:23: "And when He was entered into a boat, the disciples followed him." The application of our text to the Christian church generally, is well known. On this occassion we shall deviate from this and link up our application with our school project, resp. Bethel College. Let us note five points:

1) Jesus entered the ship
2) The ship which he entered
3) The sea on which the ship sailed
4) The disciples who follow the Master
5) They followed him

I.

Jesus, the Master, entered the ship and, wherever he enters, as in the house of Zaccheus, blessings come to that house. To invoke such blessings upon Bethel College is the main object of this day. We want Jesus as our commander-in-chief, helmsman, pilot, guide, counsellor and leader. Then we need have no fear, for at our ship's steering wheel there stands a man in whose sight we are unspeakably precious, and who can bring us safely across the sea.

II.

The ship which Jesus entered is, in this text, usually interpreted as a picture of the church. Let us today imagine Bethel College to be such a ship and point out a few related facts:

a) A ship must first be erected on dry land, before it can be given over to its future element, the water. In like manner a school must first be built, equipped and furnished, before it can be dedicated to its use. With God's assistance and the cooperation of friends of the school, it has been made possible to build Bethel College so far, that it can be opened today and, in the name of the School Corporation, I hereby officially declare the school open for the reception of students. I do this with a thankful look up to God and with heartfelt gratitude to all school friends for their contributions.

b) An important moment in the erection of a ship is the launching. We celebrate today the launching of Bethel College.

c) After the launching there comes the rigging of the ship. The tackle of Bethel College is not yet complete, there is still much to to be done,

d) Then follows the manning of the ship with a crew, for a ship without its crew fails of its purpose. The captain, the pilot, the sailor, etc., each at his post. The crew of the school is its teaching staff or faculty.

e) Ready for passengers, that is the purpose of the ship. It craves freight and passengers. A school wants students and we are happy that, in spite of hard times, we have the actual joy of greeting an encouraging number of students on this opening day.

III.

The sea on which a ship sails is not to be overlooked. We are told that it is not nearly as dangerous on the open ocean as on many a closed sea or inland water. In this connection I am thinking of the difference of the undenominational schools that have a larger and open field than a small school, supported by a small religious denomination, which has to preserve the character of the narrower brotherhood and has to reckon it with many things that do not exist for other schools.

There will be storm on small seas,
There are storms even though Christ be in the ship,
There will be storms though the crew be ever so efficient

IV.

Here were disciples that followed the Master. Thus it was a Christian brotherhood. So it is to be in the school. Bethel College is to be a Christian school. To engage Christian teachers shall be the earnest endeavor of the Board of Directors; to exert a Christian influence the duty of teachers.

V.

They followed him. That is the proper order, Christ taking the lead, the disciples following, not the disciples in front and Christ behind. Many schools that bear a Christian name relegate Christ to second place. First the view of the professor, then only as much of Christ as is compatible with that view. Christ is being divested of his rank as the son of God, and of his divine nature, even in Christian schools.

In Bethel College there is to be nurtured a positive Christianity. In this expectation our churches, our school corporation, we all look to to whom I now address myself in the name of the Board of Directors, to charge you with your obligations to the school.

You Brethren on the Faculty,

Today the ship's structure is generally being admired. But, once the anchors are weighed, the sails spread, the machines in motion and the ship gliding out into the sea, then the eyes of the ship's crew will fasten on the hand that controls the steering wheel, adjusts the mast, guides the ship, does the work. On your work will henceforth depend the success of the school. For that reason you are looked to with so great expectations by the friends and so great apprehensions by the enemies of the cause of Bethel College. On one hand you are invested with great confidence, on the other you will not escape criticism, which has already shown itself.

A sailor must prepare himself for storm, he cannot get by without it. But for that reason a sailor is set for it:

1) That means, above all, he must look up to the Master, who with a threatening finger can sooner quiet the waves and the storm than all the crew with their toil and labor—"Put out into the deep!"

2) Next it is necessary to make allowance for the character of the school. It belongs principally to country churches, to a people who have won favorable recognition through simplicity in manners and customs of living. Our school must foster this heritage.

3) Further, there is need of a spirit of unity among the faculty. Many a school has gone to pieces through discord among the faculty. The blessings of this harmony must go out into the churches with the students.

4) What kind of a spirit goes out from this school, is the question: Let it be a spirit of love and peace; of humility and yet of the power of positive faith; of modesty and simplicity; of diligence and industry.

To this end may God bless you in your work. As for us, the friends of the school, let us unite in our intercessions and let us support our teachers with our prayers.—Translated by J. R. T.

FOREIGN MISSIONS

P. H. Richert, Sec.

R. M. S. Honolulu, Hawaiian, Is., Sept. 22, 1938

To The Mennonite—
Dear Friends:

Just a word to let you know, that the dear Lord has been very good unto us. He has given traveling mercies on our cross-country trip and He has been doing the same so far on the sea. The auto trip through the Black Hills of South Dakota, the Yellowstone National Park, and the Rockies is wonderful. God is speaking in nature. The trailer with our baggage followed nicely, only once was there a flat. At Aberdeen, Idaho, Odessa and Monroe, Wash., the Christian friends received us into their homes. They had also arranged for meetings, etc. In Vancouver a meeting had been arranged for, but we didn't know of it in time to be there. We enjoyed, however, the fellowship in Rev. J. B. Wiens' home on the following night.

The Albert Jantzen family and sister Davis had arrived about the same time, and no one encountered any trouble in preparing for the ocean voyage. Now we have five days behind us. Two of these were quite stormy. Most of the third class passengers were sick. I also remembered the poor fish in the deep sea. Mrs. Brown and Roland stayed in bed for two days. But now we are all up and happy. Praise God! Thank you all for the letters and the prayers!

Very sincerely yours,
H. J. and Maria Brown.

FAITHFUL PERSONAL WORK

Dear Brethren in Christ:

If I should report something from my field of labor, I might say that up to the present time, all single and scattered families, smaller and larger groups—30 in number with 250 families—which belong to my field, have been regularly visited and served. Many types of service are required, such as preaching, house or family visitation, seelsorge (personal work) baptismal service and also the celebrating of the Holy Communion. When I could not attend to my work on account of the sickness of my wife, four other ministers helped out. I hope that in this manner every phase of work in my field will be well cared for.

In answer to the question about results, many incidents might be cited, when the Lord in marvelous manner blest the work of preaching the Word. Many people young and old, have experienced forgiveness of sins and sweet peace in their souls. Lonesome and discouraged individuals were helped and comforted, sick were visited and such who became lukewarm were urged to take new courage and thus many were won back to Christ.

During my years of labor I have received very many letters, in which the writers stated with deep gratitude, that they have been helped by my visits and services and that changes have taken place in individual hearts and in families. Is it proper to regard these as results? Has this type of itinerant ministry justified itself? To the Lord be praise for all His blessings and help.

Regarding the need of this kind of work in the future, little needs to be said. It is clear to anyone who knows the nature and the need of spiritual instruction among our people.

Personally I want to thank the churches and members of our Conference very heartily, and also the members of the Home Mission Board for the support of the itinerant work in Canada. Do not become weary, do not turn away from this work, for such work brings its own compensation.

With brotherly greetings,
Your co-worker, F. F. Enns.

FOREIGN MISSIONS — INDIA

Quoting the Apostle Paul in, "I will tarry until Pentecost; for a great door and effectual is opened unto me, and there are many adversaries." Missionary S. T. Moyer says, "This characterizes the India Mission Field today."—Three or four major factors are responsible for this situation. Politically and socially India is facing a new situation. The adoption of a new Constitution and the activities of politicians are causing social unrest that may lead to an upheaval. The Bible records similar situations, like the Hebrews in Egyptian slavery and Judah under Hezekiah. As there, God's time seems to have come for India.—The restlessness of the suppressed classes helps to augment the present situation. On the one hand is the challenge of Dr. Abdekar, leader of over 60 millions of these people who said, "I was born a Hindu. I could not help that. But I do not intend to die one; for it is in my power to change that." The suppressed millions are ready to follow their leader where-ever he may direct. The Picket Mass Monument Survey, on the other hand, has indicated a way that God may use "in bringing into the present church of six million many of these people." The cumulative effect of Christian work throughout the past century, is the third and most potent factor. The faithful, self-effacing work and sacrificing of missionaries and other Christians has all along left seed that is now coming to increasing fruitage.

At present our India field stands about as follows: In the northern part are five native states, with the Korba Mission Station in the midst of them, where the people have no other way to get the gospel than through our efforts. At the south end are two native states, with 700 villages which, "under God's grace illustrate great open doors that promise much fruit." In this southern field there are today 15 little churches for our 800 adults converts, living in 45 different villages. Approximately 200 have been received into church during the last two years. In this section the Uthal Baptist Mission has turned over to us six of their native churches.—There are other helpful factors, such as the school for Christian boys at Mauhadi, the school for Christian girls at Janjgir, the Bethesda Leper Home at Champa, the Bible School at Janjgir and, in addition, the Christian hospitals at Champa and Basna. "Into this field and into these doorways through which the Gospel message enters human hearts, has been poured a great volume of consecrated effort. God has been at work. Heads have not grown gray in vain. Lives have not been burnt out in vain. Thanks be unto God who always leadeth us in triumph. The triumph is God's—not ours." (Moyer).

The excellence of the Champa Leper Home with its 600 inmates, is well known. In organization, buildings, management, it is one of the finest in all India. And I am wondering whether there is any Mennonite Church in all North America which has such a thoroughly Christian atmosphere and worship and Christian teaching : Divine worship and Sunday school on Sunday; 4-6 cottage evening prayer meetings every day of the week except Sunday, conducted by the lepers; daily morning devotions for the staff; daily morning and evening devotions in the hospital patient wards; an annual six-weeks Bible course, with practically 100 per cent attendance, and systematic offerings from every Christian.—The work of healing sick and maimed and wounded human bodies is an important phase of the service on the India field. Doctor Bauman, at Champa, and Doctor Dester at Basna, with their co-workers, are annually treating tens of thousands and performing hundreds of operations.

The India Field allotted to us lies in the Central Province. It has an area of about 8,145 square miles, a population nearly 1½ million, living mostly in 2500 villages and towns. Our five mission stations form a line north to south of about 85 miles. Pretty well to the north lies the Korba station; 25 miles south of it lies Champa station with the Leper Home and Christian hospital; about three miles west of here lies Janjgir station, 25 miles south of this the Birra station, and 35 miles still further south, the Basna station. The major portion of the area has the valleys of the Maka and Hasdeo rivers embossomed. There are three seasons: Mar. 15 to June 15, the hot season, with temperature rising to as high as 122 F.; June 16th to Sept. 15 the rainy (monsoon) season, with about 50 inches of rain; Sept. 16 to March 15th the cool season, with lowest temperature at 45 F. Snowfall and ice on rivers and ponds is unknown. The staple product is rice. When it fails, famine sets in. In the north and south there are heavily wooded areas that are inhabited by tigers, leopards, hyenas, wolves, bears, and monkeys, which cause considerable havoc. Cattle and sometimes men and women are killed.

The working staff.—Including the missionaries on furlough in the U. S. and those now going there, there are:

30 workers from America, 17 women and 13 men. 160 native helpers, 73 of whom are doing evangelistic work; 36 educational work; 38 medical work; 7 institutional work, and 6 industrial work, making a grand total of 190 workers.—To each of the American missionaries fall approximately 50,000 people; to each missionary and native worker assigned about 7450 people; to each of the church members of our church and other Christians residing among our members fall 700 persons. Should we not "pray the Lord of the harvest, that he will send laborers into his harvest?"

Christian Constituency and Activities.—There are 8 Christian Churches including the Leper Home church, 68 villages having some Christians, 1,962 adult members in our mission churches, 79 resident members belonging to other churches and missions, 1009 unbaptized children and young people.

There are 6 main mission stations, with missionaries and Indian workers; 30 outstations, with Indian workers only; 3 educational outstations, with an enrollment of 78; 9 primary schools on stations, with an enrollment of 542; middle schools on two stations, with an enrollment of 144; 110 villages touched by evangelistic and educational workers; 4001 Zenana visits; 13 Sunday schools, with 1623 scholars, 136 officers and teachers; 8 C. E.'s with 222 members; one worker's Bible class, with an enrollment of 35; one W. C. T. U.; one boys' orphanage, with an enrollment of 15; one girls' orphanage, with an enrollment of 15, and other auxiliary organizations, such as Girl's Guides, Blue Birds, Weaver's Association, etc. There are also: One boarding school for boys, with an enrollment of 86; a boarding school for girls, with an enrollment of 74, and two mixed boarding schools, with an enrollment of 67.

Of the inmates of the Leper Home, 380 are Christians, 215 non-Christians. 462 take special treatment. In 1937 fifteen were discharged as relatively cured, while the total number thus cured is 109. There are 14 untainted boys and 33 untainted girls. As to the medical work in operation, there are 6 dispensaries and two hospitals. There were 14,817 registered treatments and 1419 inpatients. But there are huge numbers of patients who obtain minor and one can say major treatments, whose names never get on registration cards.

The Industrial Work carried on consists of weaving, sewing, knitting, crocheting, embroidering, farming, horticulture, carpentry, smithery lines in some measure. To the encouragement of the missionaries such work is encouraged by the government.

Truly, we in the homeland have great reason to thank God and our mission workers for the wonderful results that have been accomplished in China and India in a little more than a third of a century. May God bless the seed thus far sown, that in due time it may bear fruit, sixty-fold or even a hundred-fold.

A Word to Friends of Bethel College

"We are nearing the goal," wrote David Goerz a quarter of a century ago, "of the twenty-five year existence of the Bethel College corporation. How would it be if every corporation member would bring a thanks offering of $25.00 in order to provide a desired relief for our school funds." Rev. Goerz evidently felt that such would be the most effective, sincere expression of gratitude. Then he suggested that every student and former student should consider it a matter of honor to contribute at least $25 or any amount that could be divided by 25 for this cause.

Since that anniversary our gracious heavenly Father has richly blessed Bethel College another 25 years, making a total of 50 years.

Some time ago a missionary lady across the seas sent in $50 as her jubilee offering for this purpose. The other day some one suggested that if a person cannot make it $50 he can possibly bring fifty 50-cent pieces.

The pastor of one of our country churches urges that it shall be a week of thanks*giving*. Let no man come empty handed is his plea. Your gifts, farm products, poultry, live stock, grain, canned food, as well as money may be brought any time during anniversary week, October 9 to 15.

That this anniversary falls in a year in which conditions are very "tight" materially, is beyond our control. May God strengthen us so we shall not be deprived of real thanks*giving*.

Even though you are unable to give, you are all invited to all meetings from Sunday night to Wednesday night. Everything is free except the great pageant on the last night.

Friends coming from a distance may contact J. M. Regier to receive assignments for free lodging.

President of Board of Directors.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

In the Announcement — BUNDESBOTE and MENNONITE, No. 37, the Reception Committee for the Western District Conference gave the place of meeting at the EDUCATIONAL BUILDING, Corner of Independence and Market, Enid, Oklahoma.

Regarding the session of the Western District Conference in Enid.

The Reception Committee wishes to announce that delegates or guests to the Mennonite Conference coming to Enid on Tuesday afternoon or night, Oct. 18th and desiring an assignment to a hotel, tourist cabins, or home, will be met by the registration committee in the EDUCATIONAL BUILDING on Independence and Market and directed to their lodgings.

Cordially, the Reception Committee: H. U. Schmidt, J. W. Bergen, H. N. Harder.

Jacob and Dina Meschberger

The fiftieth anniversary of the wedding of Brother and Sister Jacob Meschberger near Calumet, Okla., should be of more than passing interest to readers of the Mennonite. All children, all but one of the grandchildren, all great-grandchildren, besides many friends from far and near, were present for this festive occasion; but that which makes this occasion of more than passing interest is the fact that Brother and Sister Meschberger were active for a number of years in the mission at the time of the inception of this work among the Indians in Oklahoma, or Indian Territory, as it was then called.

Brother Meschberger is a native of Berne, Ind. He was influenced by his pastor, the Rev. S. F. Sprunger to enter the mission work which was then being inaugurated among the Indians in the Indian Territory. Bro. Meschberger came to Darlington, I. T. in 1882 to help in the erection of a mission house to replace the one which had been recently built and destroyed by fire. Besides that, it was his duty to train the boys who were attending the school in the art of agriculture—for an art it was to these nomads of the prairies. The very next year, 1883, the work was expanded by establishing another mission school at Cantonment, about 75 miles north-west from Darlington. Bro. Meschberger was one of those who went with Superintendent and Mrs. S. S. Haury to Cantonment to be the pioneers at this place. Father Meschberger has many and interesting incidents to relate in this connection.

In 1885 Miss Dina Luginbuehl, who was born in Ohio but was raised near Versailles, Mo., came to Cantonment, together with Mrs. Anna Haury as mission employees. The latter was assigned to a position at Cantonment, while Miss Luginbuehl was given the position as seamstress at the Darlington mission school. However, in 1888 she was united in marriage with Mr. Meschberger and was assigned a position at the Cantonment school, where they labored together till 1891, when they resigned and established a home in the vicinity of El Reno, Okla., their present address being Calumet, Okla.

Brother and Sister Meschberger have retained a warm heart for missions and the Lord's work in general. The word spoken by the Lord to Abraham may fittingly be applied in this case: "I will bless thee and make thee a blessing."

Hymnology

The late Dr. David R. Breed gave the following reasons for a study of hymnology as listed by Mr. Harvey B. Marks in his book, "The Rise and Growth of English Hymnology."

First, a view of truth through hymns is gotten better than in any other way, so that one cannot easily rid his mind or heart of its teaching by modern anti-scriptural or anti-church influences. The doctrinal teaching of the hymns is so clear and explicit that it commends itself to the minds of the people. Second, the literature of the hymn makes for spiritual comfort and help. Third, literary quotations in sermons are most effective either in the middle or at the end of the sermon. The hymns furnish abundance of appropriate material for such quotations. Fourth, the truth is presented in a way that children can comprehend; and while most simple in words and expression, yet, at the same time, it is profound and deep in meaning.

The great hymn, "Holy, Holy, Holy, Lord God Almighty," by Reginald Heber, sung to the tune, "Nicaea" by John Bacchus Dykes, well illustrates these points. This great hymn to the trinity is a paraphrase of Revelation 4:8-11. Lord Tennyson is said to have told Bishop Welldon that he thought it one of the finest hymns ever written, taking into consideration its purity of language, its devotion; its spirituality and the difficulty of treating such an abstract theme poetically.

"Nicaea" was composed for this hymn by Doctor Dykes. The tune received its name, because of the fact that the doctrine of the Trinity was definitely established at the famous Council held at Nicaea, in Asia Minor in 325. It was at this same Council that the Nicene Creed was adopted.

REVERENCE FOR GOD

Ex. 20:7; Matt. 5:33-37; 12:33-37

God's Name To Be Used Sacredly Ex. 20:7

The third commandment forbids uttering God's name for falsehood, vanity and all false swearing. It forbids trifling with His name, using it in any frivolous, light, thoughtless and insincere manner. It forbids all profane use of His name, for this shows an absolute lack of all reverence for God, which is the underlying principle of this commandment, which principle is violated by all profane swearing. The soul that has no reverence for God, loses much of the rich meaning of life. The knowledge of God and faith in Him, will make for reverence toward Him and all things sacred. The needless use of His name, even in prayer, lessens the sense of reverence.

Speech be Truthful, Simply Spoken, Matt. 5:33-37

Jesus fully recognized the divine authority of the Law of Moses. He did not do away with it. He enlarged its application, amplified its meaning. The religious teachers of Israel put their interpretation on the written law. These forbade swearing to a falsehood —forswearing—(v33) but it was allowable to swear if they performed their oaths. Perjury was forbidden then, even as now.

Jesus was correcting a great evil of his day (vs 34-36). So many regulations concerning swearing had been invented that hardly anything was regarded as an oath if God's name was not used in it. He does away with all swearing, both formal oath and profanity. The use of the oath implies a double standard of veracity in speech. Jesus sweeps this away and teaches that we should have reverence not only for God, but also for that which He has made. There is nothing by which one can rightly swear. All oaths are presumptuous on our part. Our speech is to be truthful, direct and simple (v37), so much so, that our yes is freely accepted as yes, without the use of an oath or any other emphasis. Our veracity should be such as to make all oaths needless and profane. Anything beyond the simple yes and no arises out of the untruthfulness of human speech.

Pure Speech Comes From Pure Heart, Matt. 12:33-37

The Pharisees had just said that Jesus cast out devils by the prince of the devils (v24). Jesus is saying that it is not logical that the fruit of a tree could be good and the tree be corrupt (v33) neither could a wicked man do the good deeds He has been doing. Fruits tell. The Pharisees were so disbelieving and suspicious, they would not recognize Jesus as the Son of God in spite of all evidences proclaiming Him as such. Words, speech indicate the heart condition (v34). God knew the hearts of the Pharisees. They could not deceive Him with fair speeches, nor can we today.

The heart of a good man is a treasure house of good things—divine trust, love, reverence for God. The sinner has his treasury of evil in his heart. Our words and acts reveal that stored there. It is so essential that we keep our hearts pure, reverent, holy. Jesus makes clear that there is a day of reckoning coming (v36) in the which an account must be given of idle, worthless and unworthy words in which there is an element of evil. Such words are a sure index of the state of the heart, more so even, than deliberately spoken words. Jesus sets a high standard of reverence which must reveal itself in speech. Our character is essentially spiritual in nature. God would have our heart so filled with His Spirit that in all of life we would show true reverence for Him.

Historical Survey of the School Cause

Presented at the Dedication of Bethel College
September 20, 1893

We shall limit our review to a period of 33 years and begin with the founding of the Christian Educational Institution at Wadsworth, Ohio, concerning which we find, in the resolutions of the first General Conference, held at West Point, Iowa, in May 1860, the following information:

Resolved, that a Theological School be established, as soon as this can be done in the brotherhood. The name, theological school, however, does not seem to have made a favorable impression, for at the next Conference in May, 1861, at Wadsworth, O., there was added to the above resolution rather lengthy explanations, as justification of the suggested name, which, however, was finally dropped and replaced by the name: Christian Mennonite School. In the explanations alluded to, we read: "We are, above all, sorely in need of a Christian Mennonite School, as a foundation for the union of our Mennonite divisions, as well as for the spreading of the Kingdom of God, or Missions. The further discussion of the school problem then resulted in the resolution: "That the traveling preacher of the General Conference be instructed to gather subscriptions as contributions toward the establishment of a Mennonite school." Rev. Daniel Hege of the Summerfield Menn. Church, devoted himself to this work faithfully and honestly, until his death, which, unfortunately, occurred all too early in 1862. In October, 1866, the newly erected school building at Wadsworth, O., which cost something in excess of $12,000, could be dedicated, but not given over to its use until the spring of 1867. With the death of Brother Hege there seems to have been left a perceptible gap in the circle of workers for the solicitation of funds for the projected school. For at the next Conference, held immediately after the dedication, a deficit of $2000.00 was reported. Six years later, in 1872, the burden of debt had increased to $4000.00, and at the Conference in 1875 to $8000.00. To these financial difficulties were, in the course of years, added inner difficulties, and in the year 1878 the Conference, forced by necessity, passed the resolution, to sell all the school property and thus bring to a close the activities of the 10-11 year old school, to the great regret of school friends in our churches. For, in spite of the financial failure, the school had been a great blessing and a definite help to a considerable number of brethren from our churches. And even to this day our churches are experiencing the blessings that have flown from the Wadsworth School.

Meanwhile new life germinated out of the ruins. For, scarcely had the funeral bells of the Wadsworth school ceased tolling, when out on the prairies of Kansas new life in the school cause began to unfold. In fact, the Kansas Conference owes its beginning in 1877 to the agitation of the school cause. And up to the time of the transition of the Kansas Conference to the Western Conference, the school cause formed one of the main topics of discussion.

The result of the efforts of the Kansas Conference in school matters was the founding of the "Fortbildungsschule" (which may mean a continuation or preparatory school), in 1882. How intimately even before the opening of the Fortbildungsschule the activities of the Kansas Conference in school matters link up with those of the General Conference, may be seen from the following resolution of the Third Kansas Conference of 1879: "Since the Kansas Conference has learned that it is incumbent upon the Mission Board of the General Conference to begin a Mission school in the west, in the place of the defunct Mennonite Educational Institution at Wadsworth, Ohio, it is desirable for the Kansas Conference, to see its Fortbildungsschule united with the Mission School, in case such a school, even though only temporarily, can be moved to Kansas.

The Fortbildungsschule was opened in a school house furnished by the Alexanderwohl church for that purpose. In the fall of 1883, it was moved to Halstead, Kansas, where the "Halstead College Association" had very kindly prepared school buildings which it placed at the disposal of the Kansas Conference gratuitously for a period of five years, and after the termination of that period rented them to the Conference cheaply. In spite of the fact that the school had no care for the provision of quarters, its expenses greatly exceeded its income year after year, so that the annually recurring deficits of the school treasury had to be carried along as a heavy burden. This burden fell almost entirely to the lot of the Kansas churches, since the General Conference as well as the Western District Conference declined to share in the Halstead school financially. The Kansas churches carried this burden loyally until a new way was opened, through the development and execution of the Bethel College project. In this way it again became possible to obtain general participation also of congregations in other states. Now the burden of the maintenance costs of the school is to be carried by the current income of the school and an endowment fund of $60,000, in which latter part school friends from the east and west, north and south are participating.

Now, just as the efforts toward the founding of the Fortbildungsschule linked up with the efforts in the school project of the General Conference, so, but only more intimately do the efforts of the Bethel College undertaking tie up, not only with those of the General Conference but also with those of the Fortbildungsschule. For in the lap of the Fortbildungsschule lies the germ out of which Bethel College has developed.—The name Bethel College has been given by the Committee of the Kansas Fortbildungsschule the organization of the Bethel College Corporation proposed by the Kansas Conference, and the work of the Fortbuildungschule transferred to Bethel College.

The Bethel College course is an extension of the course of the "Fortbildungsschule," the work of Bethel College a continuation of that of the Fortbildungsschule, and the Bethel College buildings an extension of those of the Fortbildungsschule, as they stand here on the campus side by side, to supplement or complete each other and together form a whole.

May the blessings that have rested on the Fortbildungsschule descend also on Bethel College, so that the Bethel School may become a lasting blessing to our churches, in that spirit that manifested itself in the resolutions of the first General Conference, in the spirit that has also helped foster the the Fortbildungsschule, and which we pray may also in the future animate our churches and our school friends.—Translated by J. R. T.

The University Christian Mission Now Under Way

by Jesse M. Bader, New York City

National Director—University Christian Mission

For many weeks a committee with Dr. John A. Mackay, chairman, has been preparing for a series of University Missions to the campuses of America to be held this autumn and next spring. In all, twenty-seven campuses will be visited during this academic year. The magnitude of this enterprise can be seen, in part at least, when it is realized that on these twenty-seven campuses there is an enrollment of 130,000 students. One week will be spent on each campus.

The University Christian Mission has one supreme objective—to lead students and teachers to a vital faith in God as revealed in Jesus Christ, the Savior and Lord of Life and to a thorough personal commitment to His cause in the world. Such an objective is timely and appropriate in these days when foundations are crumbling in so many parts of our world. Evidence multiplies, in colleges and universities throughout the country, that the time is ripe for a fresh religious movement. Many students are seeking a controlling life-purpose and an inner satisfaction which they do not possess. Aimless living is palling upon some, who now seek an abiding loyalty for their lives. Some seek light on the perplexing situation in which their lives are involved; growing numbers are addressing themselves to religious leaders, concerned to know what Christianity is and what it has to offer; some are consciously looking for a Leader in whom they may believe utterly, and for a Cause to which they may commit themselves with confidence and sacrificial abandon. Many more American students are in a mood of vague wistfulness and are open to a vital presentation of the Christian message, while the number of those who actively oppose or show a callous indifference toward all religion seems to be declining.

The officers of the National Committee are:

Honory Chairman—Mary E. Wooley, Westport-on-Lake Champlain, New York

Chairman—John A. Mackay, Princeton, N. J.

Vice-Chairman—Mary E. Markley, Washington, D. C.

National Director—Jesse M. Bader, New York City

Campus Secretary—Paul J. Braisted, New York City.

The University Christian Mission schedule for this autumn and next year is:

University of Oregon at Eugene and Oregon State College at Corvallis—October 2-7

University of Washington at Seattle — October 9-14

Colorado University at Boulder and State Teachers' College at Greeley—October 16-21

University of Kansas at Lawrence—October 23-28

University of Iowa at Iowa City—October 30-November 4

University of Illinois at Champaign, Ill.—November 6-11

Nebraska University at Lincoln—November 13-18

Kansas State Agricultural College at Manhattan—November 20-23

Tuskegee Institute at Tuskegee, Ala. and Alabama State College at Montgomery—November 27-December 2

Pennsylvania University at Philadelphia—December 5-8

Virginia University, Charlottesville—January 29-February 3

Atlanta University, Morehouse College and Spelman College at Atlanta—February 12-17

University of Pittsburgh, Pittsburgh; Pennsylvania College for Women, and Carnegie Institute of Technology—February 12-17 (held simultaneously)

Kentucky University and Transylvania College at Lexington—February 19-24

Penn State College at State College—February 26-March 3

Washington State College at Pullman—March 5-10

California University at Berkeley—March 12-17

A very remarkable group of speakers has been assembled for this autumn's Missions. The speakers for next year are being invited now, hence this list cannot be given here. Dr. E. Stanley Jones, who had such a large share in the success of the National Preaching Mission has come home from India to participate for ten weeks in this enterprise. T. Z. Koo, who is so widely and favorably known in student circles, will give seven weeks to this work. Dr. Koo also made an invaluable contribution to the National Preaching Mission. Margaret Grace Bondfield of London will help on two campuses.

(Following this is a list of 39 more distinguished speakers is given, which we cannot give for lack of space. Among them is Dr. T. O. Wedel, New York City, son of C. H. Wedel, first president of Bethel College.—Editor.)

The Denominational Boards which have work on the campuses, are giving excellent cooperation as is also the Y. M. and Y. W. C. A. organizations.

On the Saturday preceding each Mission a Retreat will be held. It will be attended by the National speakers and the members of the local Campus Committee. On Sunday mornings the speakers will preach in the local church pulpits.

It should be borne in mind that the University Christian Mission speakers are not going to all these campuses to give a series of lectures or entertain these great student bodies. On the contrary, they are going to these young people of our homes and churches to present the claims of Christ upon their lives and to challenge them to enlist in the bringing in of His imperishable Kingdom upon the earth.—The National Committee is concerned that this Mission shall begin and continue in the spirit and power of prayer. It therefore requests all pastors and churches of all denominations to remember this enterprise in intercessory prayer. The period of the autumn Missions is from October 2 to December 8. Pray for these speakers—pray for the students bodies and faculties—pray that a spiritual revival may visit these campuses and that Christ shall be made Lord over both the minds and hearts of all the students visited, and that the Kingdom of God shall come and His will be done on the campuses of America and throughout the wide world.

THE COOKIE JAR

The day was long; the burden I had borne
Seemed heavier than I could longer bear.
And then it lifted—but I did not know
Some one had knelt in prayer.

God's Help on Problems

Dan. 6:10; Mark 14:32-39

Young People's Topic for Oct. 23, 1938

Meditations:

M., Oct. 17. Paul's lifelong problem. 2 Cor. 12: 7-10.
T., Oct. 18. Peter's problem. Acts 4:19, 20.
W., Oct. 19. A soul in distress. Ps. 22:1-15.
T., Oct. 20. Telling God his need. Ps. 31:1-15.
F., Oct. 21. Jesus' prayer in need. Matt. 11:16-30.
S., Oct. 22. Problems of living. Isa. 46:3, 4.

Suggested Hymns

"God is our Helper Ever Near," "Just for Today"

Let us thank God for the glorious witness of people all around us who live beautiful and useful lives, who achieve noble character and serve the common good. These souls are God's noblemen among us. Many of us that falter along the way wonder how it is that the lives of some can be as fruitful as they are and have been.

The reason for triumphant living is God's help! All of us ought to learn the lesson that Paul learned in dealing with his "thorn in the flesh"—the lesson of higher dependence. Paul felt that his own powers were insufficient, but the spirit of God spoke to him saying: "My grace is sufficient for thee."

Program suggestions:

A. Assigns stories out of the Old Testament in which God definitely helped various leaders in Israelite history.
  1. The story of Daniel. God's help is interpretting the king's dream, God's protection in the den of lions.
  2. The story of David showing God's help to him from youth to later manhood.
  3. The story of Jonah telling God's commission to him and His protection for him.
  4. Others that may be used are: Noah, Gideon, Samson, Joseph and Job.

B. Have someone collect present-day incidents of miraculous help to missionaries on the foreign field.

C. Present the topic of "Prayer" as the means by which we can tap the unlimited resources of God's help. In this connection it would be well to study the model prayer.

D. Discuss the advisability of a prayer calendar list. Have your program committee make a daily prayer calendar for the various missionaries on the home and foreign field. You could write to the secretary of the home and foreign mission board for information.

E. Discuss practical ways of cooperating with your local pastor in a real revival of "prayer week," so that a program of prayerful living the year around will result.

INTERMEDIATE DEPARTMENT

Youth's Emeny

Intermediate C. E. Topic, Oct. 30, 1938

For Daily Study

Oct. 24 Alcohol, creator of poverty. Prov. 21:17; 23:20, 21
Oct. 25 Alcohol cheers to destroy. Amos 6:1-7
Oct. 26 Alcohol and its slaves. Isa. 5:11-16, 22
Oct. 27 Alcoholic sleep and tears. Joel 1:1-8
Oct. 28 Alcohol and is dangetrs. Luke 21:34-38
Oct. 29 Alcohol kills the soul. I Cor. 6:10; Gal. 5:21
Oct. 30 Topic—Alcohol: Enemy of Youth. Prov. 20:1, 23:29-35

Pre-prayer Circle

Read I Cor. 6:19, 20. Pray that the meeting may help each one who comes to have a deeper understanding of his responsibility toward his own body as God's temple to keep it pure and clean.

Suggested Songs: "True-Hearted, Whole-Hearted," "Who Is On the Lord's Side," Holy Ghost, with Light Divine."

Society Announcements

Quiet Worship

Announce the topic of meeting.
Leader: "Who shall ascend into the hill of the Lord, Or who shall stand in his holy place?"
Response: (printed on blackboard) "He that hath clean hands and a pure heart."
Scripture reading: Prov. 20:1; 23:29-35.
Song: "Yield not to Temptation."
Ps. 1 (repeated in unison)
Prayer by three members asked before the meeting.
Song: "In the Hour of Trial."

Thoughts for the Leader

Compare what is being done to fight such enemies of youth as disease, ignorance, unemployment with the attitude of people in responsible positions toward the alcoholic enemy. Enumerate different ways in which alcohol attacks youth. How do you account for the indifferene of such people? Is it eonomic, social or entirely selfish reason or all three?

Discussion of Topic (Assign in advance)

To fortify ourselves we need the educational and the spiritual angle of the problem.

What Alcohol Does to Us.

1. How does alcohol become a mocker? Prov. 20:1. What is a mocker? No one likes to be fooled or be made a fool. "A drunken man in a trolley car by his absurd remarks was setting all the passengers in a roar, except one small boy and a minister. The small boy seeing that the minister did not laugh, went over to him and said, 'If they knew what drink had done to our home they would not laugh'." Give your illustrations of the truth of this proverb.
2. How does alcohol affect our efficiency? From what activities are you barred if you drink? How does it affect your chances of employment. Yost, our great football and athletic coach says, "I know the evil effects of alcohol on the moral and physical life of anyone who uses it. I have never observed any good from the use of it. I would not waste my time trying to train or develop one who uses alcohol."
3. How does alcohol destroy life. Mention as many ways as you can. Alcohol has become destructive in the driver of automobiles. How many deaths can you count in your vicinity that were caused by the influence of alcohol since January 1, 1938? New York City reports that forty per cent of the automobile fatalities in 1937—pedestrian and driver—were due to drinking. Would the percentage be lower in your city or state. What attempts are being made to combat this evil and how successful are they?

4. Alcohol breeds disease. The habit forming character of alcohol is without question its worst effect upon the human system. How does it differ from other habits? What are some of the diseases caused by the use of alcohol? Some of the worst diseases known to man are caused by the use of alcohol, others are spread while people are under its influence. Dr. Howard Kelly, noted physician and scientist says: There is no diseases for which alcohol is a cure . . . It does undeniably cause thousands of cases of disease.

The Christian Attitude Toward Alcohol

1. What is Christian temperence? II Peter 1:5-8. Some one has defined temperance as, total absistence from the use of things harmful, and moderation in everything else. Is this Christian? Where would alcohol fall under this definition.
2. On what basis should a Christian refuse to drink intoxicating liquors? I Cor. 3:16, 17. What would you think of a person who deliberately defaced a church building, broke windows, or destroyed the furnishings? Our bodies are more sacred to God than any temple made with our hands.
3. What is our responsibility towards others in regard to drinking? "No man liveth unto himself." 1 Cor. 8:13. How may our example be the downfall of another?
4. When is the temptation to drink most difficult to resist? I Cor. 15:33. How can you escape yielding to it?

Closing Moments

Leader: "I will remember that my body is God's house, and will try to be a good housekeeper."—Cecil Trout Blancke.

Song: "O Jesus, I Have Promised."

Benediction: "Bethany Blessing."

JUNIOR CORNER

"Who Am I That I Should Go?"

Ex. 3:11

Leaders' heart preparation: Moses answered God: "Who am I that I should go?" Saul's reaction to the call unto kingship was: "Am not I of the smallest of the tribes of Israel and my family the least of all the families of the tribe of Benjamin?" Jeremiah answered his call with: "Ah, Lord Jehovah! behold, I know not how to speak; for I am a child."

Surely you have thought of the future of your group. Surely you believe that God has a definite plan for each human life. He said to Jeremiah: "Before I found thee, I knew thee; before thou camest forth, I sanctified thee; I have appointed thee." Have you taken time to dream about your group?—to dream even greater things than Faith Baldwin's school teacher in the October issue of Good Housekeeping? What has little shy Ann been appointed to and the ever-disturbing-Robert-who-cannot-sit-still? Oh! How great is our task! To be used of God in the preparation of future "tools" in the work of His kingdom. Should this not lead us to much more prayer and to more willingness to give time and strength in the preparation of each program. Someday we shall see the fruit of our labor and then "the sower and the reaper will rejoice together." Though we feel weak, God is strong.

Before meeting your group on this evening, think of the future that may be, bring each child before the heart of God and let your own soul be kindled with love for it. With this preparation, in the heart-talk period, take the children with you into this "land of dreams." Show them the possibility of their appointment to one task or the other and challenge them to the opportunity of the preparation time: that they must do all tasks assigned them with joy, that they must obey parents and teachers who are helping to prepare them for the task to which, someday, they will be called.

Program Suggestions for October 30, 1938

Call to Worship: Quiet music

Worship Service

1. Sing in unison: "I Will Sing the Wondrous Story." Verses 1, 2, 3, 5
2. Responsive reading: Matt. 25: 34-45
3. Leader's prayer
4. Prayer in unison: "More Love to Thee, O Christ." Verse one

Mission Minutes: Select the two children participating in extreme of front pews. One could be dressed in foreign costume. When mission minutes have been announced, let the one in costume rise and walk to the front singing, "Tell Me the Old, Old Story" verse one. When finished, the second one rises and walks toward the first singer, singing, "I Love to Tell the Story" verse one. Facing each other, let the one in costume sing verse two of "Tell Me the Old, Old Story" and the other answer with verse two of "I Love to Tell the Story." A third junior then rises and steps between the two reading Isa. 6:8.

Study Period. Aim: To teach readiness for service

1. Chairman's introduction of the study with Psalm 16:11
2. The Need of a Helper: by a junior giving the picture of Israel in bondage and the need of a deliverer. Ex. 1:7-14. Let this junior close with 2:24, 25 and with the question, "Whom did God choose to be the deliverer?" Let one of the group give the answer.

3. The Helper Moses by four juniors
    a. God saves Moses who, someday, is to be His helper. Ex. 2:1-9
    b. God prepares Moses at Pharaoh's palace. Ex. 2:10; Acts 7:22.
    c. God prepares Moses. Moses sees his people. Ex. 2:11-15.
    d. God prepares Moses in the wilderness. Ex. 2:16-25.
4. Special music: "Have Thine Own Way, Lord." Verses 1 and 2.
5. God calls Moses: Retold by a junior. Ex. 3:1-12.
6. Heart-talks: "Who am I, that I should go?" (See leader's preparation notes above) Jer. 1:4-5.
7. Sing in unison: "Take My Life and Let It Be." Verses 1 and 4.
8. Leader's closing prayer

PACIFIC DIST. Y. P. MISSIONARY PROJECT

The Young People of the Pacific District Conference have joined in an effort to supply the funds for the passage of Kathryn and Aron Janzen to India. This calls for a sum of about $700. Up to the present time $177.78 has been sent in for this purpose. Other churches have funds started. If you have a contribution to make, please send it to John B. Jantzen, Paso Robles, Calif., or the foreign mission treasurer, designating it for "Aaron Jantzen passage to India."

Why not have a KATHRYN and AARON JANTZEN SUNDAY in your S. S. at which time a special offering is taken for this purpose. When you read this paper they will be on their way. It would be gratifying if the full sum could be in the treasury by the time they land in India on Nov. 1. We count it a privilege to thus share in taking the Gospel to India.—Worker's Exchange.

CORRESPONDENCE

Bluffton College News Letter

Bluffton, Ohio

Acting upon the advice of his physician Rev. Arthur S. Rosenberger, president of Bluffton college, resigned as head of the institution at the board of trustees' meeting held on the campus September 26.

The board, realizing the urgency of Rev. Rosenberger's request, released him from the responsibilities involved in the presidency of Bluffton college. It was with sincere regret that the resolution was accepted. Appreciation for his high devotion to and sacrifice for the cause, and his whole-hearted service was expressed by the board.

Special recognition was paid for President Rosenberger's contribution to the college in the form of increased confidence by the church people in the institution. The resolution further stated that the board expresses the sincere wish for a rapid and complete restoration to health and richest blessing for the future.

After the resignation of Rev. Rosenberger was accepted, the board named a committee of three to take over the duties of the president until a successor can be chosen, probably at the next board meeting, November 4. Members of this committee are: Chairman, Dr. J. S. Schultz, dean of the college, Mr. D. W. Bixler, financial agent of the college, and Prof. J. H. Loganbill, college treasurer and dean of men.

A committee named from the trustees to submit nominations for the office of president consisted of Dr. J. S. Slabaugh, Mr. William Mohr, Mr. E. W. Baumgartner, Mr. C. H. Sprunger, Rev. Earl Salzman, Rev. Jerry Sauder and Dr. J. S. Schultz.

Board members attending the meeting were: Mr. Wm. H. Mohr, Bethlehem, Pa., Dr. J. S. Slabaugh, Nappanee, Ind., Rev. Jerry Sauder, Grabill, Ind., Rev. Wilmer Shelley, Wadsworth, Ohio, Mr. O. F. Gilliom, Mr. E. W. Baumgardner, Berne, Ind., Mr. J. R. Fretz, Lansdale, Pa., Rev. Earl Salzman, Topeka, Ind., Dr. B. F. Thutt, Elida, Ohio, Rev. I. R. Detweiler, Bloomington, Ill., Rev. H. T. Unruh and Prof. J. H. Loganbill, Bluffton, Ohio.

Second Menn. Church, Philadelphia, Pa.

God has been good to us at Second Church, Philadelphia. The prayers of this congregation that have gone up to Him asking his guidance in the matter of selecting a successor to Dr. S. M. Grubb have been answered in a most abundant way. Rev. Erland Waltner of Hurley, South Dakota, has answered our call to the pastorate of our little church and preached his first sermon on Sunday, September 11th.

On the afternoon of September 18th, Rev. Waltner was ordained as Elder of our congregation. The visiting speakers were Rev. A. J. Neuenschwander of Quakertown, and Rev. J. J. Plenert of First Church, Phila. Rev. Neuenschwander instructed the congregation in its responsibility to the pastor, and Rev. Plenert the responsibility of the pastor to the congregation. The installation was in charge of Rev. J. J. Plenert, president of the Eastern District Conference, who was assisted by all the visiting ministers of the Conference. Responses were made by Walter M. Landis, Deacon, and Rev. Waltner. The service was a most inspiring occasion, and one which those present will long remember. The many visitors, together with our own members, filled the church to its capacity.

On Wednesday evening, September 28th, a reception for the new pastor was held in connection with our Bible Study and Prayer Service. The members of the First Church, Phila., and the Germantown Church accepted our invitation and helped us give Rev. Waltner a merry welcome. The leaders of each department expressed their felicitations to him, and pledged themselves to cooperate with him in the furtherance of God's Kingdom in our Church. The members of the Ladies' Aid Society distinguished themselves in the way that they prepared the refreshments and decorations for the occasion.

Rally Sunday was observed at all services on October 2nd. The theme for the day was "Like a Tree," Psalm 1:3. The sub-theme for the Sunday School was "Planting;" for the Morning Worship, "Growing;" for the young people's C. E. service, "Spreading," and the Evening Verspers, "Harvesting." Following the evening service an old fashioned Hymn Sing was conducted which closed a busy but very enjoyable day of Rallying.

We are now planning a "Neighborhood Canvas" in the hope that the neighbors of the community may consider our church one in which they may come to worship with us, enjoying the good things that God has in store. Our slogan, "NEIGHBORHOOD CHURCH FOR NEIGHBORHOOD PEOPLE."—Correspondent.

West Swamp Church, Quakertown, Pa.

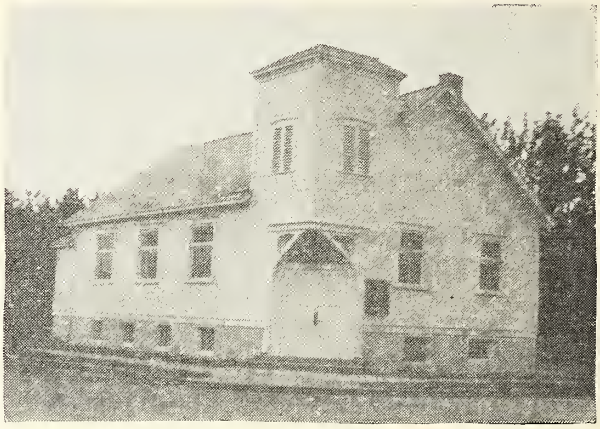
At the close of the summer months it is well to look back and refresh our memories as to the happenings of those months. On Pentecostal Sunday, twelve young boys and girls were baptized as unto the Lord. Two weeks prior six small children were consecrated to the Lord. These services were a real inspirition to the church. These young people will be the future workers of our congregation which can be a great help to them in leading them and guiding their work which they undertake, and helping them to walk justly and rightly in the steps of the Master. Many of these young people attended the Young People's Retreat this summer. This summer our church was represented by more young people at the retreat than at any prior retreat. We feel sure that each one came home with new zeal and vigor to begin and help in the work in the church and its various organizations.

Quite a few of our members were in the Lantz chorus this summer and helped in the success of the concert which was held in the Perkasie Park on July 24th.—Six of our members motored to the General Conference in Canada in August. Everyone came back with wonderful reports of the Conference and everyone enjoyed the trip to the Northwestern part of our continent.

With the beginning of the fall months we naturally think of the gathering in of the harvest and the Harvest Home service, which was held in our church on Sept. 11th. Many gifts were received, mostly canned fruits and vegetables, which were given to the Home for the Aged. A part of our share in the budget for the Home was also given in connection with this service.

On Sunday, Sept. 18th., our neighboring pastor, Rev. Burkholder, gave the message of the afternoon in the absence of our pastor, who had a part in the installation service of Rev. Waltner, in the Second Church, Phila.—The following Sunday, Fall Communion services were held, at which time two new members were admitted to the church and the twelve young boys and girls partook of the sacraments for the first time—Correspondent.

Portland Mission Has Dedication



Alberta Community Church, Portland, Oregon
Recently remodeled

A summer's work was climaxed on Sept. 25 when the Portland Mission, known as the Alberta Community Church, was dedicated to God for worship and service. To see what has been done in one short summer by the small group of members and friends makes one rejoice with the Psalmist when he says, "Oh sing unto the Lord a new song; for He hath done marvelous things!"

The day was one of great blessing. The church was well-filled at each service and Rev. Phil Wedel's message added much to the spiritual blessing of the occasion. We only hope he can come again.

The dedication proper took place at the afternoon session. Five minute talks were given by Edward Leisy, speaking for the Alberta Community Church; Rev. J. M. Franz, chairman of the Evangelization Board of the Pacific District Conference; Rev. Orville Covault, representing the churches of the Alberta district; and Rev. S. S. Baumgartner, member of the Home Mission Board. Rev. Wedel preached the dedicatory sermon and took charge of the dedication ceremony. The choir from the Pratum, Oregon, Church, and William Bartel of Portland furnished the special music.

In the evening Prof. Hollman, prominent soloist and choir director, and head of the music department of the Portland Bible Institute gave us a program of sacred song and testimony, Rev. Wedel again bringing a splendid message.

Our prayer for the Portland Mission Church is expressed in the following hymn of dedication by E. E. Scantlebury:

Father, here a temple in Thy name we build;
Ever may Thy purpose in it be fulfilled.
Circled by Thy kindness, and Thy smile above,
May it stand for worship, service, faith and love.

Here may all who enter, feel Thy presence near,
Here Thy Holy Spirit bring a message clear,
Of Thy Son, beloved, child and youth be taught;
Measured by His standard, character be wrought.

May the sad find comfort, weary ones find rest,
Here the sick and lonely be with friendship blest;
Strength for those who falter, faith for all who doubt,
May Thy love, O Father, bind this place about.

DEATHS

ELMER CARL EWY was born Sept. 19, 1907, in Harvey Co., Kansas and departed this life Sept. 2nd, 1938 at the age of 30 years, 11 months and 14 days.—He lived with his parents 5 miles south of Moundridge, Kansas, until 15 years old, graduated from Belmont High school, and attended Bible School at John Brown College in Siloan Springs, Ark.

Elmer was baptized April 11, 1926. While a child he was always interested in church and Christian Endeavor work. He not only attended church all his life but was an active worker. He taught Sunday School classes willingly, and was not ashamed but glad to confess publicly, Jesus as his personal Savior.

July 18, 1934, he was united in marriage with Tillie Albright. To this happy union two children were born. Virgil Ray, three years, and Kerren Marlane three months old.—The family had been residing at their home in Kingman, Kansas, at the time of his fatal accident.

He leaves to mourn his departure his beloved wife and his two small children; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Ewy; and his sister, Mrs. Alvin Albright; four brothers, Melvin, Nolan, Arlo and Clemens; his wife's parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. G. Albright; 11 sisters and brothers-in-law; 10 nephews and nieces; his grand parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Kaufman; uncles; aunts; cousins; and many other relatives and friends, who loved him dearly.

BERNARD REMPEL, son of Jacob and Augusta Rempel, was born July 3, 1883 at Brudertal, Hillsboro, Kans. He died Sept. 16, 1938 at Nipawin, Sask., at the age of 55 years, 3 months and 13 days.

His childhood was spent at home with his parents, where he attended the rural school and also attended the Hillsboro Bible Academy for several years.—June 4, 1900 he was baptized on his confession by Rev. Wm. J. Ewert and received into membership, of the Brudertal church. He was married to Agnetha Funk, Nov. 19, 1903. In 1908 they moved to Drake, Sask., where he joined in 1911 the North Star church.—After several years they moved to Montana, where they lived about seven years. Then moved back to Drake.—When a new settlement was opened at Nipawin, Sask., they took a claim and made it their home.—Two years ago Sept. 16, he was taken sick. They took him to Prince Albert hospital, where he stayed 9 months. Then was taken home, but could not regain his health.—He loved music and liked to sing, even while he was on his sick bed.

Seven children were born to them, one daughter and one son preceded him in death. They were married 34 years, 10 mo. and 27 days. He leaves to mourn his wife, 5 sons, 3 daughters-in-law, 3 grandchildren, 4 brothers, 6 sisters, many relatives and friends.

I am but a stranger here. Heaven is my home.
Only a so-journer. Heaven is my home.
Danger and sorrow stand, 'Round me on every hand.
Heaven is my Fatherland. Heaven is my home.

JOHN T. GOERING, member of the Hoffnungsfeld church, died at the age of 75 years, 5 months and 26 days in the Bethel hospital at Newton, Kansas, on Sept. 27, 1938. He leaves to mourn, his bereaved wife, five sons and three daughters, 2 daughters-in-law. One daughter-in-law and two children preceded him in death. Besides he leaves 26 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren, one sister, five brothers and many relatives and friends. Words of comfort were spoken at the funeral by Dr. A. Warkentin, Rev. P. P. Tschetter and his pastor, Rev. J. C. Kaufman.

—Mission Mennonite Church, Enid, Okla.—"It may interest the churches to know, especially since the appeal has gone out for funds for a new church in Enid, that the Mennonite Mission of Enid has organized. We have adopted a constitution and elected officers. They are: Deacon, C. B. Schmidt; Trustee, Simon Unruh; Clerk, A. Theodore Mueller. The new name is: Grace Mennonite Church of Enid, Oklahoma. God willing, we shall ask the Western District Conference to receive this church into the Conference.—H. N. Harder.

—Bluffton College.—"Student feeling is extended to President A. S. Rosenberger who was suddenly taken ill last Saturday (Sept. 17) in his home. His absence is being felt on the campus and united hope for a rapid and complete recuperation is sent by the student body and faculty."—In this connection kindly read the letter under CORRESPONDENCE headed, BLUFFTON COLLEGE NEWS BUREAU. May we not unite in prayers of intercession that God may spare the life of this good brother, if it be His holy will.—Editor.—The bookshop, the first of the commercial projects to be installed under the direction of Mr. W. V. Snow of Toledo is now a reality. Ten students do a total of 106 hours of work per week. A second project is soon to be put under way.—A student loan fund has been created by a person who wishes his name withheld. Juniors and seniors may share in this. In addition, 109 students are returning to work as secretaries, assistants, janitors, library, kitchen and campus helpers.—The total registration on Sept. 23 was 270, 195 being regular students. The freshmen number 70.

—Bethel College Campus.—Extensive preparations are in progress for the celebration of the Fiftieth Anniversary of the Corner Stone Laying of the school, Oct. 9-12. See Program in MENNONITE of Oct. 4.—The dwellers on the College Campus have now completed their incorporation into a "third class city." As soon as the Post Office Department in Washington has OK'd the change, Bethel College post office will be North Newton, Kansas. The officers of the new town are: J. E. Regier, mayor, L. C. Kreider, clerk; J. H. Doell, police judge; Paul Baumgartner, E. L. Harshbarger, S. J. Goering, J. J. Voth, J. F. Moyer, councilmen; A. Bartel, marshal.

—Bulletin, St. John Church, Pandora, O.—"If you were offered $1000.00 for every soul you brought to know God through Jesus Christ, would you try? If your church offered $5.00 to some lucky person at every prayer meeting, would you be there? If every church member were just like me, what kind of a church would my church be? Prayer? Missionary? Bible-honoring? Christ-loving? Loving one another?

—Dr. S. K. Mosiman, who lay seriously ill in the Huron Road Hospital in Cleveland several weeks, returned to his home in Bluffton Sept. 22. His many friends will be glad to hear this, in the hope of his complete recovery.

—Geary Mennonite Church, Okla.—"Just recently this church acquired a parsonage conveniently located across the street from the church. It is the former home of Rev. J. S. Krehbiel, first pastor and founder of the Geary church. On Oct. 2, three new members were received into the church by the hand of fellowship, two from the Methodist and one from the Christian denomination. The Ladies' Aid is preparing articles to be sent to Canada.

MARRIED.—On September 7th, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Wedel, Peabody, Kansas, Miss Anna Wedel and Mr. Frank Klein, by the bride's pastor, John C. Kaufman.

—Emmanuel Church, Los Angeles, Calif.—Mrs. D. C. Welty passed away Sept. 30, after many months of severe suffering. Funeral services were in Highland Park, Oct. 3, and she was laid to rest in the cemetery at Upland.

—First Menn. Church, Aberdeen, Idaho.—Rev. P. A. Wedel has recently returned from Portland, Oregon, where he gave the dedicatory address and assisted in the program of the dedication of the fine new (remodelled) church.—Missionary and Mrs. H. J. Brown and son Roland visited Aberdeen enroute to Vancouver, where they took the Empress of Canada to China. They took with them a 1938 Plymouth auto. This was loaded on the top-deck of the ship.

—Brotherhood Meetings.—At a meeting held for that purpose the men of the First Menn. A NEW KIND OF ARMAMENT NEEDED

By the treaty of Versailles the nations of the Central powers had to agree to complete disarmament and the Allied nations half heartedly agreed to follow suite. But they didn't. When Germany's reminder to them to do their duty fell on deaf ears, she started to rearm. This led to that terrible rearmament race which recently brought us to the brink of another war. So the theory advanced by the militarists that the way to keep out of war is to be well armed is a plain falsehood. Agreements, such as the Kellog Pact, or treaties do not check the craze to arm, do not stop wars. Crises, such as the one just passed through, may recur any time. And the world cannot continue plunging from crisis to crisis. It will wear itself out, its inhabitants will become nervous wrecks. To save it we must be subjected to the treatment proposed by the leader of a great nation, "An entirely new spirit must be acquired and enthroned." Yes, a spirit that brings life instead of destroying it, that manifests itself in "all lowliness and meekness, long suffering and forebearing one another in love—forgiving each other if any man have a complaint against any."—Eph. 4:1, Col. 3:13.—The real need of today is spiritual rearmament. Leaders, statesmen and their followers must accept into their lives Jesus Christ, must experience a rebirth, and learn to live lives of honesty, truth, faith and love. Serious minded people everywhere see the need of this more and more. In this work the members of all Christian churches must unite in one great, heroic effort. If these forces were to put the zeal, energy and resourcefulness into this task that we are now compelled to expend on rearmaments and national defense, the dove of peace would soon find many, many places everywhere for its abode.

ONE DAY AT A TIME

"Sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof."—Matt. 6:34.—"Es ist genug, dass ein jeglicher Tag seine eigene Plage habe" ("It is enough that each day have its own vexations," as the German puts it, conveys an added meaning.) In these clouded days with their forbodings of evil from so many directions, this admonition of Jesus should bring comfort to many. Why worry about the YESTERDAY, with all of its cares and troubles, all of its follies and mistakes, which cannot be undone. As some one has aptly said, "All that the yesterday holds of my life—of wrong, of regret, and sorrow—is in the hands of the Mighty Love that can bring honey out of the rock and sweetest water out of the bitterest desert." The best we can do, about it, is to ask God's mercy and forgiveness and forget about it.—As to the TOMORROW, only God knows what it will bring. Before its dawn we may be ushered into His presence. We can be sure of only one thing, that we will fall short of any expectations we may have of things to be accomplished. The day may hold in its grasp perils, adversities, large promises and, more than likely, also failures and poor performances. But worrying about what it may bring, is not likely to change the plan that God has in view for us, except that we may spoil it and make a mess of it. Yesterday is gone beyond recall, tomorrow is not yet, it is wrapt in mystery. The day that is really mine, ours, is TODAY. A man can handle the struggles and resist the temptations of the ensuing day; a woman can carry the burdens for just one day; a child can stand the worries of the passing day. It is only when we thoughtlessly or even willfully add the burdens of the eternities of the yesterday and the tomorrow, forgetting the fact that they are in God's hands, that we are apt to break down. It is the remorse over faults committed yesterday and the fear of what untoward things may happen tomorrow that may haunt us like evil spirits. Therefore it is well to pass through life's journey step by step, one day at a time, and let our merciful heavenly Father take care of yesterday and tomorrow.

The Story of Naaman, the Syrian leper—2 Kings v.—is a beautiful illustration: 1. Of the impartiality of grace, treating alike the great and the small. 2. Of the simplicity of the way of salvation. Whatever mystery there be in the process, the duty is plain. 3. Of the efficacy of Divine ordinances. No inherent power, but all dependent on a divine arrangement. 4. Of the necessity for a complete compliance. No blessing until the seventh immersion. 5. Of the awful contrasts of life. Naaman, the Syrian, healed; Gehazi, the prophet's servant, smitten.

Address of Dr. Theodore O. Wedel

DELIVERED AT THE GOLDEN ANNIVERSARY OF THE CORNERSTONE LAYING OF BETHEL COLLEGE, ON OCTOBER 12, 1938

Dr. Wedel is the son of Prof. C. H. Wedel, the first president of Bethel College

On October 12, in the year of our Lord 1888, a corner stone is laid on a bit of virgin Kansas prairie. It is laid with solemn ceremonies, with prayers and hymns, with spoken hopes and dreams for the far-distant future. This stone is the symbol of many things. A peculiar people called the Mennonites, arrived from Europe only a half generation since, are here setting up a Bethel, a House of God, a landmark symbolizing their trust in a new fatherland, their rootage in a new Canaan, reached after many wanderings. The stone symbolizes sacrifices, the bringing of gifts won by pioneers in the midst of a hard life of breaking sod. The stone symbolizes faith—faith in the God of their fathers who has led them to their new promised land, faith in themselves and their communal loyalties, faith in America and its blessings of freedom and opportunity, faith in their children who are to be inheritors of their sacrifices as pioneers.

Those who laid this stone fifty years ago were humble people. They made little claim to importance in the eyes of the great world. They had no ambition even in founding a college to rival the mighty universities of the land of their adoption. Yet they were a proud people, too, conscious of a glorious tradition which they felt justified in preserving as a sacred trust. The college which they were founding was to be their own Bethel, their own House of God, a school and college where that tradition should find a local habitation, where it could be taught to the generations to come, and from which it could spread its influence out into the surrounding American environment.

I presume, to be sure, that the last mentioned purpose was not yet much to the fore in the minds of those who gathered at this spot fifty years ago. Preservation, nurture, and guarding of their tradition seemed at the moment more important than sharing it with a friendly outside world. The Mennonite people in their difficult course across the four hundred years of their history had rarely met a friendly world. From the first they had been aliens in the land. They had suffered terrible persecutions. They had fled from this persecution from one country to another. They were, and are today in many parts of the world, a nomad folk. Loyalty to Church and conscience as over against loyalty to State had been one of the cardinal tenets of their faith. For this faith they had paid a heavy price—the price not merely of wandering and persecution, but the price of isolation, of lack of fellowship with other streams of Christian life, the price of a feeling of suspicion toward other traditions. As a band of pilgrims in foreign lands they had maintained their integrity only by severe disciplines and by maintaining walls of separation between themselves and their surroundings. Fifty years ago those walls were still standing, largely intact. Their language even here in America was still that which they had brought with them from across the seas. Their leaders had been educated in the European homeland and drew continued inspiration from the thought-world of their past. They were still aliens in a strange new land.

Fifty years have come and gone since the laying of that corner stone. They have been fifty years of change and development such as the Mennonite people have not undergone in any other similar period of their history. Those of riper years who can recall fully this space of time must look back upon it with amazement. The German language has gone or nearly gone. That fact alone is one of profound consequence. No break with tradition can be much more startling than a change in one's mother tongue. A new generation prays to God in new words; it sings new hyms; it reads new books. Traditions have to be translated or else are lost. Isolation, furthermore, has ceased to be a necessity for the Mennonite folk in America. Persecution is nowhere in sight—at least for a while. Here, for the first time in their strange history, they are in the midst of a friendly world. Their American neighbors are astoundingly kind to them. At first, to be sure, there was a period of painful adjustment. I can still recall my first day in the Newton public schools. There were four of us from the Bethel campus, lads seven years old, marching over non-sidewalked roads to the, to us, still strange and alien city. We could speak no English. We felt very queer. I can recall blanching with shame at the epithets hurled at us on the school playing grounds—epithets like "Dutchies" or "Roossians." But embarrassments melted almost overnight. Today they would be absolutely inconceivable. The Mennonites are at home in America. Strive as they may to preserve walls of suspicion and isolation, such walls are melted down in the warm sun of courtesy and mutual appreciation. I travel continuously over the American continent. I mention with pride my Mennonite heritage. Without exception, reference to it is met with tokens of respect.

Yet it is not altogether surprising that members of an older generation are troubled in mind over the changes of these fifty years. The Mennonite genius is one which has thrived hitherto only under persecution. Isolation has been an inseparable condition of preserving its solidarity, its witness to a Christian community life different from that of a secular and worldly society. Success in escaping persecution, so those of an older generation probably feel, may have proved a mixed blessing. Friendliness shown by the surrounding environment may mean loss of identity for the Mennonite people themselves. They have been successful in living within walls. Can they be equally successful when those walls are broken down?

But mere sentiment never determines history. It will not determine the history of the Mennonites in America. I will not determine the history of this college. God surely loves the present as well as the past. Nor does He always limit his blessings to those who are persecuted.

The Mennonites in America are not living any longer under persecution and in isolation. This is simply a fact. Persecution cannot be artifically produced. Nor does it seem to be quite courteous to continue to guard a fortress in times of peace. Separateness will not, of course, entirely vanish, as it does not vanish when a wall is torn down between neighbors. A Mennonite can still remain a Mennonite, with full appreciation of his distinct heritage. But the virtues of isolation will have to give way before the virtues of neighborly sharing. Many peculiarities of custom or of doctrine which served.a useful purpose in the years of alien wandering will seem meaningless to a new generation which lives in settled security. Customs and doctrines which are central to the Mennonite wall of life are being subjected to criticism in America as they were not in the separatist colonies of Russia or Switzerland or Bavaria — a criticism all the more searching because it is kindly and understanding.

In short, the Mennonites, like many another Christian communion are adjusting themselves to a new scene, and a new day. All Church communions in America are passing through great changes, which will inevitably alter their respective views of the future. Isolation has become impossible. The whole Christian world is groping toward a united Christian Church—one in which the ancient warfare of sects is slowly giving way before the vision of the "ecclesia una sancta," the One Holy Apostolic universal Church of the New Testament. We are in the midst of an ecumenical movement. Pathways toward union are beset with many difficulties. Every communion, small and large, will undergo great searchings of heart. What, so it must ask itself, is the fraction of truth for which it is called upon to witness and if necessary to suffer for conscience sake? To what extent must it, too, take its share of blame for the torn and disunited Body of Christ? How can it learn to lay aside the pride of isolation, see the beam in its own eye and join with other communions in a common penitence before the Cross of Christ? The day is surely at hand when no body of Christians, however self-righteous or however convinced of divine sanction for its peculiarities will escape the judgment of God and the call to share its inheritance with brother Christians. New battle-lines are being drawn. Christianity is facing a pagan and hostile world. A united Christendom is once more a necessity. We in America see this battle only on a distant horizon, but we, too, can not escape it. Indeed, it is with us already, could we but open our eyes. And as that battle comes close, all of us will find ourselves fighting shoulder to shoulder with Christian brothers whom we had once looked upon with suspicion. We shall learn to share with them our precious insights into divine truth, nurtured through centuries of isolation. And, in turn, we shall partake of their treasures of God's wondrous grace.

I trust I am not painting an altogether fanciful picture. For myself I am sure that I am not. Nor do I hesitate to assert that in the years of change which lie ahead of us, the Mennonites of America have a burden laid upon them also to share with their Christian brothers the portion of Christian truth which they have soberly nurtured and for which they have borne heroic testimony. It is a burden laid upon this college, this Bethel and Mennonite House of God. Through the years it has been the home of Mennonite education. It has witnessed to the Mennonite tradition and has won a place of honor in the Commonwealth of Kansas. Struggles have beset it as it ventured to adjust the tradition of the founding fathers to the American scene. Further struggles certainly lie ahead. But let it go forward with courage. It, too, cannot belie its vocation——that of being an interpreter of Christian truth to the world.

And as one looks into the future to a time when there shall be again a united Church of Christ in the world, what is the contribution to be offered by the Mennonites? No two replies might agree. I venture mine as that of one who is a minister in another communion, yet also a son of the Mennonite Church, loyal I hope even in apparent exile to its deepest convictions, and proud of his inheritance.

To repeat my question: What is the chief contribution which the Mennonite tradition can bring to an ecumenical Church of Christ. Most superficial observers would point at once to its pacafism, its refusal to share in the guilt of war. I may surprise you when I say that I do not find in this the first thing to boast of in the Mennonit eheritage. To be sure, pacifism, rightly understood, is a noble thing. For want of witnesses to it the Christian Church has committed very great sins. Yet pacifism, divorced from its proper setting, can become meaningless, even a vicious and unchristian thing. We are told in the Gospel to love our enemies. A mere refusal to fight an enemy, however, is no guarantee that we have fulfilled that heart-searching law. I may refuse to fight out of purely selfish motives—love of pleasure and of ease, indifference toward right and wrong. Much of the pacifism current in America in recent years will stand condemned before God at Judgment Day. I venture to suggest that even some of the pacifism of the Mennonites has been guilty of Pharisaic pride. We have not ceased to be sinners simply because we have somehow escaped, be it through legal exemption or through emigration, the awful burden of serving the nation in time of war. We may merely have permitted some one else to carry this burden in our place. Many a Christian soldier, dying on a battlefield with a prayer of penitence and forgiveness in his heart will sit higher in the kingdom of heaven than any of us. Nor must it be forgotten that the pacifism of the Mennonites was not an isolated tenet of faith. It was a by-product of a much more fundamental doctrine—that of a radical separation between the Church and the State, or between the Church and the world. Taking arms was wrong, but so was serving the worldly State in other ways. The Mennonite of tradition was afraid of worldliness in all its forms. He was afraid of wealth, of the life of commerce which might lead to wealth, of the pleasures which were the lures of wealth. The typical Mennonite of the past four hundred years was a countryman, simple and sober in manner and dress, church going, God fearing at home and abroad, avoiding the evils of city life by not living in cities, avoiding the entanglements of secular society by refusing to share the responsibility of ruling secular society as the State of necessity must. As a Mennonite he could not be a soldier, nor even a policeman. His rule of life, theoretically and partly at least in practice, was the Sermon on the Mount. To be sure, he ran into difficulties, as did his religious cousin the Quaker. He was thrifty, and wealth came to him despite himself. His children did not always want to be farmers. Worldliness could be kept at bay in outward forms, but worldly thoughts and desires could not. Original sin is a pretty stubborn enemy in the human heart. Gossip flourished on the farm as in the neighboring town. I do not wish to belittle in the least the virtues of my forefathers, but I do not wish to exaggerate their saintly qualities either. They gave heroic testimony to a portion of Christian truth. But other Christian traditions have given heroic testimony also. Some day these will all, we hope, be woven as strands into the whole garment of Christ.

But if pacifism, at least when divorced from its setting, is not the chief glory of the Mennonite tradition, just what is? I shall come to it in a moment. But before I do, let me point to a parallel to it in earlier Church history. More than one historian has pointed out that the Mennonites, the Quakers, the Moravians and similar Church bodies correspond in the Protestant world to the monastic orders of medievil and so-called Catholic Christianity. There has always been in the Christian tradition a tension between those who have felt themselves called upon in the service of Christ to flee the world, and those who felt themselves called to serve Christ in the world. You can find the tension in the New Testament. St. Paul refused to marry and urged his early converts not to marry. Yet he did not condemn those who did marry. The monk and the nun through long centuries of Church life witnessed to a similar vocation to a full dedication to Church and God. They, too, were complete pacifists, completely cut off from the life of secular society. The medieval monastery was in theory at least, a living example to the Church itself of her own real vocation, that of being a divine society on earth, living by standards other than those of the world. Property was communal. Worship of God and service to the community replaced the competitive life of trade and of gain going on outside its walls. Nor can any student of history deny that during the dark and barbarous centuries of the Middle Ages the great monastic communities did keep alive the concept of the Church and of the Christian life as something dedicated to God and not to the rulers of this world. The Church always has been a thing set apart in the world as something other than the world. The Church, whenever it has kept a sense of its mission, has never permitted itself to be confused with secular society or the secular State—not even the Christian State.

Now, of course, a parallel between medieval monasticism and the group of Protestant communions to which the Mennonites belong must not be pressed too far. The typical Mennonite colony of the past four hundred years was very different from a medieval abbey or a convent. Yet its function has often been quite similar. For here, too, was a group of people dedicating their communal life to God rather than to the State. They, too, were pacifists. They, too, were self-denying as regards worldly wealth and worldly pleasure. They, too, were a brotherhood attempting to live according to the Sermon on the Mount rather than the ruthless laws of commercial competition. They, too, were conscious of a vocation to assert the rights of the Church as against the world.

One danger, of course, has lurked in the Mennonite tradition, as it did in the ascetic life of the Middle Ages—the danger of assuming that its way of serving God was the only right way, that escape from the world and from secular service to the State was demanded of all who have the right of being called Christians. This danger is not easy to avoid so long as a communion is a sect, not united to the Christian whole. The universal Church of the earlier centuries corrected this danger by accepting an inevitable tension. The Church as we find it in New Testament times, for example, included both those who accepted a calling to renounce life in secular society, even in marriage, and also those who accepted a calling to remain in that secular society itself. Neither calling was permitted to condemn the other, just as the Jew was not permitted to condemn the Gentile, nor the Gentile the Jew. The Church of the New Testament included St. Paul but also many married Christians, yes even centurions of the Roman army. The Christian Church has had need of both types of callings. It needs both now—Christian pacifists who will suffer for Church against world, Christian statesmen and even soldiers, who conscious of the stern judgments of God, yet serve Him in the station of life to which God's guidance, to the best of their stumbling insight, has led them.

I return to the vocation of the Mennonites, as I see it. In America they will, as I have already indicated, lose many of their inherited customs. They will lose their traditional isolated way of life. They can no longer escape contact with the secular world. Alien Mennonite colonies, living a life of communal brotherhood, such as existed in Europe, will probably become impossible. Mennonites will here have to learn how to live, like countless Chritians through the ages have lived, in the world instead of apart from the world. This will mean for those of an older generation a painful, and for those of a younger generation a dangerous adjustment. It is an adjustment which, if my observations are at all correct, many Mennonite young people are not making successfully today. For it means entrance into the market-place yet not being corrupted by the market-place. It means going to the movies, yet looking at them through Christian eyes. It means listening to the radio, yet remaining pure in heart. It may mean going to a party, yet doing it for the glory of God. Nevertheless, have we not an example in the life of our Lord? He was spoken of as a wine-bibber and a consorter with sinners. He mingled with men in city as well as country-side. He did not take his discpiles apart to found a Mennonite colony in an alien desert. Yet he spoke of His kingdom as not of this world.

A difficult process of adjustment clearly lies ahead for the Mennonite youth of this and coming generations. As they go forth, however, into a world which their grandfathers would have shunned, as they face its lures and its worldly entanglements may they carry their inheritance with them. For that inheritance is a precious possession. It consists in the conviction that to be a Christian (let alone a Mennonite) is still to be a pilgrim in an alien land. To be members of the Christian Church is today, as it was in the time of their forefathers to be members of a peculiar people, not of this world. It means being a citizen of heaven, owing an allegiance to the Lord of heaven above all the rulers of this world. If they are true to their Mennonite heritage, they will have this concept of the Church burned into their very hearts. Four hundred years of ancestral history have witnessed to the impotence of secular power to break the will of even small colonies of Christian people who are loyal to conscience and to God.

Indeed, the concept of the Christian Church as a divine society, differing from all other social patterns, with a power which not even the State can challenge —is not this the chief glory of the Mennonite tradition? I would insist that it is, in very fact, a great glory. To be sure, I do not want to idealize it. There are, as I see things now, many things lacking in the Mennonite tradition which it will, I trust, rediscover in God's good time. The majority of the Protestant communions will have to rediscover them. I refer to such things as the institutional safeguards of Christian life—the sacraments, the historic creeds of universal Christendom, contact also with its historic liturgical worship life, its age-old prayers, its beauty of architecture, its escape from the narrow confines of a sect, But what the Mennonite tradition does possess of the gracious gifts of God as He has revealed Himself in Mennonite history, let it guard and keep and finally share.

To put it quite concretely: The glory of the Mennonite tradition is its Christian parish life. The glory of that tradition is its Christian communism, the witness it has given as to what communal life can be like when it is lived, on a small scale though it be, as the New Testament itself describes it. A community living by the Sermon on the Mount! This has been rare in Christian history. With all their errors and sins, the Mennonite communities of the past four hundred years have at least attempted such a life. And they have not altogether failed.

Indeed, as we think back at this historic moment to our fathers and fathers' fathers whose sacrifices have made our presence here possible, are we not stirred with memories of a beauteous Christian social life? I at least am so stirred. Mennonites knew of no lawsuits in their midst, no divorces, no crime. Poverty was the concern of all. Misfortune was shared. We hear much these days of Communism. Communism—not according to the Gospel of Karl Marx, but instead according to the gospel of St. Matthew—has been known to the Mennonite tradition for hundreds of years. This Christian communal life knew nothing of class war or dictatorship of proletariat. It was a communal life of brotherhood under the awesome eye of a Father in heaven. Even its forms of worship witnessed to it. The Holy Communion was a sacrament of holy brotherhood. No one dared to share in that sacred meal of fellowship with a quarrel against his Christian brother unrepented and unconfessed. The Mennonites could witness to pacifism because pacifism began at home—in family and parish. Where else, indeed, can it well begin, if it is not to be an empty word. No Mennonite parish was perfect, of course, but can you readily find in Christian history more beautiful examples of the Christian community, of the New Testament vision of the Christian parish as a colony of heaven, a cell of the kingdom of God? "I beseech you," says St. Paul, "to walk worthily of the calling wherewith ye were called with all lowliness and meekness, with longsuffering, forebearing one another in love; giving diligence to keep the unity of the Spirit in the bond of peace. Let all bitterness, and wrath, and clamor, and railing, be put away from you with all malice; and be ye kind one to another, tender hearted, forgiving each other, even as God also in Christ forgave you." Our Mennonite fathers actually tried to live by precepts such as these.

The Christian community as the family of God, as a colony of heaven, as a living cell of the kingdom of God on earth. I have rung changes on phrases such as these. To have witnessed to this vision of the Christian Church is the glory of the Mennonite tradition. And the whole of Christendom is hungry for a rediscovery of that same vision. It is fast becoming a Christianity in exile, beleagured in fortress. From the Mennonites it can learn how to exist as a persecuted Church, a nomad Church, a Church once again defying the ruthless power of the secular State, a pacifist Church, not because it denies the Christian vocation of the soldier, but because it must bear witness to a primary loyalty to God.

We live in America, not in Germany or Russia. The Mennonites have reason to give thanks for the blessings of American freedom as few people within the borders of this land of opportunity. Yet the ancient witness of the Mennonite communion to the primacy of the Church as over against the secular rule of a worldly world is not out of place even here. The Christian Churches of America will not escape the call to battle against a pagan world. May God grant to us and to our children, to this college with its sacred trust, not to be found wanting in our day of trial, but to be found instead faithful stewards of his wondrous grace.

Peace does not mean the end of all striving;
Joy does not mean the drying of our tears;
Peace is the power that comes to souls arriving
Up to the height where God himself appears.

Bread of thy Body give me for my fighting;
Give me to drink of thy sacred Blood for wine,
While there are wrongs that need me for the righting
While there is warfare, splendid and divine.

Give me for light the sunshine of thy sorrow;
Give me for shelter the shadow of thy Cross;
Bid me to share in the glory of the morrow,
And gone are the sense of bitterness and loss.

FOREIGN MISSIONS

P. H. Richert, Sec.

There is a question in one of the late copies of the Bundesbote, asking if Mennonite ministers ever married people who were divorced. Yes, I know of one case. One of our Indians returned from France in 1918 and not long after got married. Later he was awarded a monthly pension because he was "gassed." One day I read in the paper that he sued his wife for a divorce. A few days later he came to see me about something and also told me about his trouble. I told him I did not know the real reason but I did know that he was in too much of a hurry about it. He should wait at least six months. He was staying with his parents and she and the little boy with her parents, so I told him why not wait till they had quieted down and knew if they really wanted a divorce. Nothing doing!

Later I learned that the real cause for the divorce suit was that his parents wanted the children to live with his parents and she and the little boy with her live with them, on account of the monthly pension money. I plead again not to be in a hurry about the divorce, but he jumped up and left. Soon after the divorce was granted. She kept the child and lived with her parents and he, with the monthly pension check, lived with his parents. After about six months another baby was born.

One day in town, I saw her with the baby in her arms looking west, and a half block east he was playing with the little boy looking east. The next Saturday I saw them again playing with the children, with their backs towards each other. Some time after that while at dinner, we heard a car coming into the yard. I recognized the man and said to Mrs. Ediger, C. is coming and has a woman with him, he will want to get married. She said: "He is divorced." And I said: "That is not all, the woman with him is divorced also." It was his divorced wife. They came in. He said they had seen their mistake and wanted to be married again. I was glad to do it. Both thanked me afterwards and he said all that I had said was true, they wanted to profit by it and he wished that he had listened to me instead of the lawyer.—Four times we stood with these two as parents at the open grave of a beloved child and listened to words of comfort from the Bible, and a year ago he died after a lingering illness, leaving his widow and a little girl.

Could relate yet about two other couples, both members of our church. In one case the troubled couple followed advice, waited, and then decided not to get the divorce. In the other case, where the woman would not listen to advice, the judge did not grant the divorce, and they came here to ask if they had to be married again because they decided to live together again.—J. B. Ediger.

OUR DAY OF REST

Ex. 20:8-11; Luke 13:10-17

Introduction

The commandment concerning the Sabbath day states primarily a duty we owe to God. However, the breaking of it is detrimental in its effects on society and the nation. The law of nature calls for rest on one day in seven. Body and mind need rest and the soul needs commuion with God.

The Fourth Commandment Ex. 20:8-11

This commandment requires the faithful observance of the Sabbath which word in the Hebrew means "cessation" or to cease from work, to rest. It is to be different from other days and devoted to other purposes. One day of the seven has been appointed of God to be a holy day, different from all others. How to keep it holy is much disputed. In our day of many problems, each one must decide some things personally. Christians will make it a day of religious activity.

This commandment requires work as well as rest—six days work, one of rest. God has so ordained human life that work is a necessary part. It contributes to character and bodily upbuilding; idleness demoralizes both. All work was forbidden but Christ interpreted this in the light of God's Word. The Lord's day of rest should be observed that we do not make another do work that we would feel we could not do. The Sabbath is a constant reminder that man is a spiritual being, and needs the day for cessation from work, for worship, for spiritual study. It is to be observed as a gracious privilege. God himself set aside this day of rest after completing His work of creation. He hallowed it—separated it for man's necessity. God designed the day for a blessing and richly blessed are men and nations who keep it holy and sacred.

Jesus Keeping the Sabbath Day. Luke 13:10-17

Jesus changed the Day from a do nothing observance to a day of doing good. He used it for the Lord's work, doing necessary things. He used it as a day of worship (v10) and as was His custom, He was in the synagogue and teaching. He was giving not merely receiving. Among the worshippers was a greatly afflicted woman (v11) who attracted his attention. He saw her desperate need and healed her—His healing touch (vs 12, 13). Jesus' compassion was aroused, there was power in His touch and words. In severe contrast appears the self-righteous ruler of the synagogue (v14), who exhorted the people to come on other days than the Sabbath to be healed, a direct thrust at the poor woman who had come to worship God in true sincerity and there met the Christ and received healing. The ruler was a very religious man, but his was an unmerciful religion—very legalistic—the kind that will save no one. Better to be a friend of man than a stickler for ceremonies.

Jesus unsparingly denounced him (v15) and exposed the mockery of such Sabbath-keeping which permitted watering the ox and the ass—his personal property—but shows no mercy to human affliction and suffering. Jesus shows a vivid contrast between the animal and a person and healed the woman without hesitation. Jesus set the needs of the person above the legal regulations for Sabbath-keeping. He vindicates the woman (v16) and his critics were filled with shame. The Sabbath Day is a day of golden opportunity. Our high motive for keeping it is our love for God. We are to "remember" it, keep it holy and wholly. Its two primary purposes are rest and worship.

How dear to this heart are the scenes of my childhood,
When fond recollection presents them to view:—
The orchard, the meadow, the deep-tangled wildwood,
And every lov'd spot which my infancy knew.

Notes from the General Conference

FOREIGN MISSIONS — AMERICA

In Montana we have the following mission stations: Busby, with outstation; Lame Deer, Birney and Ashland. Busby is manned by Bro. and Sister Alfred Habegger and the native workers Chas. Yellowrobe and Robert Littlewolf; Lame Deer by Bro. and Sister Rodolphe Petter and the native helpers M. L. Whitman and E. King; Birney by native helper Frank Littlewolf; Ashland by Sister Valdo Petter and Miss Marian Gibbs. The four stations have 250 living members, regular services are held Sundays at all four places, weekly and Sunday prayer meetings at three, Sunday Schools and Daily Vacation Bible Schools at Lame Deer and Busby. The total valuation of mission property on the four stations is $20,340.00.

The Busby station was established in 1904 by Bro. and Sister G. A. Linscheid. In 1920 they were succeeded by the Habeggers. Until now 168 Cheyennes have joined the church at this place, 104 are alive today. Bro. Habeggar reports, "It takes continual admonishing, encouraging and teaching to keep up regular attendance at service and faithfulness."

In 1908 Bro. P. A. Kliewer started mission work at Lame Deer. Bro. Alfred Wiebe succeeded him and built the station there, but poor health compelled him to leave in 1915. In 1916 Missionaries Petter were sent there from the Oklahoma field. Lame Deer is the seat of the Government Agency. This makes the work among children more difficult than at Busby, where there is an Indian Boarding school and children come to S. S. and Daily Vacation Bible School. The evil one has hindered the work here, but of late there has come a turn for the better. Of the 201 Indians who joined here 65 have died.

The Birney station was started by P. A. Kliewer in 1910 and worked by him until 1920. From 1920-23 workers from the other stations substituted. From 1923-26 Bro. Otto Pankratz labored there, and since then the native helper Frank Littlewolf from Lame Deer. Of the 52 Indians won here through the years, 15 have passed away.

Ashland station was started in 1917 by Missionary P. A. Kliewer who would visit the Indians there from his Birney station. He then occupied Ashland in 1924, when Valdo Petter assumed charge and continued until his untimely death in 1935. At present Sister Valdo Petter and Miss Gibbs do devoted work at Ashland, bent on getting a reading knowledge of the Bible in the Cheyenne language. Because of the nearby Catholic mission the work here has proved the hardest of the four stations. But of late there has been improvement, so that an Indian leader, heretofore unfriendly to our mission, observing the work of our missionaries, was constrained to remark, that they were not "Of the devil and enemies of the Indians," as had been reported.

Pertaining to the outlook on the Montana field Missionary Petter writes, "We read in Isaiah 2:11-12: "Watchman what time of the night is it? Dawn cometh, but together with the night!" It means, the present is twilight, the full view is still obscured. Conditions are indistinct, mixed, uncertain, like a shadowy fog, before a decided separation of night and light take place. This God's statement through the prophet characterizes in a nutshell the present state of our Montana field and outlook."

Oklahoma, formerly Indian territory, is our oldest mission field. It covers about 5000 square miles containing a population of 1500, among which we have six places of worship. Through the years our Conference has had over 600 accessions from this field, with 321 living members at close of 1937. Besides these other Christians have joined our groups, coming and going as populations do. From five missionary families in the horse and buggy days, our mission force has dwindled down to two families who with six native helpers carry on the work. In 1937 Missionaries H. J. Kliewer retired from the field, after 40 years of service there, with no one else to take their place. The Deer Creek field near Thomas was added to Bro. J. B. Ediger's charge and the Arapaho field near Canton to Bro. G. A. Linscheid, leaving each of these two families in charge of three stations.

Bro. Linscheid writes, "Two major phases affect these people adversely, one religious, the other mainly economic, but affecting the social and religious life very strongly as well. The former is the peyote cult, the latter the new policy of the Administration by which it endeavors to have the various Indian tribes constitute themselves into legal corporations with which the Government will then deal, leaving it to each corporation to work out its weal and woe with its individuals. This in the end will mean self-government for the Indians, with the right to revert to their pagan rites and customs. . . For three years this spirit has been in operation. . . Drinking and immorality have increased to an appalling extent; legal marriages have become rare; promiscuous cohabitation is in vogue; meeting just obligations is largely a thing of the past; individual initiative and the ambition to build and keep up a home . . . has receded in a marked degree among this people in these three years. .. . Taking it all in all there has been a very deplorable retrogession not only economically but also morally and spiritually, due, largely, to the effects of this "new deal" administration policy.

In the Arizona field similar observations are made. "Let the Indian live his own life." "The Hopi religion is a beautiful religion. Why should the missionary come and spoil it?" are remarks frequently made by indifferent observers. The work on this field was started in 1893 by Rev. H. R. Voth. The first station was at Oraibi, then the largest village among the Hopi Indians. Later our missionaries followed moving groups of the tribe to Hotevilla and Moeneopi. It took long to win the confidence of this people, so the work has progressed slowly, which was due also in a measure to the rather frequent changes of the missionaries working there, during the 45 years of endeavor.

At Oraibi Bro. and Sister J. P. Suderman have been serving faithfully for a number of years. At present there is a membership of 38 there, with an average church attendance of 70 in the morning and 50 in the evening. A good Sunday School is in progress, street meetings are being held and ladies' sewing classes once a week; besides Vacation Bible School has been started. Some of the hindrances to the work on this field are: The ceremonial life of the heathen, moral weakness, ancestral pride, gossip. On the other hand there appears to be a growing desire to know God's word.

At Hotevilla Miss Mary Schirmer has for 28 years, been devoting her life to mission service. Daniel Schirmer, a Hopi, whom she adopted when a little boy, now, after finishing high school at a Mission and graduation from a Bible Institute, has been made a full time mission worker. These two, with Daniel's wife, formerly Amy Talas, a Hopi Christian, are now working among the Hopi tribe. At Moeneopi Fred Johnson, another native worker, with his wife are holding the fort. There, too, the work has been slow and difficult. The hearts of the people are hard. In the face of these difficulties, Bro. Suderman says, "All children of God should unite more in prayer to Him that these people might be delivered from the clutches of Satan," and makes reference to Ez. 22:30, and Chron. 16:9a.

Eastern District S. S. Convention

The 64th annual convention of the Eastern District Sunday School Union was held on Sept. 24, 1938, in Zion Mennonite Church, Souderton, Pa., with all but three of the 21 Sunday schools in the district represented.

The theme of the convention was "Learn—Then Serve." The meeting opened with singing, with Ralph Rosenberger of Souderton, Ba., directing. The devotional service was conducted by Rev. E. J. Bohn pastor of the host church. The address of welcome was given by Lloyd Yoder, superintendent of the Zion Sunday school, who commented briefly upon the right of freedom of worship in this country. Following this special music was rendered by the Sunday school of Eden Mennonite Church, Schwenksville, Pa.

The speakers at the convention were two young men who recently were installed as ministers in the Eastern District. Rev. Erland Waltner, who had just become pastor of the Second Mennonite Church of Philadelphia, Pa., was the speaker of the afternoon. He spoke on the convention theme, "Learn—then Serve." In part Rev. Waltner said: "We find that many of those who sit under our instruction as Sunday school teachers do not carry out the things they hear. They are hearers and not doers. Learning and serving on the part of the teacher must go together. Learning is more than acquiring knowledge. It is the experience of life. The teacher must be a Christian, consecrated and creative or have natural ability. The teacher must study and set the example. The pupil must give attention. The subject matter or curriculum must be of the right type and it must be the Bible. The teacher must always have a definite goal and must know how to present the lesson material. He should be regarded as a shepherd. He must lead the pupil to have a desire to study the Scripture. Do not feed the child apple sauce, but plant apple trees. Finally, the teacher must know, live and teach the truth."

The afternoon session was brought to a close with five group conferences, conducted by Mrs. Wilbur Smith, Walter H. Temple, Wilbur Lauer, Miss Huldah Myers and Jacob Solt.

The evening session opened with singing directed by Rev. Olin Krehbiel, pastor of Grace Mennonite Church, Lansdale, Pa., devotional service by the Flatland Mennonite Sunday school. During the roll call the 18 Sunday schools represented, quoted verses of Scriptures. Sunday schools not represented were Napier, Mechanics Grove and Richfield.

Installation of newly elected officers, an address and special music were the main features of the evening session. The new officers were installed by the Rev. J. J. Plenert, pastor of the First Mennonite Church, Phila., Pa. They were as follows: Pres., William Shelly, Phila.; Vice Pres., Walter M. Nace, Phila.; Sec., Mrs. Florence Schultz, Collegeville, Pa.; Treas., Raymond Stauffer, Palm, Pa.; Mission Sec., Miss Huldah Myers, Quakertown, Pa.; and Field Sec., Walter H. Temple, Wilkes Barre, Pa.

This was followed by a very splendid quartet by members of the East Swamp Sunday school, a moment of silent prayer for the maintenance of peace abroad and at home, with close by John E. Fretz in a fervent appeal for the continuation of peace.

The main address of the evening was delivered by Rev. Harold Burkholder, recently installed pastor of the East Swamp Church, who delivered an excellent discourse on the convention theme.

The convention was brought to a close with singing of "Wait on the Lord."—Nora Moyer, Sec'y of Eastern District Mennonite S. S. Union.

Concerning a Young People's Paper

Have you sent in your questionnaire!

The Young People's Committee two weeks ago published a questionnaire, hoping to gather information about what young people desire in the way of a Youth Paper. The more questionnaires that are returned. the better a cross section we will get.

If you have not yet sent it in, reach for your pen now—check your answers, and mail it to the editor of "Our Youth Says,"—TODAY.

Stone tablets in the masonry of old Pennsylvania houses, with religious inscriptions, were common. One of them reads:

Jesus, komm in mein Haus
Weiche nimmer heraus.
Komm mit deiner Gnad und Guet
Und stelle meine Seel' zu Fried'.

Translated this means: Jesus, come into my house and never more depart. Come with your grace and mercy and set my soul at peace.—Vine Press.

A certain business man required all of his employees to be prepared without notice to give 10 suggestions for the improvement of the business. Failing in this they were likely to be dropped from the payroll. It kept them alert to the possibilities for growth in their work. What could not be accomplished if our minds were as keen to the possibilities for the improvement of the business of our King. Why not have a Sunday school workers conference or a C. E. executive meeting at which each one is challenged to bring 10 SUGGESTIONS for the IMPROVEMENT of the work.—Workers' Exchange.

Social Suggestions for October

Decorations are a simple matter in the month of October. The leaves this year are especially lovely and the weather is inviting for an outdoor event. From the following list you will get suggestions, which will suit your special group.

1. Hallowe'en Party
2. The Black Cat Frolic
3. Harvest Home
4. American Night (Oct. 12)
5. Neighborhood Night
6. Discovery Night
7. Hunter's Moon Treasure
8. Candle-light Fellowship Hour

Make use of the out-of-doors. Here is an opportunity which you do not want to miss. Have a very strong leader in charge of the entertainment around the campfire.

Lead the singing from semi-popular and old fashioned songs to the hymns we all love to sing. The evening can end with the feeling that each one is nearer God. Such an atmosphere will carry over into the days that follow.

Some games that could be used to make this party a success:

Rabbit's Nest

Any number may play this game. The rabbit's nest is formed by two players who stand facing each other, holding hands. A third player stands between these two in the nest. As many of these nests may be set up irregularly in the field, as desired. One player is a dog whose duty it is to chase a rabbit, another extra player who has no nest. This rabbit may elude the dog by taking shelter in one of the nests, and as there may be only on rabbit in each nest, the rabbit already in the nest must quickly run out, and the dog will follow it. In the case of a large group of players, there may be several nestless rabbits and several dogs.

Graded I Spy

In this form of the game the one who is It covers his eyes and counts ten (at a moderate rate), the other players meanwhile running to find hiding places. As soon as the one who is It calls "Ten," all the others must stand rigid wherever they are. If anyone is seen to move by the one who is It, he calls him back to the starting point, and begins there again on the next grade. "It" once more covers his eyes and again counts ten, the other players seeking hiding-places as before, and, of course, running farther afield to find them. On the word "ten" they stop, as before. This is done five times, by which time, probably, all the players will have disappeared. Then the one who is It must seek them out as in the regular game I Spy.

Jack-O'-Lantern Relay

Use four Jack-O-Lanterns in which are lighted candles. The group is divided into four parts. These groups may be called Cats, Bats, Owls, and Ghosts.

They stand in parallel lines and face a goal. At the signal the first one runs to the goal and back holding the face of the lantern so that the draft will blow through. When the first one returns he hands the lantern to the one in front of the line and takes his place at the back. If the Jack-O'Lantern goes out, it must be relighted. The leader should provide matches for this purpose and be prepared to supply them as soon as the lantern is out.

Ghosts and Witches

The players are divided into two teams of ghosts who line up on opposite sides. Each team has its witch, who, blindfolded, is in the center, listening for the wandering ghosts. The object of the game is to see which team is lightest on its feet. The players take turns walking around the two witches, and, if perchance a witch thinks she hears a ghost she calls out. "I hear a ghost." If she is correct, the player loses a point for his side. If a witch detects one of her own team, it scores two points for the opposite side. If a witch's guess is incorrect, her team loses a point. Needless to say, the keyynote of the game is "caution."

Finding Help in Public Worship

Neh. 8:1-3, 5, 6; Matt. 18:19, 20

Young People's Topic for Oct. 30, 1938

Meditations:

M., Oct. 24. Worship and inner vision. Isa. 6:1-8.
T., Oct. 25. The uplift of worship. Ps. 84:1-12
W., Oct. 26. The uplift of music. Ps. 150:1-6.
T., Oct. 27. Help in the synagogue. Luke 4:16-21
F., Oct. 28. Worship in church. Rom. 12:1-9.
S., Oct. 29. Courage in worship. Ps. 27:1-14.

Suggested Hymns:

"Come Ye Disconsolate," "Come Thou Almighty King"

The term worship is not to be confused with going to church. The former term deals with matters within; the latter deals with outward form. There are many thousands of unfortunate people who, though they cannot go to church, are more worshipful than many of us who attend church regularly. Some of these people, "gems of God" let us call them, are aged mothers and fathers. Still others are bedfast due to physical sickness. So let us not hastily conclude that to be a worshipping Christian all one needs to do is to have his name on the church roll, attend church and pay church dues.

Let it be made clear, however, that the Church and church worship is necessary. The Christian Endeavor movement has wisely had as its motto since the very beginning of its organization the slogan FOR CHRIST AND THE CHURCH!

Let every Mennonite Christian endeavor society, let every Mennonite Christian endeavorer renew this pledge, this clear statement of the object of high loyalty. Let us go further than this! Let us carry this resolve into action!

Suggested Topics:

Helps of Public Worship

1. In worship we receive visions of the Lord. Is. 6:1-7.
2. Prayerful meditation will make it possible for us to hear the voice of the Lord. Is. 6:8.
3. It will give us faith to overcome. Matt. 18:19, 20.
4. "Blessed are they that dwell in thy house." Ps. 84:4.
5. Church music is uplifting. Ps. 150:1-6.
6. Jesus helped in the synagogue. Luke 4:16-21.
7. Worship helps people to gain a vivid sense of reality of God and a wholesome conception of what God is like.
8. Worship can lead to a freedom from a sense of guilt, to a feeling that one's sins are forgiven.
9. Worship frequently stimulates aesthetic appreciation.
10. Worship fosters devotion and loyalty to the church.
11. Worship strengthens the motive to share one's faith with others.
12. Worship can make the Bible more meaningful.
13. Worship stimulates social imagination and sympathy, strengthens social ideals.
14. Worship can lead to a renewal and revitalization of religious and moral convictions.
15. Worship often affords a profitable escape from the immediate reality with all its problems and pains.

Workers for Peace

Intermediate C. E. Topic, Nov. 6, 1938

For Daily Study

Oct. 31. Christian principle of peace. Heb. 12:14
Nov. 1. Jesus' word on peace. Matt. 5:43-48
Nov. 2. Solomon, maker of peace. I Chron. 22:6-10
Nov. 3. A poet foresaw peace. Isa. 2:1-5
Nov. 4. God on the side of peace. Ps. 147:12-20
Nov. 5. The spirit of peace. Matt. 5:5
Nov. 6. Topic—Workers for Peace. Jas. 3:13-18

Preprayer Circle

Isa. 26:3. Pray that this meeting may give the members a new understanding of what "peace" means, and how we can contribute to it through our own lives. Pray that the love of Christ may dominate each one more and more.

Songs of Praise

"Love Divine All Love Excelling," "More Love to Thee," "Christ for the World We Sing"

Announcements. Announce your next Sunday's topic and leader.

Quiet Worship

Topic—Workers for Peace

Prelude—Worshipful instrumental music

Leader: "A new commandment I give unto you, That ye love one another . . . By this shall all men know that ye are my disciples, if ye have love one to another."

Response: "Behold, how good it is when brothers dwell together in love."

Scripture reading: Jas. 3:13-18

Song: "A Hymn of Love"

A Reading. (Explain that the following is the description given by the Greek philosopher, Aristides of Athens, to the Emperor Hadrian of the character and spirit of the people known as Christian in the second century. Ask your group to think whether these things could be said of your own church members.) The Spirit of Peace at work. "They placate those who oppress them, and make them their friends. They do good to their enemies . . . If any of them have bondwomen or children, they persuade these to become Christians for the love that they have towards them; and when they become they call them, without distinction, brothers . . . They love one another. They do not refuse to help widows. He who has, gives ungrudgingly to him who has not . . . If they see a stranger, they take him to their dwellings, and rejoice over him as over a real brother; for they do not call themselves brothers after the flesh, but after the spirit and in God . . . If any one among them is poor and needy, and they do not have food to spare him, they fast two or three days that they may supply the necessary food . . . As men who know God, they ask Him what is proper for Him to give and for them to receive. Thus they do throughout their entire life . . . The good deeds which they do, they never proclaim in the ears of the multitude, but even take care that none shall perceive them . . . Truly this is a new people and there is something divine in them."

Sentence Prayers

Song: "O Master Let Me Walk with Thee"

Presenting the Topic:

1. What the leader might say. Point out the fact that there are two approaches to peace—the inner and the outer. One says, "Put the love of Christ in the hearts of men, and you will solve the problem." The other says, "Perfect such instruments of peace as the League of Nations, the World Court and hold peace conferences and you will establish Lasting peace." Both are necessary, but it is certain that the outer cannot last without the inner, and will be in vain unless it is the outgrowth or expression of the inner peace which is created by the love of Christ in the human heart. Give example of the failure of treaties and conferences in modern times because of the lack of the peace of Christ in the hearts of those concerned. It would seem particularly important that as Christians we should be concerned about how to find and maintain this inner peace.

2. Some Questions to Answer

(1) What stirs up strife and enmity? What method does Jesus suggest for conquering it? Matt. 5:43-48. Has this method been tried? Give examples.

(2) What blessing did Jesus pronounce upon the peacemakers? Matt. 5:9. Why are they called "sons of God." Refer to James 3:13-18

(3) What was the attitude of the early Christian toward war? Referring to the reading given in the worship service, why is it hard to imagine these people going to war?

(4) How did the first Mennonites come to be Pacifists? Consult your pastor. What was their motive? To escape suffering, or was it a higher motive? Does their reason hold for Christians today?

(5) What would be the effect if Christian people everywhere began to practice love intensely toward their fellowmen? What difference would it make in your school? In your community? In our nation? In the world?

Closing Consecration Service

(Ask each member to come prepared to give a verse of Scripture, which would make it impossible for a Christian to take part in war. Or prepare such verses, writing them out on slips of paper, to give to each one for his participation. The following are suggested: Matt. 5:9; Matt. 5:44; Matt. 5:39; Matt. 5:40, 41; Mark 11:44; Mark 12:31; Rom. 12:17; Rom. 12:20; Rom. 12:21; Phil. 2:2, 3. Add others.) After singing, "Dear Lord and Father of Mankind," stanzas 1 and 2, call for the consecration verses.

Close with the singing of the last three stanzas and Benediction.

JUNIOR CORNER

Suggestive Outline for November
(Exodus — Joshua)

November 6: God wants to deliver me from the enemy. Exodus 14:10; 15:1
November 13: God wants to teach me His Word. Exodus 24:12, 13; 31:16; 32:15, 16
November 20: God wants to lead me to the new home. Deut. 8:1-10; Joshua 3:5
November 27: I want to thank God. Joshua 24:1-28; Psalm 103

Verse for the month: "Bless the Lord, O my soul, and all that is within me, bless his holy name. Bless the Lord, O my soul, and forget not all his benefits." Psalm 103:1 and 2

Song for the month. "Praise Him! Praise Him!"

Project for the month: It is Thanksgiving month with its simple meaning, thanks-giving, but in its deeper sense it is the soul's outpouring of self and substance unto God whose mercy and love throws me down to worship Him. So in this month there should be giving, giving out of thanks. Last year we built a "pyramid" out of cans decorated in black and white tissue. This year, could it be a "Happy-Home" month? Ask the children to make their homes happy. There is happiness when there is love and peace and unselfishness. Let it be a week by week project. When, during the week or at the close of it, the child feels the happiness of the home, then ask him to look for something in mother's cellar or pantry that he can set aside as a thanks-giving sign for a happy home that day or that week. If you meet each week, ask your children to bring the happy-home-thanksgiving-signs to the Sunday night meeting. This would mean one gift per week. If you meet only twice during the month, it would mean two articles per child for each meeting. These thanks-giving signs could be in the form of canned foods, potatoes, onions, soap—anything that makes a home happy because it has these necessities. At the beginning of each meeting throughout this month, use the second opening song for this offering. With leader standing to receive these gifts, let the children bring them, filing by and, as leader, build the things brought into the shape of a house. Articles that cannot be built into this "home," can be put inside. There should only be one house built for the month, if then you have weekly meetings, you would build only part of a wall on the first night. This would be taken into safe keeping until next meeting when it should be rebuilt before the opening of the program and the additional contributions "built" on. At the last meeting the home is completed. When introducing the project, have a specific home in mind that could be made a happy home by gifts such as the children would bring. Keep this home near to the children all through the month. Pray for it with the children. Ask them to remember it during evening prayers. Perhaps there are children in this chosen home. Acquaint the group with them. It may be that there will be added joy in the homes your group represents because they have been reminded of the little things that can make a home happy. To introduce this project, you could draw on the blackboard a happy-home scene and underneath the two verses for this month.

God Wants to Deliver Me from the Enemy

Program Suggestions for November 6, 1938

Exodus 14:10; 15:1

Prelude

Opening Service

1. Song in unison: "Come Ye that Love the Lord"
2. Happy-Home Thanksgiving offering while singing a happy song such as "There is Sunshine in My Soul" or "Jesus Wants Me for a Sunbeam"
3. Leader's prayer asking for blessing upon each offering and upon the one that gave it and upon those that shall receive it.
4. Scripture reading by a junior: Mat. 25:34-40
5. Prayer in unison: Psalm 51:10

Mission Minutes: "Happy-Home" across the seas. Let a junior find (in our publications) a related incident of a changed home where happiness has entered because Jesus has been accepted.

Study Period. Aim: to teach the truth that God delivers us from the enemy.

1. Introduction of subject by a statement of the truth that there is no happiness in a nation or home when its enemies have not been conquered.
2. The children of Israel before the enemy was conquered. Pictured by junior using Ex. 14:10-14
3. God conquers the enemy. Ex. 14:15-30. Retold by a junior.

Next in merit to not sinning is confessing sin. A very learned man has said: "The three hardest words in the English language are, 'I was mistaken.'" Frederick the Great wrote to the Senate, "I have just lost a great battle, and it was entirely my own fault." Goldsmith says "This confession displayed more greatness than all his victories." Such a prompt acknowledgement of his fault recalls Bacon's course in more trying circumstances. "I do plainly and ingenuously confess," said the great chancellor, "that I am guilty of corruption, and so renounce all defense." "I beseech your lordships to be merciful to a broken reed."

Churches Called To Observe Temperance Sunday

The need for a revival of temperance education has led the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America to issue a call for the observance of "Temperance Sunday" on October 30 throughout the country. The day was included in the Calendar for the Christian Year as prepared by the Federal Council's Committee on Worship last year, the suggested date being the last Sunday in October, which is already recognized in some quarters, both in this country and abroad, as "World Temperance Sunday." The designation of this Sunday was followed up by the Federal Council's Executive Committee at its meeting last month by a special call for a widespread observance of the day. The suggestion was made that in churches that are accustomed to recognize October 30 as Reformation Sunday the following Sunday, November 6, might well be observed as Temperance Sunday—or any other Sunday which in certain denominations might be found to be more satisfactory.

As a means for providing ministers and leaders in religious education with helpful materials for the observance of the day, the Federal Council of Churches has prepared a packet of ten pamphlets, selected from the best material published by various denominational and interdenominational agencies, on the liquor problem and the relation of the Church to it. The pamphlets have been chosen from the particlular standpoint of their educational value in the local church. The packet of ten publications is available at 70 cents, including postage, from the Council's headquarters, 297 Fourth Avenue, New York. Among the materials included in the packet are:

"The Liquor Traffic: Its Cost." (Congregational Council of Social Action)

"Children and the Alcohol Problem." (American Baptist Publication Society)

"Young People and the Liquor Problem." (Methodist Episcopal Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals)

"The Sensational Rise in Liquor Consumption." (Methodist Episcopal Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals)

"Christian Education and the Alcohol Problem." (International Council of Religious Education)

"Liquor and Modern Life." (Presbyterian Board of Christian Education)

If thou well observe
The rule of—not too much—by temperance taught
In what thou eat'st and drink'st, seeking from thence Due nourishment, not gluttonous delight,
Till many years over thy head return;
So may's thou live, till like ripe fruit thou drop,
Into thy mother's lap, or be with ease
Gather'd, not harshly pluck'd; in death mature.

Pacific Dist. Conference News

The 35th Annual session was held in the First Menn. Church of Saskatoon, Canada, Aug. 2, 1938, at 7 P.M. The delegates met for "fellowship dinner" at the dining hall on the Exhibition grounds, then drove to the church for the meeting. Rev. P. A. Wedel, president, presided. The conference theme was, "Be strong and of good courage." Rev. Albert Claassen led devotion. Delegates certificates revealed 31 delegates present, all but 2 churches were represented. The minutes of previous conference as well as the treasurer's report were read and adopted.

The field secretary, Miss Emma Ruth, made a report of her visit to the churches in Oregon, Washington. She reported good interest and progress among those visited.

The Evangelistic committee gave a very interesting as well as encouraging report. Rev. P. D. Unruh was placed in charge of the Newport work some time ago at $10 per month assistance from conference—this was doubled . . . Deer Park group has been organized . . . .At Portland Rev. and Mrs. Edmund Miller were placed and Miss Niswander, who has labored faithfully, transferred to Philadelphia. The church building was purchased for $650.00 and alterations and repairs are under way . . . Rev. Widmer at Dallas was allowed $35 per month. . . . Four churches have been built or re-built in the Pac. Dist.

An Education Committee was created with Rev. Hostetler as chairman, Rev. Langenwalter and Rev.

Edmund Miller are the other two members. These are instructed to prepare an amendment for our new constitution so it will include the Education Committee.

All officers and legislative bodies were carried over until next year. The same budget as the previous year was adopted. The invitation for next year's conference at MONROE was accepted. . . . We expressed our appreciation to the friends and brethren at Saskatoon for the use of their building.—Homer Leisy, Sec., in Worker's Exchange.

CORRESPONDENCE

MENNONITE CHURCH, WAYLAND, IOWA

Dear Readers of the Mennonite:

We are glad to report that Rev. Wm. Penner and family of Taftville, Conn. expect to be with us Dec. 1. May God richly bless his ministry in our midst.

July 31, we were privileged to listen to a splendid address when Prof. Willis Rich of Bethel college was with us. He was making a tour in the interest of the college. His sister Mrs. F. L. Platt also visited relatives here.

Aug. 20, Rev. Ted Voth, student from the Chicago Theological Seminary, brought us a message while here working in the interest of the Mennonite Peace Society. We also enjoyed a visit from our former workers in the church and Sunday School, the Misses Marie and Louise Imhof from Santa Cruz, Calif. The evening of Sept. 25, the pageant, "Life's Cross Road" was well presented to a full house. The pageant was sponsored by the Delta Alpha class.

DEATHS

ELMA WOELK FREY was born Feb. 25, 1913 near Goessel, Kansas. She received her education in the rural schools and the Goessel High School, from which she was graduated in 1932.—She was baptised upon confession of her faith on June 8, 1930 by Rev. P. H. Richert and received into the Tabor church in which she remained faithful to the end. She was a willing worker in the church, taught Sunday School a number of years and was an active member in the sewing society of which she was secretary at the present time.

On Sept. 20, 1934 she was united in holy matrimony with John W. Frey. On their fourth wedding anniversary she took sick and was taken to the Bethesda hospital the following day, where all that medical and loving care could offer was given her. Although many prayers were offered all seemed to be in vain for the Lord's will was to take her to her eternal home. After nine days of serious illness she passed away on Sept. 28 to meet her Savior whom she in all simplicity served and loved. Her death followed complications arising following an operation for appendicitis.

She was a loving wife, willing to serve whenever possible. She was always concerned about the welfare of the home, often forgetting her own well-being. She leaves to mourn her too early departure, me, her husband, John W. Frey, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. B. Woelk, her mother-in-law, Mrs. Peter Frey; her prandparents, Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Schroeder; two sisters, Dora and Mrs. Olga Franz, two brothers Rudolph and Herbert; nine sisters-in-law; seven brothers-in-law and a host of relatives and friends. — She reached the age of 25 years, 7 months and 3 days.

I cannot say, and I will not say that she is dead,—she is just away with a cheery smile, and a wave of the hand. She has wandered into an unknown land, and left us dreaming how very fair it needs must be, since she lingers there.

The largely attended funeral services were held Sunday afternoon, Oct. 2, at the Tabor church. The Rev. P. H. Richert gave a German sermon, based on Romans 14, 7-8 and the Rev. P. H. Unruh in the English language, based on II Cor. 5, 8 and Acts 2, 38. A male quartette sang two numbers "God's loving Hand" and "With Me all the Way." She was laid to rest in the church cemetery.

H. P. HARMS, son of Peter Harms and Helena nee Klaassen Harms, was born in Michalin, near Machnovska, Russia, Dec. 23, 1867. In 1874 the family and the larger part of the community came to this country, landing in Philadelphia, Nov. 27, and arriving at Peabody, Kan. Dec. 5. Henry was baptized upon confession of his faith April 23, 1889. He was joined in marriage with Susanna Ewert, February 5, 1893. Nine children were born to this union, two of whom preceded their father in death.—After the youngest son's marriage the parents moved to Newton from where they still attended the services of the Gnadenberg church. They also lent a helping hand to their children wherever possible. On Tuesday the deceased went to his old home to do some painting. He had the bad luck that the ladder slipped away and he fell, fracturing his thigh bone and receiving other injuries. He died Friday at one p. m., his age being 70 years, 9 months and 7 days. He leaves to mourn his passing his wife, with whom he lived more than 45 years in congenial wedlock, sharing joy and sorrow, four sons and three daughters with their families, to whom the remembrance of him shall and will be a blessed heritage.

Then in addition they are often criticized unjustly, unfairly and in an un-Christian way by those who do not try to help them and probably too frequently by those who could help but will not do so. Will the Church go unscathed because of this?"

—Golden Anniversary of the Corner Stone Laying of Bethel College.—With beautiful autumn weather all the way through, the four days' programs were carried out as published, with large crowds at each of them. For the overflow numbers, the dramatics lecture room and the large library were equipped with loud speakers, so that all visitors could find seats and hear. The speakers did themselves and the splendid audiences full justice. A surging sea of humanity witnessed the corner-stone laying ceremony near noon, the last day. Owing to lack of space, we are unable to say more about these memorable festivities at this time, but we are bringing the main address of the occasion that of Dr. Theodore O. Wedel, son of Prof. C. H. Wedel, first president of the College. Readers will find it on pp. 2-6 of this paper. It is a memorable address. One thing that was particularly noteworthy in the prayers and addresses made, God was given due praise for all He has done for Bethel College until it has become an institution known the country over for its splendid Christian work.

Training Children to Become Christians

Speaking about training children is there any reason why children should go to church? Yes, listen! no character is complete without the virtue of reverence, and it is a trait which needs training nowadays. But this is not a reverential age, nor are we a reverent people. The best method of development that we have is in the church. A little boy goes to church with a child's receptivity. He knows it is God's house, he knows there is talk about God and talk to God and that the hymns all refer to God. He knows because it is God's house he must set aside for a time his own impulses and desires and must be quiet like other people around him, and some way there grows into his consciousness a verse of the reality of God that has a lasting influence. If we wait till after our boy is ten we have lost one of our finest opportunities for character building.

Christian friends let us gather them into the fold, children of all ages, let us use every means in power to bring them to a knowledge of the truth and if we have the prayer and co-operation of God's people, we shall have the blessing and appreciation of Him whom we serve.—From "A Pastoral Letter," by J. E. Kaufman.

I WILL GIVE YOU REST. This is one of the Master's promises. (Matt. 11:28) Those who labor and are heavy laden shall have rest; not the rest of inaction, or the rest that comes after death, but rest here in the midst of our work. We need this for we are all too restless. We are impatient with God and His purposes and uncertain of His goodness. Jesus invites us to come to Him and learn the way of implicit confidence in God. The inner citadel of our soul is not at peace. We fret, we worry, we lose our temper, we are afraid. Our inner lives are anything but composed and at rest. Jesus asks us to come to Him and learn how calm and glad our hearts may be if we have but meek and humble spirits. Conditions in the outside world are not to our liking and that makes us restless. And so we push ourselves a little harder, we join another organization, we egg each other on to more activity, we become interested in "big movements." Again the Master invites us to Him, to take His yoke upon us, and see how light the burden may be. Less of meaningless, feverish activity, more time for silence, solitude, contemplation, worship—this is the secret of Christian rest. Incidentally, it enables us to accomplish more solid work.—L. H.

A TALENT FOR LIVING

There are too many people in the world who are under the impression that they have no talent for anything. Perhaps they have not much talent or aptitude for singing or painting or making poetry, or teaching. But even the most mediocre has talent for something, and how about a talent for livnig? Real living consists in knowing how to make a happy adjustment to one's environment, in discovering how to live peacefully and helpfully with our neighbors, in devising ways of spreading happiness in what we call the "simple every day things of life." To awaken or exercise this talent for living a person can take a hapless individual to some vantage point to watch with him and unfold to him the glories of a sunset. Another can spread cheer and good will by giving that word of encouragement and that handclasp that we all long for. These are God-given and often change the trend of a whole life. To share sincerity, kindness, love and sympathetic understanding with other people is one of the most beautiful talents. — Then there are individuals whose outstanding talent or peculiarities sort of ostracize them from the ordinary rank of men. Some of us have known such individuals. How their souls must yearn for the warmth of a cheery smile and the thrill of a handgrasp by some one who makes use of the talent for living. It is a most desirable talent to be able to keep from one's mind all unkind, often unjust thoughts or prejudices against others, which will usually vanish upon closer acquaintanceship. Meeting a man or woman with a mind so expectant of the finest in them, with no room for the unworthy, will be reciprocated with similar attitudes. Each man and each woman will ordinarily give back to us the finest that is in them, and our hearts will be gladdened at the response. — J. R. T.

For whosoever would save his life shall lose it; and whosoever shall lose his life for my sake shall find it.—Matt. 16:25.—It is the spirit that giveth life.—John 6:63.

Things That Abide

Mrs. G. A. (Anna S.) Linscheid

There are many things that people strive to obtain in this world such as good homes, nice cars, wealth, honor, education, good positions and many more. These are very good in themselves and worthy to attain if they are used in the right way. We get a great deal of comfort and pleasure out of a neat, clean, well-kept home. A good education and a position worthy of it can be used for the uplifting of mankind and the furtherance of the Lord's kingdom. A person that has wealth can do a great deal of good in the world if he uses it aright; but anything that we misuse, anything that we put first, above everything else, will become a stumbling block, an idol, as it were, to us and that makes it harmful to us, instead of a help, as it should be. All things of this earth, however good and valuable they may be, are not lasting, sooner or later they must pass away.

The wise Solomon said in Prov. 22:1: "A good name is rather to be chosen than great riches." A good name is something that outlives us. Even after we are gone it still lives on in the memory of those that knew us. How do we attain to such a good name? If we are always perfectly honest in our dealings with those around us, if we are always truthful in our speech, if we are always sincere in our every thought, word and deed, we can attain to such a good name. Surely that is worth striving for.

Yet there are things of still greater and more lasting value. The Word of God says: "Heaven and earth shall pass away but my Word shall not pass away." This Word tells us of the things that shall not pass away. Among these are salvation in the Lord Jesus Christ, the resurrection of the body, the eternal home in the heavens and the joy of being with our Lord through all eternity, with all the sorrows and hardships and struggles of earth gone forever. These are abiding and worthy to attain.

Paul says in 1 Cor. 13:13: "Now abideth faith, hope, charity (love)"—some more things of lasting value. Faith in the Lord Jesus Christ, our Savior, hope of our eternal home and the love of God forever and ever the same, which if we accept enables us to love Him above all else and our fellow-men as ourselves—these are worthy striving to obtain.

In all these many years, practically a life time, that we have labored among the Indians, we have tried to bring these things of lasting value to you, in the work with the little folks in the Sunday-school, in the Sunday services in message and song, in our contact with you on week days in your homes, in health, in sickness, in death, at funerals—and now as our work among you is drawing to a close I wish to leave this parting message and thought with you (Mr. Linscheid will bring his next month): Strive for the things that are abiding, the things eternal; for the things of this earth, no matter how good and attractive they may be, are fleeting and of but short duration and will all sooner or later pass away. Only the things of God are eternal and will abide for ever.—The Cheyenne and Arapaho Messenger.

A Word of Thanks

Having safely arrived at home Saturday noon, Oct. 15, I would like to let the many friends who were my hosts, and also the churches I visited from Ontario to British Columbia as well as those in Washington, Oregon, and Idaho know that I am now happy at home in Newton, Kans. at 323 E. 4th. Street. The meeting of many old friends and the chance of making many new ones will remain with me as a precious memory treasury. Along with this I would also express once more my appreciation for all kindness shown me on this prolonged itinerary in the mission cause. The dear Lord kept me well those four and a half months and no speaking engagements had to be cancelled on account of ill health. Greetings with Matthew 25:35. Till we meet again. Your co-worker in the causes of missions, P. J. Wiens.

Publication

AN APPEAL

Dear Churches of the General Conference: May the Board of Publication ask each of you to take a generous offering for the work of publication before New Year? The Conference has a standing resolution requesting such an offering at least once each year. Our general treasury is in need of considerable cash to meet the expenses of new publications. A good many individuals have made contributions for the specific purpose of a printing plant fund for which we are truly grateful. But few of the churches have sent in offerings this year, for our general treasury.—Will pastors and church leaders kindly take this up with their churches and put this plea before them?

AN INTERMEDIATE S. S. QUARTERLY

We have our Christian Sunday School Quarterly for Senior and Adult student classes. In conformity with Conference action other needful Sunday School lesson material is to be prepared. The next step is the preparation and publication of a quarterly for use by students of high school age and possibly a year or two below that—an INTERMEDIATE QUARTERLY—publication of which is to begin in 1939. Editors for this work have been chosen and are already at work. Sample pages of this forthcoming quarterly should be ready for mailing to the different Sunday schools or churches within two or three weeks. The time is too short, though, to get the full quarterly ready for use with the first of the year, but supplies should be ready for the beginning of the second quarter, beginning April, 1939.

The Boards of Education and Publication would therefore kindly ask the Churches, not to place any orders for a 1939 Intermediate Quarterly, until they have seen and examined the samples mentioned. And if they like them well enough to use them, when ready, place an order for them for 2nd, 3rd and 4th quarters of 1939 and continue the use of the quarterly they now take just for the 1st quarter.

A NEW JUNIOR MESSENGER FOR CHILDREN

In conformity with the voice of the Conference the bilingual children's paper, long known as Kinderbote and during the last two years as Kinderbote and Junior Messenger, is now to be published in English entirely for the Sunday schools in the states. The paper will be called Junior Messenger and will continue as a bi-weekly, with the same space that the paper now has, but folded once more, so as to give it a handier format. Samples in this new format will soon be sent to all churches, and they, as well as individuals, are urgently requested to examine them, and if found acceptable, to order as many copies as possible for 1939. The old paper has a circulation of about 2400, and, if pastors will do a bit of advertising, orders for 3000 copies are entirely within the range of possibility. For the Board of Publication—J. R. Thierstein, Chm.

The Voice of Wisdom in the Street

Proverbs 1:30, "Wisdom crieth without; she uttereth her voice in the streets."

J. J. Balzer

We are all ready to listen to voices of nature; but how few of us learn from the voices of the noisy and dusty street? You go to your merchandise and your mechanic shop, you work in factory and school, and come back again; and often with an indifferent mind and heart you hurry through the streets: Is there nothing for us to learn from these pavements over which we pass? Are there no tufts of truth growing up between these cobblestones, beaten with the feet of evil, and pain, and pleasure, the slow tread of old age, and the quick step of childhood? Aye, there are great harvests to be reaped, and now I thrust in the sickle because the harvest is ripe. Wisdom crieth without; she uttereth her voice in the streets.

Life Is Full of Labor

In the first place, the street impresses me with the fact that this life is a scene of toil and struggle. By eight o'clock every day the city is jarring with wheels, and shuffling with feet, and humming with voices, and covered with the breath of smokestacks, and a rush with traffickers. Once in a while you find a man going along with folded arms and with leisurely step, as though he had nothing to do; but for the most part, as you find men going down these streets on the way to business, there is anxiety in their faces, as though they had some errand which must be executed at the first possible moment.

Up this ladder goes a man with a hod of bricks, out of this bank one with a role of bills, on this dray another with a load of goods. Here one digs a cellar, and there is one shingling a roof, or shoeing a horse, or building a wall, or mending a watch, or binding a book or printing a newspaper.

Industry with a thousand arms, and a thousand eyes, and a thousand feet goes on singing her song of work! work! work! while the mills drum it, and the steam whistles fife it. All this is not because men love toil. Some one remarked, "Every man is as lazy as he can afford to be."

It is because necessity, with a stern brow, and with uplifted whip, stands over them ready, whenever they relax their toil, to make their shoulders sting with the lash. Can it be that, passing up and down these streets on your way to work and business, you do not learn anything of the world's toil, and anxiety, and struggle? Oh, how many drooping hearts, how many eyes on the watch, how many miles traveled, how many burdens carried, how many losses incurred, how many battles fought, how many victories gained, how many defeats suffered, how many exasperations endured, what wretchedness, what decease, what agony, what despair!

Sometimes I have stopped at the corner of a street as the multitudes went hither and thither and it seemed to be a great drama. As I looked upon it my heart broke. This great tide of human life that goes down the street is a rapid, tossed and turned aside, and dashing ahead, and driven back—beautiful in its confusion, and confused in its beauty.—Here is the best place to study man,—man in his poverty, his wretchedness, his hunger, his sin, his sorrows—and as you go down through these streets, and come back through these streets, take up all the sorrows, all the losses, all the suffering, all the bereavements of those whom you pass, and present them in prayer before our all sympathtic, loving God.

All Classes Commingle

Again, the street impresses me with the fact that all classes and conditions of society must commingle. We sometimes cultivate a wicked exclusiveness. Intellect despises ignorance. Refinement will have nothing to do with boorishness. Gloves hate the sunburned hand, and the high forehead despises the flat.—Athens hates Nazareth. This ought not to be. The astronomer must come down from his stary sphere and help us in our navigation. The surgeon must come away from his study of the human organism and set our broken bones and dress our wounds. The chemist must come away from his laboratory and help us understand the nature of the soils. I bless God that all classes of people are compelled to meet on the street.—The glittering coach-wheel clashes against the scavenger's cart. Fine robes run against the peddler's pack. Robust health meets sickness and feebleness. Honesty confronts fraud. Every class of people meets every other class, they meet in the same city on the same street.

That is what King Solomon meant, when he said: "The rich and the poor meet together; the Lord is the maker of them all." I like this principle of our Lord Jesus Christ, which recognizes the fact that we stand before God on the same platform and thus be associated with all classes. Whatever position you have gained in society, you are nothing but a man, born of the same parent, regenerated by the same Spirit, cleansed by the same blood, to lie down in the same dust, get up in the same resurrection. It is high time that we all acknowledge not only the Fatherhood of God, but also the Brotherhood of Man.

Temptations

Again, the street impresses me with the fact, that it is a very hard thing for a man to keep his heart right and to get to heaven by God's grace. Infinite temptations spring upon us from these places of public concourse. Amid so much affluence, how much temptation to covetousness and to discontent with our humble lot. Amid so many opportunities for over-reaching, what temptation to vanity. In the maelstrom of the street, how many make quick and eternal shipwreck.

A man today seems to be a curiosity who has gone through thirty years of the sharp-shooting of business life, and yet sails on, victor over the temptations of the street. Oh, how many have gone down under the pressure, leaving not so much as a patch of canvas to tell where they perished. They never had any peace. Their dishonesty kept tolling in their ears. If I had an ax and could split open the beams of some fine houses in our cities, perhaps I would find in the very heart of it a skeleton. In its best wine there is a smack of the poor man's sweat. Oh, is it strange when a man has devoured widow's houses that he is disturbed with indigestion? All the forces of nature are against him. The floods are ready to drown him, and the earthquakes to swallow him, and the fire to consume him, and the lightnings to smite him.

But the children of God are on every street, and in the dav when the crowns of heaven are distributed, some of the brightest of them will be given to those men who stood the test of all the temptations of the street, and became the heroes of the street. Mighty were their temptation, mighty was their deliverance. and mighty shall be their triumph.

The Shams of Life

Again, the street impresses me with the fact, that life is full of pretension and sham. What double dealing, what two-facedness! Do all people who wish you "good morning" really hope for you a happy day? Do all people who shake hands love each other? Are all those anxious about your health who inquire concerning it? Do all want to see you who ask you to call? Does all the world know half as much as it pretends to know? Is there not many a wretched stock of goods with a brilliant show-window? Is not much of our society affairs very hollow with much pretension? Ehud came pretending to pay tax to King Eglon, and while he stands in front of the King, stabs him through with a dagger until the shaft goes in after the blade. Judas kissed Christ.

A Field for Charity

Again, the street impresses me with the fact, that it is a great field for Christian charity. There are hunger and suffering, want and wretchedness in the country; but these evils chiefly congregate in our great cities. On every street crime prowls. In spite of prohibition drunkedness staggers, shame winks, and pauperism thrusts out its hand asking for alms. Breadlines are formed and kitchens established for hungry people. Here want is most squalid and hunger most lean. A Christian man, going along a street in one of our great cities, saw a poor lad, he stopped and said: "My boy do you know how to read and write?" The boy made no answer. The man asked the question again, and the third time: "Can you read and write?" and then the boy answered, with tears splashing on the back of his hand, in a tone of defiance: "No sir, I can't read nor write, neither. God, sir, don't want me to read and write. Didn't he take away my father so long ago I never remember to have seen him? and haven't I had to go along the streets to get something to fetch home to eat for the folks? and didn't I, as soon as I could carry a basket, have to go out to pick up cinders, and never have any schooling, Sir? God don't want me to read, sir; I can't read nor write neither."

Oh, these poor wanderers! They have no chance. Born in degradation, as they get up from their hands and knees to walk, they take their first step on the road to despair. Let us go forth in the name of the Lord Jesus Christ to rescue them. If you cannot go forth yourself, then give of your means; and if you are too lazy to go and too stingy to give, then get out of the way like the Priest and the Levite on the way to Jerico, passing by on the other side, when they saw the suffering stranger. Yes, get out of the way of the good Samaritan who took care of him.

Notes From the General Conference Witmarsum Seminary

EDITOR'S NOTE: During the last few weeks we have been trying to bring our readers, particularly those who did not attend, a report of the most important things brought before the Conference at Saskatoon. There remains yet one report, that of the WITMARSUM SEMINARY. In bringing this we can do not better than presenting to our readers the following historical sketch by a former instructor of the Seminary, Rev. Paul E. Whitmer, now pastor of the Grace Church, Pandora, Ohio, as he prepared it for presentation before the Middle District Conference, held June 16-19 this year, with a financial statement by Dr. C. H. Smith.

BRIEF HISTORICAL SKETCH OF WITMARSUM THEOLOGICAL SEMINARY

Shortly after the first Mennonite church paper was founded by John H. Oberholzer, he as editor began to advocate the founding of a theological school for the proper training of prospective missionaries and religious leaders. He was soon joined in this effort by other forward looking men and by 1868 the Wadsworth school opened its doors. It was a small and weakly financed school but did an excellent piece of work for ten years when it closed. For more than a generation the former teachers and students of the Wadsworth school did a notable work in our Mennonite churches as pastors, missionaries, editors of church papers and lay leaders.

Since the demise of the Wadsworth school repeated efforts have been made to provide a school such as John H. Oberholzer had in mind. The three efforts which succeeded best resulted in the establishing of Bethel College, Bluffton College and Freeman College. Each one of these three colleges have done and and are now doing a splendid piece of service. But each one found its chief opportunity in the field of general collegiate education. A new need arose and these three institutions are devoting their efforts to meeting this need for large numbers of our young people.

After repeated efforts to provide theological training for our young people who are planning to devote their lives to distinctive full time Christian service we are still without such a school. For seven years from 1914 to 1921 Bluffton College maintained a theological department under the name of Mennonite Seminary. Three teachers devoted practically full time to this work. But it was felt that an institution with its own corporate organization, faculty, student body, plant and institutional life would be in a better position to serve the whole Mennonite Church than an equally good seminary under the control of one of our colleges.

For this reason in 1921, using Mennonite Seminary as nucleus, Witmarsum Theological Seminary was established at Bluffton, Ohio. Five full time teachers were secured and work was offered in graduate seminary, theological college (combination college and seminary) and Bible school fields. From the beginning the graduate seminary work received the largest student patronage, indicating that this was the greatest immediate need. The theological college work also attracted a considerable number of students. Many who started with the theological course later completed their college work and finished with a B. D. degree from the regular graduate seminary course. The Bible school courses were never much in demand although there were a number of students and a few graduates. It yet remains a question whether an ungraded Bible school without academic standards, can be maintained in an institution where the other departments maintain definite academic standards.

During the ten years while Witmarsum Theological Seminary was operated the financial burden of the Seminary was borne by three conferences in the eastern portion of the United States. Some congregations and individuals in other portions of the United States gave the Seminary some support, but this support was comparatively small and irregular. A considerable number of the graduates of our Mennonite colleges, who planned to take seminary courses, preferred to go to seminaries which could offer larger financial inducements, among other advantages, than to attend their own denominational seminary which could offer little by way of financial aid or money grants. But in spite of these handicaps Witmarsum Seminary at one time had twenty eight students, twenty-two of whom were college graduates. This large attendance could not be maintained and fluctuated greatly from year to year. After graduating large classes for a few years the attendance declined and reached a low ebb just before the seminary closed in May 1931.

In the ten years in which Witmarsum Seminary was in session there were graduated from its several courses forty-five men and women. Fifty diplomas were granted but five persons received two degrees for theological work. Of the forty-five men and women graduates fifteen men are now serving Mennonite churches as pastors, eight are now serving as missionaries under Mennonite boards, three are engaged in educational work in our Mennonite colleges, two are serving as general secretaries of major Mennonite bodies, two are ministers' wives and two have died. In addition to those who have graduated a number have studied at the Seminary for a time but did not complete courses and graduate. Some of these non-graduates hold places of responsibility as missionaries and ministers in our Mennonite churches.

The tangible, visible, concrete contribution of Witmarsum Theological Seminary today to our Mennonite churches is a band of thirty active Christian workers in various fields of trust and responsibility. Some hold places of major responsibility. All do an acceptable and appreciated piece of work for our Christ and his church in Mennonite circles. This is the record of the Witmarsum Seminary's contributions to the working forces of our Mennonite churches seven years after the Seminary closed. How much greater might its contributions have been had it never been necessary to close the institution? No one can tell what or how great a loss was sustained by the closing of our seminary.

PERSONAL RIGHTS AND WHERE THEY END

October 30, 1938

Eccl. 2:1-3, 10, 11; Rom. 6:17-23; 14:21

Introduction

If you were the only person living in a large area of country, your personal rights would be unlimited in that area. As soon as there is more than one person, each one's personal rights become limited by the rights of the others. We must always recognize the fact that others must have the same rights that we have.

Emptiness of Pleasure, Eccl. 2:1-3, 10, 11

Solomon is showing in Ecclesiastes, by a long list of experiences, that man cannot find any lasting good and happiness apart from the Lord. In the lesson passage he first tried to satisfy his heart with pleasure He is going to prove the value of it (v1), nothing is to stand in his way. He found it all vanity. Frolic and thrill are much sought today as things of true value. The heart may be satiated with pleasure, but never satisfied therewith. Solomon found that it contibruted nothing toward real contentment and satisfaction (v2).

Next he tries wine (v3), another experiment, however exercising self-control, hoping to find in it some real good for life, something worthy to seek after. He found this also a vain delusion. Thousands of young people are trying this experiment today and without Solomon's wisdom and with disastrous results. Solomon's experiences show us that Christ alone can satisfy the human heart.

In addition Solomon provided everything he desired (v10), lived in great luxury in beautiful palaces built in city and country. Much of time, money and labor was expended and seemingly he was a happy man. In his moments of serious thought, he saw that his life amid all these, was so empty; he learned that these can not satisfy the inner yearnings of the heart, the soul (v11b).

Power of a Fruitful Life. Rom. 6:17-23

Paul knew the Roman Christians well. They had been servants of sin but now by faith had been delivered from it and were free in Christ Jesus. An inner transformation had taken place (v18) and they were now servants of righteousness—a most marked contrast in their lives. Where they had served Satan wholeheartedly, they shall now go as far in serving God (v19). When we serve God thus, our works of righteousness will develop into holiness. The Romans are asked to compare the two kinds of living and see what good they received from their sinful lives. Such reflection can bring only shame. The joy of salvation lies wholly in being freed from overmastering sin. God's purpose is to deliver us from sin unto fruitful living (v22). Christian living is a holy service. Satan's WAGES to his servants is death; God's GIFT to HIS servants is eternal life. We earn death by sinning while everlasting life is God's gift (v23).

Beauty of a Good Example Rom. 14:21

The Christian will use his personal liberty as a Christian trust and will deny himsef many things which might harm his brother whom he regards highly and would not willfully harm. Brotherly love is a requisite among Christians. They can not be careless about their example influencing others harmfully. The principle of love is not bounded by rules, precepts and prohibitions. It is concerned entirely about what it can do to help another one in the right way of life, about making the way to God easier for the weak brother. It shapes conduct to this end. The Christian will exercise his personal rights only so far as he can be a good influence for others. He can do as he pleases so long as he pleases to please his Lord and Christ.

Contribution of the Rural Life to the Economic Structure

"The soil is the mother of us all. It produces not only our food, shelter, and clothing, but the basic character qualities on which a permanent economic society can be built. Farm environment is charged with religious values, such as the following:—Continuity of agricultural occupation developes perseverance and dependability. Variety of tasks develops many skills. Common interest develops mutual aid on the part of the farm family. Acceptance of the whims of nature develops humility. Uncertainty of superior forces like death, reproduction, drought, rain produces adaptation and subordination. Demands of winter cold, soil fertility, animal breeding, create forethought and industry. Natural law in the universe, as rains, seasons, pro-creation, require attitudes of learning, growth, and co-operation. Sunshine, hills, valleys, streams, sunsets, produce reverence and worship and identify the soul with the universe. The character values developed on the farm are fundamental to the economic structure. When the soul forces are destroyed the foundation of economic justice and the democratic process is also destroyed and the whole nation suffers accordingly."

The Mennonite Principle of the Simple Life

By Walter H. Temple

I. Introduction

Our principle of the simple life is not included in the Mennonite Articles of Faith as set forth by Cornelius Ris and adhered to by the General Conference. Neither is it listed by Smith in his book "The Mennonites" as among the Anabaptist doctrines later taught by Menno Simons, nor as a teaching or subject of emphasis by Menno himself. Smith also makes no reference in his book to "the simple life" in any other way than as a description of the Mennonite way of life and living.

Our frequent references to the simple life should be "as shown forth by the Mennonites" rather than "as taught by the Mennonites." The simple life is a description, a picture, an ideal, rather than a doctrine of faith. It is a product, an achievement, rather than a mere part of the structure of the Christian life.

Whitmer wrote in the "Mennonite Yearbook, 1924" as follows:

"Growing right out of the same source of Christian doctrine, the New Testament, the Mennonite church has for centuries held that the Christians should live the simple life. Since we are all brethren on the same common plain before our Lord, there is no place for distinctions. We are a great brotherhood, interested in the good of one another and in the good of all. We enjoy no blessing that is ours alone. We are debtors to one another. Consequently there can be no masters and servants, no lords and subjects, no high and low in the sense that there are gradations and orders in the Christian brotherhood. The Christian is to live simply, sincerely and honestly before his Lord for the greatest good for his fellow-men. If stewardship and service are the great objectives in our lives instead of preferences and selfish advantages over one another, we see clearly that THE SIMFLE LIFE and the Christian life are one and the same thing."

II. Scriptural Basis:

a. The Sermon on the Mount
b. Romans 12
c. I Cor. 3:11
d. The Johannine and Petrine Epistles.

III. Early Mennonite Background of the Simple Life. Life.

Persecution among the Anabaptists, and among the early Mennonites drove them from the centers of population into the more remote sections, scattering them, rather than allowing them to congregate in large numbers. Meetings were oftimes held under quite difficult circumstances, and in secret places.

Under such circumstances of home life and worship, only bare necessities were had. Frugality was practiced; and all were brought upon the same level of social life; toleration was exercised in spiritual matters; life itself was at stake; contact with the world was reduced to the minimum.

Because of the tenets of faith which prohibited them from holding public office (based largely upon the doctrine of opposition to the taking of life, as officials of the law must oftimes do) the early forefathers exercised obedience to the law, and gained the distinction of being a peacable and law-abiding people.

Humility was an outstanding virtue of the forefathers. It led them to simplicity of dress rather than personal adornment. Beauty of soul (the result of honesty, sincerety, faithfulness, brotherly love etc.,) was stressed by the ministry. A strict church discipline, including the practice of the ban, held them aloof from their fellowmen of other faiths as well as the world at large.

Theirs appeared to be a simple life indeed.

IV. Fruits of the Simple Life.

Perhaps the greatest fruits of the Christian life are those already indicated above. Surely the greatest fruits of the Christian life are always character building in their nature, and serve to develop a fine spiritual culture in the individual.

Collectively, such individuals impress a community. The community becomes known throughout the state, and the entire state is blessed by such a religious body. Like waves formed by a pebble thrown into water, their influence goes on and on.

The Mennonites have enjoyed such a reputation for 400 years. They have been a real salt in the life of the world. Such Mennonite communities as those in Harvey county, Kansas; McLean Co., Illinois; Adams Co., Indiana; Putnam, Allen and Wayne Co., Ohio; Lancaster, Montgomery, and Bucks Co., Pa., are well known for their frugality, industry, thriftiness and good farming, as also for their real religious life and atmosphere. Dosker concludes his book "The Dutch Anabaptist" with this paragraph: ". . .Are not these Anabaptists, of whom most of us knew so little, worth knowing?"

For better or for worse they have exerted an influence far wider and deeper than their numbers warranted.

Shaken, bruised, and broken by persecution; torn by inward schisms and division; animated by a spirit of courage and hope such as the world has but rarely seen; strong in their weakness not withstanding all their departures from the faith, like the Moravians, still centering their all in Christ—they stand till this day.

I may close with a word of Menno to the churches: "Hold fast continually to the spirit of Christ, to His doctrine and example, if you would not deceive yourselves. For every spirit which is not satisfied with Christ's spirit, doctrine, and example is not from God and will be robbed of the light of saving truth."

V. Modern Tendencies:

There may be reason for questioning what are the tendencies among Mennonites today, and what will the world say of them in 25, 50, 100 years hence. Two conflicting attitudes toward religion cast their influence upon us in regard to the historic simple life. One is the attitude that as a people we should stand aloof from everyone. The other is the attitude that we have not the spirit of Christ when we are clanish and refuse to associate ourselves freely with others. The former is the way of "Legalism"; the later is the way of fellowship. The first tends to set off a people as "a peculiar people" in the sense of "funny" rather than the sense of "a particular people." There is a middle of the road possibility—that of joining the two views in a sense of moderation, as a minority people who stand for the better and deeper things of life.

VI. Practical Suggestions:

Years ago Mennonites refused to carry life or fire insurance. When a member of the church died or had the misfortune of fire or storm, the brethren assisted the unfortunate one by personal help. It was a genuine practice of brotherliness and cooperation. Cannot these virtues be retained today, even through our mutual life and fire insurance policies? They are so basic to other phases of life.

"Majorities" are most frequently in search of those things which have not been tried by time and experience. They have tendencies to be frivolous. "Minorities" are naturally conservative, and more staid. There is depth of conviction to such. For 400 years we have been "minority" people; conservative and serious minded. We have not had the desire to be in the fore-front of all outward worldly changes. We have fed our souls upon the deeper things of faith and hope. Will we forsake that way today?

—Roger Bacon Utters Some Plain Truths.—In connection with the political campaigning this fall, Roger Bacon in a recent article says, among other things: "From the Atlantic to the Pacific the politicians will offer to save us and every conceivable solution for our national ills will be advanced—except the true one. For the saving of the nation depends, not upon politics, nor industry, nor economics, nor legislation, but primarily and basically upon CHARACTER.—THE CRYING NEED OF THIS HOUR IS FOR AN ACTIVE AND MILITANT CHURCH. THE CHOICE IS NOT BETWEEN "WASHINGTON STREET AND MAIN STREET". THE CHOICE IS BETWEEN "CHRIST AND COLLAPSE."

Why Don't You Use it More?

Hans E. Regier

Little folk and big folk, thousands upon thousands of them have been entering school again these days. Many came eager to learn. There is so much they wish to know, there is so much they need to know. In the days that follow on through the term they will frequently be asked, "What have you learned?" But there is another question that they will face time and again possibly all through life. And that is this: What did you do because of the things you have learned?

A college student asked me a very direct question the other day. In answer to his questions he was informed about my being on the farm after having completed a full college course several years ago. "Why don't you use it more?" was his immediate question. Apparently he took for granted that on the farm there was little opportunity for making much use of a college education. That of course is a falacy that can easily be proven by any one who takes the trouble to do so. But it reminds me of the experience a good friend of mine had the past summer. He is a professor at Kansas State College and was doing research toward a higher degree at Purdue in Indiana. He said, "It's hard to convince folks out there that Kansas isn't just a desert." So its often hard to convince folks that you can make good use of a college education even on the farm.

In reality Mennonite colleges need a lot of graduates out on the farm in our rural communities. And our rural Mennonite churches need College graduates. Farm folk are by nature conservative. They always have been. It doesn't matter whether they are Mennonites or non-Mennonites. Conservatism is not primarily a Mennonite characteristic. But many Mennonites have been farmers; consequently folks are apt to think that conservative things are true to Mennonites. Let no one think that the teachings of Menno Simons were conservative in his day. Those teachings were new, they were radical, they were progressive. Those teachings were dynamic, they carried with them conviction and power. If we could get more college students' dynamic enthusiasm into our religion, into our rural churches, could we not be a greater influence for good with those not affiliated with Christian churches. Christ said something about salt having lost its flavor (savor). It had become useless. Its like rural folks who get into a rut, and there stay. And when Mennonite rural folk get into a rut they cease to be as wholesome a salt for Christian influence as they might be.

College folks on the other hand are by nature progressive, they are more open to things that are new, they are more willing to learn and to change. And every one who would grow in Christian love and the Christian virtues, must change. So it doesn't matter whether they are Mennonites or non-Mennonites, being progressive is a characteristic of college folk. But on the other hand, the conservatism of our rural churches can have a very valuable influence on our college folks. Those people who live close to the soil, close to nature often develop depth and firmness. This depth and firmness can act as a steadying influence on our college folks who are in danger at times of getting too theoretical, and too far away from reality. We need very much this steadying influence of our farm conservatism. There are times when it can act like the balance wheel of a clock. But how we do need a progressive spirit, a dynamic faith.

If we had more college graduates on our farms, in our rural Mennonite churches, it could work toward more harmony of purpose and more harmony in policy. If we knew each other better, if farm folk and the college made more use of one another there would be some wholesome results. There are those who boast of their conservatism, and are almost vehement in the criticism of others, and I wonder if that can after all be harmonized with the spirit of Jesus, with his NEW commandment. We need a religious firmness, a Christian surety that can not only withstand, but move and cast out into the sea the mountains of selfishness and hate and that great mountain of fear. We need a love that cannot be shaken. We need also a love that has the will and the enthusiasm to go out and do labor.

I have two ferns. The one is several years old and has always been in the house on the same spot. Its about the same size it has been for several years. The other I bought last spring and it was about the same size as the first. But this second one was planted out where it got new earth, the rain and the dew, the wind and the sunshine. After several months it has become much larger, it is more beautiful, and far more vigorous. It has absorbed and used nature's wholesome influence.

And so I say again, those who are entering school will be asked in years to come, "what did you do because of the things you have learned?" And when the reports are in, the Master's comment may be "Well done," Or "Why don't you use it more?"

Armistice Day Suggestions for Teachers

Heroes of Peace!

During Armistice week workers with children have a golden opportunity to develop an appreciation of real courage and heroism in their impressionable young lives. Too often Armistice means only marchnig men and waving flags. Children miss entirely its real significance, since war holds no memories for them. With proper emphases, children quickly recognize that the truest heroism is often unhonored, and that it has its roots in a complete forgetfulness of self, in a desire to meet some great need.

"Heroes of Peace," makes a good unit for either S. S. classes, or history study in the public school. It may be a series of stories told; or the stories may be hectographed, read, illustrated, and fastened into a booklet with an attractive cover, that becomes the child's own. Included in the project might be the making of a class poster illustrating the contributions made by "Heroes of Peace." A strip of wall paper (reversed) serves very well for a poster. Or small models, illustrating the various contributions, might be made, utilizing the desire for construction. The public library will yield pictures of the people studied and of the things done.

One unit which has been used in the third and fourth grades follows the outline:

The man who was not afraid—Wm. L. Garrison.

The man who wanted to help—Booker T. Washington.

The girl who wanted to help—Jane Adams

They wanted to help the sick—Florence Nightingale, Wilfred Grenfel.

They wanted to help everyone to have enough food —Cyrus McCormick, Sheldon Jackson.

Heroes of exploration—Admiral Byrd, David Livingstone.

Heroes in our city (by the time they are ready for the last page, the children will easily recognize the heroes about them.)

The poem, "Heroes We Never Name," is fine for the first page, if the booklet is made.

These characters were chosen because children do not readily meet them in their regular studies of history; and also because they offer opportunity for a study of the problems of race, economics, exploitation of weaker peoples, Americanization of immigrants, etc.

Copies of this unit, worked out for primary grades, with suggestions (seat work, related study, etc.,) may be had by addressing: Elva May Schrock, R.F.D. 2, Nappannee, Ind.

Forces That Make for War

James 4:1-11

Young People's Topic for Nov. 6, 1938

(Consecration Meeting)

Meditations:

M., Oct. 31. Racial forces. Deut. 7:1-6
T., Nov. 1. Religious forces. Deut. 12:1-5
W., Nov. 2. Loot. Gen. 14:1-12
T., Nov. 3. Ambition. Hab. 2:1-17
F., Nov. 4. Contempt of others. Acts 10:34, 35.
S., Nov. 5. Nationalism. Matt. 24:3-13

In the above Scripture references are listed many causes of war. Those references might be used as theme topics for your C. E. program. In the present day world, to all of the old causes of strife have been added many new causes. Peace loving people must eliminate the causes of war if they wish to live in a more peaceful world. In the next topic will be discussed what young people can do to help build a warless world.

In the modern world powerful army and navy establishments are a cause of war. Large armies and navies are built up on the theory recently stated: "It does not matter who is right. It matters only who will win!" This force theory is based on the idea that to fight is the innate nature of man. Smedly D. Butler stated not very long ago that if you take guns away from men they will still fight. Then he shouted: "Pacifists____! I'm a pacifist; but I always carry a club behind my back."

Jesus teaches that the exact opposite is true. He taught that war is sin. He taught that men love their enemies. He taught that whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap. Hence if the seeds of peace are sown, shall we not reap peace in the community, in the state, in the nation?

Economic rivalries are another cause of war in the modern world. Instead of encouraging trade between the nations of the world, the governments are trying to raise their own produce and to manufacture substitutes for products which nations lack. This problem is made doubly difficult when nations erect high tariff walls around each other. To solve this cause of war with a personal religious approach totally ignoring the needs of new economic policies is impossible. If a patient is suffering from diphtheria, the doctor does not prescribe a remedy for typhoid fever. Economic causes of war must be met with economic remedies.

Another cause of war in the present day is superior or antagonistic feelings toward other nations.

Unfriendly attitudes are sometimes fostered in public and private schools, by newspapers, by political speakers and writers, by propagandists. Whenever and wherever hostile feelings toward a neighbor nation prevail in a land it is relatively easy for a war to brew.

Secret diplomacy is another cause of war. Diplomats of the world meet and make secret commitments to one another, pledging mutual assistance if war breaks out. Many historians agree that this was a major cause of the world war.

Program Suggestions:

I. Scripture references listed under Meditations may be assigned to various persons for brief three-minute reports.

2. A mature member of the group could discuss modern causes of war.

III. There is plenty of room for someone to trace more fully the history of the peace movement. One could begin to trace more fully the history of the peace movement. One could begin with Dante's De Monarchia in which he suggested a league of monarchs who were to preserve peace. Others in the story would be Emeric Cruce, William Penn, Immanuel Kant, Ghandi, etc.

IV. A good book to review on the topic is Norman Angell's The Great Illusion. Another H. P. Krehbiel's War, Peace, Amity.

INTERMEDIATE DEPARTMENT

Never Hold a Grudge

Intermediate C. E. Topic, Nov. 13, 1938

For Daily Study

Nov. 7. Forgive wrongs. Matt. 6:12
Nov. 8. A grudge and its consequences. Gen. 37:23-28; 45:1-5
Nov. 9. Leave wrongs to God. Rom. 12:17-21
Nov. 10. A non-Golden Rule. Prov. 24:29
Nov. 11. The Spirit of Jesus. I Pet. 3:8-12
Nov. 12. Big-hearted Moses. Num. 12:1-16
Nov. 13. Topic—Never Hold a Grudge! Matt. 18:21-35

Preprayer Circle

Read 1 John 3:21, 22. Bring out the fact that if our prayer is to be acceptable, our heart must be right toward God and toward our fellowmen.

Appropriate Songs

"Come Thou Fount," "Grace Greater Than Our Sins," "When Love Shines In"

Announcements:

Have them early in the meeting. Tell something of interest about your next meeting, but do not read the whole program. Keep them in suspense. Plan a meeting that is different.

Quiet Worship

Solo: "Dear Lord, Forgive." Stanza one.

Leader: "O give thanks unto the Lord; for he is good: For his mercy endureth forever."

Song: "There's a Wideness in God's Mercy"

Poem: "Our feet have wandered far and wide—
His mercy endureth forever!
From that straight path in which the Master died;
His mercy endureth forever!
Low have we fallen from our high estate;
Long have we lingered long and safe;
But the tenderness of God
Is from age to age the same,
And His mercy endureth forever!

There is no sin His love can not forgive—
His mercy endureth forever!
No soul so stained His love will not receive;
His mercy endureth forever!
No load of sorrow but His touch can move,
No hedge of thorns that can withstand His love;
For the tenderness of God
Is from age to age the same,
And His mercy endureth forever!
—John Oxenham

Scripture reading: Matt. 18:21-35

Sentence prayers. Remain with bowed heads while the song, "Dear Lord, Forgive" is finished.

Object Lesson

(Bottle or box with the poison mark on it and an antidote printed at the bottom). We are all afraid of the contents of this bottle. Only by mistake that we would take any of it into our system. Another poison just as deadly to our spiritual life that should also be labeled with a skeleton. That is a grudge. Sometimes when someone does us an injury we find that we are suddenly filled with the poison of hatred, bitterness, revenge and we carry a grudge. We will "get even" sometime. James 3:14-16.

Call attention to the antidote at the bottom of the bottle. So for the poison of revenge there is also an antidote. Eph. 4:31, 32; Rom. 12:21. "A more glorious victory cannot be gained over another man than this, that when the injury began on his part the kindness should begin on ours."

What the Bible Teaches

1. Jesus forgave. Luke 23:24

2. Our forgiveness depends on our willingness to forgive. Matt. 6:12, 14, 15

3. Unforgiving spirit not acceptable in worship. Matt. 5:23, 24

4. Never hold a grudge. Matt. 18:21-35

5. Leave wrongs to God. Rom. 12:17-21

6. Follow Christ's example. 1 Pet. 2:20-23

7. Christ died that we might be forgiven. 1 John 4:10

For Discussion

1. A grudge is a thought. How may it express itself in the life of the one who harbors it? How does it affect those whom he meets daily?

2. What have you found helpful in conquering a grudge? Discuss the value of prayer; a consciousness of our own mistakes; our need of forgiveness of God and man.

Closing Moments

An Illustration

A gentleman once went to Sir Gardley Wilmot in great wrath and indignation at an injury he had received from a person high in power, and which he was meditating how to resent in the most effectual manner. Having related the particulars, he asked Sir Gardley if it would not be manly to resent it. "Yes," said the Christian knight, "it would be manly to resent it, but Godlike to forgive it."

"Life is too short to hold the grudge against one
Who may have been repentant all these years,
Too short for malice, silent or outspoken,
That brings thy brother to the fount of tears;
Let us forgive, as we would be forgiven,
Let us remember trivial things are nought,
Let not these clumsy hands rend quivering heartstrings
Life is too short." —Bernard Pitman.

Benediction: "Bethany Blessing"

JUNIOR CORNER

God Wants to Teach Me His Word

Ex. 24:12, 13; 31:18; 32:15, 16

Leader's Preparation: Dr. George Truett, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Dallas, said in a recent Sunday evening service: "It is better that we miss a meal in the course of a day than to miss the reading of God's Word." Reading Ex. 32:16, we wonder concerning God's thoughts toward us. He who had made us, knew that which we needed and He Himself, provided for our need. "The tables were the work of God, and the writing was the writing of God, graven upon the tables." What a beautiful verse for the child's imagery! Upon the reading of the Word and obedience unto it, "If thou wilt keep my word," comes God's great "then I will."

If I can lead one child to love Thy Word
To hide within the heart its treasures rare,
To read with eager eyes the pages fair
And know the blessed joy that Thou art there,
Then take me for this task
I ask.

If I can lead some feet in quiet tread
To kneel beside a little trundle-bed
Where folded hands and heart, uplifted, say:
"Forgive me Lord and wash my sins away,"
Then take me for this task,
I ask.

If I can help a soul to find in Thee
Its every need, its Life abundant, free,
Its wondrous Savior of Mount Calvary;
Its joy and peace, its blessed hope to see,
Then take me for this task
I ask.—A.

Program Suggestions for November 13, 1938

Quiet Music

Worship Service

1. Opening Prayer by a duet singing "Break Thou the Bread of Life." Verses 1, 2, 3

2. Sing in unison "Wonderful Words of Life"

3. Scripture meditation on the Word by voices from the group rising in their seats.

Voice one: "Open thou mine eyes, that I may behold wondrous things out of thy law." Psa. 119:18

Voice two: "O how I love thy law! It is my meditation all the day." Ps. 119:97.

Voice three: "With my whole heart have I sought thee: O let me not wander from thy commandments." Psa. 119:10.

Voice four: "My lips shall utter praise when thou hast taught me thy statutes. Psa. 119:171

Chairman: "Blessed are they that keep his testimonies, that seek him with the whole heart." Psa. 119:2.

4. Prayer in unison (rise) "Open thou mine eyes, that I may behold wondrous things out of thy law." (seated).

5. Sing in unison "There Shall Be Showers of Blessing." Verses 1 and 3.

Mission Minutes: With quiet playing of a hymn, use these minutes for the offering toward the Thanksgiving project.

Study Period. Aim: to show the necessity of reading God's Word and so instill a deeper love for it.

1. Poem by a junior

"O Word of God incarnate,
O Wisdom from on high,
O Truth unchanged, unchanging,
O Light of our dark sky;
We praise Thee for the radiance
That from the hallowed page,
A lantern to our footsteps,
Shines on from age to age."

2. How God gave His Word to us in the ten commandments: by a junior using Ex. 24:12, 13; Ex. 31:18; 32:15 and 16.

3. How God gave all the other words of the Bible to us: by a junior using 2 Peter 1:21.

4. Special music: "I am so glad that the Father in Heaven, Tells of His love in the Book He has given" etc.

5. Heart-talk by leader or guest speaker: "Thy word have I hid in my heart, that I might not sin against thee." The aim of this talk is to show the necessity of reading and listening to the words of God. If you have not yet begun a system of Bible reading for the year this would be a good time to begin.

6. Speak in unison verse for the month. This evening it could be an expression of Thanksgiving for the wondrous words of God.

7. Sing in unison hymn for the month, "Praise Him! Praise Him!"

8. Leader's closing prayer.

Impresstions of the General Conference

First, the trip going: The trip was rather uneventful until we came to Winnipeg, Manitoba. Here we met a committee of Mennonites at the station and the next morning they again met us at the Hotel. They had the day planned for us. The places visited were the Mennonite Church, the Girls' Home, the Concordia Hospital, which is a Mennonite Institution. We were also shown a Mennonite settlement within the city limits. The day will long be remembered.

We arrived in Saskatoon Saturday afternoon. Saturday evening a Get-Acquainted Meeting was held with an overflow capacity. The thrill of the evening was the inspiration of the German singing.

The Conference meetings were held in the Exposition Park Stadium. It was estimated that on Sunday from 3000 to 4000 people were present at each session.

A choir of 260 voices rendered a special music, yes, it was German, but it was inspiring.

There was a spirit of tolerance which to me was an evidence of sincere devotion and loyalty to the Conference and what the Conference hopes to accomplish and has accomplished. The discussions were sometimes spirited and emphatic but invariably the conclusions were amicably reached.

The reports of the different Boards were interesting and without exception showed a great deal of progress in the past three years.

I was greatly impressed with the seeming contentment of our German brethren who so recently came from Russia and established themselves in Canada. With many crop failures they are still suffering hardships and yet how truly grateful they are in their new environment. Distance, inconvenience and other handicaps were not obstacles to keep them from the Conference.

I wish every member of our Church could have caught the vision and inspiration and I am sure the results would be startling.—Signed: J. B. Bechtel.

The fear of God is a fountain of life, that one may depart from the snares of death.—Proverbs.

Golden Anniversary at Bethel College

As all things earthly, the festivities in commemoration of the corner stone laying of Bethel College fifty years ago, now belong to history. They were great days for the school, its friends and acquaintances, the days of October 9 to 12, as the panorama of the fifty-year history of the school was unfolded through addresses, and in other ways. It was a series of pictures starting with small beginnings, but with dreams and visions of a greater future, of reminiscences of ups and downs, of trials and struggles and successes and yet of steady development and progress toward a great goal, and all through evidences of the guiding hand of God, until the institution has come to be a great monument to the sacrifices of a people devoted to the upbuilding of God's kingdom and the cause of Christian education.

On Sunday morning of the festival week, many of our Mennonite churches remembered the Anniversary in their services. In the evening, at the College, leaders of two neighboring Mennonite colleges in well-worked-out, helpful addresses spoke on Contributions of American Mennonite Colleges. Following an introduction by Rev. C. C. Wedel, Dr. H. W. Lohrenz of Tabor College discoursed on "Contributions to Home and Society," and President Milo Kaufman of Hesston College on "Contributions to the Life of the Church."

On Monday evening the theme was, Problems Facing Mennonite Higher Education. After Rev. P. P. Wedel had made the introduction, Rev. C. E. Krehbiel of Newton, Kans., discussed "Problems—in the Light of the Needs of our Youth and our Church," and Dr. P. R. Schroeder of Freeman, South Dakota, answered the question "In How Far is the Service of our Mennonite Colleges Dependent on Conformity and Non-Conformity to Type?" Both addresses were very instructive.

Tuesday evening was Bethel College Past Presidents' Meeting. Of the five heads of Bethel College, through the years from 1893 to 1938, three were present. Prof. C. H. Wedel, the first president, and Dr. J. W. Kliewer of a later date, had already gone to their reward in the Home Beyond. Prof. C. H. Wedel served from 1893 to 1910; Dr. J. H. Langenwalter from 1910-11 and 1921-25; Dr. J. W. Kliewer from 1911-1920 and 1925-32; Dr. J. E. Hartzler from 1920-21; Dr. E. G. Kaufman from 1932 to date, and may we hope many more years. Dr. Langenwalter and Dr. Hartzler were present and gave worthwhile addresses. For Dr. Kliewer his son Paul Kliewer substituted worthily with a short address. Dr. Kaufman made the introduction to this meeting, and acted as chairman.

Wednesday October 12, the day on which fifty years ago the corner stone of Bethel College was laid, out on the bleak Kansas prairie, was given over to a series of programs from morning until ten in the evening. The forenoon program opened with reading of Psalm 96 and prayer by the veteran minister G. N. Harms, whereupon Dr. Langenwalter gave an interesting address on People of Vision. He was followed with a talk by Prof. P. J. Wedel, the oldest member of the College Faculty, who has served the school since 1902, on the subject, Corner Stone Laying Fifty Years Ago. He in turn was succeded by Dr. Theodore O. Wedel with the splendid address published in THE MENNONITE last week.

Near the noon hour an enormous crowd of people gathered around the front of the basement of the Memorial Hall building, to witness the laying of its corner stone. Upon reading of Psalm 24 and prayer by Rev. H. T. Unruh of Bluffton, Ohio, the Secretary of the Bethel College Board, Rev. Arnold Funk, spoke on Significance of the Memorial Hall. Dr. P. H. Richert offered the dedicatory prayer. Then Rev. P. K. Regier, President of the College Board, after a short, fitting talk, proceded to lay the corner stone. Before the opening of this program, the College Band played, and splendid music was also had at other programs, by the College Quartet, the A Cappella Choir, and others.

In the afternoon after invocation by Dr. A. H. Fast, short one-minute talks were given by representatives of the folllowing organizations: Alumni Association, Dr. Herman Jantzen; Bethel College Woman's Association, Mrs. Paul Baumgartner; Bethel College Fellowships, Mr. Oswald Krehbiel; Bethel Hospital, Sister Frieda Kaufman; Western District Conference, President P. P. Wedel; Pacific District Conference, Reverend Lester Hostetler; General Conference President C. E. Krehbiel; Newton Ministerial Alliance, Rev. Logan Martin; Newton Chamber of Commerce, President Carl Suderman. Then there was to be an address by Mr. Carl B. Warkentin, son of one of the early friends and supporters of Bethel College, Bernhard Warkentin, on Reminiscences of Earlier Days, but the speaker was unable to be present.

Greetings and felicitations by representatives from a dozen or more other colleges in Kansas, also from the State Board of Education, the State University, and the Kansas Council of Church Colleges were next in order. They all gave testimony to the splendid reputation that Bethel has and the fine work it does, as evidenced by the good showing made by its graduates and ex-students.

This over, Dr. Theodore O. Wedel, of New York, gave another soul-stirring address, as a fitting climax to the programs of the day.

In the evening, at spacious Lindley Hall in Newton, a pageant depicting the history of the Mennonites and Bethel College was given, before an audience of about 2500, under the direction of Prof. Thelma Dorothea Reinhard, instructor in dramatics. About 100 persons took part. The story began with the baptismal scene near Zuerich, Switzerland, then shifted to scenes in Holland with Menno Simons and others, and so on, briefly, down the four hundred years, and ended with scenes from Bethel College. Prof. A. E. Kreider and Mr. Ellis Graber were the readers for the parts in pantomine. The whole performance was very creditable to those who planned it, directed it and took part in it.

The thank offerings thus far received in connection with the Anniversary amount to about $5000.00, but donations are still coming in. Guests and visitors from twelve states and Canada were present during the festivities.

—Shelter Belts.—Many of our readers have read of the windswept dust bowls of western Dakotas, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas. The United States Government, through its agricultural stations has made considerable effort to plant and grow rows of trees in belts, with which to stop the blowing of dirt dust, as soon as they are sufficiently grown. In a 16 page liberally illustrated brochure the Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C. (Forest Service) shows some of the tangible results that have already been attained in this work. This Department or the Agricultural colleges of the states mentioned will gladly send this pamphlet to interested farmers and give further information about these shelter belts.

SERIES OF MENNONITE RADIO PROGRAMS

The first of a weekly series of Mennonite radio broadcasts under the direction of the Western District Conference, over station KFH, Wichita, Kansas, is to be given from 9:30 to 9:45 A. M., Saturday, Oct. 29. Listeners everywhere are invited to tune in and also to pray earnestly that the messages presented may be a help in building the Kingdom of our Lord and Savior. The number of programs in the series will depend on the response received at the radio station. A postal card addressed, Radio Station KFH, Wichita, Kansas, will be a most valuable help in assuring their continuation. — Western District Conference Radio Committee: J. N. Smucker, D. C. Wedel and Menno Schrag.

A TELEGRAM TO HON. NEVILLE CHAMBERLAIN

To the Rt. Hon. Neville Chamberlain,
Prime Minister of Great Britain,
10 Downing Street, London, England.
Sir:

It is with heartfelt satisfaction that we, the bishops and ministers of the Mennonite Church, in meeting assembled in Winnipeg, wish to record our gratitude to Almighty God, for the answered prayers of millions of loyal subjects of His gracious Majesty, King George VI, and express our admiration for your successful efforts as a peacemaker, under most difficult circumstances. Stop.

We also praise the Lord for the wonderful grace He has displayed in using you as His instrument to avert the tragedy of another world war. Stop. It is our earnest prayer that you may long be spared to collaborate with other national leaders towards the preservation of peace for our empire and the welfare of mankind.

Benjamin Ewert, Chairman,
Julius G. Toews, Secretary.

—Western District Conference, at Enid, Okla.— Preceded by an interesting and well attended Minister's Conference, held at Meno, Okla., last Tuesday, the Western District Conference held its annual session in the commodious convention hall of the Education Building, at Enid, Okla., on Wednesday and Thursday, Oct. 19-20. Blessed with charming fall weather, delegates an dvisitors to the number of about 1100-1200 attended the sessions. Of the 58 churches, 53 were represented by 385 delegates. Under the circumspect presidentship of Rev. P. P. Wedel, the program proceded smoothly and peacefully from beginning to end. The reports showed that the different committees had been trying to d otheir duty and that God had given his blessing to the work.— More will be said in later issues.

CENTRALIZATION OF OUR PUBLICATION

Beginning with January 1939, all General Conference publications will be mailed from one and the same place at Newton, Kansas, and all subscriptions will be handled at that place. The exact address with street number will be given out later. Rev. J. M. Suderman of Buhler, Kansas, has been engaged as subscription manager at Newton and other services pertaining thereto. The Book Concern at Berne, Indiana, will continue in the book and stationary business.—J. R. Thierstein.

—Second Mennonite Church, Beatrice, Nebr.— "Wednesday, Oct. 12, 1938:Henry Linsenmeyer was married to Alona H. Wiebe by Rev. M. Horsch, at our church. The Lord bless them abundantly.—We fell that we are indebted to our Lord so much, and our souls and minds are filled with the love of God, that He has averted the war that stared us in the face lately. He has graciously answered our prayers and has given us peace.—Farmers are busy filling their silos and husking corn while the weather lasts. —Much love to all readers of the Mennonite."— Yours, John Wiebe.

—Zion Mennonite Church, Souderton, Pa.—"One of the great needs of the Sunday school today is better trained teachers, and a greater knowledge of God, so that the S. S. teacher can speak with just as great authority to his class as a public school teacher to a class in the school room. We will be offering such a course of study to our teacher and all others interested, beginning, Friday, Oct. 14."—Would that all pastors and church boards have the same vision and conviction that Rev. Bohn has, and do likewise!—Editor.

—At the Eastern District Sunday School Convention held recently the following project was adopted: $120.00 for Rev. J. H. Janzen, Waterloo, Ontario, to send out his weekly messages to German speaking Mennonites in Canada, $300.00 for an Electrolux refridgerator for Dr. Harvey Bauman, Champa, India, and the balance of the $750.00 project to go toward the returning of missionaries Moyer to India. Bulletin Menn. Ch., at Allentown, Pa.

—McPherson College, a Dunkard School, at McPherson, Kansas, is giving a course in the study of Christian Peace. The class numbers thirty students, and they are using H. P. Krehbiel's book: WAR—PEACE—AMITY, as a text, which is splendidly adapted for work of this kind. If the Brethren can make such use of this book, why is it that our Mennonite churches and schools are not using it? For terms write the Mennonite Book Concern, Berne, Ind.

—Freeman, South Dakota and Community.— The Messiah Oratorio, is being prepared by a large community Chorus, to be sung to the public on November 27. Much enthusiasm is shown by the singers. The next rehearsal will be in the Marion Presbyterian Church.

The Gift of God

God has given us the Bible, the church, the Sabbath, a blessed land to live in, where we may enjoy religious and civil liberty, God fearing parents, Christian teachers and surroundings, all of which are of immeasurable value. But the gift, way above all other gifts, which alone makes all the other gifts efficient to the great end for which they were given, and without which none of them could avail, is the infinite gift of the Savior, the expression of God's immeasurable love, so that all who believe on Him shall not perish, but may have everlasting life. What unbounded riches are ours through Him! Compared with them all the riches of this world are as nothing! In this gift, in our Christ, lies the only source of true happiness for all that are earthborn. People may chase after earthly possessions, positions of affluence, preferment, honor and power, but they will never be satisfied, never be truly happy, never come to rest until their lives are anchord in Jesus Christ, the world's Redeemer. With this great gift that any one may have for the taking, with its provisions for nurture, for instruction, for guidance, for earthly and eternal happiness, men have no need for going astray, for ignorance, for failure, or for any possible disaster, but a clear course is before them for a bright, blessed and eternal future.

Are We Thankful?

"When thou hast eaten and art full, then thou shalt bless the Lord thy God."—Deut. 8:10—This is a very natural request. For should not all thinking people feel an urge to thank anyone who gives them something of value. Most of us dislike ungrateful people. Are we as thankful as our fathers and grandfathers used to be? How about prayer at table? It can probably be taken for granted that in most of our Mennonite families "thanks are returned," or "grace asked," at the beginning of a meal. But our text says, when you have eaten, you shall bless the Lord. Do we still do that? Are we treating God right, if we neglect to do what the people of the Old Testament did? Are not table prayers and family devotions visible signs of our inner attitude toward God? If God is truly great in our estimation and if we realize that we are absolutely dependent on him, then we will receive even the smallest gift as coming from His hand, and we will not only thank but praise God. —Who should pray or offer thanks at table? As evident as it is that there should be prayer at the table in the Christian home, so clear is it that the father of the home should exercise this prerogative, as God's representative in the house. And his prayers should be expressions of felt needs and gratitudes at each occasion, not stereotyped. It is a question whether it is a wise thing for parents to delegate the table prayer to children, as they are apt to taper out into mere form. But as children become grown up why shouldn't they and their parents often take turns about to say grace. They need to learn to pray openly, and where is there a better place to get practice than the home?

Should There Be A Change?

As we Mennonites of the General Conference are quite democratic in handling the affairs of church and conference, it is natural that each conference district feels that it should be represented on the different boards and committees. But it seems hard to put that into practice. Sometimes the Nominating Committee may not use quite sufficient foresight in selecting candidates, and then again some district conferences have larger delegations and have larger voting power than others, which is nearly always the case with the large Western district. Thus the apportionment of offices may become quite lopsided, as is shown in the following table:

Conference District	Foreign Missions	Home Missions	Publication	Education	Relief	Trustees	Business Committee	Peace Committee	Placement Committee	Totals
Eastern Dist.	1	2			1			1	1	6
Middle Dist.		1	1	1				1	1	5
Western Dist.	4	1	2	1	3	5	1	1	1	19
Northern Dist.	1		1	2	1			1		6
Pacific Dist.		1	1	2		1	1	1	1	8
Canada Dist.		1	1		1		1	1	2	7

From this table it can be seen that the Western District has all but two members of the Foreign Mission Board, which is hardly fair, but has its advantage in the fact that the four Mission members in the district are close enough together to be able to meet readily and do a great deal of work for the Board, without the necessity of calling the whole group together. The Home Mission Board again is so widely scattered that it takes much time and travel to meet. That difficulty is a great handicap to any board. Doing business, discussing action on any problem by correspondence is not satisfactory. Really satisfactory work can be done only, when a board can meet around a table and talk things over. Would it be better then, to elect the members of each of the six standing boards, for instance, all from the same district? While on the one hand it would probably insure more intelligent and more efficient action, would it not on the other hand tend to center the interest of such a district in the branch of work alloted to it, to the loss of interest and support of the work of other branches? These are interesting problems, and it might not be amiss to take them up for discussion at a coming conference.

FOREIGN MISSIONS

P. H. Richert, Sec.

K'ai Chow, Hopei, N. China
Sept. 15, 1938

Dear Ones in the Homeland:

This is the first letter to you since I arrived safely at the mission station. I have not much time to write, so will you please excuse any mistakes.

I left Seattle, Washington, on the 13th of April, on the President Jackson of the Dollar S. S. Co. There were only two passengers on that trip, Miss Margaret Atkinson, traveling to Manila, P. I. and myself. We had the great big ship all to ourselves, occupied first class cabins, with all its conveniences, the weather was not rough, only very cloudy and rainy, so that we were out on our deck-chairs, only two days.

Our boat docked at Kobe, Japan, on April 28. I stayed in that city until May 2 and sailed on a Japanese boat to Tientsin, China, where I arrived at the National Holiness Association Mission, May 7. There I met our former Missionary worker, Miss Talitha Neufeld, who was teaching music in the Bible Seminary of that Mission. On May 12, Miss Fast of our Mission arrived in Tienstsin from Hongkong, and we both remained at that place until July 4. Then we started inland, stopping at Peiping for a day. We travelled in a group of 13 of the National Holiness Mission, together with Mr. W. C. Voth of our Mission. All along the railroad we saw remains of the conflict—trenches for guns, sandbags stacked up for barricades, wire entanglements, buildings all shot to pieces, etc. At one place was a newly erected tombstone marking the fall of a Japanese general. Telephone poles and wires were cut. At one station our train stopped unusually long and we heard some one say, that the railroad officials were expecting trouble ahead and sent troops to find out, before we could proceed. We arrived at Hantan on the second day, stayed in the Nazarene Mission, and arranged for the next day's trip across the country on rickshaws and mule carts. What ordinarily took four hours by auto, now took two days of slow, rough travel on wooden carts. We walked much of the way, and in our hearts we prayed and sang, looking forward to another term of service, in whatever situation and condition it may be.

Saturday evening, July 9, we arrived at our Taming Mission station. Just as we pulled up into the yard, we saw a large group of people near the gate. Some one came to tell us that one dear young couple of our group of mission workers was just taking their little first-born son out of the burial ground. The thought came to me, how much sorrow lies ahead of me and how much of it will I be able to help to either cure or alleviate?! The next day I met the young mother, suffering with her breasts. I was able to relieve her with simple home remedies and she seemed so grateful. Already I felt I would be needed.

Next day was Sunday, we rested and attended the meetings held in the missionary's home. On Monday came Rev. S. F. and Dr. C. L. Pannabecker and our headnurse, Mr. Wang, from K'ai Chow to see the new "Arrival"! I was glad to see them. They reported all was quiet at K'ai Chow, after a very eventful spring season. They did not look so hard-worked, for they said they had had a month's time to catch up in spirit and body. Later I saw a picture taken at the time of invasion and they did look quite well "frazzled." It was hard to meet the enemy of the people whom we have come to serve.

With two days' rest and becoming reacquainted, we all started to go back to K'ai Chow, the last hop of the long journey for me—how happy to be nearing "home"! It had rained several days and the roads did not allow travelling on carts, so we got a rickshaw for the few necessary things, myself riding part of the way. The two brothers rode on ahead, to get back to K'ai Chow as soon as possible. The Chinese nurse on his bicycle travelled slowly, part of the time walking and wading through water and mud, keeping me company. I too waded at intervals those three days and finally reached K'ai Chow on Saturday noon, having been on the way from America since April 13, and now it was July 16, three months and three days! This is to prove to many friends and interested folks at home that I was careful not to move into danger unnecessarily, as I promised before I left. Whenever I felt God opened the door, I went forward, and when I was advised not to travel alone into the interior in China, I waited at Tientsin until there was a group of missionaries going to the field. Along the way I did not meet with any inconvenience or danger, whatsoever, praise the Lord! who now wants me here again at the hospital. Formerly we had 15-20 patients every day, now we have 30 and more. And it is the same kind of suffering, intense and painful as I have known in past years. I am so happy to be back at my post. So many people here have told me they know it is God sending me, now when things are so unsettled. They tell me, they have prayed for my coming and I tell them there are many friends praying in the homeland for this land and its suffering people.

Since coming here, I have been busy almost day and night. First thing we did was to organize our nursing department. Then we looked for new students, since four of our trained men nurses went into military service in our town here. New people need a lot of supervision and teaching and that is why we have been so busy. Then too our patients are more numerous than formerly. I wish I had twice the strength of my present capacity!

War situation: There is fighting these days at our north station, Taming, 45 miles away.—May we ask our churches to pray that "God will bring a speedy and righteous settlement of the frightful conflict."

With sincere greetings to the churches,

Yours sincerely, Elizabeth D. Goertz.

Peace Committee Reorganizes

The Peace Committee of the General Conference has recently reorganized as follows:—President, E. L. Harshbarger, Bethel College, Kansas; Secretary, E. J. Bohn, Souderton, Penna.; Treasurer, L. J. Horsch, Upland, California. Other members are H. T. Unruh, Bluffton, Ohio; Johann G. Rempel, Rosthern, Saskatchewan, and John J. Gering, Marion, South Dakota.

The committee is sadly in need of funds to carry on its work. All contributions should be sent to the treasurer, L. J. Horsch, Upland, California.

NEGATIVE RELIGION

There is a type of soul in the world which is noble in its struggles but futile in its achievements. Its religion is negative. It seeks to become sinless without becoming holy, or tries to rid itself of unrighteousness without becoming Christlike.

It was for this type of character which seeks to be rid of sin by a negative process that Jesus told the story of a man who mismanaged his spiritual life. He expelled the evil spirit, swept and garnished the house, and then left it empty. Shortly, it was filled with more evil spirits than before. Jesus means there is no such thing as the empty house. The souls of men are always inhabited. The empty soul, sinless and nothing more, is impossible.—Wesleyan Christian Advocate.

Distorted Religiosity

He was a man of somber creeds,
Of dogmas all his own,
And all his philosophic needs
Were in this crevice grown:

All sons of man are full of wrath;
Grim judgments lie ahead;
God gives to him who amply hath;
Man's primal goodness, dead.

His views were sure — the Sovereign God
Had shown him he was right.
His own beliefs he would applaud;
All others he would smite.

The world, so loathsome, should be borne
For want of better spheres;
Humanity, estranged, was torn
And racked, and doomed to tears.

Thus stunned by little thoughts of Him
He lost the large and true,
Nor saw against his outlook dim
The light of God shine through.

To him the sun was but a sun
And called but forth to toil:
He did not see the Holy One
Alive on earthly soil.

He did not feel Him in the breeze,
Nor see Him in the sky;
God's growing love upon the trees
Escaped his roving eye.

He did not find Him at his feet,
Nor see Him close at hand;
The rose that made His kindness sweet
Was neither good nor grand.

He died at last, and back to earth
That which he took was given—
The loam that long before gave birth
To man belittling Heaven.

O sing a dirge, and toll the bells
(The fields accept a clod)
The saddest tragedy earth tells—
What man has made of God.

Bethel College Past President's Meeting

Tuesday Evening, October 11

Address given by Mr. Paul Kliewer, Son of former President J. W. Kliewer

This occasion is a privilege. It is also an embarrassment. It is a privilege to pay tribute, in a measure, to an individual so closely associated with Bethel College for more than two decades. It is embarrassing when it is done by one bearing so close a relationship, and in the presence of many who probably knew him better, at least from a professional standpoint.

My intention is to cover briefly the periods during which J. W. Kliewer served as President of Bethel College. This observation must of necessity be rather personal in nature, for it is my desire to point out a few observations centered around the tasks of a college administrator as observed mainly by a younger person in the home.

To that end I hope you will excuse certain evidences of what I consider justifiable filial tribute and pride which may appear, and the further realization that it is somewhat difficult to speak impassively of a home which no longer exists.

Our family moved from Berne, Indiana, to Newton, in 1911, and being only two years of age, that event is quite obscure in my memory. The first winter, we lived in town, and one definite recollection of that winter was a ride to the college campus in Prof. D. A. Hirschler's automobile, a thrilling journey of nearly a mile and a half. Until we moved to the campus, the college to me was merely a place where Prof. Hirschler's "auto" went.

Then came years of childhood activity spent in the busy atmosphere of the college campus. Presence of the college itself was little felt except on occasions which would impress a youngster most, such as the athletic events, and when it was "Public Literary Program" evening, etc. Other outstanding events during this period were: The accrediting of Bethel's four year college course by the Kansas State Board of Education in 1916; securing the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra for the Oratorio rendition during Commencement week; the faculty-student Thanksgiving Day dinners; the exciting basketball games in the old gym, and other similar events.

We always had an abundance of company in the home; neighbors, students, and frequently visitors from near and far. This was always the occasion for meals at the "second table" and the admonition to keep quiet and behave, and no ball games in the parlor. As I look back now, I can realize that father and mother spent much time and effort in making visitors in the home feel welcome, and in making them comfortable.

I have in my possession a visitor's register which father and mother maintained from 1903 to more recent years, which bore the eleven hundredth name when discontinued. It might be interesting to mention that the names of the other three past Presidents of Bethel College appear in it. This register is prefaced with three biblical passages concerning Christian hospitality: Romans 12:13 "Given to Hospitality," I Peter 4:9, "Use hospitality one to another without grudging," and Hebrews 13:2 "Be not forgetful to entertain strangers." And truly, this spirit of Christian hospitality always existed.

The stirring years of 1917 and 1918, when war clouds fatefully enveloped this country, were days recalled by memories of unusual and dramatic incidents in the home, at the college, and in the community. Bearing the multiple duty of school, church, home, father was also busy at helping to solve the many problems which arose among our Mennonite people incident to the entrance of the United States into the World War. Of course I was still too young to fully feel the stress of the times. I remember especially hearing father tell of an interview at Washington, D. C., with wartime Sec. of War, Baker, in an effort to secure certain concessions for the Mennonite boys at the various camps.

The college during this time was facing a critical situation, for naturally there was a good deal of anti-German sentiment during the war period. A sane and uncompromising stand on peace was hard to maintain. Soon after the Armistice, father was asked to speak at a memorial service for those who had died in the war. Here was a ticklish situation, some pointing out that it was a trap set to catch him with his peace policy. Of this incident he said, "I spoke according to my convictions, realizing that there were many parents in my audience who wished they could have stopped the war before their sons had fallen victims of it." The audience proved sympathetic and later the address appeared in the local newspaper.

We children in the home soon discovered that we possessed no particular advantage because of father's connection with the college. In fact, it often seemed to be a disadvantage. We felt that our behavior was more or less under observation at all times, and were sometimes reminded that any problems of discipline arising in the student body must first be thoroughly settled at home. I fear that at times this constant responsibility was too great to be successfully borne.

One rather trivial incident may illustrate this. While still in grade school I had gone one evening to one of the men's dormitories and had caused certain annoyances to one of the men who was attempting to study. His patience at an end, he suddenly pursued me, and since my ability to retreat was not as great as my desire to do so, I was captured in short order and thoroughly drenched under a convenient water hydrant. The ceremony completed, I hurried home, convinced that father must know of the outrage and that quick punishment would surely be meted out to that particular student. My sudden entrance into father's study caused no great sensation, except for some evidence of mirth concerning my appearance. I quickly explained that I had been cruelly mistreated, but father merely laughed and said that I probably deserved it and he hoped I had been taught a lesson. I made my exit in confusion, with my hopes for a speedy justice considerably dampened.

In regard to the ever present disciplinary problems which arise in any institution of this type, we can see as we grow older the necessity for various actions which are taken, but while still in school, young people often fail to appreciate or understand this phase of their college activities. I believe that Father's approach to this question was as fair and broadminded as it could be under the existing circumstances.

His attitude toward youth may best be illustrated by quoting his own words when he wrote the following. "A school is a place for learning. But a school as a place of learning includes more than the mere work outlined in the curriculum. In the social function of the school the student learns how to behave without offending the better tastes of good society. In the athletic activities hardiness of body is acquired, and support of the team fosters the thought of community responsibility. Even the tricks played and the jokes cracked have their lesson for both perpetrator and victim. Work and play, seriousness and jolliness, sage sayings and flippant remarks may give a varicolored view of school life. Such however is the life where the exuberance of youth is not suppressed, but where an attempt is made to give it proper direction, educationally, socially and religiously."

When in 1925, after an absence of several years, father again became president of Bethel, I was a student in the Academy and old enough to begin noticing and feeling various problems as they appeared and were reflected in actions and remarks at home. Not that there was much of this, for those of you who knew him well realize that his quiet reticence and his ability to suppress his feelings would not leave much to notice in this regard. I have often felt that this tendency to suppress an outburst and remain calm and quiet was much more of an effort than it appeared, and possibly tended to hasten a physical breakdown. Yet this was a trait admired by all.

It was easy to observe that two of the major problems confronting the successful administration of Bethel College were: First, a sufficient financial income to operate properly; and second, the constant task of mediating between various factions of the constituency of the school.

How often I recall hearing remarks centered on these two problems. The exact words are gone, but their import remains. Father sometimes said that surely the founders of Bethel College had no idea what financial undertaking would be connected with the institution; and he never enjoyed the task of soliciting money for the financial support of the school.

I recall one evening in Chicago during the winter of 1931. He and I attended a meeting at which Robert Maynard Hutchins, President of the University of Chicago, gave a fine lecture on new educational methods. Afterwards, father made the following remark, "Yes, it must be pleasant to be able to speak with such assurance and interest in an educational undertaking, with a large endowment, unlimited resources, no financial worries; however, we are not all so fortunately situated."

On this occasion he also spoke of hopes for the accrediting of Bethel College by the North Central Association. For years he had advocated the attempt to meet these requirements, and was often met with unfriendly opposition. Yet he continued working toward the day when the hope would be realized. Unfortunately he failed by several months to see that task accomplished; a task on which he had spent much time and effort, and the achievement of which, could he have but known it, would have brought him great satisfaction.

I have mentioned that a major problem was that of "Mediating" between factions in the constituency of the school. I believe that this also has a direct bearing on the difficulty of obtaining adequate financial support. How much time and effort has been expended on meaningless and shallow opposition to the sincere effort to carry on a noble Christian institution. I need not repeat what his opposition has been, nor need I mention names or deal in personalities. You all perhaps know what they are. It is my personal opinion that this type of opposition is not only un-Christian, but reveals a smallness of character which is to be pitied. The serious and all important task of guiding and molding young lives into the proper Christian atmosphere is one which requires a full measure of cooperation and sincere help, rather than an opportunity to voice petty and often trivial opposition to individuals connected with, or methods employed by the school. If this misplaced activity could be directed into a program of help and cooperation, how much more worthwhile and effective it could be.

In closing, I might add that perhaps this has been too much of a tribute to one man. However, I feel that to recount some occurrences in the life of a man connected with an educational instiution like Bethel College for some two decades can be nothing short of a tribute, and I have attempted that with all due respect. I think also of others who have expressed this tribute in writing far better than I can—of a veteran faculty member of Bethel College who referred to the leadership of J. W. Kliewer as an influential factor in the "forward movement of Bethel," and who further stated, "as to his religious convictions, they were grounded in the great fundamentals of the Christian faith. And as to his personality, he was at all times a gentleman, using that term in its noblest sense."

Here then is a priceless heritage. It puts a challenge to those of us who remain, to exert that same full measure of Christian devotion to a great cause.

Bethel College stands today a living institution, attesting to the faith and devotion of those men and women who served her in the past. And with them may we say, God grant that her continued progress be ever forward and upward.

America's Miracle Broadcast

Within the last few years something wholly unprecedented, almost miraculous in some of its facts, has quietly come to pass in the field of radio broadcasting. THE SUNDAY SCHOOL TIMES (Philadelphia) will publish an exclusive story of this, written by the Editor, in the issue of October 22.

There is only one nation-wide coast-to-coast broadcast of Fundamental Christian Evangelism in the United States today. It is immense in its sweep and coverage, with 117 stations from California to Maine and Florida to Alaska, reaching also, by short wave, Alaska, Hawaii, and New Zealand.

Charles E. Fuller of Los Angeles began his broadcasting work in a very small way a few years ago. Little by little came larger demands for his message, until today he is on the air every Sunday night for a full hour, reaching millions of hearers, and the letters that pour into his office from all over North America bear amazing testimony to his ministry.

And how many souls are being saved; lives reclaimed; suicides prevented; and young people and older are being built up in the Christian faith. The Old Fashioned Revival Hour moves like clock-work through its sixty minutes of paid-for time; a well-trained choir, under a competent choir leader, sings the old hymns; one of the finest of male quartets, every member of which is a consecrated Christian, makes one think of the famous Revelers Quartet for beauty of tone and blending of voices; heart-breaking, tragic, or uplifting letters from listeners are read by Mrs. Fuller; and then the straightforward, evangelistic and Bible-teaching message of Mr. Fuller reaches hearts and souls in uncounted numbers.

Leading secular magazines are after his story now, but THE SUNDAY SCHOOL TIMES has the honor of publishing the first exclusive story of this amazing event in the religious life and radio sensations of North America. Charles Trumball, Editor of the TIMES, is an intimate personal friend of Mr. Fuller and has been able to get facts not otherwise accessible. There will be an edition of at least 105,000 copies of the issue of the TIMES containing this story.

HONORING OUR PARENTS

Ex. 20:12; Luke 2:46-52; John 19:26, 27; Eph. 6:1-4

Introduction

We know little of Jesus' conduct in the home. We are told that He was "subject to" his parents, that he grew and waxed strong and in favor with God and man. His parents were devout and regularly went to the Passover feast. Too many parents today do not regularly attend public worship nor practice religion in the home.

The Fifth Commandment v 12

The Decalogue accords a high position to parents. The duty toward them stands next to our duties toward God. Obedience and honor to parents is essential to one's welfare. Due regard is to be given those to whom we owe our being. "A well-ordered family life is basic to the peace, prosperity and stability of a people." A Christian home life is of supreme importance. Four things enter into obedience to this commandment: respect for parents, listening to them, obedience and support of them. Parents owe it to their children to so live and act as to make obedience to this commandment easy.

The Examples of Jesus Lk. 2:46-52; Jn. 19:26, 27

Jesus as a boy learned the scriptures and the Holy Spirit interpreted their innermost meaning to Him. He enjoyed being in the temple—the Father's House—and there he was found (v46). He set a worthy example for the youth of today. He sought the company of those—the doctors—from whom he might learn. His understanding astonished them. God's house is attractive to the true child of God. Jesus felt it his duty to be about His Father's business in His house (v49). Jesus respected the wishes of his parents and returned home with them and was obedient in all duty to them (v51). For nearly twenty years He remained in obscurity in the Nazareth home. He was growing into manhood and preparing for the work the Father gave him to do. He is a fine example for those who would rush immature and unprepared into the ministry of the Lord. Jesus grew physically, mentally and spiritually, pleasing both God and man (v52). Being pleasing to God, is the first necessity. He grew in wisdom, the right use of knowledge, practical common sense.

Jesus honored his mother to the end of his life (vs. 26, 27), even on the cross He thought of her needs and welfare. "Behold thy son," was the language of pure natural affection for his mother and He asked John to take her to his home and treat her as his own mother.

Parent-Child Relationship vs 1-4

Children are to obey their parents in the spirit of the Lord—Paul writing to Christians—this is the right attitude toward parents (v1). Parents are to be honored with due respect, kind words, defense of their good name. God has directly promised to reward such marks of honor. Parents also have their obligations to be reasonable in their demands of their children, provide the proper nurture for body, mind and spirit, "in the admonition of the Lord" (v4). Parental discipline is to be exercised in a Christian manner. It seems that in our day there is a decline in definite, organized home life and Christian training of children. A natural result follows when young people fail to honor such parents with proper filial devotion and love .

The Recent Western District Conference

The Western District, which embraces southern Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, and fragments of northern Texas and eastern Colorado, usually holds its sessions in Kansas. But this year it went to Enid, and the Ministers' Conference preceding it to Meno, Oklahoma. Meno is a small village, the seat of Oklahoma Bible Academy. Enid is a city of about 35,000. Both conferences were well attended.

The Ministers' Conference was opened with a short address by its chairman, Rev. D. C. Wedel while Rev. H. U. Schmidt, pastor of the host church, (New Hopedale), preached the conference sermons.

Rev. J. M. Regier discussed the topic The Minister as a Man of Faith. He maintained that the minister must have faith in himself, faith in the word of God, and in the power of the Gospel today, faith in the ultimate triumph of right and justice. Rev. Franz Albrecht spoke on the topic, The Minister as a Man of Obedience. A minister must be obedient to God, to the church, to the leading of the Spirit, to the needs of his church.—At the afternoon session, two young ministers spoke. Rev. Arnold Funk treated the topic, The Minister as a Citizen of his Community, and Rev. Walter Dyck, The Minister as a Citizen of his Country. As the substance of both papers will be brought in the Mennonite. in due time, we will simply state here that they both showed careful study and thought. Near the close, Dr. H. C. Richert, a member of the Conference Peace Committee, brought up the question of our attitude toward those who are tempted to follow a new way to obtain citizenship. This question was passed on to the Conference in Enid. The local church gave the ministers and all guests a warm reception and furnished good free meals during the day.—The officers, Rev. D. C. Wedel, chairman, and Rev. Walter Goering, secretary, were reelected.

For the conference session at Enid, Rev. H. N. Harder, pastor of the mission church there, and the faithful members of his flock had made ample provisions for suitable quarters for the sessions and entertainment for the guests. Since the group of Mennonites in the city is small, lodging accommodations had been listed in hotels, cabins, and in non-Mennonite private homes, and good meals at reasonable prices could be had in cafes and restaurants. Many of the delegates and visitors took to the hotels and filled better types of them to capacity. The city gave the Conference a warm official welcome and furnished its splendid Convention Hall in the Education Building for the session.

The first day's session was opened with a worship service by the vice president, M. Horsch. Following this, the president, Rev. P. P. Wedel, preached the Conference sermon, on the theme, "Occupy till I come." It was a splendid effort well worthy of publication in our church papers. The BUNDESBOTE has already brought it in German and we shall soon bring it in English in the MENNONITE. This was succeeded by the routine of usual business matters, such as the reading of minutes of the previous session, reading of delegates' credentials, appointment of committees, etc. Since the old officers had served their alloted terms, a new set was elected: President, J. M. Regier; vice president, Abr. Warkentin; secretary, Henry Hege. The report of the statistician showed the Conference has 58 churches, 10,173 members, 3390 children below the age of 16, of whom apparently 897 receive religious instruction other than in the Sunday School. The financial contributions for 1937 were: For local church report, $73,569; for Foreign Mission, $25,589; for Home Missions, $9,367; for Relief, $9,367; for Education, conference, etc., $28,560; total for the year $144,903. It is the editor's maxim that Christian churches should spend as much for the support of missions, charity, education and other outside needs as they spend upon themselves, in other words, there should be a 50-50 division, according to the teachings of Jesus, Love thy neighbor as thyself. The Western District Churches have spent $73,569 upon themselves, and $71,336 to supply other needs.

The report of the Home Mission Committee showed that the city missions and small isolated groups scattered on the outskirts of the Conference territory are ministered to as well as can be expected. The Wichita church shows a healthy growth and the Enid Mission, now named Grace Church, is in dire need of a church building, which the Committee is to get started and built, as soon as the funds are available.

The Education Committee showed that the Conference Loan Library is now established. Nearly 900 books are housed in shelves, cataloged and made available for loan to churches or individuals. Churches may borrow 25 books at one time, individuals five. The books may be kept for two months. Orders should be addressed: LOAN LIBRARY, BETHEL COLLEGE, KANSAS (after December 1, 1938, North Newton, Kansas. The committee urged strongly the maintenance of teacher training classes by all churches during the winter, and daily vacation Bible schools in spring.

The report of the Trustees showed careful stewardship of considerable assets.

Bethel College, Newton, Kansas, which is virtually the Conference school, reported an enrollment of 357 students, 20 more than last year, with much larger junior and senior classes than usual. President E. G. Kaufman read a paper "What the Church and Its Colleges May Expect from Each Other" which is so rich and convincing that it should be read and pondered by all General Conference members, and far beyond. It is booked for the next Mennonite.

In between, a professor of Theology from Phillips University, Enid, Oklahoma, gave an address. Then the Deaconess Committee, the Hospitals and Charity Committee were heard from. The Peace Committee showed that it had been active in spreading peace literature and maintaining a peace speaker bureau. And in conclusion they offered an important resolution of which we have no copy.

The Memorial Committee presented the names of the following departed workers for a few minutes of mourning and prayer: J. W. Kliewer, Peter Goertz, and S. M. Musselman.

For the usual morning worship programs, Rev. Harder had made arrangements with radio station KCRC. The brethren D. C. Wedel, C. E. Krehbiel, M. Horsch and P. P. Wedel each served one morning, while A. E. Kreider and Walter Goering gave programs toward evening.

At the Young People's Program Arthur Wenger, F. A. Mueller and Henry Hege spoke interestingly on different topics pertaining to young folks and the Bethel College quartet sang.

The Mission Program, by the Women's Missionary Society, on the evening of the second conference day, is said to have been good and well attended, but, unfortunately, this scribe could not be present.

Though the session was scheduled for three days, it was possible to finish all work in two days.

Having once begun to meet in a larger city, and with good results, the Conference voted to hold its next session in Wichita, a city with a population of 120,000.

We are sorry we do not have a copy of the final conference resolutions. They will appear in the printed conference report.

—Rev. J. J. Plenert Reports Change of Address: "As treasurer of the Home Mission Board of the General Conference, I wish you would inform the readers of THE MENNONITE of my change of address, from 2442 North Street, Philadelphia, to 429 Knorr Street, Philadelphia, Pa., after the first of November.—J. J. Plenert."

Early Settlers Memorial Festival

AT MOUNTAIN LAKE, MINNESOTA

Sunday, Oct. 23, was a day long to be remembered by the good people of Mountain Lake. It was Old Settlers' Day. Some of the aged leading Mennonite brethren of the community had arranged for afternoon and evening programs, in which to recount the early experiences and to give thanks to God for His blessings. In the afternoon at the Bethel Church, after a few familiar praise songs, Rev. John Bartel read Psalm 107:28-30, and added welcoming remarks. The Bethel male chorus sang "Lobe den Herren." I. I. Bargen, (80) chairman, in an opening address stated that the main reason for the festival was to give thanks to God, who directed the pioneers to this country and wrought wonders among them; another reason was to give valuable information to the present generation.

The M. B. male chorus sang, "Nun danket alle Gott," after which Rev. J. J. Balzer (78) discussed the reasons for the Mennonite movements, which was threat of military service, and how the privileges extended to the Mennonites by Empress Catherine of Russia were in due time also abrogated, so that the fathers had to bring their families to America. Mr. Bargen then gave an interesting picture of the departure from the adopted country to the Land of Promise—America. Upon the suggestion of F. W. Hiebert (73) of Bingham Lake, all those present who immigrated during the years 1773-1783 were requested to rise, and there were 71 of them.—The Hilty Brothers of Bluffton, Ohio, then rendered a beautiful duet, "The Lord is my Light and my Salvation."

In the evening a huge crowd gathered at the High School Auditorium. Following a song service, Rev. H. E. Wiens read Psalm 105:1-7 and prayed. Then H. J. Fast (78) described the hardships and limitations that the settlers had to cope with, the grasshopper plague, primitive transportation facilities, starting of the church, and Sunday School, etc. But how, through hard work and answered prayer things began to improve and progress was made.

A male quartet from the First Mennonite Church sang, "Faeden aus reinem Gold." F. W. Hiebert pictured the efforts put forth by the early settlers to adapt themselves to the new environment, and read a list of more than sixty early pioneers who died in this country within a year's time. After a song by the Bergfelder church, the Reverend J. J. Balzer closed with a challenge to the present generation to continue to build upon the foundation laid by their forefathers.—Mountain Lake Observer.

Russia.—Instruction in Atheism will be obligatory in all schools of Soviet Russia during 1939, according to recent reports. To prepare teachers a pedagogical institute for instruction in atheism is to be established.

To Tithe or Not to Tithe

(John, Jim, and Laura are gathered around the table on which are a world atlas and a checker board.)

John—That was a fine game of checkers we've just finished, Jim. It's much more fun than worrying if the poor heathen are going to have their old mission school open or closed next year.

Jim—That was a fine game all right. I enjoyed it, too. But I think our mission club is sort of fun too. I really get a lot of fun out of what you call worrying about the poor heathen.

Laura—Say, Jim, what fun can you get out of doing things for people we have never seen. I don't see why you're so interested in them.

Jim—Well, I have a letter here (shows letter) from one of the boys in that mission school, and he seems to be much the same sort of fella' you and I are, John. Only that he says before the mission school came they had never known about a kind and loving God, or that they were to be kind and loving among themselves, and so they were afraid that their God might be angry at them, and they also were often really mean among themselves, stealing and lying and not caring what happened to anybody who was sick or poor.

John—So you think the mission school did a lot of good? Is that why you always give part of your money for missions?

Jim—Why, yes, of course. That is one reason. I like to think of those boys being happier and, you know, being Christians because we did our share to help keep up the mission school.

Laura—What do you call doing our share? How much of your money do you give?

Jim—Why, for missions and church and whatever I give for the Kingdom purposes—such as relief and, oh, helping the negroes—I take one-tenth of my money.

Laura—Why do you take a tenth? Isn't that kind of—well—a lot sometimes, when you want to save for something you want to get for yourself?

John—Like when you want a bicycle, or a pony?

Jim—No, I take a tenth, because that is a good system as you will agree. Lots of people have tried it and found it so.

Laura—What people? Tell us about them.

Jim—Well, even in the Old Testament, as big a man as Abraham gave the tenth. Then under Moses' leadership the children of Israel started doing it, and they kept it up all through the centuries, and they were doing it when Christ came.

Laura—That was long ago; what I mean, is anybody doing it now?

Jim—Oh yes, quite a few people are, and they are among the finest and best. And they all like it and say they want to keep on doing it.

John—But why do they do it?

Jim—One reason why they do it is that Jesus said when the Jews were tithing their little things like mint and other garden herbs, that they should not pass judgment and the love of God, but he also added that they should not leave tithing undone.

Laura—Is that a law then for every Christian?

Jim—I don't think so, because Christ gave us no laws. He wanted our hearts to be ruled by love. But I think our love to Him should be big enough that we would want to give at least a tenth to Him.

John—Come to think of it, it seems that is not a bad idea; and it would put system into our giving, and help everybody do things in a business like way.

Jim—The great apostle, Paul, likes system, too. He said to take an offering every first day of the week and for people to give according to what they had, so they would have the money ready when it would be called for.

Laura—What I have been wondering is this: If Christians were tithing, would that bring in more money than what is being given now through all the collections and drives and other extra efforts.

Jim—Yes, it would; and a lot more. It has been figured out that if all Christians were tithing there would be plenty of money to take care of all the home expenses of the church, of all church schools, of all home and foreign mission work, of the relief and charity work such as hospitals, and there would be money in the treasury to enlarge the present work.

John—That sounds good, almost too good to be true; but would we like it, and would it pay?

(There is a knock at the door. John opens it and Eleanor comes in.)

John—How do you do, Eleanor? And what brings you here?

Eleanor—Oh, I'm so happy. I just had to come and tell you people.

Laura—You surely look it. What is it all about?

Eleanor—Well, you know I started tithing a year ago, and I have just gone over my accounts, and what do you think I found?

John—(ironically) That you could get along on less money, I suppose, and like it?

Eleanor—That is what I thought a year ago when I started. But what has actually happened is that somehow I have earned more this year, and besides I have been happier and have felt more joy than ever before.

John—You mean you actually had more money come in?

Eleanor—Yes, Just that. It has proved true what Malachi, the prophet, says, that God has opened the windows of heaven and blessed tithing bountifully even with earthly goods. But I would keep on doing it even if the blessing would not be in earthly goods next year, because I have found that there is such a rich spiritual blessing in it.

Laura—Do you think we would find it too if we would try tithing?

Eleanor—I'm sure you would. Oh, you have an Atlas here. Let's look up some of the places where we will be helping along with our tithe. You will be surprised how interesting this world gets to be if you know that your money goes to so many different places in it.

Jim—And how interesting the people are, that you get to know more about.

John—It sounds jolly, all right. I think I'll try tithing for a year.

Laura—So will I. If it makes anybody as happy as Eleanor seems to be, it should be a fine thing.

Eleanor—You will like it. But now, you bring the Atlas, John, and we'll go out on the porch to study it a little and see just where our mission schools are located.

Jim—I'm sure we shall all enjoy that. And I think Laura and John will be glad that they have joined our tithers' band. Come on, let's go.

How Young People Can Help to Build A Warless World

Mic. 4:2. Rom. 12:17-21

Young People's Topic for Sunday November 13

Meditations:

M., Nov. 7. By exposing the horrors of war. 2 Sam. 12:29-31.

T., Nov. 8. By rising above race differences. Gal. 3:27-29.

W., Nov. 9. By overcoming race hatred. Col. 3:10-17.

T., Nov. 10. By supporting international brotherhood. 1 John 3:11-18.

F., Nov. 11. By refusing to bow down to Mars. Dan. 3:8-18.

S., Nov. 12. By demanding peace. Heb. 12:14.

Suggested Hymns:

"Down in my Heart." "Sweet Peace the Gift of God's Love."

The above topic needs no introduction to Mennonites for they have championed the cause of peace for over four hundred years. In this time our forefathers believed in the cause of peace but, what is more important, they suffered great persecution for that belief. No one can estimate the full fruit of such suffering and such a testimony for today many other Church groups are pledging themselves to the cause of peace and are carrying with us the Christian pacifist peace testimony to the world.

But there is no reason to boast, for war has not been removed! Hence the question—What shall young people do to make their peace conviction a living reality? How shall young people help realize the prophecy of Mica that nations "shall beat their swords into plowshares and their spears into pruninghooks . ." (Ch. 4:3.)

In answer to the foregoing question the following list is submitted, not as the perfect and final answer to the question. Rather it is made as a suggested list which each young peorson, each Mennonite young people's committee, each Mennonite C. E. group might well consider as definite points of action.

1. C. E. Peace Rallys—such as are held in the Eastern District. For information write to Olin Krehbiel, Lansdale, Penna.

2. Peace lectures and discussions at retreats as several retreat committees are considering.

3. Peace Oratory. A very successful oratory was held in the Western District Y. P. Convention last year.

4. Keeping in contact with district peace committees and with General Conference peace committee.

5. Wider use of the traveling secretary, Rev. Fast, using him to get specific peace projects which are being taken up in our various C. E. areas.

6. Making a critical study of the peace message of the Bible. The Western District peace committee published (1935) a four-page leaflet giving the Scriptural basis for peace convictions. This gives numerous Biblical references and will be of help. Eg. Ex. 20:13: Ps. 34:14; Prov. 20:22; Prov. 25:21-22; Matt. 5:9; Matt. 5:40; Matt. 5:44; Mark 11:26; John 15:19, etc.

7. Studying the problem, making an effort to become intelligently acquainted with its various aspects. Some current books to use are: Milne, Peace With Honor; Nichols, Cry Havoc; Richards, Christian's Alternative to War; Gregg, The Power of Non-Violence; Van Kirk, Religion Renounces War; Curti, Peace and War; Allen, The Fight for Peace; Krehbiel, War Peace Amity.

8. Missionary Work. Each individual can be a personal ambassador of peace to those around him. Private and group prayer for peace is most necessary.

9. Peace pageants, plays and worship services could be planned. It is well to refer to Karl Baehr's paper, Peace Program for Mennonite Young People, 1938, for a good list of thorough suggestions for such program topics.

10. Education. Write up pageants and programs for the "Our Youth Says" so that they will serve a wider audience.

11. Everyday living. Live the peace principles at home and in the community.

12. Financial activity. The unchristian forces of the world are heavily subsidized; it is not so with the Christian forces. We must give financial endorsement to worthy individuals and groups who try to give the Christian peace testimony to others.

A Thanksgiving Worship Service

(Decorate the platform to give it a harvest setting. Use two lanterns or candles for lighting. Persons required: quartet and reader behind the scenes. A young man and a young woman dressed in Pilgrim costume)

Song: "America The Beautiful" (Platform with harvest scene) (After the four stanzas have been sung let the quartet continue humming the tune, while the two young people dressed as Pilgrims advance slowly to the middle of the platform and kneel in prayer posture facing each other. They remain in pantomine to the close of the worship service.)

Reader: "To this primeval solitude
They came, the pilgrims of the Right.
Their axes bit into the wood;
They built their homes of brawn and might;
They reared their churches from the sod
Where they could safely worship God;"

Song: "Come, Ye Thankful People," stanza one.

Reader: "Where they could safely worship God;
Could worship him, unhindered, free—
For this they left their own loved land;
For this they crossed a strange, wild sea:
A small, brave, earnest-hearted band.
They set one day aside for prayer,
And God who loved them, blessed them there."

Song: "For the Beauty of the Earth"

Reader: "Ah, we who have grown soft through days
Of endless ease, have need to see
How wise they were, how sane their ways,
How staunch in their nobility;
Have need to find our father's God
Along the way their feet have trod."

Prayer: (reader continues)

"Let us like they bow heart and head in thanksgiving as each one silently expresses his gratitude." "O give thanks unto the Lord: for he is good." Give thanks for a land in which we may worship without being disturbed. (pause) For the church with all its opportunities for worship and service. (pause) For schools that train our minds and hands. (pause) For home and all that it providse for us. (pause) For Christian parents who have directed our steps Christ-ward. (pause) For Christ through whom we have forgiveness and life eternal, who is our saviour, friend and guide. (pause) "The Lord hath done great things for us, whereof we are glad. Bless the Lord, O my soul, and all that is within me, bless his holy name. Bless the Lord, O my soul, and forget not all his benefits."

Amen: sung by quartet.

To Think About

Does gratitude exist that does not express itself in one way or another? Is there life in a seed that does not send forth a blade, when it is exposed to moisture and sunshine in the warm earth? Thanksgiving day is not kept by great crowds gathering in beautiful churches to listen to a pleasing service, nor yet by happy families gathering about tables laden with delicious food. Thanksgiving day is kept by the individual heart that says "Thank you" to God in word and in life. No one else can say "Thank you" for me. It is a personal response that carries with it a special blessing. If your mother says "thank you" to the hostess for John and Mary and all the rest, after you have eaten your Thanksgiving dinner, it cannot mean the same to her or to you as if you said your own "thank you" to her. So no one can give thanks to God for me. If I fail to do it I miss an opportunity and a blessing. It is ours to see that there is gratitude in our hearts and that it is expressed.

Some Questions

1. What gives one a feeling of gratitude? How much does it depend on the size and number of gifts received? Why is it that some people who have everything they wish for are most ungrateful, while others who have barely enough to exist are always grateful?

2. How can one cultivate the feeling and expression of gratitude? Can it be a habit without becoming mechanical?

3. What effect does saying "thank you" from the heart have on one? How does it affect the one who receives it?

4. How can gratitude be expressed other than in words? Plan in advance for the society to give a basket of cheer to some family or needy person.

Benediction: "Bethany Blessing"

"Accept our gratitude, Lord,
For all the blessing Thou dost give;
Direct and guide our daily paths,
And teach us how to live.
For Jesus' sake; Amen."

JUNIOR CORNER

God Wants to Lead Me to the New Home

Deut. 8:1-10; John 3:5; John 14:1-3, 6

Leader's heart preparation: Dr. Clarence Benson, speaking on the importance of life, says: "It is a very solemn thought that whereas every man has his beginning, he has no end. His eternity must be spent somewhere." Israel's travel through the desert is such a vivid picture of God's untiring love. He leads them in infinite patience into the holy land. So also He leads us through the desert of earth into the land of promise. He works with each individual soul for He has made it eternal. Christ said: "What shall it profit a man if he shall gain the whole world and lose his own soul?" Christ teaches, here, the value of a soul. If we could see with the eyes of Christ that look far down the halls of eternity, how much more tenderly, how much more earnestly would we labor with the human soul.

"Open the door for the children,
Tenderly gather them in,
In from the highways and hedges,
In from the places of sin.

Some are so young and so helpless;
Some are so hungry and cold;
Open the door for the children,
Gather them into the fold."

Program Suggestions for November 20, 1938

Call to Service by Quiet Music

Opening Service

1. Sing in unison "Come, Ye That Love the Lord." Verses 1, 2, 4
2. Rise to speak in unison Psalm 23
3. Praise response: "Praise God from Whom All Blessings Flow" (seated)
4. Meditation on "He Leadeth": This could be a musical reading using the song "He Leadeth Me" or it could be an instrumental solo, allowing the group to sing the chorus refrain
5. Leader's prayer of thanksgiving for God's leadership

Mission Minutes: This could be again linked with the month's Happy-Home project by a three-minute prayer period for the homes on the mission fields or a specific home chosen to be remembered. The offering toward the Happy-Home could then be gathered in. (See suggestions for October 30th).

Study Period. Aim: To give a general view of Israel's journey through the wilderness and to teach the truth that we are pilgrims here within a foreign land"

1. Chairman's introduction of subject with Deut. 8:2
2. The Journey Through the Wilderness: A map could be drawn on the board for this study. Mark all the stops that are to be used. Let a group of juniors now take their turn at the map, draw a colored line from stop to stop and retell the incidents at "their" stop. There is a good and very simple map on the cover sheet of this quarter's Christian Sunday School leaflet.
    a. At the Red Sea: Ex. 15:19-21
    b. At Marah: Ex. 15:22-26
    c. Elim: Ex. 15:27
    d. Wilderness of Sin: Ex. 16:1-4, 13-14
    e. Rephidim: Ex. 17:1-7
    f. Mount Sinai: Ex. 19:1; Ex. 20:1-17; Ex. 25:8
    g. Wilderness of Paran: Numbers 13:17-21, 25-14:11, 30-38
    h. Edom: Numbers 21:4-9
    i. Mt. Nebo: Deut. 32:48-50; 34:1-7
    j. Across the Jordon: Joshua 3:5, 14-4:15

    Note: It should be mentioned that these are only a few stops along the wilderness journey.
3. Special music: "Lead Me, Saviour, Lest I Stray"
4. Discussion in charge of leader followed by a brief heart talk. Discussion: Deut. 8:3-7, God's dealing with us. Heart-talk: John 14:1-3, 6, God leads us to the heavenly home through Jesus our Saviour.
5. Speak in unison verse for month: Ps. 103:1, 2
6. Sing in unison song for month: Praise Him! Praise Him!
7. Leader's closing prayer

SERMON SKETCH

Shall We Take A Vacation?

by Newton L. Poling

"Walk as children of light, . . . and have no fellowship with the unfruitful works of darkness" (Eph. 5:8, 11).

People take vacations from work. How about a vacation from life? Can we take a vacation from life?

I. Some people try to take that kind of a vacation.

This is their philosophy: "I work hard all the time. I support my family and I'm faithful in discharging my duty. When I have spare time I can spend it any way I please. I can have a big time during my two weeks off, or I can get drunk over the week end, just so I am at my job when the time comes. It is all right to get away from life for awhile."

Is such a person fooling himself, or is there such a thing as escaping from life?

"It won't count this time," thought the young man as he stole his first money from his employer. But it did count; and when he had gone from bad to worse, he found himself in prison.

"It won't count this time," thought the girl who took her first cigarette. But it did count, and before she knew it she had the habit so bad that she did not want to give it up.

And so it goes. People only deceive themselves when they think they can take a vacation from life.

II. Now what is the principle involved?

It can be stated in several different ways, but it all boils down to this: life is a unit. The whole organism—mind, body and soul—acts as a unit. No part of life can be compartmentalized. Every thought, every feeling, every action comes out of the total personality and in turn has an effect on the whole being. No experience can be insulated so as to have no effect upon the rest of life. Just as a drop of bluing colors all the water in a pan, so every experience, no matter when or how, will color all of life. We can not have a rubbish room in our minds because our minds have no partitions. We must consider ourselves as a unit, and thus there is no way to take a vacation from ourselves.

III. What are we to do?

Paul has the advice we need. "Walk as children of light . . . and have no fellowship with the unfruitful works of darkness." Through Christ we are children of light, and we must have absolutely no fellowship with darkness. We must be 100% Christian. We must walk in the light twenty-four hours a day. Our job is a full-time job. We can not escape from it and still be children of light. We can take no vacations. There are three applications we need to consider.

First, we must not try to separate religion from life. Rather, we must find in religion great principles which can govern our lives all the time. We should not have two sets of standards: one for church and one for life.

Second, those things that are dominant in our lives are determining our destiny. If we like cheap literature better than good literature, the standards of cheap literature will dominate our lives. If popular music is our passion, we shall not gain an appreciation of or liking for better music. Those pursuits in life that claim the major portion of our time will largely determine the kind of persons we are becoming. What we are to be, we are already becoming.

Third, we need to be eternally watchful as to what ingredients we put into life. Everything has its effect. We must walk as children of light and have no fellowship with the unfruitful works of darkness. Our prayer may well be:

"O Jesus, come and dwell in me,
  Walk in my steps this day.
Live in my life, love in my love,
  And speak in all I say.
Think in my thoughts, let all my acts
  Thy very actions be.
So shall it be no longer I
  But Christ that lives in me."

Second Annual Meeting of Indiana Mennonite Missionary Society

at Berne, Indiana

October 13 was a red-letter day which was looked forward to for several weeks by the women's missionary societies in Mennonite churches in various parts of the state.

The neighboring societies of the Grace, Ebenezer, St. John and Bluffton First Mennonite in Ohio were invited to fellowship with us this year, and they responded in splendid numbers. Almost every organization of our own union was also well represented.

The topic for the devotional services for the three sessions was "Stewardship." The stewardship of time and prayer was discussed by Miss Frances Burkhalter and Mrs. N. J. Schmucker read David's words in I Chron. 29 and led in prayer. Several others also led in short prayers. "Jesus Calls Us o'er the Tumult" pleaded for Christians to take time for communion with their Lord.

At the opening of the afternoon meeting, Mrs. E. Salzman spoke on the Stewardship of Money and Talent, and Mrs. C. H. Suckau read from Deut. 8:11, 17, 18 and offered prayer. Mrs. Dorothy Lehman Losier, outging missionary to Africa, conducted the evening worship services, speaking briefly on the Stewardship of Life. Scripture passages used were Matt. 9:37, 38 and Rom. 12:1.

The morning session was given over largely to discussions on program helps, projects, and methods of organizing groups and conducting meetings. Many interesting and workable ideas were presented and exchanged. A report of the Winona School of Missions was also given, and a number of study books on home and foreign missions were presented and recommended.

At noon hour a sumptuous pot-luck dinner was served in the basement of the church. It was a time of enjoyable fellowship when old friends met and new acquaintances were made.

A short business session was held after the devotional service in the afternoon and the following were elected for the coming year: President, Mrs. Earl Salzman, Topeka; vice-president, Mrs. Mary Y. Burkhard, Goshen; corresponding secretary, Elva Schrock, Nappanee; recording secretary, Elma Sprunger, Berne; treasurer, Mrs. N. J. Schmucker, Berne. Then followed an interesting panel discussion concerning the "untouchables" of India. This was an imaginary conversation between native Christian workers, a foreign missionary, Mahatma Ghandi, and Dr. Ambedkar, concerning the lot of the outcastes of India and their need of Christ.

Mrs. Phoebe B. Snyder, missionary on the border of Tibet, China, for thirty-four years, gave a stirring address concerning the work of Christ in that war-torn country. She and Mr. Snyder, as other missionaries, have found that when, humanly speaking, the work was hindered through war and persecution, the things which happened "have fallen out rather unto the furtherance of the Gospel" (Phil. 1:12). This was the case where multitudes of refugees in Shanghai heard the Gospel preached for the first time by missionaries who had to flee from their stations. Mrs. Snyder also reported that through the influence of Madame Chiang Kai Shek Bible teaching is now not only permitted in the schools of China, but also requested.

Miss Lulu D. Ervin, mid-west secretary of The American Mission to Lepers, gave a short talk at the afternoon session. She related very interestingly the story of Armados and Magdalene a young couple in the leper colony at Champa, C. P. India, under the supervision of P. A. Penner, a pioneer missionary in the General Conference field.

The intermission between the afternoon and evening services afforded opportunity to visit the exhibit of curious from foreign lands and project articles made by the different societies. After lunch in the basement stereopticon views of China were shown by Mrs. Snyder in the library room.

Miss Ervin's closing address, "Work among the Lepers," was illustrated with moving pictures of the leper colony in Chandkuri, India. She also told of the origin and the purpose of the pig "Pete" banks—the pigs being "fed" with coins for the support of lepers. Many were touched by the spiritual and physical needs of these unfortunates.

The service closed with prayer by the pastor of the host church, Rev. C. H. Suckau, after which the audience dispersed to the various homes—some almost a hundred miles away—with the feeling, "It was good to have been there." The program was interspersed with good, suitable music by different groups and individuals.

Offerings taken during the day amounted to about $119.00, of which a part was given for the leper work, a part for Spanish relief, to the defrayal of expenses, and to various Mennonite missionary causes.

CORRESPONDENCE

FRIEDENSBERG CHURCH, AVON, S. D. 10-25-38

The last quarter of our year is well under way. By this time we have all experienced trials, disappointments, and blessings. We trust that the readers of the Mennonite have especially had their share of blessings.—That fall weather that we are now having reminds us that another year has almost flown by. Time keeps ever moving on, and it is up to each one of us to be prepared to meet this rapid passing of time.

The ladies aid of our church are planning to buy a set of new trays, with which to serve refreshments at public gatherings of the church. We greatly appreciate the effort of the ladies in our church, to do all they can to make things a success.

We have had the privilege of listening to two interesting and helpful messages the past week. On Oct. 18, Rev. Jacob Sawatzky stopped here on his way to Madrid, Nebraska. Although he had traveled far and was very tired, he still gave us an uplifting message. On the following Sunday evening, Mr. Th. Baltzma of Platte, gave us another message. Both messages gave encouragement towards keeping in our Christian life and not letting ourselves become too closely connected with this world.—Corr.

FIRST CHURCH, HALSTEAD, KANS. 10-16-38

The church brotherhood held its first meeting in September. It was decided to meet the third Thursday of each month. Prof. D. H. Richert of Bethel College will be the speaker of the evening. His subject will be "Some of the Newest Findings in Astronomy."

Mrs. S. F. Moyer gave an interesting report of her work in India to a joint meeting of the missionary societies. We also had an opportunity to get acquainted with Miss Etta Davis, our new missionary, going to the field for the first time. She gave a challenging appeal for missions. We wish her God's blessing in her work. The Hilty brothers from Bluffton, Ohio, favored us with a sacred musical program. They sang to a well filled house and many favorable comments were heard.

The wedding of Miss Ruth Bartel, a member of the church, and Mr. Woodward of Iowa was solemnized at the parsonage, Rev. David Wedel, officiating.—In the absence of Rev. Wedel who conducted services at the Bethel Hospital, Rev. Gerhard Friesen from Bethel College filled the pulpit.—Our church was treated to a coat of paint and the interior redecorated during the spring and summer months.

Bernice Penner, the six-year-old daughter of John and Augusta Penner, was accidentally killed in an auto accident. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. D. C. Wedel. Cousins and school mates were pall bearers. Bernice was an active child, the pride of her parents, teachers and schoolmates. — Wenn kleine Himmelserben in ihrer Unschuld sterben, so werden sie dort oben beim Vater aufgehoben.

A committee has been busy translating our constitution into the English language. This is necessary, because many of the younger generation do not read the German. Another committee is going over the church records and bringing them up to date.—Correspondent.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

—"The First Mennonite Church of Hutchinson will observe Home Coming Day on November sixth. There will be special services all day, with outside speakers in the afternoon. A basket dinner will be served at 12:30 noon. All members, past and present, and friends of the church are invited to be present for a day of blessing and inspiration."

—Change of Name of Bethel College Postoffice.—Beginning with December first the postoffice now listed as BETHEL COLLEGE, will have its name changed to NORTH NEWTON, KANSAS, and all mail intended for anyone at Bethel College should be addressed North Newton, Kansas. This change has become necessary principally for the reason that there is a postoffice "Bethel" in Kansas, and that has caused confusion in handling mail, express, etc.—By order of P. O. Dept., Washington, D. C.

—Missionary G. A. Linscheid.—"I want to congratulate you on the spirit and tone of the Mennonite—I feel that we have a paper in THE MENNONITE, for which we need to make no apologies. May the Lord continue to bless you in your work."

—Second Mennonite Church, Beatrice, Nebr.—Last Sunday we had Rev. H. J. Kliewer with us. His text was I Cor. 15:57: "But thanks be to God, which gives us the victory through our Lord, Jesus Christ." Rev. Kliewer spoke of his experiences as a missionary among the Cheyenne Indians, in Oklahoma, showing how God had given him victory trying to convert these heathen to Christ. He said the Indian is superstitious while the Christians have no fear but love. We enjoyed his sermons, morning and evening, and all sang, 'God be with you till meet again.'—Come again!" John Wiebe.

—West Zion Mennonite Church, Moundridge, Ks.—The Mission workers are the grateful recipients of a beautiful picture, "Christ with the Doctors," by the Swiss artist Hermann Clementz. The gift was presented to the Society as a memorial to Esther Schmidt Harmon, by Mr. Roy Harmon and children.—We are planning to begin our midweek services with a series of studies on Mennonite History and Belief. Do you know why you are a Mennonite? Are you familiar with the faith of our fathers? How did the Mennonite Church come into existence? What Biblical ground is there for our doctrines. Let us spend a few evenings together to deepen our convictions.

—South Church, near Freeman, So. Dak.—Thirteen new members were received by baptism and six by letter, Sunday, Oct. 9.—There has been much sickness and hospitalization among members of the South Church, since the first of the year, but it is quite remarkable that so far there has not been a single death among the 465 members listed in the Year Book of the Church (except that of two little children).—The pastor has made 600 visits since New Year at home and elsewhere. Since Sept. 1 he has spoken at eight places, at one of these twice, at the Anniversary in Berne, Ind., ten times.—The Messiah will be rendered in the South Church Sunday evening, Nov. 27.—Monthly News Letter, No. 14.

"Study to show thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the WORD OF TRUTH." 2. Timothy 2:15. That is ADULT EDUCATION FOR THE KINGDOM OF GOD. Better equipped workers are needed. Conquering Christians are needed. Happy children of God are needed. Believing CHURCH members are needed. The WORD OF GOD is bread, light, water, meat, milk, honey, a sword, a hammer, a fire. What do you propose for the SALEM CHURCH to make it a BIBLE-STUDYING, CHRIST-CENTERED institution. The troubles of the world call for a CHURCH wholly given over to the GOSPEL. In no other way can we fulfil our high calling and meet a sick world's needs.—P. R. Schroeder.

—First Church, Philadelphia, Pa.—Wedding Bells rang for Miss Eda Wiest and Mr. Thomas McConnell on Saturday, October 15, at this church.—Penny-a-meal Barrels are due any Sunday that it is convenient for members to bring these. Don't permit this reminder on your tables to become silent.—Dramatic Players Guild will present "Aunt Hatty" on Tuesday and Thursday nights, Nov. 15 and 17.—Church Bulletin.

—St. John Church, near Pandora, Ohio.—The Young Peoples' Bible Conference, November 10-13, will offer a helpful and interesting program. Speaker for Thursday, Friday and Saturday evening will be the Rev. Fred J. Mitchell, Toledo. Sunday will be a big day with Miss Inda Sprunger and Mr. Elmer Baumgartner, Berne, Ind.; Rev. George Dyck, Lima, and Mr. A. C. Feigert, newspaper man of Van Wert, Ohio, as the speakers. An Abyssinian male quartet will sing.—Church Bulletin.

—Second Church, Philadelphia, Pa.—"PASTORAL MESSAGE: There are 168 hours in every week. If you sleep during 56 of them, you still have 112 waking hours. How many of these do you give to God? Do the few hours required for regular attendance at religious service appear to be an unfair encroachment upon "your time." If we have no time for God, can we expect him to have time for us?"—The Pastor, in "The Messenger."

—First Church, Bluffton, Ohio.—"A big box of clothes has been packed and shipped to needy in Canada. The clothes were in such fine condition, many articles even new. Would that all of you could have seen them! It was a joy to pack them, as it will be a joy to receive them."—Sunday Bulletin.

—Song Festival in Ontario, Canada.—The song festival of the recent Mennonite immigrants in Ontario was held in the spacious high school hall at Beamsville, Ontario, October 9. More than a thousand people listened to the program. Nine mixed choirs and four male choirs sang by turns. Also a mass chorus of 285 voices sang hymns and chorals. There were also folk and nature songs. Most of the selections were simple, but they came from the heart and went to the heart.—Rundschau.

—Freeman, South Dak.—The editor of the "Courier" thinks Freeman should have a hospital. We mentioned that 28-32 years ago, when connected with the College. The nearest fair-sized town to Freeman is 34 miles away. Besides the large Mennonite settlement round about would be good support of such an institution.

—Immanuel Church, Los Angeles, Calif.—Mr. Martin Franz, formerly of Mountain Lake, Minn., now a member of this church, is seriously ill.—Another of our older members, Mother Braun, after having been ill all summer, seems to be gradually failing.—Corr.

—A great paper by Dr. E. G. Kaufman.—At the Western District Conference, in Enid, Okla., Dr. Kaufman, President of Bethel College read a paper, "What the Church and Its College May Do for Each Other," which is so good that we shall bring it in its entirity in the next issue. May we ask everybody to watch for that article, read it, and ponder it.

—ANOTHER RADIO PROGRAM CONCERNING MENNONITES will come over station KFH, Wichita, Kansas, next Saturday, November 5, at 9:30-9:45.

EDITORIALS

WHAT CAN WE MENNONITES DO?—Among the countless appeals for help that come to Christian people everywhere, is the pitiful cry for succoring the Chinese war sufferers. Those who know the tragic conditions of these unfortunates vouch that no suffering of such extent and intensity has ever been experienced in the world's history. Compared to this the suffering sustained by people during the world war hardly deserves mention, although it was cruel enough. When we consider the incredibly dense population of the area that the Japanese have already subjugated, with its many large cities, numberless towns and villages, from which the teeming millions of inhabitants have been driven and are now without homes, shelter, food, clothing, what a horrid picture of want, sickness and starvation looms up! During the Eurpean war we did a great deal in sending boxes of food and clothing, with money, to help the destitute, especially children. Should we not make strenuous attempts to give some Samaritan aid here? True, we have so many needs to look after already, crops have been poor in some sections and prices are low, so that we are not in a position to do great things. But we can at least give a widow's mite, which God's grace can multiply. And does not Jesus say that when we feed the hungry, clothe the naked, visit the sick and imprisoned, we do it all unto Him who has given Himself for us. Since the Red Cross has closed its appeal, the churches and missionary forces of our land have organized "The Church Committee for China Relief," with headquarters at 105 East 22nd Street, New York. Should we not encourage and help our Relief Committee to join this movement? The doors to our brethren in Russia are practically closed, in China they are open. Do not the Chinese now become our nearest neighbors to whom it is our privilege to show our Christian love?

RELIGIOUS STIMULANTS.—Spiritual man needs stimulants as well as physical man. Some Christians and particularly some groups of them rely largely on external stimulants: loud amens, long winded prayers intended more for external effect than for a heart-to-heart contact with God, congregational singing of a light order with a good deal of emotional bang and other demonstrations of a religio-comedy type, frequent resort to rather noisy revivals: stimulants drawn from association with people of similar emotional temper. Other Christians crave internal stimulants for their spiritual life. They find them in the reading and meditation upon the truths of the Bible, in quiet heart-to-heart communication with God, in regular daily devotional hours around the family altar, in deeds of charity, in devotional attendance upon the means of grace, and also in the reading of other Christian literature besides the Bible. This type of stimulation appears to be more in line with the example of Christ, communication with the Father and the opportunity for doing good.

A HOPEFUL SIGN.—One of the most encouraging signs in these times of unrest and confusion is the fact that in many places young Christians are taking a hand in the work of revitalizing Christian living. Probably as never before do our own young people show so much interest in and concern about our duties to our fellow men and the need of closer relationship with God. And it is very heartening to notice that the youth of other lands is showing the same aggressive spirit in an effort to draw near unto God. The awakening is international in scope. In August sixty young Christian leaders from twenty-three countries met at Bievres, France, to formulate plans for a World Conference of Christian Youth, to be held at Amsterdam, Holland, July 24 to August 2, 1939. They decided that the program is to emphasize four things: 1. The essential content of the faith common to all the delegates, as it relates to the issues under consideration.—2. Approach to problems in the light of an extensive study of applicable Bible passages.—3. The intention to direct the discussion toward the actual next steps which should be undertaken by Christian young people.—4. To arrange all phases of the program in a setting of ecumenical worship, in which the needs and aspirations of the delegates are brought before God in prayer. The topics tentatively agreed upon for addresses are: In the Beginning God; Our Different Background and Our Common Calling; Christ Over All; The Christian in a World of Conflict; Sonship and Brotherhood; Our Daily Bread; Christian Community and the World of Nations; The Christian, His Church and the Church Universal; The Christian as Missionary, and I Have Overcome the World.—Subjects for the discussion groups are to be: The Young Christian in a World of Nations; The Young Christian in the Economic Order; The Young Christian in the Nation and the State; The Young Christian and Race; Christian Marriage and Family Life; The Church and its World-Mission.

Out of the Czech Crisis

E. L. Harshbarger

Europe's most severe post-war crisis is over. Gradually nations are returning to civilian life to reshape their foreign and domestic policies. Tension is not gone but people are breathing more easily. What does this crisis of the last six weeks mean to Europe, to America, and to the Mennonites of America?

To Europe it meant at least the postponement of a general war. It means that "collective security" is a vain shibboleth, betrayed by its advocates, and demonstrated to be little more than collective insecurity; that the system of alliances created and maintained by the French since the war is broken; that France is now a second-rate power which must follow England more closely than ever in European affairs; that Germany is now supreme in Central Europe, that her "Drang nach Osten" will be speeded up, and that economic control of the Danubian area is only a matter of time; that Russia is at least temporarily isolated from western Europe, and that England and France may be expected to cooperate still more with the Fascist powers. This, in turn, means that an alliance of democracies against dictatorships is impossible at present. It means that reaction, characterized by the growth of Fascism and gigantic armaments, has taken the stage. Chamberlain, in repudiating his moral if not legal obligations to Czechoslovakia, is doing by double dealing what Hitler is doing by force, namely, playing the old game of selfish "power politics." It showed that all people wished to avoid war, so much so in fact, that they were willing to break existing treaties to do it. But "this mighty upsurge against mass murder has neither leaders nor methods by which it can find fruitful expression." And finally, if any additional proof be needed, this crisis has demonstrated the folly of expecting a dictated peace to be permanent.

In America the crisis dealt a telling blow to the plans of the advocates of "collective security," and showed that even the democratic powers would ignore treaties if self-interest so directed. It proved beyond any reasonable doubt that we are bound to be involved in any major upheaval across the Atlantic. It will force modification of our foreign trade policy, especially with Central Europe. We may expect to see increased American activity in Latin America, both to strengthen our own position on the western hemisphere and to counteract any attempts to spread Fascism there. It is not unlikely that some working agreements may be struck with European Fascist powers. It is possible that America may still cooperate in world conferences if and when they are called, but we will likely see more rather than less emphasis on isolation. More funds will be asked for armaments and further attempts will be made to regiment America completely in the event of war. Before the Czech crisis we felt we couldn't trust the Fascist powers, since the crisis we are not sure we can trust anyone. Hence the arms race is on.

This crisis also showed that, whatever they may say to the contrary, Mennonites are very much interested in political and social affairs. Furthermore, they have very definite convictions on such matters. Apparently we are not so sure that brotherly love can settle all disputes. At least some of our people found it agreeable to approve Hitler's display of force to gain his ends. As one friend recently put it, there wasn't anything else Hitler could do. If that is true there are many crises in which non-resistance will not work. This leads inevitably to the approval of the "new Caesarism" of force which our brethren in Germany have accepted. Then non-resistance, as in Germany, shall be no more. And again, in spite of our professed religious nature and our supposed aloofness from national affairs, this crisis found Mennonites forming premature judgments on the basis of cultural prejudices just the same as unbelievers have done. It is difficult to see how a non-resistant people can consistently approve the actions of a German government which is avowedly hostile to both pacifism and democracy, even though those actions were caused by admitted injustices of the World War treaties. Two wrongs cannot make a right.

If Mennonites are really sincere in their peace stand and interested in sharing it, then this crisis has simply opened further the door of opportunity. The currently popular slogan of "collective security" has disappointed peace advocates just as did the "war to end war." Organizations like the League of Nations have failed to preserve peace, partly because of faulty direction and organization, but chiefly because none of the nations are motivated by the spirit of peace, which is the spirit of Christ. Certainly the Mennonites, the oldest historic peace church, has a responsibility here. One peace worker told me recently that a prominent peace organization was giving more thought to Christian peace, believing that only the power of Christ and His teachings can furnish the will to peace.

Let this crisis be a challenge to us. Let us preserve our peace heritage, by sharing it with others now. We need a program of education which will more firmly ground our people in this faith, and which will give them information on the problem of peace and war, to the end that they may be not only Christian but also intelligent citizens of our democracy. Peace work should become one of the major missionary activities of the church if we are to live true to our heritage.

What the Church and Its College May Do for Each Other

Delivered at the Western District Conference, Enid, Oklahoma, October 20, 1938,
By Ed. G. Kaufman, President, Bethel College

The Kansas Conference, which later grew into the Western District Conference, from its very beginning had a close relation to Bethel Colllege. It may therefore not be amiss if in this Fiftieth Anniversary year of the Corner Stone Laying of Bethel College (1938) we discuss the reciprocal relation of the church and its college at the Western District Conference.

The rise of the church-related college was contemporaneous with the revival of religion in the colleges; a revival that followed a wave of irreligion after the American Revolution when French skepticism was potent in America. Today we are witnessing another wave of irreligion after another war with a new skepticism as a contributing factor. It is altogether fitting at such a time that we re-examine the sanctions of the church-related college and re-orientate ourselves to these sanctions. It is a sacred and binding obligation which the church college owes to the church of its origin and nurture to maintain in spirit and policy a positive, Christian influence that will be effective in the formation of character and the development of the Christian way of life among the young people committed to its care. What is accidental and occasional in other schools, in the church college becomes institutional, a conscious objective toward which the well-wrought programs are officially directed.

There is much gratitude for all that has been contributed to the life of our church by its college; for the fidelity it has shown to its trust; for the stream of life which has flowed out of it; and for the confidence the church has placed in it. Sometimes we are tempted to contrast unfavorably the conditions of today with the period of the past, but when we take a longer perspective there is much to be thankful for in American church colleges in general.

In 1782, there were only two of the students in Princeton College who professed to be Christians. About the same proportions held for Yale, Harvard and other schools. In 1824, America had 25 colleges and the number of students was 3,011, of whom 628 were professing Christians, or 20 per cent. Last year in Christian Education, the October issue, the results of a survey for 1937, of the religious preferences of the students in 1,171 institutions, with 828,071 students, are published, showing that 88.3 per cent or close to nine-tenths of the total of these students expressed a definite religious preference. In 1937-38 at Bethel College, there were only 7 who were non-church members out of a total enrollment of 469, and even these seven no doubt would consider themselves Christians.

While the situation today is encouraging and we look at it with much gratitude, we also keenly realize the gravity of the problems involved and the difficulties to be met in making and keeping a college really Christian because of the pressure of secularism in modern life. Difficult as it may be, the church still needs its college. May we briefly list some of these needs and what the church has a right to expect from its college.

1. The church needs from its college, and has a right to expect, the constructive confirmation of the training in faith and attitude which we try to give our children in the home and the home church. It may be true that the religious training in the home and the home church is less pronounced today than it was formerly. Nevertheless, among our people as a rule children and young people still receive from home and their home church the Christian training which leads them into the historic faith of the church, of God and Jesus Christ and the meaning and destiny of life. The church, therefore, has a right to expect that its college will support and carry forward this training, not to decry or destroy it. The college takes the place of the parent and the pastor in the religious phase of the life of the student and must do its work in the same spirit and with the same responsibility. If the faith of the fathers is a right and rational faith, we want it confirmed and strengthened in our children. It may need a truer alignment and more clarification than it has received at home, and our colleges should provide that truer alignment and give that clarification so as to deepen and strengthen it, but it should not disintegrate the faith as such.

2. A second thing that the church needs and has a right to expect from its college is the development of Christian character in the men and women entrusted to it. There are teachers in our country today who disavow all such responsibility. In some quarters there is a tendency to decry ethics. Sometime ago a professor in one of the universities made this statement:

> "It seems to me," says he, "It must be recognized not only by the universities but by the public that the university is not responsible for the character, for the morals, views, or anything else of the community or its graduates. If the students turn out criminals or land in prison, the school is not to blame. The university has no responsibility for character."

This is not our view, nor can it be the view of a Christian college. We believe in the necessity of combining education and religion. A representative of the Catholic Church puts it as follows:

> "The Catholic Church has always laid down this great and vital principle, namely, that secular and religious instruction shall never be parted in education. Education is the formation of the whole man, intellect, heart, will, character, mind and soul. The Catholic Church will accept as education nothing less than the formation of the whole man. It will not consent that its children shall be reared without a knowledge of their faith, nor that education shall be so divorced that secular knowledge shall be made the subject of daily and earnest inculcation and that religion should be left out to come in as an accident when and as it may. To shut out religion from the school and keep it for the home and the church is logically to train up a generation which will consider religion good for home and church, but not for the practical business of daily life. Religion, in order to elevate a people, should inspire their daily conduct, rule their whole life, govern their relation with one another. A life is not dwarfed, but ennobled by being lived in the presence of God. Therefore, the school which principally gives knowledge fitting for practical life ought to be preeminently under the guiding influence of religion."

Religious teaching in state schools has its difficulties in America, but the attempt to solve them by ignoring or excluding religion from all our schools is no solution at all. It is a curious thing that the conscience that forbids the teaching of theism in state schools allows the teaching of atheism. We agree with the former president Burton of the University of Chicago when he wrote as follows:

> "The fundamental purpose of Christian education is the development of Christian character. To the degree in which character is the result of our work, Christian education succeeds, and in proportion that a school falls short of this attainment its distinctive contribution is lost. The Christian school that consciously tries to build character must therefore include four objectives in its educational scheme: (1) the giving of knowledge of right and wrong; (2) the habituating of right conduct; (3) the relating of ideas to conduct, and conduct to ideas; and (4) the education of conscience."

We need this recognition of the place of character building in education and of religion in character building, and the correlative and consequent policies regarding courses, athletics, dancing, smoking, physical labor, chapel, etc.

Religion has everything or nothing to do with education and with character. There is no room for compromising. It is not something of which you can take a little and leave the rest. It is not merely a matter of church membership and chapel attendance. We either ought to throw it all out or throw our whole self into it. God is still the most important fact about the world in which we live and the church college founded and maintained on the belief of the present power of God must consider that education consists in coming to know the God of the world in which we live as revealed in Christ Jesus, and to know Him not only as a belief but as affecting ones ethics and ones character.

3. In the third place the church college should do its utmost to return students to their home communities ready to resume their place in the home church and not be alienated from it. True, in many cases, students have been alienated from the church before they ever came to the college. In such cases it is asking a good deal of the college to recover what the home influences have not been able to hold. On the other hand, it is also too often true that young people who were active in the home church, attending its services, participating in its worship and engaged in its work come back from college completely detached from their old relationships. Sometimes they are among the most active Christian leaders in college and come home to drop out of the church and its agencies altogether. The college may be the cause of this loss in one of two ways. It may make religion so attractive that the home church seems uninteresting. The home preaching may seem dull in comparison with the college chapel. On the contrary, the college may deal with religion so as to lead students into indifference or plain antagonism. Nevertheless here is the need, namely, that the college should influence students so that when they return home they fall naturally into their rightful place in the church of their fathers and mothers. The effort put forth on the part of the college along this line needs to be supplemented by the home pastor. There are pastors who do not lose touch with their young people while they are away at college. This problem cannot be solved by the college alone and needs the cooperation of every pastor who has young people at college.

We do not mean to say that the church college should merely reproduce and perpetuate the past and the ideas and instructions and patterns of the past. It is the business of the college to find and hold and proclaim the truth whether it is old or new—truth about God and man; truth about Christ and the Bible; truth about life and duty and destiny. But the college should do this so constructively and so cooperatively that education and life at home and at college, and after college should be an unbroken development and harmonious unity.

4. The church has a right to look to the college for the leadership which it needs. Not all leaders come through the professional educational process of Bible school and Seminary, some majored in Science, History, or other fields. Again and again leaders are raised up who did not come through the professional process and whom this process might have spoiled. The church has and will get some of its leadership from state schools, but by far the majority comes from church schools.

In a recent article, Robert E. Speer, for many years president of the foreign mission board of the Presbyterian Church, gives statistics beginning with 1917 up to 1937, showing where the Presbyterian recruits for foreign missions came from, indicating that approximately seventy-five per cent of them come from church colleges. It is on the church colleges that the church depends. From here must come not only our supply of missionaries, but also our supply of ministers and Christian teachers. The church needs Christian leadership in other areas as well, such as business, law, medicine, social work, and other walks of public life.

We would pause a moment to emphasize the field of teaching in which the church should be tremendously interested. It is a real problem how to secure and keep a truly Christian faculty; a body of teachers, competent educationally with an integrated reasonable faith, and of personal effectiveness. It is unfortunate when we go for the preparation of our teachers to institutions whose ideology and whose philosophy of life and education are not those held by the Church. In the field of philosophy, ethics, economics, sociology, history, science, music, art, education, psychology, etc., we have need of such centers of education of teachers as shall insure a supply of men and women who hold the Christian faith with full intelligence and who will teach our young men and women a doctrine of life and nature consistent with the Christian view of God and the world. This applies to our grade schools and high schools as well as college teaching.

5. There is also the leadership which the church needs for its college to exercise itself. The church college should show courageous educational independence. The Christian schools on the mission field have long been pioneers. Why should not our church colleges also make real contributions by leading the way along new paths in educational endeavor consistent with the Christian philosophy of life? The church college should be outstanding in the literature that the members of its faculty produce, clarifying the controversy over the basic philosophic and practical issues in the field of Chistianity and its practice, including its social application. This conflict between a secular and a Christian and an anti-Christian outlook on life is perennial, and each new period needs its own statement and restatement ;each age will raise and must meet the issues anew for its own time. The church college must make its contribution also in this area.

6. The church has a right to expect that the program and set-up of its college will be in conformity with the peculiar genius of the church and therefore different from other schools even on the practical side of its life.

a. In a church college the administration must be concerned with the Christian dynamic which will motivate in every process of the college the plus quality of the Christian religion. Administrators must maintain a sense of proportion, a sense of relative value. They must guard against the danger which emphasizes the quantative theory of culture which has brought with it an endless amount of activities leaving very little time for leisure or meditation or worship. There is need for a divine discontent that will restore the sense of proportion and proper balance in the daily program of the college as expressed in courses and extra-curricular activities, athletics and physical labor, the school paper and the chapel service, in study, work, play, and worship.

b. The teachers in a church college are no mere hirelings, though sometimes they are treated as such. They are as someone has put it, "true God-ordained priests for teaching, in whose hands is the fashioning of the souls of men." The cynic has no place among these, nor the individual who has no contact with nor sympathy for youth, nor the extreme intellectualist who conceives his profession to be insulted if ever it is said in his presence that the college is the place for the building of character. Of course, the teacher in the church college must be intelligent; he must have scholarship, but he must have more if through him the Christian dynamic is to be operative. He must be primarily concerned with the growth of young souls.

c. The curriculum should be Christian. There is much revision of curriculum going on these days. Someone has characterized the two tendencies in this area as the intellectualizing and the humanizing. The Christian spirit is sympathetic with both of these but adds a third, namely, that reverence and worship should accompany and control them both. Furthermore, Christianity would encourage scholarship in a realm ordinarily not touched in the state institution. The curriculum of a church college should contain courses in this area where earnest endeavor is made to find and spread the truth about the deeper significances of life that lie in the realm of the human spirit and its relationship to the divine spirit.

The Christian spirit is also in sympathy with the humanizng tendency in curriculum making. Its emphasis is social and its ultimate goal is a better society. The church college has the duty of contributing the Christian dynamic with its emphasis upon human brotherhood. The church college therefore sustains a unique relationship to curriculum making.

d. Then there is the problem of guidance. Guidance has become a master word in modern educational circles. By guidance we mean intelligent, sympathetic suggestion. We do not mean to do the student's thinking for him, inducing him to make choices which are really not his own. The student's freedom to think and to choose must always be respected. But granted the proper adjustment between freedom and guidance, guidance becomes an inescapable obligation of the church college. Guidance has its ultimate sanction in the program of Christ and His concern for the individual. A Christian guidance program, therefore, refers not only to courses but to the choice of a vocation, social needs, health, morals and spiritual needs.

Many of our students come to us very self conscious, timid and awkward. They need help to develop poise, social ease, all of which is a part of guidance. There should also be guidance as it relates to mating. The college is not a matrimonial bureau, but a Christian college should help its students get the Christian view of love and marriage and the home.

e. The more important specific strands of emphasis in the background of the Mennonite Church, its college should recognize in its practical set-up, and endeavor to preserve and strengthen. Some of these are such as the following: (1) Individual conversion which is the core of our position regarding adult baptism or baptism on confession of faith. In the school's program throughout the year effort should be made in this direction as well as special attention given this matter during such times as Religious Emphasis Week, with the end in view that individuals not yet having done so purposefully commit themselves to Christ as Savior and Lord, and those already having done so become increasingly conscious of their spiritual growth. (2) The Mennonite emphasis on Peace should find expression not only in courses offered but special attention should be given to that position. (3) This also applies to the Mennonite emphasis on home and family, the community, the sacredness of physical labor, the simple life, and others.

To the extent that the church college endeavors to guide the mind, the hand and the heart of its students, without apology for the emphasis on the importance of the heart as its peculiar and separated responsibility, just to that extent will it serve and continue to be needed. The practical set-up of the school should, therefore be in line with the genius of the church.

7. The church needs its college as the church needs its foreign and home missions, namely, to have something besides itself to live and work for, to unify the church in a great cause, to unite its forces in a crusade for Christ and His kingdom. I say the church needs the college to have something worthwhile to give money for, to pray for, to work for, to sacrifice for, so that by doing this for its college the church itself will grow stronger, more united and more Christian. The church needs its college for its own sake just as parents need children for the sake of the parents and not only for the sake of the children. The greatest blessing that can come to parents is by way of the responsibility and the opportunities that children provide for the parents. The greatest blessing that can come to a church is by way of children in the form of missions, hospitals, and colleges that offer them not only opportunities but also great responsibilities. Along this line, who can measure what Bethel College has done for the Mennonite Church? The Mennonite church west of the Mississippi still desperately needs Bethel College as a place into which to pour some of the church's energy and money, time, prayers, and around which to unify its interests and through the effort of it all to become more perfect itself as a Christian church.

II

I have spoken of a number of items the Church expects from its college: 1. To deepen the faith of the fathers in its students; 2. To develop Christian character in its students; 3. To return students to their home communities; 4. To provide church leadership; 5. The college to exercise leadership itself; 6. To build its practical set-up in accordance with the genius of the church; 7. The college itself is to be to the church a worthwhile cause with its accompanying opportunities and responsibilities. Let us briefly note on the other hand a few needs the college has and what it has a right to expect from the church.

1. The college needs and has a right to expect the understanding, sympathy, confidence, and concern of the church. The college is the church at work in the field of education. If the church distrusts the college, it is self-distrust. The college needs to be held in constant thought and prayer by the church. As long as the college is bathed and kept in this atmosphere of trust and prayer, the results are sure.

2. The college needs and has a right to expect adequate financial support of the church. This is an increasing need. State education has ever more and more lavish resources. State education offers a more fair and just support and pension provisions for teachers. Pressure for vast funds from the state and federal government grows year by year. It is harder and harder for a Christian college to get the funds it needs. Just now the Presbyterian Church is embarking on a $10,000,000 campaign for its colleges. Unless the church adequately supports its college, whatever the sacrifices that may be brought, the college will nevertheless be forced to the wall.

3. The church owes it to its college to send to it a stream of young lives, clean and true, adequately trained in the home and in the home church in the right cultural background. The church should not demand of its college that it make up for its delinquencies, or for the delinquency and failure of home training. This problem of home training becomes ever more grave. The modern home too often is filled with the degrading noises of the radio. The intellectual provender of the modern home is often indicated by a glance at the display of news stands, or by the litter of Sunday newspapers and their imbecile comics. The church must do all it can to keep the Christian home with its worship, its love and its life so as to prepare in it the material on which the college can build and do its work. The college has a right to expect that the church will send her its young people who go to college rather than to other schools and that these young people will be fit for a Christian college and not fit for a reformatory when they come.

According to a report in Christian Education, October 1937, there were 1,335 Mennonite students of college rank in the colleges and universities of America for the school year 1936-37. According to the Mennonite Quarterly Review, January 1938, our Mennonite institutions of college rank had only 822 Mennonite students for the same year. This means that there were 513 Mennonite students attending other than Mennonite schools of college rank during that year. Or to put it in another way, our Mennonite colleges had only 61 per cent of the Mennonnite students who were in colleges during the school year 1936-37, while 39 per cent were attending other than Mennonite colleges. A church college has a right to expect more loyalty.

4. The church must have an open door for the return of the product of the college. The church must keep in touch with its young people when away from home and have a welcome and work for them when they come back. Too often when young people are through college, the church shows little concern whether they find a place or not. They must go out into the world to find something to do. The world should become richer because of them, but too often it is also true that by their leaving the church itself becomes the poorer, and what is more many times young people lose their way as they are forced to loosen their ties with their home church. The college has a right to expect that the church will do everything possible for the return of the product of its college, and to prefer those who come from its own college to those that have attended elsewhere. The Mennonite church has much to learn in this regard.

III

In conclusion we all need to recognize that the Christian body is one, functioning now in the home, now in the local congregation, now in the community and now in the school. In all of these we must face the great task of maintaining a Christian spirit and view of life against gigantic, antagonistic forces which are loose in the world. By every agency and effort possible we must engage in this conflict for the Christian doctrine of God and of man with truth, love, right, brotherhood, and unity. Change there will come and it will be either "change and decay" or "change and advance." The crisis in the world today still is as to who shall prevail—Christ or Caesar. Is the human spirit to be subordinated to force and to the will-to-power, or are these to be made subject to the divine spirit of love and to the will-to-serve? The Christian answer is to be given by the church and its agencies and foremost among these agencies is the church college.

HOW THE CHURCH IN CHINA GROWS WHILE SUFFERING

North China: In Tienstin there's a United Committee of Churches which is making itself responsible for a district nearby. In the cities of Tientsin and Peiping the Salvation Army and the churches are doing excellent work. Down the Ping-han line, Paotingfu has been a center for relief under the American Board Mission. In that city they have a refugee center in which there are still more than 1000 people. They are there because they've no homes to go to, or because all the doors, windows and furniture of their houses have been burned for firewood, or because it just is not safe, especially for the women folk, to go back to their homes. In an area of 13 hsien (counties) south of Paotingfu the churches have organized refugee centres in about 100 places. One such village church increased from 120 people early in February to 381 at the end of that month, because there was fighting and burning of villages round about. In that centre the people themselves raised $1703 in cash or millet; to which the Paotingfu Committee added $220 over a period of two months. So the local folk are making great efforts to help themselves. The NCC also has been glad to give help to the Paotingfu Committee to the extent of $6000 since last November.

Christian Martyr: Next Sunday night I may be able to take some time to report to you on the work of the Christian churches and organizations here in Shanghai. But this week the thing that has stood out above everything else has been the death of our friend and colleague, Dr. Herman Liu, last Thursday morning. You will have read of the circumstances of his death in the papers. We shall miss him at every turn. That very morning he was to have been chairman of one of our committees, on the southwest, in which he was deeply interested. He was a man of many enthusiasms, bubbling over with the ideas and energy, always eager for new things, ever friendly and warm hearted. But because we are followers of Christ and because we believe that death is only the gateway into a fuller life of love and service, we are not going to bewail his passing as if his brave and cheerful spirit could be snuffed out like a candle. As one of my Chinese friends remarked, "Herman's death is a victory for courage."

It is easier for us all to believe these things because this week we are thinking of the meaning of the Cross of Christ. At that time the Cross was a symbol of pain and shame. Today it is the symbol of mercy and honor. Those who crucified Jesus meant to put an end to him and his influence for ever. Instead of that His Cross means for us victory and power, over all the forces of evil, over death and fear, over selfishness and cruelty and pride.—F. M. Conference Com. on Far East.

ONE YEAR IN VANCOUVER

On November 3rd it will be a year that we started the work in Vancouver. It was a difficult beginning, since the circumstances, the people, the girls and the work were strange to us. As everything was in its beginning, we had to live and think ourselves into these new conditions.

Since the Conference, through the Board, bought a house and a Church, we had to move during the first month of our stay here. Much personal work needed to be done among the widely-separated Mennonites in this large city. Such work requires much time. First you must find them, then speak to them about the work and seek to enlist their interest in the cause. The city is large and one can not nearly reach all points with the Street car, hence one must do a lot of walking and the bicycle is much in demand, since means have not been found for an auto. In fair weather such methods of travel work all right, but when it is raining it is more difficult.

As far as we can judge, the Lord has looked with favor on the work and blest it. Today we have 38 members in the church. Twelve have expressed the desire to join with us, and I believe that before the end of the month we will have 50 members. (This was written, October 10th.)

The girls who have come from the different Provinces, for work, naturally belong to their home churches. During the winter months there are always more girls in the city than in summer. Until late last spring an average of 40 girls were in the city, doing housework. During summer several returned to Saskatchewan and Alberta, and some returned to their homes in British Columbia. Now that winter is again aproaching, they are again returning.

It must be admitted that our Mennonite girls have established a reputation for themselves for good work. They are constantly sought after while we frequently hear of others seeking for work and seemingly are not so quickly hired. The demand for our Mennonite girls has constantly been greater than the number we could furnish. Recently in response to one notice in a city paper, we had more than 40 inquiries.

Thursday afternoon and evening the girls have their free time, then they gather in the Home. We then have a common meal together followed by a period of Bible study, or at times an address by the Superintendent, and after that a period of fellowship follows. Some of the girls also rehearse with the church choir, others might be doing other work and some may be preparing for the Young People's Program, which is held once a month. The Home has been privileged to help many of our girls. Two to three girls are usually in the home, some having just arrived in the city, while others may be making their transfer from one place to another.

In our Sunday morning worship the families from the city attend, while in the evening service the girls are present. This is our largest worship service. The girls come to the Home for coffee and then attend the meeting, in the church, which is located on the lot. Sixty to seventy attend this Service and about 18 are in the choir.

We are grateful that the work has grown and hope, that the Lord's richest blessing might attend it always.

With kindest brotherly greetings,
J. B. Wiens

WHEN IS IT TIME TO "GIVE UP" A BOY?

Bob Dunn was a "problem boy" in his neighborhood. Nothing could persuade him to go to Sunday School. He wasn't interested.

At a Sunday School within reach of Bob's home the Junior Department was going to pieces. But a new superintendent took it over, and it wasn't long before he began to build it up again. One of his plans was to send a government post card each week to scholars who had been absent and to other children whose names and addresses he had received, and who, he thought might be persuaded to come. Among these names was "Bob Dunn."

The superintendent began sending post cards to Bob. A card went to him every week, and the weeks stretched into months, but no Bob appeared at the school. Finally a year had passed—52 cards. Wasn't it time to give Bob up? The superintendent didn't think so, so he kept on until 126 had been sent. Now he did think it was time to stop, so he decided to send just one more card. That 127th card caught the fish, and Bob slipped unobtrusively into the Junior Department.

This story of unusual persistence is appearing in the Sunday School Times (Philadelphia), August 20th. The superintendent himself tells the story, and it has a happy ending. Bob Dunn kept on attending Sunday School, and some years later the superintendent was overjoyed as he picked up the hometown newspaper while he was in another city and read that Bob had been ordained as minister. He could not help saying to himself, "Suppose I had not sent that last card?"—The Sunday School Times

The money spent for liquor since repeal could have financed the building of 2,500,000 five-thousand dollar homes, which would cover the terrible lack in our country today.

THE SACREDNESS OF HUMAN LIFE

Ex. 20:13; Matt. 5:21-26; 38-42

The Sixth Commandment Ex. 20:13

This commandment is often called the law of life, and was given for the protection of life. Underneath it lies the principle of the sacredness of human life and every person's right to live. The sanctity of human life is based on the fact of man's creation in the image of God and as a living soul (Gen. 9:6). The Commandment forbids the taking of a human life—intentional, premeditated killing. It does not forbid legal execution of one who has forfeited his life by crime (Gen. 9:6). Many kill others by indirect methods (Ex. 21:28, 29). The most murderous weapen is the tongue (Ps. 57:4; 64:34). "Thou shalt not kill" surely must apply to nations as well as to individuals. War can not be other than intentional, premeditated, purposeful killing, wholesale murder.

Jesus' Interpretation Matt. 5:21-26

Jesus quotes the law (v21) but is referring mostly to the Pharisees' interpretation placed upon the law. They would not murder a man, yet they could hate Jesus so intensely that they had Him condemned to crucifixion. Hate that leads to murder, is essentially murder. The law forbade murder, the act, deed (v21). Jesus proclaims the higher law of the kingdom. He goes behind the overt act to the murderous thought, attitude, anger which is in the heart (v22), for out of it proceed murders (Mk. 7:21). The inner heart motive lying behind the act is the fundamental thing. The spirit of hate, anger and ill-will are equally as wrong as killing and Jesus places them on the same level. Jesus does not hesitate to speak with the authority of God.

Jesus stresses the importance of good-will between man and his fellows. God alone is the judge and judgment belongs to Him. It behooves each one to be careful of what he says to and of another (v22). Hate, ill-will is an awful thing and separates one from his fellows and from God. Jesus tells us (vs 23, 24) that there can not be truly acceptable and helpful worship so long as we hold such unfriendly spirit toward another. There must first be complete reconciliation. Very properly the subject of arbitration enters into this teaching of the sacredness of human life. "Agree with thine adversary quickly" (v25), arbitrate your differences and this applies to nations as well. Temporal interests may not be put above the very life blood of the one or the nation that does not agree with us.

Jesus' Standard Regarding Retaliation vs 38-42

The ancient law (v 38) was given to deter persons from injuring others. Jesus sets a higher standard by the illustrations (vs 39, 42) showing that we may best serve God by being like Him. There will be occasions when we may suffer insult and injury. Christian love should go out to all, friend and enemy alike. We have no right to revenge. God has promised to repay. Our chief business is to help our enemies. This we can do by showing love and good-will.

Jesus would have us learn and observe underlying principles—patience with an aggressor, unselfishness when seeing another's need, endurance under opposition and persecution, a Christian recognition of the sacredness of all human life. The Christian is to manifest a superior virtue. He is to be a living witness for Christ.

STEWARDSHIP

The fields are now bare of the crops they bore during the summer. The apples are in the bin, the potatoes are in the barrel, the corn is in the crib and wheat is in the granary. How bountiful the Heavenly Father has been! He again has poured His gifts upon the earth and crowned it with goodness.

He who is the Giver of every good and perfect gift said in His Word to us, (2 Cor. 9:6) "He which soweth SPARINGLY shall reap also SPARINGLY, and he which soweth BOUNTIFULLY shall reap also BOUNTIFULLY." Some folks spend wearisome moments figuring how little they can give to missions, how little time they can give Him in reading His Word, in prayer and in His service. Their talents must be used for more popular and lucrative purposes. How little they realize that "he who soweth sparingly shall reap also sparingly."

Surrendering to our Lord wholeheartedly and joyously our entire being, body, soul and spirit in faithful stewardship will yield a bountiful happiness and joy that cannot be substituted by anything this world can offer.

How precious our time should be to us! "The seconds are rubies, the minutes are pearls, the hours are emeralds, the days are sapphires and the years are diamonds." How we need to pray to God "to teach us to number our days that we may apply our hearts unto wisdom." May we at this glorious harvest time give Him our ALL.

Somebody said "I'm glad to give":
Somebody gave that someone might live.
Somebody prayed, and someone was saved;

Seriously, Now

> "Religion today is not taken very seriously in society. It is there as a convention—not even an emotion, certainly not a passion."—In "The Great World," by "A Gentleman With a Duster."

Do you believe that? Taking society as you know it, as you move in and out among Mennonites, is that true—that religion is not "even an emotion," much less a passion?

Yet a scholar who has studied modern life thinks so. Looking out upon society he finds that people are not taking religion very seriously. There is a consolation that this was written some years ago, when, we must admit, Americans were steeped in materialism, much more so than they are today. There is reason to believe that with an increasing number of people religion is becoming not only an emotion, but a passion.

Young people will listen to you, if your religion is a passion. But, as Doctor Langenwalter says in his delightful little book, Watch Your Controls, "There's no use talking to young people about religion, unless you are full of it yourself."

If you're not in earnest about this business of Christian living, why should they be?—B. B.

Sunday Afternoon Sing

Let's make this sing a family affair and invite everyone from the baby to the grandparents. With just a little effort you may combine the sing with a group of living pictures in which the entire family may be represented. The first picture will be baby in a cradle or high chair. A mother might sing a lullaby as a solo during the presentation of the pictures, then, as the picture is being changed, have the entire group sing lullabys or other 'baby' songs.

Picture number two will be children of pre-school age. During this presentation the audience will sing such songs as "Jewels," "Jesus Loves Me," "Jesus, Friend of Little Children," etc.

Picture Number three should be a boy and girl of school age, possibly around 10 years of age, during which "School Days" should be sung. Variation of this, or addition to it, might be a boy with fishing pole, and during the presentation have some one give as a reading, "The Barefoot Boy."

Picture number four is of high school days. This picture might be a football hero, while the audience sings a group of high school pep songs, or it might be a "Pep Squad" who will furnish their own music.

Picture number five should be college days, and if near a college town, their Alma Mater should be sung.

Picture number six will be the bride and groom, and a solo should be sung during this presentation. "I Love You Truly," or "O, Promise Me," would be equally appropriate.

Number seven might aptly be a family group or home scene given while "It Takes a Heap O' Livin'" by Edgar A. Guest, is read.

Picture number eight will be a grandmother and grandfather while the audience sings "Silver Threads Among the Gold."

After the final picture the entire group will sing "Blest Be The Tie."

Any number of additional songs or readings may be introduced between scenes, the more the better.

"Gracious Living"

James 3:13-18

Young People's Topic for Nov. 20, 1938

Meditations:

M., Nov. 14. Courtesy and tact. 1 Pet. 3:8-11
T., Nov. 15. Jesus meek and gentle. 2 Cor. 10:1
W., Nov. 16. The way of love. 1 Cor. 13:1-13.
T., Nov. 17. Moses' magnanimity. Num. 11:24-29
F., Nov. 18. Life on high levels. Col. 3:1-13
S., Nov. 19. Walking with Christ. Eph. 5:1-10

Suggested Hymns:

"Kind Words Can Never Die", "Scatter Kindness"

Christian young people ought to cultivate the art of gracious living. They ought to become habitually polite and well mannered in all their dealings with one another and with others. To be otherwise is to fall short of the kind of behavior that honors Christ.

The dictator of a great country has the motto: "Live Dangerously!" An American newspaper correspondent tells of riding with this dictator in his private car. The automobile was driven at a high speed. Crowds cheered wildly as the official car passed through towns. At one town the automobile swerved, hit something with a sharp thud, but the driver continued. The American looked back. Seeing a mangled body on the roadside, he called attention to the fact. The dictator replied: Look forward, never backward!

Much of our trouble with people having bad manners and being inconsiderate of others is that they follow the motto of living dangerously instead of living graciously.

When a person is sincerely gracious and polite he is habitually kind and generous in his associations with others; he endeavors to conduct himself in their presence in ways that are not repulsive or offensive to them.

Topic Suggestions:

1. How does courtesy and tact help one to live graciously? May not tact be misused in an effort to deceive?
2. How to make good first impressions.
3. Does success depend on first impressions or on gracious living afterward?
4. Manners, dress, and personal habits of a winning personality.
5. What is poise and true dignity? Can one be dignified and yet humble?
6. What makes good conversation? Are such topics as the weather, business, religion, relatives, politics, etc. good topics for conversation?
7. Is your ideal personality a "publicity seeker"? What are anti-social methods of trying to keep in the public limelight?
8. Is there an innate need of being appreciated?
9. What is meant by living our lives on high levels?
10. Do we behave toward one another in ways that honor Christ?

INTERMEDIATE DEPARTMENT

Helping Others

Intermediate C. E. Topic, Nov. 27, 1938

For Daily Study

Nov. 21. Pray for others. 2 Thess. 3:1-3
Nov. 22. Help the sick. Luke 10:30-37
Nov. 23. Comfort those in trouble. Jas. 1:26, 27
Nov. 24. Best kind of helpfulness. Matt. 25:31-40
Nov. 25. Money help. Lev. 25:35-38
Nov. 26. Consider others. Rom. 14:19; 15:1-3
Nov. 27. Topic—Christian Ways of Helping Others. Acts 6:1-7

Preprayer Circle

Read 2 Thess. 3:1-3 and bring out the importance Paul places on prayer for others. Let the one who has charge of the prayer circle prepare a definite list of objects of prayer. Suggest prayer lists for the Quiet Hour of the Intermediates.

Praise in Song

"Brightly Beams," "More About Jesus," "Ready to Serve"

Society announcements. Have the topic of the evening printed on the blackboard so that all can see.

Quiet Worship

Instrumental prelude: "Jesus Calls Us"

Call to worship: "Freely ye have received, freely give"

Poem:—BECAUSE OF THY GREAT BOUNTY

"Because I have been given much,
I, too, must give:
Because of thy great bounty, Lord,
Each day I live
I shall divide my gifts from Thee
With every brother that I see
Who has the need of help from me.

Because I have been sheltered, fed
By Thy good care,
I cannot see another's lack
And I not share
My glowing fire, my loaf of bread,
My roof's safe shelter overhead,
That he, too, may be comforted.

Because love has been lavished so
Upon me, Lord,
A wealth I know that was not meant
For me to board,
I shall give love to those in need,
Shall show that love by word and deed.
Thus shall my thanks be thanks indeed.

—Grace Noll Crowell,
from the Inter. Jour. of Rel. Educ.

Scripture reading: Christian giving, Matt. 25:34-40

Sentence prayers. Give thanks for God's bounteous gifts to us. Pray that we may see the opportunities to share His gifts with others. Pray that we may have the spirit of Christ in helping others. Suggest such prayer thoughts before calling for sentence prayers. Ask your sponsor to close the prayers.

For the Leader

Point out the fact that the topic suggests that there are ways of helping others that are not Christian. Refer to Matt. 25:34-40 as Jesus' own statement of how a Christian helps others. 1. He forgets about it.

2. He does not expect a reward. 3. It is our only way of showing our love for Christ. He accepts it as service unto Him.

Do modern Christians help others in this spirit? Read again the account of the early Christians given in connection with the topic for Nov. 6. Do we measure up to their standard of Christian living?

Christian Ways of Helping

No one can set down all the ways there are of helping others. For each person it is different. Each day brings its own opportunities. Only love can prompt us that we do not miss any. The Bible suggests some.

1. Jesus' example. Acts 10:38. About fifteen of the thirty parables spoken by Jesus teach the lesson of helpfulness to someone in need. He not only taught helpfulness, but he lived it. Twenty-nine of Jesus' miracles were performed to help one or more persons. Name as many different ways in which Jesus helped others as you can.

2. Helping the sick. Matt. 10:30-37. What opportunities do we have to be a good Samaritan?

3. Comforting those in trouble. James 1:27. What kind of comfort can young people give to the lonely?

4. Giving money help. Lev. 25:35-38. When should money help be given? What are the dangers of helping people in this way?

5. Showing kindness. Eph. 4:32. In what ways does kindness show itself helpful?

6. Someone has said: "Remember kindnesses done for you; forget kindnesses you have done for others." Is this Christian? How can we develop this spirit?

Closing Moments

Duet: "Here Am I Send Me"
Benediction: "Bethany Blessing"

JUNIOR CORNER

I Want To Thank God

Joshua 24:1-28; Psalm 103

Program Suggestions for November 27, 1938

Guest Night

Setting: In autumn and winter bouquet materials and candles set here and there

1. Prelude
2. Processional from rear of church to front pews as the group sings "Praise Him! Praise Him!" When reaching their seats, let the group remain standing, turn, facing the audience and finish the hymn. If you have a spacious platform, your group could be seated there, if not, the group should turn in their seats and face the guests for unison work.
3. Group is seated, chairman rises and speaks: "Bless the Lord, O my soul; and all that is within me, bless his holy name."
4. Group sings response in unison, "Praise ye the Lord, the Almighty, the King of creation." Verses 1 and 4
5. Chairman rises to speak: "Bless the Lord, O my soul, and forget not all his benefits"
6. Group sings response in unison, "O Worship the King." Verses 1 and 3
7. Scripture reading by three juniors
   a. Joshua 24:1, 14, 15
   b. Joshua 24:16-18
   c. Joshua 24:22, 24
   Junior reading scripture (c) should stand at center back
8. Duet sings verse two of "Give of Your Best to the Master"

   "Give of your best to the Master;
   Give Him first place in your heart;
   Give Him first place in your service,
   Consecrate every part.
   Give, and to you shall be given;
   God His beloved Son gave;
   Gratefully seeking to serve Him,
   Give Him the best that you have."

9. Chairman rises to speak: "Bless the Lord, O my soul and forget not all his benefits. Who forgiveth all thine iniquities; who healeth all thy diseases."
10. In response, a junior steps up and gives a two minute talk on these verses, Ps. 103:2, 3
11. Group sings in unison: "Whiter than Snow." Verse 1
12. Chairman rises to speak Psalm 103:2 and 5
13. A junior gives a two minute talk in response using these verses
14. Quartet sings: "God Will Take Care of You." Verses 1 and 3
15. Chairman rises and speaks Psalm 103:2 and 10
16. Junior responds with a two minute talk using these verses
17. Poem by a junior using the hymn: "Great Is Thy Faithfulness"
18. Thanksgiving offering: Leader tells of project for the month, of other mission activities and announces this offering for the mission chest. The hymn "I Need Thee Every Hour" could be sung quietly while juniors take up the offering
19. Chairman rises to speak Ps. 103:2 and 22
20. The group rises and responds by singing verse one of "I Will Sing of My Redeemer." For verse two and three, the audience is asked to join in the singing
21. Pastor's closing prayer

CORRESPONDENCE

FIRST MENN. CHURCH, NEWTON, KANSAS

Dear Editor and Readers! In the past quarter we have had quite a number of interesting occurrences. On Sunday, July the 3rd, Dr. Warkentin preached on I Kings 13:1-32. The story of the prophet, who prophesied against the altar of Bethel. Human religion has no power, God's religion is powerful. But we must obey God implicitly. Sunday, July 10, in the evening he took up the series of sermons on the confession of faith. This time "Regeneration." The Young People's Choir sang German hymns. Sunday, July 17, Dr. P. H. Richert preached on missions, in both languages. His text was John 4:35, "Lift up your eyes and look on the fields that they are white already unto harvest."

On Thursday afternoon the funeral of Mrs. Sarah Voth, 80, a faithful member of our church, took place. Rev. J. Entz read several passages and prayed. Dr. Warkentin preached in German, on Rev. 21, and especially on "there will be no death." Rev. J. F. Moyer spoke English emphasizing the beneficial change, which death brings to the saints, 2 Cor. 4:18 and 5:1. On Thursday evening we had our Sunday School picnic. The guests came slowly, but by about 8 o'clock there must have been 400 or more. After some singing by the assembly and the young people's choir, Yictor Claassen and Abbie Claassen gave short talks and Dr. May of Kansas City gave an address on the first Psalm.

From July 31 to August 20, the correspondent was on a trip to the General Conference in Saskatoon, Canada. On Sunday, August 21st, Rev. Freeman Swartz taught in a combined Sunday School class of young men, spoke to the Sunday School and preached in English. In the afternoon he spoke at the County-Farm. In the evening the brethren Ted Claassen and Willard Claassen gave a very interesting report of the General Conference in Saskatoon, Canada.

On Tuesday evening, at six o'clock, occurred the wedding of the daughter of our janitor, Bro. Buller. At 8 o'cock a quintet from Wheaton college gave a very much appreciated concert. In the evening of Sunday, Aug. 28, our Young People's C. E. had an exchange program in the Swiss church near Whitewater.

On Wednesday evening, August 37st, there was in our church, besides the young people and adult Bible class, and teachers meeting, a prayer meeting for the future students of the High school, College and Bible schools. On Sunday these came singing into the church, 12 benches being reserved for them. Rev. J. E. Entz spoke very fittingly about the very important influence of the school upon character. He then read Eph. 3:14-21 and prayed for our youth and their teachers. After a solo, Dr. Warkentin emphasized that we, and especially the young people ought to have an ideal, a hero. The only perfect ideal is Christ. He showed Jesus 12 years old in school in the temple. Willard Claassen, a student of theology spoke about perils and opportunities of student life, II Timothy 2:15. Several very suitable German hymns were sung. Twenty of our young people are going to College and Bible school, 100 to High School. The students sang: "I Will be true." It was a very impressive service. God bless our young people.

In the evening the singer, Otto Richert, read and sang passages out of the life of Christ. After the C. E., sister Talitha Neufeld spoke of her experiences in China. For those who could hear it, it was very interesting. On Wednesday evening, September 7, there was again a wedding in our church. Frieda Entz was united with W. Harder. After the ceremony there was a social and a program, attended by about 350 guests.

Thursday, September 8, was Gift day at the Bethel Home and Hospital, on the lawn of the Home. It was very well attended. There were talks and music. In the evening was a very good band concert. Rev. White of the Baptist church gave a very good address. Sunday, September 11th, Rev. Abr. Unruh of Winkler, Manitoba, preached in German on Hebrew 10:21, Acts 24:16 and Hebrew 9:13. Converted to serve. Obedience is doing the will of God. Let us exercise ourselves, to have always a conscience void of offence toward God and toward men. The Y.P.C.E. gave an interesting report of the blessed retreat. There were about 200 retreaters there.

On Tuesday, September 20, a male quartet from the seminary at Dallas, Texas, gave a fine program of songs, concert music and testimony, at the Home for the Aged in the afternoon, and in the well-filled church in the evening. On Sunday, September 25, our pastor preached on nonresistence, Rom. 12 and Matt. 5 being the chief passages. The Hilty brothers from Bluffton, Ohio sang Psalm 23 at the close of the Sunday school and Psalm 27 at the beginning of the service, the two psalms of the Sunday school lesson. In the evening was the wedding of John Harms of Gnadenberg and Gertrude Entz of our congregation. —C. H. A. van der Smissen.

BETHEL CHURCH, PERKASIE, PA.

The Orphanage Society of the Eastern District Conference held their annual Convention on Oct. 8, in the Bethel Church, Perkasie. The Society was organized 34 years ago for the purpose of caring for orphans and needy widows. From a small group the organization has grown until it has seventy members. For many years this Society has contributed to the support of orphans in India. It is at present the chief relief agency of the Eastern District.

Every Ladies' Aid President should be vitally interested in this work, should keep in touch with the Society and should notify us of any Mennonite families where help is needed. The only membership requirements are willingness to support the work by free will offerings and otherwise. We welcome to our Society any men or women who are interested in the work and meet this requirement.

We would suggest that Sunday Schools make their children's Day offerings a gift to this splendid work which is mainly in the interests of children. Ladies Aid and Mission Societies should consider this their opportunity for doing relief work and make a special effort in giving to such a worthy cause.

During the past year two families were helped, one was a widow in Lansdale who had been ill and obliged to break up her home, the other, a family in Germantown that was without coal in bitter cold weather last winter.

At our recent Convention in Perkasie it was voted to contribute $75.00 to the Quakertown Children's Home which is now a community project, with two of our Eastern District men on the board of Directors.

Our next Convention will be held in the Flatland Church on the second Saturday of November.—Ada M. Landis, Secr., Mrs. Clarence Kooker, Pres.

HOFFNUNGSFELD CHURCH, MOUNDRIGE, KANSAS, 11-31-38

During the latter part of July and the month of August our pastor and his family made an extended trip, first to South Dakota by car where the family remained while he went to the General Conference at Saskatoon, Saskatchewan. Upon his return, they made a trip east to Berne, Indiana, to visit relatives, returning home safely after an absence of five weeks.

We are thankful to the Lord that we could follow the program of our work without interruption, Sunday School, preaching services, Christian Endeavor and catechitical instruction. Our young people organized a Choir and they are now busily engaged in practicing for a Christmas Cantata. We also have a mid-week Bible study in German with the older members of our church, and are starting a systematic Bible study with our young people in English. May the Holy Spirit of God hover over our efforts and produce a normal growth to His honor and glory.—Our church was represented at the recent Ministerial Conference at Meno, Okla., and at the Western District Conference at Enid.

At the close of our church year, Nov. 14, we must say that the Lord has been very gracious unto us. He has blessed us with all temperal and spiritual blessings. He has blessed us with fairly good health. We had only one death in our church during the year. A young brother who has been under a siege of sickness for several months seems to be improving. Our oldest member, father John J. Schrag, came very near losing his life when his car struck the abutment of a bridge and was damaged badly while father Schrag escaped with a broken left arm and other bodily bruises. Sunday, Aug. 23, we were permitted to gather at the Lord's table with a fairly good attendance. At the same time we received a family into our church by the right hand of fellowship. May God bless them to us, with us, and one to another, is our prayer.

Sincerely, Correspondent.

PULASKI, IOWA MENNONITE CHURCH

During the month of October, in our church, there have occurred three interesting events: First, the 50th wedding anniversary of Bro. Joseph and Malinda Baughman, in the evening of the 7th. They were greeted with a full house and an interesting program was rendered, followed with refreshments in the basement. It was a beautiful picture of Christian fidelity, of man and wife lived out for fifty years, the solemn promises made at the bridal altar in their home church.

Second, was the fall communion, always an intensely interesting and sacred Christian ordinance. But this occasion was one that was particularly impressive, since it was partaken of by such a fine representation of the church, in which all Christians as usual were invited to partake. It was a lovely feast, indeed, to be indulged by all Christians until His glorious coming.

Third, was the celebration on the evening of the 19th., the anniversary of the 80th birthday of the local pastor. It brought to our minds many blessed and fond memories that have come and gone, during our thirty-one years of service. They were years of united Christian fellowship, and may all the churches of the General Conference have the same blessed united spirit, binding together pastor and people is my prayer.—W. W. M.

DEATHS

Eveline Helena Friesen, oldest, was born August 13, 1913, near Butterfield, Minnesota. She was taken from us suddenly, as the result of a blood clot in the heart, on Sept. 14, 1938. She had just been brought home from the Bethel Hospital at Mt. Lake, where she was dismissed, apparently in the best of health and spirit, the tenth day after the birth of her first daughter. Happy and thankful, she stepped into her home assisted by her husband and her sister, when suddenly she dropped into their arms dying.

Gifted with a loving disposition, Eveline brought much joy into her home. After district school, she attended the German Bible school at Mt. Lake, graduating in the spring of 1929. Three years later she graduated from the Mt. Lake High School. She yielded to the working of the Holy Spirit and the influence of parents and teachers, and gave her heart to Jesus. She was baptized upon confession of her faith that Jesus was her personal savior, by Rev. J. J. Balzer, July 6, 1930, and was received into membership of the Bethel Church, Mt. Lake. She tried to serve her Master by teaching children's classes in the Bethel Sunday School for a number of years. She also helped glorify her Savior by singing in the church choir, and as an active member of the eight o'clock Mission Society.

On May 27, 1936, she was joined in marriage to Mr. John Friesen, Butterfield.

She attained the age of 25 years, 1 month and 1 day. She leaves to mourn her early departure: her husband, John Friesen; her daughter, Marlene Kay, born September 5, 1938; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob L. Friesen; her husband's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Friesen; three brothers and one sister, Arno, Jacob, Elmer and Rosella; several brother- and sisters-in-laws; two grandmothers, Mrs. John Sawatzky and Mrs. Jacob F. Toews; uncles; aunts; cousins, and a large circle of friends.

AN APPEAL

— Dear Churches of the General Conference: May the Board of Publication ask each of you to take a generous offering for the work of publication before New Year? The Conference has a standing resolution requesting such an offering at least once each year. Our general treasury is in need of considerable cash to meet the expenses of new publications. A good many individuals have made contributions for the specific puropse of a printing plant fund for which we are truly grateful. But few of the churches have sent in offerings this year, for our general treasury.—Will pastors and church leaders kindly take this up with their churches and put this plea before them?—From the Chairman of the Board.

— Valuable Pamphlets Available. — "There is available now, a 24-page booklet, entitled 'History of the Hereford Mennonite Church at Bally, Pa.' (established 1725), price 25 cents. Also 6-page leaflet on 'The Mennonite Church at Boyertown, Pa.,' price 7c a copy. If interested, please writh the author: Mis Mary L. Bower, 51 So. Reading Ave., Boyerton, Pa."

— First Church Reedley, Calif. — Workers in the Reedley Sunday School are participating in an interdenominational Leadership Training School held at Fowler, Calif. beginning Nov. 1 and extending to Dec. 6. Dr. J. H. Langenwalter is on the teaching staff.

— A Neighborly Meeting, Morristown, Pa. — Plans are being made for the fourth meeting of the Mennonite, Friend, Brethern and Schwenk fellowships in the Morristown-Schwenksfelder Church, Dec. 5.

NOTICE TO THE CHURCHES OF THE NORTHERN DISTRICT CONFERENCE

The treasury of the Evangelization Committee is empty. Some money is needed immediately. We are supporting four workers at present. Please send in your contributions. We also need special gifts to help cover an overdue note that one of the smaller congregations owes. All donations should be sent to Rev. D. A. Schultz, treasurer, Avon, S. D.—I. J. Dick, Secr. of Evang. Com.

— Freeman, So. Dakota. — The rains in September brought on a profuse growth in the stubble fields, so that the thievish waste of the devouring grasshoppers wasn't a total loss. One farmer ventured the remark that there was a fresh growth of oats eqaul to the seeding of eight bushels in the field. In places there has been a good late crop of Sudan grass.

— Pastoral Message. — For many people prayer is a forgotten art. For the Christian it is a great essential. Prayer and Christian work are inseparable. Prayer leads to work and work to prayer. One has said, "Let us pray as though all depended on God and work as though all depended on us." "Pray without ceasing", I Thes. 5:17. — E. W.

— Souderton, Pa. Mennonite Church. — An eight weeks study of the Prophets and their message is carried on in this church. "About one third of the Old Testament consists of the writings of the Prophets. As Sunday School teachers and Christians we ought to be better acquainted with what a prophet was and the purpose of his message." At a meeting of Bluffton College Boosters it was revealed that practically every church in the Eastern District is following some plan of systematic giving for the school. Such a plan will put our College on a good running basis.

— A Word from a Sympathetic Brother. — Don't forget that there are many Mennonite people in Western Canada who are really needy. They lost their homes in Russia, had traveling expenses to meet, and now have had repeated crop failures. You can help them by bringing in clothing this week to be shipped to Rosthern, Sask.—D. J. U.

— Mennonite Church, Deer Creek, Okla. — Dear Editor: Quite a number of our congregation attended the Western District Conference, which was held at Enid this year. It was a blessing to attend the Conference sessions and evening programs, as well as to meet old friends and make new acquaintances.

The Sunday following the Conference we were privileged to have a number of visitors in our midst. Rev. J. R. Duerkson, of Kingman, Kansas, spoke a few words to the Sunday School and assisted in the church service, while Rev. Abraham Albrecht, of Ransom, Kansas, brought us the morning message. On Wednesday evening, October 26, we began our weekly prayer meeting and Bible study, taking up the Book of Acts. — Correspondent.

NOTE: In this number of THE MENNONITE, all mission material has the right of way. Will those whose contributions had to be deferred exercise patience, please?

FOREIGN MISSION

This Mission Number is largely a stewardship number. Several things have led to this:

First, the "Plan for Systematic Giving," as recommended by the General Conference for consideration by the churches, has so far only been published in the regular issues of our chuch parpers and not in the Mission Number. Consequently about half of our mission friends have not had a chance to study it.

Secondly, this Mission Number follows so soon after the report to the conference, that very little material from the mission fields has come in for this number since then.

Thirdly, the leaders of the whole country are awakening at this time more than ever to the need of systematic giving in view of the many calls for relief in China, Spain, etc., and the many debts of our institutions at home.

The Red Cross started some time ago a canvass in this country for relief in China, but the result was so disappointing, that they have now turned the campaign for the China Relief entirely over to the churches. The churches have created a "Church Committee for China Relief," and all over the country local committees are created for this purpose. The main drive is to be shortly before Christmas.

In view of the fact that we have our own relief committee, and have done relief work through our missionaries in China directly, this appeal may not directly concern us so much as it does the country in general. But the very fact that the whole country is trying to inaugurate a Stewardship campaign is inspiring also for us, and we should take notice of it, especially since, together with it, a Loyalty Campaign for religion is planned, under the auspices of "The National Committee for Religion and Welfare Recovery," C. V. Vickrey, Chm., 60 E. 42 St., N. Y.

Judge McGoorty, Chicago, co-chairman of this committee, recently received the following letter from President F. D. Roosevelt:

"I am happy to learn of the proposals for this year's observance of Loyalty Days by your committee and plans for the National Stewardship Convention. Your subject for the convention, "Stewardship in a Democracy" is most significant. Governmental measure, taxation and other means for social security and welfare, can never take the place of brotherhood and philanthropy. Indeed, the same underlying motives are needed by both our government and our free voluntary institutions, in order to preserve the true democracy of our institutions. We must strive for the fullest cooperation between the state and our free institutions, all seeking the highest good of the people."

A National Stewardship Convention was held Nov. 1, 2 and 3 in Chicago, at Hotel Stevens. A little book, entitled "Religion and Welfare Handbook" containing "A Call to Worship and a Call to Stewardship" has already been issued in its fourth edition, 15,000 copies, so great is the demand for it.

Last year our missionaries spent about $2000.00 relief money by making the most needy people work for it. The treasurer of our Emergency Relief Board, Rev. P. H. Unruh, Goessel, Kans., is sending larger and smaller sums from time to time. Our Foreign Mission Board has turned this relief in China over to the Board, although last year we sent $1000.00 there.

The reports say that about ten million people are being fed now, and one dollar will keep one person alive for one month, which means that $10,000,000 are needed every month. The total number of needy is estimated at 30 million, 300 hundred of which die every day. These figures, no doubt, grip all of us, but what about the many more millions who starve spiritually, because the bread of life, Christ, has not yet been brought to them? If the whole country now wakes up to this need (even non-churchmembers) i. e., to this physical need, we as Christians must continue to concentrate on the spiritual need of feeding the starving souls, and at the same time also help physically.

May the Lord bless the country-wide campaign.

Scriptural Principles of Christian Stewardship

Christian stewardship includes the whole life, and normally it begins, as Paul expresses it, (2 Cor. 8:5) by "first giving their own selves to the Lord." With this remark Paul begins the longest discussion we find in the Bible concerning systematic giving, namely 2 Corinthians, Chapter 8 and 9. And he closes the discourse with "Thanks be unto God for His unspeakable gift." Between these two very spiritual statements he incloses his teaching concerning systematic giving.

Systematic giving is orderly giving, and "order is heaven's first law." If the kingdom of God shall ever come on this earth, then order must come into everything, and that includes also orderly giving.

Does the Scripture teach systematic giving? Yes, very clearly and definitely. Paul, who was perhaps the best steward whom Christ ever had, expresses the principles of systematic giving in a nutshell as follows:

"Upon the first day of the week let every one of you lay by him in store, as God has prospered him." 1 Cor. 16:2.

In these short words are expressed or intimated at least five principles of Christian stewardship, namely:

1. Devotion.—The giving shall be done on the "first day of the week" that is on Sunday, the day of worship.
2. Regularity.—It shall be done "on each first day of the week."
3. All are included."—"Every one" shall do it.
4. Proportional.—"As God has prospered him."
5. Stewardship.—God is recognized as the source of all prosperity and for that reason of all property.

1. Devotion.—This is the heart of all scriptural giving, whose endeavor it is first of all to glorify God. "Hallowed be Thy name" is the first petition, and must be the first in deeds and in giving. God's holy will must be the altar which hallows each gift. No gift, no matter how great, yes, if it were our life, is acceptable to God, if it is not hallowed on the altar of the will of God. Jesus says, "Ye fools and blind: for whether is greater, the gift, or the altar that sanctifieth the gift?"

It is therefore a commendable custom in some churches, to let the minister speak a special prayer before or after the collection, or to remember the collection in the general prayer.

Joyful giving depends partly on the consciousness, that God's pleasure rests upon it. There is no joy like the joy of feeling that God's pleasure rests on what we do. Even the pious heart of the heathen feels this, as is seen in that mother in India, who had two children, one strong and healthy, the other weak and crippled. When in her desire for peace for her soul she decided to sacrifice a child, by throwing it into the Ganges River, she threw the healthy child into the water. When a missionary expressed his surprise, she declared that the gods would naturally not be pleased if she would offer the crippled child.

II. Regularity.—It helps us to guard against negligence and forgetfulness, and promotes the habit. Although habits in themselves are not essential, they form the character, and that is essential. Habit makes things easier, and in giving this is a great help.

Frequent opportunity has also this advantage, that more church members get the opportunity to give, because many cannot come regularly. It often happens that they are not present on the Sundays when a collection is taken, and when they are there, no opportunity is given. This brings us to the third point.

III. All are included.—"Every one of you," says Paul. This includes rich and poor, young and old. If the 600 million nominal Christians in the world today would give only a mite regularly, we would marvel at the overflowing treasuries, which would contain at least five times as much as today.

Dr. Agar of New York, who has studied this point especially, claims that "only 30% of all church members are concerned in any way about the evangelization of the world." What does this mean? Does this not indicate that perhaps the greater part of the other 70% have not done the first thing that Paul mentions in his lesson about giving: "They first gave their own selves to the Lord?" Also they do not remind themselves of the unspeakable gift, like Paul does.

This complete giving of ourselves to the Lord is a very blessed thing, especially in times like this, where so many people have financial worries. A housefather, whose worries pressed him greatly, lost much sleep on account of them. One morning he said, "I am rid of my worries. The thought has come to me, if we are fully the Lord's property, then everything we have belongs to him, including our debts."

IV. Proportional.—"As God has prospered him." Although Paul here does not expressly mention the giving of the tithe as a basis for giving, yet as a Jew he doubtless had at least the principle of the tithe giving in mind, when he wrote this. What is this principle? One fundamental feature of this principle, (and one concerning which there can be no difference of opinion) is this: He who has much should give more than he who has little. No matter what one may otherwise think of giving the tithe, no one will dispute that it means: "To whom much has been committed, of him the more will be asked." Luke 12:48. As there can be no debate on this point, the question concerning the giving of the tithe has already been answered in principle. Paul teaches in principle the giving of the tithe. But he does more than that, for proportional giving has not only a relative element which is taught with the tithe, but also an absolute element, which is taught in Scripture passages like the following: "The silver is mine, and the gold is mine, saith the Lord of hosts." This includes, of course, the tithe, but does not confine itself to that. The only limit of this absolute element is the ability to give, that is "as God has prospered him," which makes giving possible. This is the special Christian element in proportional giving, and is founded on gratitude for God's unspeakable gift, which makes of us all debtors and stewards instead of owners.

V. Stewardship.—If we recognize God as the source of our wealth, we at the same time make him the true owner and rightly so. That, too, is what Paul has in mind when he says at another place: "What hast thou that thou didst not receive?" and "Ye are not your own." If Jesus says in a parable "Give an account of thy stewardship," he thinks directly of money in applying the parable to His disciples. In His application He even speaks about money as of something, which belongs to somebody else than ourselves. "If ye have not been faithful in that which is another man's, who shall give you that which is your own?" Luke 16:12. The connection shows, that that which is not our own is money, and that which is our own is the true, heavenly riches, that is, spiritual riches.

Concerning this point of stewardship the "Missionary Review of the World" contains a good outline, as follows:

Christian Stewardship

I. Principles

1. God is the owner of everything.
2. Man is steward over that which he owns.
3. God requires recognition through: Wise,—joyful,—systematic,—proportional and sacrificial giving of ourselves, service and property.

II. Methods:

1. Keep exact account of: Income,—expenses—and giving.
2. Separate for the Lord: A definite portion—The firstfruits—At least the tithe.
3. Use the rest: For Christian living,—In Christian economy—and in Christian service.

III. Results

1. Financial results:—It assures us of the blessing of God; increases the income of the church and cares for the needs of the world.
2. Spiritual results:—It establishes faith; confirms prayer, and ennobles the character.

In short: It glorifies God!

Property is a divine trust. Things are tools, not prizes. Life is not for self-indulgence, but for self-devotion. When, instead of saying, "The world owes me a living," men shall say, "I owe the world a life," then the kingdom will come in power. We owe everything to God but our sins. Fatherland, pedigree, home-life, Christian training,—all are God's gifts.

Biblical Teachings Concerning the Tithe And Our Duty in the Light of the Same

This subject falls into two parts:

I. What is the scriptural teaching concerning the tithe?

II. What is our duty in the light of this teaching?

I. The first lesson concerning the tithe we find in Genesis 14, where it is reported that Abraham gave the tithe to the priest-king, because he was a "priest of the Lord most high," and as such he blessed Abraham and reminded him that the salvation of Lot was a work of God. Thereupon Abraham gives the tithe to this priest, obviously in gratitude and reverence. So it was a religious sense of duty which caused the first tithe about which the Bible reports. This tithe was given 500 years before the lawful tithing of the children of Israel. This tithe was also a fruit of faith and not of the law.

This is very important for us, for today we do not stand on the foundation of the law but on the foundation of grace, and only on this foundation is God pleased with our offering, be it the tithe or anything else.

(2) The second lesson concerning the tithe we find in Deut. 14:22-27: "Thou shalt truly tithe all the increase of thy seed, that the field bringeth forth year by year. And thou shalt eat before the Lord thy God in the place which he shall choose to place his name there, the tithe of thy corn, of thy wine, and of thine oil, and the firstlings of thy herd and of thy flocks; that thou mayest learn to fear the Lord thy God, and shalt rejoice, thou, and thine household, and the Levite . . . "

This lawful tithe also was a religious tithe, which was to be eaten only at the chosen holy place, but from gratitude, too, as verse 24 in this chapter shows.

(3) The third lesson concerning the tithe we find in the same chapter in the following three verses (28-29): "At the end of three years thou shalt bring forth all the tithe of thine increase the same year, and shalt lay it up within thy gates: And the Levite, (because he hath no part nor inheritance with thee,) and the stranger, and the fatherless, and the widow . . . shall eat and be satisfied that the Lord thy God may bless thee . . . "

So this tithe had more the purpose of poor relief and charity, and was paid only every three years, and might be eaten at home in the own "gates."

(4) The fourth lesson concerning the tithe we find in 1 Sam. 8:15—"And he (the king) will take the tenth of your seed."—Of course this lesson is not given in the form of a law of God, but as a warning, but since the people should obey the king for the Lord's sake, this tenth too was binding, and largely took the place of our taxes to the government. So it was a political tenth, although in a theocratical sense.

Why do all these Scripture passages require the tenth, and not the seventh or the twelfth, etc.? The Scripture does not give any direct answer to this, as for instance it gives an explanation for the sabbath. But indirectly we have an answer, for various Scripture passages show that ten is the number of completion, and is therefore representative for the whole. (Ten commandments, ten servants with ten pounds, ten days of tribulation, etc.)

But why should this offering be representative? To show that all we have is really not our own property, but belongs to God. Jesus expressly calls the mammon which we have "another man's" property. "Silver and gold is mine," "The cattle upon the hills are mine," etc. So the number ten is continually to remind us that we are merely stewards. (When we say that ten is the number of completion that does not mean perfection. Seven is the number of perfection and is therefore called the sacred number.

As far as the giving itself is concerned, including the freewill offering, God has already in the Old Testament laid down the fundamental principle in Deut. 16:16 and 17: "They shall not appear before the Lord empty: every man shall give as he is able, according to the blessing of the Lord thy God which He has given thee."

This agrees exactly with the New Testament principles, as expressed by Paul: "Every man according as he hath, and not according to that he hath not." This shows that the fundamental rule of the Scriptures in regard to the measure of giving is in the whole Bible the same, namely: Proportional giving. The tithe too is proportional giving, that is, he that has much shall give much, and he that has little shall give less.

But this brings us to the second part of our subject:

II. What is our duty in the light of this teaching?

1. We shall regard ourselves as stewards of God, in material as well as in spiritual things. Jesus repeatedly connects both. Only once has He directly indorsed the tithe, and that in connection with spiritual duties: repentance, mercy and faith. He says: "Woe unto you, scribes and Pharisees, for ye pay tithe of mint and anise and cummin and have omitted the weightier matters of the law, judgment, mercy and faith; these ought ye to have done, and not to leave the other undone." So we should not leave the tithe undone. Of course, He said this to the Jews, and one may regard it as being spoken from the standpoint of the law. So much is certain, that Jesus has directly endorsed the law concerning the tithe. In how far this refers to us, other Scripture passages and other considerations must show.

2. If Abraham, in gratitude and deference gave the tithe, how much more reason have we for giving it? When Paul speaks about giving, he closes the two chapters dealing with it (2 Cor. 8 and 9) with the exclamation: "Thank be unto God for His unspeakable gift." Why does he say this at this particular place? Doubtless in order to stress the foundamental motive of all Christian giving: Gratitude. Has Christ not a right to expect from every Christian, rich or poor, at least the tithe for His kingdom?

3. If Christ has a right to this, then it is at least our moral duty to make a serious attempt to give the tithe. Thousands have tried it and have fared well.

This is shown, too, by the so-called "Belmont Plan," which the conference committee has recommended in a somewhat modified form. It is interesting and instructive reading. Two points are especially remarkable in this plan: In the first place, how unexpectedly much money is brought in thereby, and secondly, how frequently the whole spiritual life was elevated thereby, so that it was astonishing.

But is that really so surprising? Does this not agree exactly with Christ's Word in Luke 16:11-12: "If ye have not been faithful in the unrighteous mammon, who will commit to your trust the true riches? And if ye have not been faithful in that which is another man's, who shall give you that which is your own?" Here Jesus connects faithful giving so closely with spiritual blessing that it is surprising. He actually says this: He who does not faithfully manage material things, to him I cannot commit the heavenly, spiritual and eternal. Is not that one of the best explanations for the so often deplored spiritual poverty within the church? How can God commit to us much great, spiritual, eternal prosperity if we do not even manage faithfully the visible, material property, which does not belong to us? They are strange property of which we are only stewards for a short time, evidently for the purpose to prove us, whether we are worthy to own something that is our own and eternal.

What then is the practical use of the biblical tithe in our times? What does the biblical tithe teach us?

1. It teaches us that God is the owner of all our property.

2. We are merely stewards, and therefore we must give account of that which we have, and how we use it.

3. The tithe of the law as well as Abraham's tithe of faith is in the last instance founded upon gratitude.

4. If gratitude is the fundamental reason for tithing, then we Christians have more cause to give the tithe than the Jews had, and therefore we should consider it the minimum for Christian giving, as thousands are already actually doing.

5. Although the lawful tithe as a law is not for us, yet it is a general standard, whereby we can learn what is on the average possible for us.

6. One thing is especially apparent in the biblical tithe, namely: "Unto whomsoever much is given, of him much shall be required," that is biblical giving, and that is a fundamental principle of tithing, in regard to which nobody can be in doubt. Therein the New Testament and the Old agree exactly.

7. There is at least one Scripture passage recommending an experimental giving of the tithe, namely Mal. 3:10. That is also what the suggested plan of the conference is after. And it is to be hoped, that all congregations try the plan, whether for a year or for a shorter period is not the main thing. It is better to try it for a short time than not at all.

One objection to the tithe should really be mentioned, namely, that with it one makes a law for oneself. The word "law" is here really not very exact, for as a rule a law is laid upon us from without. This comes from within as a free resolution and one should rather call it a rule. And as is generally known: "No rule without exception." We do make rules for ourselves, why not in this matter? Especially since this rule is so very biblical that it existed before the law.

Report of the Committee On Systematic Giving

"Bring ye all the tithes into the storehouse, that there may be meat in mine house, and prove me now herewith, saith the Lord of hosts, if I will not open you the windows of heaven, and pour you out a blessing, that there shall not be room to receive it." Mal. 3:10.

"Upon the first day of the week let every one of you lay by him in store, as God hath prospered him, that there shall be no gathering when I come." I Cor. 16:2.

"If therefore ye have not been faithful in the unrighteous mammon, who will commit to your trust the true riches? And if ye have not been faithful in that which is another man's, who shall give you that which is your own?" Luke 16:11-12.

Following is the Conference resolution adopted in Bluffton, Ohio, in 1933: "We recommend, that the Executive Committee of the General Conference appoint a committee who shall work out a plan for systematic giving for all Conference needs." We interpret this resolution to mean that ways and means shall be devised to secure the necessary money to carry on all our conference work. This we believe would imply a revival of the spiritual life of our people which would cause them to consider themselves as stewards of God.

The door must be left open for designated gifts, either for foreign or for home missions. As to special gifts, they can be made in the future as in the past. However the Boards prefer that special gifts be made for such needs that are included in the budget.

Since in spite of the most careful expenditures by the different Boards deficits may occur, we recommend that 5% of the gross receipts shall be set aside as a Stabilization Fund, which may be used to cover the deficits in any Treasury of the Conference. The Executive Committee is to determine the distribution of this Stabilization Fund.

As we have stated in our introduction, and as our conference resolutions from 1926 and 1933 recommend, we urge all our church members to tithe, not in a legal spirit, but in a spirit of gratitude to God "for His unspeakable gift" (2 Cor. 9:15). Repeatedly churches report that when they tithed, they received remarkable blessings, both spiritual and financial.

We therefore recommend that our mission boards send one or more men to visit all ou churches, that they present to the churches in a definite way the scriptural claims and the practical working of stewardship of self, service and substance, and to cause people voluntarily to pledge themselves to this Christian mode of living. Since the following covenant plan has been found very helpful in similar campaigns, we recommend its adoption by our mission friends:

"Trusting in God and accepting His challenge (Mal. 3:10) I hereby pledge through my church one-thenth of my income for a period of one year, beginning _________________ for the Lord's causes. Unless providentially hindered I will attend church each Sunday and bring my offering (according to the system of my church).

A Grateful Song

by Grace Noll Crowell

I am so grateful. Lord, today
I must kneel down to pray,
To thank Thee, not alone for bread,
And for my sheltering roof, my bed;
But for a thousand splendid things
My glad heart lifts and sings:

For eyes to see the sun's good light;
For ears to hear the swift-winged bright
Voice of the birds, and wind through trees,
The fragrance upon the breeze,
The velvet touch of leaf and flower;
Thy care about me, hour by hour;
Thy hand, unseen, that guides me through
The day's length with its work to do,
And gently, tenderly the while
Down every straight or crooked mile.
Thy WORD, its promises that glow
To guide me as I go.
I am so grateful, Lord, for these,
I thank Thee on my knees.

Rev. P. H. Richert,
Goessel, Kansas

Dear Brother Richert and Board Members:

On the arrival of Miss Goertz, things being very quiet aound Kai Chow, we felt it would be all right for my brother and myself to leave for a little vacation. Accordingly we left the latter part of July for a month up here. We have found the time spent here very helpful in every way and have especially appreciated being with our families again after six months of separation. Soon we will be returning to Kai Chow.

The question regarding women and children is again in our minds. However, it hinges now on the children rather than the women, as there seems to be a consensus of opinion that women can stand the situation now as well as men. We will be deciding shortly and will let you know when the time comes. The single ladies have all gone to the field and are now at work. The married women want to go badly and feel, that as far as they themselves are concerned, it would be easier to go to the field than to continue this separate existence with its responsibilities. As it looks now they will likely locate in Peking temporarily and go down to the field if possible in the fall, say October. It is possible also that one or two of them may stay with all the children releasing one or two to go down to the field for longer or short periods.

Just at present it is difficult to forecast what the interior conditions will be. Kai Chow has no Japanese troops within 30 miles and is entirely under the Chinese, this makes for peace and quietness. Taming has a Japanese garrison, which is small and barely holds the city. Chinese troops and guerrilas are increasing their activity in the vicinity and in all North China and it looks as if disturbances will increase rather than lessen. It is no uncommon thing at Taming to have rifle, machine gun and other gun fire at night. The folks there write of seeing Chinese-uniformed men in the vicinity occasionally. Kai Chow being near, and in some sense somewhat of a headquarters for Chinese activity against the Japanese, it looks as if the place will be visited sooner or later by bombers or troops. These are disturbing factors that make us hesitate about taking the children into the interior.

The railroad at present is open as far south as our field but trains are continually being interrupted, either by attacks while operating or by tearing up rails during the night. If guerrila activity becomes more consistent and organized, as is likely, it is hard to see how much dependable peace can be realized in the near future.

We are anxiously waiting for information regarding the arrival of new missionaries. Indirectly we hear that at least Mr. Brown and the Janzens and Miss Davis are scheduled to come.* We shall be glad to know the date of arrival and will especially appreciate having more help on the field. The work goes forward with less interruption than might be expected under the circumstances. Since we do not enter into political activity the church is at peace with both sides and has the unique opportunity to work in behalf of the common people under whichever regime may be in power.

It has been interesting to get in touch with other missionaries from North China here during the summer. Men are returning now and women also to most places. However, along the railway and interior places there are many mothers and children who are still hesitating to go in. In general there is little hope for a quiet year, as it is expected that guerrila activity will increase.

We have no report yet from the General Conference but hope you had a profitable time and that every phase of church work, including our missionary work, may go forward with increased zeal.

Wishing God's blessing on you all,
Very sincerely, S. F. Pannabecker.

Kobe, Japan, Oct. 4, 1938

Rev. P. H. Richert, Newton, Kansas

Dear Bro. Richert:

Greetings in His Name! Just a word to let you know, that we have safely reached Kobe. We landed here on Sunday, October 2. We found that our reservations are for Thursday, October 6th. There was a ship going on Monday, but there was no space for us. They have promised to take us all and also our auto. The ship lands us at Tamgku, which is about 30 miles (?) above Tientsin. It is due there on the 10th of October.

We had four letters here all from China. The mothers with the children are at Tungchow, close to Peiping. They intend to leave too there with the children and one shall go to the field, changing off. Miss Fast and Rev. Pannabecker both write that the country is quiet. They traveled to Peiping and back to Taming and Kai Chow without any trouble. Miss Fast relates how she and Miss Kuyf travel in the country visiting out-stations on bicycles. They were planning to extend one of the trips to Kai Chow. She also relates that the whole staff of the Nazarene Mission is on the field. They have twelve children with them. This news is all most encouraging to us, and I am sure to the Mission Boards and the whole home constituency.

We had quite a little seasickness up to here, largely due to traveling 3rd class and having our cabins way in the rear on tail-end of the ship. The Lord has been good to us and brought us through, and we are sure, that He will also give grace to the remainder of the voyage.

Roland and Mr. Jantzen have bad colds and Grace Joan is just coming down with it too. Miss Davis stood the trip best. She really makes a good sailor. We are glad for the new workers. How we wish that we had more! The doors are open and souls are longing to be saved. It may not always be so! Let us redeem the time! Thank you for your prayers!

Yours in Christ,
H. J. and Maria Brown.

Home Mission Work

New Phases of Work

1. Closer Cooperation with District Conference Home Mission Committees.

A. At the time of the General Conference in Saskatoon, the members of the Home Mission Board held a meeting with all members of District Conference Home Mission Committees. The result of such a discussion is that a closer bond of cooperation has been established and is to be maintained in the future. For instance, within the confines of the Pacific District Conference a needy field was discovered. The Committee found a worker and the Home Mission Board supplies the monthly remuneration. The District Committee has the immediate oversight of the work, since it is located within easy reach of members of the Committee.

As a result of this cooperation, Rev. D. B. Hess, formerly from Upland, California, is now located in Winton, California. Here are several types of Mennonites, but the majority have leanings toward the General Conference and some have in the past been connected with the General Conference.

B. A plan is bing worked out whereby in each District the Home Mission Committee is to work with the Board in supplying workers who will give two or three months a year in definite Evangelistic and Bible Lecture work among the smaller churches which could not otherwise hold such meetings at their own expense. In this manner the Resolution of putting one man into the field, is to be carried out.

C. Some months ago, a circumstance developed in the Middle District, where the District Committee needed help from the Board to carry on the Lima, Ohio, work. The Board acted favorably to the request, furnished $150.00 and the work could be built up. It is the firm belief that our people will appreciate it when the Board helps out in cooperation with District Committees.

D. In response to the request from the Home Mission Committee of the Western District, the Board agreed to furnish a handsome amount for the proposed new church to be erected in Enid, Oklahoma. At the recently held District Conference, the Committee was to go ahead with the building "as soon as the funds are available." Thus when friends contribute to Grace Church, Enid, Oklahoma, and to the Home Mission Board, some of these funds will revert to this worthy undertaking.

2. Orphanage Work.

This phase of work has, it seems, been forgotten by our people.

Let me illustrate with an actual experience. On October 8th, 1938, the Orphanage Society of the Eastern District Conference, Bethel Church, Perkasie, Pa., Miss Catherine Niswander, Parish worker in Philadelphia, was invited to speak. She attended the businesss part of the meeting. Was deeply interested in the type and amount of work done. When she got up to deliver her address, she told us this story:

Some years ago in Portland, Oregon, a certain family of children came to the Alberta Sunday School and Church. They were well behaved and interested in their classes. Suddenly they were orphaned. The children could have been kept in one of our homes, but the family could not do it without some compensation. But we had no funds.

Miss Niswander said: "I did not know that we had any organization that might have helped." As it was the court took charge of the children and parcelled them out among their far removed relatives.

The E. D. Orphanage Society might have come to their rescue. This fact was not known.

After Miss Niswander's address, I got up and told the Conference that the Home Mission Board has more than $600.00 given for Orphan work, surprise was still greater.

This money is not intended for the erection of a building to care for orphans, but to encourage Christian people to take some unfortunate orphan into their home and receive some support for this work.

For further information, communicate with the Secretary, A. J. Neuenschwander, Quakertown, Pa.

3. Extension Work in Chicago.

At one of the Board meetings in Saskatoon, this summer, Rev. A. H. Leaman, presented to the Board some promising prospects for extension work in Chicago. The Board was favorably inclined and recently Rev. J. E. Amstutz was in Chicago to study the new field. According to plans, considerable of the work is to be done by members of the First Mennonite Church, such as visitation, Sunday school work and some of the preaching. Outside help will no doubt be needed. In due time more is to be given about this field, which is not new, but an older minister had carried on when death overtook him. So there is a nucleus already. Rev. A. H. Leaman is to have oversight and direction of the work.

Snap-shots from the Field

September 9th, will be a day long to be remembered in Calvary Mennonite Church, Mechanics Grove, Pa. Miss Anna Swarr, a member of the church was given a farewell service. Miss Swarr left on Saturday evening, Sept. 10th, for China. She will work under the direction of the China Inland Mission. For a part of the way she was a traveling companion of Miss Etta Davis, who also left Pennsylvania for China.

Alberta Community Church, Portland, Oregon, saw rapid changes this summer. The lot and Church could be bought for $650.00, about the last of May. By the 8th of July the basement was dug and cemented. Other renovations making it a truly beautiful and useful building were made. The building was rededicated, September 25th. This shows fine leadership on the part of Rev. Miller and Brother S. S. Baumgartner, but also a readiness of the members to help.

For some time, Rev. Valentine E. Nickel, filled a double position, as teacher in the public school of Wymark, Saskatchewan and minister in the Mennonite Churches at Wymark and Pella. As teacher he lived in the residence on the school property. In the later part of August he moved to Swift Current, about 15 miles away to take charge of the church located in that city. Brother Isaac Epp was sent to Wymark. Since he could not move into the school property, a house was sought for him. None could be rented, but one could be bought for $275.00. This included a nice lot. With the recommendation that this was a good bargain, the home was bought. Pella, a church some 24 miles distant is served by Brother Epp.

Celebrating a joyous Harvest Home Festival, after a summer that yielded an abundant harvest, and returning profound thanks to God for the peaceful settlement of international difficulties in Europe, the Vineland Mennonite Church on October 2nd lifted an offering to pay off the loan the Home Mission Board had made, February 26th, 1936. The loan was $500.00 and the offering amounted to $514.25. As soon as this loan was repaid, it was reloaned to the Virgil, Ontario, Congregation for their new church.

During a week of Evangelistic Meetings, four precious souls made their decision for Christ, and were received into the Smith Corner Mennonite Church, Sunday, October 30th. The Holy Communion was also commemorated and it was the largest participation ever held in this church. Rev. John S. Raugh is pastor of the church.

A new church was built at Springstein, Manitoba this summer. The people had hoped for a good harvest, but rain did not come in time, and for this reason the harvest was much lighter than anticipated. Brother John Martens, writes: We do not want to complain, but are grateful to God for all that was given to us." The Board was also able here to help in the time of need with a loan. What a blessing it is to have some money on hand so that a helping hand can be given to worthy undertakings for the Lord.

First Mennonite Church, Hutchinson, Kansas, is carrying on nobly. Last year they made several improvements such as putting on a new roof on the church and a new furnace in the parsonage. During the summer several new members were added to the church. The church is also looking after the girls that work in private homes in the city. At regular stated times they meet with Mrs. Dirks for Bible study, recreation, sewing and singing.

Miss Helena Epp, Matron of the Girls Home, Winnipeg writes as of October 8th that in September eleven girls have already come to the city to find work. She further expressed gratification that so many visitors to the General Conference took time to stop off in the city and visit the Girls Home.

October 23rd was the date for the Harvest and Mission Festival in our Vancouver, British Columbia, Church. Rev. Jacob B. Wiens had extended a most cordial invitation to attend this joyous occasion with them.

Some repairs had to be made in the Church and Home. The Board agreed to furnish the means and the members would do the work without any compensation.

No doubt many who attended the General Conference in Saskatoon, still recall many incidents relating to the trip and the blessed time of fellowship we had together in the Lord during those precious days.

Early Beginnings and History

OF SMITH CORNER MENNONITE CHURCH EAST FREEDOM, PENNSYLVANIA

About fifteen miles to the south from Altoona, Pennsylvania, in one of the many coves between the mountains, lies Smith Corner. The valleys are fertile, but not very wide. Every farm contains some hill side land. This type of land is a bit difficult to till still some of the residents have maintained their homes here and reared fine families for more than half a century.

The ascent from the lowland begins almost at the back door of the church and continues until it reaches one of the highest points in the Allegheny mountains, nearly three thousand feet above sea level, some six miles from the church. Roads follow the base of the low land, they are quite crooked and such a thing as directing a stranger to go "two miles north and three east" to find his destination is not known here. When you come over the top of each hill you will find another peaceful valley on the other side. The mountain sides are studded with oak and evergreen, making a most beautiful hue in the fall of the year when leaves turn to all the shades of red and brown.

According to the older residents of the community, who were familiar with conditions during upwards of seventy years past, the development and growth of a religious consciousness is something like this: Approximately fifty-five years ago a series of protracted meetings were held in the old one room school house. Quite a number of the residents professed conversion or a renewal of their vows to the Lord. In their new found joy they organized a Sunday sschool. According to some who attended the first summer session, John Nofsker was the first Superintendent. He was followed by John Quincy Adams, George Eckert, Jacob L. Dodson, Andrew Todd and Grant Snowbarger who sought to keep the spark of spiritual life burning, but bad roads and other conditions interfered with their efforts. Sessions were usually held only in the summer months and until roads became bad because of snow and mud.

The erection of a church here took considerable effort. Rev. Jacob Snyder and his brother Rev. Herman Snyder, both deceased, were among the leaders in this noble movement. Timber in abundance was near at hand. All the lumber that went into the building including the pews and other furnishings came from the timberlands surrounding the church. The day of dedication of their House of Worship in October, 1908, was a day of deep satisfaction. On the day of the Thirtieth Anniversary, October 23rd, almost half a score of persons were present who had been in atendance at the former celebration. Many have gone to their reward having lived faithfully through the instrumentality of Smith Corner church. The descendents of these unto the third generation are today making up a goodly part of the Congregation and Sunday School.

Changes have taken place. Where narrow and steep roads were the rule in former times, today we find good hard roads that can be used the whole year. In contrast with that ancient day when the one room schoolhouse was open three or perhaps four months of the year to provide the educational opportunities, the children now enjoy the advantages of modern centralized grade and high schools. The green meadow at the fork of the roads, for years before the erection of the church, served as a common meeting place fo the community where frequently pre-arranged "events" of questionable character were held. No attempts have been made to repeat these questionable gatherings in the meadow since the House of Worship was opened. Whereas before the Sunday school would stop for a time and be started again, since the day of dedication there has been no intrruption in the work. Foster Orr, now living in Altoona, was the first Sunday School Superintendent in the new church. During the early years of the church's existence aid and leadership was extended by the Roaring Spring Mennonite Church. Seventeen years ago, Rev. Jacob Snyder, Elder of Roaring Spring and Smith Corner churches, and a member of the Home Mission Board of the General Conference, laid a request before the Board to take over the supervision of the work at Smith Corner. The Board acted favorably and its first action was to assign Rev. and Mrs. Daniel Gerig to this church in 1921. Miss Elizabeth Braun, Mrs. Gerig's sister, assisted in the work. In 1924 a cozy cottage was built for the comfort of the workers. The Gerigs were succeeded in 1929 by Rev. and Mrs. Sylvan S. Lehman from Berne, Indiana. In the spring of 1935 they were transferred to Calvary Church, Mechanics Grove, Pa., and Rev and Mrs. John S. Raugh, from the Roaring Spring Congregation, took up the work. During these years the congregation has shown a steady growth and development.

The Congregation numbers 64 and for several Sundays the Sunday School attendance has gone over the 70 mark. At the present time interest and activities are at the highest point of the church's history. About ten months ago a Brotherhod and Ladies' Aid were organized. The Brotherhood was instrumental in making a fine basement room and fitting it out for Sunday School classes and other small meetings. Occasionally Conference and District Sunday School Association suppers are served here. The Christian Endeavor Society is holding regular weekly meetings. Preaching Services are held twice each Sunday and Prayer and Bible Study hour is held each Wednesday evening.

Recently since more of the members have attended some of the Eastern District Conference meetings a renewed enthusiasm has been noticed. Some of the younger people are assuming leadership positions and the work gives promise of further growth in the future.

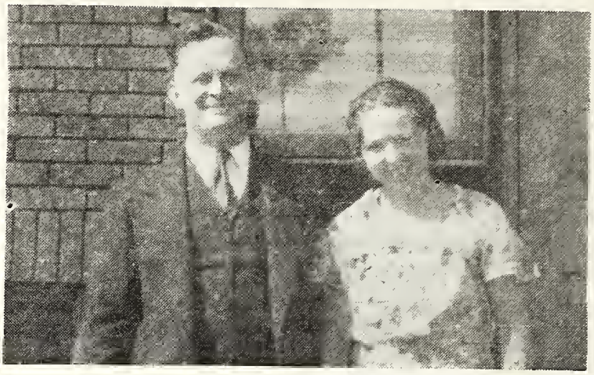
Uplifting Sermons, Inspirational Quartet Music, Spiritual Fellowship

Bluffton had her Homecoming day Nov. 4th and Bethel on November 5th. Record breaking crowds attended both. Our colleges have loyal alumni.



Rev. Emerson F. Slotterback and Mrs. Wilma Burkhalter Slotterback

"Rev. Emerson F. Slotterback, grew to manhood in the hard-coal region of Pennsylvania. Lavell is his home town. As a young man he joined the Evangelical Church. His interest in the Cause of Christ is shown in that he attended Moody Bible Institute for some time, attending the night school. Desiring to be a witness for Christ, he found an opportunity to do Missionary work among the Mormons in Utah for four years.

On October 16, 1936 he married Wilma Burkhalter, a member of the Ebenezer Mennonite Church, Bluffton, Ohio. In 1930 she was graduated from Moody Bible Institute. During the intervening years she was busy in helping in the local church.

Early in 1937, Rev. and Mrs. Slotterback began to work in a small Presbyterian Church in Kalida, Ohio, not far from Bluffton.

During the latter part of the summer of 1937 the Home Mission Board extended to them a call to take up the work at Altoona. In the meantime Brother Slotterback joined the Ebenezer church with his wife.

On September 1 they took up the work at Altoona. Rev. W. S. Gottshall ordained Brother Slotterback in the Gospel Ministry and formally installed the workers September 12, 1937. On August 4, 1938 Mary Lois came to brighten the home.

We praise God for the way the work has been growing. Read the Report from Altoona.

Very Sincerely,
J. A. Neuenschwander, Sec.

Lord, let us live like Thee,
Each for another's good;
Spend and be spent, on this intent,
To live or die for God on high,
And for the multitude.

To always live for Thee,
And then to set men free;
Be this our chief endeavor here,
Our constant aim both far and near,
To serve mankind and Thee.

The Emergency Relief Board

To the Churches of the General Confeernce in the United States of North America

Most of the Mennonite Immigrants in Canada are convinced, that God saved them in a wonderful way from the inexpressible conditions in Russia. With a grateful heart filled with new hope they began to establish themselves in a new country. The great majority of them look back upon the recent years as a period of successful pioneering. Many have paid their payments as their means permit. Others again were led by the Lord into more and deeper suffering. Members of some families suffered some incurable disease, others have died. Such families were deprived of their supporter. They are in great distress, confronted by a tansportation debt which they are unable to pay.

Concerned with this fact the General Conference in session at Saskatoon, Saskatchewan, passed the following resolution: "Resolved, to adopt recommendation of the Relief Board. It reads: that the churches in the states put forth efforts to collect during the next three years three quarters of the transportation indebtedness of the hopeless cases of the immigrants in Canada ($27,000.00) with the understanding that the immigrants in Canada collect the fourth quarter."

The Emergency Relief Board comes to the churches with the request in as much as possible to help carry out this resolution. If every member of the Conference in the United States will donate 25 cents every year for three years to this cause it will be possible to cover this debt in three years. How and when this money is raised is left to the Churches.

The Conference passed another resolution "that to take part in the feeding of children in Spain through the Mennonite Relief Unit as much as possible." Whoever is interested in this kind of relief has an opportunity to help.

ALL DONATIONS ARE TO BE SENT TO OUR TREASURER: REV. P. H. UNRUH, GOESSEL, KANSAS.

Hoping to receive a kind response to this expression of love, we gratefully will transmit any gifts received. —The Emergency Relief Board.

Our Transportation Indebtedness

Rev. David Toews

We will have to admit that we Mennonites as a whole are not any more what our forefathers were noted for. We go into debt, and if everything goes as we have planned, we pay those debts; but if anything happens that we did not expect, we invent excuses in order not to have to meet our obligations.

This tendency should, of course, meet with our strong disapproval, even in the case of every day transactions. But there is a vast difference between debts as we make them in our every day life and our transportation indebtedness. This latter indebtedness was assumed because it was the desire of our people in America to save as many as at all possible from the awful conditions as they existed and still exist in Russia.

I doubt very much if any business transaction can be found in any business concern similar to the business transaction we have had with the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, and if any parallel action can be found in the history of our people, I would appreciate it very much if my attention would be called to it. To my mind I am certain that no business concern in the world would have entered into a similar business transaction with people such as we are. But the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, at least their officials, knew something of the reputation of our people as being honest, and they gave us a credit of some two million dollars, and through this confidence we were enabled to bring out of Russia some 21,000 people into a land of liberty, where they can serve God according to the dictates of their own conscience.

Now we have gone through a period of depression. Poor crops and no crops and low prices for farm products have made it impossible so far to repay the debts we made; and in the fifteen years that our immigrants have been here, many of them have died, and there is no prospect of being able to collect the sums owing by their families.

Perhaps some of the readers will remember the time when we started the work of bringing over those people. Great meetings were held in Canada and one or two, I remember, in the United States, where this action on our part was strongly disappoved. I personally will have to take the responsibility of trying to convince our people that they could not legally be held responsible for the debt incurred. But I must also confess that in case of nonpayment of the debt I could logically be blamed for a transaction that might prove a descredit to our people as a whole, and I am sure everybody will be able to understand my position in trying various ways to get the necessary support, especially on behalf of those people who simply cannot pay.

As conditions were in Russia, there was no possibility of a selected immigration. Even our committee in Russia could not dare to put back any unworthy applicants because in that case the whole movement might easily have been prevented.

We shall, of course, do all we can to induce all our immigrants who can pay to do so. But there are the many where there is no prospect whatever, what shall be done in their case?

Our General Conference that was in session at Saskatoon last summer agreed to grant a very substantial sum on behalf of those people who are not in the position to pay their indebtedness to the Canadian Pacific Ry. Co. We are sure that some of the other conferences can also be induced to help along to the extent of their ability. And our immigrants also have made a very good start in helping to bear the burden for those who are not able to bear it themselves.

If we go into the homes of some of our immigrants, or in some of the general hospitals or psychiatric institutions, we will have the comment to the word of St. Paul in Gallatians 6:2: Bear ye one another's burdens and so fulfill the law of Christ.

We here in Canada feel the responsibility of resting on us very strongly and we have much reason to express our gratitude to our brethren in the United States for the help they have extended to us so far. But the transportation indebtdeness is one of our greatest problems which we must solve in order to save the good name of our people as a whole, and I do trust that the good Lord will show us a way out of our difficulties in this connection. We still owe the C. P. R. some $590,000.00 only in principal. We are by no means discouraged. We believe that the Lord who has helped us in all our problems up to now, will continue to help us also in the future. In God we trust.

Sunday School Lesson

THE SACREDNESS OF THE HOME

Ex. 20:14; Matt. 5:27, 28; Mark 10:2-16

The Seventh Commandment Matt. 14

The home to be truly sacred needs to be Christian, made so by man and wife who are Christians and who cooperate in making it a Christian home. The Ten Commandments deal with essential matters of life. The principle underlying the seventh is the sacredness of the sex relationship and of married life. God has endowed human beings with the power of pro-creation. Adultery is the base abuse of these powers which God intended should be regarded as sacred.

This commandment strikes at a sin of an appalling nature which is growing alarmingly. It speedily and thoroughly undermines character, destroys the moral sense, often weakens the body and leaves misery and remorse in its wake.

Jesus' Standard of Observance Matt. 5:27, 28

Jesus goes beyond the act of adultery which the Old Testament condemned and condemns the wrong thoughts and desires which lead to the sinful act. He who would keep free from this sin must shun that which leads up to it, for the sin is committed in the heart before there is the open act. Pure thoughts are the most potent safeguard against temptation to this sin. The home through proper guidance can lift the thought-life of youth above the vulgar and sensual. Jesus places the emphasis on purity of thinking. Impurity of thought, as well as of deed, is forbidden.

Jesus' Teaching Regarding Divorce vs. 2-12

The Pharisees were divided into groups on the question of legal divorce and hoped to trap Jesus (v 2). They all greatly reverenced Moses, so Jesus appealed to him. Jesus taught (v 5-8) that marriage is God's divine institution for man, that He joined man and woman in an indissoluble bond and intended that the marriage bond should remain throughout lifetime. Because of sin, the law of Moses (v 4) was given to restrain the readiness with which men had put away their wives. God has ordained that in marriage two lives are to be united as one—the one completing the other. When two hearts are united in true Christian love and their lives united in marriage, God has indeed joined them together. Not all marriages are thus consummated in Christian love. A truly Christian marriage can not end in divorce. To solve the divorce problem we must lift the marriage level to Jesus' standard, to God's original intention. In His sight the marriage relation is the most sacred of all human relations. The sacredness of the home demands that in our day, we lay great emphasis on Jesus' teaching regarding marriage and divorce.

Jesus Attitude Toward Children vs 13-16

Jesus loved children. He held them as a sacred blessing to the home. The Kingdom of God is of such (v 14) both young and older, who have the childlike spirit of humility, simple faith and trust. In spirit little children have much that is Christlike. Children know how to trust and the faith of a child is a saving faith. Marriage attains its God-given purpose when children come into the Christian home and receive Christian nurture.

In proportion as a nation has a well-defined Christian home-life can it be stable and normal? When the heads of the home are truly in love with each other and realize the sacredness of the marriage relationship, there is no room for any outside love. A clean heart is the basic for an ideal, a sacred home-life.

Using Sunday for Christian Culture

Isa. 58:13, 14; Acts 20:7

Young People's Topic for November 27

Meditations:

M., Nov. 21. Jesus' use of the Sabbath. Luke 4:16-22.
T., Nov. 22. Using Sunday for meditation. Rev. 1:9-16.
W., Nov. 23. Using Sunday for fellowship. Heb. 10:19-25.
T., Nov. 24. Using Sunday for helping others. John 1:1-9.
F., Nov. 25. Using Sunday for friendly visitation. Mal. 3:16-18.
S., Nov. 26. Using Sunday for fellowship with Christ. John 20:19-29.

Suggested Hymns:

"This is the Day the Lord Hath Made," "O Day of Rest and Gladness."

Harry E. Fosdick has well said, "To be a religious man in earnest means that the regulative center of life is not self-interest, but fellowship with the Highest and a sense of responsibility to Him." Since Sunday has been set aside as a day of fellowship with the Highest, Christian young people must be concerned to preserve the sacredness of the Lord's Day. The Lord's Day is not just to be kept. Ex. 20:8 says that it is to be kept HOLY! It is well to ponder seriously over the question: How may Sunday be used for Christian culture?

In an earlier time, when people lived largely on farms with long hours of hard work for six days a week during much of the year, physical rest was one important feature of the weekly Lord's Day. It is trite to say that times have changed, but triteness does not make it less true. Today people do not all do hard manual work for the six days. Many do other types of work, often confined indoors, so that they are tempted to make the Lord's Day a day of recreation, amusement and sport. It is high time that we be on guard that the regulative center of our lives is not self-interest! It is high time we refer to Jesus' use of the Sabbath.

Program Suggestions:

The subjective references listed under Meditations will make good theme topics for assignment to individuals. A further list of Bible reading on Sabbath observance is given in the following:

"A Holy day, Ex. 20:11; Lev. 23:3; Isa. 58:13; A day of rest, Ex. 16:23; Lev. 16:31; Lk. 24-56; A day of worship, Ex. 31:13; Lev. 16:31; Isa. 58:13; Isa. 66:23; Mark 1:21; Work forbidden, Ex. 20:19-11; Ex. 35:3; (evceptions, Lk. 13:15-16); Preparation of meals, Ex. 12:16; Ex. 16:23, 29; Mt. 12:1; Lk. 14:1; Punishment for violation, Ex. 35:2; Neh. 13:18; Doing good on the Sabbath, Mt. 12:10-12; Mk. 2:27; Mk. 3:4; Lk. 13:15-16; Lk. 14:5; The blessing connected with keeping it, Isa. 56:2; Isa. 58:13; Ezek. 20:12; It is a sign of the children of God, Ezek. 20:12; Ex. 31:13." (Taken from Christian Sunday School Quarterly, Lesson 4, p. 16)

Essays: In smaller groups two or more individuals could be asked to write short essays on the ideal use of Sunday. This essay should be made to include the activities of the entire day. These should then be read to the entire group. An informal discussion which follows adds to the group interest.

Chart of Activities: Another activity that is worthwhile in any size group is the making of a chart of Sunday activities. This chart should have the three sections—worthwhile Sunday activities, border-line activities, and un-Christian activities. The points listed will be drawn from the participation of the group. A small portable blackboard will make a good place on which to put the chart.

Questionnaire: A questionnaire might be drafted and presented to your group using the above three ratings in checking various Sunday activities.

Preprayer Circle

Be still, and know that I am God. Ps. 46:10. Stress th eimportance of prayer time to realize the presence of God. God speaks to us in the "still, small voice," and we must be quiet before Him to hear it. Have a few minutes of quiet before participation.

Worship Through Psalms

Call to Worship: O come, let sing unto the Lord;
Let us make a joyful noise to the rock of our salvation.
Response: Let us come before His presence with thanksgiving; and make a joyful noise unto Him with psalms.
Leader: O come, let us worship and bow down;
Let us kneel before the Lord, our Maker:
For He is our God.
Response: We are the people of His pasture, and the sheep of His hand.
Song: "Every Day Will I Bless Thee" or "O My Soul, Bless Thou Jehovah."
Prayer: Ps. 8:1; Ps. 9:1, 2; Ps. 51:10; Ps. 139: 23, 24; Closing with "Hear our prayer, O Lord, give ear to our supplications: in faithfulness answer us, and in thy righteousness; for Jesus sake, Amen. (Write out the prayer verses and ask four members to give them as prayers).
Response 407 in Mennonite Hymnal.
Song: "Thy Word Have I Hid in My Heart"
Announcements.

A Study of the Psalms

(Ask the members in advance to bring their Bibles to the meeting, or supply each one with a copy of the Psalms. Try to get a copy of an old fashioned hymn-book without music.)

We may never have realized that there is a song book in our Bible because there are no notes. Compare with the old type song book of our church. A song must not necessarily have notes. A song depends on the kind of thoughts there are and how they are expressed. In the Psalms we have the ancient Hebrew hymn book, written for the worship of God, Jehovah.

Some Interesting Things About This Hymnbook

1. Its divisions. The Book of Psalms is really not one book, but five. Each book concludes with a psalm of praise. These books once existed seperately, and were later bound together in one volume. Find the Psalms of praise that mark the five additions: Psalm 41, 72, 89, 106, 150. Have someone read the last verses of each of these Psalms and all of 150.
2. The Psalms to be sung. At the beginning of many of the Psalms it says, "A song," or some instrument is named on which the tune is to be played, or perhaps a word will indicate what voice or choir is to sing the Psalm. Many of the Psalms have inscriptions such as "Michtam," which is thought by some to mean "Golden poem." "Neginoth" stands for "stringed instruments," which are to furnish the music. Many of them have "To the chief musician;" that is, for the leader of the temple choir or of the band.
3. Have someone tell about David, who wrote many of the Psalms, and his musical ability. Another member could be assigned to learn about the instruments used in temple worship in David's time.

Special Psalms

1. Psalm 24 is a responsive chant. Picture the priest leading his congregation to the "holy hill" of Jehovah. He chants the words of verses 1, 2 and 3. Then the congregation replies with verses 4, 5 and 6. The priest takes up the chant again with verse 7 and the question at the beginning of verse 8. The congregation answers. The priest repeats his question and the congregation again answers. Try reading the Psalm in this way.
2. Nature Psalms: 8, 19 and 104. Of what does he sing in nature? Select a few of the most beautiful passages and have them read.
3. Psalms of praise: 33 and 133. What are some of the things for which the Psalmist praises God?
4. A song of God's law: Psalm 119. This is the longest Psalm. Select and read some of the most familiar verses. Why does the singer find reason to sing about God's law.
5. Psalms that are prayers: 51, 17, 31, and many others. What are some of the things about which the Psalmist prays. Why do people find strength in reading them today.
6. The Psalm with a lesson: 1. Use this as an object talk, showing a picture of a tree with its life sustaining fruit and some empty chaff. Bring out some of the comparisons that the Psalmist makes.

Closing Moments

The Shepherd's Psalm: 23. Have someone tell the story of "The Song of Our Syrian Guest," by William Allen Knight. Repeat the Psalm together or have it sung.

Benediction: Ps. 19:14.

JUNIOR CORNER

Looking to December

It is here again! The blessed Advent season is here with its call to the heart for an open door. In our planned walk through the Word, we leave the children of Israel pledging allegiance to Jehovah their God (Joshua 24), and set our clock of time ahead that we may join the nations in the worship of Him who came as a babe to Bethlehem's manger in order to bring to the world Heaven's gifts of Light and Life through His death on a cross.

Suggestive Outline for December

December 4: "Behold Thy King Cometh unto Thee"
December 11: "O Come to my Heart, Lord Jesus"
December 18: "Glad Hosanna! Blessed Be the King that Comes"

Verse for the month: "The Father sent the Son to be the Savior of the world. I John 4:14.

Song for the month: "O Come to My Heart, Lord Jesus"

(There will be no program suggestions for Dec. 25)

Program for December 4, 1938

"Behold Thy King Cometh Unto Thee"

Setting: It is time for cedar and the quiet light of a candle flame, for transparencies and the study of promises. One could appear in print on the board above the verse for the month.

Call to Service: By the playing of quiet Christmas music.

Opening Service:

1. By candle light, let the piano lead the group in the singing of Christmas carols. (Lights on)
2. Scripture reading: John 1:1-5, 10-12 by chairman.
3. Leader's prayer.
4. "Behold I stand at the door and knock." A brief talk on the meaning of Advent by guest or leader. Close with speaking of verse for the month.
5. Singing of the song for the month by the group.

Mission Minutes: Have slips ready with the names and addresses of our missionaries on them. These could be put underneath a large Christmas bell. Ask the group whether they would enjoy helping to make the joy bells ring in the hearts of our missionaries by sending Christmas greetings to them. Allow as many as raise their hand, to draw a name from the bell, being responsible to send a greeting to the drawn address. Let the piano play, "Joybells Ringing in Your Heart" and the group passes for the drawing.

Study Period. Aim: to familiarize the child with the prophecies of the coming of Christ.

1. Group sings: "One day when heaven was filled with his praises,
One day when sin was black as could be,
Jesus came forth to be born of a virgin,
Dwelt among men, my example is He!"
(Verse one only)
2. The Promises of the Coming Messiah: This study is prepared in questions and answers. The questions could be read by the chairman and answered from the group to whom the answers have been distributed. Or, both questions and answers could be distributed among the group having only the questions numbered, leaving to those holding answers to meet the questions as they think fitting. This will provoke interest and thought. There will be chance of a wrong answer and the whole group should be asked to be alert and to judge the answers. Bibles should be used.

1) Question: How did people know that the Savior of the world would be born?
Answer: God, Himself, had promised Him and sent His prophets to foretell about Him.
2) What does foretelling mean?
It means to tell of future things before they appear.
3) Which words contain the first promises of the Messiah?
Write out answer in Gen. 3:15. Add references.
4) Which promises did God give to Abraham? (Due to lack of space only the references are given. The reference should, however, be written out for the child as well as given) Gen. 12:3.
5) Which promise was given to Isaac? Gen. 26:4.
6) Which promise was given to Jacob? Gen. 28:14.
7) With what words did Jacob foretell the coming of the Savior? Gen. 49:10.
8) Which prophecy was given by Balaam? Numb. 24:17.
9) Which prophecy did God give His people through Moses? Deut. 18:15.
10) What promises did David receive? 2 Sam. 7:12, 13.
11) With what words does Isaiah foretell that the Savior is to be born of a virgin? Isa. 7:14.
12) Which names does Isaiah give to the Immanuel? Isa. 9:6.
13) From which tribe was Jesus to come? Isa. 11:1.
14) In which city was Jesus to be born? Micah 5:2.
15) How did God promise to prepare the way? Mal. 3:1.
16) How does Isaiah speak of this forerunner? Isa. 40:3.
17) Who was the forerunner of Jesus?
18) How did those who waited for the Lord's coming, feel about it? Psalm 14:7.

3. Group sings: "One Day," verses 2 and 4.
4. Leader's thought: In a few statements give the thought "as many as received Him, He gave power to become the sons of God." Those who have received Him, wait again for His coming.
5. Group sings: "One Day," verse 5.
6. Closing prayer.

BLUFFTON COLLEGE NOTES

The religious organizations of Bluffton College have made a real contribution to the life of every student at the school in stressing, to a greater extent than ever before, the need for personal devotion in Christian living. This year, these organizations, including the "Y's", the Men's Gospel Team, the Women's Gospel Team, and College Church, are distributing approximately one hundred seventy-five copies of The Upper Room. Each room in both Lincoln and Ropp Halls will receive a copy, as well as each student living in town.—November 7th to 12th is the Bluffton College week of prayer, with prayer service each evening.

At a session of the Board of Trustees of Bluffton College, held Friday, November 5, Dr. Lloyd L. Ramseyer, at present holder of a science position at the institution, was elected to the presidency of the College, to assume his duties the day following. Representatives from the various church conferences, from the alumni and from the faculty were present to give their endorsement. Dr. Ramseyer summoned all groups to assist in a progressive, constructive program for the school.—The new president comes from Bloomington, Ill., is an alumnus of Bluffton College, class of '24. While in the school he participated in the major activities and held offices in several. After leaving Bluffton he continued his education off and on, and last spring he received his Ph. D. degree from the University of Ohio.—The Whitmarsum.

—Mennonite Church, Hanston, Kans.—Rev. A. S. Bechtel writes, "Just listened to the Mennonite broadcast from KFH. It came in fine and clear. The episode was interestingly given.—We have been having winter out this way for several days past. Had a little snow, while you folks farther east had good rains. How greatly we need them here!"

—Newton, Kansas, is getting to be a sort of Mecca for missionaries on furlough or in retirement. Rev. and Mrs. H. J. Kliewer, retired from our Oklahoma field, reside in a bungalow on the premises of the Bethel Hospital. Rev. and Mrs. R. L. Linscheid, who are moving to 1001 East Broadway, Newton, their own home after 40 years of service among the Indians in Montana and Oklahoma, also retire. Rev. and Mrs. P. J. Wiens and their two daughters, Frieda and Martha, sophomores in Bethel College, live at 323 East Fourth Street, Newton; Missionary August Ewert and family, on furlough from China, live at 1312 North Main Street, Newton. Rev. Ewert is a senior in Bethel.

—First Mennonite Church, Bluffton, O.—Thanksgiving Day is near, as we are now in the month of November. Have you counted your many blessings that you should be thankful for? Shall we ask for more blessings while we appreciate so little what God has already given us.—H.T.U.

—The First Church of Christian, Moundridge, Kans., Rev. P. P. Wedel, pastor, and the Lorraine Ave. Mission Church at Wichita, Kansas, Rev. E. D. Schmidt, pastor, with Bro. O. K. Galle as director, are organizing a campaign of solicitation for subscribers to our church papers. That's splendid! Would that many other churches might follow their example!

With Grateful Hearts We Come to Thee

With grateful hearts we come to Thee,
Thou Giver of good gifts,
For victory over sin and death,
For love that cheers and lifts,

For daily bread, for sheltering homes,
For sunshine and for rain,
For toil, for rest, for patience, hope,
For fields and harvest's grain,

For fellowship of Christian friends
And for the Holy Writ,
For church, for school, and for a land
With freedom's glory lit,

For faith that fathoms the unseen,
For Christ who is our Star
Leading us surely Home at last
Who follow The Gleam afar.

"Every Good Gift"

James 1:17

For all good gifts I thank Thee, God: for love,
Love that delivered up Thine only son;
Love that despite man's hate and unconcern,
Brought to perfection what it had begun;
Love that endured the scorn, the thorns, the cross;
Love that encountered sin and death, and won;
Love that loved me; love that neglected none.

For all gifts I thank Thee, God: for faith,
Faith to believe the record of thy son;
Faith to receive the Son Himself; to know
Christ as my Lord; faith that brings strength to run
The contest set before me; faith that sees
What is invisible, and will not shun
The narrow way; that says, "Thy will be done."
For life, for hope, for Thine unfailing Word,
For every perfect gift, I thank Thee, Lord.

Thanksgiving Day

Thanksgiving days or harvest festivals are old. The Feast of Tabernacles among the Israelites was a festival of Thanksgiving, a harvest feast, "a feast unto the Lord," which lasted seven days. Our Thanksgiving Day had its beginning in 1621, when the little band of Pilgrims that landed at Plymouth Rock, gathered in the cabin of the Mayflower, on the first Lord's day, and solemnly offered thanks to God for His protection and for a new land of promise. "The Log of the Mayflower" also discloses that in the beginning of that fateful fall, when half of the first Plymouth Colony had died, when crops had totally failed and the little band was facing a new winter of terror, it was decided "to hold a day of complaint to God." Then some brave soul proposed a day of thanksgiving, saying: "We are alive. We are free from persecution. Conscience is free. We have learned to endure and hope. The forests are full of game. Let us thank God and take courage to carry on."

Later, as conditions were improving, a feast became a part of thanksgiving day. The white men brought deer and turkeys from the forest. The Indians were invited and, they too, brought game and provisions. And together they attended divine service, then ate, sang and played together, and thus came to live in harmony. Some years later the Dutch colonists also decreed a day of thanksgiving. Such a day was also appointed by the Federal Congress. And on Oct. 3, 1889, President Washington issued the first Thanksgiving Day proclamation. As many of the readers may not have been privileged to read this document, we give it here in full:

Whereas, It is the duty of all Nations to acknowledge the Providence of Almighty God, to obey his Will, to be grateful for his Benefits, and humbly to implore his Protection and Favor: And whereas both houses of Congress have, by their joint Committee, requested me "To recommend to the People of the UNITED STATES, a Day of PUBLIC THANKSGIVING and PRAYER, to be observed by acknowledging with grateful hearts the many Signal Favors of Almighty God, especially by affording them an opportunity peacefully to establish a Forum of Government for their Safety and Happiness."

Now, THEREFORE, I do recommend and assign

THURSDAY, the Twenty-Sixth Day of November next, to be devoted by the People of these States, to the service of the great and glorious Being, who is the beneficent Author of all the good that was, that is, or that shall be: That we may then all unite in rendering unto him our sincere and humble thanks for his kind Care and Protection of the People of this Country previous to their becoming a Nation;—for the signal and manifold Mercies, and the favorable Interpositions of his Providence in the Course and Conclusion of the late War;—for the great Degree of Tranquility, Union and Plenty, which we have since enjoyed;—for the peaceable and rational Manner in which we have been enabled to establish Constitutions of Government for our Safety and Happiness, and particularly the national one now lately instituted;—for the civil and religious Liberty with which we are blessed, and the means we have of acquiring and diffusing useful knowledge;—and in general, for all the great and various Favors which he hath been pleased to confer upon us.

AND ALSO, that we may then unite in most humbly offering our Prayers and Supplications to the great Lord and Ruler of Nations, and beseech him to pardon our National and other Transgressions; —to enable us all, whether in public or private Stations, to perform our several and relative Duties properly and punctually; — to render our national Government a Blessing to all people, by constantly being a Government of wise, just and Constitutional Laws, directly and faithfully obeyed;—to protect and guide all Sovereigns and nations (especially such as have shown kindness unto us) and to bless them with good Government, Peace and Concord;—to promote the Knowledge and Practice of true Religion and Virtue, and the increase of Science among them and us;—and generally to grant unto all mankind such a Degree of temporal Prosperity as He alone knows to be best.

Given under my Hand at the City of New York, the third Day of October, in the Year of our Lord One Thousand Seven Hundred and Eighty-Nine.

G. Washington.

But it was not long until the observance of the day became an intermittant affair until 1863. Then Sarah Hale began agitation for its reinstatement as a national Thanksgiving Day. At last she brought her request to President Lincoln, and in thirty days he issued the first national American Thanksgiving proclamation. Since the last Thursday in November has been observed as the day.

— The installation service for the Rev. Harold Burkhalter as Pastor of East Swamp Church, which was scheduled for Sunday afternoon, Oct. 23, has been indefinitely postponed at the suggestion of the East Swamp Church Council.

FOREIGN MISSIONS

P. H. Richert, Sec.

SIGNIFICANT MESSAGES FROM CHINA

1. Expressing the love of Christ (The President of China, Lin Sen)

"We are most grateful for what all the churches have done for us in the past and now especially. You are expressing the love of Jesus."

2. Basic principles of action (Chiang Kai-shek in his Easter radio message to his people, "Why Believe in Jesus.")

"Forecasting the future of our national revolution, and aware of the cause of the moral decline of our people, I have come to the conviction that, if we wish to revive the Chinese people and reform society we must adopt as our own the universal love and sacrificial spirit of Jesus. Therefore, I take it that in whatever sphere of life, whether in social relationships, civil administration, military command or other service, we must make charity and peace the basic principles of action."

3. What Christianity means (Madame Chiang Kai-shek in her April 7, address to missionaries.)

"It gives me great pleasure to tell you that because our people and the government have come to appreciate the results of your efforts and the spirit that underlies your work, the Generalissimo has now found it possible to have the law amended so that now the Bible can be taught in registered mission schools. You have all had a leading share in making this change in the law possible, because you have shown what true, practical Christianity means in its widest sense."

4. It's a great job! (Muriel Lester)

"It's an extraordinary thing these foreigners are doing; I can scarcely imagine a better way of manifesting God than their quiet tireless availability. In times of agony, merely to have someone to speak to means a lot. But someone who understands, who suffers too, who also faces despair yet sees further, and who remains strong and confident and calm—it's a great job."

5. Not for ourselves! (A missionary)

"And now let me say that we need funds,—not for ourselves, but for the feeding of these poor people who are with us. Most of them are now supporting themselves, but their meagre supply of cash and grain will soon be exhausted,—and what then? We can't see them starve before our eyes."

6. This war must be stopped! (Two Missionaries)

"This war must be stopped! It is essential that the United States should cut off the sinews of war from Japan. This means oil, iron, trucks, autos, munitions, loans. This means a tremendous sacrifice on the part of the big interests, but nothing more than should have been done long ago."

"We are heart-sick as we note the Dodge, Ford and Chevrolet trucks and passenger cars of ten or a dozen makes in use by the Japanese military, and the supplies of oil, etc., that come from the United States."

7. Have vision and faith and courage. (Dr. A. R. Kepler)

"My message to the Church in the West is this; have vision and faith and courage; return to us your furloughed missionaries; send us new recruits to fill up the depleted ranks. The Chinese Church naturally hungers for the friendship and spiritual help that the Older Church can give and should not withhold at a time like this."

8. The way to peace. (The Chinese people to the people of Japan. Carried by Chinese planes, May 20, 1938.)

"If you are fighting for peace in the Orient, then, my friends, you are defeating your very purpose. You can never get peace by slaughtering your neighbors and destroying their property."

HOME MISSIONS

A. J. Neuenschwander, Sec.

Altoona, Pa., November 2, 1938.

Dear Christian Friends:

Greetings in His precious Name. Fourteen months ago we entered into the work here in the Altoona Mission. We little realized what kind of a place we were going to, but knowing we were being lead of the Lord we were willing to follow his leading. We surely praise Him for the open door and the many blessings we have received during the past year.

Our Mission activities are many and varied. We have S. S. and worship services every Sunday morning and C. E. and worship services in the evening. Our attendance on our first Sunday in S. S. was thirty-one while now it is between 70 and 100.

We have also been spending much of our time in visitation work. In this type of work we get into contact with many people and are always received kindly. We wish to thank the friends who have contributed clothing for the needy here in Altoona since we are here. It has been much appreciated, we are sure.

Prayer services are being held twice a week. On Monday night we have cottage prayer service. This is held in the different homes each week while the mid-week Bible study and prayer service is held in the parsonage.

The Ladies' Aid meet once a month. At our next meeting we are to spend the evening after the program in cutting quilt patches for the Hopi Indians in Arizona. The Ladies' Aid has contributed towards our own Mission Work in various ways. They have donated a rug for the church pulpit in the spring, after our new floor was put in. Also a piano for the parsonage and other ways as well.

In the spring the men were quite busy laying the new floor in the church. There was a wonderful spirit of cooperation and a willingness to work to make the church more beautiful and worshipful. Again they worked hard to put a cement side walk around the parsonage which also is a great improvement to the place.

Revival meetings were held in April. Rev. John S. Raugh from our Smith Corner Church brought the messages. Eighteen came forward to accept Christ and rededicate their lives. At the close of the revival communion and baptismal services were held. Six were baptized.

During the month of June a two weeks Bible School was conducted with an enrollment of forty-seven. The Scottdale text books were used and much appreciated by the teachers. At the close a program was held in the evening and thirty of the pupils received diplomas for perfect attendance and faithfulness in their work. We trust that these boys and girls will ever remember the many lessons they have learned.

We surely are grateful for the way the members have been cooperating with us in the work. Also wish to thank all our Christian friends who have been upholding us in prayer and we hope you will continue to remember us and the work in Altoona.

In His Service,

Rev. and Mrs. E. F. Slotterback,
2204—11th Avenue, Altoona, Pa.

Salvation, Not Reformation

A party of friends went to pay a visit to an old parish church which was of great interest. They applied for permission, and the sexton gave them the key, saying: "You can unlock the door and go in, and I will come to you directly." They went to the door, put the key into the lock, and tried to open it, but they could not turn the key. They turned and twisted, but to no effect, and had just given up in despair when the sexton arrived. "We cannot make this lock shoot," said one of the party. "I beg your pardon," said the sexton, "for giving you so much trouble. I quite forgot to tell you that the door is not locked at all. All you need to do is just lift the latch and walk in." Now, dear friends, a great many are like them. They try by their own efforts to unlock the door of salvation, but all their efforts are a waste of time. Our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ long ago unlocked the door, and all we need to do is just to lift the latch and by faith walk in.—Sunday Circle.

UPLIFTING SERMONS
INSPIRATIONAL MUSIC
SPIRITUAL FELLOWSHIP

Six years ago the idea of the Gospel Team was born in the minds of a group of students who gathered in their rooms for prayer and devotion. This spirit has been perpetuated year after year until it has become a strong spiritual force in the lives of the members, and has exerted an increasingly strong religious influence on the campus. These services are held in a humble attempt to carry some of the inspiration of the weekly meetings to our churches.

Order Your Christmas Needs From The Mennonite Book Concern

This is the time when Sunday Schools and churches are planning for the observance of Christmas. Materials for programs, Bibles, gift books, greeting cards, and other matter in the Literary line will be needed.

Will committees, Sunday school officers, ministers, parents—all—kindly remember that THE MENNONITE BOOK CONCERN, BERNE, INDIANA, our own book-store and publication office has everything in that line in stock and is anxious to serve our people. A catalog will gladly be sent to committees and individuals that are interested. Write for one in time.

A FINE CHRISTMAS PRESENT

Someone has recently suggested that the Mennonite would make a good Christmas present, or where the German language still prevails, the Bundesbote. Why not subscribe for one of the papers for your friends especially younger families, to have the paper visit them every week through the year to get them acquainted with our conference activities.

OFFER TO NEW SUBSCRIBERS

"THE MENNONITE" WILL BE SENT TO NEW SUBSCRIBERS FROM NOW UNTIL JANUARY 1940 FOR $1.00. FOR $1.25 WE WILL SEND THEM, IN ADDITION, A COPY OF THE 1939 YEAR BOOK, A 50 PAGE BOOK BRIMFUL OF INTERESTING INFORMATION ABOUT OUR CONFERENCE, ITS CHURCHES AND THEIR ACTIVITIES.

OFFER TO OLD SUBSCRIBERS

ALL OLD SUBSCRIBERS WHO PAY UP IN FULL TO JANUARY 1940 WILL GET THE YEAR BOOK AS A PREMIUM, AS USUAL.

REASONS FOR TAKING THE CHURCH PAPER

*1. Can a person be called loyal to his church if he has no church paper in his home?

2. Can he be fair to his children if he does not take a church paper?

3. Is a man putting Christ first if he has secular papers but not religious papers in his home?

4. Do you want to go to heaven and have to say, "I never had the church paper in my home?"

5. Would you want Jesus to come and have him see several other kinds of magazines in your home but no religious ones?

6. Is it fair to the church that has helped you in your religious life, to disregard the official organ of the church?

7. Can you be a good Christian, being posted in other lines, but know very little of what is going on in the church?"—Rev. J. L. Towne.

A LEPER STORY

Shimon came towards me as I neared the gate. I wondered what he wanted, for his very attitude was an attitude of request.

"Memsahiba, there is a leper out under that tree. He is on his way from Phuljar state, from beyond Basna, to the Leper Asylum in Champa. Is there any place he can stay while he rests before going on? He says he has been on the way four days already."

Hurriedly I thought over the available places where we could safely put up a leper. "What sort of a man is he?" I asked.

"He is a Christian," said Shimon, "he has his Bible and Hymn book along."

Then he was a brother in the faith and such a one we could not leave out under the tree with a heavy shower coming up. The little room off on one corner of the dispensary veranda had a stone floor and could be thoroughly disinfected. We would put him there. Shimon, relieved that a place had been found quickly went to get the old man. He had the typical leper face, maimed hands and feet and one eye was sightless. Yet there was a something in his smile that beautified the homely features.

He looked at the shelter offered him, then fell on his knees and raised his hands towards heaven in thanksgiving. Shimon had already promised him a meal but the food was not yet cooked. The old man said, "I am so hungry. I have not eaten a full meal for two days."

Shimon has found life difficult in the past year, both financially and socially. But as he hurried away to get the food for our friend there was only joy on his face.

Fed and refreshed, the leper took out his hymn book and began to sing praises. His language was not my language but the Oriya that is spoken to the south of us. But his joy in the Lord was unmistakable. Late into the evening he sang and again early the next morning, even before the dawn.

I wondered, as I lay there listening to him, whether I in like circumstances would be able to sing. Would you? Only as we look from circumstances unto our wonderworking Lord would we be able to sing, "O, come, let us sing unto the Lord."

I thought I had finished but I must add a postscript. One of our nice Christian women who comes from the south had gone to see the leper when she heard he was Oriya speaking like they. With tears in her eyes she said, "Memsahiba, I recognized him as a man who used to come to our home, when I was young, to preach Christ. His home was fully twenty miles away but he came several times. When I wept because of his condition he told me not to. He said that through this affliction God nevertheless gave him many blessings." The day of miracles is not past. Let us praise the Lord for abundant grace and peace in every need. - -Christena H Duerksen

Address of Welcome to Western District Conference at Enid, Okla.

by Atty. Dave Bucher, Substituting for the Mayor

Mr. President and Friends:

"Enid, the City Beautiful, a city of homes, schools, churches and predominantly Christian ideals is delighted to welcome your Western District Conference. The heart of Enid welcomes you, because the ideals of this conference are the ideals which alone can save the world, spiritually from the maelstrom of destruction by armed force.

"If international disputes were committed for settlement to Christian conferences of the countries involved they would be settled by reason, justice and Christian principles and not by force, fear, famine, and human slaughter. God speed the day when such disputes are committed for settlement to Christian Statesmen. When that time comes war will be no more; swords can be made into plow shares, spears into pruning hooks and mankind will dwell together in true Christian brotherhood.

"What an inspiration to the Christian to contemplate this tremendous challenge. It is not too much to hope when we consider the triumphant progress of the Church through the Centuries.

"In the words of a great Christian leader: "The Church has withstood the revolutions of time, and the mutations of fortune; the desolating tread of ages, and the disintegration and downfall of dynasties; the ravages of famine, and the wasting scourge of pestilence. It has outlived the flood, the confusion of languages, the brick yards of Goshen; it outlived the temples, outlived the Jews, outlived the astrological lore of the Chaldeans, the mythology of Greece and Rome; it outlived the opposition, ecclesistical and political convulsions of the dark ages. In the very hour of its extremest discouragement when weeping piety thought all was lost and laughing iniquity thought all was gained, the sun of the Reformation shone from its sanctuary and illumined the world. It has been attacked by the Devil and demons, physics and metaphysics, learning and ignorance, genius and talent, stratagem and chicanery, intrigue and diplomacy, irony and ridicule, sarcasm and invective books and presses, mails and rostrums, sabres and cannons, prisons and inquisitions, in fact, all that the human mind has been able to invent, human skill execute, and human wisdom employ, have been arrayed against it; but irresistible and plenipotent, it has pressed its foes from field to field, and driven its conquering chariot over their fallent armies."

"The Church stands for law and order! good government and good morals. It is the greatest force in the world for righteousness. Its influence means more for our security than a million armed policemen. It restrains the evil and is a dynamic force in the lives of good men and women.

"The Church is the oustanding, distinguishing mark of civilization. Its presence is a shining light in a world of darkness and despair. Wherever that light has been extinguished civilization has lapsed into barbarism.

"With nearly 60 per cent of the peoples of the earth under totalitarian systems, which seek to destroy the Church, the world yearns for courageous Chistians fired with the zeal of the Chistian martyrs to save a crumbling civilization. The Church and its Christian message is our only hope.

"Thus my Christian Friends, I speak with sincerity and heart-felt conviction when I say your conference is thrice welcome to meet in our City and work toward a mission which is the only salvation of mankind."

A Thankful Heart

It should be a fair assumption that all Christians have a thankful heart. But are there not those who have grumbling hearts, fearful hearts, thankless hearts? A truly thankful heart is the result of regeneration. A new heart in tune with the heart of Christ, is full of gratitude for the great gift in Christ Jesus, with which God is ready to bestow all other gifts.—A thankful heart is the fruit of faith. Natural gratitude is the natural pleasure felt in prosperity. Genuine gratitude praises God even in adversity, like Job did, because of faith in his widsom and endless love. A thankful heart finds blessings, as Dr. O. W. Holmes so beautifully illustrates in this parable: If one should give me a dish of sand, and tell me there were particles of iron in it, I might look with my eyes for them, and search them with my clumsy fingers; but let me take a magnet and sweep it, and how it would draw to itself the most invisible particles by the power of attraction! The unthankful heart, like my finger in the sand, discovers no mercies, but let the thankful heart sweep through the day, and, as the magnet finds the iron, so it will find in every hour some heavenly blessings; only the iron in God's sand is gold."—A thankful heart is fit for greater blessings. God gives more abundantly where previous gifts are properly valued.—Psalm 1:23—Chrysostom once said, "There is but one calamity, sin; and after many sorrows died, exclaiming, "God be praised for everything." A thankful heart is itself one of the foremost blessings, and parent of all other graces, so that even the pagan Roman Cicero out of a life of thoughtful meditation could say, "It disposes to contentment in all conditions, and puts a bridle on desire."

—Rev. J. M. Galle's Church, Odessa, Wash. celebrated its 25th anniversary, Sunday, Nov. 20. Rev. W. S. Pritchard, first pastor of the church brought the principal message on the subject, "The Church's Response to the World's Needs."

THE SIN OF LYING

Ex. 20:16; Matt. 15:19, 20; John 8:42-47; Eph. 4:25

Introduction

The four Scripture passages of our lesson show the wickedness of the sin of lying. The ninth Commandment might well be called the Law of Truthfulness. God is truth in His very nature. Lying reveals a character, the very opposite from God. Perjury is the most serious form of lying. It is a willfully false statement violating a judicial oath before God to tell the truth, the whole truth, nothing but the truth.

False Witness Forbidden Ex. 20:17

The underlying principle of the 9th Commandment is the sacredness of one's reputation and good name. These are more valuable than property. The Commandment is not limited to false testimony under oath. Every false statement about another, all slander violates it (Ex. 23:1). Excessive criticism which crushes and ruins many, is condemned (Matt. 19:19). The tongue, the gift of speech, is God's wonderful gift to us. No one can measure the good of the spoken word when truth is spoken.

The Offending Heart. Matt. 15:19, 20

Jesus had been speaking to the Pharisees of the hollowness of their religious traditions (vs 3-9), so that their worship had become mere lip-service — an hypocritical religious lie, in God's sight. It is the output of a person's life that tells what he really is (v11). That which defiles comes out of the heart, the words spoken come from there (v18). The evils of verse 19 defile the man, the practice of these harms the person himself. The one bearing false witness against another harms self more than the other person.

Jesus' Test John 842-47

Jesus is speaking to the Jews who did not believe in Him. Had they been God's children in truth, they would have loved Jesus and welcomed Him as God's Son (v42). They would have recognized Him as such in His words and deeds. They bore false witness against Him. Today there is much false witness borne against those of Jesus' race. God's TRUE children cannot condone the hatred shown toward the Jews in some countries. The unbelieving Jews did not accept Jesus' teachings and so would not understand His language (v43). They lacked spiritual discernment. Satan was their father (v44) in the sense that they followed him and did his works. Rejecting Jesus, they were Satan controlled, mental and spiritual descendents of him. Out of this evil heart come only evil words, lies. Jesus draws a complete contrast in verses 45-47.

Truth in Him, no truth in them. God's words in Him, no capacity for God's Word in them. Here is the dividing line between truth and error. Jesus challenges us to believe His words as truth and to trust Him. Truth never misleads him who accepts it. The person not born of God, can not understand the spiritual things, the words of God.

Paul's Admonition Eph. 4:25

We can not expect truth to flourish in unregenerate lives. When the Spirit of God regenerates a life, a new capacity for truth is given. The old nature may still abide, but new strength is given to overcome it. We expect such persons to speak the truth, which is both an obligation and a spiritual joy. Christians are all members of the same body, so the life of each one is very closely bound up with his neighbor. We manifest Christian fellowship in the highest sense when we are true in our speech to and with one another. God desires truth in the innermost heart.

Wichita, Ks. Mission Work Impressions

I have been asked to give some impressions on my first day in observing and helping with the work that the Lorraine Avenue Mennonite Church is carrying on in Wichita. The Pastor and Mrs. Schmidt have just completed their first year of work there. That there has been splendid growth is manifested in the numerical increase. A fine Christian spirit of friendship, love, and goodwill is radiating from the group, and through Divine Guidance the Pastor can have every reason to expect an increasingly fruitful year in the work of the Kingdom.

Much work needs to be done, not only among the Mennonite families but also in the church community, the week day Bible school, and in the slums of Wichita. Often nothing is known of some Mennonites moving to Wichita. Could not some person in the church at home, the pastor or a friend, notify Rev. Schmidt when it is known that someone is planning to move there? Then a friendly welcome could be extended.

Work is being done among the people in the slums. Living conditions there are indeed miserable, and the spiritual conditions are no better. To start the work seems like starting to move a mountain with a small shovel. Days of pioneering are still with us. These people, too, belong to God's fold and someone is needed to present to them the way to the abundant life. The work needs much support in prayer.

I think I speak for all Bethel College students interested in Christian work, in saying that we appreciate the efforts of the Home Mission and the Education Committees of the Western District, Dr. A. Warkentin, Rev. E. D. Schmidt, and all those who make it possible for students to learn something about the work before the whole responsibility will fall upon our shoulders. — Arthur Friesen.

New Testament teachings about the Sin of War, and the Problem of Peace Today.

I. The root causes themselves which lead to war are inherently evil. If the root causes are bad, then we must expect the product to be bad. The principle, that a good tree cannot produce bad fruit, nor a corrupt tree good fruit is a sound one, and applies very appropriately to our question.

The following are root causes: Jealousy and Faction, James 3:3-18. Jealousy develops into bitterness and hatred, which results in murder. What is confirmed in individual lives is just as true when applied to larger groups, as for instance nations. Wars between nations have sprung from the same evil causes. There is also the root cause of Covetousness and Selfishness, definitely expressed by James in the first few verses of the fourth chapter. It is an unregulated desire to possess what one sees in others that lead to jealousies and hatreds. Covetousness creates lust for more. Then as James says "you kill" and still "you cannot obtain." This is especially true of war, and has been at the root of all wars.

War is always the result of the sinful activities of the flesh. Noble and good impulses, such as kindness, mercy and love could never result in war. It takes the evil impulses which are "earthly and Devilish" to make war.

II. The evil Nature of War. It goes without saying that if we know what the tree is we will also know what the fruit is. We have already examined the roots of war which we found to be evil. We know what the nature of this fruit will be. We know that its product is war. We shall point out a few of the things that shows the evil nature of war:

1. The sin of taking human life. The love of God would always reclaim instead of destroy. Gal. 6:1; I John 4:9-10. A second reason is the sacredness of human life. I Cor. 6:19, 20; 3:16, 17. Here we are taught that none should destroy the holy temple of God. The personality of man is God's highest creation, it is sacred.

2. The sin of wasteful destruction of property and money. The wanton destruction of property and waste of money is not good stewardship. It is absolutely contrary to the way of Christ. The direct cost of the World war was, $186,333,637,097. The indirect losses which would include property losses, production losses, etc. would be $151,612,542,560, making a grand total of $347,946,179,657. The property losses alone amount to $29,960,000,000. Think of the constructive good that might have been done for the spiritual welfare of the human race if this stupendous sum of money had been diverted for that purpose.

3. The sin of immorality. The moral losses caused by the World war are not as easily measured as the physical and material losses. But there was an abundance of evidence during the War and after, of the colossal moral losses sustained by this holocaust. Signor Nitti, ex-premier of Italy, has said: "The losses in human life and property, great as they are, are small evils compared to the undermining of morals and the lowering of standards of culture and civilization."

III. The Christian Way of Love Incompatible with War. The Christian way of Love whenever sincerely practiced has produced results which were powerfully effective for peace. This way is suggested to us in Romans 12:10; Phil. 2:3. It is the kind of spirit suggested in these verses that wins. Where it is truly practiced it would be impossible for faction and strife to arise between two individuals. No true Christian can have hatred and strife and malice abiding in him toward anyone. I John 3:15.

1. The Christian Way of love overcomes Evil with Good. The Christian way of love always returns good for evil. Rom. 12:14, 17, 20, 21; I Thess. 5:15. These passages do not teach a passive non-resistance, but an active non-resistance. It is an active resistance on a higher level than the world would resist. It is a resistance that has far better results than violent resistance

2. A Contrast of the Christian's Weapons with those of the World. II Cor. 10:3-4 suggests that a Christian fights with weapons of a higher level than the man of the world. Weapons of violence beget violence. But the weapons of the higher level—Love—beget Love. The weapons of the lower level belong to the Sub-Christian world.

IV. Christians are members of one body. St. Paul gives fine illustrations of this truth in I Cor. 12:12-31; I Cor. 10:17; Eph. 4:4-6; Col. 3:15. The first fact that stands out clearly in these passages is, all Christians are members of one body, in which all work together for the mutual benefit of each other. Second fact, Christ is the head of this body. How can those who are of one body make war upon another member in the body? The third fact that stands out in Paul's teaching is, that the whole human race has its origin in one common source—God, the Father of all. "The same Lord is over all." It must pain the Father-heart greatly to see His children at war with each other.

V. The Christians Willingness to Sacrifice in Order to Promote the Right. 1. The Apostles and the early Christians said "we must obey God rather than man," and chose torture and death before they would swerve from the right.

2. Will "do nothing" in time of War be effective for peace? During the World war, some Mennonites, Quakers, Brethern and others refused to do anything that would assist the war machine. They were to obey God rather than the State. Did they accomplish anything? It is a sacrifice made in this non-resistant way that is tremendously effective. See II Cor. 8:9. By this method the Christian can wield a powerful influence to promote the cause of peace. If we would promote the cause of peace, then let us be just as willing to give our lives for it in martyrdom as the soldier is willing to give his life in battle.

3. The Contrast between the Soldier's Sacrifice and that of Calvary.

In war the soldier's method of sacrifice is, "get the other fellow first." His job is primarily to kill. Calvary's method is to save others and give yourself. Calvary's method is to work in the spirit of love. Layton Richards says, "If wars were waged solely on the principle of self-sacrifice there might be martyrdom, but there could be no battle."

Questions to think about:

1. If the method of Jesus way of life is not contrary to the method of war, can there be any method other than He contradicts?

2. Would a war to stop Hitler, solve the European situation, and make it any safer for Peace?

3. When Jesus faced the men who had him crucified, did He not face men who were more inhuman and fiendish than Hitler and Mussolini? What was Jesus attitude toward them? Is not the way of Calvary just as effective today as it was in Jesus' day?

A CORRECTION

"No doubt a good many readers of the Mennonite enjoyed reading the valuable article THE MENNONITE PRINCIPLE OF SIMPLE LIFE which appeared in the issue of October 25. Unfortunately the editor, through ignorance, gave credit to the wrong person as its possible writer. He has now learned that the Reverend G. T. Soldner of Bluffton College wrote the article for the Eastern Conference Brotherhood. It was mimeographed for dissemination and a copy found its way to the editor, merely with the post office address of the sender. With due apology for the error, he hopes he may be forgiven by the writer."

Our Youth Says

"A UNITED MENNONITE YOUTH IN CHRIST"

Mennonite Youth Marches On!

Eastern District Conference is planning two retreats for next year—one for the high school group, and one for the older group. Now there's an idea! Who thought of that first, we wonder.

Allentown, Pennsylvania — Young people's rally, Sunday, November 6. Reverend Held told many interesting experiences of his work among the Jews.

Lansdale, Pennsylvania—The Christian Endeavor society held a meeting in the Montgomery County jail, with 32 present, not including those behind the bars. This was the second time this year; the other time, Wendell Bowers, the murderer, was one of the listeners.

All Retreat Chairmen, Please send copies of your last year's program to Rev. Olin A. Krehbiel, 121 Towamencin Avenue, Lansdale, Pennsylvania. Help us in our study of Mennonite Retreats!

Mabel Clymer is the new Secretary of the Eastern District Retreat Committee; DeWitt Temple is the new treasurer. Who's the new president? Rev. Olin Krehbiel, Lansdale, replaces John E. Fretz, who recently resigned. John did fine work. It was John, by the way, who was in charge October 8, when thirty men and boys got out and cleared the ground and began work on the new building for the Eastern District Conference Retreat Building.

Where do Mennonite young people go when they leave home? Do YOU know; does anyone know?

Winter's the time to get ready for summer retreats. Those who attend them know why they're good—it's because the retreat leaders have been busy all winter getting ready for them.

Who's Who? What's What? Watch this column! Send us names and news, and we'll all find out! Remember what Charles Lamb said one time: "Don't introduce me to that man—if I know him I am sure to love him!" That's all for this week!—B. B.

Reports Definitely Favor Youth Paper

Quoting from questionnaires sent in:

"The Mennonite youth, if I may suggest something along this line, should put out a publication of their own entirely free from any publication, subject to the Young People's Union of the General Conference of North America, perhaps under the Publication Board.

"Why not make this publication a publication for every young Mennonite?

"Here's the way to do it! (Just one of the many suggestions!): The central office should have a file of the names of all the members of all the C. E. organizations or at least a list of all the young folks in Mennonite churches. Every one of these names should receive one of these publications (Youth Papers). The printer could tie in one bundle all those attending one church, where the bundle could be opened and distributed through the post office.

"How would I finance such a project? Simply by asking the C. E. groups to dig up the money for all their members as they see fit.

QUESTION BOX

How may I know what is right and wrong? People say, "You ought to do right, but how may I know is right?"

Answer: You certainly have one of the great problems here, and one of the great challenges to God-seeking souls through all the ages. May we suggest as a possible help the following tests:

1. The test of intuition—one's intuition tells him what he ought to do. Everyone has a sense of "oughtness." This we may call the test of the conscience, even though we know that conscience is subject to education.

2. The test of reason—will the proposed course of action maintain justice in the social order- Will it maintain my integrity? Thus man reasons how he can carry on for greater self-mastery and the higher satisfactions of life.

3. The test of experience—the individual tries out the suggested course of action, and if it does not work, he tries something else. Having decided what is right for himself and for the whole group, he gives it a test.

"Give thy servant an understanding heart, that I may discern between good and evil."—Solomon's dream-prayer.

"Advantages of this plan are: Cheap operation because of the quantity of work done; every young Mennonite would get a paper; collecting would be easy, because it's through the C. E. The advantage to the postal authorities is obvious; cheap distribution; and a UNITED MENNONITE YOUTH because they read the same material. This naturally tends toward likemindedness."

There is no question that in the last few years young people are more definitely thinking in terms of their own needs as a particular age group. How does your group feel in the matter? What do you think of the above method of financing a separate youth paper?

The questionnaires continue to come in? Is yours among them? —B. B.

"Damaging Lives for Profit"

Consecration Meeting

Meditations:

M., Nov. 28. A drinking party. Esther 1:1-9.
T., Nov. 29. Drunk, dull and destroyed. 1 Sam. 25:1-4, 36-38.
W., Nov. 30. Drunk, an easy prey. 1 Kings 16:8, 9.
T., Dec. 1. Slave of strong drink. Isa. 5:11, 12, 22.
F., Dec. 2. Stupid through drink. Isa. 28:1-8.
S., Dec. 3. Damage to body and soul. Prov 23:29-32.

Suggested Hymns:

"Yield Not to Temptation," "Higher Ground"

There can be little doubt that alcohol does damage lives. The effects of its use has been listed by a prominent scholar.* 1. Alcohol tends to reduce physical strength and endurance and the amount of work done. 2. It impairs mental work. 3. Alcohol belongs to the class of habit forming drugs, like opium and morphine, which tend to create a craving for increasing amounts. In certain cases this leads to heavy drinking and its serious consequences. 4. The alcohol user on the average is especially liable to sickness and to premature death. 5. Drink increases liability to accident even in the person who is never intoxicated. 6. The use of alcohol by parents is often responsible for a high death rate in children or for physical or mental defects. 7. Alcoholism does not necessarily mean drunkenness. The habitual user of alcohol may show some of its effects without ever reaching the stage of intoxication. 8. Alcohol is not a stimulant to the nervous system, but a depressant. 9. Because of the effect of alcohol on mind and body it is responsible directly and indirectly in the United States for at least one-fourth to one-half of all poverty and neglect, for more than one-third of pauperism, for one-fifth of the insanity and divorces, and for one-half of the crime.

Topics for Discussion:

I. The liquor problem is an old question

A. Fermented and distilled drinks have been known to man from earliest times, and crude processes for producing them are known to have been carried on in Asia at least as long as 2000 B. C.

B. Because it was available in almost every home it was used in a great variety of illnesses and considered a sovereign remedy for most of the emergencies of accident and disease, by both the laity and physicians.

C. Not until the middle of the last century did the experimental sciences begin to make that series of discoveries upon which our modern knowledge of medicine, growth, nutrition and mental and emotional and physical conduct depend.

D. In 1883 a man named Schmiedelberg in Stuttgart found that the anesthesia produced by alcohol was the result of depression of the functions of the brain and not of stimulation.

II. Now we know definitely that liquor is a menace to physical health.

A. Asylum, a book by William Seabrook that was just recently published, is the story of a man who, unwilling to face the ordinary problems of life, turned to liquor as a means of escape. The author tells how sad that "escape" was.

B. Archie Hahn, track coach and trainer of the University of Virginia, says: "Alcohol in any form has no place in the life of an athlete or anyone who really desires to keep in top physical condition. I have been coaching and training teams since 1907 and my experience convinces me that this is Rule Number One for perfect condition!"

III. What is the Christian answer to the liquor interests?

A. Is not the obvious intent of a liquor ad to make money at the expense of human folly?

B. Should a Christian subscribe to newspapers or magazines using such ads?

C. Are newspapers using liquor advertising free to tell the truth about the liquor traffic?

D. How should we participate in temperance drives?

E. What other ways are there to oppose the liquor interests?

Exploring The Hymn Book

Intermediate C. E. Topic, Dec. 11, 1938

For Daily Study

Dec. 5. "Break Thou the bread of life." Luke 22:14-20
Dec. 6. "Beneath the cross of Jesus." John 19:17-30
Dec. 7. "America the beautiful." Isa. 63:1-4
Dec. 8. "O sacred Head now wounded." John 19:1-7
Dec. 9. "In Christ there is no East or West." Gal. 3:26-29
Dec. 10. "In heavenly love abiding." John 14:23-31
Dec. 11. Topic—Exploring the Hymn Book. Ps. 136:1-9

Preprayer Circle

Read one of the prayer hymns like, "In the Secret of His Presence," or "Take Time to be Holy," before asking for participation. Call attention to the meaning of some of the words.

Exploring the Hymn Book

Make this meeting an hour of interesting discoveries for your group, by learning many interesting things about your hymn book. Interest as many of your members as possible in the meeting in advance by assigning them some part in the preparation for it.

Points of Interest (may be assigned to members for study).

1. New Hymns. How many hymns are never sung? Take the first fifty as an average. What per cent is familiar? Why are new hymns so seldom learned? Use a number of new hymns during the evening, having the group sing some of them, while others are prepared as special numbers.

2. Scripture that has inspired. Have someone make a study of the passages of Scripture that have inspired hymns, and give some of them together with the hymns, and give some of them together with the hymn they inspired. (See daily readings)

3. History in Hymns. How many centuries does your hymn book represent? Name at least one hymn representing each century, tell something of the period of history out of which it grew. Why do some hymns live longer than others? What makes a hymn lasting?

4. Geography in Hymns. From how many nations are the hymns of your hymn book taken. Are the hymns of a nation characteristic of its people?

5. Famous Poets and Compositors. See how many names of authors or composers of hymns you can find, of whom you have heard outside the hymn book. Make a list and tell what made them famous.

6. Hymn Stories. Of what value are the stories of the writing of some of our hymns? Have the following hymn story dramatized very simply.

Your Program

Plan your own program, using the varied material to give interest to the meeting. A book of hymn stories, or "Lyric Religion," by H. Augustine Smith will prove helpful. Close with the dramatization.

THE SOUL - WINNING HYMN

Characters:
Rev. H. V. Elliott, brother to the Elliot girls.
Charlotte Elliot, an invalid
Two sisters of Charlotte
Place: Brighton, England
Time: 1836

Scene I

(Living room of a home . . . brother and two sisters talking and Charlotte lying on a couch.)

Rev. Elliot: I am on a committee to raise funds for St. Mary's Hall . . .

1st Sister: (Interrupting) Oh that's the college for the daughters of poor clergymen, isn't it?

Rev. Elliott: That's the one . . . I've been wondering what you women can do to help.

2nd Sister: I know! Let's have a bazaar. All the women can make things for it and we will rent a hall and fix it up.

Rev. Elliot: That's fine. I must report to the committee chairman right away. You girls get busy with your bazaar. (Exit)

1st Sister: We had better visit the other ladies and let them know of our plans. I'll get our wraps. (Goes out and returns with wraps while Charlotte and sister are talking.)

Charlotte: (sighing) Oh dear! I wish I could help! Here I lie, day after day on this couch, perfectly useless. I'm no good to anyone.

2nd Sister: O Charlotte dear, don't talk that way! You know it's not so. You help just by being your own sweet self.

1st Sister: And think of the enjoyment people get from your poems.

2nd sister: I do wish we didn't have to leave you all alone. We'll try not to be gone long. Perhaps we will see someone who will stay with you a while.

Charlotte: Don't worry about me. I'll be all right. I didn't mean to complain but sometimes I do wish I could get out and really DO things.

1st Sister: (looking out of window) Here comes Dr. Malan. He will stay with you, Charlotte. I'm so glad he has come! (Sisters exit as Dr. Malan enters)*

Dr. Malan: (Charlotte greets him) How are you today, Charlotte?

Charlotte: I was just lamenting my inability to do anything. Here all the rest of the family is out working for a good cause and I have to remain on this couch, useless!

Dr. Malan: Charlotte, why don't you give your heart to Christ. He will make a useful worker of you even though you are confined to a couch.

Charlotte: "But I do not know how to find Christ."

Dr. Malan: (slowly and distinctly) "Come to Him just as you are." (He goes out quietly).

Charlotte (thoughtfully, to herself) Come just as you are. . . . Just as I am? Does Christ want me just as I am, sick, helpless, nothing to offer but my own wretched self? . . . (Her face lights up) Yes! I believe He does want me, just as I am, without one plea . . . (begins to write and as she does so, says the words of "Just As I Am." (Include the whole hymn. Do not hurry this.)

Dramatization by Christine Miller, Portland, Ore.

Dramatizations of the hymn stories of "Jesus Calls Us," "What a Friend We Have in Jesus," and Blest Be the Tie" by Mrs. Miller can be had by writing to the editor of this department, 1049 West Ave., Reedley, Calif.

---

*The scene with Dr. Malan took place several years before this, but at the time of the writing of the hymn, she recalled that conversation and it was responsible for the hymn, "Just As I Am."

These are exact quotations.

JUNIOR CORNER

Hail, dear Savior! Hail, O Jesus!
Thou our treasure, stay and rest.
Life and comfort Thou wilt give us,
Thou, O Child, so sweet and blest!

May our hearts with holy passion
Long to claim Thee as their own.
Sanctify them, O dear Jesus,
As Thy temple and Thy throne.

"O Come to My Heart, Lord Jesus"

Program Suggestions for December 11, 1938

Setting: A transparency showing the manger scene.

O Come, Let Let Us Adore Him:

1. Hymn by group: "O Come All Ye Faithful"
2. Recitation by a junior: Luke 2:8-14
3. Response by the group singing: "Joy to the World"
4. Responsive reading by leader and group:

Leader: What is the story which we hear,
Once "came upon the midnight clear?"
Group: It was the news that thrilled the morn,
The joyous news that Christ was born.

L—Who brought the glorious news to earth,
And first proclaimed a Savior's birth?

G—The Herald-angels in the sky
Announced the tidings from on high.

L—What did the choir angelic sing
To magnify their prince and king?

G—"All glory in the highest!" then,
Peace, peace on earth, good-will to men!"

L—Why should Messiah's coming prove
The earnest of a Father's love?

G—Because God gave His only Son,
That He for sinners might atone.

L—What did He do, that He might win
The erring nations from their sin?

G—He gave His life for you and me;
He paid the debt that made us free.

L—Then if He died and suffered thus,
What must He now expect of us?

G—Oh, it is but a simple thing,—
To do Him homage as our King;
To give our hearts to Him, and pray
His loving guidance day by day.
(Concordia Publ. House).

5. Group sings: "O, Come to My Heart, Lord Jesus!"
6. The shepherds came to adore Jesus and they were made glad. Luke 2:15-20, retold by a junior
7. A solo (unseen): "Away in the Manger." Verses 1 and 3.
8. Simeon adores Jesus and is made glad. Luke 2:21-33 retold by a junior
9. Group sings: "The Light of the World Is Jesus." Verses 1 and 2
10. Anna adores Jesus and is made glad: Luke 2:36-38 retold by a junior
11. The wise men adore Jesus and are made glad: Matt. 2:1-11
12. A solo voice (unseen) sings the chorus: "O come, let us adore Him"

O Come to My Heart, Lord Jesus:

1. Recitation by a junior:

"Dear Christ-child, what gifts can we children bestow,
By which our affection and gladness to show?
No riches and treasures of value can be,
But hearts that believe are accepted with Thee.

Our hearts then, to Thee we will offer today,
We offer them gladly, accept them, we pray,
And make them so spotless and pure that we may Abide in Thy presence in Heaven for aye."

2. Leader's prayer of thanksgiving and of petition that our hearts might be prepared for the coming in of the Saviour
3. Group repeats in unison verse of the month
4. Group sings: "O Little Town of Bethlehem." Verse 3 only and the "Amen."

Third Regional Peace Conference

For the third consecutive year a peace institute was held on Armistice Day and the day following, for the churches of the Eastern District Conference, and others interested, in the Grace Mennonite Church, in Lansdale, Pa. We again cooperated with the Executive Secretary of the Mennonite Peace Society, Rev. Carl J. Landes, who arranged the program for this day.

At our first session, Friday evening, we considered some of the practical things that peace lovers may do as Christian citizens, such as letting our congress know where we stand on the war question. In our second session, Saturday afternoon, we considered how our peace testimony might also become a more effective one, by doing some practical work in helping to relieve suffering in the war torn areas of the world, as for example right now in Spain. The thought was advanced that if we as Mennonites became known for our deeds of kindness and mercy in bringing relief to the suffering and needy of the world in times of peace as well as during war, our testimony would have far greater weight for our peace convictions in time of war.

The climax of our thinking seemed to have been reached, when we were seated in a round table discussion at the supper hour on Saturday evening, when the topic "Will Non-resistance work in a World of Hitlers and Mussolinis?" was introduced by Rev. Landes, and a discussion on the topic led by Rev. A. J. Neuenschwander. Here we thought together frankly and very earnestly about the meaning of our nonresistance as based on the New Testament and what it would mean in its actual application under every circumstances, which included individual relations as well as international relations. Those present felt that this was indeed a high hour of our conference.

The last session of our Conference was equally inspiring, and challenged us to some real serious thinking as Rev. Carl Landes spoke to us on "One Interpretation of the World Situation" and "Into an Unpredictable Future with Christ, the Prince of Peace."

Although this institute was not attended in large numbers, we are sure that it made a real contribution to our peace convictions, and will help us to be better leaders in helping to ground others in the faith of our heritage. It is institutes of this kind that we will continually need as a part of the program for education in enlightening us about the faith which kept our fathers true to their convictions in times of persecution. These institutes are also a very valuable factor in contributing information on the whole problem of peace and war, so that we may become not only better Christians, but also more intelligent citizens of our country. If our church is to remain true to her heritage then without question peace work must become one of her great missionary activities.

One wonders today what has happened to the peace education of our Mennonites in Germany and Holland, where the Doctrine of non-resistance seems to have practically disappeared from the theology of the Mennonites' religious thinking. It is in these days that every pastor should be a leader in promoting the Gospel of peace from pulpit, in Bible study groups, and young peoples' societies.—Ernest J. Bohn, Secretary of General Conference Peace Committee.

CORRESPONDENCE

Bethesda Leper Home, Champa, C. P., India 10-15-38

Dear Brother Thierstein:

When the General Conference report will have been issued in Book form then please send me one copy. Thank you.

From your and other people's reports, the Conference in Saskatoon must have been one of the best ever held. For this, we praise the Lord. God willing, Mrs. Penner and I will be present at the next one in 1941. That is the year in which we are supposed to retire. If we are as strong and healthy at that time as now, we ought perhaps to stay on in dear India among our much afflicted lepers. On the other hand, our children say that after having been separated for so many years, we should remain with them during the last years of life. Perhaps they are right. We will do exactly what God wants us to do if we will only recognize this.

Our Conference begins coming Monday. We believe God will guide us in all our deliberations.

With cordial greetings from Mrs. Penner and me, I am, Yours fraternally, P. A. Penner.

EMMANUEL MENN. CH., NOBLE, IA. 11-4-38

With the beginning of the fall months, we think of the gathering in of the harvest.

On Sunday, October 16, we had our annual Harvest and Mission festival. We were privileged to have with us Rev. Ezra Mullette of Nappanee, Ind., who preached the mission sermon in the morning. At the noon hour we all enjoyed a bounteous picnic dinner. In the afternoon the Ladies' Mission Society gave the program, consisting of several musical selections,, and talks on the work that our missionaries are doing in our home fields.

Rev. Mullette was with us through the entire week, bringing us very helpful messages each evening.—The following Sunday we held our fall communion services.—Our pastor Rev. D. E. Welty is instructing a catechetical class of several young people in preparation for church membership.—Correspondent.

MENNONITE CHURCH, HUTCHINSON, KANS.,
11-10-38

Dear Editor and Readers of the Mennonite,

The time in which we live is exceptionally interesting. Fundamental changes, spiritually, religiously, politically, economically occur here and there. Consider the Russian Christian, the German Jew, the Czech Patriot, the Chinese Devotee, the Spanish Loyalist. These contemporary historical facts cause us great concern. And yet the clouds overshadowing human activity are permitting rays of sunlight to pierce their frightening darkness. Not Nietzshe's philosophy: "Might makes right," but Christ's: "Right makes might," seems to be dawning and assisting leader's choice in handling international questions. Have we Mennonites sincerely, and without prejudice, comprehended the epoch-making event in late September at Munich? Have we earnestly sought God's hand to direct men's thoughts there? Did we with the nine that were healed by Christ go our way, or did we with the one return, giving thanks to Him whose mission it was and still is to cure our afflictions? I agree with Dr. Harshbarger in The Mennonite of Nov. 8, that "Mennonites are very much interested in political and social affairs." Our profession of Christian pacifism to be comprehensive and consistent in this age of broad education, causes us to drift into the very turmoil of our complex times. We need constructive, edifying exposition of our often too shallow professed Mennonite heritage. Too often our loudest professing idealists, lauding Christian precepts, are our most realistic offenders.

Our Hutchinson Mennonite church welcomed four new members last Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. David P. Froese and Mr. and Mrs. Ben Regier, by letter. In connection with this we also celebrated a home-coming, partaking of a uniting basket lunch, after the morning service. Following this was a short program: Our pastor, Rev. Dirks first conducted a meditation service, reading short Bible passages which were being interspersed with songs by a hidden quartet, similar to the service so impressively conducted by Rev. A. E Kreider at the Conferece in Enid. More of this is needed instead of so much shallow entertainment in our churches. Appropriate closing remarks by the pastor closed a well-spent Sunday.

Our attendance at all our church meetings is encouraging. Visitors are always welcome.

Cordially, C. C. Epp, correspondent

EBENEZER CHURCH, NEAR BLUFFTON, O.

On September 18, our Pastor, Rev. P. A. Kliewer, was present again after weeks of illness, just nine years after he preached his first sermon here.—Sept. 25 we enjoyed the presence of Clarence W. Jones, missionary from South America, and his daughters, who render radio broadcasts from Quito, Ecuador, which reaches thousands of their natives. On this day we were also favored by the Stratton Sisters of Bluffton with an inspiring song service.—On Oct. 3 the C. E.'s of St. John's Mennonite Church, Pandora, Ohio, accompanied by Rev. D. J. Unruh, their pastor, were our guests.—On one of the following days the Ebenezer sisters canned fruits and vegetables to be sent to our Chicago Mission for Thanksgiving. On Thursdays they are also quilting for this mission.—Prof. Arnold Schultz, of the Bluffton College faculty, filled the pulpit the last three Sundays at the Ebenezer Church while the pastor was convalescing from his illness. Rev. Schultz had chosen three striking texts: "The Crown as a Reward for Faithful Service"; "A Lesson on Faith," from Hebrew 11, a caution against the present apostacy; and "The Potter's Lesson," Jeremiah 18:1-6.—On Oct. 30 we enjoyed again the rendition of the beautiful master piece "Elijah," with Prof. Lantz of Bluffton College conducting. Miss Mable Amstutz, our chorister, who so successfully directed the big chorus, was complimented by the conductor. Recently an interesting letter from Mrs. Ezra Steiner on the Tibetan Border, China, was read by Supt. Walter Hostetler, to the effect that the work is progressing and sister Steiner is regaining her health. —Rev. Kliewers have postponed their trip to Kentucky. However, we are glad that his health is improving.

DEATHS

FRANK P. WEDEL, son of Peter and Helena Richert Wedel, was born Jan. 27, 1882, in McPherson county, Kansas. He grew to manhood in the parental home and received his education in the district school.

On June 17, 1904, he was baptized upon his confession of faith in Christ as his personal Savior, by Rev. Peter Balzer of the Alexanderwohl church, and joined the Emmanuel Church, near Canton, Kansas.—On October 29, 1905 he was married to Anna Decker, by Rev. Abraham Ratzlaff. In this union which was blessed with four daughters, Hilda, Verna, Flossie, and Violet, they shared joys and sorrows for almost 33 years. They worked hard and through God's blessings they were able to prosper.

Brother Wedel has held different offices in the church. At present he was treasurer on the committee of Trustees. He was always glad to see difficulties settled peacefully and thus have harmony and build the church.—He was in good health until July of this year when he had a light stroke. He took treatments from a doctor and seemed to be improving. However, in September he had a relapse, was taken to the McPherson hospital where in a week he recovered sufficiently to go home.—Last Sunday morning, Oct. 23, while eating breakfast with the family, he again had a stroke, and at 6:15 p. m. he passed away.

He leaves to mourn his departure, his dear wife, Roy and Hilda Unruh, Lincoln, and Verna Unruh and son Waldo, Flossie and Violet at home, his 76-year-old mother and 86-year-old mother-in-law, three brothers and sisters, 17 brothers-in-law, 10 sisters-in-law and many relatives and friends.—He attained the age of 56 years, 8 months and 26 days.

Funeral services were held at the Emmanual Church, the pastor Rev. J. J. Ratzlaff and Rev. P. H. Unruh officiating.

» » JOTTINGS « «

—Cheyenne and Arapahoe Messenger.—Rev. and Mrs. Benno Toews and their two children arrived at the mission Oct. 31 to take over the work. They are temporarily located in the town of Canton, as their household goods have not yet arrived.—Rev. and Mrs. Linscheid had their household good moved to Newton, Kan. Nov. 2, and on the next two days they were busy there getting somewhat settled in their first own home. Then they returned to the Station to introduce the new workers and to visit their children at Norman, Okla.

—Grace Mennonite Church, Lansdale, Pa.—Just 200 years ago Christopher Dock opened up two schools, one on the Shippack, and one in Salford. His book on the art of teaching is the oldest published in the country.—The pastor, Rev. Olin Krehbiel was a guest speaker at the local Kiwanis meeting, taking for his subject, "Citrus Industry of California."—Mr. and Mrs. Jacob R. Fretz motored to Bluffton. Mr. Fretz attended the College Trustees meeting. Together they attended the Homecoming festival and visited their son Stanley.

—Bethel College Professor Holding Meetings.—Prof. A. E. Kreider of Bethel College conducted a series of evangelistic meetings, the week of Nov. 6-11, in the Emmanuel Church near Galva, Kansas, where J. J. Ratzlaff serves as pastor.—And Dr. A. Warkentin, also of Bethel College, is with the First Church of Mountain Lake, Minn., during the week of Nov. 13-18, which is celebrating the sixtieth anniversary of its founding.

—Bethel College, North Newton, Kans.—The student body is joining with other colleges and universities in a national drive to raise $50,000 for the Far Eastern Student Relief Fund.—As usual the Bethel College Corporation Meeting will be held Friday, Nov. 25, the day after Thanksgiving. This is the fifty-first meeting of the organization. Reports will be given and problems projected, such as: (1) Shall a temporary roof be put on Memorial Hall? (2) Plans for a new curriculum. The Hiram plan might be inaugurated. (3) The place of athletics in the school. (4) The ever recurring financial problem, and others. —The meetings are always largely attended. Last year 4300 votes were represented.

—Mennonite Church, Wayland, Iowa.—"On Nov. 13 we were privileged to have with us Rev. Sam Goering, Prof. Willis Rich and the Bethel College Male Quartet, who were on their Good Will Tour. They gave us a splendid program which speaks well for the work of Bethel College.—Nov. 3-5 Mildred Klopfenstein and Roger Wise, members of our S. S. attended the Young People's Conference at Oskaloosa, Iowa.—We are looking forward to hearing the Gospel team from Bluffton College, O., Nov. 22."—Corresp.

—First Mennonite Church, Allentown, Pa.—For many years the local Y. M. C. A. has joined with other Associations in conducting an Annual Older Boys' Christian Conference. This year Allentown has invited the Conference for December 2, 3, and 4. About 300 of the finest type of young men of ages 14 to 20, all possessing leadership qualities, will be delegates.

—Rev. C. H. Dirks of the Mennonite Church at Hutchinson, Kans. is conducting meetings at the Kismut, Kans. Menn. Church, during the week of Nov. 13-19.—He was the principal speaker at the Inman Mission C. E. program. The High School and eight local and neighboring churches participated in the program.—Rev. Dirks has also been elected counselor of the Y. P. C. E. Union of Reno County, Kans.

—First Church, Philadelphia, Pa.—Relative to our SPECIAL THANK OFFERING, Sunday, Nov. 20, you will receive a special Thank Offering Envelope. We hope and pray that every church member and Sunday School scholar will get an envelope and give this special consideration. "And when ye will offer a sacrifice of thanksgiving unto the Lord, offer it at your own will." Lev. 22:29.

Rev. J. M. Suderman, Pastor of the Mennonite Church at Buhler, Kans., and Secretary of the Board of Publication, had to go to the hospital in a run-down condition early this month. He was allowed to go home after a few days, but with strict orders to have perfect rest for about two months. He has resigned from the pastorate and the family is planning to move to Newton, Kansas.

—Second Church, Philadelphia, Pa.—God is honoring our sincere prayers and the Second Church is moving forward. Cooperation is splendid and achievements are gratifying. But the unconquered field before us is great. So let us not rest content with laurels won, but let us press on with new vigor and courage under the command of our great General, the Lord Jesus Christ.—Pastor.

—Very Attractive and Valuable Church Bulletins.—We are just in receipt of another fe wtastefully decorated Church bulletins by the master artist, Mrs. Christine O. Miller of the Portland Church, and the programs are packed with good things to think about. We appreciate these bulletins. May God richly bless Brother and Sister Miller who so whole-heartedly devote their lives to the cause of Christ.

Christianity Not Yet Tried

As a great writer has truly said, "The trouble with the world is, not that Christianity has failed, but that it has never been tried." The greatest need of the world today, as it has always been, is the general practice of the precepts of Christianity, the incorporation of the true spirit of Christ in the common, daily life of men. The unbelieving will declare that this is impractical; that selfishness is what moves the world, that if one does not look out for himself, no one else will look out for him. . . .

The Gospels make it very plain that one cannot be a Christian or a follower of Christ in any true sense if all his thought, ambition, and effort center in and end with himself and his own selfish and narrow interests. "Love is the fulfilling of the law of Christ." Love that reaches out and embraces not only one's friends and those that love him, but his enemies; the sinners and outcasts as well as those who are beautiful in character and lovable in conduct and life. Such a love will prompt one who has it to work for the upliftment of the ignorant and fallen brother; to create an environment that will stimulate the good in him instead of prompting him to evil; take him by the hand and help him to reach the upward way. The man who has anything of the real Christ-spirit would rather be wronged than to do a wrong to another; rather submit to injustice than to do an injustice. And do you say that no one will look out for such a man? God looks out for him. He has made the laws of life so that such a man will be the best beloved in the world. His life will be the most successful life, not in an eternal, a spiritual way only, but in every way. This is the promise, and it is true: "Seek ye first the kingdom of God, and his righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you."

AN UNFORTUNATE SITUATION.—It is a well-known fact that the American mind has gradually taken a decidedly unfriendly stand against Germany. That there has been left a residue of opposition toward her from the war no one will deny. This has now been augmented by Germany's dictatorship government, her attitude against the Jews and in matters of religion generally. This is very unfortunate, for our country owes much to Germany and its many citizens of German extraction. It is unfortunate, too, that the American press, greatly influenced by Jewish propaganda inland and from Moscow has helped foment American antagonism toward the fatherland. At the same time we as Christians cannot help but deplore some of the things that Germany has done. As for her Nazi government, if that suits her, we should let her try it out. But it must pain any true Christian heart to know that the country of Luther, leader in bringing true religion back again, has done things that are directly contrary to the spirit of Christianity. And now when due to the assassination of assistant ambassador to France, von Rath, by a Jew another outbreak against this race has been enacted with destruction of Jewish property, imprisonment of many Jews, and decrees for their deportation, we are pained more deeply. At the same time the American mind has been stirred up to a point where, in case of another war in Europe, our country would be quite sure to join to down Germany. This all is very unfortunate. We Christians sorely deplore these happenings in the fatherland and naturally ask, where will this eventually end. At the same time it is puzzling to some of us that the American mind, so critical in the things that Germany does, has calmly looked on while for years the persecution of Christians has gone on in Russia, where thousands of people of our own faith have been murdered and the lives of many more ruined.

Missionary P. W. Penner Writes

Dear Bro. Thierstein: Mrs. Penner and myself enjoy the contents of the Mennonite much, because they keep us in close touch with the doings of the church, etc. Thanks for editing the paper so ably. On account of impaired health Mrs. Penner and myself are urged by the missionary staff to leave India temporarily. Would you kindly address the first number after receipt of this card: care of Rev. H. Schmitt, Koedoes, Java, N.O.I.; the second number: care of Matson Line, S. S. Mariposa, leaving Febr. 3rd, Sidney, Australia; the third number care of Matson Line, S. S. Mariposa, Honolulu, Hawaiian Island, calling Febr. 15th. After that 654 E. 79th Street, Los Angeles, Calif.—Fraternally, P. W. Penner.

A Letter from Missionary W. F. Unruh

BASNA VIA RAIPUR, C. P., INDIA,
October 26, 1938

Dear 'Uncle' Thierstein:

It has become necessary for us to resign as foreign missionaries because of the ill health of both Mrs. Unruh and our oldest boy. Both have heart trouble, due to the climate evidently. We hope to sail for home on December 31st which will bring us to New York by January 30. We plan to stay with our father at Pawnee Rock until we can find another place. What we will do and where we will live we do not know as yet, but we trust the Lord to give us continued opportunities to serve Him. Will you kindly send "The Mennonite" and the "Bethel College Monthly" to us at—c-o Rev. J. B. Schmidt, Pawnee Rock, Kansas after this letter reaches you. Thank you very much.

Here at Basna the Lord is doing great things. Over 200 have been baptized since New Year and several more groups are under instruction and are to be baptized shortly. Rev. and Mrs. J. R. Duerksen are to take our place when we leave.

You have certainly made a fine paper of the Mennonite since you are Editor. We are mighty glad for this. Very sincerely yours, W. F. Unruh.

A Timely and Pertinent Word

by a Mennonite Mother

In the Mennonite of August 30, under the head "Notes from the General Conference" we find the reports of our leading educational institutions. There are indeed many causes for rejoicing and thanksgiving in behalf of our Mennonite schools. Gleaning from the various reports there are these statements—"Serious efforts are made to permeate all instruction with a Christian Mennonite spirit, and a definite stand is taken against the degrading influence of worldly amusements, like the dance, all wild parties, movies, the theater, and over-stressed sports."—"A fine Christian Spirit is prevailing in the school." "The Spirit of the institution is good, a good wholesome Christian atmosphere pervades the campus."

Over such statements we most heartily rejoice. While we rejoice with all forward movements as to finances, curriculum, strong faculties, high standards of scholarship, and all that goes into the making of strong educational institutions, should we not as parents of Mennonite youth, members of Mennonite constituency, workers together in every phase of Christian Mennonite activity, labor and pray more earnestly along lines represented by the above quoted statements, until every Mennonite home, church, and institution can say as definitely and clearly as our brethren of Gretna, Manitoba, have done—"Serious efforts are made to permeate all instruction with a Christian Mennonite spirit, and a definite stand is taken against worldly amusements,"—whatever those amusements may be in our own particular community. Is it saying too much to say that then and only then can we claim to be faithfully and consistently upholding and conserving the Mennonite principles left us by our forefathers.

Some years ago a prominent leader among Mennonites gave a powerful message, centering his thought around the verse found in 2 Kings 18:23. "I will deliver thee two thousand horses if thou be able on thy part to set riders on them." "The horses," as he lead them forth before us, were the good old Mennonite principles for which our fathers have paid so dearly and in which they have left us so rich a heritage. And as the "horses" were led forth a masterful appeal for riders was made. Some have made a splendid response to the appeal. We have only praise for our Mennonite youth who have become such valiant riders for the Mennonite principle of peace. God bless them all, and may their influence be increasingly felt throughout the length and breadth of our land—yes, even throughout the world, so sorely ridden with strife and turmoil. Surely somewhere in our Mennonite centers there must be Mennonite youth who will do just as valiantly in standing forth against "degrading worldly amusements" as these have done against war, and will work just as courageously for a high standard of pure, wholesome, refined, thought-elevating social activities as these have done for peace.

Recently a man of God, of wide and deep experience, gave a message to a group of young C. E. members. The Spirit of God was present in power and several young people made decisions for Christ. During a question and answer period, the question of movies was brought before him. The answer was kind, but clear and full of earnest, Godly conviction, "I do not think that a Christian can patronize the movies as they are. We should boycott them until they raise their standards."

Can we not feel that our fore-fathers would have given hearty assent to this view if they were still with us; and that they would have made "serious efforts . . . against degrading worldly amusements?" Thank God, there are fathers and mothers with us yet who cannot place their approval upon these things, and who cannot look on with indifference, when our Mennonite youth are being caught up in the whirl of "worldly amusements" whose influences are directly non-Mennonite and non-Christian.

If this is a day when we must stand and work for Mennonite principles, and we surely believe them to be the principles of Christ, let us do it valiantly and consistently, as youth, as parents, as educational and church leaders,—all working together for a stronger, purer, holier church of Christ. This Mennonite "horse" will not be easy to ride, and the world will not applaud the rider; yea, much more, his own "familiar friend" will disapprove, and will discourage and dishearten him. But deep in his heart the rider will know that he has the approval of Jesus, our Christ and Savior, who out of His great heart of love and understanding prayed for us saying, "I pray not that thou shouldst take them out of the world, but that thou shouldst keep from the evil. They are not of the world, even as I am not of the world."

Appreicating Our Heritage

by Olin Krehbiel

Although history is not the most important thing in life and ancestral lineage has been over-emphasized in certain quarters, still God never intended that Christians should overlook these factors. For the Bible is largely history of the highest order and the line of faith can be traced from Adam unto Jesus Christ.

The past is for our edification. We are to profit by the mistakes and sins of others and also to enter into the blessings of their labors.

I think that we today do not have a deep enough appreciation or understanding of our Mennonite heritage. Many Mennonites who have grown up under conditions seemingly ideal lack this appreciation. In fact, I feel that in spite of all the opportunities that have been mine in the past, I am just beginning to understand something of our wonderful heritage. One can go to many cities and find two ex-Mennonites to one who still belongs to our church. Why is this? Largely because they did not sense the value of things Mennonite. Some large church with a pipe organ had more appeal than our little city mission church. Other illustrations might be given showing this weakness of our church but they are not necessary, the problem is the solution.

No one will dispute that love must be rekindled for that simple faith on which our forefathers stood. We must emphasize the principles that are characteristic of our church, such as: The Word of God as the only guide to Christian faith; Practical application of New Testament teaching; Baptism on confession of faith; Scriptural church government; Separation of Church and State; Love of enemies and non-resistance; Non-swearing of oaths; Sanctity of marriage; Living the simple life.

If you wish to know what Mennonites believed about 200 years ago, read, "Mennonite Articles of Faith" by Cornelis Ris. Also a short synopsis of our rich inheritance is given in, "Words to Young Christians" by C. H. Wedel. However many will not even take time to read these short booklets and so we need to discuss this subjct at the various meetings of the church and its auxiliaries. Ask yourself how much you know about Mennonites?

Impressions of Bethel College with Suggestions

J. J. Friesen

While attending the 50th anniversary festival of Bethel College, someone suggested that I write a note to the "Mennonite", giving my impressions of the event. Then I said no to myself, but perhaps I may.

It was my happy fortune to attend the Golden Jubilee because it meant the delightful experience of the renewal of old friendships and the opportunity of meeting others whom one had not known before. After all, one of the kindliest gifts that life can offer any one, is the experience of friendship.

It was a happy occasion in another respect, it took us back to a place that is full of memories, and at a time when we could see the school and see it, after a lapse of a score of years, in motion. There has been much progress in outward things, increase in student body, and advancement in various ways.

The climax of the celebration was the Golden Anniversary Day. It was a day crowded with academic activities, forenoon, afternoon, and evening. Things were said in these meetings that should be made available to those who did not have the privilege to attend. There was a note of reminiscence in the air—reminiscent of the history of our school and our church. The pageant given in the evening lent special emphasis to this note. It was an object lesson in Mennonite history. There too was a note of eager anticipation, a questing and questioning look ahead.

One of the conspicuous events of the entire occasion was the return for participation of one of the sons of the community, Dr. Wedel. It may not be amiss to make mention of at least one statement that impressed me much; this, that we live in a welter of adjustments, which are "painful for the older ones and dangerous for the young," with the emphasis on "dangerous." And in that same connection his insistance on the "need of translating our traditions."

Another participant spoke of our "appreciative patriotism," the need of preserving those things in our church which are eminently fine. I was impressed by that conservative note. Whatever is worth conserving we can only conserve by simply conversing it. I refer especially to our peace principle which has found world recognition in latter years as never before. We face the danger that we may split, and split, and split, until we have lost what we are and what we have, and become merely a name in history.

Our prospect opens only if we succeed in consolidating our energies and forces, old and young, and diverse groups. In a world of rapidly changing values, we can preserve those values which our fathers deemed holy, and go forward in their spirit.

I must return to the campus for a second. It is a community of teachers, with an atmosphere its own. Their ideals are far removed from the vices of our national commonwealth, the vices of commercialism. An academician does not know the lure of lucre.—Teachers are of paramount importance. Theirs is the high calling of keeping alive, in a world of stolid materialism, the flame of intellectual culture. No academic body can be intent upon preparing its students for commercial pursuit if it wants to preserve its name unsullied. The greatest thing on earth is not the improvement of the purse, but the improvement of the heart and the improvement of the mind. The founders of Bethel College knew this, and the tradition of the school still bears the stamp of its founders.

May I not make a specific observation, with the hope that it will appear sensible enough to recommend itself as a matter for thought. Among the many fine things the school does I miss something. I refer to our unequalled opportunity to build up a Germanistic culture, the heart of which is the language. We have all the antecedents for an unsurpassed German department—the teaching personnel, library facilities, and a constituency which is still largely German in speech and habits. The German classroom should be crowded. There are unmatched opportunities for highly advanced work. No other school far and wide is in a position to make a name for itself by virtue of its high grade work in this department, as Bethel College is. It could turn out German scholars by the score and become eminent among colleges and universities by this rating alone.

Let us acquire the King's English and speak it better than the King, if possible, that is not our contention. We merely fail to grasp, just now, one of our greatest opportunities. I mention two very obvious advantages that would remain ours indefinitely with a much enlarged and developed German department.

The first is cultural. Academic pursuits are always primarily cultural. Language is a major element among the cultural offerings of the curriculum, because it is an instrument of thought. The German language is one of the two great languages of the world. Any one who wants to advance in any intellectual field must know German because Germany holds a high place in the world of letters, of science, of philosophy, and elsewhere. The student who can listen with an intelligent ear to German speech, sing with appreciation a German hymn, read and absorb a German book, and converse in that tongue without embarrassment, has a vast advantage over those who cannot. If the school succeeds in handing down this heritage of German speech, not to few but to large numbers of its students, especially those who come from German homes and who have much reason to be grateful for this circumstance, it has served them well.

The second advantage relates itself to our peaceless world. Perhaps there is nothing so much needed as understanding. A mind that understands all cannot become excited, merely because of that fact. This in itself is a contribution to world peace, national groups here serving as agents of mediation between this country and their respective homelands. Those of German heritage can, in loyalty to the land of their adoption and goodwill toward that of their forbears, serve as interpreters between the country from which they spring and ours. But there is much greater likelihood to understand the land of our forbears if we keep open the channel of immediate communication. Through loss of our language we lose that direct access to the German mind. And the lanes through which understanding is most effectively carried become only too easily blocked. The language—and this holds equally true of other national groups—may so become a very real instrument for peace and serve to accentuate in a very practical way our peace principle in a world torn with conflict. We can, through safeguarding our language, make a more effective contribution to world peace.

May Bethel College prosper and render large service the coming fifty years.

Life for Mothers and Children

In more than 2,000,000 American families, the birth of a child is the event of the year. It is of great concern that there should be a happy sequel in every possible case, but in over 150,000 of these the death of the mother or baby darkens the home with tragedy. The past twenty-two years have shown hardly any decline in the death rate of mothers and babies, and yet from one-half to two-thirds of these deaths could be prevented if modern medical care was available for every home. Those who have come face to face with this tragedy of unnecessary death have a great desire to wipe such a blot from our national life, but up to the present not enough people have taken the matter to heart.

The extent of inadequate care is shocking in an era of science like our own. Last year 237,000 mothers had to rely on the ministrations of untrained midwives, and many thousands had no care at all. Life and death often hang on the question of provision for adequate medical attention. Thousands of small children are left orphans each year because of unnecessary deaths of mothers.

Last year there were more than 78,000 stillbirths in the United States. A great proportion of these cases could have been prevented if the best modern medical treatment had been available to all mothers from the early part of pregnancy.

Sixty thousand babies are born with congenital syphilis in this country every year, their health undermined from the start. This number might be reduced by 90 per cent if blood tests were given by obstetricians or family doctors to all expectant mothers as a matter of routine, in order to discover the disease and start early treatment.

Moreover abortion takes a freightful toll. It is estimated by a leading medical authority at 681,000 cases annually, with 8,000 maternal deaths. All possible means of combatting or preventing this evil should be studied. The ideal of motherhood must be exalted and the necessity of improvement of conditions for family living must be emphasized.

About a third of the two million babies born in the United States in 1937 were in families on relief or having less than $750.00 a year. It is evident that under such conditions the families themselves cannot give necessary care to mothers and children at the time of birth, nor are they in a position to give suitable nurture afterwards. Thus the inner strength of national life is menaced by bad economic conditions. The Conference on Better Care for Mothers and Babies held in Washington, in January 1938 recommended that more help be given from federal funds to the states for better maternal care.

It is an indictment of our civilization and one which ought immediately to receive nationwide attention that the nation can spend annually more than a billion dollars for armaments, and the people use other billions for ostentation or for indulgence, but we cannot provide decent care for mothers in their supreme experience of bringing new lives into their families and into the world.

In this day of education there is need for a more intelligent approach to all questions pertaining to marriage and parenthood, not only with the view of saving the lives of mothers and babies, but also with the purpose of awakening a reverence for human beings and their family relationships.—Committee of Marriage and the Home, 297 Fourth Avenue, New York City.

Declaration of Peace

I. Introduction.

In a time of general unrest when our own country is engaged in discussions of war referendum, universal conscription, and increased appropriations for army and navy, we, the members of the Eighth Street Mennonite Church, Goshen, Indiana, feel a religious and patriotic responsibility to make clear our attitude on the issues of war and peace.

Mennonites have, through approximately four centuries, often at great cost, held to the ideal of nonresistance. In the early days of the Reformation they embraced the principle that love, and not compulsion, should rule all social relations.

II. Our Beliefs in regard to war:

We have a genuine respect for those who believe that armaments are a necessary adjunct to peace; but we can not share their convictions.

We believe,

(1) That war is wrong in principle, in that it resorts to violence for the settlement of disputes. It is, therefore, futile. History affords ample proof that a strong army and navy cannot insure peace, order, and security.

(2) That war is suicidal, because of its tremendous cost. It sacrifices the best of a nation's manhood and resources; it engages in ruthless destruction of property; and it heaps burdens of debt and taxation upon unborn generations.

(3) That most modern wars have been fought either for territorial expansion or for the defense of capital and investments on foreign soul, and not for the worthy ideals represented to youth and the nation. We believe the noblest patriotism finds expression in justice, neighborliness, and goodwill toward every nation and every race.

(4) That war is in conflict with all that is sacred to us in a religious faith built upon the blood of martyrs. For their faith the followers of Menno Simons suffered bitter persecution or gave up their lives.

(5) That war is unchristian. "Love your enemies, do good to them which curse you, and pray for them which despitefully use you," exhorted Christ. War schools men in hatred, suspicion, vengeance and murder, and prompts the most horrible crimes under the guise of a lofty idealism. War is directly opposed to the teachings and purposes of Christ.

III. Conclusion.

Because we believe government to be divinely instituted we uphold, and strive to practice, a faithful obedience to law. Furthermore, we love our native land and are not unmindful of the rich benefits she has granted us. In response, we gladly give her our service in worthy citizenship. Yet, because of the reasons we have stated we can not sanction war nor consciously lend our support to the conduct of war.

NOTE: The above declaration of peace was drawn up by a committee consisting of Miss Mary Hooley, Mr. Russell Hartzler, and Mrs. J. E. Weaver and was adopted by the Eighth Street Mennonite Church, of Goshen, Indiana. Copies were filed in the office of the Department of State and the President's office, during the month of September. With the thought that other Mennonite Churches may be interested, we offer this copy to "The Mennonite" for publication in November, if possible.—G. S. Stoneback.

—Pastoral Message: Goethe said that the future of a nation rests with its youth. So the future of a church rests with its Sunday School. For this reason the church and the Sunday School must work hand in hand. Next Sunday we invite our Sunday School to join us in the regular morning worship service. Sunday School members will assist in the choir and as ushers. The service shall be adapted to the occasion. Don't miss this interesting service.—E. W., Second Church, Philadelphia.

THE SIN OF COVETOUSNESS

Ex. 20:17; Luke 12:13-21; 1 Tim .6:6-10

Introduction

The Tenth Commandment is the most inward reaching of them all, forbidding, not an act, but the hidden mental state, thought which is the root of the unlawful desire for that which is another's. Out of disobedience to this command spring sins that break every law of the second Table of the Law. To covet, in its sinful sense, means to desire unlawfully or illegitimately.

Tenth Commandment Ex. 20:17

The desire to have for self that which belongs to another is sin, a hateful sin which easily leads to many an evil act. It is the parent of many breaches of neighborly duty. The one who yields to his covetous desire for his neighbor's goods, will readily break all God's commandments secretly and overtly.

Folly of Covetousness Luke 12:13-15

Jesus had been speaking of those who would freely confess Him before men and of the Father's loving care but one of the company was thinking only of his share of his father's property (v13). He felt sure his brother needed Jesus' teaching. He wanted to use Jesus for his own material benefit. Many today wish to use Christianity to further their own selfish, often covetous ends. Jesus pointedly declined to act as an arbiter. He came to give to us principles of action and living. He spoke a warning (v15), never more needed than today. He points out the great danger in covetousness which when analyzed includes a desire to gain by dispossessing others—setting the heart on the perishable—a lack of regard for God's will for us—an idolizing of the material—an underrating of the spiritual. The itching for more creeps so subtly and silently into our lives and easily ruins them. It destroys the finer qualities of character. Worldly possessions are not the chief thing in life, they are perishable values. Eternal values alone are never questionable.

Parable of a Rich Man vs 16-21

This man attained his wealth honestly. God blessed him with prosperity, but he did not recognize that fact. Many rich today follow his example. His prosperity brought on anxiety and care (v17). It is ever so. He did not consider the tables of the poor and needy where some of his surplus could have served noble ends. He thought only of himself. He had great plenty, even to overflowing granaries, yet was not satisfied. The degree of his selfish covetousness is shown in the repeated use of "I" and "my" (vs. 17-19). He had no thought of God, no sense of stewardship. He decides what he WILL do (vs. 18, 19), will store up, take his ease, even feed his soul for many years to come—so he presumed—on material things. He left God out of his reckoning. His soul had nothing laid up—only his body and that for but a few fleeting hours.

God told him what he MUST do (v20). God calls him a fool, for he presumed on many years of life. He assumed that material goods will satisfy the soul, that ease and pleasure of sense would put the soul at ease. Lasting riches are to those only who are rich toward God. Man emphasizes prosperity and security; God, holiness and righteousness. Jesus gives this parable to show that God condemns all selfish and covetous reaction to success and use of property. The godly man is rich, he has acquired eternal values and is content with what God has given him (1 Tim. 6:6-10). He has laid up heavenly treasures. The consecrated man does not set his heart on riches. He is careful about his stewardship. The covetous heart cares only for the material and perishable.

ASSURANCE

Dinny Malone, sea captain, six feet tall and straight as a pine even at eighty, sat reading his Bible when the new minister came to call. He looked up and said, "Pastor, I'm trying to find God."

"Well," said the minister, "I guess you'll find Him in that Book."

"But I haven't," said Dinny Malone simply. "I've been trying for six years to get Him to forgive my sins . . . and He won't."

The minister looked at the huge old man keenly. "Have you repented?" Dinny nodded solemnly. "Have you trusted God?" "Yes," said Dinnny. "Then you must have found Him!"

Dinny shook his head. "I never feel it in my heart—the forgiveness," he said. "How can I know that God forgives my sins?"

The minister took the Bible from Dinny's fingers. He turned to a passage. "Read it!"

Dinny read, slowly spelling out the words, "If we confess our sins, he is faithful and just to forgive us."

"Dinny," said the minister "when you give your word, do you keep it?"

"Sure I do!" roared Dinny. "Don't a gentleman always?"

The minister leaned toward him. "Dinny, don't you think God is a gentleman?"

A light that never was on land or sea shone on Dinny's face. "What a fool I've been! I see it now. He does forgive me. And now I feel it!"—Publisher Unknown.

Assurance of hope is more than life. It is health, strength, power, vigor, activity, manliness, beauty.

STATEMENTS MADE AT THE STEWARDSHIP CONVENTION IN CHICAGO, Nov. 1-3, 1938

"The goods of the earth belong to all men of the earth."

"If one has more than he needs to sustain his needs, he has a positive obligation to share."

"If people are to help us, we must help them."

"Giving is an act of friendship. A giver has fallen in love with somebody."

"If you don't want anything done then appoint a committee."

"Instead of doing favors to men, ask favors of them."

"Living grace in stewardship is more important than dying grace of philanthropy."

"The faster you go in the wrong direction, the slower you progress."

"Tall smokestacks do not make men love God more."

"Love, truth, beauty, communion with God are things money cannot buy."

"We are created to live and we live by the spirit."

"Who is the atheist? He who is cruel to man. He will be judged by the test of conduct and deeds."

"God does not wish goose-stepping goodness."

"It is the dollars I have that keep me anxious. Money is a cancer."

"Giving is the one pleasure that never wears out."

"Democracy sees the individual as he may become."

"Any money not consecrated always dies."

J. M. Regier

—BETHEL COLLEGE, NORTH NEWTON, KANSAS.—Favored with good weather the annual corporation meeting the day after Thanksgiving was largely attended. And of some 6000 votes held by members of the organization over 4000 were cast. In a book of about 90 pages the various reports were presented in mimeographed form, and showed that the school is functioning very satisfactorily. As directors on the College Board, Rev. Sam. J. Goering was made a new member and Mr. H. E. Suderman, a banker, chosen to succeed himself. The meeting gave permission to raise the walls of Memorial Hall and cap them with the permanent roof, leaving the inside temporarily unfinished, until funds for this are in sight rather than to put a temporary roof on the basement. But work is to be continued only as far as available funds permit.—More later.

THE BEGINNING OF THE ALSEN (N. D.) BIBLE SCHOOL

At a prayer meeting held this spring, a Bible school was mentioned. A number of young people wished to attend Bible school, but they could not attend outside schools on account of expenses. Many thoughts and prayers were given, and we now can thank God for His wonderful ways.

At the Northern District Conference, Rev. Ortman and Rev. Duerkson, from Munich and Alsen, met Rev. J. B. Epp of Beatrice, Nebr. They talked about a Bible School in our community. Rev. Epp was invited to visit us in July, in the interest of such a school. He came here for a week, and then was asked to return and help in arranging such a school. A committee was elected, with two members from the four churches: Alsen, Rose Hill, Munich and Bethel, who together with the ministers should arrange for such a school. Programs were given in the churches and free-will offerings received.

A vacant bank building in Alsen was rented. This has one large room for a classroom and two smaller ones, where Rev. Epp and family were to stay. A number of things were provided; and each student is to bring his own chair, which is being fixed up for a comfortable school chair. Tuition is to be $10.00 for 5 months.

School started on Oct. 31, and it is to close on the 24 of March. On October 20, Rev. Epp with wife and daughter arrived in Alsen. Then on Oct. 30th the school was opened with a program. Rev. Epp and Rev. N. N. Hiebert spoke in the interest of the school. For everything we thank our Lord!

The school opened with 20 students on the first day. Since then several more have come, and more are expected. Six high school students are attending, one hour a day. We hope that more of these will come, too. Besides, arrangements are being made for part-time students from the nearby churches. Several have begun this work, and we are looking for many more.

Rev. Duerksen and Miss Helen Epp (a graduate of Moody's) are to assist in some of the classes, if necessary.

Our aim is, to learn more of His Holy Word, and then to work for the Lord.

Once more: We invite still others, in this vicinity especially, to come to our school. One student is here from northwest Minnesota.

Wynona Dick (a student) Corr.

P. S. We write this, not as a report only, but for the purpose that other churches or groups of churches, might also arrange such Bible schools for those who cannot attend the larger Bible schools far away. In Canada there are quite a number already, and we read of new ones every year.

CORRESPONDENCE

REEDLEY, CALIFORNIA, CHURCH

The Young People of Reedley Church are planning again for the Reunion of Young People to be held at 7 o'clock Sunday evening, December 25th. Last year this home-coming fellowship supper proved a very real success. So much so that it was moved to make it an annual affair. It means much to the church—it means much to the pastor—it means much to those who attend. It helps to make Christmas a "Merry" Christmas. (Last year, 120 attended.) This is really a Reedley Mennonite Alumni affair.

The Choirs of the Reedley churches are giving the Cantata "The Coming of the King" during the Christmas holidays.

The new pipe organ in our church is something for which we are deeply grateful at this Thanksgiving season as it adds so much to the spirit of worship, the quality of music, and awakens the sensative regions of the soul.

October 30th was the day of the All-Church dinner at the church. The fellowship was enjoyed and valuable. After a brief program the budget for the coming year was solicited.—Correspondent.

GRACE MENN. CHURCH, PANDORA, O.

The annual mission sale was held Saturday, Nov. 19th, at the school building. Baked goods, handwork and bedding were donated and sold. One hundred fifty-six dollars was the amount received for missions by this sale.

On Nov. 9th, 107 men of the church met for the November meeting of the Men's Brotherhood. Among the guests introduced to the men was the recently elected President of Bluffton College, Dr. Lloyd L. Ramseyer; Supt. of Schools, Charles Grothaus; Rev. Elmer Basinger, Summerfield, Ill., Rev. G. T. Soldner, Bluffton College, and Rev. George Dick of the Lima Mennonite Church. The evening was spent in singing and listening to an address by Dr. W. E. Bradley of Findlay, on the subject, "Who Are You?"

125 women and girls of the church met in the basement of the church, Nov. 4th, for their annual dinner. The tables were simply but beautifully decorated with candles and flowers. After the dinner they listened to a program of music and two addresses given by Mrs. Ernest Miller and her daughter, Thelma. The Millers are missionaries on furlough. Thelma, a high school student, spoke very interestingly of the life and customs of the people of India, from the view point of a high school girl. Mrs. Miller followed with an illuminating address on the needs of the women of India.

Four contestants participated in the annual Prince of Peace contest held Nov. 6th. Alice Jean Steiner won first place with the medal and will represent the church in the county silver medal contest in December.

The church recently collected and sent 310 pounds of good used clothing and new bedding to the western Canadian Mennonites.—Correspondent.

FIRST MENN. CHURCH, BEATRICE, NEBR.

Dear Editor and Readers of the Mennonite:

It was our privilege some time ago to have Rev. and Mrs. Henry Ramseyer in our midst. They travel in the interest of the "Northern Bible Society." Their purpose is to try and spread the Bible, "The Holy Word," a copy in every home. On the other hand they visit churches and private homes to solicit aid so that they can continue with their work.

Rev. H. Fast of Janzen, Nebr., served our church in the English language a few times, but he has now moved to Canada where he is teaching a Bible school and is in charge of a congregation.

Just a few days ago we were favored with a program from a group representing Bethel College. The group had been in Minnesota, and on their way home rendered a musical program. It was a very nice program and the first time for a good many of the listeners to hear a harp played.

Last Sunday, Rev. M. Horsch reported on his visit to the mission field in Arizona and Montana. He commented on the success that is derived from such work when the work is done in spirit and truth.

In our community we have had pretty general rain and we can not thank God enough for this moisture, because in places the winter wheat was suffering. The corn crop varies, but in most places they have a small yield and some even pretty fair.—W. R. Penner, Corr.

MENNONITE CHURCH, MEDFORD, OKLA.

11-23-38

On Nov. 13 we had our annual Sunday School election of officers and teachers.—On Nov. 17 Rev. Al. G. Schmidt, Cordell, Okla., who was recently called as Pastor and Leader by this church, arrived with family and personal belongings to live in our midst. We heartily welcome them. We are thankful to our Lord and Master for his leading. Trust and pray that through Rev. and Mrs. Schmidt's efforts and help from Pastor Emeritus John Lichti, we may all grow spiritually and be a blessing for our community.

On Nov. 17 at night, we had the privilege of hearing Rev. Walt. Dyck, Burrton, Kans., a member of the Peace Committee in a very interesting and instructive talk on Peace. Rev. Dyck is a fascinating speaker. We hope and trust that through his messages many a soul may get straight and decisive on the non-resistance question. On Nov. 24, in the evening, the Ladies aid have their annual Mission Sale.—Pete Neufeld.

Bound in the Spirit

by Rev. H. N. Harder, Pastor of the Grace Mennonite Church, Enid, Oklahoma

"Behold I go bound in the Spirit unto Jerusalem" Acts 20:22.

"Bound in the Spirit!" A very peculiar and unique expression. What did Paul have in mind when he said this to the elders of the church of Ephesus at Miletus? We know that Paul's hands were bound because of the Gospel of Jesus Christ. Paul was also bound in the Spirit with an invisible chain, an inner urge to go to Jerusalem to see and strengthen the brethren.

God's servants have at all times been prompted by the Holy Spirit to do what God would have them do. Men of God were moved by the Spirit to good works, to love and to walk uprightly. Moses chose rather to suffer affliction with the people of God than to enjoy the pleasures of sin for a season. Joseph on one occasion said: "How can I do this wickedness, and sin against God?"

Today the church of God is promoted and built by such who are bound in the Spirit and moved by an inner urge to follow His leadings and commends and fearlessly to stand up for what they feel is a God given conviction. Martin Luther, bound in the Spirit, addressed the imperial Diet at Worms in these words: "Here I stand. As God is my help, I can not otherwise." God still looks upon us as He did of old asking: "Whom shall I send and who will go for Me?" God's plan and work only too often remains unaccomplished until someone will say: "Here am I send me! the love of Christ constrains me. I am bound in the Spirit, to do thy will, O God."—Amen!

THE REAL HERO

Let others write of battles fought,
  Of bloody, ghastly fields,
Where honor greets the man who wins,
  And death the man who yields;
But I write of him who fights
  And vanquishes his sin,
Who struggles on through weary years
  Against himself—and wins!

Young People's Missionary Union Reports Active Year

The Missionary Union, an organization of young people, is an outgrowth of our annual Union meetings held here last February. By far the largest per cent of members are Mennonites. They meet twice a month at which time reports by the various committees that had been appointed are given, and often a special speaker interested in missionary work is secured to give an address.

Every Saturday afternoon some of the members go to our neighboring towns and cities to give out tracts and sometimes hold street meetings. In the evening they furnish the program for the Fort Wayne Gospel Mission.

Twice a month they sing and speak at a little struggling Mexican church, located a few miles from Berne. The last Sunday of every month they go to the Soldiers' Home in Marion, Indiana, to give a program. The Wells County and Adams County infirmaries are also on their schedule as well as singing for our sick in the community. Offerings are taken at their regular meetings, which is used to buy tracts, pay for transportation and also for missions.

This organization is stimulating missionary interest and is giving our young people an avenue of worthwhile service for Christ.—Reported by Frieda Lehman.

Why Have A Conscience About Liquor

"Grace, Grace, God's Grace," "Come to the Fountain"

This topic continues the one in the preceding issue dealing with the liquor traffic and its effects. It has been glibly stated by a wit that the most dangerous type of liquor traffic is the traffic of liquor down man's esophagus. Be that as it may, we all do agree that the movement of liquor and the profits of the big liquor manufacturers would stop as soon as enough people develop a *conscience again*st its use!

Regenerated Christians have a definite commission to work for the development of such a mass conscience. In a sense this may be social gospel. In a truer sense it is a personal gospel—the gospel of Christ to save the souls of sinful men! Christ said that He is the bread of life. Christ said that He is the water of life. Christ said that He is the living water and if we drink thereof we shall never thirst.

It is true, of course, that in the battle against sin, particularly the evil of strong drink, that Christians are fighting against heavy odds. It is true that for the moment it seems that the battle is going against us. The eighteenth amendment has been repealed. But let us not give up the gauntlet. The failure of that amendment only goes to show that the effective groundwork—a Christian conscience against liquor—was missing in the former scheme of things.

Let us remember that sinful man can repeal the eighteenth amendment, but he can not repeal the ten commandments. Man made laws can be repealed, the laws of God can not! Therefore let us rally to the cause, let us develop a Christian conscience against liquor for liquor deals out death, Prov. 20:1; its rackets lead to ruin, Prov. 1:10-19; it is an enemy of Christ, Phil. 3:17; it causes poverty, Prov. 21:17; it ruins souls, 1 Cor. 6:10.

How a Christian Conscience Works:

"When Mr. W. J. Bryan, the renowned American statesman, was visiting Japan he attended a banquet to a Japanese admiral and an embarrassing situation arose. The time came to drink a toast. Those present lifted their champagne glasses and there was a gasp when Mr. Bryan raised a glass of water. Some one grasped his arm and whispered that such a toast would be considered an insult. The great commoner was equal to the situation. 'You have won victories on water' he said, turning to the admiral, 'and I will drink your health in water; whenever you win on champagne, I shall drink your health in champagne.' " Christian Herald.

Christmas Carols

Intermediate C. E. Topic, December 18, 1938

For Daily Reading

Dec. 12. "Silent Night"—Luke 2:8-14
Dec. 13. "O Little Town"—Matt. 2:1-6
Dec. 14. "Joy to the World"—Luke 2:10, 11.
Dec. 15. "Hark, the Herald Angels"—Lk. 2:13, 14.
Dec. 16. "It Came Upon the Midnight"—Luke 2:15-20
Dec. 17. "Noel!"—Matt. 2:1-11
Dec. 18. Topic—An Evening of Christmas Carols. Isa. 9:2-7

Making the Meeting Different

Make this an evening of Christmas carols. They have come to us from many countries. It will add interest to the carols to present something of the Christmas customs of the country from which they came. Let this be presented by Intermediates dressed in the costumes of these countries, and then ask the society to join in the singing of the carol. Be sure to have copies of the words for all to take part in the singing.

If possible have a lighted Christmas tree or other decorations that will give a festive atmosphere. The meeting should be carried out by candle light or Christmas tree lights.

Preprayer Circle

Read Zechariah 9:9 and call attention to the many reasons we have for singing and rejoicing at this time. Pray that the spirit of the carols might be carried away in the hearts of those who come.

A Suggested Plan for your Meeting

1. Instrumental medley of Christmas carols—"Joy to the World." Follow this with opening prayer and society announcements.

2. Scripture reading—Isa. 9:2-7.

What the leader might say—Christmas is a time of singing. We cannot imagine Christmas without it. We sing in our homes, schools, streets, and churches. Tell how the "good news" was first given to men in song, Luke 2:1-14. Good news always makes men sing. Tell why the coming of Jesus into the world is the greatest "good news" that has ever reached mankind.

Christians have always been moved to sing of the joy that Christmas puts into their hearts. Out of this singing the Christmas carols have come down to us, not from one country but from many countries. Tonight in our imagination we will travel to some of these lands to see how they observe Christmas and sing their Christmas carols. (Let the characters of the different countries enter from behind a screen or platform).

3. GERMANY. (Costume: cross stitch dress, with full skirt and sleeves, apron) "Germany has given the Christmas tree to the world. The oldest Christmas tree seems to have stood at Strassburg in 1605. On it were paper roses, apples, confections and tinsel. The first lights were used in 1757. The use of the Christmas tree did not spread much to other lands until about 80 years ago. The children in Germany love to gather about the Christmas tree and sing carols. One of their favorites is "O Tannenbaum," (or Silent Night). Piano plays immediately and the song is sung with the character in costume leading.

4. HOLLAND. (Costume: blue dress, white kerchief and dutch cap. Carries a pair of wooden shoes filled with hay and carrots). "In Holland children put their wooden shoes out to receive their presents. In them they put hay and carrots to feed the horse of St. Nicholas. If they have been good he leaves presents and candy. If not they receive switches. From Holland comes the Christmas lullaby, "Sleep, Jesu, Sleep." The Brahms lullaby can be substituted.

5. FRANCE. (Girl dressed in fluffy green dress) The French people love to sing Christmas Carols. They call them NOELS. Noel means Christmas day in France and it is also used as a greeting. When people meet on Christmas day they call "Noel! Noel!" to each other. We will sing "The First Noel."

6. NORWAY. (Boy dressed for cold weather, carrying a very small tree decorated with cranberries, popcorn and other dainties) In Norway children are especially kind to birds at Christmas time. They trim Christmas trees with things that birds like and place them outside, where the birds can find them. Their kindness to the birds is suggested by the love of the heavenly Father who sent his Son into the world. Sing: "From Heaven Above."

7. ENGLAND. (Red capes, hoods and lanterns) The Yule Log of the English people was originally dedicated to the sun as the light of the world. When they became Christians the church did not forbid the custom, but allowed it to be transformed into a Christmas custom. The log was kindled in honor of the birthday of the Light of the World. Christmas carols are sung by groups of children, dressed in red capes and hoods, carrying lanterns. A window lighted with a candle means that the people would like to hear the carolers sing. From England have come many lovely Christmas carols. Sing "While Shepherds Watched Their Flocks" or 'Hark, the Herald Angels Sing."

8. PHILIPPINE ISLANDS (Bright colored scarfs. If the Intermediates have been asked to bring any kind of gifts these might be placed under the Christmas tree during the singing of this song.) "In the Philippine Islands we have an impressive Christmas custom. Just before midnight on Christmas Eve the people form a long procession and march to the Cathedral singing Christmas carols. After they are in the Cathedral and the clock strikes twelve, they all kneel in prayer. "O Come All Ye Faithful" is one of their most used carols. (Arrange ending).

CLOSING. Have a few moments of silent prayer, kneeling if possible, followed by one stanza of "More Love to Thee, O Christ" and the benediction.

JUNIOR CORNER

"GLAD HOSANNA! BLESSED BE THE KING THAT COMES."

Leaders Christmas Prayer:

Thou, who in the fulness of time didst send Thy Son to be the Savior of the world and didst lead us unto Him by the way of the Cross, make our spirits to rejoice in Thy salvation as we near again the wonder of the manger bed; let our souls be quickened with the pulse of divine love and let us find the joy and gladness of the humble shepherds' heart, that we may return "glorifying and praising Thee for all that we have seen and heard," speaking forth the wondrous story of a Savior's birth.

Suggestions for December 18, 1938

There are always those in our midst who look to the coming of Christmas with a sense of sadness and fear, lest the day come and in their hand is no gift to gladden the heart of the little ones. Perhaps you could find such a family and bring Christmas joy to it, not only through gifts but also through the story of the Savior's birth.

Instead of the regular evening meeting, you could arrange for an afternoon gathering making sure, before hand, that the family you have chosen to visit is at home.

You could gather in the basement of the church to decorate a tiny tree to which fund the juniors have been asked to bring a penny each. The decorations, too, should be the contribution of the children, each bringing one small piece. The leader's part is to provide a large bright stocking made of red or green mosquito netting. Into this goes all that the children have brought of personal articles, play things, groceries for the family. Let each child drop its wrapped gift into the stocking. Even a can of corn can be made to look festive in a gown of white and a sash of red. Each package wrapped, the stocking will look happy and especially so if, when filled, it is tied with a big bow of a contrasting netting.

When all is ready, let each head be bowed and God's blessing asked upon the visit and the gifts. The following program could be given at the home:

1. Joy to the World, verse 1 and 3 sung outside of the home.

2. After setting up the tree and putting down the gifts, sing "Silent Night, Holy Night" asking the members of the family to join in the singing.

3. The Christmas story, Luke 2:1-20, read by a junior, using the Bible.

4. Leader's prayer

5. Recitation by a junior, giving verse 1 and 2 of "O Little Town of Bethlehem"

6. Group and family sing verse 3 and 4 of "O Little Town of Bethlehem."

HAVE PROTESTANTS FORGOTTEN HOW TO PROTEST

Dr. Wm. S. Abernethy

One Sunday afternoon a football game was played in Washington between a picked team of local high school boys and a team brought to the Capital City from Georgia. The proceeds were to go to the school children's lunch fund, a very worthy object. The game was sponsored by one of Washington's newspapers working in conjunction with the manager of a large motion picture house. A group of ministers called on Dr. F. W. Ballou, Supt. of Schools, to ask why Sunday afternoon should be chosen for the playing of this high school game. They were told that inasmuch as it was not a regular high school team, but made up of individuals chosen from the several high and prep schools of the city, that the school board could do nothing about it.

The ministers then went to the manager of the movie house and put the same question to him. "Why is this game to be played on Sunday?" He insisted that the object was most worthy, to which we agreed. He began to quote Scripture: "Which of you shall have an ass or an ox fall into a pit and will not straightway draw him up on a Sabbath day." "Yes, Mr. Manager," we said, "but would you call this a work of necessity?" "Why couldn't you play this game on Saturday afternoon?" "Well we tried to, but the managers of the moving picture houses objected!" "So you thought you would play it Sunday, feeling quite sure the churches would offer no objection. Well here we are to protest in the name of the churches against this use of the Lord's day."

The fact of the matter is, they think we do not care. We have kept quiet so long that they think we will raise no objection. In other words they think we don't count. In the name of God and high heaven I protest against the wholesale profanation of sacred institutions, that is going on so commonly. I protest against another practice. I protest against the way Christian people are aiding and abetting in the destruction of the Lord's day. The dinners for invited guests that are being given Sunday evenings, the receptions, the social affairs, and so many of these in Christian homes.

Sunday afternoon concerts are now well established and largely supported by church people. Do many of those who go to a Sunday afternoon concert support the Sunday night church service? Not very many. The fact of the matter is the Christian Sabbath is being steadily dragged down to the level of the other six days, and church people are cooperating in the work of demolition. Is it strange that non-church profaners of the sacred day should have arrived at the point where they think we do not care?

The Lord's Day is in danger! Do we want it to go? Can we afford to lose it? Two things are vitally necessary if we are to preserve it. Let Christian people themselves show some regard for it. Not in a puritanical observance of the day, not in a slavish adherence to the letter of the law but making it a day different from the rest of the week, a day dedicated to the worship and service of God. And then this in addition. We have not made ourselves vocal. We have a right to protest and with vehemence. A barrage of letters from church boards and individuals against the flagrant abuses and insults that are being offered us these days will have weight. Have we Protestants forgotten how to protest?—"Progress."

CORRESPONDENCE

Reedley, California, November 14, 1938

The California S. S. and C. E. Conference, with the help of Washington, Idaho, and Oregon, have just completed a very interesting and vital project. This is a Missionary project which we feel has heightened, enlarged the horizons of, and made more personal the Missionary interest of Conference members.

Last spring we accepted the responsibility of making up the cost ($700.00) of sending Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Jantzen of Los Angeles to the Foreign Fields of India as our representatives in the Kingdom of God there. Mr. Jantzen is a past president of the California Conference and for several years Retreat Chairman. This project seemed large and very definitely needed faith, plus action to realize its end. At our State Conference Executive Committee meeting November 11th, it was our pleasure to report $700.50—which means that we have met our goal and expect some additional funds which have been promised.

There is a certain happy satisfaction and a deep personal interest in having "Representatives of our States in the Kingdom of God in India."—Helen M. Fast, Missionary Superintendent.

Praise God for the faith, determination, and missionary spirit of our young people. Who is next with a duplicate of so successful a project like this, and in so short a time?—Editor.

MENN. CHURCH, FORTUNA, MO., 11-21-38

On Sunday evening, Nov. 6, we had with us the male quartet from Bethel College, also Willis Rich and missionary Samuel J. Goering. The quartet sang several numbers and both Brother Goering and Rich brought us short messages. The entire program was enjoyed very much.

On Tuesday evening, Nov. 8, we began a series of revival meetings with Brother Walter Gering of Moundridge, Kansas, as speaker. We received many blessings through these meetings. We are grateful to God for sending to us this man of God and pray God's blessing upon him and the people of the Eden Church, with Ps. 103:2, "Bless the Lord, O my soul, and forget not all his benefits."—Mrs. Jacob Unruh, Corr.

DEATHS

HARRY G. LUGIBIHL, of the Ebenezer Church, Bluffton, Ohio, passed away on Sept. 18, at the age of 53 years. He had served our church approximately twenty years as choir director, also as trustee and treasurer for a number of years. His wife Metta (Moser) preceeded him in death three years ago on the day. His passing left three orphaned children, Susanna, MaDonna, and John. Funeral services in charge of Eli Steiner, Bluffton; funeral proper in charge of our pastor, assisted by a cousin of the deceased, Rev. Walter Lugibihl of Peoria, Ill. How we miss him!

DAVID S. SPALLINGER died at his home near Bluffton, Ohio. Age 79 years. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. P. A. Kliewer, assisted by Rev. John Tosh. Burial in the Ebenezer Cemetery. Surviving are his wife, Anna King Spallinger; four sons, Chauncey, Homer, Hiram and Richard; three daughters, Mrs. Naomi Burkholder, Mrs. Sylvia Basinger and Mrs. Walter Haas; also one half brother, Amos Garmatter, of Bluffton. His cross was hard and heavy.

PAUL WIDMER, born September 12, 1897, died at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. U. Widmer, Upland, California, November 5, 1938. Funeral services were held at the Stone Mortuary Parlors, Wednesday, November 9, at 11 A. M. Rev. Lester Hostetler, the pastor, officiating. Interment was made at Bellevue Cemetery, Ontario.

JACOB HORSCH, born March 6, 1862, in Germany, died at his home in Cucamonga, California, following some months of illness, November 6, 1938. Surviving are his life companion, Elizabeth Lichti Horsch; four children: Rudolph Horsch of Ontario, Calif.; Emil and John Horsch of Upland; and Henry Horsch of Yates Center, Kansas. He also leaves one brother, the Rev. M. M. Horsch, Beatrice, Neb., and two sisters, Mrs. John Landes of Upland, and Mrs. H. J. Kliewer of Newton, Kansas. Funeral services were held at the First Mennonite Church, November 9, 2 P.M. conducted by the pastor, Rev. Lester Hostetler. Interment at Bellevue Cemetry, Ontario.

A WORD OF APPRECIATION

The editor thoroughly appreciates and heartily thanks his many helpers who supply him so liberally with different kinds of contributions for THE MENNONITE, particularly also for the "Jottings." Card messages of this kind, with brief news items that interest readers not only locally but throughout the Conference are always welcome.

—The Quakertown, Pa., Ministerial Association has sponsored the formation of a Union Choral Society for the rendition of the Messiah, early in December.—During the summer months, the choir leaders from the different churches in the town and community got together and secured Mr. J. Edward Moyer, Perkasie, Pa., a former Bluffton College student, now directing many choirs and a student in the famous Westminster Choir School, Princeton, New Jersey, as Director.—Weekly rehearsals began early in September. Now a choir of 120 voices, made up of singers from the churches in this community, is expecting to render the concerts in the High School Auditorium, Sunday afternoon, Dec. 4th and on Wednesday evening, Dec. 7th.—On Thanksgiving morning, in connection with the Union Thanksgiving Service, the Union Choir will render the chorus: "But Thanks Be Unto God" from the Messiah.—Rev. A. J. Neuenschwander is president of the Ministerial Association and active sponsor of the Union Choral Society.

—The Eastern District Brotherhood has elected the following officers: Pres. Walter Temple; Vice Pres., W. H. Mohr; Sec., Ely Fretz; Treas., H. M. Detwiller. The organization will again contribute $250.00 to John Boehr's student expenses at Bluffton College. Hon. Maxwell Kratz addressed the 200 men present upon the subject, "Our Task as a Brotherhood."

—Hereford Mennonite Church, Bally, Pa., 11-20-38. —"Last Sunday (Nov. 20) the children in the Primary Department brought apples and oranges as a Thanksgiving offering to be presented to the Old Folks' Home at Frederick. More than 2 bushels of apples and eleven and a half dozen oranges were taken to the Home. They were gratefully received there and all donors are thanked for their gifts."—Mae Latshaw.

—Bowmansville, Pa.—On Nov. 6 we had the pleasure of having a community gathering in our church. A very entertaining program was rendered by "The Sunshine Gospel Singers" of our community, and a short message by our pastor, R. V. Stubbs. The church was filled to its capacity. All the churches from the village and the nearby neighborhood were well represented. Praising the Lord in this neighborly way brought joy to all. Sincerely yours, Correspondent.

— FREEMAN COLLEGE SPONSORS HANDEL'S MESSIAH IN THE COLLEGE AUDITORIUM— AND BY REMOTE CONTROL OVER WNAX, YANKTON, S. D. ON SUNDAY, DEC. 4, 3:30 TO 4:30 P. M.—A chorus of 112, accompanied by an orchestra and two pianists, directed by the college's music instructor, Prof. Gerhard Toews, will render this wonderful oratoria. The soloists are: Mrs. M. J. Wollman, soprano; Mrs. Otto Schrag, alto; Mr. W. A. Erickson, tenor; Mr. Willard Waltner, bass. The pianists: Mrs. Oscar Gering and Violet Miller.

— The Eastern Conference Brotherhood made an agreement with the President and Faculty of Bluffton College, to provide, during the current year, ten treatises, five on Bluffton Needs and five on Mennonite teaching: Separation of Church and State, Baptism, Simple Life, Foreswearing of Oaths, Principle of Non-Resistance. The first and last of these have been reprinted in the Mennonite.

— Mrs. Frieda Regier-Entz of Newton, Kans, treasurer of the Women's Missionary Societies of the General Conference, was a visitor at the mission and attended services at the three stations on Oct. 16.

— Rev. P. A. Wedel, pastor of the Mennonite Church at Aberdeen, Ida., spent November 12-17 with the congregation at Madrid, Nebraska. While there he conducted the installation of Rev. J. Sawatzky as minister of the church, received the new pastor, his wife and children into its membership, was the main speaker at a mission and thanksgiving festival, and held evangelistic meetings.

— The American Bible Society of New York, N. Y. is asking the Christian people and churches of our land to observe Sunday, December 11, as Universal Bible Sunday. This God-sent Bible House has just completed the 1000th translation of the Bible, either whole or in part, into so many languages and dialects. In 1937 Bible Societies distributed over 23,000,000 Bibles or parts of it.

— "Study to show thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the Word of Truth." 2 Timothy 2:15. That is Adult Education for the Kingdom of God. Better equipped workers are needed. Conquering Christians are needed. Happy Children of God are needed. Believing Church members are needed. The Word of God is bread, light, water, meat, milk, honey, a sword, a hammer, a fire. What do you propose for the Salem Church to make it a Bible-Studying, Christ-centered institution. The troubles of the world call for a Church wholly given over to the Gospel. In no other way can we fulfil our high calling and meet a sick world's needs.—P. R. Schroeder.

Married on November 16, 1938.—Rudolf Horsch, Jr., Aberdeen, with Caroline Hofmeister, American Falls, by Rev. P. A. Wedel, in First Mennonite Church of Aberdeen Idaho.

— BAZAR AND FOOD SALE AT WICHITA, KANS. CHURCH.—Kindly announce that a Bazar and Food Sale is to be held by the Ladies of the Lorraine Avenue Mennonite Church at Wichita, on the 3rd of December at the Richards Paint and Paper Shop, 143 North Market St. The proceeds are to go into the New Church Building Fund.—Mrs. R. K.

— Rev. A. S. Rosenberger, up until recently of Bluffton College, is reported to have accepted a call to the pastorate of the Salem Mennonite Church at Dalton, Ohio.—This is a good choice and we wish the new pastor and the church God's richest blessings.— Editor.

— In Kansas three of our churches are looking for a new pastor: The Johannestal Church near Hillsboro; the Gnadenberg Church, near Whitewater, and the Mennonite Church at Buhler, Kansas.

— Extract from a letter by Wilhelmina Kuyf:—"The times are not normal, but we do as much as we can, and so far have not been much restricted by the powers that be. So many Christians have experienced such special protection, and have escaped so many things that non-Christians have had to go through, that folks will listen to the Gospel with more attention than in times past. They have seen that 'it is a great God with whom we have to do'. Keep up the work of intercession for the work and workers here. How about getting your class secretaries to write me a letter asking me the things about China or our work, that you would like to know. Tell me, too, about what you are doing."—Bulletin, First Church, Philadelphia.

Advent

Again we are in the Advent season, looking forward to Christmas, the anniversary of the coming of our Savior Jesus Christ. In the old world they make a good deal more of this event than we do here. For four weeks before Christmas the sermons, the singing and music in the churches, all herald the great event more or less. It is a beautiful custom which we here would do well to emulate more generally. There are really three ADVENTS, three comings of Christ: His coming nearly 2000 years ago which God had foretold by so many of His faithful ones, for example Zech. 9:9, "Rejoice greatly, O daughter of Zion; shout, O Jerusalem, behold, thy King cometh unto thee: he is just and has salvation." Even Job hundreds of years in advance, with eyes of faith scanning the future, says, "I know that my redeemer liveth and that he shall stand at the latter day upon the earth." Job 19:25.—Then there is His second coming as Lord and Judge of the world, "Behold, the Lord cometh with ten thousand of his saints. To execute judgment upon all . . . " Jude 14. "Behold he cometh with clouds; and every eye shall see him, and they also which pierced him." Rev. 1:7.—Thirdly, there is His coming into our hearts. "Behold, I stand at the door, and knock: if any man hear my voice, and open the door, I will come in to him, and will sup with him, and he with me." Rev. 3:20. Christ's first coming is all-important, so will his second coming be. For us, as individuals, however, the most important is His coming into our own lives. If we don't open our hearts to his wooing and let him find an abode there, his first and his last coming will avail us little. Upon the acceptance or non-acceptance of Christ as our own personal Savior depends our own eternal weal or woe.—A saintly man has wisely said, "No man rightly desires Christ's coming but he that has assurance of benefit at His coming. To him the day of Christ's coming is as the day of deliverance to the prisoner; as the day of coronation to the king; the day of wedlock to the bride; a day of triumph and exultation, a day of freedom and consolation, a day of rest and satisfaction. To him the Lord is all sweetness, as wine to the palate . . . says Solomon; honey to the mouth, says St. Bernard; music to the ear, and a jubilee in the heart."—Grosse.

Different Conception of Salvation

DO Most people believe in some kind of a life after death, but are mistaken as to how to obtain this ETERNAL LIFE. They believe they must DO certain things. The heathen lie on "boards of spikes" to please their gods. Even in civilized lands, people want to DO things to be saved. They are moral, benevolent, etc., and so hope to earn their salvation.

DON'T Another group wants to get salvation by DON'TS—Don't lie, don't steal, don't swear, don't break the Sabbath. But MAN AT HIS BEST comes short of God's Divine Measure—"Be ye therefore perfect." Man hath whereof to glory but not before God.

DONE Another group believes—We can't save ourselves by things we DO. We can't save ourselves by the things we DON'T do. The only way we can be saved is by accepting the thing that Jesus has DONE for us on the cross. Grace points us to the cross where Christ hath redeemed us from the curse of the law—benig made a curse for us (Gal. 3:13), where CHRIST died for our sins according to the Scriptures (1 Cor. 15:3). God loved and gave—man believes and lives. Here is DELIVERANCE. Believe it, receive it.

"What then? Shall we sin because we are not under the Law but under Grace?" God forbid. (Rom. 6:15). Now we "DO" and "DON'T" not FOR Salvation but BECAUSE OF Salvation. It is our joy and desire to please Him who did so much for us—who released us from the GRIP of Sin. (Rom. 6:13)—Homer Leisy.

OUTLETS FOR OUR YOUTH.—Youth needs outlets for their energies and emotions, opportunities for self expression, for putting their dreams into action. At about sixteen a girl wants to do something to express her longing to give herself, which grows more intense each year. The boy has the urge of chivalry, the longing to do heroic things. If the home, the Sunday School and the church can provide work of a worthwhile nature, with a challenge for sacrifice, and the satisfaction of achievement, the young lives will ordinarily be quite safe.

Churches are increasingly recognizing the fact that they can definitely help youth by providing varied and interesting opportunities of service, and then ask youth to do things. Many of the noblest workers in God's kingdom made their beginning in the service of the church, where they served their apprenticeship. Those first self-givings are like tiny mountain brooks making their way to the valley, where eventually they unite their waters into a stream that irrigates and fertilizes the land it traverses. Many apparently tiny efforts, when united, can accomplish big tasks. Even a child in the primary group may give its mite to share the adventure of saving souls in Africa or India.

CHRISTIAN PERFECTION does not mean that the Christian is free from sin. "If we say that we have no sin, we deceive ourselves and the truth is not in us." (I Jno. 1:8). It means rather that our ideal is perfect. Christ is our ideal and He was without sin—the only perfect man that ever walked the earth. We are to be like Him. "Be ye therefore perfect, even as your Father which is in heaven is perfect." It is a goal impossible to reach, but forever worth striving after. A goal you can reach is too low. It results in self-praise, self-satisfaction, self-righteousness. In order to grow, we must accept high ideals, then, with Paul, press toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus. . . .

"WHOSOEVER IS born of God doth not commit sin." (I Jno. 3:9). This verse cannot be understood except as one considers the background. It was directed against those who taught that one who truly knows God can indulge in sin and it doesn't matter. Sin does matter; and one with a true Christian experience seeks only to get rid of it. "Whosoever is born of God doth not commit sin" thinking it does not matter.—Lester Hostetler.

FOREIGN MISSIONS

P. H. Richert, Sec.

"THE LOVE OF CHRIST CONSTRAINETH"

It was in the cool season at sunset, when a rich high caste Hindu from Sariepalie called for medical help. Dr. Dester and I answered the call and spent the night at Sariepalie. By morning Dr. Dester went back to our mission hospital which was filled with inn-patients, one patient seriously ill with pneumonia. I stayed in Sariepalie to give what help I was able to offer, and by evening a little three pound baby girl was born asking for service. The family had a son about four years old, but had lost all their other children. The parents were much disappointed at this very weak pre-mature baby and begged me to stay and take care of the infant in their home for a month and thus save its life if possible. I did not have the necessary things with me to take care of the baby, and my ideas of cleanliness did not agree with those of the home, where my sterilized cup and medicine dropper for feeding the baby were wiped with the end of the sari of the grandmother. It seemed difficult for me to think of living in an Indian courtyard for a month, eating rice and highly seasoned vegetables, cookies and drinking tea. There were other duties at the hospital to consider.

After thinking about the problem a few minutes, I suggested that I would be willing to take the baby along and take care of it in my own bungalow for about a month, and that they should bring the mother to the hospital in a few days. The mother wept and did not want to let the baby go away from the home, contrary to Hindu custom, yes turning it over to a stranger, a foreigner, seemed impossible to her. However, the grandmother was not one of the old school, who wanted everything done the old way. She declared that she did not know how to take care of such a weak, premature baby. Finally, the father decided that I take the baby along, and that one of their faithful women servants should go along. Probably the servant was to see what would happen to the baby. The baby had been put into a small suitcase filled with cotton and hot water bottles, and in this way we transported the little one sixteen miles to our mission compound, on an old Ford car, the afternoon of the next day. The baby was fed by medicine dropper at first and kept warm by a lantern placed under the baby's suitcase. The parents daily sent a man on a bicycle to take back the latest news concerning the baby, until the mother was brought to our mission compound, after a week. The mother was anxious tc take over the care of the baby at the earliest possible date, and she tried hard to learn to care for it, according to our directions. After a month the happy parents took their baby home, which had meanwhile gained in strength and weight and was doing well under conditions. They paid their hospital fees and something extra and thanked us for what had been done for them.

About half a year later there was again a call for help. This time the Sariepalie road-contractor's brother's child, three years old, was ill with dysentery and they feared for his life. I prepared to stay several days upon the request of the parents. The family asked me to consider their home my own home during my stay, and they tried to show me the best hospitality and friendship. As the little boy was recovering slowly there was time to learn to know this family more intimately. There was the mother, her three sons and one daughter with their families in one courtyard. One day the older brother, whose baby I had nursed in my bungalow, related "I love my little daughter better than any other child, even more than my own son, first, because she is so sweet and beautiful as a flower, and second because she cost us much money and trouble to save."

Then the father continued to ask about our religion and said among other things, "Do you not think there was a connection between you and our daughter in the previous life?"

The Hindus believe in rebirth of souls. I answered that we Christians did not believe in transmigration of souls. "Then why did you respond to our call for help and serve us. You did not do it for the money, for you told us that the fees were for the hospital when we wanted to pay you?"

I had asked God to direct me to witness for Him and here was my opportunity. I explained that our religion taught us to follow the example of Jesus Christ to love and serve those who need our help. The road contractor responded, "We appreciated the loving care our baby received, but not one in a hundred would have helped us as you did, as I know people. God must have sent you here at our time of need."

Sincerely yours,

Augusta Schmidt.

The Minister as a Citizen Community

Paper read by Rev. Arnold Funk at the recent W. D. Minister's Meeting at Meno, Okla.

This paper is to deal with the duties and opportunities of the minister as a member of a social group having common social, economic,educational, political and religious needs. It must be evident that the geographic limits of a locality, called a community, may vary greatly. Someone has ventured the suggestion that a rural community embraces all territory within a "team-haul" of a given center. But that definition would hardly be useful in our day of cars and trucks. So the statement with which we began, namely: a social group having common social, educational, economic, political and religious needs, however large or small the geographic area of this common interest may be, seems to define a community.

Now one question is, what is the place of the minister of a church living among such a group by virtue of his position? It is not so difficult for us to come to some agreement as to the place of the faithful and devoted lay citizen in a community. Of such a citizen we would expect, and rightly so, that he would give of his time, his energy, and his support to such public undertakings as are designed to foster the development and enrichment of the community. He will vote, hold office, support, participate in, or direct various community enterprises, whether they are directly connected with any religious body or church or not.

But what about the minister? Does his position as a minister of a church in the community exempt him from the usual legitimate duties of the average citizen? There are those who would say that it does to a large extent. They would argue, that of all men the minister should be a man apart from the common, so-called secular activities of the community. He is the special representative of the church. Although it would be impossible to think of a church without lay members, he is the minister. His is the task to look after the religious and spiritual welfare of his flock. Let him get tangled up in all manner of extra ecclesiastical activities and he will lose the respect of the community for himself and for the church. The affairs of the church and state, i. e. all activity outside of the church, should always be separate and distinct in person as well as in fact. Did not Jesus refuse to serve as a probator of wills, and did not Paul admonish Timothy that, "no soldier on service entangleth himself in the affairs of this life"? Let the minister stick to his church, his work and his preaching, that is where he belongs.

But there are those who disagree most heartily with such a limited conception of the minister's task. In fact they would argue that just the opposite is true.

Instead of exempting him from the duties which naturally and rightfully fall to the conscientious citizen of the community, they would hold that the minister should be in the very forefront of all community activity. Despite the fact that several years ago a committee of leading educators laid out the work of the minister as of necessity falling into six compartments, none of which included social engineering in the community, there are not a few ministers, and laymen too, who insist that such engineering is a vital part of the minister's job. If the church and its program is to be central in the life of the community, it of necessity follows that its leader must also lead in all the other affairs of the community, and in a locality where all needful and worthwhile community activity had been woefully neglected or corrupted and when no one seemed equipped or courageous enough to lead out in a program of wholesome, upbuilding social work, it could well be the minister's opportunity to gather about him a faithful group and lead out. But wise is that minister who knows when, and is willing, to turn the active direction of this work over to others as soon as possible.

If then the minister as a citizen of the community has certain obligations that take him outside of his immediate church, how is he going to meet these obligations? What method or methods should he employ?

History and experience teach us that a minister cannot fulfill his rightful place in the community if he devotes all of his time and energy solely towards the preaching of a personal and domestic piety. These are important. A genuine, wholesome, reasonable personal piety must come first in any permanent reconstruction of community life. But for a minister to stop there is to close his eyes to a large and important part of his task. In the study, "Six Thousand Country Churches in Ohio," prepared by Gill and Pinchot, this fact is tragically revealed. This study is largely the story of 18 counties, in south eastern Ohio, where churches are more plentiful in proportion to the population than in any other part of the state. And yet at the same time it is also the part of the state where illegitimacy, illiteracy, tuberculosis, veneral diseases, corrupt politics and superstition are most in evidence. The reason for this is not to be found in bad economic conditions. It is due to the prevalence of a type of religion which exhausts itself in excessive emotionalism without relating itself to matters of conduct. To quote directly from the book, "For the most part the farm people of these 18 counties are very religious. This is attested to not merely by the large number of churches but also by the frequency of well attended revival services held in spring, summer, autumn and winter. Yet a normal wholesome religion, bearing as its fruit better living and all-around human development, and cherished and propagated by sane and sober-minded people is rarely known." Surely the minister's job does not end with the redemption of individuals. It must also include the transformation of the social conditions, yes, the community, in which those individuals live.

But how shall this be done? There are those who hold that the solution to this problem is to be found in instruction, and that most of all in the sermon. Let the minister inform himself as to the social conditions of his community and then let him speak out courageously and fearlessly. Let him expose the evils as they exist, encourage the forces of right, and if he is capable of doing so, suggest ways of action in his sermon. In the words of a recent book, "A message that is calculated to make employees socially minded and to secure a fairer distribution of the product of labor will contribute directly to the end of developing in the community a sense of collective responsibility for the welfare of the poor and of generating the moral power necessary to the relief and prevention of poverty." In other words, the minister has merely to speak and his hearers are sure to act.

But there are others who, having less faith in the willingness of the listener to put into practice the admonitions of the Sunday sermon, and realizing that only part of the community is ever present to hear the message, are convinced that community progress can come only as the minister leads out in action. And impatient or unwilling to let others do it, though they might be better fitted for it, they plunge in, and use methods beneath the dignity of their calling and casting reflection upon the good name of the institution that has ordained them. And not infrequently an amused public is entertained by the antics of a "fighting parson," with very little constructive work resulting.

Yet the fact remains that there is much needed work for the minister in every community, work that cannot be done within the four walls of the church. Knowing this, the minister may readily admit that he is completely unequal to the task if attempted alone. But it may be that it is right here that the minister's greatest strength lies. The transformation of a community so that conditions in it will not hinder but help in the development of true Christian character can never be the work of one man alone. So let the minister use the opportunity of the pulpit in addressing himself to the life situation of his people. Let him secure the services of informed persons to present information on the problems of the community. A forum discussion on a Sunday or week-day evening will do much to inform the public and stir it to action. Let him encourage others to grapple with the problems, and if need be, give them the benefit of his inspiration and counsel. The words of an experienced minister in just such work as we are discussing might be in place here. "There is no particular reason why a minister should lead a boy scout troop or direct a basket ball team. He is apt to be busy with other things. But he can engineer the project, get it going, and furnish it with good advice when it falls into difficulty." The same might be said concerning many other community projects.

Of course there are many organizations in every community that have not been dependent upon the minister to get them started or to keep them going. Some of these may be pushing a program of so-called community welfare that can hardly be harmonized with Christian ethics and virtues. Here another problem may arise for the minister. He may be asked to sit on platforms, to deliver invocations, in general to lend respectability to Sunday proceedings as a bit of ecclesiastical decoration, with the hope that he will not say anything to disturb the program laid out by the leaders. What is he to do? While a minister should seek to have it understood that he is willing to cooperate in all worthwhile community enterprises, merely to accept every request for his services or appearance without discrimination and to think that thereby he is serving his community, may well be a matter of question.

In conclusion, it might be said as a principle for action, that whatever contributes to the true enrichment of life, whether in the church or not, deserves the minister's interest and cooperation. The event of that cooperation and active participation in a given endeavor will no doubt be influenced by his own personal interest in the cause, his ability and aptitude in that particular work, his information on it, and his time for it. But in all things let the minister remember that he is a servant called to serve not only his immediate church but to go out into the highways and hedges as well.

A Pastoral Letter

J. E. Kaufman

Sincerity is a primary element of right character, a fundamental value that is the soul of every other virtue, without which the most beautiful grace, however fair it may seem, is only empty mockery and offence. To be sincere is to be real, just what one seems and professes, free from deception and affection and falsity, from all unreality, presenting not a painted or veneered surface but the same all the way through.

The etymology of the word in English, Latin and Greek is obscure, but it may help us to understand it. The word sincere, has been thought to be from sine, without, and cera, meaning without wax. This has been taken to refer to honey from which all the wax has been strained out, leaving it pure; or to use wax as a putty to fill up cracks and holes in furniture. Another meaning is derived from the Latin words signifying to be wholly separated, presumably from all impure or fictitious elements. Taking the Greek word in Phil. 1:10 where Paul prays for the Philippians that they "May be sincere" we find that there are two suggested derivations giving equally interesting meaning, "tested by sunlight." The other is from the root meaning, "turned around" or shaken so as to sift out all chaff or other impurities.

A sincere person then, is pure honey without wax or one out of whom all wickedness has been strained so as to leave pure sweetness; or one in whom are no holes or cracks covered up and concealed; or one who can be tested and searched with penetrating sunlight or turned around and shaken but no defects are discovered. The insincere person is one that is waxed and puttied and painted until you cannot tell what is reality and what is appearance, what is genuine and what is false. Or the insincere man when shaken up, say in some social snarl or loss of position, will reveal some deception or misrepresentation or cunning shrewdness or fraud that you never suspected was in him.

If what we seem to be on the surface is different from what we are in the core of the heart, if our life is in conflict with our profession, if our conduct is at war with our creed, if our piety and seeming holiness does not produce the fruits of the Spirit, if we get people to believe we are one thing while we are another thing, all our life is on a false foundation, its root is rottenness and its blossoms shall go up as dust.

Our religion should be reality, the same inside and outside and through and through. If it is a creed that is put on as a mask, if it consists mainly of putty and paint that covers up holes and rotten places in our character and conduct, then it is insincerity of the worst kind and degree. No doubt there are some persons that join church and profess religion for the deliberate purpose of using their religion as a cloak of respectability to conceal their rottenness. But many of us are in danger of a less shocking but more subtle insincerity. Insofar as we willingly are worse than our religion, as we let our conduct lag behind our profession, we are guilty of this sin. We should strive to make our practice fit our creed and our character to draw nigh and attain unto our ideal and thus we shall ever seem and be sincere.

Pretense and mere professions, seeming piety and hallo holiness, deceptions and humbugs of all kinds are out of date and we must know and tell and live the truth. Your Pastor.

CHRIST'S NEW COMMANDMENT

Matt. 5:43-48; 22:34-40; John 13:34, 35; 15:12-14

Love in Christ's Kingdom Matt. 5:43-48

Jesus declares that we owe Christian love to all. The Old Testament plainly taught the law of love toward one's neighbor (v 43). The Jewish teachers interpreted "neighbor" to mean only fellowcountrymen. They assumed also that enemies should be hated. Many professing Christian today hold tenaciously to this teaching and practice it. Jesus declares a new doctrine and a new way of dealing with an enemy (v 44), the way of Christian love. Under the law of like for like, enemies remained enemies. Hate and ill-will continued. Jesus' doctrine overcomes hatred and tends to make for friendship. We must, by our friendliness, win our enemy as a friend. Our love must express itself in sincere prayer for enemies.

Jesus is contrasting the evil law of the natural man with the good law of the Kingdom of heaven. His teaching was revolutionary and only God's grace could enable them to follow Him. In doing as their Father did and desired them to do, they revealed themselves to be His children (v45). He loves and cares for all because His love is broad enough to do good to and for all. Members of God's kingdom are to surpass those who are not in the kingdom in showing friendliness and love (vs 46, 47). Jesus sets forth a manner of life which we are able to follow by the help of the Holy Spirit. In our love, intentions and purposes we are to be perfect. Each one can practice unfeigned and honest love. Complete spiritual obedience and trust in God is the perfection required of us.

The Supreme Commandment vs 34-40

The Pharisees, anxious to confuse Jesus, had one of their number ask Him a supposedly clever catch question, hoping to lead Him into an argument with them (v35). The question (v36) was an important one and Jesus gave a definite and convincing answer (vs 37-40). This commandment includes all commandments. This first and great commandment was in force before any of the others were written. Man's first duty is to God, who is infinite, and it can be summed up in one word—LOVE.

There is a second, like unto the first—not equal to it—the central word also is LOVE—love for fellow man. We are to have the same desire for and delight in the welfare of our neighbor (1 John 4:20, 21). Man's duty to God is that of undivided love, his duty toward fellow man is that of active good-will. Love is the fulfilling of the law.

The New Commandment Jn. 13:34, 35; 15:12-14

Jesus said the most profound things in simple language. Love for one another is one of these. He is leaving a law of life, the law of love—"a new commandment" (v34). The law (v39) said we should love our neighbor as ourselves. Jesus goes much beyond that—a new measure of love—love one another as He loved us. Jesus' standard is a love ready to sacrifice self for others. Our showing a love that is akin to Christ's, is an evidence that we are His disciples in truth. This is a test of our discipleship.

Jesus Himself is the supreme demonstration of love. There is a vital union between Him and the believer, a relation that should be revealed in the love believers manifest toward each other. Jesus loved His own even unto the end. His love went all the way to Calvary. Genuine love is active, shows in deeds. God loves, He gave His Son. Love gives itself, spends itself. Sacrifice is the measure of true love, a universally accepted measure. Jesus' standard has no limit to the price it will pay. Christ takes His followers into a covenant of friendship with Himself. They are His friends who will do whatever He commands them to do. Love as He loved is set first and foremost by Him. Are we His friends?

BLUFFTON COLLEGE PLANT AND NEEDS

The Bluffton College campus is ideally located on the west side of the village of Bluffton. It consists of forty acres of rolling land covered with a natural forest of oak, elm, beech, buckeye, and maple. On the east side of the campus meanders the Little Riley Creek, which abounds in a wealth of material for Biological study.

The plant with present equipment is capable of accomodating three hundred students. The buildings are, for the most part, in good repair.

College Hall, the main building erected in 1900 is a pleasant, conveniently arranged structure. In it are found the chapel with a seating capacity of about 400, class rooms, administration and faculty offices, art studios, Y. W. C. A. room, and a book shop.

Science Hall, the heating plant and the two dormitories are built of rough-faced pressed brick in the colonial style of architecture. Science Hall houses laboratories and class rooms for chemistry, physics, biology and home economics.

Roop Hall, the girls' dormitory, has rooms for about fifty students. The college dining hall, with capacity for about one hundred and fifty, is in the basement. Suites of rooms for the Dean of Woman, the Matron, a spacious lobby, and reception rooms are on the first floor.

Lincoln Hall houses about one hundred men. A large, cosy lobby very convenient for Y. M. C. A. meetings, and a suite of rooms for the Dean of Men occupy most of the lower floor. The campus further has four frame buildings, including temporary quarters for the music department and gymnasium.

Musselman Library, a building of Georgian colonial style, was donated by Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Musselmen and constructed in 1929-30. On the first floor are located the Mennonite Historical Library, two seminar rooms, two offices; on the second floor is located the main reading room accommodating 100 readers. In the reading room are shelved the reference works, and also the periodical files. Three tiers of stacks, providing for the shelving of 30,000 volumes, are located in the rear of the building. In the basement there is a large fire proof vault.

The Newly acquired Grubb library will also be housed on the first floor of this building.

The library is centrally located on the campus, accessible to all students, days and evenings. It contains about 12,000 volumes and about 100 current periodicals. Many of the courses are so organized that voluminous reading, original selection and organization of material is required.

The plant as a whole is, therefore, quite adequate for our present needs. Our most pressing needs now are twofold: First, we can and should accomodate more students; and secondly, more funds must be made available for current expenses.

Regarding the student body, it would cost the college very little more to operate at full capacity with 300 students than it does to handle the present group of 200. The entire organization could function more economically and efficiently with its full student capacity.

The goal could probably be attained by throwing caution to the winds, as many schools have done, and concentrating on numbers regardless of quality or methods used. This, Bluffton College is not willing to do, and as a result we have all we can do to hold our own in the scramble for students.

This situation will be remedied only when Mennonite communities become convinced that the best place for their young people to get a college education is in the church school. The young people themselves have no background from which to make such a decision. They need the instruction and encouragement of parents and friends who are interested in the cause of Christian education.

The second need, money for current expenses, is growing acute, The Ohio Association of Colleges has informed us that our endowment is inadequate and that our salary schedule is far too low. Student tuition pays only a small part of the actual expenditures. This means that an endowment fund must be raised which will assure the college of an adequate income year after year. A campaign to raise such a fund is now being planned.

Only when these two needs are met will Bluffton College begin to render to the Mennonite Church the service of which she is capable.—Eastern District Brotherhood Topic for December 1938.

The Best Cure for Worry

By William H. Joyner, D. D.

Worry is universal. Everybody worries. The most common thing among people is worry. Worry belongs to no one class. Some one has said, "Poor folks worry," but so do the rich. Cultured folks worry, but so do the illiterate. Old folks worry, but so do the youth in life's morning. People in good circumstances worry, but so do those who are in harsh and trying circumstances. There are some in the church who worry, and there are some outside the church who worry."

Then we worry about all sorts of things under all condtions of life. We worry about how we are going to get money. We worry about how we are going to keep it. We worry about what we do not have. We worry about the things we have. We worry about what we have said, and we worry about what we have failed to say. We worry about what we have done and about what we have failed to do. We worry about our bodies. We worry about our souls. We worry about our families. Some worry because they are married. Others worry because they are not.

What Worry Does

Two things ought to be said everywhere about worry:

1. It is utterly useless and unavailing.

Worry gets us nowhere. Jesus indicated the utter absurdity of worry when He said, "Which of you by taking thought (or worrying) can add one cubit unto his stature?" If you are five feet tall and would like to be six feet, can you add a foot to your height by worrying about it? Nay, verily. Worry does not do the slightest good in any conceivable direction. It never accomplishes anything worth while.

Dr. B. H. Carroll made the statement that we should not worry about those things that we can help. We should rather get up and busy ourselves doing them. He also says that we should not worry about those things we cannot help. If you cannot help them it will do no good to worry about them. Worry is devitalizing.

Of course, we are not to make a joke of life. We do wrong to have a flippant and happy-go-lucky attitude toward life. The business of living is serious business. For it we need moral earnestness.

Certainly we are to grieve over our sorrows and losses. However, we are not to fret and fume. We are not to be feverish and over-anxious. If you cannot help something that comes into your life to distress you, then accept it as a part of God's plan for your life. Be submissive to His will and wisdom. Never lose faith in the goodness of God. God's way for you and me is always best. It is best even though we cannot understand why. May God give us vision to see "the rainbow through the rain." Let us cultivate the habit of looking for the good, the best and the beautiful, in everything and everybody.

2. It is positively hurtful.

In Psalm 37 we read, "Fret not thyself, it tendeth only to evil-doing." Worry never does anything but harm.

It hurts the individual who worries,—YOU

It is a terrible form of dissipation and prodigality. It is damaging physically, mentally and spiritually. It fills the whole human system with poison. Some one remarked to me about a man on whom I had called in the hospital, "He is worrying over his debts." I replied, "Worry kills peopls and we ought to fight against it." The friend to whom I was talking said, "Yes, it scientifically poisons the system and wrecks it."

Worry is your common foe. It produces an ocean of tears. It is our bitter enemy.

It hurts our fellows,—OTHERS

If we could get off into a place of isolation all by ourselves, it would not be so bad to worry. Oh, it would be bad enough. There ought to be a pest-house for all who habitually worry and will not be comforted. However, you cannot separate patients with this disease from others. They infect others inevitably. When you worry you make other people about you down-hearted. You carry them into the depths of despondency and gloom. Could this ever help anyone anywhere?

It hurts God,—OUR HEAVENLY FATHER

It is evil. God is hurt by all that is evil. When one claims to be God's child it is a shame for him to fret and mope and grunt as if his Father had gone into bankruptcy or had lost His heart. We show that we do not believe God when we worry continuously. If we believed Him certainly we would trust Him, "Commit thy way unto the Lord, trust also in Him and He will bring it to pass." To please God is far better than hurting God. Which had you rather do—please or hurt—help or hinder? Let us seek to avoid anything that would wound the blessed heart of God.

IMAGINARY CALAMITIES

Often we worry over real trouble or calamities. More often still, we worry over trouble and calamities that never take place.

There is no doubt that the vast majority of our worry is about troubles that are purely imaginary. A boy had to pass every day on his way to school a house where lived a crazy man. Usually he did not see him when he passed the house but usually he was scared within an inch of his life. Sometimes he would see him standing at the window or on the porch. One morning the man was at the gate. The man tore out after him in a run. The boy ran. Over the fence the boy went, into a field. Across the cotton patch, down the corn rows, the crazy man hard upon his heels and gaining on him every second. At last the boy, seeing he could not escape, turned, and threw up his hands to plead for mercy. Instead of beating him as the boy expected, the crazy man touched him lightly on the shoulder, and scampered away laughing and crossed fingers, saying, "I got you tag! I got you tag!"

How different from what he imagined. Our troubles are not always as terrible as they seem. There are many wrinkles in the face, many white hairs on the head, many cases of premature nervous prostration all because we lose sleep and energy by "crossing the bridge before we get to it." Let us not foolishly worry over unreal troubles as if they are real.

WHAT IS THE BEST CURE FOR WORRY?

There are multitudinous "cures" for worry prescribed today. The best in the whole collection is the one God's Word gives. What is this? The unloading of our cares on God in prayer. "In nothing be anxious (in nothing worry) but in everything by prayer and supplication with thanksgiving let your requests be made known unto God. And the peace of God, which passeth all understanding, shall keep your hearts and minds in Christ Jesus" (Phil. 4:6-7) Revised Version.

Take your worries to Him. Present your requests to Him with thanksgiving, and as you thus pray, God pledges Himself to meet your need. How will He meet your need? Our blessed Lord will either remove that which causes worry or He will give you grace to bear it. He will give "the peace which passeth understanding." This is all-satisfying, indeed.

Heed the following: "Casting all your care upon him; for he careth for you" (1 Peter 5:7).

A very beautiful thought is brought out by the French translation of this verse. Where our version reads "casting," the French translation is "unload." Positively the best cure for worry is the unloading of our cares on God in prayer.

He who fed the prophet by the brook, and kept the widow's crust from wasting, and watched over the Israelites in the wilderness, and to whom even the sparrow's fall is not unnoticed—He has us, each one, on His precious Almighty heart. In his epistle James says, "You have not, because you do not pray." (Weymouth's translation.) — Bible Institute Colportage Association.

God gives us power to bear all the sorrows of His making; but He does not give us power to bear the sorrows of our own making; which the anticipation of sorrow most assuredly is.—Maclaren.

Fifty-first Annual Bethel College Corporation Meeting

Held Nov. 25, 1938

The weather was nice and a large crowd attended the meeting both forenoon and afternoon. There were 4,210 votes represented out of a possible 6,355. Reports were given on various phases of the school and considerable time was spent discussing the same. Since the time allowed for the present Five-year program expires with the current school year, a new program was recommended by the Board and adopted by the Corporation. It pertains to the following twelve points: Complete old five-year program, Constituency, Charter and Aims, College Board, Faculty, Students, Curriculum and Instruction, Student Employment Program, Athletics, Physical Plant, Finances, and Accrediting Agencies.

The election for Board members resulted as follows: Conference nominees were Rev. J. E. Entz, Newton, Kansas, and Rev. S. J. Goering, North Newton, Kansas. The latter was elected. Corporation nominees were H. E. Suderman, Newton, Kansas, and C. H. Goering, Moundridge, Kansas. The former was elected.

The following resolutions were adopted:

a. That we express our sincere gratitude to God and all friends of the school for their interest and loyal support in the attempt to achieve a definite program during the last five years. Although not everything aimed at has been accomplished, nevertheless definite progress has been made and Bethel College was finally admittd to membership in the North Central Association in the spring of 1938, for which we are especially grateful to all friends who by contributing money, labor and in many other ways have so prayerfully supported Bethel College in the past.

b. That in view of the very pressing need of more room because of our growing student body and whereas a temporary roof on the Memorial Hall would of necessity involve considerable waste, we, therefore, most earnestly plead for sufficient contributions to proceed with the walls and the permanent roof on this building without delay.

c. That in deep appreciation we express our sincere gratitude for the $5,000 bequest of last March from the late Katherine B. Moore estate of Mt. Hope, Kansas, and the $2,000 bequest of last September from the estate of the late W. W. Regier of Newton, Ks. Truly their good works on earth will continue long after they are called home into the great beyond. May their noble example inspire many to do likewise and remember Bethel College in their Last Will and Testament, thereby immortalizing themselves by increasing the opportunities of Christian Higher Education for young people of this and coming generations.

Good spirit prevailed throughout the meeting and the discussions were helpful and encouraging.

FORUM

The recent editorial in THE MENNONITE under the caption, "SHOULD THERE BE A CHANGE", shows clearly the advantage of the present system of electing members of the Boards of General Conference. It is evident that the delegates do attempt to select men who they feel are best qualified for the work under consideration. It is natural that the district with the largest voting power will have the largest representation on the Boards. That is not because of a desire to dominate the Boards, but rather because they know the ability of the members from their own district best. If delegates are of the opinion that someone from another district has certain qualifications needed by the Board, they do not hesitate to vote for them.

The fact that certain districts are not represented on the Board is a serious hinderance in keeping all people posted on the work of General Conference. But that difficulty can be corrected, if the Board desires, by appointing a person from any district not represented to serve as a representative of the Board in the district. This representative to be kept posted on the problems of the Board, by being given the opportunity to review files of correspondence upon their completion, by reading the minutes of the Board meetings, explanatory correspondence, advanced information on plans, financial statements, etc.

The fact that the Board of Home Missions is scattered, is an ideal condition and works for a more effective operation of the Board at a substantial financial saving to the treasury. In this way a Board member is in a position to actively supervise the work in the various fields by frequent visits at small expense to the Board. When questions arise which require the opinion and counsel of the Board, they have a member who can prepare a report and start the correspondence in an intelligent manner which, no doubt, helps to bring a quicker solution of the problem. At the same time they have some one present to see that the decision is carried out.

Fraternally, Walter H. Temple.

What They Do

REEDLEY, California—The Workers' Exchange, official organ for the Pacific District Conference, came out this month in new dress, with a better grade of paper, and better set-up all around. Miss Emma Ruth, editor for the high school program material in our Youth Section, is the editor of The Worker's Exchange.

SHAFTER, California — The mid-year executive meeting of the California Sunday School and C. E. Conference met here November 11. Gust Linscheid was president.

ALBANY, Oregon—The Grace Mennonite church had the pleasure of evangelistic meetings under the leadership of Rev. J. J. Esau. Rev Esau, blind for many, many years, has a message for young people that goes to heart. All that know him, love him.

COLFAX, Washington — The C. E. Missionary committee has been giving what they call "News Flashes," of missions at the Sunday evening mission meetings in the Colfax Society. If our memory does not play tricks on us, the Colfax society is in the habit of doing the unusual.

BERNE, Indiana—The Vine Press, newspaper for the Middle District Conference, had a splended cover design, prepared by Mac Smith. Lots of Talent!

What are YOU doing? Write us your news! Mennonite Youth Marches on! Keep Marching!

Introductory remarks—The Advent season is here again, on every continent with its mystery, its sweetness, its quietness, its beauty, glory and holiness. Our hearts open again to receive the Christ-child anew, to let peace, and good will and joy come in. And every one, and all men everywhere can share in its blessings. What is needful to share in its blessings, to hear its chimes on any continent?

I. THEME: Seeing. "And they saw the star," story of the Wise Men. Let the silence of the night come into your heart, wait upon the Lord. Go out into the open spaces, looking for the star, and in the "Silent night, holy night" it may happen that you meet the Christ. "How silently, how silently, the wondrous gift is given. So God imparts to loving hearts, The wonders of his heaven."

II. THEME: Hearing. The shepherds heard the angel speak, they heard the angels sing. And hearing, wonder and deep feelings of awe, and a sense of something great, unspeakable, which was happening came to them. Do we listen when God speaks to us, be it through angel song, some bit of beautiful poetry, some friend, some that he sends into our hearts? If we do, we too may have experiences, too precious for words, of the wideness of God's mercy and love, Christmas may deepen in its meaning.

III. THEME: Going and Finding. The Wise Men and the Shepherds both went and found. It is still so in every continent, in every nation. The one who searches finds the "Pearl of Great Price," to him who knocks, it is opened. The doors of the Kingdom stand ajar, and whosoever will may enter in—if only the effort "to go, to find" is made.

IV. THEME: Telling, sharing the good news.—The shepherds told—how could they do otherwise. It is still so today—whoever has found the Christ must tell; his heart will not keep the good news selfishly—Christianity is a religion of sharing. Christ came to give, and to share.

V. THEME: Praising and Giving.—The shepherds praised, the wise men gave. It cannot be otherwise. There is no time like Christmas for giving—it is an inner urge, a desire that must find expression. Love must give, and lives by giving.

VI. Plan some project where your C. E. may give to others at Christmas time.

INTERMEDIATE DEPARTMENT

The Meaning of Christmas

Intermediate C. E. Topic, Dec. 25, 1938

For Daily Reading

Dec. 19. Christ born in us. Gal 4:19.
Dec. 20. The spiritual view. John 6:50-59.
Dec. 21. What really happened. John 17:1-8.
Dec. 22. Christ's coming in us. John 14:15-18, 23
Dec. 23. Providing Christ a dwelling. Eph. 3:14-21
Dec. 24. Christ comes once more. Rev. 3:20, 21
Dec. 25. Topic—Christmas: Its deeper meaning. John 1:10-18.

A Home Meeting

If possible have the members meet at the church fifteen minutes early, and walk to the home of one of the members, singing Christmas carols as you go. Hold your meeting in the home, seated around the Christmas tree.

Preprayer Circle

Let those who come early meet for a few minutes of prayer. Read John 3:17, bringing out the thought of God sending His Son to save the world as the deeper meaning of Christmas. Pray that there may be a true understanding of the meaning of Christmas and a desire to live it.

A Suggested Plan

1. Musical prelude. (If possible have a music box played under the Christmas tree)
   Group singing, "O Come All Ye Faithful"
   Scripture reading: John 1:9-18.
   Song: "The Light of the World Is Jesus"
   Leader: "Though Christ a thousand times in Bethlehem be born, And not within thyself, thy soul be forlorn."
   Special Song: "There's Room In My Heart for Thee" or the fourth stanza of "O Little Town" sung prayerfully.
   Sentence prayers, closing with "Spirit of the Living God" or "Into My Heart"
2. Topic Presentation
   a. Leader's Talk. Speak of how the observance of Christmas has become so general that the true meaning of it has often and to many people been lost entirely. Schools, business, newspapers, communities, clubs have adopted Christmas as a part of their seasonal program. This has its advantages and its disadvantages. Tonight we shall try to get under all the customs that have accummulated around the observance of Christmas and find the deeper meaning.
   b. The First Christmas (Four talks)

(1) Unselfish giving. John 3:16. God loved and gave. He gave His gift to those in need and without expectation of return. The acceptance of the gift and the gratitude are His rewards. How much giving is done with expectation of a return of something of at least equal value? How much useless giving is there because something is expected? A group of Christian workers made this Christmas resolution: "To refrain from needless giving to friends and relatives; to use the funds thus saved as a Christmas gift to Christ; and thus to aid the church in giving Christ to the world." Did your Christmas list contain at least as many names of such who could not return the gift as those who would?

(2) Glory to God, Peace, Goodwill toward men. Luke 2:14 gives us the meaning the angels gave to the coming of Christ. Glory to God for His unspeakable Gift to man. How much glory goes to God in the usual Christmas celebration. Does our observance of Christmas foster "peace on earth, good will toward men?" What evidence do we have of it today?

(3) Keeping His word in the heart. Luke 2:19. What did the coming of the Christ child mean to Mary? It did not end with that day. She pondered all these things in her heart. She kept thinking about what she heard and saw. Thoughts eventually result in action. What is wrong with our Christmas observance? Many hear the true meaning, but they do not ponder it in their hearts. Christmas over we forget about it. We need the Christ in our hearts not once a year, but every day of the year.

(4) Happiness in the heart. Luke 2:20. Only a truly happy heart can glorify and praise God. What made the hearts of the shepherds sing? Not the number and size of the gifts they had received. True happiness comes from a revelation of the presence of God in our lives. Why were the shepherds chosen for this significant announcement? "Blessed are the pure in heart, for they shall see God." If our hearts are right with God, if we have felt His presence this day, if we have been used of Him to touch other lives then it has been a happy day, regardless of what our Christmas may have been in material things.

Some Questions to Answer

1. Is the general observance of Christmas a help or hindrance in the spread of the true meaning of it? Give examples.

2. When do we honor Christ through our Christmas giving? How can we make our gifts to Him?

3. What are some Christmas customs that are definitely unchristian? How do they confuse people as to the real meaning of it?

4. What difference does Christmas make in the lives of people? When does Christmas observance become real worship?

Closing Song

"Christ for the World We Sing" or have someone read, "As with Gladness Men of Old."

Benediction.

JUNIOR CORNER

THE whole world was lost in the darkness of sin;
The Light of the world is Jesus.
Like sunshine at noonday His glory shone in,
The Light of the world is Jesus.

COME to the Light! It shineth for thee;
Sweetly the Light has dawned upon me.
Once I was blind, but now I can see;
The Light of the world is Jesus!

"The Lord Is With Thee"

(Judges 6:12)

What a promise to have at the beginning of a new year of work! It is good too, to remember that this promise was not given to Gideon after the work, unto which he had been called, was completed, but it was, rather, to be the very sail that should launch him forth and that should carry him through to the completion of his task. Though the promise had been spoken, Gideon did not understand the full meaning of the words. Not until in the very giving of the call, God made His presence felt and moved the heart to obedience, and not until Gideon actually carried out the will of God day by day in fighting, in subduing, did he learn the power and the richness of God's promise, "The Lord is with thee."

Suggestive Outline for January, 1939

Januray 1: "The Lord Is with Thee." (Gideon)
January 8: "Whither Thou Goest, I Will Go." (Ruth)
January 15: "Speak, for Thy Servant Heareth." (Samuel).
January 22: "The Lord Will Hear When I Call unto Him." (David)
January 29: "To the Wise the Way of Life Goeth Upward." (Solomon)

Verse for the month: The above quotations

Song of the month:

"Trying to walk in the steps of the Saviour,
Trying to follow our Saviour and King;
Shaping our lives by His blessed example,
Happy, how happy, the songs that we bring

Pressing more closely to Him who is leading,
When we are tempted to turn from the way;
Trusting the arm that is strong to defend us,
Happy, how happy our praises each day.

Trying to walk in the steps of the Savior,
Upward, still upward we'll follow our Guide;
When we shall see Him, the King in His beauty,
Happy, how happy, our place at His side!"

Suggestions for January 1, 1938

Quiet Music

Call to Worship

1. Chairman speaks: "I was glad when they said unto me, let us go into the house of the Lord." Psalm 122:1.

2. A voice from the group: "Truly my soul waiteth upon God; from him cometh my salvation. Ps. 62:1.

Worship Service

1. The New Year's Praise: Group sings, "Praise Ye the Lord, the Almighty." Verse 1, 3, 4.

2. The New Year's Assurance: Group speaks in unison, Psalm 23.

3. The New Year's Prayer: Leader and group

a. Leader: "Our Father God, from whom come all our blessings, Whose care is round about us night and day, We bow our heads and try to feel Thee near us, As all together we before Thee pray:"

b. Group speaks the prayer Jesus taught us.

c. Leader: "We know our Father, Thou wilt always hear us, No matter if our words are voiced or thought; And now with greater strength and true endeavor, We want to live and serve as Jesus taught.

4. The New Year's Promise: Group reads in unison the promise for the evening "The Lord Is with Thee." This can be put on blackboard within a New Year's setting.

5. The New Year's Resolution: Group sings, "Trying to Walk in the Steps of the Savior."

Mission Minutes: Let this be a few minutes prayer for God's blessing on our workers this coming year. You could apportion the various fields to several juniors asking them to say "Dear Father, please bless our missionaries in India; another junior to say: "Dear Father, please bless our missionaries in China, etc., until all our fields have been covered.

Study Period. Aim: to give the assurance of God's presence in our life.

1. Group sings: "He Leadeth Me." Verse one.
2. How Gideon learned that God was with him: Talks by juniors
   a. An angel tells Gideon that God is with him: Judges 6:11-16
   b. The angel shows Gideon that God is with him: Judges 6:17-24.
   c. Gideon wants to be certain that God is with him: Judges 6:36-40.
   d. Gideon knows that God is with him: Judges 7:1-21; Judges 8:28.
3. "The Lord is with thee": Verses promising the presence of God could be distributed before hand and read at this time
4. Special music: "Standing at the Portal"
5. Leader's prayer of thanksgiving.
6. Group sings: "God Be with You." Verse 2.

Note: Small banners could be prepared (of colored construction paper) with the words on it "The Lord Is with Thee." These could be handed to each junior as he leaves the church: It could be the leader's special New Year's thought to the children.

FOURTH JOINT CONFERENCE OF MENNONITES, SCHWENKFELDERS, BRETHREN AND FRIENDS

Schwenkfelder Church, Dec. 5, 1938
Norristown, Pa.

General Theme

OUR COMMON FELLOWSHIP"

With thanksgiving for the universal love of God, we rejoice to find ourselves knit together in our personal allegiance to our Lord Jesus Christ as the only Savior of men. And with a simple faith depending upon the regenerative power of God rather than upon humanistic efforts or mechanical means of Grace for the constant expression of an humble, equitable and peaceful life, we wish to gather together to meditate and to exhort ourselves "as the Spirit gives us utterance." Also to pray that we may share with every creature the Gospel even as our Lord commanded.

TENTATIVE PROGRAM

Chairman for the Day.—Robert J. Gottschall, Minister, Norristown Schwenkfelder Church.

Afternoon Session—4:00 P. M.

Devotional Period. In charge of the local congregation.

Consideration of the Rediscovery of the Message and the Mission of the Christian Church, as the Holy Spirit directs.

Summation of the concerns of the meeting, Douglas V. Steere, Haverford College, Pa.

Supper served by the ladies of the host congregation 6 P. M.—60c.

Please notify Robert J. Gottschall, 1021 W. Marshall St., Norristown, Pa., before 12-3-38, if you intend to be present for supper. (Don't miss the supper fellowship!)

Evening Session—7:15 P. M.

Moving Pictures of the 1934 Schwenkfelder Pilgrimage to Germany, W. Kyrel Meschter, Glensire, Pa.

Address—Our Common Background, Elmer E. S. Johnson, Ph. D., Prof. Church History, Hartford Theological Seminary, Hartford, Conn.

CORRESPONDENCE

SALEM MENN. CHURCH, MARION, S. D.

Dear Editor and Readers: In line with an established custom our church and the Salem-Zion church held a joint Thanksgiving service.—Last Sunday evening the oratorio MESSIAH was rendered by the music lovers of the community. This is an annual event and always draws record crowds. Next Sunday afternoon the same group will again render this oratorio in the College Auditorium and it will be broadcast over Station WNAB at Yankton by remote control.

We are enjoying very nice fall weather. Our crop this year was about a normal one on small grain. Yields were good and quality fair. But our chief and most popular crop is corn and this failed us again this season. In general the feed problem is not as bad as it has been. The thing that raises havoc with our farmers are the low prices paid for grain and farm products. The great federal farm progam that we hear so much about failed us when we needed it most. Prices were high while we were burned out and now when we produced our first normal crop in years our people are selling it at a loss.

Freeman Junior College reports an attendance of 150, which is up to the figure of several years standing. President John D. Unruh is spending the winter at the University of Texas, where he continues his work for the Doctor's degree. During his absence Prof. Benj. P. Waltner is in charge of the administrative work of the institution.

Before closing this let me refer to an outstanding event in our church last summer. It was the visit of Mr. Le Tourneau to our church and community. Mr. Le Tourneau is the head of the great road building machinery factory of Peoria, Illinois. His messages were full of sound Christianity and his life and work is ample proof that not all big business men are Shylocks. He closed a series of lectures at a joint Fourth of July picnic of our two churches.

October 9th our church added 19 members to its list, 13 of which were received through baptism, and six by letter. At the recent Sunday school election of officers Prof. Edwin P. Graber was elected Superintendent and Raymond Unruh Assistant.

TABOR MENNONITE CHURCH, 11-28-38

Greetings! Last Pentecost our pastor, Rev. P. H. Richert, baptized and received into our church membership 36 young souls. Never before have there been so many but, as we were building our church last year, some had postponed this step. We have plenty of room now. There were 332 members at the beginning of the year. To these were added 36 by baptism, 4 by marriage, and 2 passed away, so the toal is now 370. Rev. Richert has again started a catechism class. There are 15 enrolled.

At the close of the General Conference, which Rev. Richert attended as our only delegate, he made a mission tour of the west coast. On Sunday evening, Oct. 23, the five delegates that attended the Western District Conference at Enid, Okla., gave a report and Rev. Richert gave a report of the General Conference.

On August 14 the Kansas Mennonite C. E. Convention convened in our church. On August 28, the Sunday school had its annual picnic. On the first Sunday in October our new Sunday school year starts. That is also our Promotion Sunday. Alfador Frey is our Superintendent. There are 21 classes. The teachers meet each Monday evening in the church to study and discuss the lessons, with Rev. Richert as leader.

Two members have passed away this fall, a young sister, Mrs. John W. Frey, nee Woelk, and an older sister, Maria V. Schmidt. The obituaries of both have already appeared in the Mennonite.—Two weddings occurred in our church: Waldo Flaming and Hilda Brandt, Charles Schmidt and Edna Berg. Both were united by Rev. Richert.

Deacon H. J. S. Schmidt has recovered sufficienty to be able to attend some meetings. My mother, Mrs. J. B. Thiesen remains on the sick list. For six weeks she was in the Bethesda Hospital. Visits, cards, letters are welcome for she is lonely. She also requests prayer.

We have three C. E.'s: The Senior, where everybody takes part, the Intermediate now meeting on a separate evening. They have much music. When the Juniors meet, the parents accompany the children and meet at the same time for a Bible Study Hour. Every Wednesday evening the young people meet at the Church for a Bible Study Class. Rev. Richert conducts the class.

On Thanksgiving Day the S. S. gave a program composed of songs of praise and Psalms. Each of the different classes gave a number. We also have a mission collection on that day. The children's collection was $87.00.

Wishing everybody a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

—D. S. Thiesen, Corr., and Church Secr.

DEATHS

HENRY S. SCHMITT, son of Jacob and Elizabetha Schmitt, was born in West Point, Lee Co., Iowa, and passed away at his home in Moundridge, Kansas, Nov. 24, 1938, at the age of 79 years, 2 months, 11 days. His health had been failing for several years, and his death was caused by heart failure.

On Oct. 5, 1873, he was baptized by Rev. Wm. Galle, and joined the Salem Mennonite Church at Dayton, Iowa. In 1880, he came to Kansas with his folks. With the exception of four years residing in Freeman, S. Dak., he has had his home in Kansas, mostly in and about Moundridge, where he engaged in farming, and later in the lumber business.

On Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 27, 1884, he established his own home with Maria Rupp. One child, John D., now of Wichita, blessed this home, which, however, was terminated by the death of the mother on June 13, 1888. Later he married Agnes K. Dirks, with whom he would have celebrated the golden wedding anniversary on April 14, 1939. To this he looked forward with hopeful anticipation. To this union, were born eight children, all of whom survive. Helen and Marguerite of Moundridge, Mrs. Bertha Penner, and Mrs. Agnes Dyck of near Whitewater, Marvin of Oak Park, Illinois, Reuben of Dallas, Texas, and Dannie and Waldo of Newton.

His departure is deeply mourned by his devoted wife, his children, five daughters-in-law, two sons-in-law, nine granddaughters, nine grandsons, one sister, Mrs. Mary Haury of Newton, Kans., one brother, John Schmitt of Stanford, Montana, and numerous other relatives and friends. The family are comforted in the assurance of his implicit faith in the saving grace of Jesus Christ and are thankful that his passing was quiet and peaceful, unaccompanied by a long and painful illness.

Funeral services were held in the West Zion Mennonite Church. Rev. P. K. Regier, his pastor, and Rev. B. W. Harder delivered appropriate sermons. Internment in Greenwood cemetery, at Newton, Kans.

MRS. ELIZABETH SCHULTZ DIRKS, daughter of Christian and Helena Schultz, was born Sept. 6, 1880 at Pawnee Rock, Kansas. She went to her heavenly home on Nov. 5, 1938. She reached the age of 58 years, 1 month and 29 days. In failing health for many years, she suffered patiently and never complained. She loved her Lord, often talked of the heavenly home and longed to meet her Savior there.

She grew to womanhood north of Pawnee Rock, on the farm with her parents, sisters and brothers. On February 13, 1898, she was baptized by Peter Dirks and joined the Mennonite Church, of which she remained a faithful member all her life. On February 23, 1898, she was united in marriage with Jacob P. Dirks. To this union were born seven children. Gertie and Elvin, two of the children, preceded her in death.

She is survived by her husband, three daughters, Mrs. T. A. van der Smissen of Buhler, Mrs. Ralph Unruh of Great Bend, Mrs. Garfield Schmidt of Larned; two sons, Elmer of Cimarron and Melvern of Larned; also nine grandchildren. She leaves four brothers and seven sisters and numerous nieces and nephews.

Funeral services were conducted by the Rev. J. B. Schmidt of the Bergtal Menn. Church, Nov. 7, 1938.

MRS. SUZANNA BERG FRANZ was born on October 2, 1862, in South Russia. In 1874 she came with her parents to America establishing their home in Marion, South Dakota. Upon her confession of faith she was baptized by Rev. Friedrich Schartner and admitted into the fellowship of the Mennonite Church. She was united in holy wedlock with Peter Franz in 1884, with whom she lived until his death, October 20, 1922. This union was blessed with ten children, one of which died in infancy, another Peter, at the age of 30 years, and Martin at the age of 34 years.

Recently while, in company with her daughter Ida Matthies and son John, mother was visiting her brothers George and Cornelius Berg, near Marion, S. D., she contracted pneumonia, after which she passed away to her eternal abode at the home of her sister Agnes Berg, on November 15, 1938, having attained the age 76 years, 1 month, and 13 days. She leaves to mourn her departure three sons, John of Hutchinson, Kansas; Curt of Inman, Kansas; Henry of Corn, Oklahoma; and four daughters, Susie Siemens of Medora, Kansas; Ida Matthies of Hutchinson, Kansas; Elizabeth Janzen of Custer City, Oklahoma; and Agatha Siemens of Moundridge, Kansas. 31 grandchildren and three great grandchildren.

We are confident she is now in her heavenly home. Her life was filled with hard work, privation, and sorrow. But, through it all, she maintained a clear mind to the very latest. Hers was a faith seldom excelled among men. Her life was marked with devotion and sacrifice. Her greatest tribulation during her declining years was her regret over the fact that she was unable to serve others as she had been acustomd to. She fequently expressed a longing to meet her Savior face to face, and a feeling that her departure was close at hand. Her declining years were made beautiful by a devoted family and the kindness of neighbors.

JOE D. GERING, the son of Daniel and Anna (Kaufman) Gering, was born March 15, 1869, in Waldheim, Russia. The family migrated to America in the year 1874 and came to Yankton, S. D. Later they made their home on a farm near Marion. S. D. —His opportunity for schooling was meager in those days. However, his life revealed his constant endeavor to interest and educate himself with the means at his disposal.—In youth he sought the Lord and gave himself to Him in baptism. He became a member of the Salem-Zion Church.

He was married to Miss Caroline Preheim, June 17, 1914. Six children were born to them. Pearl, Mrs. Christ Kaufman; Linda, Mrs. Kurt Pankratz; Ada, Mary, Earl and Willie, who with their mother mourn the passing of their father and husband, together with the two sons-in-law, two brothers, Jake and Pete, and two sisters, Mrs. Millie Graber and Mrs. Handwerk, their families, and many friends and relatives.

Mr. Gering leaves with us the testimony of a faithful and devoted Christian life. The Lord gave and blessed him in his labors, a happy home life with his family, and the assurance of his salvation through faith in Jesus Christ. In his faith he endured his trials, frequent tests of spiritual and physical nature. He died after years of heart ailment and severe attacks, especially during the last week, having admonished his children and bidden farewell to his family and relatives, confident that by death he entered through faith the heavenly home, where he would meet the Lord, and await his loved ones. The duration of his life was 69 years, 7 months and 25 days. His body was laid to rest in the Salem- Zion Church cemetery on Sunday afternoon, Nov. 13. The Reverends Waltner, Schrag and Claassen spoke words of comfort, and Elias Schrag, Will Ortman, Phil. Krehbiel and John P. Miller sang cheering songs. A very large company of relatives and friends were in attendance.

—Bluffton, Ohio, Nov. 29.—Rev. A. S. Rosenberger, until recently president of Bluffton College, and family have moved from Bluffton to Dalton, Ohio, and Bro. Rosenberger has assumed the pastorate of the Salem Mennonite church.

— WESTERN DISTRICT CONFERENCE PEACE COMMITTEE. — Following the creation of our "SPEAKER'S BUREAU" the Peace Committee of the Western District has had the privilege of supplying many of our churches with messages on Peace. Since May 1 of this year a total of twenty-three churches have been served. The committee is anxious to hear from the remainder of the Western District churches as soon as possible.—Pastors of churches desiring to avail themselves of this service are asked to write the secretary, Rev. Walter Dyck, Burrton, Kansas, regarding preferable speaker or date.

— Zion Mennonite Church, Souderton, Pa. — J. ALVIN LEBER, aged 47, son of the late Adolf and Amanda Leber, died as a result of an unfortunate fall while making repairs on a barn. He is survived by three children, one brother and three sisters. Interment was at Hillside cemetery.

— Mennonite Church, Summerfield, Ill. — "Our Ladies' Aid Society sent 130 lbs. of used and new clothing for Canadian Relief last month, and last Sunday our church took a special offering to help those in distress and need in Canada. We feel this is a worthy cause. The other evening Rev. Sam Goering and Mr. Willis Rich, accompanied by the Bethel College Male Quartet, gave us a very interesting program.—Last Sunday the young people of our church presented the play, "In the Vanguard," by Katrina Trask, to a full house at the school hall. It was well given and made a deep impression. It was directed by Eleanor Camp.

— Emmaus Church, Whitewater, Kansas. — On Nov. 14, Alma Regier was married to William Dyck of Paso Robles, Calif., in connection with the silver wedding of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John E. Regier. The church was beautifully decorated in green for the young couple, and in blue and silver for the other. Rev. H. J. Dyck of the Zion Church, Elbing, officiated and Rev. Theo. Roth of the Swiss Church also spoke.—A. J. Regier, Corr.

— Giving Cheer to the Sick and Shut-ins is a worthy type of service. The Sunday Bulletin of St. John Church, Pandora, O., reports: "A nice group from the Ladies' Chorus attended the monthly service at the Hancock County Home. We never go there without taking away greater blessings than the service rendered."

— Rev. J. B. Epp, in charge of a Bible School at Alsen, N. D. writes: "Until now the winter here has not been worse than the usual Oklahoma winter weather. But we are promised a stronger dose of it. My MENNONITE serves the whole school, likely also as an inducement to subscribe for it. Shall recommend it.

— First Mennonite Church, Newton, Kansas, celebrates its Sixtieth Anniversary. — With thankfulness to God who has prospered the work of their church, during sixty years, the congregation reminisced the experiences on Sunday, Nov. 27, forenoon and evening. The Reverends J. E. Entz and A. Warkentin preached appropriate sermons, representatives of different departments of the church and the aged Rev. Bernhard Regier, gave interesting historical reviews, and Sister Hillegonda recited an original poem which, as all the rest of the program, was commemorative of the work that God has wrought through human effort. Addresses were also given by Rev. Milo Kauffman, President of Hesston College.—The church was organized in 1878 by Rev. Peter Claassen, with 24 members. At this time it has a membership of 556 and an attendance frequently exceeding 700. Charter members still living are: C. F. Claassen, P. M. Claassen, and Mrs. Anna Claassen Regier, brothers and sister.

— A Pastoral Message. — Christians in this day must be discerning in considering the world situation. We must not be deceived by false propaganda but we must also realize that vital issues are at stake. The Church stands at odds with the "Zeitgeist" (the spirit of the times.) It stands for justice instead of revenge, for love instead of hatred, for confidence instead of fear, for peace instead of war. The Church must help America "keep her head" in the present crisis.—Erland Waltner, Second Church, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

— Clothing Reaches Canadian Settlers. — From MOUNTAIN LAKE OBSERVER. Rev. David Toews wries: "We have received your valuable shipment of clothing. You dear people of Mt. Lake never grow tired of doing good. How often you have aided us! . . . Several hundred calls for clothing are waiting to be attended to, some even from old settlers. In spring everything looked promising, but the great drought and the grasshoppers have caused infinite losses. If conditions do not change nearly all the farm lands here will be in the hands of the banks and loan companies in a few years.—This fall we have received much moisture. Rain and snow have made the country roads impassible for cars. In many places fodder is getting scarce.

— German Propaganda Minister Dr. Goebbels has publicly warned the Jews that spreading lies about the German treatment of their race only makes their cause worse; that the German nation had again been seriously hurt by false reports about the recent outbreaks in the foreign press; that these outbreaks were the work of an enraged people who had been trying to take the solution of the Jewish problem into their own hands; that the Government had nothing to do with them; and, suddenly as they came, the police forces had been inadequate and unprepared to stop them in time.

The Best Gift of Them All

So many gifts at Christmas-tide,
Of value and description:
Bright toys that spin, or crawl, or climb,
A necktie, a subscription,
A book, a necklace, or a dress,
An overcoat or shawl;
God gave to us His blessed Son . . .
The best Gift of them all!

'Tis fine, 'tis noble to have friends
Whom we can thus remember
With tokens of our friendship true
On Christmasday's December.
Thrice happy he who with these gifts
Shuns not Salvation's call,
For God gave Christ, our Holy Lord . . .
The best Gift of them all!

Edwin C. Graber.

God With Us

There were three lights that night:
The star above the darkness, crystal fair,
The foremost angel's garment flaming white,
The baby's circled hair.

Three sounds upon the hill:
A sudden song; low drawn, a woman's sigh;
And, when the midnight deepened gray and chill,
A little, little cry.

Three woes: a witless lamb
Lost from the scattered flock; its mother grieving;
The long deep slumber of the townfolk—blind
And deaf and unbelieving.

Three wonders: dark-browned king
Riding from far; young shepherds' lifted faces;
The silver beauty raining from the star
On Bethlehem's dark places.

There were Faith, Hope and Love:
Faith that had known, Hope that had waited well,
Love that had wrought; and in their trembling midst,

Who is Our Christ?

Nearly two thousand years ago a child was born in a manner as no other child. His crib was rocked in the cradle of poverty and reared in obscurity. His life's work was confined to a country about the size of New Jersey. He was so poor that he could truthfully say, "Foxes have holes, and birds of the air have nests; but I have not where to lay my head." As a babe he startled a king; as a boy he puzzled the doctors; as a young man he ruled the course and forces of nature. He went about doing good, healing the multitudes, all free of charge, out of pure love for his fellowmen. He himself never wrote a book. But His life and work were so gloriously blessed and outstanding that more books have been written about him than about any other man or subject. He never wrote a hymn but more poetry or music has been composed with Him as the central idea than any other writer or composer. He is an Advocate that surpasses all lawyers. He is the Star of Astronomy, the bright and morning star. He is Alpha and Omega, the beginning and the end. He is the Arm of the Lord, Captain of the Lord's host, Chiefest among ten thousand. He is the power, the wisdom, the glory of God's light. He is the author and finisher of our faith. He is God, God manifest in the flesh, God of the whole earth, God with us. He is the bread of life, the water of life, the captain of our salvation, the desire of all nations. He stands forth from the highest pinnacle of heaven's glory, proclaimed of God, announced by the prophets, acknowledged of angels, adored by saints, and feared by the devils, as the living personal Christ and Savior of man. He, for whom there was no room but a stable, is now living in the hearts and directing the lives of countless men, women and children the world over. When he died, few men mourned, but the sun went into hiding for the shame perpetrated on Him. He came as a tangible, personal demonstration of God's unmeasurable love. He came to make us eternally happy, if this be our choice. All that He was, is and does He did for us. What are we doing for Him or those that stand in His stead, the poor, the lost, the friendless, now in this festive season and all along?

A good conscience is a continual Christmas.—Franklin.

Christianity's Greatest Need This Christmas

Christmas is Christianity's greatest festival. It should be a festival of unalloyed joy over the greatest and most precious gift of God to man. Yet, where is there a sincere Christian that does not feel a profound touch of sadness mingle with his Christmas joy, because of the terrible un-Christian situation in Christendom today? Hatred everywhere! Racial hatred, group hatred, national hatred, hatred between different faiths! Selfishness, avarice more general than ever before, with so little regard for those who are in distress, the hungry, the thirsty, the stranger, the naked, the sick, the imprisoned, the least among Christ's brethren (Matt. 26:30ff). And we in America who proudly style ourselves a Christian nation, where are we, with newspapers, stores,, etc., running riot on the Santa Claus tommy-rot. In an adjacent town, in a strongly Christian community, with a good many Mennonites, the daily paper heralds the coming of Santa Claus with a cartoon of grotesque figures, and a note that reads in part, "When Santa Claus comes to . . . December 10, with his big new parade which is more than nine blocks long, he will have 20 of the funniest people and animals you have ever seen with him," etc. What a travesty on Christmas, that is meant to be held sacred because it commemorates the coming of our glorious Savior, the great love-gift of God, in thus making Santa Claus, accompanied by grotesque caricatures, the giver and dispenser of gifts! What poison to innocent children's minds! The same nonesense, with all of its harm to youthful hearts, is perpetrated in our public schools and, God have mercy! even in some churches. How long are we, thoughtful Christians, we Mennonites going to look on, while this unchristian, heathenish practice is being perpetrated and increasing? Then there are the Sunday Comics over which children in Christian homes are allowed to gloat Sunday after Sunday, and grown-ups too, even to the extent of keeping them from church. This is another scheme of the devil, just like Santa Claus, to divert Christians minds from the true things, the godly things, or to make them ridiculous.—If a prophet of the old school were to visit us, he would say, Christians, Mennonites, repent in sackcloth and ashes for permitting such things. Arise, remove them from your midst. Unite in prayer to God, that He may open your eyes to the dangers surrounding you; unite in prayers for peace, for more love to fellow men. Make this Christmas memorable as a Season of Prayer that God may have mercy upon you, and that ways may be paved to set this sinful world right.

"He that covereth his sins shall not prosper, but who confesseth and forsaketh them shall have mercy."—Prov. 28:13.

LETTERS

The Mennonite of November 29 took me longer to peruse than it generally does. There were many things of interest in its columns. The editorials on page one were timely. I have too often to think of the unfortunate situation we as German descendants feel we are in when we naturally deplore and protest against the mother country's attitude toward God's people. Let us pray and by voice and vote help keep our nation free from such a situation.

I was wondering who the Mennonite mother is who gave us such "A Timely and Pertinent Word," in the MENNONITE of November 29, page two. Very hear more such timely Declarations of Peace! All the other articles, too, were good, though not commented on here.

Thank you, Brother George (Stoneback) for telling us what you are doing along the line of PEACE in Goshen, Indiana.

Bro. J. J. Plenert, treasurer of Home Mission work is very thoughtful in giving us his address. Let other treasurers do likewise.

Fraternally yours, Allen M. Fretz.

Dear Brother Thierstein:

I have been a reader of the Mennonite since the days it had been published in Quakertown, Pa., and Rev. A. S. Shelly had been its editor, and it had still been an Eastern District Conference organ, but, of course, the paper had never been anything like it is today. It was a happy day for our English Conference paper when it was moved to Newton, Kansas, and you people at the College did the editing. I am a graduate of Bethel Academy, in 1911. Haverford College is my Alma Mater. And I have been wanting to tell you personally, Brother Thierstein, and your able assistants, how much we now appreciate the Mennonite. There is not a single department that is not now very good, but Rev. A. S. Bechtel's Sunday School lessons are grand.

I wonder whether you could not enter, perhaps in your "Jottings" a little something of the Upper Milford Mennonite Church, at Zionsville, Pa. This thriving little congregation, one of the oldest rural congregations of our Conference, has for over two hundred years been making steady progress. We have almost from the first been surrounded by much larger protestant churches, and to hold our own against the influence of greater numbers for more than two hundred years is quite a feat in itself. But this small congregation has kept on growing, adding a few members yearly and hardly ever losing any but by death, until we now number approximately one hundred and fifty members, housed in one of the most beautiful Mennonite rural churches, debt-free even during the worst of the depression and, together with the small Allentown Church, support Rev. Howard G. Nice, one of the fine young ministers of our whole Conference. And all this, brother Thierstein, without ever making much ado about it.

We are having weekly church and Sunday school services, monthly meetings of the Young People's Society. Together with a thriving Ladies' Aid Society. Church is always comfortably filled on a Sunday; services, it goes without saying, well appreciated by both members and friends. The missionaries, Moyers, from India, have been with us October 30. Fall communion well attended, and the church has now chartered a bus to convey members and friends to its weekly meetings, the bus brings and fetches the people from Allentown and Emmaus, Pa.

Yours truly, William, S. Geisinger.

Dear Friend Thierstein:

I have read with interest the brief statement by Olin Krehbiel on "Appreciating Our Heritage," and can't help making a few comments.

I have been greatly disturbed over the fact that there are so many ex-Mennonites all over the country. Our people were among the early settlers of the Colonies. They were a part of the stock which made up the foundation group in Philadelphia and Pennsylvania. It was this stock that later moved westward and settled in Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, etc. These pioneers held within their hands the molding of the basic principles of America. Thus, the Mennonite Church had the unique opportunity of playing a leading role in molding the destiny of America.

This country, however, is filled with ex-Mennonites, not because these folks and their children didn't realize "the value of things Mennonite." They have followed other denominations, or none at all, largely because too many leaders crept into the church who forgot the spirit and saw only the letter of the law. They made the word "peculiar" to mean something "odd" instead of "unique," and so made the church seem impossible to many of the oncoming generations. Instead of holding forth the principles of our Historic Faith, they also introduced too many un-Mennonite ideas. If they had followed the principles of our Faith with the spirit of the Man of Nazareth; if they had been zealous in constructively and progressively building up the church as they were in criticiszing those who didn't agree with them; the Mennonite Church would be one of the largest and most influential churches in the country. What a force we could be for peace at this hour!

Then we have had our quarrels about post- and premillenialism, eternal security, and the like which have caused disension and division and have been the undoing of our churches. Also we have insisted on having congregation government, but we have paid a tremendous price for that privilege.

Our church has no bright future unless this trouble is immediately remedied. And the only remedy lies in colleges like Bluffton and Bethel; and a Seminary from which will flow a source of TRAINED leader-ship which will come into our churches and be tolerant, cooperative, progressive, spiritual, and TRUE MENNONITES.—Sincerely, William H. Stauffer.

Editor's Note: We thank the above three brethren for their interesting contributions, their splendid comments and especially also for their words of appreciation. May we hear from them again.

I WANT A DICTATOR

(Christians would prefer a godly king.—Editor)

I love my country. I try to be a patriotic American citizen. I appreciate the blessing of free speech, freedom of the press, the right to worship as I please, and the privilege of owning private property, but I want a dictator! I want to retain the right to criticize men in public offices and to vote for the men who represent the will of the people in Washington, D. S., but above all, I want a dictator.

I fear Democracy without brotherly love. In America, at the consent of the people, innocent citizens were burned at the stake as witches.

It was the democratic will of the people to buy and sell men, women, and children as slaves. It was to preserve democracy that 10,000,000 men fought and died in "No Man's Land." It was the blundering, plundering will of the people in reply to Pilate's pronouncement, "I find no fault in Him," that shouted in unison "Crucify Him!"

Mass murder, peach seeds saved to make poisonous gas, innocent men lynched without reason or trial—God forgive us for atrocities committed in response to the mad whims of men not motivated by Love.

I want a dictator, a dictator whose heart is tuned to the pulsations of your soul and mine, a dictator for whom the birds sing, and the planet's follow in their courses, a dictator whose eye is on the sparrow and whose soul is in all and above all: one who will humble the proud and confound the wise; one who will heal the leper and give sight to the blind; one who will comfort the broken hearted and strengthen the weak and the weary; one who will turn spears into pruning hooks and swords into plowshares; one who has it planned that the meek shall inherit the earth. I want a dictator who will live forever, one who dwells among men that they might have life and have it more abundantly. I want a sovereign who will bring kindness to an embittered world. I want the liberty of democracy guided by the authority of God under whose guidance my forefathers came to this blessed land. I want to do justly, love mercy, and walk humbly with Him.—Willis E. Rich.

National Stewardship Convention

(Held in Chicago, Nov. 1-3)

by P. H. Richert

Never before have leading men in all denominations, including Jews, Catholics, and Protestants, been so convinced as today, that a revival in Christian stewardship is needed in the widest sense of stewardship of life, property and service.

This conviction brought the leaders of all these bodies from all parts of the country together, about a thousand of them. The purpose was summed up in "Recovery of Religion and Welfare."

On the first evening the outstanding speaker was the Hon. F. B. Sayre, Assistant Secretary of State from Washington. While I came too late to hear him, through others I learned that he had made an excellent appeal for a penetration of all phases of life, political, social, economic, educational and religious, by the Spirit of Christ, as the only hope for recovery.

On the second day, the first full day, mostly statistical reports were given, which showed how sick the patient was. These reports were so to say "blood tests" to find out just what the ailment is. The diagnosis showed that there were not enough red corpuscles and too many white ones, figuratively speaking.

During the last five years the number of churches in this country has decreased 19%. In one year, 1937, 30,000 churches had to close the doors. Gifts for the Kingdom of God have decreased 28%, for welfare, Red Cross, etc., 22%. In ten years, the attendance of the School and church has decreased 30% in spite of an increase of membership.

During the last five years, on the other hand, the following expenditures have increased:

Autos	188%	Jewelry	24%
Whisky	100%	Armaments	41%
Radios	220%	Tobacco	43%
Beer	602%

No wonder that the nation is sick in body and soul. For our daily physical bread we expend 17 times as much as for the bread of life for our souls. For the health of the body we expend three times as much as for the health of the soul.

On the last day a number of speakers emphasized the same remedy, especially Dr. Wicky, the General Secretary of the National Conference of the church related colleges. It was really inspiring and refreshing to hear a man in his leading position speak out so boldly and clearly what ails our present schools, namely the separation of ethics from religion, of scholarship from Bible knowledge, in brief, we have divorced education from the Scriptures. If this address could find a place in every home and school in our country, we would soon witness a revival and a recovery of religion and welfare, which was the outspoken aim of this convention.

Constant efforts were made in the addresses to show how much democracy depends on a well educated body of voters. One was reminded of a statement made by an experienced statesman some years ago, "If the voters are intelligent and of good character, a democracy is the best form of government under heaven, but if this is not the case, then it is the worst form of government." Does this perhaps explain the increase of dictatorships in the world? I recall that one of our U. S. Senators a few years ago came home from Washington to Philadelphia so discouraged that he said to one of his friends, "What we need is a king." "What?" said his friend, "a king?" "Yes, a king, but that must be Christ." Why was he so disappointed? Chiefly because lawmakers were so far apart in their aims and opinions that good legislation could make no headway. Selfishness, instead of the common welfare, controlled too many legislators. Only the spirit of Christ can make men unselfish.

The great need for a more spiritual outlook on life was also emphasized. As it is now, the main efforts are to make this world a better place to live in, without paying enough attention to make people fit for a better world. One was reminded of Russia's promise five years ago, to make a paradise in Russia, and at the same time destroy the "opium" of religion, that is destroy all spiritual outlook on life. No wonder that their paradise turned out to be a hell. If other countries will not learn by this example before our eyes, they will have the same experience. If God wanted man, as he is at present, to live in paradisical conditions and to have the abundant physical life without an abundant spiritual life, he could easily place us back into paradise, by making the whole world a paradise. But he loves man too much to do that at this time. Christ's promise of the abundant life is today so often applied merely to physical life, that it almost becomes a blasphemous quoting of Christ, who evidently had first of all the spiritual abundant life in mind, and as a result of that, the physical welfare, and abundant life.

The hospitals and homes for the aged received much attention. The main speaker on this subject claimed that there is danger of depending too much on state aid in this, thus becoming dependent and unfree, which tends to destory democracy and independent thinking besides undermining the spirit of personal benevolence, which after all is essential to real Christianity. He also claimed that on account of medical science and the care of the aged, the average length of life has increased so rapidly, that, while fifty years ago it was 30 years, and 20 years ago 40 years, it is now about 45 years. Where five young men today carry, so to say, one old man on their back, he claimed that by 1975 or so, each young man would have to carry one old man on his back, and we should prepare for this now by supporting the home for the aged program, that is, the church program.

The church colleges also received much attention. It was pointed out that the increase of attendance in state schools made competition between church and state schools so keen, that the very life of the church schools was in danger. It would require redoubled efforts to keep church colleges going by equipping them as well as the state schools. On the questin of college debts an experienced college man said, that they should never be made, and if they had been made, they should first be wiped out. The indispensibleness of the church colleges for church and state, as bulwarks of democracy was especially emphasized.

One thing was somewhat disappointing, namely that not more time was taken for stewardship of money. In this connection I must mention among the literature on display, one little pamphlet by Dr. Vickrey, chairman of the Convention. It is entitled, "When and How should one Give or Distribute from Capital?" It deals especially with wills, and is very good. It can be ordered from: THE GOLDEN RULE FOUNDATION, 60 East 42 St., New York.

The motto of this leaflet is taken from Eccl. 5:13-15: "There is a grievous evil which I have seen under the sun, namely, riches perish by evil adventure, and if he hath begotten a son, there is nothing in his hand. Naked came he into this world and naked shall he return as he came and shall take nothing of his labor which he shall carry away in his hand."

NOT TOO MUCH FOR AN INDIAN

An Indian one day asked Bishop Whipple to give him two one-dollar bills for a two-dollar note. The bishop asked, "Why?" The Indian said, "One dollar for me to give to Jesus, and one dollar for my wife to give." The bishop asked him if it was all the money he had. He said, "Yes." The bishop was about to tell him, "It is too much," when an Indian clergyman, who was standing by, whispered: "It might be too much for a white man to give, but not too much for an Indian who has this year heard for the first time the love of Jesus."

When we realize what it means to have been privileged to hear the gospel, and when we have accepted Him as our personal Saviour, it should follow that we want to get this gospel to those who have not been so fortunate as we. And this brings to mind another story which so beautifully illustrates this point.

A Swedish girl was met at Ellis Island, by a faithful missionary and led to Christ. Out of the first month's wages of twelve dollars, she brought ten to the missionary, saying, "I want to help some one else find the Saviour I have found."

"Let every man give as he purposes in his heart; not grudgingly, or of necessity: for God loveth a cheerful giver."

Expressions of Appreciation to and Impressions of Churches Visited by the Bluffton College Gospel Team

Upon the return of our Gospel Team from a ten day Thanksgiving Vacation tour to our churches at Mountain Lake, Minnesota, Iowa and Central Illinois, it was suggested that I write a brief account of this tour for the readers of our church papers.

As a member of this team, I have had the glorious privilege of visiting altogether, in at least forty different Mennonite Churches, distributed over three conferences, in six states and Ontario, Canada, travelling a total of over 15,000 miles. These various trips have left a three-fold, indelible impression upon me.

First, Mennonites have a priceless heritage to cherish. Mennonite beliefs are not outmoded. They are vital to our present day. I was glad to read the article by Rev. Olin Krehbiel in a recent issue of the Mennonite, where he spoke of the heritage of Mennonites.

On our recent trip we had the privilege to visit the churches at Mountain Lake, Minnesota, where we had a wonderful time of Christian fellowship. Most of them are descendants of Mennonites who came from Russia in the seventies of last century. The priceless heritage was dear to them. Then, too, our visit to the Mennonite communities of Ontario, Can, will never be forgotten. Here too we found a sincere group of Mennonites who believe in our historical principles.

To me, these fundamental principles have their root directly in the teachings of Jesus, and I am glad that they are principles rather than a series of do's and don'ts; for they are adaptable to any age and any situation—are cherished by Mennonites in all churches; however, I have wondered if we have truly pondered their significance—the Bible our Absolute Rule of Faith and Practice, a spirit of non-resistance, the simple life, a pure church, and all the others.

The second great impression was perhaps an outgrowth of the first one—the fact that all Mennonite communities are prosperous. I wonder if this may be due partly to our simple living and spirit of brotherhood. The Lord has promised rich blessing for those who truly follow Him. Everywhere we have gone—Mountain Lake, Minnesota, Iowa, Central and Northern Illinois, Central Indiana, Wayne County, Ohio, and Eastern Pennsylvania—we found a large number of thrifty, hard-working, simple living, prosperous communities. Mennonites are not a dead, backward, decadent people; but they have a dynamic, vital, living message.

The third great impression is preeminently the most vivid in my mind—the fact that everywhere we found a large number of young people who are earnest Christians. To me it was a conclusive answer to the despairing, extremely pessimistic philosophy which would have us believe that everyone is "going to the dogs," and that the church is rapidly loosing ground. Like Elijah we need the scales removed from our spiritual eyes and we too will see the 7000 that have not bowed down their knee to Baal.

The Lord has his 7000 among the Mennonites. Young people are eagerly serving their Lord. They are offering their lives in consecrated service. To claim anything otherwise would be to minimize the Gospel of Jesus Christ, which is so attractive in its saving and energizing power, that when presented in its purity, young people are attracted to it.

In closing this brief—and all too sketchy article —let me, through this medium, thank all those good pastors and churches who have so generously received us in their communities. We hope our visits may have been mutually blessed.

Andrew R. Shelly, Senior,
Bluffton College.

GOD'S GREAT LOVE

Matthew 2:1-12.

The Wise Men Seeking the King vs 1, 2.

The certainty of God's Word is revealed in Jesus' birth as it had been prophecied 700 years earlier. God used the decrees of men to bring the mother of Jesus to Bethlehem at this time. God entered the life of the world in the person of the Babe of Bethlehem that He might reveal himself fully to men. "The Word was made flesh and dwelt among us." All Bible lanes converge toward Jesus who came to bless all nations.

Wise men from the east came to see and worship the new-born King. They were the ancient magi who were students of the stars and may have learned from Jews of the Dispersion of the much-expected coming of the Messiah, a universal King. God used an unusual star to lead them to believe that now this King had come. They followed the light God gave them, gladly making a long journey to worship the King. They recognized Him to be the Lord from heaven, the Savior. They welcomed Him.

The Alarmed King Herod vs. 3-8

The news brought by the wise men should have given him joy, but he was greatly troubled (v 3). He wanted to be king himself. Many a heart is far from ready to welcome Christ as King. The people too were troubled. Jerusalem, the city of the great King, was not ready to receive Him. Many would be troubled today if they knew he were coming tomorrow. Herod at once inquired from the religious leaders and teachers as to where Christ should be born (v 4). He went to the best source of information and the men gave to him the one indisputable authority, (vs 5, 6) God's Word of prophecy, Micah 5:2. We do well to consult God Himself in his Word for such things as may be found therein. Herod was thorough in his search, he was determined to make sure, but he had left God out of his calculations (v 7, 8). He professed a worshipful interest in the new King which however was all hypocricy (cf v 16). He was convinced this Babe of Bethlehem was the promised King and he deliberately planned to take its life and thwart God's word and plan. There are those, the many today who know the teaching of God's Word about Christ, who believe He is the Son of God, but still refuse to accept Him as King in their hearts, as Savior.

The Wise Men Find and Worship Jesus vs 9-12

They left Jerusalem at once to find the King. God led them, they kept their eyes on the star. They followed the light and it led them to the very spot where the young child was (v 9). They were accustomed to observe stars closely and God adapted His leading to them. He still guides men to Christ, his only begotten Son. He has nothing better to offer.

The wise men rejoiced exceedingly when they found the child (v 10). How marked the contrast with verse 3. They sought the King and welcomed Him, while Herod and Jerusalem did not. Frequently those who enjoy the largest and finest privileges, do the least appreciate them. Often those who have the least light are most eager for more light.

These wise men showed their appreciation in a tangible way (v 11). They saw the child, they had no doubts, their hopes were satisfied, they worshipped Him. The worship went further than mere expression of reverence and adoration. They did not come empty-handed, for after worshipping they presented gifts out of their precious treasures—very costly gifts, the best possible—and their hearts. Christ is always worthy of our best. The true order for us is, first worship, then giving, worship in giving. The wise men sought Jesus, they found Him, they rejoiced over Him, they worshipped Him, they gave gifts to Him. Our best gift to Him is our heart and life—all our love. God in His supreme love gave His Son to us. We too should love Him whole-heartedly.

May the Lord bless us all as we begin another year of life and usefulness.

—Dr. Wicky at the Stewardship convention in Chicago: Horace Mann, one of the early founders of our present public school system, who lived 100 years ago, once said, "After our country will have had the public schools a hundred years, the crimes will have disappeared." On this assumption the system was built. What has been the result? Crimes have increased 500 per cent since Horace Mann lived.

Publication

The Board of Publication of the General Conference has recently caused to be sent to the churches samples of the projected new publication of which will begin early in the New Year and orders can be filled for the second quarter and the rest of the year of 1939. In a letter and through the Mennonite the churches, resp. Sunday Schools, have been kindly asked to save their orders for literature for the intermediate ages for this new Quarterly. We confidently hope that they will cooperate with the Boards of Education and Publication in doing this. Orders for 2nd, 3rd and 4th quarters can now be placed any time.

INTERMEDIATE S. S. QUARTERLY

There have also been sent out to the churches about 1800 copies of the new successor to the Kinderbote and Junior Messenger for our English churches. The copies distributed are the first number of the paper for 1939. Single subscribers to whom their copies have been sent as usual, were requested in a letter enclosed with the paper to save them for that number. To churches and clubs several samples were sent for examination, especially also to places where the German-English paper has not been read. This has reference to the Eastern, Middle and Pacific Conference generally, as well as to other parts of our Conference.

May we hope and pray that this paper, which is considerably improved over the old one, find entry and use in a very large number of our General Conference homes, either singly or through club orders by Sunday Schools. We are confident that the editors, with the help of God, will make this a positively blessed piece of literature for our children and young people.

To avoid the confusion that has so long existed in connection with subscriptions to our publications, particularly the church papers, the Board of Publication has engaged Bro. J. M. Suderman, a well reputed minister of the Western District, as Subscription or Circulation Manager, with office at Newton, Kansas, where in the future all orders for subscriptions and money paid for them are to be handled. Bro. Suderman was to begin work now. He is under the doctor's care at present, but is steadily improving and hopes to begin his duties about the first of the year or soon after. More definite information later.

By order of the Conference the Board of Publication are also to provide a Kinderbote, or a successor to it, for the churches that need or prefer a German children's paper. The Board met with several of the leading brethren in the Canadian provinces at Saskatoon. As they were not quite sure as to the character of the paper they wanted, they agreed to appoint a committee which should consult with others, study the needs, and then lay their plans before our Board. But to date we have not yet heard from them.

For the Board of Publication,
J. R. Thierstein, chairman.

"Mennonite Radio Hour"

At the recent Western District Conference in Enid, Oklahoma, the Committee on Schools and Education was delegated to feature some radio programs pertaining to Mennonites. Dr. A. Warkentin found that Station KFH, Wichita, Kansas was willing to let us use the station for such a purpose on Saturday of each week, from 9:30 to 9:45 a. m. So the Committee appointed the Brethren J. N. Smucker, D. C. Wedel and Menno Schrag as a radio committee to arrange for the programs. And with the help of others they have succeeded in giving several. Though the efforts were amateurish, a good many people expressed their appreciation of them to the Station.

A couple of weeks ago the management informed the Radio Committee, they could no longer permit these programs as coming from the church, as other churches were requesting the same privilege. However, if Bethel College were to present the programs, they might be continued under the caption "Mennonite Radio Hour."

This change has now been made and a series of programs will be presented during the coming weeks by the College, centering around Christmas and New Year. If they please, will the friends continue telling the Station so.—Western District Conference Committee.

Business:

The Mission Secretary reported a total of $817.52 had been raised on our pledge of $750.00. The amount in excess of the pledge was divided on the same basis as the pledge was made, i. e. 1-3 to each of the following: Native evangelistic work in China; American Indian Mission; aid for the new church at Dallas, Oregon.

The Mission Project for this year is:

For Rev. J. H. Janzen, for sending out his "Letters to my people" in Canada, $220.00;—For a mechanical refrigerator for the use of Drs. Bauman in Champa, India, $300.00;—For the return passage of Missionaries S. T. Moyer and Mrs. Moyer to India, or for any special purpose that Missionary Moyer may suggest, $330.00;—Total, $750.00.

Resolutions adopted:

1 and 2.—The usual expressions of gratitude toward God and the host church.

3.—RESOLVED: That in view of the disturbed conditions all over the world, we renew our stand for evangelical teaching, Christian conduct and Mennonite principles, (in particular, non-resistance) and that we encourage Sunday Schools to take a firm stand in this regard.

4.—RESOLVED: That we recommend to all teachers and scholars the reading of the pamphlet on Peace, as prepared by Rev. E. J. Bohn.

Other resolutions adopted earlier in the convention:

2.—Resolved: That a wire of congratulation be sent to Brother Charles H. Moyer of Philadelphia, who was the first treasurer of our Uunion sixty-four years ago.

3.—RESOLVED: That if the Union accepts the project to accumulate money toward the erection of buildings, etc. on our new retreat grounds, that we vote to authorize our treasurer to draw an order immediately to donate $100 toward this project from our general treasury.

4.—RESOLVED: That a synopsis of convention and formal resolutions be sent out to each Sunday School Superintendent for his information and use at his discretion.

6.—RESOLVED: That we authorize the incoming executive committee to contribute $25.00 to the Retreat Committee and to pay the expenses of the members of that committee, who represent this Union.

8.—RESOLVED: That the Evangelistic effort be continued and made a definite part of the Sunday School.

9.—RESOLVED: That we continue to be interested actively in the support of the Mennonite Book Concern and the publications of the General Conference.

10.—RESOLVED: . . . . that this Association desires to cooperate in the plans for the entertainment of the General Conference in this District in 1941, in any way they feel we may be of service, and that we make the sum of $25.00 available toward the advance expenses in planning for the sessions.

The convention was addressed in the afternoon session by Rev. Erland Waltner, Pastor of Second Church, Philadelphia. His lecture was based on the Convention Theme, "Learn-then-serve."

Some outstanding impressions received:

"We find that many of those who sit under our instruction as Sunday School teachers do not carry out the things they hear. They are hearers and not doers. Learning and Serving on the part of the teacher must be united. Learning is more than the acquiring of knowledge. It is the experience of life.

"The teacher must be "Christian, Consecrated, Creative;" must have natural ability. The teacher must study and set the example.

"The teacher must always have a definite goal and must know how to proceed with the presentation of the lesson material. The teachers must be regarded as shepherds; must lead the pupil to have a desire to study the Scriptures.

"Do not feed the child 'apple sauce.' but plant 'apple trees.'

"Finally, the teacher must know, live and teach the truth."

The evening session was addressed by Rev. Harold Burkholder, Pastor of East Swamp Church. His discourse was also based on the Convention Theme.

Officers of the S. S. Union for year 1938-1939:

President—William H. Shelly, 2nd Church, Phila.; Vice-President—Walter M. Nace, 1st Church, Phila.; Secretary—Mrs. Florence Schultz, Schwenksville; Treasurer—Raymond Stauffer, Zionsville; Field Secretary—Walter H. Temple, Germantown; Mission Secretary—Miss Huldah, Meyers, West Swamp.

—Dr. Peter D. Thieszen of Marion, So. Dak. died recently at the age of 80 years. Dr. Thieszen was known far and wide. A number of years ago an effort was made to stop his practice, because he could not procure a license. The case was taken before the state legislature, and a bill to restrain him from practice was introduced. When this became known, so many members of the assembly remembered cases in their neighborhood where the Doctor had brought relief, and the sentiment in his favor became so strong that the measure never even got a first hearing. His father Derk Thieszen was one of the best bone setters and anatomy experts known. His charges were 25 cents and no charges on Sunday. The Thieszen's have a clinic in Marion and three of Dr. Peter Thieszen's sons have offices there. To help suffering humanity is their sole purpose.

Our Youth Says

"A UNITED MENNONITE YOUTH IN CHRIST"

Select Projects for Young People Groups of General Conference

North Newton, Kans.—A Y. P. paper, prayer calendar and Y. P. follow-up system have been added to the list of mission projects which are now being engaged by the Mennonite youth of the General Conference.

The proposed paper is to be a means of uniting more effectively the young people's groups in all the districts of the conference. Present plans are to substitute the "Our Youth Says" in its present form with a separate publication put out by the Y. P. Union in cooperation with the Board of Education and the Board of Publication.

The prayer calendar and follow-up system are being worked out in response to the new program adopted by the young people in their recent session at Saskatoon. The purpose of the follow-up system is to keep in contact with young people leaving their home for school or work by placing them in contact with Mennonites in their new locality.

Divide Missions Funds

An appeal is being made to the various young people's groups for the regular mission projects. Missions receipts are being divided into three ways. One portion goes to China for native workers; another goes to India for the mass evangelism fund; the third will be used to support city mission workers in the employ of the home mission board.

These projects have been accepted by the young people's committee in its program of cooperation with the foreign and home mission work of the General Conference.

Later articles will explain the proposed follow-up system. It is hoped that readers will send comments and questions on it to "Our Youth Says," North Newton, Kansas.

Young People's Committee Decides to Assume Full Debt Payment

"Due to an oversight in the report of the former treasurer the Y. P. Committee announces that it is in the red. The former committee left unpaid part of the salary of the field secretary, the amount of which was $50.00.

"The new committee is taking over this debt and so needs funds right away in order to carry on its work. The offering taken at the conference has covered part of the deficit. It has been decided that the deficit be taken care of by making this appeal to our young people's societies so that the work may go forward.

"We trust that our Mennonite Youth will respond to this need and to the new endeavors of our Young People's Union.

Yours "toward a united Mennonite youth in Christ,"

William Juhnke, treas. of Y. P. Union

DECEMBER

Though the earth has grown old with its toil and its strife,
In December, it always is young.
It is then that it seems to take on renewed life
For 'tis then that the cheer of our Christmas is rife,
And the sweetest of carols are sung.

It is then that the feet of mankind should be led
To the path that the Savior has trod.
It is then that the poor should be sheltered and fed,
It is then that our every good deed should be sped,
For we are the children of God.

Looking Forward

Intermediate C. E. Topis, January 1, 1939

For Daily Study

Dec. 26. Solomon's wish. I Kings 3:5-14
Dec. 27. Elisha's request. 2 Kings 2:8-15
Dec. 28. The ambition of James and John. Matt. 20:20-24
Dec. 29. Paul's aim. 2 Cor. 5:4-10
Dec. 30. Paul's plan of work. Rom. 15:14-21.
Dec. 31. Steps in growth. 2 Peter 1:2-11
Jan. 1. Topic—"The Person I Hope to Become." John 1:12; Phil. 3:7-14.

Something Different

To make this topic personal, you might try this: After the discussion, allow about 10 minutes before the close of the meeting. Provide each Intermediate with paper, pencil and an envelope. Ask them in all seriousness to describe, "The Person I Hope to Become." This can include the career as well as the character. These are then put into envelopes, sealed and addressed to themselves with the date January 1, 1949 in one corner. Give them into the keeping of the pastor or some other person who will be interested enough to preserve them and send them to each of the writers 10 years hence.

Preprayer Circle

Read II Peter 3:18. Pray that your meeting may help each one to see what kind of person he may become in Christ Jesus. Pray that there may be a sincere interest in the topic.

Praise in Song

Select several songs of praise and aspiration.

Announcements. (President in charge)

Quiet Worship

Piano: (softly) "Jesus Calls Us"
Leader: John 1:12
Special music: "I'm A Child of the King"
Scripture lesson: Phil. 3:7-14.
Song: "I'll Live for Him"
Sentence prayers, closed by the superintendent.
Offering: "We Give Thee But Thine Own"

Presenting the Topic

1. For the leader. What I am tomorrow I am becoming today. Tomorrow it is too late to change what I am becoming today. When harvest time comes a man may wish to reap wheat instead of the corn he has planted. But it cannot be done. So it is with character. "Whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap." We need to realize that we are building today the kind of person we shall be in the future. Illustrate with the skill of a violinist, which he must acquire when very small. Are we sowing the seeds now of what we expect to reap in the future?

2. Character or career.

a. 1 Kings 3:5-14. Do you consider Solomon's wish a wise one? Why?

b. Matt. 20:20-24. What was wrong with the ambition of the two brothers? Which did they put first, their character or career?

c. What is the difference between the character of a person and his carreer? Which is the more important? Why should we be more concerned about our character in the thinking of the person we hope to be?

3. Determining our future. (short talks)

a. The soil. John 3:7, a regenerated heart. It must be a changed heart by the power of God. If you expect to make something beautiful you must have good material to start with. II Cor. 5:17.

b. The seed. 2 Peter 3:18. How does our growth depend upon our knowledge of His word? What part does the Quiet Hour play in determining our future?

c. The cultivation. 1 John 3:3; 1 Tim. 4:12. How is our future affected by our thoughts; our habits; faithfulness in little things; our ambitions?

Closing Moments

Build it straight and strong and true—
"We are building every day,
In a good or evil way;
And the structure as it grows
Will our inmost soul disclose.

Till in every arch and line
All our faults and failings shine—
It may grow a castle grand,
Or a wreck upon the sand.

Do you ask what building this,
That can show both pain and bliss—
That can be both dark and fair?
Lo, its name is Character.

Build it well whate'er you do,
Build it straight and strong and true,
Build it clean and high and broad;
Build it for the eye of God."
—Unknown

Benediction: Ps. 19:14.

JUNIOR CORNER

"Whither Thou Goest, I Will Go"

(Ruth 1:16)

Consecration Meeting, January 8, 1939

Quiet Music

Opening service. Brief because of consecration service.

1. Song service of favorite hymns
2. Responsive reading: Psalm 91:1-12
3. Leader's prayer

Mission minutes: Recent reports from the field. Brief discussion of project to be taken up. Please remember that to your District Mission Secretary (Women's Mission Society) has been given the task of suggesting projects for the endeavors. To find who your representative is, just look at the heading of the Junior - Intermediate page of Mission News and Notes.

Study period. Aim: To deepen the longing to become a follower of Jesus.

1. Group sings: "Whosoever Will May Come." Verse one.

2. Learning from the Book of Ruth: At the previous meeting let it be announced that each one read the book of Ruth and bring one question to this meeting. At this time these questions could be read one by one and answered by the one who first raises a hand. The answer should be proved by the scripture passage.

3. Group sings verse two of "Whosoever Will"
4. Learning from Ruth: Talks by juniors
   a. Ruth makes a right decision: Ruth 1:1-10, 14-22
   b. Ruth serves faithfully: Ruth chapter 2
   c. God blesses Ruth: Ruth and her mother-in-law are provided for (chapter 2); Ruth finds a husband (Ruth 4:13); Ruth comes into the family into which Jesus was born. Ruth 4:12.
5. Group sings verse three of "Whosoever Will May Come."
6. Discussion: "When can God bless me?" The answers should be drawn out of Ruth 2:13: When we make the right decision to walk with Jesus, when we serve Him faithfully, when we stay so near to him as though we were under His wings.
7. Solo voice (from the rear, unseen): "Under His Wings." Verse 3 only.

Consecration Service: Lights out. Candles lit.

1. Quiet music plays while candles are lighted. Use the music of "Under His Wings"
2. Recitation by a junior using verses 1, 2 and 4 of "Jesus Calls Us"
3. Response by a group singing "I can Hear My Saviour Calling." Verse 1 and 4.
4. Leader's Heart-talk: Speak the words of the song, "Give Me Thy Heart."
5. Response by group singing verse 2 and 5 of "Just As I Am"
6. Leaders' closing statement: "Ruth said to her mother-in-law, "whithersoever thou goest, I will go." She profited by her decision to be true. May God lead our hearts to say to our Saviour, "whithersoever Thou goest, I will go." It will be profitable for us to be true to Him.
7. Groups response: "I Would Be True to Thee, Lord." Verse 1.
8. Parting prayer by group.

RIDING TO A FALL

President Joe Scott of the Oklahoma state board of agriculture doubtless sounds pretty prosy and mossbackish when he says the football team at Oklahoma A. & M. college is far less valuable to the state than the college's livestock judging team. He may be regarded in some quarters as an eccentric old fogey when he adds that the money paid at the college for a coaching staff could better be used to buy a dozen dandy bulls for the improvement of the state's livestock.

But if Joe Scott sounds that way, the colleges themselves, including the coach-baiting alumni, are largely to blame. For many colleges are terrifically over-emphasizing football and in the inevitable reaction that will develop one of these days, there may be no intercollegiate football left.

Some of the college presidents are trying to lead a movement to make football incidental in higher educational display windows. They are exposing their necks to the wrath of those who back the present hysterical college football set-up. But they are far better friends, for all that, of collegiate football than those who are now certainly riding it to a fall.

Non-Resistance and the Service of the Army Chaplain

John Horsch, Scottdale, Penna.

What is the task of the military army chaplain? On account of the circumstance that this question has recently been considered in Mennonite circles, it might be just now timely to draw attention to a writing giving dependable information about this.

The booklet is entitled "Kriegerzweifel, ein Soldatenbuechlein" (Warriors doubts, a booklet for soldiers). The author is Robert Falke, Superintendent (Bishop) of the protestant state church in Wernigerode. It appeared at the time of the World War (1917), published by E. Bierman in Bremen. The booklet brings evidence, that many soldiers, who have received a Christian education in their youth, are subject to serious doubts whether military service can be reconciled to the teachings of Christ. The writing shows that it is precisely the task of the army chaplain to convince the doubter of the ostensible error of such thoughts.

The author first speaks of the various national enemies of Germany during the World War, and then continues:

"To these enemies is added, gradually, another, and he is almost more dangerous than those mentioned. That is DOUBT. Of course, it is not the doubt as to whether we will win the war. After two victorious years of war, we Germans will not pemit ourselves to be deprived of this assurance of victory, and we have unlearned fear.

"It is a different doubt, which is crawling through the trenches and creeping into the hearts of the warrior: namely religious doubt. It makes the heart sick and paralyzes the arm.

The religious doubt, of which the author of this writing here speaks, is the doubt as to whether military service agrees with Christianity. He then continues: "This war has become a gruesome murder. Millions of Christians have been buried in the ground. Frightful distress has come over the peoples.

"When the German warrior meets the Frenchman, the Englishman and Russian in close combat, he runs the cold bayonet through his body or shatters his head with the gun-barrel. How does such murder agree with the command to love ones enemy?

"Those are warrior's doubts! They have arisen mightily in the course of the long duration of the war, and disturb the mind of many a brave man. They have written us from the trenches and have begged us to help them in their distress.

"Jesus commands: 'Love your enemies.' Is it not quite impossible to keep this command in war? Many a warrior has scruples on account of the contrast between the command of Jesus and the mass murder during the world war.

"Here one must, first of all, clearly and definitely admit: Jesus has given this command only for relations between individual persons, but not for the relations of peoples for each other. In personal relations a Christian shall try to love his enemy by not rewarding "tit for tat," but by forgiving and forgetting.

"But in warfare between the nations the love of one's enemies has an end. In such a battle the individual soldier should have no qualms of conscience. He does not bear the responsibility for his killing, but the government. As long as the battle rages, Jesus' command of love is completely annulled. It is not valid during the hours of battle."—So far the author of the book under discussion.

"The command of Jesus completely annulled.?" Then one must ask with Luther (in his catechism): "Where, in the Word of God is this written?" The author of this writing gives no answer to this question. Neither does he make an attempt to answer this question. It is obvious, that this matter is a miserable commandment of men.

The author continues in the same manner: "For us, during the engagement on the field of battle, this commandment to love our enemies, has no longer any meaning. The less consideration we use in wielding our weapons, the more merciful it is, for the sooner the war is ended. The killing is no sin in this case, but a service to the fatherland, a Christian duty, yes, a service to God. The waging of war becomes itself a commandment of love.

"In love to our fatherland and in love to our kaiser, we want to use all means to strike down the enemy, and make it no matter of conscience.

"Of course, murder in itself pleases no honest Christian. The soldier, too, feels a horror when he thrusts the cold steel through the breast of his opponent or smashes his head with the gun-barrel. Only the beast finds joy in murder, not the Christian. The soldier is in a terrible transport while he is spreading wounds and death about him. When the battle is over, he prefers not to think any more about the slaughtering and murdering. It is a bad dream, of which we dislike to be reminded.

"The war has disclosed the true nature of our enemies, their hypocrisy and their lying, selfish disposition. It is therefore a service to God and a holy duty, to punish all our opponents with tremendous force, and if necessary to annihilate them. In this battle satan himself is fighting as the ally of our enemies." As long as the cannons thunder in this world war, the commandment of Jesus: "Love your enemies" has no longer any validity. It is the greatest blessing for our enemies, if they are defeated, for then they come to realize their wrong, repent and become better than they formerly were. So away with all conscientious scruples."

So far the author of the booklet under consideration. Is it not almost unbelievable, that one tries to excuse military service with this kind of reasons? And is it not very remarkable, that a man who confesses himself to be a Christian, and who on top of that holds a high office in a Christian church, can call the waging of war murdering and at the same time a Christian duty, yes, a service to God, And is it not equally strange, that the assertion is being made, that the commandment to love one's enemies is in war completely annulled, and the Christian is not responsible before God for the hatred and the deeds of hatred which he commits as a warrior? Are not the reasons which are here put forward to defend military service altogether flimsy in nature?

The booklet brings evidence, that many soldiers' conscience revolts against the murdering in war. It is especially remarkable, that those concerned have been taught from their youth that military service is their Christian duty, and yet with many conscience will not be silenced in the long run. It is the task of the army chaplain to help the soldier to overcome such "warrior's doubts." For such soldiers, who in their youth have received Mennonite religious instruction, the service of the army chaplain must be even more indispensable than for the others. From the military standpoint the service of the army chaplain in the army is simply indispensable.

CORRESPONDENCE

BETHANY CH., FREEMAN, S. DAK. 12-6-38

Rev. Louis H. Linscheid and family are settled in their new home at Freeman, where Rev. Linschied has charge of the Bethany Mennonite church. His former home was Butterfield, Minn. At the dedicatory services on December 4th, Rev. H. Albert Claassen gave the opening sermon followed with a response by Rev. Linscheid. Special music was furnished by Men's Chorus of Freeman.

On December 5, at 7:30, the members of the Bethany Church surprised the Linscheids with a special service at the church. The newly arrived pastor and family were welcomed with many useful gifts.

Theo I. Kleinsasser, Secretary.

BETHEL MENN. CH., PERKASIE, PA., 12-4-38

The Ladies' Aid and Mission Society sponsored the annual contributions by the church for the Home for the Aged at Frederick, Pa. The contributions were brought to the church on the Sunday before Thanksgiving as a Thank Offering. Donations were generous and represented a wide variety of food supplies, including canned fruits, vegetables, preserves, groceries, sugar, and flour, and reading material.

In the evening, the C. E. period was occupied by the Junior C. E. group. In Pilgrim costume they presented a Thanksgiving pageant under the able direction of their superintendent Mrs. Stanley Swartz.

Among our older members, Mrs. Wm. Fulmer is confined to her home by illness.

May we pray for her recovery.—F. E. Landis, Cor.

DEATHS

ELIAS P. WEBER, son of Peter and Maria Krehbiel Weber, was born near Donnellson, Iowa, January 13, 1862, and passed away on November 17, 1938, at his home where he resided all his life but for 10 years spent in Kansas. He attained the age of 76 years, 10 months and 4 days.

On September 26, 1875, he was baptized by Rev. Christian Schowalter, and received as a member of the Gion Mennonite Church, Donnellson, Iowa.—In January, 1887, he was united in marriage to Charlotte Krebill of Donnellson. They moved to a farm in the vicinity of Moundridge, Kansas, where they made their home until the death of his wife on October 31, 1896, when he returned to Donnellson, Iowa. To this union five children were born, two preceding him in death. On February 12, 1899, he was united in marriage to Anna Krehbiel of Donnellson. Two children were born, one dying in infancy.

He died after a lingering illness which he patiently and uncomplainingly endured for nearly five years. He was very thoughtful of his family and planned and sacrificed for their best interests.

Surviving are his widow, one son, Edgar R. Weber, three daughters, Mrs. Erna Lowenberg, Mrs. Hilda Lowenberg and Miss Melinda Weber, two grandsons, Harold Lowenberg and Edwin Lowenberg, all of Donnellson; also three sisters, Mrs. Clara E. Krebill of Donnellson, Mrs. Anna Lowenberg of New Boston and Mrs. Emma Galle of Oskaloosa, and a host of relatives and friends. His parents, three brothers and two sisters preceded him in death.

THEODORE EHRESMAN, son of August and Catherine Imhomm Ehresman, born at Trenton, Ohio, August 10, 1873, died Nov. 16, 1938; on January 3, 1899 he united in marriage with Emilie C. Augsburger, who preceded him in death four years ago. In his youth he united with the Mennonite Church remaining a loyal and faithful member until his death.

Mr. Ehresman leaves to mourn his early departure, four sons and one daughter; namely, Carl, Homer, Walter, Paul and Frieda; one brother Simon, one aunt, Miss Fannie Imhoff.

Rev. J. E. Amstutz conducted the funeral services at the Mennonite Church, basing his remarks on John 11:25, 26.

SAMUEL W. GROSS of near Plumsteadville, Pa., died November 28, 1938, aged 84 years, 10 months and 25 days. He is survived by his widow Emma L. nee Hunsberger, four adopted children, Joseph G. Moonteny, Eli, Paul and Mary Emma Hunsberger; also one brother, 2 sisters and 2 half-brothers. Brother and sister Gross were formerly members of the Old Mennonite church at Deep Run, but on account of their activity in the temperance cause they were disowned there and united with the New General Conference Deep Run Church, in which they were for many years active in Sunday school, Young People and Mission work. On September 10, 1899, Pastor Allen M. Fretz ordained him as deacon, in which capacity he and sister Gross served faithfully until bodily infirmities disabled both, when he was elected Deacon Emeritus. Funeral services in charge of Pastor Fretz, assisted by Rev. F. H. Swartz, a son of the congregation, were held Dec. 1. The text Phil. 1:20-21 was applied.

Mrs. Katharina Braun, daughter of David and Helena Peters, was born in Schönhorst, Russia, May 15, 1857. She was united in marriage with Gerhard D. Braun in 1878. In 1879 she accompanied her husband first to Manitoba, Canada, then to Dallas, Oregon, then south to Reedley, California, and again back to Oregon, where Father Braun departed this life.

After some years of moving about among her children, mother Braun made her home with her daughter Margaret in Los Angeles, also Elizabeth who was her constant companion until she went Home to be with her Lord.

The spiritual attitude of the parents is reflected in the pursuits of the children. Three daughters have been engaged in active mission service. One is a minister's wife, one a nurse helping the poor and afflicted, and the other, after offering herself for missionary service, found herself making a home for her mother while teaching little children. Both sons are ordained ministers in active Christian service.

Mother Braun passed away November 4, at the age of 81 years, 5 months and 20 days. She was buried by the side of her husband at Dallas, Oregon. She leaves her 8 children, Helena, Elizabeth and Margaret, and Mrs. Anna Gerig, all of Los Angeles, Calif., Mrs. Katharine Kliewer, of Bluffton, Ohio, Mrs. Marie Smith of Dallas, Oregon, son Gerhard of Independence, Ore., and David of Newman, Calif. Also 13 grandchildren and 4 great-grandchildren.

She was the eldest of six sisters and one brother, and the first to lead the way Home to the heavenly Father. They are Elizabeth, Anna, Maria, David D. Peters and Mrs. Margaretha Remple, all of Dallas, Ore., and Mrs. Helena Wiens of Van Couver, B. C.—The Children.

MRS. MARY ANN EHRESMAN, daughter of Henry P. and Helen Deuschcer, was born Feb. 9, 1865 at Trenton, Ohio. On January 20, 1885 she was united in marriage with Otto I. Ehresman, who preceded her in death, January 15, 1933. To this union were born three sons, Clarence D., Victor, and Herbert O. all of Trenton, Ohio. These with one grand-child, and two sisters, Mrs. Elizabeth D. Twitchell and Mrs. Ella. S. Berk of Hollywood, California, survive her, along with other relatives and friends. Mrs. Ehresman, a loyal and faithful member of the Mennonite church will be greatly missed in the church, in the home and community where she took an active part until her illness prevented her.

Mrs. Ehresman departed this life on November 26, and funeral services were conducted at the home Nov. 29, at which time Rev. Amstutz spoke words of comfort to the bereaved, basing his remarks on 1 Cor. 2:9-11.

Olin Krehbiel of the Lansdale church gave a very interesting and inspiring report in our church, of the General Conference at Saskatoon.

—Pleasant Valley Mennonite Church of Kismet, Kansas, held a series of evangelistic meetings the second week in November. Bro. Clyde H. Dirks of Hutchinson, Kans., was the speaker, and he very ably conducted the services. The results were gratifying, the interest and attendance fine from beginning to end.—Rudolf Schmidt.

—Friends of Missionaries Brown, China, will be interested to hear that their daughter Jessie successfully passed through an appendix emergency operation on Nov. 12. By God's grace she was sufficiently recovered that she could come home from the hospital Nov. 28.—J. C. Mueller.

—Butterfield Mennonite Church, Minn.—"This church and community is looking forward to two weeks of Daily Bible School, beginning Dec. 4. Rev. Schultz will conduct the studies and "the Mississippi Four," a negro quartet, will present the messages in song. Following a devotional service, studies like "Doctrine of God," dispensation, child study, personal evangelism will be the day program and the evenings will be devoted to the Book of Revelation. Please pray for these meetings.—Corr.

—A card from Bro. C. H. Friesen, Buhler, Kans.—"Dear Brother: Please put John A. Reimer, Buhler, Kansas, on your mailing list as a new subscriber. I'll try to find some more subscriptions. I am glad to be able to point out truthfully the valuable reading matter The Mennonite brings under your editorship." —Thanks for subscription and word of appreciation. —Editor.

—Wayland Mennonite Church, Iowa.—"The varied program of song, music and address, given by the Bluffton College Gospel Team, was very uplifting. The art work demonstrated by Prof. Claassen speaks highly for the college.—The Rev. William Penner family, Taftsville, Conn. arrived Nov. 28. We are exceedingly happy to have them with us. During the opening service Dec. 4, we had a blessed time of worship and fellowship. May this spirit continue to grow.—Mrs. C. K. S., Corr.

— From Christian Advocate.—"The increase of anti-Jewish feeling in this country is largely the spread of personal prejudice, often based on single incidents involving individual Jews.—The Jews are not wholly blameless. But they suffer, as the Negroes do, from being so easily labeled. When a man of Irish, British, or Scandinavian descent misbehaves, the papers do not mention his race. But almost without exception they say Negro if a man of African descent is concerned, and they have more ways than one in saying Jew.

— The Bluffton East Coast Club Banquet was held in the West Swamp Church on Saturday evening the 26th. Speakers were Rev. S. T. Moyer and Prof. Paul Stauffer. Mr. Stauffer is teaching at Bluffton College. Brethern Jacob R. Fretz and W. H. Mohr, Trustees of the College were also called upon for a few remarks. Considering the inclement weather, the meeting was very well attended.—H. G. Nyce.

—Bethel College, NORTH NEWTON, Kans.—A community chorus of 150 voices, accompanied by a string orchestra, piano and organ, will present Handel's Messiah Sunday evening, Dec. 11, in the college chapel, under the direction of Prof. W. H. Hohmann.

— Three prominent citizens of the Berne, Ind. neighborhood passed away recently: John Neuhauser, at the age of 76 years; Christ P. Hirschy, at the age of 74, and Abraham Egly, at the age of 76. Father Hirschy was a brother of Dr. N. C. Hirschy, the first president of Bluffton College.

—Grace Church, Lansdale, Pa.—A nice assortment of clothes consisting of four large boxes was made up and shipped to the General Conference Mennonite Relief Board for Canadian distribution. Have you read the Mission article in the November issue of the Mennonite? After reading it, are we doing our part toward Foreign Missions?

—Fist Church, Upland, Calif.—Gambling was discussed recently at one of the Young People's meetings. A summary is to be compiled and submitted to The Mennonite for publication. World Peace will be discussed several Sunday evenings, after which a public program on the subject will be given, to take the place of a regular worship service.

— CHANGE OF ADDRESS: Rev. Wilbert A. Regier, pastor of Immanuel Church, Los Angeles, Calif., and bride have moved to 8506-78th Street, Los Angeles, California.

THE SEED OF THE RIGHTEOUS

Israel Saphir, a learned Jew of Budapest, was converted to Christ in 1843 at the age of sixty-three. His son Philip, who lived but a few years of physical weakness, started the schools out of which grew the great educational mission of the Scottish Church in Hungary. Another son was the brilliant and spiritual London preacher, Adolph Saphir, famous as an expositor of Scripture. One sister Maria was the wife of a clergyman greatly used, and mother of the novelist, Maarten Maartens. The younger sister Johanna was the wife of C. A. Schoenberger, for fifty three years missionary to the Jews in the great capitals of Europe. Their daughter, Mrs. Herman, was author of important devotional works, "Creative Prayer," "The Meaning and Value of Mysticism," and the like.

Entered at the post-office at North Newton, Kansas, as second-class mail matter. Acceptance for mailing as special rate of postage provided for in Section 1103, Act of October 3, 1917. Authorized January 22, 1919

This is the Last Number of THE MENNONITE in 1938.—The Editor humbly acknowledges his shortcomings and errors, and with God's help promises to do better the coming year, if his life be spared. To all correspondents and other kind contributors he herewith expresses his heartfelt gratitude. May God reward them. In conclusion, we wish and pray God's blessing upon all readers and helpers during the coming holidays and throughout the coming year.

This Christmas -- And The Star

by Plumb E. Wells

"O little town of Bethlehem!" Today
Shatters your white stillness with the roar
Of modern guns and planes! Not Shepherds' eager-questing feet nor Angels' song, nor heavenly Babe's
First cry—not these
The sounds that rock, today, all Palestine!

"O little town of Bethlehem," we lift
Unholden eyes away even from thee,
To Christ Himself! Him only
Would we see; and hear His kingly
Shout! Our hearts burn, too, today,
Emmaus-like,
As He declares all that the prophets say!

"O little town of Bethlehem," above
Your manger's hallowed place of priceless Gift;
Above Golgotha and fair
Olivet; above all "fearful
Sights" and sounds — today we see
Swift-brightening,
The Morning Star! "O come to us"—
Come for us, "our Lord Emmanuel"!

Another Year

by Magaret Armstrong

Another year! the future path lies hidden;
And shadows seem to fall across the way.
PRESS ON! a light before thee shineth
Yet more and more unto the perfect day.

Another year! the days are growing evil,
And Satan's threat'nings dark forebodings send.
FEAR NOT! thy Lord hath surely spoken,
"Lo I am with you . . . even to the end."

Another year! the land is parched and thirsty;
Our souls are faint—low droops the precious grain.
PLEAD ON! Elijah's God will answer,
And pour, in mighty floods, the latter rain.

Another year! we wait with eager longing;
The hour is late—midnight comes on apace.
LOOK UP! redemption's day is dawning;
Perhaps this year we'll see our Bridegroom's face!

Sunday School Times.

Beatitude

We come from dust, we go to dust,
Yet is it less divine—
This heart that battles sin and lust
Until the last sunshine?

From whispers unto echoes run
The words of life we speak,
Yet God Himself, the Holy One,
Preserves the pure and meek.

Our loss is gain, our gain is loss;
We cannot clearly see,
Save that in Christ, and in the Cross
We find our liberty.

If after death comes life always
And joys that never cease,
What wealth is ours if in these days
We share His inward peace!

—Edwin C. Graber.

New Strength for the New Year

We are at the threshold of a new year. Some of us may never cross it, others may cross the border before the turn of another year. While it is a serious matter to think what the future may have in store for us, yet it will not do any good to worry, fear or fret. If we are on the Lord's side, He will see us through safely. So we ought to plan to go with Him, step by step, and many of the errors and shortcomings that mark our path during the waning year, will not be repeated. In Is. 40:31 we read, "They that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength. They shall mount up with wings as eagles; they shall run and not be weary; and they shall walk and not faint." This sounds almost like the elixir of life. Waiting upon the Lord means to keep in continuous contact with him. Then His life will mingle with our life and renew it. Though the hair may turn gray, our Christian life need not suffer decay. It is not the hoary head that makes a person old, but a black heart, a sin-fettered soul. He who ceases to think and thank to hope and trust will soon be a victim of arterioscelerosis. Neglect of contact with one's surroundings, too much moping of the past, failure to look forward and upward, and loss of trust in God, these are causes of old age. Cheerfulness, venturesomeness, eagerness to learn and advance, undaunted faith, determination to do something worthwhile and in the best manner possible, these are signs of prolonged youth.—Another means to acquire strength is to do something challenging, something heroic that calls into activity all the powers and energies at one's disposal. Zwingly once said, "Tut um Gottes willen etwas Tapferes." — For God's sake do something brave.—People grow old when they cease to walk and work with the Master, when they cease to evince care or concern for others. They that wait upon the Lord shall receive new strength. In the measure that we keep alive our contact with Christ, the Life of the world, we will have new strength. May we daily, hourly renew this contact during the coming new year.

"When we walk amid the shadows, and the skies are overcast,
When we linger, half bewildered, 'twixt the future and the past,
We shall always find the Master at the parting of the ways,
We shall hear his gentle whisper, 'I am with you all the days.'
Yesterday, today, forever, he is the same Jesus still,
Guiding, keeping those who love him, shaping all things to his will;
So I follow where he leads me, let him choose my times and ways,
And the promise never fails me, 'I am with you all the days.' "

A New Year Message

H. J. Kliewer

"Redeeming the time, because the days are evil." (Eph. 5:16). If at the beginning of a new year, we remember God and his many blessings, his protection and guidance of the year that has just ended, we are led to thank and praise our loving Father in heaven. But as we look back, alas, we also see many disappointments, failures and sorrows. Such memories of the past make us sad. Therefore it is well for us to ponder how we may have less sorrow and more joy in our life. New Year comes just one week after Christmas. If Christmas means to us, not only that long ago Jesus came from heaven in the flesh at Bethlehem, but that he has also been born in our heart, when we received and trusted him as our personal Savior, then we can also rejoice on New Year's Day, knowing that in Jesus Christ we have forgiveness of our sins and that we may trust him for guidance in the future also. "We know that all things work together for good to them that love God, to them that are called according to his purpose." (Rom. 8:28). So, if we have the true Christmas joy, we will also have the true New Year joy and will ever experience the abundant life and peace in Jesus Christ.

We are told to "redeem" (make wise use of) our time. Only as we follow Jesus as our Lord and Master and obey the teaching of his Word and the leading of his Spirit, can we best redeem or use the time. Each new year reminds us that time is swiftly passing. The time of grace is short and therefore we should use it wisely, to find and serve the Lord. "So teach us to number our days, that we may apply our hearts unto wisdom." (Ps. 90:12). "Today, if you will hear his voice, harden not your hearts." (Heb. 4:7). "Behold, now is the accepted time, now is the day of salvation." (2 Cor. 6:2). "Seek the Lord while he may be found, call ye upon him while he is near." (Is. 55:6). For many this may be the last year of grace, therefore redeem the time! You want to be with the Lord in eternity, be with him now. Confess him here, that he may confess you there. (Matt. 10:32). In spite of the many good things that God offers now, in this time of grace, especially through faith in Jesus Christ, it is also true, that "the days are evil." All around us we see so much sin and evil of every kind. Satan tries to deceive people in many ways. He offers them enjoyment and satisfaction in fleshly lusts and worldly pleasures and false religions. But he is a liar and never gives what he promises. He seeks pople's destruction and not their salvation. Those who follow him find out sooner or later, that "the days are evil." He is the wrong master to serve. God has provided something better for us in Christ Jesus. He is the good Master. Let us trust, love, follow and serve Him; not only in this new year, but to the end of life. "He that endureth to the end shall be saved." (Matt. 10:22).

A Christmas Message

by R. Petter D. D.

It was 46 years ago, at Christmas Eve in the Cantonment Mission school. Squatting near the Christmas tree were a few Cheyenne old chiefs, who for the first time beheld the burning candles while listening respectfully to the Christmas songs and message. The "Tidings of great joy" brought to men at the birth of Christ the Savior and the Lord were, indeed, new to these men.

That it all impressed them they showed, not only by their attitude then, but also afterwards in attending Christian services and admonishing their people to come and listen. They said then, "New to us is this message, we are too old to grasp it all, but our children will, and it will give them something we ourselves have not."—This said your fathers and grandfathers of 46 years ago. All of them are now gone, but the Christmas message they heard then, you, their children and grandchildren, have heard again and again. Here it is:

"Be not afraid: for behold I bring you good tidings of great joy which shall be to all the people: for there is born to you this day . . . a Savior who is Christ the Lord." (Luke 2:10-11).

This message of God brought to mankind by God's angel is my Christmas greeting to you, Indian readers of the Messenger, wishing you all a heart, mind and life free from all servile fear, and full with the "great joy" which God gives in Christ the Savior and the Lord.

In the long long ago, at the beginning of mankind, God created the first man and the first woman to live happy and absolutely free of fear, in a life without death, a joy without sorrow and a light without shadow. At that time they needed not the message "Be not afraid" for they knew no fear. Neither needed they "tidings of great joy" for their joy was then full. Alas this blessed state of fearlessness and full happiness did not last, it was soon lost. The story of this great loss is related in the 3rd chapter of Genesis, as the tidings of sin, sorrow and death. In the 10th verse we read: " . . . I heard thy voice in the garden, and I was afraid . . . and I hid myself." Why had now fear filled his heart, mind and life? Because he and his wife had trusted the word of the Evil one more than that of God. They had obeyed Satan and disobeyed God. Result was sin. Like a snake, sin had crawled into their hearts and minds to poison the whole of mankind. This poison of the father of sin (Satan) filled the heart, mind and life of all human beings giving them fear, distrust, superstition, unhappiness, misery, hatred, sickness, bloodshedding, death and fear of death.

Who now, among men, who had all inherited this fear, could ever be so powerful as to abolish it?—Men of all times, of all nations, wise men, great men tried all sorts of ways and religious ceremonies to do away with that fear. Not one ever succeeded until the very Son of God left heaven, became born as man, partook (put on) of the flesh and blood of men so that in it he overcame the poison of sin and fear. And in his death, in his grave, in his rising alive from it, in his going up again to heaven, he, Christ, fully overcame him who has the power of death, that is the devil. Thus Christ became the Savior, the only one who can deliver all who through fear of death are in bondage their life time. (Read Heb. 2:14, 15).

That is why when Jesus was born the heaven opened, the angel of God appeared in a shining light and shouted: "Be not afraid, I bring you good tidings of great joy . . ."

God knows the heart, the mind, the inner feeling of each human being. He knows the sin and the fear with which we all have to struggle, so he had the message of the angel not only proclaimed when Jesus was born, but also written down so it should never be forgotten by men but ever heard again and again. This great message from heaven is distinctly for all nations and tribes of men. Not one is excepted. All are in fear, all can be freed from it. All have troubles and sorrows, all can have the "great joy."

Long before Jesus was born a prophet of God said: "The people walking in darkness shall see a great light. Those living in deep darkness, upon them the light will shine, they shall joy with rejoicing, for unto us a child is born, unto us a son is given." — This has become realized and each Christmas proclaims it to mankind, to each individual man, woman and child. The Indians are not excepted, for they too, are in need of Christ, the Savior and the Lord.—A man or a people that has no sins, no fears, no troubles, no sorrows, no disappointments, no poverty, no lack in anything, no sickness and no death needs not Christ nor a Christmas message. But, say, where is such a man or such a people?

God cares for us for he knows how we feel and wants to give us the best that heaven and earth can give: deliverance, salvation from sin and fear; true joy, full light and eternal life in his son, Jesus Christ, the Savior and the Lord. Let us all open our hearts, reach out our hands to receive the present God has prepared for all, and desires each to have.—The Cheyenne and Arapaho Messenger.

SELFISHNESS seeks inlets and limits, but never outlets. Love seeks outlets, but is strangely indifferent to inlets and limits; it is self-abandoning, more eager to give than to receive, and knowing no limits but opportunity and capacity.

The three reasons which a good woman presented for objecting to a preacher were striking ones. She said that, in the first place, he read his sermon; in the second, he did not read it well; and the third place, it was not worth reading.

THE YEAR 1938 ON INDIA MISSION FIELD

The following extracts from the letters from Bro. W. F. Unruh speak for themselves. Not only do they glorify Christ our Saviour, they have historical value worthy of a place in the Year Book. The dates are of the letters as written. Slight editorial work has been done by me.—S. T. Moyer.

January 11th

Yohushua, who has become an Ariya Samajist, now goes by the name of Chakra, and is doing all he can to keep people from accepting Christ. He is wearing a chutiya (queue) and Satnami string around his neck. He has taken shuddi (Hindu purification) as have also his relatives in Baitari. His wife has suffered very much, but I dared not go there. All I did was to write her a letter of comfort and encouragement to stay true to Jesus. Chakra says he will beat up any white man that comes to him. He now preaches that we Christians spoil caste, that the Christian religion is a deception, missionaries are all tricksters, and that Ram is a saviour, and such "bunk."

March 21st

Christ is going on from victory to victory in Phuljhar, and for this we rejoice greatly. There are reverses and defeats too to be sure, but the Kingdom of God is steadily gaining ground. Week before last we could baptize 26 in one day as a result of our second evangelistic campaign, and there are a few more who want to be baptized. This week — a newly formed Gospel Team—will go to a village 12 miles beyond Girola, where there are eight families who ask for instruction to take baptism. The Roman Catholic master had been there, but they told him they had connections with our churches and wanted to join them. We hope that a church will be born there in the near future. I have three teams of two families each out in the "dehat" teaching the Bible Course to Christian groups and as a result of that we exxpect a great ingathering, because we hear that in Phalsibhari where John Paul and Rajno work, there have been about 23 interested in baptism.

May 2nd

I have tried to push district evangelistic work as hard as possible at such places where people seemed ready to accept Christ, and where there were relatives of Christians. As a result of this work, and working through the Gospel Teams, I could yesterday baptize the 136th person since New Year.

The people who have come out in new villages have come out in Perain, Nawagaon, Bicliya, Murpahar, Putopara, and Kodopali. In most of these villages, people who are related to Christians have come out.

In Bichiya there was a man by name of Mahatao, who was the guru (teacher) of the Garas in the surrounding villages. He taught them the Ramayan (Hindu sacred book) etc. When he came out for Christ, his friends still looked up to him for leadership. I told him I would put him on as teacher, to teach the children and to lead the Christian group in Bichiya and neighboring villages for Rs. 5— ($1.75) per month. He took me up on it. As a result of his work, I could yesterday baptize 10 more people in Bichiya. Now the entire garra caste group in Bichiya are Christians.

When those folks came out for Christ, Chakra and the Araya Samaj Secretary in Saraipoi got busy. The secretary called all the village headmen around Bichiya and Putapara together and told them that no one was to give the new Christians any work, or loans, or rice for seeding, or to have anything to do with them. As a result, many could not find work, and must sell things to keep alive. I was determined not to give Mission help. So I wrote the churches north and told them of this situation and two churches have sent contributions. We decided that we would investigate each case and where the people were stranded, they would give each family 70c worth of thread to weave and earn on that.

HOME MISSIONS

A. J. Neuenschwander, Sec.

MRS. E. J. MILLER WRITES

We have so many things to rejoice over, that it is hard to know where to begin. In the first place, the work done on the church and the really beautiful results has made the community take notice as never before. The congregations increase every Sunday and there are prospects of adding new members.

When we enlarged our church and dug a basement we thought that we had enough room to take care of us for years. But how small was our faith! We are using every bit of available space and could use more, and find it necessary to buy 18 new chairs immediately. In September the average was forty-two. For the last two Sundays we have had over ninety in Sunday School and hope to reach the one hundred mark soon. Four new S. S. classes have been created.

A Junior-Intermediate C. E. has also been organized under the leadership of Mrs. Amanda Anderson, one of our S. S. teachers, who also has charge of the Junior Girls' Missionary club. This club is very active and only a week ago entertained the Women's Missionary Society and their mothers at a very lovely dinner, followed by a missionary play. The two missionary groups cooperated in filling boxes for the American Indian Mennonites.

We are grateful to each one who has given us support in this work, and especially do we wish to thank those who contributed towards the runners for the aisles in the church. They certainly help to deaden the sound of the feet of ninety youngsters. Our request is that you remember the Portland work in your prayers that God may continue to bless it and that it may be a power for God in the community.—Workers' Exchange.

Christian Worker's Institute at Bethel

The Institute for Ministers and Christian Workers which is to be held at the college during the week from January 30 to February 3 (Monday to Friday) is the regular annual Bible week. The program for this year has been enlarged. Dr. Rufus Bowman, president of Bethany Biblical Seminary and Dr. Max Reich, a widely known Bible teacher, have been engaged for the institute.

A daily program beginning at 10:00 o'clock in the forenoon and continuing through the afternoon and evening has been arranged. The institute is planned for ministers, ministers' wives and all others interested in the work of the church.

The regular daily schedule for the week follows:
10:15—Bible Hour—Dr. Max Reich
11:10—Understanding Youth
12:00—Noon
1:30—Ministerial Conference—Dr. R. Bowman
1:30—Women's Hour
2:25—Bible Hour—Dr. Max Reich
3:20—Rural Life and Its Problems
7:30—Music and Worship
8:00—Evening address—Dr. Rufus Bowman.

In addition to the two speakers engaged for the week, a number of faculty members will share in the program. The full program of the institute with all subjects and speakers, will appear in the college bulletin early in January.

This announcement is an invitation to the ministers, the ministers' wives and Christian workers of our churches to come to Bethel and enjoy in the benefits of the institute. It will be arranged that all who wish to do so may secure their noon-day lunch at the college dining hall for a nominal sum. Free lodging in homes on the campus will be provided for those who come from a distance.

Further information concerning the institute may be secured by writing to A. E. Kreider, North Newton, Kansas.

THE TRUE RICHES. God shows us what is His estimate of riches, first, by what He says about them: "A man's life consisteth not in the abundance of the things which he possesseth;" and, secondly, in the condition in which He permitted His own Son to enter and pass through this world. "Foxes have holes and the birds of the air have nests, but the Son of Man hath not where to lay His head."

A Mennonite Preparedness Program

by E. L. Harshbarger

A new and unprecedented arms race has begun. Democracies vie with dictatorships in a race for military supremacy—all under the slogan of "adequate national defense." Preparedness is again the watchword of our own beloved nation. If you ask, "preparedness for what," the inevitable answer is "peace." Strange, isn't it, that we strain every nerve to accumulate war machines which generate hate and fear, and yet hope for peace. Fear, not logic, hate, not love, dictate such a progrram.

More clearly than ever we should be able to see that there is little fundamental difference between the militarisms, whether they be democratic, communist or fascist. All are based on force as a final resort. The effects of war are equally disastrous under any flag.

To argue about such points in a Mennonite periodical would be superfluous. The point we should consider is, what are we doing to prepare ourselves in a Christian way for that possible eventuality when the preparedness juggernaut gets out of control and plunges us all into the maelstrom of mass murder? What, if any, is our Mennonite preparedness program? What should it be?

The first step in such a program must be individual. Each person must make sure that he has committed himself to the way of Christ; he must see that Christ's way was the way of love, and that a loyal Christian will follow that way even when the clouds of hate and war begin to lower. He should begin now more consciously than ever to practice love and non-violence in his daily life. If he cannot live a life of harmony in peace time, war may find him unprepared. If he lives a life of love now, he is helping to avert the crisis of war.

The second phase of the Mennonite preparedness program should be educational. Peace should be proclaimed more frequently from the pulpits and in Christian Endeavor meetings. Pastors should encourage the formation of reading or study groups for the study of peace. Such pamphlets as Smith's "Christian Peace: Teachings and Practices as Held by the Mennonites for the Past Four Centuries" and Bohn's "Christian Peace: New Testament Teachings outside the Gospels" will make ideal study pamphlets. The last General Conference at Saskatoon passed a resolution to encourage these studies. The Kansas Institute of International Relations has proved itself extremely helpful to those who desire a Christian and well-baanced study of peace problems. Bethel College offerrs a class in "The Peace Principle," the notes from which have received favorable comment even outside of Mennonite circles. The Kansas state Y. W. C. A. secretary has purchased a set of these notes for use during the coming year.

But these things are merely necessary continuations of previous educational projects. I would venture to suggest for consideration a new phase for our educational phase of a preparedness program, namely, the creation of bands or groups of all Mennonite men who are eligible for military draft and who wish to take the non-resistant stand. Every Mennonite community and possibly every Mennonite church should form one of these groups to ground its members in the tenets of Christian peace, to study the trials and triumphs of the conscientious objectors in the last war, and to formulate, as nearly as possible at the moment, possible procedures in the event of another war. Militarists are praparing, should Christ's followers be less active?

The third phase of our preparedness program calls for individual action. The General Conference passed another resolution which every loyal American who loves democracy should fulfill, namely, inform himself on current war-peace issues in Congress, and write his Congressman frequently, urging action most likely to preserve peace. Such action is no longer possible when war is upon us, and due to the totalitarian character of modern war, may not be possible even if we should survive that war. Individuals can also help in arranging peace conferences, and in having peace issues discussed in various public programs. Think peace, talk peace, live peace.

The propagation of these and similar peace programs will go a long way to avoid the embarrassments, perplexities, false moves, and ineffective church action which too often occurred in the World War. Let us prepare for peace through the means by which peace can really be maintained—through a realization of the fact that "our help cometh from the Lord which made heaven and earth," and that Christ would have us "overcome evil with good."

ANNOUNCEMENT

The Lord willindg one of our foreign mission candidates, Bro. Lester Wuethrich, will be ordained as a licensed preacher, also called evangelist, in his home church (Swiss) near Whitewater, Kans., Sunday forenoon, Jan. 1, 1938. The pastor, Rev. Theodore Roth will officiate.

The purpose of this ordination is to introduce him into home mission work while he is a student at Bethel College, until he can be sent into the foreign mission field, perhaps next year. Rev. A. E. Kreider will represent our Board at this service. We solicit the prayers of all mission friends for the brother who assumes the great task of preaching the gospel whereever he is invited.

In the name of the Foreign Mission Board and his home church.—P. H. Richert, Secretary.

"The minister's great employment is to bring the individual souls of men to Christ."—E. W. Kirk.

LETTERS

MAUHADIH, VIA BARADUAR,
C. P. INDIA, NOV. 15, '38

Dear Brother Thierstein:

By the time this reaches you the Christmas season will be near and so I send a Christmas greeting and a business letter all in one. We wish you and Mrs. Thierstein a very happy Christmas.

We are to leave our Mauhadih home in the middle of December, so we will celebrate Christmas in our new home at Basna. The last Workers Conference has stationed us there in place of W. F. Unruhs who are compelled to leave India, because of impaired health. They have done very good work during the short time they spent in Basna, and we are all sorry that they must leave. We hope that the Lord may use us as He has used them so that many more may be saved and brought into the Church of Christ.

Will you kindly make a change of address for the Mennonite. Our new address will be Basna, via Raipur, C. P., India. Thank you for making the change. We always look forward to foreign mail day, the day when we get our "Mennonite" too. It is especially interesting when we are so far away from our American home.

Yours very sincerely, J. R. Duerksen.

ON THE OCEAN HOMEWARD BOUND

"When the evils of the earth were greatest
The Christ-child came from afar;
When the night of the world was darkest
Shone forth the Bethlehem Star:
Glory and peace was its message,
Love and goodwill to men—
A peace beyond their making,
A love beyond their ken!"—Annie J. Flint.

The ship shall carry us over the briny deep for weeks from Nov. 25th, 1938 to Feb. 20th, 1939, between Calcutta and Los Angeles. How true it remains that each one's life being a ship, ushering us onward to the eternal harbor!

The Lord has been most merciful in all His ways with us (Ps. 126:3). On November 18th, 1908 He permitted us to step on India's shore. India with its more than three hundred millions of people steeped in indescribable sin facing us. How quickly those thirty years rolled by! Many are the tokens of love and mercy in times of joy and sorrow, so prevalent and numerous which spurn all attempts to enumerate them. Souls were observed emerging from utter pollution. Satan's oppositions were overcome by them victoriously.

Disappointments cumbered our lives in huge number, however, permanent discouragements none. Presently after spending out of our third term another seven years on the field, the furlough is due in spring of 1940, a great disappointment befalls us. Impaired health disallows us to finish the term according to physican's orders, therefore the beloved field, work and people must be left behind, it is hoped only temporarily. It is anticipated that a long sea-voyage via Java, Australia, New Zealand,, etc., some restful months in the homeland will fully restore and enable us to return to the needy field again. We are in our estimation too young to be unharnessed so soon.

Let us be mindful of His holy will and remain subject to it when quoting, "Speak, Lord, for Thy servant heareth" and be much encouraged by referring to "Not by might, nor by power, but by MY Spirit!" Our darling daughter Nellie continues in India her teaching vocation. Your earnest prayers are solicited unabated.

We remain, yours in His blessed service,
P. W. and Mathilde Penner,
(The address to be—645 E. 79 St., Los Angeles Cal.)

Freeman, So. Dak., Dec. 13, 1938.

Dear Brother Thierstein:

We find that the Mennonite has greatly improved since you have taken charge thereof, and we wish you grace, guidance and strength for the new year.

Personally I would like to give you our own view on the work of the Publication Board as concerns our publications and the attitude of the people toward them as I find them, not as criticism, but as our opinion from our viewpoint.

1. The renewal subscription price is too high for the people to take it gladly. It would be easier to increase the numbers of subscribers if the price would not go beyond a dollar.

2. Good, clean and reliable advertisements would not detract from its acceptability but increase the revenue. Many of our people would rather see that than the deficits and the requests for offerings.

3. Our people here appreciate the simple things. An added youth publication will not be acceptable except at the expense of the dropping off of fewer subscribers to the Mennonite. They would rather see a church paper that meets the needs of the entire family inclusive of the Missionary News and Notes. Something that unites young and old rather than divides.

4. A continuous story with healthy and spiritual uplift would in our opinion greatly add to the readability of the Mennonite.

5. A new name for the paper with less distinctive denominational inclusiveness would be helpful to make it acceptable to such who know the Mennonite congregations or people as evangelical, sane and spiritually minded children of God.

Love and greeting and best wishes from a reader who would rather help than hinder, encourage rather than discourage.—H. Albert Claassen.

Peter Called to Serve

Topic: Answering God's Call

John 1:40-42; Luke 5:1-11

During three months we shall consider the chief events in Peter's career. He was a man of ability, a diamond in the rough, a vivid example of the many who are performing ordinary duties in the lowly walks of life and who would be capable of large leadership if given proper training and opportunity. He was a natural leader. Pentecost was a great day in his life. In these lessons we shall endeavor to see the amazing record of what God wrought through him. Let our study magnify the power of God in him, rather than Peter himself. We shall see how God could use him for the conversion of thousands. Peter met the Christ and responded to His call. It was Jesus who made the difference in His life, and acquaintance with Him transforms any life.

Peter Meets the Messiah vs 40-42

Andrew and John heard John the Baptist proclaim Jesus as the Lamb of God (vs 23-35). Andrew immediately went and brought his brother to Jesus (vs 41, 42). This was as it should be. We should tell, bring others. His testimony was definitely to the point—"We have found the Messiah"—interpreted in Greek, the Christ. Jesus looked into Peter's heart (vs 42), saw him as he then was, "Simon the son of Jona;" saw what he was to become, "Cephas (rock man) a stone." It was a great day for Simon when Adrew brought him to Jesus, who, though He had never seen him before, by supernatural insight read his character and described his future.

It is a very great day in the life of any one when he first comes into fellowship with Christ. He is not with us in visible form, does not speak audibly to us, yet the inner heart peace as we trust Him for salvation is very real. It is a great day when the soul finds God. The path of the just shines with increasing radiance as it leads to the perfect day. Joy is a growing reality as we cultivate the Christian life.

Jesus Preaches from Peter's Boat L. 5:1-3

When Jesus began His ministry in Galilee, large crowds came to hear the word of God (vs 1). It met their deepest needs. Peter was there at his honorable occupation of fishing. To provide food must ever be the chief occupation of the many. The eager multitude brought joy to Jesus' heart, and to facilitate his preaching, He asked Simon for the use of his boat (vs 3). He consented readily and was abundantly repaid for it. Whoever puts himself, his all at Jesus' disposal, is richly rewarded.

Peter Responds to Jesus Summons vs 4-11

The sermon being ended, Jesus summons Peter to let the net down into deep water (vs 4). He is saying this to us today. Many are in the deeps of sin and misery. Jesus' command was a test to Peter and his tired, discouraged companions. To them it seemed useless (vs 5), yet Peter said those magnificent words of obedience and trust—"At Thy word I will let down the net." In these words is the secret of all blessedness, all victory, all achievement. The result, "a great multitude of fishes (vs 6, 7), amazed them. Just a co-incidence, say some—but no, a miracle was wrought bringing Peter face to face with God's power and presence and his own sinfulness (vs 8). They were now ready to listen to Jesus' call to follow Him to a much larger work (vs 10). They knew that Jesus was calling them. They trusted Him who could fill their empty nets. A summons from God is a command, a privilege, a gracious opportunity.

"Come ye after me"—our part: "I will make you to become fishers of men"—Christ's part. "At Thy word I will."

Mennonite Brotherhood Passes Resolutions

At the recent Annual Meeting of the E. D. C. Brotherhood these Resolutions were adopted:

1, 2. Resolutions one and two are the usual expressions of gratitude for favors bestowed by God and the host church.

3. Resolved that we as a Men's Brotherhood thank Almighty God as members of one of the Historic Peace Churches that a great European War has, at least for the present, been averted. We feel that all of our National Senators and Representatives should be informed that we are unalterably opposed to the Billion Dollar Armament Program about to be launched by our Government. We are happy to see that our Quaker Brother, Herbert Hoover, is fighting it. We should work in unity with all peace groups in the great movement for peace, and good will, and always work strenuously against such great radical plans for needlessly squandering and wasting the taxpayer's money.

4. We thank God for our own Christian college, Bluffton College, and what it has done and is right now doing, for the real Christian training for leadership in our Mennonite Church, of ministers, missionaries and also active practical laymen. We regret the resignation of our own Brother Rosenberger as President, but pray God's blessing upon him, that his health might be restored.

5. We would ask Almighty God to guide the Board of Trustees in its choice, that the man whom He has selected, will be made known, and chosen by the Board.

6. We urge the Brotherhood to prepare to assist our E. D. Conference in entertaining our General Conference in Pennsylvania in 1941. We urge the Brotherhood to offer its services in advertising the meetings, arranging for the entertainment of the delegates, arranging for side trips to historic places, and helping enlisting the rank and file of our members in assisting the work of the conference.

7. Our hearts as Christians are often made sad when we see human beings debauch themselves and lower themselves even below the animals, with liquor. Then too our hearts as Christians are heavy, when we see our Lord's Day opened to all kinds of desecration. Resolved, therefore, that we as aggressive and energetic Christians stand true to God, in these matters, and do all possible, by example, by prayer and by hard work to keep our Christian sabbath, as well as our church, and our country clean.

8. Resolved that we as a Brotherhood each and severally aim to interest the members of our churches in going to the polls this November the 8th, and perform their sacred duty in order to rid our fair state of Pennsylvania of those in High Places who would make a mockery of clean decent government, and that good clean people be chosen in their places.

SALEM ZION CHURCH, DECEMBER 13, 1938

The year 1938 will soon be history. We are reminded on all sides, that we are in the Christmas season. All of us had our ups and downs. The big question we should ask ourselves, at the close of another year, is that which was expressed in a reading one evening at the last General Conference in Saskatoon. The title was "Bist du gewachsen Kind?"—"Have You Grown, Child?"

As a church we did not grow so much in numbers; but that is not the main object of a church, if we only grow in grace. The good Lord has provided for us in every way, and he has a right to look for results, for fruit.

There were a number of appendix operations lately, and they all were a success. We thank God that these young lives were spared. God has spoken very definitely to us by four deaths during the last four months, and reminded us of the fact, that this world is not our home. The departed are: Mrs. Jonathan Waltner, a widow; Mrs. Jacob Graber Post; Mrs. Joe D. Gering and Mr. Joe Schwartz. May the Lord be very near to all the bereaved this Christmas time.

Rev. Alfred Waltner has accepted a call to serve the Bethesda church, beginning with the New Year.

Wishing all the Readers a blessed Christmas and happy and prosperous New Year.—B. P. Miller, Corr.

Christmas Eve

Perhaps the Child of Bethlehem
Will walk tonight
Beneath the city's diadem
Of glaring light,
And find the inns are full! So He must onward go Down quiet streets where there will be Darkness and snow.

But if tall candles waxen white
(Oh, heart, light them!)
Gleam on your window sill tonight,
The Child of Bethlehem,
Seeking shelter, will gladly turn
To you; for He has come far—
And high above your house will burn
The Christmas star!

Suggested Topics

In addition to those suggested in the daily readings the following are offered: Finding happiness by losing it. The purchase price of happiness; When sorrow leads to joy. Why did Christ lay so much stress on happiness? What are some unreliable sources of happiness? Why is it impossible for a selfish person to be happy? What will be the cause of the happiness of heaven?

There is a universal desire for happiness—joy. Everyone dreads unhappiness. People of every age and clime and every walk of life have sought after happiness. Many have not found it, some have found comparative happiness. So many have sought it where it is not to be found or failed to find the road that leads to it. One should not look too much to externals for happiness, but look within: "Out of the heart are the issues of life." The more we look to the permanent realities of the spiritual world and less to outward things, the more we shall obtain true happiness. At its highest and best, happiness consists of the enjoyment of that which is good. Happiness is never won of itself but is always a by-product. Some may ask whether happiness or duty is the chief object of life. There is no conflict, however, because doing one's duty always results in the highest happiness.

No one can possibly know as much about happiness as Christ. He created us and desires that we be happy. Christ's picture of perfect happiness is found in the Beatitudes, each one of which is a golden nugget of happiness. The "Blessed" of the Beatitudes is the common Greek word for "happy." Christ laid down the terms on which we get this happiness and they are rather startling, but the strangeness is in the terms not the result. It will be noted of course that happiness is not always found apart from sorrow, disappointment or suffering. In Christ's last prayer with His disciples He prayed that His joy might be in them, and that it might be a full joy. (John 17:14) Full of what? Of love, unselfishness, of courage, of wisdom, of peace, of contentment, of satisfaction. It is joy that has in it all the graces and power of the Christian life. Christ desired this perfect joy for us, we should be content with nothing less. At the conclusion of the discourse on the vine and the branches Christ made practically the same statement about joy. The Christian is happy only as he abides in Christ and bears much fruit.

When we make others happy we are taking a long step toward our own joy. "What we give we have." The most miserable of all lives is that of the misers. If we get our own happiness only from our possessions and selfish pleasures, we are at the mercy of many things over which we have no control; but if we live in the happiness of others, we draw our joy from the happiness of the whole world. This joy is solid and permanent and will not vanish over night. "Your joy no man taketh away from you." (John 16:22).

Reading good literature or listening to good music or studying good pictures is a source of happiness to many. Enjoying the out-of-doors brings happiness to many whose lives would otherwise be drab. Fellowship with loved ones and friends leads to happiness. Doing one's daily tasks in the very best possible way brings to anyone a sense of lasting satisfaction and happiness. Dr. Samuel Johnson's prescription for happiness was, "A little less time than you want." By that he meant that the busiest people are the happiest.

"If ye know these things, blessed (happy) are ye; if ye do them." (John 20:29). This Endeavor meeting will not make us happier unless we put into practice what we have heard here. We can make this year "A Happy New Year" by giving ourselves to that which is true and good.

The leader might prepare the following "Bible Facts" on slips of paper to pass out to members who have no other part on the program. These facts should be told and not read.

1. The Bible was first read in English in 1384. It was called the Wycliffe translation.

2. An English law of 1415 reads "It is forbidden under pain of cursing that a man should have or draw any text of Holy Scripture into English without license from the Bishop."

3. The first Bible printed in America was John Eliots' translation of the Bible into the language of the Massachusetts Indians.

4. The first Bible society in the United States was founded in Philadelphia in 1808. Others soon followed. In 1816 thrity-one of these societies were united in the American Bible Society.

5. The Scriptures have now been translated in whole or in part into over one thousand tongues.

6. Less than a score of translations are recorded before 1450 when printing was invented. By 1800 71 languages had seen some printed portion of the Bible. But the next thirty years saw 86 languages receive some part of the Bible and now the thousand mark has been exceeded by at least eight.

7. There are 179 languages with whole Bibles and 212 more with the entire New Testament.

8. There are 488 more languages with at least an entire gospel and 48 with some other whole book of the Bible.

9. In 1937 the American Bible Society supplied 9,744 Bibles and 10,197 Testaments to churches and individuals whose books were ruined in the Ohio flood.

10. It is estimated that there are from five hundred to one thousand more languages into which translations will be needed.

Most books are dead and forgotten within ten years after they are written, but after more than 1900 years the Bible still is the most vital book ever published. Each year it outsells all the "best sellers." This alone proves that the amazing vitality of the Bible is due to its unique worth, and its worth in turn is due to its unique nature and purpose.

The Bible is the inspired record of God's progressive revelation of Himself and His will to mankind. The writers of the Bible were men like ourselves.

But these men were used by the Holy Spirit, who illumined their thoughts and gave them insight and wisdom to record the divine message. This revelation was not given all at once but over a period of more than fourteen hundred years. God revealed Himself to the people in any age only to the extent to which they were able to comprehend the revelation.

The original Old Testament was written in Hebrew. While the New Testament was written in Greek. The first translation was that of the Old Testament from Hebrew into the Greek began in 285 B. C. This translation was called the Septuagint and was used by Jesus and also by Paul and the other apostles. When Rome became the center of church authority, Latin was the language adopted. Therefore, St. Jerome translated the Old Testament from Greek into Latin. This tanslation completed in 405 and called the Latin Vulgate, was used in the church for many years. From the fifth century on a determined effort was made by the clergy to keep the Bible from the common people. However in the fourteenth century, John Wycliffe, an Englishman, was interested in seeing men return to Christ, so he translated the Vulgate into English. As there were no printing presses the work was long and laborious. About fifty years later the printing press was invented. In 1517 the Reformation had begun in Germany and soon after Luther translated the Bible once for all into the German.

The true father of the English Bible is William Tyndale. After much opposition and persecution, he finally succeeded in publishing a translation of the Old Testament into English in 1525. To Miles Coverdale belongs the honor of issuing the first complete printed English Bible. The King James or Authorized version, completed in 1611, was the work of fifty-four translators. Although there have been other translations, notably the English and American Revised Versions, the Authorized is still the most reverent and stately and most loved. Chief among the versions in the English vernacular are the translations of three men, Weymouth, Moffat and Goodspeed. Each of these is a seperate version.

INTERMEDIATE DEPARTMENT

Habits That Help

Intermediate C. E. Topic, Jan. 8, 1939

For Daily Study

Jan. 2. Diligence. Prov. 22:29.
Jan. 3. Patience. James 1:1-3.
Jan. 4. Association with the wise. Prov. 13:20.
Jan. 5. Prompt response to call. Matt. 4:18-22.
Jan. 6. Work with all the heart. 2 Chron. 31:20, 21.
Jan. 7. Faithfulness. Matt. 25:14-23.
Jan. 8. Topic-Habits that help. Phil 4:1-9; Gal. 6:7-9.

Preprayer Circle

Read Isa. 40:31, calling attention to the importance of forming the habit of "waiting upon the Lord" in our daily life. Pray that each one who comes may realize as never before the value and importance of good habits. Pray for the leader and each one who has a part; the work of the society; for the pastor and the church.

Songs of Praise

1. "Who Is On The Lord's Side." 2. "Lead On, O King Eternal." 3. Society announcements. Make your announcements with enthusiasm. If you are interested others will be.

Quiet Worship

1. Leader: "Blessed are the undefiled in the way, who walk in the law of the Lord."
Response: "Thy word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path."
Leader: "Blessed are they that keep His testimonies, and that seek Him with the whole heart."
Response: "Thy word have I hid in my heart, that I might not sin against Thee."

3. Special song: "Take Time To Be Holy."

3. Sripture reading: Phil. 4:1-9; Gal. 6:7-9 (By two intermediates)

4. Sentence prayers: (Suggest that one of the best habits we can form is to be first to take part, because it makes it easier for others to follow)

5. Offering: (Prayer of dedication by leader)

Presenting the Topic

1. The Leader's Remarks: A large per cent of our activities are governed by habit. Use the daily routine as an example. How many conscious acts do you perform from the time you get up until you go to school. One habit after another is called into play from the time the first shoe is put on until you go out of the front door. When we realize what a large part of what we do is determined by the habits we have formed, we begin to see the value of good habits. They are an asset. Prov. 22:6: "Train up a child in the way he should go: and when he is old, he will not depart from it."

"As the stream its channel grooves
And within the channel moves,
So doth habit's deepest tide
Groove its bed, and there abide."

Repeat again the topic for the evening.

2. Talks on "Habits that help us."

Closing Moments

1. Self Searching. In a few minutes of quiet let each prayerfully search his life to see what good habit he needs to establish and decide on one which he will put into practice this coming week. A few simple rules of habit formation can be written on the blackboard.

(1) Take the first opportunity. (2) Begin wholeheartedly. (3) Make no exceptions. (4) Repeat as often as possible.

2. Song, "Have Thine Own Way Lord." Benediction.

Suggestions for Talks

1. Diligence. (a) Why is the habit of diligence important to a successful life? Compare the student who comes with lessons prepared daily with the one who thinks tomorrow is just as good as today. (b) What are some of the fruits of diligence? Prov. 22:29. The diligent person shall not be in want. He shall be known for what he has accomplished. Positions of responsibility are open to him. Add others. (c) How can we form the habit of diligence? By doing each day the duties it brings with it. "Do not put off until tomorrow what you can do today." Time is a gift from God. If I waste it, I have lost that which cannot be regained. Work is a challenge. "The reward of one duty is the power to fulfill another." The habit of diligence is the ladder by which we climb to success.
2. Patience. How do we grow in patience? James 1:1-3. The modern attitude is, if you are surrounded by difficulties, escape them. If your studies are too difficult, change your course. If your business associates are not congenial, find another job. If someone in your family irritates you leave home. James says we should count it joy if we have trials for it is in this way that we grow in patience. Give an illustration from your observation of how this works out in life.
3. Association with the wise. Someone has said, "Tell me with whom you associate and I will tell you what you are." That can be said of our association with people or with books. We tend to become like those with whom we associate. Acts 4:13 gives an example. Prov. 13:20. Unconsciously we adopt their manner, speech and even thoughts.
4. Prompt response to call. Matt. 4:18-22. Why do we often fail to respond immediately when we are called to do something? Why is it important in life to have the habit of responding promptly to what we know is a duty or opportunity. "Straightway" means without delay. It doesn't give you time to finish what you may be doing at the time. The disciples gave that kind of response to Jesus. That is why he could train them and use them. That is the kind of obedience God expects of us if we are His today.

JUNIOR CORNER

"Speak, For Thy Servant Heareth"

(Samuel 3:10)

Program Suggestions for January 15, 1939

Call to Service by the piano playing: "Come Ye That Love the Lord"

Opening Service:

1. Group sings verses 1 and 2 of "Come Ye That Love the Lord"
2. Chairman speaks: "Serve the Lord with gladness." Psalm 100:2
3. Group sings: "To the Work." Verses 1 and 2
4. Chairman speaks: "Jesus said, Whosoever shall be great among you, let him be your minister. And whosoever will be chief among you, let him be your servant."
5. Group sings: "Give of Your Best to the Master." Verses one and two Mission Minutes: Stress the opportunities of service. Missions is one large avenue of service. Challenge the juniors to become Prayer-Partners in this large work. Remember some missionary or some need on the field in prayer Study Period. Aim: to stimulate the longing for service unto God.

1. Special music: "Take My Life." Let four girls carry candles and hold these as they gather about the piano informally to sing all verses
2. Letting God speak to us through His servant, Samuel. Talks by juniors:
    a. Samuel was dedicated by his parents for the service of God. 1 Samuel, chapter 1 retold
    b. The boy, Samuel, serves God in the temple. 1 Samuel 2:18, 19; 1 Samuel 3:1-18
    c. Samuel grows up to serve God. 1 Samuel 3:19-4:1(a)
    d. Samuel listens to God and does just as God wants him to do. 1 Samuel 9:1-27
3. Special music: "Jesus Bids Us Shine." Let the four girls serve again. As the piano plays softly let them walk to four different positions (corners or nooks) with candle in hand, let all sing from their corner "You in your small corner and I in mine."
4. Steps to Service: Heart-talk by leader using chalk-talk method. In a simple way discuss steps that lead to service for God. The steps could be:
    a. Obedience to parents and teachers
    b. Accepting truths (in school, in church)
    c. Accepting Jesus into the heart
    d. Obedience to Jesus
    e. Learning from Jesus
    f. Being faithful in all things

    These steps could then be put upon a way by adding a line on each side of steps. This could be the closing thought, "Jesus said, I am the Way, the Truth and the Life. We need Jesus."
5. Repeat in unison verse of the month: 1 John 4:14
6. Group sings: "Stepping in the Light"
7. Closing prayer by leader.

"I fear God, and next to God I fear him who fears Him not."—Saadi.

Universal Week of Prayer

Sunday, Jan. 1st, to Sunday, Jan. 8th, 1939

SUNDAY, JANUARY 1st, 1939

Texts Suggested for Sermons and Addresses:

"That they all may be one" (John xvii. 21).

"Perfectly joined together" (1 Cor. i. 10).

"Ye shall receive power after that the Holy Ghost is come upon you" (Acts i. 8).

"Go ye into all the world, and preach the Gospel" (Mark xvi. 15).

"The Kingdoms of this world are becoming the Kingdoms of our Lord" (Rev. xi. 15).

MONDAY, JANUARY 2nd, 1939

Thanksgiving, Confession and Prayer

Thanksgiving:

For the redeeming grace of our Lord Jesus Christ.

For God's sustaining mercy, especially in times of distress.

For all opportunities of Christian service.

Confession:

That we have too often failed in our witness for Christ.

That we have been slothful in prayer.

Prayer:

That those who name the Name of Christ may depart from all iniquity.

That the people of God may have faith in Him, and courage in these difficult times.

That we may earnestly contend for the Faith once for all delivered to the saints.

Scripture Readings: Psalms xcvi, cxxi. Daniel ix. 3-10; 20-22: Luke i. 68-79.

TUESDAY, JANUARY 3rd, 1939

The Church Universal

Thanksgiving:

For the world-wide fellowship of the Church of Christ.

For all the means of grace which we may enjoy through the Church.

For the quickening of the desire for unity among Christians everywhere.

Confession:

That there is too little evidence of cooperation and fellowship between the Churches in the face of a disordered and distracted world.

That the spiritual power of the Church has not been sufficient to prevent the drift to atheism and paganism in many lands.

That the Church has compromised with worldliness.

Prayer:

That the love of Christ may constrain His Church to seek and to save the lost.

That believers may be drawn together in closer fellowship.

That Christians everywhere may have grace to triumph over national and racial divisions.

For those who are oppressed and persecuted for their Chistian principles.

Scripture Readings: Psalm cxxxiii. Ejh. iv. 1-13. Rev. vii. 9-17.

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 4th, 1939

Nations and their Rulers

Thanksgiving:

For the many in all lands who desire and work for peace.

For those in high places who set an example of justice and integrity.

For all service done for the common good.

Confession:

That public affairs are so little guided by the Spirit of Christ.

That selfishness, arrogance and greed have too greatly influenced international relationships.

Prayer:

That the nations may learn to follow the Christian way in all their dealings with one another.

That hate and suspicion amongst the nations may give way to friendship and trust.

That rulers may govern in justice and truth.

That wars may cease to the ends of the earth.

Scripture Readings: Psalm ii. Isaiah ixiv. Romans xiii.

THURSDAY, JANUARY 5th, 1939

Missions

Thanksgiving:

That God has made bare His Holy arm in the eyes of all the nations.

That multitudes, greater than ever before, are flocking into the Kingdom of God.

That in spite of difficulties, the work of the Church goes on in every land.

Confession:

That so many Christians are still unawakened to their duty to the non-Christian world.

That disunity in the Church weakens its power in the world.

That the Church is not entering doors which God has opened in many lands.

Prayer:

That the Dayspring from on High may visit all who sit in darkness.

That doors may be opened into lands which deny the Gospel.

That God's people may be willing to serve and give for His Kingdom in this, the day of His power.

Scripture Readings: Psalm ixxii. Isaiah ix. 1-12. Matt. xxviii. 18-20. 1 Thess. i.

FRIDAY, JANUARY 6th, 1939.

Home Life and Education

Thanksgiving:

For home, and friendship, and all their gracious influences in our lives.

For all education that leads to good citizenship.

For all agencies which are seeking to bring young people to Christ.

Confession:

That family prayer is so little observed.

That in many schools there is so little of the spirit of true religion.

Prayer:

That parents may truly serve God, and lead their children to Him.

That the coming generation may learn that the fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom.

That those who are responsible for schools and colleges may make Christ the center of all education.

Scripture Readings: Deut. vi. 1-13. Mark x. 13-31. Matt. xviii. 1-14.

SATURDAY, JANUARY 7th, 1939.

Home Missions and the Salvation of the Jews

Thanksgiving:

For the faithful witness of Christians to the saving power of Christ.

For the many agencies through which the Gospel is being preached to the people.

For the Jews who are finding in Christ their Messiah.

Confession:

That the Churches have not sufficiently gone out to seek and to save the lost.

That Christian profession has been too little accompanied by practice.

That the Church does not feel the sorrows and persecutions of the Jews as a burden on its heart.

Prayer:

That the Church in our own land may give itself more fully to the evangelization of all the people.

That the multitudes in great cities, as sheep without a shepherd, may be led to Christ.

That the sympathy of Christian people for Jews may bring a new understanding and an opening for the Gospel.

Scripture Readings: Joel ii. 23-32. Romans x. 1-13. 1 Cor. xv. 1-11.

FIRST MENNONITE CHURCH, BERNE, IND.

One of the outstanding features of the Christmas season upon which we have again entered, was the rendition of the beloved oratorio, "The Messiah", by the choral society of 175 voices. This oratorio was sung Sunday evening, Dec. 11. in our church to an overflowing house, about 2500 people. The performance was under the inspiring leadership of Prof. Russell A. Lantz of Bluffton College. The soloists were: Soprano, Mrs. Jewel Lovejoy, Chicago, Ill.; Alto, Mrs. Ola Lugihbil Moser, Dayton, Ohio; Tenor, Freeman Burkhalter, Berne, Ind., and Baritone, Roy Schuessler, Evanston, Ill. Prof. C. L. Edwards of Fort Wayne, Ind. was at the organ and Mrs. Rebecca Reusser Stucky at the piano. The whole performance was one of inspiration, and we trust to the glory and joy of the Lord in whose honor it was given.

As the opening words by the tenor were sung, "Comfort ye, my people", one's mind was taken back 3000 years when Isaiah wrote this message of hope to dispersed Israel, picturing to them the coming of their Messiah with all that He would mean to them, at the same time admonishing them to "prepare the way of the Lord," since all that he was telling them would surely come to pass, for "the mouth of the Lord has spoken it." It was a timely message then; it is a timely message today. Today this same message goes out to the same scattered, hated, persecuted race, hated as perhaps never before, with the Messiah whom they despised and rejected as their only hope. Would that they and all others might accept this message as from the mouth of the Lord who has spoken it!

Our Sunday School is again in the midst of preparations for their Christmas program, and the faces of the children are again aglow with hope and expectation. God bless them.

In our prayer meeting and Bible study on Wednesday evenings we are at present studying the book of Ephesians. It is a special delight to see the faces of so many young people present and noting the interest they manifest.

We are looking forward to the first two weeks in January, 1939, when our special speaker will be Dr. Harry Rimmer.

Since this is the last message from us this year, we wish you all a most joyous Christmas and sincere good wishes for a happy 1939.—Martha Gilliom, Corr.

LORRAINE AVE. MENN CH., WICHITA, KANS.

September 18 and 19, Rev. Henry Fast gave us three inspiring talks on the work and progress made by the General Conference in its various fields of endeavor.—Sept. 25 we had a Bethel fellowship basket lunch and get-to-gether followed by motion pictures of Bethel College Activities and Campus happenings, under direction of Rev. J. M. Regier, which was made a very enjoyable affair.—Oct. 2, we had the pleasure of having the Buhler C. E. render a program.

Home-Coming Sunday was celebrated on Oct. 23, with a full day of activity. Prof. A. E. Kreider of Bethel College spoke to us in the morning, then came a basket dinner at noon, and a tour through southwest Wichita, where our church is sponsoring spiritual, educational, and material help to the needy. In the afternoon we had two brief messages, one by a layman, H. R. Schmidt and another by our pastor, Edward D. Schmidt.—On the evening program our choir rendered a program of music under the able diection of Mr. Floyd Craft.

Reports at our annual meeting on November 23 showed a nice growth in size and interest of our church and Sunday School. New members recently welcomed into our midst are Mr. and Mrs. Pete Klassen, from Hillsboro, Kansas, and we hope to be able to report other additions shortly.

On Sunday night, Dec. 5, we were happy to have with us the younger men's chorus of the Alexanderwohl church. To all these folks who have been so kind to help us and inspire us, we say, Thank you, and come again.

Since it is only natural that, as a growing mission church we should have mission and extension work at heart, we are truly grateful for the help of the Home Mission Board, and the Education Com. of the W. District, the Extension Department of Bethel College, and the Relief Board of our Conference .

As a church we realize that the Lord is blessing the work here under the direction of our pastor and his wife, and we are eagerly looking forward to the time when it shall be possible to have a larger church building.

To all mission friends we would extend an invitation to come and see the work being done here.

Mrs. Ben C. Frey, Corr.

FIRST MENN. CH., BLUFFTON, OHIO.

The opening of school in the fall also marks new activities in the church. The students are then back and taking part in our church worship and other services.

We have been privileged to have such speakers as Dr. Cutshall, a former college president, Dr. Curran, who is in charge of the Bluffton College endowment campaign, Miss Catharine Niswander, assistant in the First Mennonite Church of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, and Mr. Dan West who was in charge of the local Peace Institute.

For the first time in several years we had four of our high school students entered in a local Prince of Peace Declamation Contest sponsored by the Ohio Council of Churches.

The Women's Missionary Society gave their annual mite box program at a Sunday evening service. Christian education slides from India were shown. In the near future this group will give a mother-daughter banquet.—One evening service this month is in charge of the high school Girl Reserves for their annual union church service.

Rev. G. T. Soldner was elected president of a newly-organized Men's Brotherhood. About 100 men were present for the first meeting.

Now that the church building decoration is completed, the men are planning to remodel the basement to provide better facilities for Sunday school classes and social functions.

The congregation rejoices that Dr. S. K. Mosiman and Prof. E. J. Hirschler are recovering satisfactorily from long periods of illness.

During the Christmas season the church school is presenting a Christmas pageant, and the College Choral Society is rendering Handel's "Messiah." —Mrs. Paul Stauffer.

WEST SWAMP MENN. CH., QUAKERTOWN, PA.

Dear Readers of the Mennonite:

The past Thanksgiving season has been a very busy time in our church. Beginning with Thanksgiving Day, that evening the Young Women's Missionary Society celebrated their 13th Anniversary and the Ladies Aid Society celebrated their 50th Anniversary of the organization of the two societies. Mrs. S. T. Moyer, a missionary to India, gave a very inspiring message of the evening. On Saturday afternoon the East Coast-Bluffton College Supper was given in the basement of our church. Rev. S. T. Moyer and Prof. Paul Stauffer were the speakers at that service. On Sunday afternoon, Rev. S. T. Moyer gave the afternoon message at our church; and that same evening at the Young People's Anniversary, Rev. S. T. Moyer showed pictures of the work which has been done with the money which was given by the various Young Peoples' Societies. Mr. and Mrs. Adam Lutzweiler with their marimba played several selections and sang several songs. The East Swamp, Bethany and Flatland Societies also joined in the meeting. In spite of the fact that many roads were still closed as a result of two blizzards, the church was well filled.

With the approach of the Christmas season various Christmas programs are being rendered. We had the Intermediate and Adult program on Dec. 11, in connection with the Christmas program of the Christian Endeavor Society. A fine Pageant was given. The Primary and Junior program will be held on Sunday afternoon, Dec. 25th, in connection with the Sunday school and Church services.

We're wishing everyone a Merry Christmas and a very Happy New Year.—A. Bauman, Corr.

Publication

The members of the Publication Board extend to all subscribers to our conference papers hearty Christmas Greetings. "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men," sang the angels. This is still the most important message that angels have ever brought to man, because there is no salvation except through Christ, the Son of God.

Christmas is the time of the year when everybody is planning on making others happy by giving them presents. And here is a suggestion. Why not include among your presents a year's subscription to one of our conference papers—Mennonite, Bundesbote or Junior Messenger? In many Mennonite homes these papers have not yet found entrance. So why not provide a pleasant surprise for a relative or friend by having either the Mennonite, Bundesbote or Junior Messenger sent to their address for the year 1939? The price for either the Mennonite or the Bundesbote to a new subscriber is $1.00 per year. And the price of the new Junior Messenger (eight pages, all in English) is 45 cents per year for a single subscription. A postal card will bring you samples. For the present send orders for the Mennonite or Junior Messenger to Mennonite Book Concern, Berne, Indiana, for the Bundesbote to Rev. C. E. Krehbiel, Newton, Kansas.

J. M. Suderman, Sec. Bd. of Publication.

» » JOTTINGS « «

— IS YOUR MENNONITE PAID UP? It is customary to pay papers a year ahead. Is yours labeled that way? If not, don't you think you ought to attend to it, including this among your New Year's resolutions? In any event, should not Christians pay their debts, as far as it is possible to do so?

— The Mennonite Year Book for 1939.—Our Berne business office is again handicapped by not having the Year Books ready to be sent out as premiums to advance subscribers. For this we cannot blame the editor, Bro. A. S. Bechtel. However, we are now assured by the printers that they will be out by Dec. 24.

— Prof. Willis Rich, for five years the very efficient Director of Public Relations for Bethel College, has found it necessary to give up this position, to take the place of his father in the Rich Mercantile Company of Newton, Kansas. This step of Brother Rich's was found necessary because of the illness of his father.

— Second Church, Philadelphia.—Pastoral Message. The Bible is still a "best seller" but where does the Bible go after it has been sold? Nearly every Christian possesses a Bible but how many have made it a text book for their life? America still has the "open Bible" but how often do we take time to open it? The Bible must not only be placed in our homes but into our hearts as well.—The Pastor.

— Brother H. R. Schroeder of the Goessel Menn. Church, Kansas, is doing real efficient work as solicitor for our church papers. He does it as a piece of mission work, which we thoroughly appreciate. He relates that after their pastor had read the letter we recently sent to all our ministers, with a set of "Reasons for Taking Church Papers," three brethren who had previously declined to take a paper gave him their subscriptions. Have you, Brother Minister, read that letter to your church? Here are the reasons as found in the Christian Conservator again: (1) Can a person be called loyal to his church if he has no church paper in his home? (2) Can he be fair to his children if he does not take a church paper? (3) Is a man putting Christ first if he has secular papers but not religious papers in his home? (4) Would you want Jesus to come and have him see several other kinds of magazines in your home but no religious ones? (5) Is it fair to the church that has helped you in your religious life, to disregard the official organ of the church? (6) Can you be a good Christian, being posted in other lines, but know very little of what is going on in the church?"—Rev. J. L. Towne.

— Saron Menn. Church, Orienta, Okla.—Since my last writing, one sister was baptized, Rev. Bergen, Goltry, Okla., officiating, and another was added to this congregation by letter. Other visiting ministers were: Rev. P. P. Wedel, while on tour in the interest of the Peace Committee, and Rev. Carl J. Lanis of the Sudan Interior Mission. The annual mission sale sponsored by the Ladies' Mission Society was held on the evening of Nov. 22.—Corr.

— From the "Church Messenger," Schwenksville, Pa.—"Rev. W. S. Gottshall seems to be enjoying his stay at the Home very much. We hope we can have him with us sometime this winter.—The young preachers in our midst are making a good impression in their field of labor. They fit in the team of ministers with remarkable agility for which we are glad."

— Wayland Menn. Church, Wayland, Ia., Dec. 12.—A reception for the Rev. Penner family was given. Arnold Rimer served as chairman and welcomed the guests in behalf of the church. Prof. Jones represented our Sunday School. Invited guests included our public school faculty and the ministers and their wives of the town and community. A splendid program was given, consisting in part of Devotions by Rev. Moore, an address on "Partnership," by Rev. Delbert Welty, a short talk by Rev. Kanagey, Wichita, Kans., several musical selections, and a fine response from Rev. and Mrs. Penner and Prof. Ellis. Refreshments and social hour followed.—Mrs. C. K. Schwartz, Corr.

— The average income of the poorest third of the families in the United States, about 13,000,000, is $471; for the middle third, with incomes of $780 to $1,450, the average is $1,076; for the highest third, ranging from $1,450 to more than $1,000,000 per year, the average is $3,000.
